Governing Board Development: The FDOE, in partnership with Washington, D.C.-based Charter Board Partners, worked in several districts to match highly skilled executives in industry and matched them with the charter school governing boards that would most benefit from their talents. We have worked with many districts, from Hillsborough County (home to City of Tampa) to Polk County and, finally Duval County (home to the City of Jacksonville).

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Charter School Performance Framework: The FDOE, in collaboration with authorizers, operators, and national experts, is developing a statewide charter school performance framework that will provide authorizers, schools, and the public with a standardized set of objective measures to evaluate the academic, financial, and organizational performance of public charter schools.

Authorizer Accountability:The FDOE conceptualized a statewide authorizer dashboard to evaluate and publicly report on authorizer performance, and it accomplished this with the primary input of the authorizers themselves.

Authorizer Training and Leadership Development:The FDOE implemented a successful charter school authorizer fellowship program. We selected two candidates from Florida's authorizers and immersed them in the offices of some of the best authorizers in the nation, including the Massachusetts Department of Education, the State University of New York, Denver Public Schools, and the D.C. Charter School Board. The candidates returned to share with their colleagues what they learned and observed.

Additionally, the FDOE contracted with the National Association of Charter School Authorizers (NACSA) to provide intensive training to authorizers on the Florida Principles and Standards of Quality Charter School Authorizing. Specifically, we immersed trainees in day-long workshops on each of the standards that the FDOE has published.

And, importantly, the FDOE has executed its most rigorous sub-grant award selection process to date. Through an innovative partnership with NACSA, sub-grant applicants under a comprehensive review of the very charter school application they submitted to their authorizer, and they must submit to a face-to-face capacity interview. Altogether, the FDOE has awarded 35 sub-grant awards after its first year of competitions, and is currently reviewing another 31 applications in its most recent competition. The FDOE anticipates hosting at least two more sub-grant competitions before the close of its CSP project.

Lastly, the FDOE has undertaken a sweeping dissemination strategy, anchored by its annual Florida Charter School Conference, which was held in November to 700 participants.

With this, the FDOE has achieved the following goals outlined in its CSP application:

- Increase academic achievement of educationally disadvantaged students.
- Increase academic achievement of all students.
- Decrease the achievement gap.
- Increase access to high-quality charter schools.

Hi – hope you're enjoying the day off! Here are notes from today's call for you to include with the rest of the notes. Have a great weekend!!!

Phone Call with Superintendent Michael Rice, Michigan
CARES funding is helpful. They put out applications for the initial portion and people are applying. The application is streamlined because ED hasn't added many restrictions – so they appreciate it and things are going well.

They've established 90% required to be distributed by the Title I part A formula. They are holding 10% back for an educational equity fund to distribute in areas with greater digital need. Rice asked where ED is with equitable services. BDV let him know that we've interpreted the law to include all students at every kind of school, as consistently referenced in the act because every student has been impacted.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

They heard from CCSSO that there would be a response to the letter and a public comment period around that. BDV let him know that there is something in the works to provide more guidance. She told him the goal is for the state leaders and the district leaders to talk with their counterparts at nonpublic schools – the hope is that there will be dialogue for all students to be supported. Rice asked when ED sees the process for input and guidance to be put into play – BDV offered to have someone from OESE get in touch with him to give a timeline from the department.

BDV said her hope is that educators work together to address all student's needs. Rice said typically equitable services has been narrowly drawn. BDV told him equitable services has been focused on Title I students, but the act was written to address the needs for all impacted. Rice said it's subjected to interpretation. Rice said they got legal guidance on the act and believes the department is not right in that regard. He hopes to move into a period of public comment relatively quickly so he can minimally reference it and say they are letting the comment period play out before making any quick judgements.

Rice said the burden is mostly on the LEA's (??) and SEA's (??) He believes the pressure has been put on them to make a determination. He would like to be able to point to the process and do something more definitive.

Hello all,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Here are the guidance docs and fact sheets – either existing or upcoming – that I have on the list so far:

- Higher education (already posted)
- Civil rights letter (already posted)
- FERPA guidance (in final clearance with COS)
- Q and A on Services to Students with Disabilities (in process)
- Fact Sheet on Impact of COVID-19 on Assessments and Accountability (in process)
- Fact Sheet on Addressing Risk of COVID-19 in Schools While Protecting Civil Rights of Students (in process)

If you are working on a guidance doc not listed here, please let me know. In addition, we have a reporter asking if the department planning to issue any guidance on refunding of room and board paid using Title IV funds, or any guidance regarding international students specifically. The CDC's higher ed guidance has some information on student housing, but nothing about refunds. Is anyone working on guidance that will include these two topics?

Thanks,

Angela

Please review the below information and advise. This is now urgent. Sandy Battle informed us today that the Data Call for Quarter 2 is open tomorrow. We need a plan for moving forward.

I am proposing we request milestone 3 to be removed. Reporting on Milestones 1 and 2 adequately capture the intended information needed to report ED metrics on APG 1: "Support state and local efforts to improve learning outcomes for all P-12 students in every community." Kim checked in with Sandy on this possibility and she asked we draft a short justification. Are you comfortable with this?

Subject: OESE Agency Priority Goal (APG)

Aimee –

As you know, OESE is responsible for Agency Priority Goal (APG) 1: "Support state and local efforts to improve learning outcomes for all P-12 students in every community."

We have 3 "milestones" we are aiming to reach in order to achieve our goal (these are what we used to establish our metrics). OMB maintains these metrics and ED is responsible for reporting on our advancement throughout the year:

1. Continue to release resources on education freedom scholarships.
2. Provide outreach to states on education freedom scholarships, state-based vouchers, tax-credit scholarships, and education savings accounts programs.
3. Provide technical assistance, as appropriate, to Congress and other policymakers on the Department's education freedom scholarship proposal.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

To complete our records for the first Quarterly Performance Review (QPR), we attempted to gather information from senior leaders in each POC but ran into some issues, particularly around milestone 3. In order to quantify this milestone, ED would have to report the number of meetings with Congress and other policymakers in which education freedom scholarships, state-based vouchers, tax-credit scholarships, and education savings accounts programs may have been mentioned. The nature of this type of information request is necessarily unreliable, as the definition of "technical assistance" is subject to interpretation. Separately, this is also a considerable reporting burden on staff because volume of formal and informal discussion with policymakers is significant and sometimes not documented.

I am proposing we request milestone 3 to be removed. Reporting on Milestones 1 and 2 adequately capture the intended information needed to report ED metrics on APG 1: "Support state and local efforts to improve learning outcomes for all P-12 students in every community."

Kim checked in with Sandy on this possibility and she asked we draft a short justification. Are you comfortable with this?

I called and left messages for Miriam Lund (Seattle), but have yet to hear from her. I will continue today, beginning at 9:00 a.m. I also notified Ruth and Patrick Rooney, the supervisor for all of them.

I also advised that Julie and Miriam should NOT travel to planned monitoring visits to Harrisburg, PA and Atlanta, GA on Monday. They should stay close—and I believed it to be incongruent that we would require them to stay from the physical workplace, but require them to represent us out of state.

I'll keep you posted on Miriam throughout the day. Please let me know if you need anything else. Mw

Dear Senators:

As the Senate crafts legislation responding to the coronavirus pandemic, the Council for Private Education (CAPE) would like to take this opportunity to offer the following suggestions in the area of K-12 education. CAPE is a coalition of national organizations and state affiliates serving private elementary and secondary schools. There are over 33,000 private schools in America. One in four of the nation's schools is a private school. More than five million students attend these schools. CAPE member organizations represent more than 80 percent of private school enrollment nationwide.

SUMMARY

The non-public school community is grateful for inclusion in the proposed Supporting Students in Response to Coronavirus Act (S. 3489). We appreciate language that requires "assurance" that the Local Education Agency (LEA) "has taken the needs of…non-public schools into account" and that non-public schools receive notification of funds awarded to the LEA. We also support the "Control of Funds" language.

However, in practice, we have seen from experience that if the LEAs do not officially count the non-public school community in the grant request, they are almost certain to not include non-public schools in the expediting of services or materials purchased with awarded funds. LEAs are familiar with this element of equity in other federal education programs, and the use of already existing language would aid in ensuring smooth implementation of a new relief package. In the Every Student Succeeds Act

(ESSA), this fairness is referred to as "equitable services," and in the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), this is referred to as a "proportionate share."

It is vital that the language in the relief bill direct the grant writing entity (presumably a state's department of education) to include a count of non-public schools and a child count of students attending non-public schools in the grant application itself. With this count, an equitable funding share can be determined.

HISTORICAL REFERENCE

In addition to ESSA and IDEA, there is historical precedent for such language in an emergency relief package, dating back to the Katrina Relief package in 2006 (PL 109-148):

SEC. 102. IMMEDIATE AID TO RESTART SCHOOL OPERATIONS.

(a) Purpose.--It is the purpose of this section--

(1) to provide immediate services or assistance to local educational agencies and non-public schools in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and Texas that serve an area in which a major disaster has been declared in accordance with section 401 of the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 5170), related to Hurricane Katrina or Hurricane Rita; and

(2) to assist school administrators and personnel of such agencies or non-public schools with expenses related to the restart of operations in, the re-opening of, and the re-enrollment of students in, elementary schools and secondary schools in such areas.

(b) Payments Authorized.--From amounts appropriated to carry out this subtitle, the Secretary of Education is authorized to make payments, on such basis as the Secretary determines appropriate, taking into consideration the number of students who were enrolled, during the 2004-2005 school year, in elementary schools and secondary schools that were closed on September 12, 2005, as a result of Hurricane Katrina or on October 7, 2005, as a result of Hurricane Rita, to State educational agencies in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and Texas to enable such agencies to provide services or assistance to local educational agencies or non-public schools serving an area in which a major disaster has been declared in accordance with section 401 of the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 5170), related to Hurricane Katrina or Hurricane Rita.

(c) Eligibility, Consideration, and Equity.--

(1) Eligibility and consideration.--From the payment provided by the Secretary of Education under subsection (b), the State educational agency shall provide services and assistance to local educational agencies and non-public schools, consistent with the provisions of this section. In determining the amount to be provided for services or assistance under this section, the State educational agency shall consider the following:

(A) The number of school-aged children served by the local educational agency or non-public school in the academic year preceding the academic year for which the services or assistance are provided.

(B) The severity of the impact of Hurricane Katrina or Hurricane Rita on the local educational agency or non-public school and the extent of the needs in each local educational agency or non-public school in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and Texas that is in an area in which a major disaster has been declared in accordance with section 401 of the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 5170), related to Hurricane Katrina or Hurricane Rita.

(2) Equity.--Educational services and assistance provided for eligible non-public school students under paragraph (1) shall be equitable in comparison to the educational services and other benefits provided for public school students under this section, and shall be provided in a timely manner.

NEEDS TAKEN INTO ACCOUNT

Below are some suggestions for stronger language to ensure non-public schools are included in the grant application, rather than simply having their "needs taken into account."

SEC. 2. EDUCATION PREPAREDNESS AND SUPPORT GRANTS.

(d) USE OF FUNDS; SUBGRANTS.—

(2) APPLICATION.—An eligible entity desiring to receive a subgrant under this section shall submit to the State, or the Bureau of Indian Education, as applicable, an application containing—

(D) in the case of an eligible entity that is a local educational agency, an assurance that the local educational agency—

(i) has taken the needs of public schools and non-public schools into account prior to the application for funds;

a. has included a count of the number of non-public schools and students attending non-public schools in the boundary of the LEA in order to determine and allocate the equitable share of grant funds to serve non-public schools;

b. has consulted with non-public school representatives to determine the needs of non-public schools, students and teachers;

(ii) will notify all public schools and non-public schools in its boundaries of the receipt of grant funds under this section;

a. Will notify non-public schools of the equitable share of funds available for non-public schools

(iii) based on the severity of impact and demonstrated need, will equitably address the needs of both public schools and non-public schools in its boundaries; and

(2) when carrying out subsection (e), the local educational agency must equitably serve non-public schools based on demonstrated need and impact

(h) REPORTING.—

(1) REPORT TO THE SECRETARY.—At the end of the grant period, a grantee shall prepare and submit to the Secretary a report containing the following information:

(A) The number of subgrants awarded, disaggregated by the type of eligible entity.

(B) A list of subgrantees.

(C) The average subgrant award amount.

(D) The number of subgrant applicants.

Finally, in the section regarding eligible use of funds, we request clarification that technology can include hardware, software, and online connectivity to address the need to serve students from home for long periods of time.

(e) USES OF FUNDS FOR SUBGRANTS.—An eligible entity receiving a subgrant under this section shall use subgrant funds to carry out one or more of the following activities:

(9) Purchasing educational technology (including hardware, software and connectivity) for students who are served by the eligible entity, including low-income students and students with disabilities, which may include assistive technology or adaptive equipment.

SUMMARY

The Non-Public schools community is grateful for inclusion in the Supporting Students in Response to Coronavirus Act (S.3489), introduced by Sen. Murray. We appreciate language that requires "assurance" that the non-public schools' needs to be taken into account, and that non-public schools receive notification of funds awarded to the Local Education Agencies (LEA). We also support the "Control of Funds" language. However, in practice, we have seen from experience, that if they LEAs do not officially count the non-public school community in the grant request, they are almost certain to not include non-public schools in the expediting of services or materials purchases with awarded funds.

LEAs are familiar with this element of equity in other federal education programs, and the use of familiar language would aid in ensuring smooth implementation of a new relief package. In The Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA), this fairness is referred to as "Equitable Services" and in The Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), this is referred to as a "Proportionate Share."

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

It is vital that the language in the relief bill direct the grant writing entity (presumably the Department of Education) to include a count of non-public schools and or/a child count of students attending non-public schools in the grant application itself. With this count, an equitable funding share can be determined.

HISTORICAL REFERENCE

In addition to ESSA and IDEA, we do have historical reference for such language in an emergency relief package, dating back to the Katrina Relief package in 2006.

Katrina Relief (PL 109-148):

SEC. 102. IMMEDIATE AID TO RESTART SCHOOL OPERATIONS.

(a) Purpose.--It is the purpose of this section--

(1) to provide immediate services or assistance to local educational agencies and non-public schools in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and Texas that serve an area in which a major disaster has been declared in accordance with section 401 of the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 5170), related to Hurricane Katrina or Hurricane Rita; and

(2) to assist school administrators and personnel of such agencies or non-public schools with expenses related to the restart of operations in, the re-opening of, and the re-enrollment of students in, elementary schools and secondary schools in such areas.

(b) Payments Authorized.--From amounts appropriated to carry out this subtitle, the Secretary of Education is authorized to make payments, on such basis as the Secretary determines appropriate, taking into consideration the number of students who were enrolled, during the 2004-2005 school year, in elementary schools and secondary schools that were closed on September 12, 2005, as a result of Hurricane Katrina or on October 7, 2005, as a result of Hurricane Rita, to State educational agencies in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and Texas to enable such agencies to provide services or assistance to local educational agencies or non-public schools serving an area in which a major disaster has been declared in accordance with section 401 of the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 5170), related to Hurricane Katrina or Hurricane Rita.

(c) Eligibility, Consideration, and Equity.--

(1) Eligibility and consideration.--From the payment provided by the Secretary of Education under subsection (b), the State educational agency shall provide services and assistance to local educational agencies and non-public schools, consistent with the provisions of this section. In determining the amount to be provided for services or assistance under this section, the State educational agency shall consider the following:

(A) The number of school-aged children served by the local educational agency or non-public school in the academic year preceding the academic year for which the services or assistance are provided.

(B) The severity of the impact of Hurricane Katrina or Hurricane Rita on the local educational agency or non-public school and the extent of the needs in each local educational agency or non-public school in Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and Texas that is in an area in which a major disaster has been declared in accordance with section 401 of the Robert T. Stafford Disaster Relief and Emergency Assistance Act (42 U.S.C. 5170), related to Hurricane Katrina or Hurricane Rita.

(2) Equity.--Educational services and assistance provided for eligible non-public school students under paragraph (1) shall be equitable in comparison to the educational services and other benefits provided for public school students under this section, and shall be provided in a timely manner.

MURRAY BILL (S.3489) TEXT SUGESTIONS

Below are some suggestions on stronger language to ensure non-public schools are included in the grant application, rather than simply having their "needs taken into account."

SEC. 2. EDUCATION PREPAREDNESS AND SUPPORT GRANTS.

(d) USE OF FUNDS; SUBGRANTS.—

(2) APPLICATION.—An eligible entity desiring to receive a subgrant under this section shall submit to the State, or the Bureau of Indian Education, as applicable, an application containing—

(D) in the case of an eligible entity that is a local educational agency, an assurance that the local educational agency—

(i) has taken the needs of public schools and non-public schools into account prior to the application for funds;

a. has included a count of the number of non-public schools in the boundary of the LEA in order to determine and allocate the equitable share of grant funds for non-public schools;

b. has consulted with non-public school representatives to determine the needs of non-public schools, students and teachers;

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

(ii) will notify all public schools and non-public schools in its boundaries of the receipt of grant funds under this section;

and (iii) will notify non-public schools of the equitable share of funds available for non-public schools based on the severity of impact and demonstrated need, will equitably address the needs of both public schools and non-public schools in its boundaries and allocate a share of received funds to serve the non-public schools within the boundaries of the eligible entity based upon the proportion of the non-public student population in the student population as a whole; and

(g) PUBLIC CONTROL OF FUNDS.—For an eligible entity that is a local educational agency—

(1) the control of funds for the services and assistance provided to a non-public school under this section, and title to materials, equipment, and property purchased with such funds, shall be in a public agency, and a public agency shall administer such funds, materials, equipment, and property and shall provide such services (or may contract for the provision of such services with a public or private entity);

(2) when carrying out subsection (e), the local educational agency must equitably serve non-public schools based on demonstrated need and impact

(h) REPORTING.—

(1) REPORT TO THE SECRETARY.—At the end of the grant period, a grantee shall prepare and submit to the Secretary a report containing the following information:

(A) The number of subgrants awarded, disaggregated by the type of eligible entity.

(B) A list of subgrantees.

(C) The average subgrant award amount.

(D) The number of subgrant applicants.

(E) A summary of the activities that eligible entities carried out using subgrant funds.

(F) The equitable share of allocated funds that served non-public schools for each subgrant that is an LEA and how that equitable share was determined.

USE OF FUNDS

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Finally, in the section regarding eligible use of funds, we request clarification that technology that can include both hardware and software to address needs of serving students from home for long periods of time.

(e) USES OF FUNDS FOR SUBGRANTS.—An eligible entity receiving a subgrant under this section shall use subgrant funds to carry out one or more of the following activities:

(9) Purchasing educational technology (including hardware and software) for students who are served by the eligible entity, including low-income students and students with disabilities, which may include assistive technology or adaptive equipment.

Good Evening All,

Attached is what I captured from our discussion. Not sure I captured a consensus for PR however. We discussed several options; full third party, allowing pre-third party draws, so I included what I believe was the overall consensus. Of course feel free to change as required. Note I did not include the approach for paying for the interim third party.

Let me know if you have questions or comments.

Enjoy your evening.

If there is anything I missed, please let me know.

I will update Phil on what we discussed.

Recommended Approach for CARES Act Funds

| Entity | ED Designation | | | Specific Conditions Imposed On: | |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| | High Risk | Departmental Specific Conditions | Third-Party | SEA | GOV/Other Agencies |
| Puerto Rico (PR) | | ✓ | ✓ * | ✓ | |
| Virgin Islands (VI) | ✓ | ✓ | ✓ | ✓ | ✓ |
| Guam (GU) | ✓ | ✓ | ✓ | ✓ | |
| American Samoa (AS) | ✓ | ✓ | | ✓ | ✓ |
| Commonwealth of Northern Mariana Islands (CNMI) | | ✓ | | ✓ | |

*Pending

American Samoa (AS) and Commonwealth of the Norther Marianas (CNMI) – All CARES Act funds will be made available to both entities without any additional conditions or a third-party fiduciary requirement including the Governor's funds, K-12, and Higher ED.

Rational – The total amount of funds (AS - $47M, CNMI - $29M) are small enough, relatively, and the risk is low enough to justify their release in this manner.

Virgin Islands – All Governor's and K-12 CARES Act funds will be managed by the third-party fiduciary currently in place.

Rational – The Departmental specific conditions already include the requirement for the third party to manage ED funds awarded to the Government as well as the Department of Education.

Note Higher Education funds are NOT currently covered by the VI third-party fiduciary. Revisions to the Departmental specific conditions would have to occur if these funds were to be included.

Guam – K-12 CARES Act funds, and any funds provided from the Governor's CARES Act funds to the Guam Department of Education, will be managed by the third-party fiduciary. Remaining Governor's funds will be available via route payment.

Rational - The Departmental specific conditions already include the requirement for the third party to manage funds awarded to the Department of Education, but not the Governor's Office. The route payment option for the Governor's funds will provide the means for ED staff to review expenditures before funds are released to Guam.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Note Higher Education funds are NOT currently covered by the Guam third-party fiduciary. Revisions to the Departmental specific conditions would have to occur if these funds were to be managed by a third-party fiduciary, or made available via route payment.

Puerto Rico – Request Puerto Rico voluntarily agree that all CARES Act funds are to be managed by a third-party fiduciary. PRDE required to procure a third party fiduciary agent (TPFA) in June 2019. Contract is expected to be signed in May 2020, which may be after the CARES Act grants are awarded.

Rational – Puerto Rico has significant fiscal issues:

- Filed for Bankruptcy in May 2017; largest municipal bankruptcy in U.S. history ($123B).
- Multiple federal indictments of high-level Government and Education officials, most recent Dec 2019.
- Inability to timely and effectively spend ED funds – large available balances currently exist (~$2B), including Hurricane Relief funds (Restart grant balance as of 4/23/20 = $444M).

If Puerto Rico does not have third party in place by time CARES Act grants are awarded:

- ED independently procures a short term third party to manage CARES Act funds, until TPFA contract is signed.
- Once TPFA contract signed, management of CARES Act funds would convert to the TPFA.

Note Higher Education funds are NOT currently anticipated to be covered by the Puerto Rico third-party fiduciary. Revisions to the Departmental specific conditions would have to occur if these funds were to be included.

STUDENT PRIVACY POLICY OFFICE
FERPA & Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19)
Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)
March 2020

Introduction

The United States (U.S.) Department of Education (Department) is issuing these Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs) regarding the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) and the coronavirus disease 2019, abbreviated as "COVID-19" and more commonly referred to as "coronavirus."[1] We are working with our Federal partners including the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), which is leading the Federal effort to address coronavirus or COVID-19. The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) issued on January 31, 2020, a declaration of a Public Health Emergency regarding coronavirus or COVID-19.[2]

The Department's Student Privacy Policy Office (SPPO) prepared this document to assist school officials working with public health officials in managing public health issues related to COVID-19, while protecting the privacy of students' education records. Understanding FERPA helps enable school officials to act quickly and with certainty when confronting challenges that affect the health or safety of students or other individuals.

Educational agencies and institutions, such as school districts, schools, colleges and universities, can play an important role in slowing the spread of COVID-19 in U.S. communities. Through information sharing and coordination with public health departments, educational agencies and institutions can help protect their schools and communities.

The purpose of this document is to assist school officials in protecting student privacy in the context of COVID-19 as they consider the disclosure of personally identifiable information (PII) from student education records to individuals and entities who may not already have access to that information. School officials should work with their State and local public health officials to determine the information needed to address this public health concern. Understanding how, what, and when information can be shared is a critical part of preparedness.

Background

FERPA is a Federal law that protects the privacy of student education records. (20 U.S.C. § 1232g; 34 C.F.R. Part 99) The law applies to all educational agencies and institutions that receive funds under any program administered by the Secretary of Education. The term "educational agencies and institutions" under FERPA generally includes school districts and public schools at the elementary and secondary levels, as well as private and public institutions of postsecondary education. Private schools at the elementary and secondary levels generally do not receive funds from the Department and are, therefore, not subject to FERPA.

[1] Please note that this FERPA & Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19) FAQ document updates the Department's 2009 FERPA & H1N1 document. Other than statutory and regulatory requirements included in the document, the contents of the guidance do not have the force and effect of law and are not meant to bind the public in any way. This document is intended only to provide clarity to the public regarding existing requirements under the law or agency policies. This document will be posted at https://studentprivacy.ed.gov and https://www.ed.gov/coronavirus.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

FERPA gives parents certain rights with respect to their children's education records at educational agencies and institutions to which FERPA applies. These rights transfer to the student when he or she reaches the age of 18 or attends an institution of postsecondary education at any age (thereby becoming an "eligible student"). 20 U.S.C. § 1232g(d); 34 C.F.R. § 99.5(a)(1). Under FERPA, a parent or eligible student must provide a signed and dated written consent before an educational agency or institution discloses PII from education records, unless an exception to this general consent requirement applies. 34 C.F.R. § 99.30(a). Exceptions to the general consent requirement are set forth in 20 U.S.C. §§ 1232g(b)(1), (b)(2), (b)(3), (b)(5), (b)(6), (h), (i), and (j) and 34 C.F.R. § 99.31. The term "education records" is defined, with certain exceptions, as those records that are: (1) directly related to a student; and (2) maintained by an educational agency or institution, or by a party acting for the agency or institution. 20 U.S.C. § 1232g(a)(4); 34 C.F.R. § 99.3, "Education records." Accordingly, immunization and other health records, as well as records on services provided to students under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), which are directly related to a student and maintained by an educational agency or institution are "education records" under FERPA.[3] The term "PII" refers to a student's name or identification number, as well as other information that can be used to distinguish or trace an individual's identity either directly or indirectly through linkages with other information. 34 C.F.R. § 99.3, "Personally identifiable information."

FERPA prohibits educational agencies (e.g., school districts) and institutions (i.e., schools) from disclosing PII from students' education record without the prior written consent of a parent or "eligible student," unless an exception to FERPA's general consent rule applies. 20 U.S.C. §§ 1232g(b)(1) and (b)(2); 34 C.F.R. §§ 99.30 and 99.31. For instance, pursuant to one such exception, the "health or safety emergency" exception, educational agencies and institutions may disclose to a public health agency PII from student education records, without prior written consent in connection with an emergency if the public health agency's knowledge of the information is necessary to protect the health or safety of students or other individuals. 20 U.S.C. § 1232g(b)(1)(I); 34 C.F.R. §§ 99.31(a)(10) and 99.36.

For all other situations where an exception to FERPA's general consent requirement does not apply, educational agencies and institutions must obtain prior written consent of a parent or eligible student to disclose PII from student education records. 20 U.S.C. §§ 1232g(b)(1) and (b)(2); 34 C.F.R. §§ 99.30 and 99.31. We have attached a model consent form at the end of this document. We have also listed the email and contact information for SPPO, the Department office responsible for implementing and enforcing FERPA, if school officials have questions that are not covered in this document.

[3] Parts B and C of the IDEA contain separate privacy regulations that incorporate FERPA provisions and exceptions, including the health or safety emergency exception that is the primary subject of these FAQs. Where a student is placed in a private school for the provision of Individualized Education Program (IEP) services on behalf of a school or school district subject to FERPA, the education records of the privately placed student that are maintained by the private school are subject both to FERPA and to the confidentiality requirements under Part B of the IDEA.

Questions and Answers on the Applicability of FERPA to Disclosures Related to COVID-19 ("Coronavirus")

1. Do parents and eligible students have to provide consent before an educational agency or institution discloses PII from education records?

Generally, yes. A parent or eligible student must provide written consent before an educational agency or institution discloses PII from a student's education records, unless one of the exceptions to FERPA's general consent rule applies. 20 U.S.C. §§ 1232g(b)(1) and (b)(2); 34 C.F.R. §§ 99.30 and 99.31. FERPA requires that a consent form be signed and dated by a parent or eligible student and (1) specify the records that may be disclosed; (2) state the purpose of the disclosure; and (3) identify the party or class of parties to whom the disclosure may be made. 34 C.F.R. § 99.30(a) and (b). At the conclusion of this document, we have included a sample FERPA consent form.

2. How does the health or safety emergency exception to FERPA's consent requirement permit an educational agency or institution to disclose PII from the education records of affected students?

Although educational agencies and institutions can often address threats to the health or safety of students or other individuals in a manner that does not identify a particular student, FERPA permits educational agencies and institutions to disclose, without prior written consent, PII from student education records to appropriate parties in connection with an emergency, if knowledge of that information is necessary to protect the health or safety of a student or other individuals. 20 U.S.C. § 1232g(b)(1)(I); 34 C.F.R. §§ 99.31(a)(10) and 99.36. This "health or safety emergency" exception to FERPA's general consent requirement is limited in time to the period of the emergency and generally does not allow for a blanket release of PII from student education records. Typically, law enforcement officials, public health officials, trained medical personnel, and parents (including parents of an eligible student) are the types of appropriate parties to whom PII from education records may be disclosed under this FERPA exception.

For purposes of FERPA's health or safety emergency exception, the determination by an educational agency or institution that there is a specific emergency is not based on a generalized or distant threat of a possible or eventual emergency for which the likelihood of occurrence is unknown, such as would be addressed in general emergency preparedness activities. If local public health authorities determine that a public health emergency, such as COVID-19, is a significant threat to students or other individuals in the community, an educational agency or institution in that community may determine that an emergency exists as well.

Under the FERPA health or safety emergency exception, an educational agency or institution is responsible for making a determination, on a case-by-case basis, whether to disclose PII from education records, and it may take into account the totality of the circumstances pertaining to the threat. See 34 C.F.R. § 99.36(c). If the educational agency or institution determines that there is an articulable and significant threat to the health or safety of the student or another individual and that certain parties need the PII from education records, to protect the health or safety of the student or another individual, it may disclose that information to such parties without consent. This is a flexible standard under which the Department will not substitute its judgment for that of the educational agency or institution so that the educational agency or institution may bring appropriate resources to bear on the situation, provided that, based on the information available at the time of the educational agency's or institution's determination, there is a rational basis for such determination. We note also that, within a reasonable period of time after a disclosure is made under this exception, an educational agency or institution must record in the student's education records the articulable and significant threat that formed the basis for the disclosure and the parties to whom information was disclosed. 34 C.F.R. § 99.32(a)(5).

3. May student education records, such as health records, maintained by an educational agency or institution be disclosed, without consent, to public health departments if the educational agency or institution believes that the virus that causes COVID-19 poses a serious risk to the health or safety of an individual student in attendance at the educational agency or institution?

Yes. If an educational agency or institution, taking into account the totality of the circumstances, determines that an articulable and significant threat exists to the health or safety of a student in attendance at the agency or institution (or another individual at the agency or institution) as a result of the virus that causes COVID-19, it may disclose, without prior written consent, PII from student education records to appropriate officials at a public health department who need the information to protect the health or safety of the student (or another individual). Public health department officials may be considered "appropriate parties" by an educational agency or institution under FERPA's health or safety emergency exception, even in the absence of a formally declared health emergency. Typically, public health officials and trained medical personnel are among the types of appropriate parties to whom PII from education records, may be non-consensually disclosed under FERPA's health or safety emergency exception.

4. If an educational agency or institution learns that student(s) in attendance at the school are out sick due to COVID-19, may it disclose information about the student's illness under FERPA to other students and their parents in the school community without prior written parental or eligible student consent?

It depends, but generally yes, but only if that information is in a non-personally identifiable form. Specifically, the the educational agency or institution must make a reasonable determination that a student's identity is not personally identifiable, whether through single or multiple releases, and taking into account other reasonably available information. See 34 C.F.R. § 99.31(b)(1). If an educational agency or institution discloses information about students in non-personally identifiable form, then consent by the parents or eligible students is not needed under FERPA. For example, if an educational agency or institution releases the fact that individuals are absent due to COVID-19 (but does not disclose their identities), this would generally not be considered personally identifiable to the absent students under FERPA as long as there are other individuals at the educational agency or institution who are absent for other reasons. However, we caution educational agencies or institutions to ensure that in releasing such facts, they do so in a manner that does not disclose other information that, alone or in combination, would allow a reasonable person in the school community to identify the students who are absent due to COVID-19 with reasonable certainty.

5. May educational agencies and institutions disclose without consent the names, addresses, and phone numbers of absent students to the public health department so that the health department may contact their parents in order to assess the students' illnesses?

FERPA permits educational agencies and institutions to non-consensually disclose PII from education records in the form of contact information of absent students to the public health department in specific circumstances, such as in connection with a health or safety emergency (20 U.S.C. § 1232g(b)(1)(I); 34 C.F.R. §§ 99.31(a)(10) and 99.36) or pursuant to other applicable exceptions.

While FERPA generally permits the nonconsensual disclosure of properly designated "directory information" (e.g., name, address, phone number, grade level) when parents or eligible students have not opted out of such a disclosure, it does not permit an educational agency or institution to disclose "directory information" on students that is linked to non-directory information (such as information regarding a student's illness). For instance, an educational agency or institution may not disclose directory information on all students who are receiving special education services or those who have been absent from school.

Therefore, unless a specific FERPA exception applies, educational agencies and institutions should prepare consent forms for parents and eligible students to sign to allow the potential sharing of this type of information if they create, or intend to create, a tracking or monitoring system to identify an outbreak before an emergency is recognized.

6. If an educational agency or institution determines that a health or safety emergency exists, may it disclose, without consent, PII from student education records to the media?

No. As explained previously, FERPA only permits nonconsensual disclosures of PII from students' education records under the health or safety emergency exception to "appropriate parties" (such as public health officials) whose knowledge of the information is necessary to protect the health or safety of students or other individuals. While the media may have a role in alerting the community of an outbreak, they are not "appropriate parties" under FERPA's health or safety emergency exception because they generally do not have a role in protecting individual students or other individuals at the educational agency or institution. "Appropriate parties" in this context are normally parties who provide specific medical or safety attention, such as public health and law enforcement officials.

7. May the school identify a particular student, a teacher, or other school official as having COVID-19 to parents of other students in the school?

In most cases, it is sufficient to report the fact that an individual in the school has been determined to have COVID-19, rather than specifically identifying the student who is infected. School notification is an effective method of informing parents and eligible students of an illness in the school. For settings in which parents are primarily doing drop-offs and pick-ups, posting signs on the doors may be effective. In other settings, sending home or e-mailing a notification may also be effective. These methods serve to notify parents and eligible students of a potential risk, which may be particularly important for students who may be more susceptible to infection or to developing severe complications from an infection, and to alert parents to look for symptoms in their own children and eligible students to more closely monitor themselves for symptoms.

Nothing in FERPA prevents schools from telling parents and students that a specific teacher or other school official has COVID-19 because FERPA applies to students' education records, not records on school officials. However, there may be State laws that apply in these situations.

There may be a rare situation during a health or safety emergency, however, in which schools may determine (in conjunction with health, law enforcement, or other such officials) that parents of students or eligible students are appropriate parties to whom to disclose identifiable information about a student with COVID-19. For example, school officials may determine that it is appropriate to disclose identifiable information about of a student with COVID-19 to parents of other students if parents need to know this information to take appropriate action to protect the health or safety of their children. For example if a student with COVID-19 is a wrestler and has been in direct and close contact with other students who are on the team or who are in the school and have higher health risks, school officials may determine it necessary to disclose the identity of the diagnosed student to the parents of the other students. In these limited situations, parents and eligible students may need to be aware of this information in order to take appropriate precautions or other actions to ensure the health or safety of their child or themselves, especially if their child or they may have a higher risk of susceptibility to COVID-19 or of developing severe complications from COVID-19.[4] School officials should make the determination on a case-by-case basis whether a disclosure of the student's name is absolutely necessary to protect the health or safety of students or other individuals or whether a general notice is sufficient, taking into account the totality of the circumstances, including the needs of such students or other individuals to have such information in order to take appropriate protective action(s) and the risks presented to the health or safety of such students or other individuals.

8. May an educational agency or institution disclose PII from an eligible student's education records to the student's parents if the eligible student has been determined to have COVID-19?

Yes, for dependent students and generally yes, but see below. Under FERPA, an educational agency or institution, including an institution of postsecondary education, may disclose, without the eligible student's written consent, PII from an eligible student's education records to his or her parents under certain conditions. For example, a university physician treating an eligible student for COVID-19 might determine that the student's treatment records should be disclosed to the student's parents. This disclosure may be made, without consent of the eligible student, if the parents claim the eligible student as a dependent under section 152 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986. 20 U.S.C. § 1232g(b)(1)(H); 34 C.F.R. § 99.31(a)(8). If the parents do not claim the eligible student as a dependent, then the disclosure may be made to the parents, without the eligible student's written consent, if the disclosure is in connection with a health or safety emergency provided certain conditions are satisfied (as discussed in the response to question two above). 20 U.S.C. § 1232g(b)(1)(I); 34 C.F.R. §§ 99.31(a)(10) and 36.

9. What if a parent of a student who is not an eligible student refuses to provide written consent to permit the release of PII contained in student education records to the public health department?

FERPA permits educational agencies and institutions to release information from education records without consent after the removal of all PII, provided that the agency or institution has made a reasonable determination that a student's identity is not personally identifiable, whether through single or multiple releases, and taking into account other reasonably available information. 34 C.F.R. § 99.31(b)(1). Thus, it would be problematic to disclose that every student in a particular class or grade level is absent if there is, for instance, a directory with the names of every student in that class or grade. Therefore, it is prudent that educational agencies or institutions obtain written consent to permit the disclosure of PII from students' education records to the public health department. If the parent or eligible student will not provide written consent for the disclosure of the PII, then the educational agency or institution may not make the disclosure unless it has determined that there is an applicable exception to the general requirement of consent that permits the disclosure, such as if a health or safety emergency exists and the PII is disclosed to an appropriate party whose knowledge of the information is necessary to protect the health or safety of the student or other individuals.

10. Is an educational agency or institution required to record disclosures of PII from student education records submitted to the public health department or other outside parties, even in connection with a health or safety emergency?

Yes. FERPA generally requires educational agencies and institutions to maintain a record of each request for access to and each disclosure of PII from the education records of each student. 34 C.F.R. § 99.32(a)(1). Moreover, when making a disclosure under the health or safety emergency provision in FERPA, educational agencies and institutions are specifically required to record the articulable and significant threat to the health or safety of a student or other individual that formed the basis for the disclosure and the parties to whom the agency or institution disclosed the information. 34 C.F.R. § 99.32(a)(5). The record of each request for access to and each disclosure of PII from student education records must be maintained with the education records of each student as long as the records are maintained. 34 C.F.R. § 99.32(a)(2). This requirement enables parents and eligible students who do not provide written consent for disclosure of education records to see the circumstances under which and the parties to whom their information was disclosed. However, educational agencies and institutions are not required to record disclosures for which the parent or eligible student has provided written consent. 34 C.F.R. § 99.32(d)(3).

In December 2019, the U.S. Department of Education, along with HHS, issued guidance on the applicability of FERPA and the HIPAA to student health records, the "Joint Guidance on the Application of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) and the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act of 1996 (HIPAA) To Student Health Records." See https://studentprivacy.ed.gov/sites/default/files/resource_document/file/2019%20HIPAA%20FERPA%20Joint%20Guidance%20508.pdf. This 2019 document updated the Department's 2008 guidance and explained that the HIPAA Privacy Rule does not apply to education records that are protected by FERPA. Student health records that are maintained by a public elementary and secondary educational agency or institution or by a party acting for the agency or institution are "education records" subject to FERPA, and school officials must follow the requirements of FERPA in making any disclosures of the PII from these records. At the postsecondary level, FERPA applies to most public and private institutions of postsecondary education and to the student health records that they maintain. Such student health records may either constitute "education records" or "treatment records," if certain conditions are met, but in either case they are subject to FERPA and not the HIPAA Privacy Rule.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ON PROVIDING SERVICES TO CHILDREN WITH DISABILITIES DURING THE CORONAVIRUS DISEASE 2019 OUTBREAK

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) is responding to an outbreak of respiratory disease caused by a new coronavirus named coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19). The CDC has issued interim guidance to help administrators of public and private childcare programs and K-12 schools plan for and prevent the spread of COVID-19 among students and staff. See Interim Guidance for Administrators of US Childcare Programs and K-12 Schools to Plan, Prepare, and Respond to Coronavirus Disease 2019 available at: https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/specific-groups/guidance-for-schools.html

This Questions and Answers document outlines states' responsibilities to infants, toddlers, and children with disabilities and their families, and to the staff serving these children. During an outbreak of COVID-19, local educational agencies (LEAs) and early intervention service (EIS) programs will need to collaborate with their state educational agency (SEA), Bureau of Indian Education (BIE), or local public health department, as appropriate, to address questions about how, what, and when services should be provided to children with disabilities.[1] It does not create or confer any rights for or on any person. This Q & A document does not impose any additional requirements beyond those included in applicable law and regulations. The responses presented in this document generally constitute informal guidance representing the interpretation of the Department of the applicable statutory or regulatory requirements in the context of the specific facts presented here and are not legally binding. The Q & As in this document are not intended to be a replacement for careful study of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (Section 504), Title II of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (Title II), and their implementing regulations. ## A. Implementing Part B of the IDEA and Section 504 during a COVID-19 outbreak

Question A-1: Is an LEA required to continue to provide a free appropriate public education (FAPE) to students with disabilities during a school closure caused by a COVID-19 outbreak?

Answer: The IDEA, Section 504, and Title II of the ADA do not specifically address a situation in which elementary and secondary schools are closed for an extended period of time (generally more than 10 consecutive days) because of exceptional circumstances, such as an outbreak of a particular disease.

If an LEA closes its schools to slow or stop the spread of COVID-19, and does not provide any educational services to the general student population, then an LEA would not be required to provide services to students with disabilities during that same period of time. Once school resumes, the LEA must make every effort to provide special education and related services to the child in accordance with the child's individualized education program (IEP) or, for students entitled to FAPE under Section 504, consistent with a plan developed to meet the requirements of Section 504. The Department understands there may be exceptional circumstances that could affect how a particular service is provided. In addition, an IEP Team and, as appropriate to an individual student with a disability, the personnel responsible for ensuring FAPE to a student for the purposes of Section 504, would be required to make an individualized determination as to whether compensatory services are needed under applicable standards and requirements.

If an LEA continues to provide educational opportunities to the general student population during a school closure, the school must ensure that students with disabilities also have equal access to the same opportunities, including the provision of FAPE. (34 CFR §§ 104.4, 104.33 (Section 504) and 28 CFR § 35.130 (Title II of the ADA)). SEAs, LEAs, and schools must ensure that, to the greatest extent possible, each student with a disability can be provided the special education and related services identified in the student's IEP developed under IDEA, or a plan developed under Section 504. (34 CFR §§ 300.101 and 300.201 (IDEA), and 34 CFR § 104.33 (Section 504)).

Question A-2: Must an LEA provide special education and related services to a child with a disability who is absent for an extended period of time because the child is infected with COVID-19, while the schools remain open?

Answer: Yes. It has long been the Department's position that when a child with a disability is classified as needing homebound instruction because of a medical problem, as ordered by a physician, and is home for an extended period of time (generally more than 10 consecutive school days), an individualized education program (IEP) meeting is necessary to change the child's placement and the contents of the child's IEP, if warranted. Further, if the IEP goals will remain the same and only the time in special education will change, then the IEP Team may add an amendment to the IEP stating specifically the amount of time to be spent in special education. If a child with a disability is absent for an extended period of time because of a COVID-19 infection and the school remains open, then the IEP Team must determine whether the child is available for instruction and could benefit from homebound services such as online or virtual instruction, instructional telephone calls, and other curriculum-based instructional activities, to the extent available. In so doing, school personnel should follow appropriate health guidelines to assess and address the risk of transmission in the provision of such services. The Department understands there may be exceptional circumstances that could affect how a particular service is provided.

If a child does not receive services after an extended period of time, a school must make an individualized determination whether and to what extent compensatory services may be needed, consistent with applicable requirements, including to make up for any skills that may have been lost.

Question A-3: What services must an LEA provide if a public school for children with disabilities is selectively closed due to the possibility of severe complications from a COVID-19 outbreak?

Answer: If a public school for children with disabilities is closed solely because the children are at high risk of severe illness and death, the LEA must determine whether each dismissed child could benefit from online or virtual instruction, instructional telephone calls, and other curriculum-based instructional activities, to the extent available. In so doing, school personnel should follow appropriate health guidelines to assess and address the risk of transmission in the provision of such services. The Department understands there may be exceptional circumstances that could affect how a particular service is provided.

If a child does not receive services during a closure, a child's IEP team (or appropriate personnel under Section 504) must make an individualized determination whether and to what extent compensatory services may be needed, consistent with applicable requirements, including to make up for any skills that may have been lost.

Question A-4: If a child with a disability at high risk of severe medical complications is excluded from school during an outbreak of COVID-19 and the child's school remains open, is the exclusion considered a change in educational placement subject to the protections of 34 CFR §§ 300.115 and 300.116 and 34 CFR §§ 104.35 and 104.36.

Answer: If the exclusion is a temporary emergency measure (generally 10 consecutive school days or less), the provision of services such as online or virtual instruction, instructional telephone calls, and other curriculum-based instructional activities, to the extent available, is not considered a change in placement. During this time period, a child's parent or other IEP team member may request an IEP meeting to discuss the potential need for services if the exclusion is likely to be of long duration (generally more than 10 consecutive school days). For long-term exclusions, an LEA must consider placement decisions under the IDEA's procedural protections of 34 CFR §§ 300.115 – 300.116, regarding the continuum of alternative placements and the determination of placements.

Under 34 CFR § 300.116, a change in placement decision must be made by a group of persons, including the parents and other persons knowledgeable about the child and the placement options. If the placement group determines that the child meets established high-risk criteria and, due to safety and health concerns, the child's needs could be met through homebound instruction, then under 34 CFR §300.503(a)(1), the public agency must issue a prior written notice proposing the change in placement. A parent who disagrees with this prior written notice retains all of the due process rights included in 34 CFR §§ 300.500-300.520.

For children with disabilities protected by Section 504 who are dismissed from school during an outbreak of COVID-19 because they are at high risk for health complications, compliance with the procedures described above and completion of any necessary evaluations of the child satisfy the evaluation, placement and procedural requirements of 34 CFR §§ 104.35 and 104.36. The decision to dismiss a child based on his or her high risk for medical complications must be based on the individual needs of the child and not on perceptions of the child's needs based merely on stereotypes or generalizations regarding his or her disability.

Question A-5: May an IEP Team consider a distance learning plan in a child's IEP as a contingency plan in the event of a COVID-19 outbreak that requires the school's closure?

Answer: Yes. IEP teams may, but are not required to, include distance learning plans in a child's IEP that could be triggered and implemented during a selective closure due to a COVID-19 outbreak. Such contingent provisions may include the provision of special education and related services at an alternate location or the provision of online or virtual instruction, instructional telephone calls, and other curriculum-based instructional activities, and may identify which special education and related services, if any, could be provided at the child's home.

Creating a contingency plan before a COVID-19 outbreak occurs gives the child's service providers and the child's parents an opportunity to reach agreement as to what circumstances would trigger the use of the child's distance learning plan and the services that would be provided during the dismissal.

Question A-6: What activities other than special education and related services may and may not be provided with IDEA Part B funds both prior to and during a COVID-19 outbreak?

Answer: IDEA Part B funds may be used for activities that directly relate to providing, and ensuring the continuity of, special education and related services to children with disabilities. For example, an LEA may use IDEA Part B funds to disseminate health and COVID-19 information that is specifically related to children with disabilities, to develop emergency plans for children with disabilities, or to provide other information (e.g., guidance on coordination of the provision of services in alternate locations as described in Question A-5) to parties who may need such information, including school staff responsible for implementing IEPs, parents of eligible children, and staff in alternate locations where special education and related services may be provided. LEAs, however, may not use IDEA Part B funds to develop or distribute general COVID-19 guidance or to carry out activities that are not specific to children with disabilities (e.g., general COVID-19 activities for all children and staff). Additionally, LEAs may not use IDEA Part B funds to administer future COVID-19 vaccinations to any children, including children with disabilities.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

B. IDEA Part C and COVID-19

Question B-1: Must a state lead agency continue to provide early intervention services to infants and toddlers with disabilities during a COVID-19 outbreak if the offices are closed?

Answer: If the offices of the state lead agency or the EIS program or provider are closed, then Part C services would not need to be provided to infants and toddlers with disabilities and their families during that period of time. If the lead agency's offices are open but the offices of the EIS program or provider in a specific geographical area are closed due to public health and safety concerns as a result of a COVID-19 outbreak in that area, the EIS program or provider would not be required to provide services during the closure. If the offices remain open, but Part C services cannot be provided in a particular location (such as in the child's home), by a particular EIS provider, or to a particular child who is infected with COVID-19, then the lead agency must ensure the continuity of services by, for example, providing services in an alternate location, by using a different EIS provider, or through alternate means, such as consultative services to the parent.

Additionally, once the offices re-open, the service coordinator and EIS providers for each child must determine if the child's service needs have changed and determine whether the individualized family service plan (IFSP) team needs to meet to review the child's IFSP to determine whether any changes are needed. If offices are closed for an extended period and services are not provided for an extended period, the IFSP team must meet under 34 CFR § 303.342(b)(1) to determine if changes are needed to the IFSP and to determine whether compensatory services are needed to address the infant or toddler's developmental delay.

Question B-2: What should a state lead agency or EIS program provider do to provide Part C services if its offices are open, but it cannot provide services in accordance with an infant's or toddler's IFSP during a COVID-19 outbreak?

Answer: If the offices remain open, but Part C services cannot be provided in a particular location (such as in the child's home), by a particular EIS provider, or to a particular child who is infected with COVID-19, then the lead agency must ensure the continuity of services, on a case-by-case basis and consistent with protecting the health and safety of the student and those providing services to the student. As an example, the lead agency may consider providing services in an alternate location, by using a different EIS provider, or through alternate means, such as consultative service to the parent. Once services are fully resumed, the service coordinator and EIS providers for each child must assess the child to determine if the child's service needs have changed and to determine whether the IFSP Team needs to meet to review the child's IFSP to identify whether changes to the IFSP are needed. If the offices are closed and services are not provided for an extended period, the IFSP Team must meet under 34 CFR § 303.342(b)(1) to determine if changes are needed to the IFSP and to determine whether compensatory services are needed.

If an EIS provider cannot provide Part C services in the child's home during a COVID-19 outbreak, but the EIS program or provider determines that it is safe to provide face-to-face Part C services in another environment such as a hospital or medical clinic, then the child could receive temporary services at the hospital or clinic. Additionally, if the lead agency or EIS provider determines that face-to-face Part C services should not be provided for a period of time, then the EIS provider or service coordinator may consult with the parent through a teleconference or other alternative method (such as e-mail or video conference), consistent with privacy interests, to provide consultative services, guidance, and advice as needed. However, determining how to provide Part C services in a manner that is consistent with the most updated public health and safety guidance is left to the discretion of the lead agency and the EIS program and provider serving a particular child and family.

Question B-3: What activities other than service provision may and may not be provided with IDEA Part C funds both prior to and during a potential COVID-19 outbreak?

Answer: IDEA Part C funds may be used for activities that directly relate to providing, and ensuring the continuity of, Part C services to eligible children and their families. The state may use IDEA Part C funds to disseminate health and COVID-19 information to relevant parties, develop emergency plans to support the provision and continuity of Part C services, or provide other information (e.g., how the lead agency staff or EIS programs or providers may provide alternate services or services in alternate locations as described in Question B-2) to relevant parties who need this information. Relevant parties may include parents of eligible children, childcare centers, staff in other locations where early intervention services are provided, EIS programs and providers, and primary referral sources. Other activities that relate to service provision, including the provision of service coordination, evaluations, and assessments, may also be funded. The state may not, however, use IDEA Part C funds to administer future COVID-19 vaccinations as it is a medical service under 34 CFR §303.13(c)(3).

Fact Sheet: Impact of COVID-19 on Assessments and Accountability under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act

This fact sheet discusses the potential implications of novel coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) on State assessment and accountability systems. This fact sheet also addresses other considerations regarding the use of Federal funds under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, as amended (ESEA). We know that you are doing all in your power to support your districts and schools to ensure the health and well-being of students and educators. Like you, we are closely monitoring the situation around the country and will provide additional information as warranted. We encourage you to review information from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), which can be found on the U.S. Department of Education's (Department's) COVID-19 website at: https://www.ed.gov/coronavirus. In particular, the CDC has issued interim guidance to help K-12 schools and childcare programs plan for and prevent the spread of COVID-19 among students and staff. See Interim Guidance for Administrators of US Childcare Programs and K-12 Schools to Plan, Prepare, and Respond to Coronavirus Disease 2019 available at: https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/specific-groups/guidance-for-schools.html.

As you know, the ESEA requires each State to annually administer assessments in reading/language arts, mathematics, and science to all students in tested grades and to administer an annual assessment of English language proficiency to all English learners. The Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) also requires that all students with disabilities be included in all general State and district-wide assessment programs, including assessments required under the ESEA. Under the ESEA, the results of the required assessments are combined with other indicators of a school's performance to produce a State's accountability determination for each public school. Spring is typically when most States administer their statewide assessments. As a result, we want to provide some general information for States and districts now. Importantly, we want you to know that the Department will work to support you during this situation and that you may reach out to us at any time to talk about individual situations.

Section 8401 of the ESEA (20 U.S.C. § 7861) permits the Secretary to grant waivers of certain ESEA requirements and, thus, allows the Department to provide some flexibility to schools, districts, and States that may be necessary due to the impact of COVID-19 on the provision of educational services. References to waivers in the paragraphs below refer to such 8401 waivers. Please note that States with Education Flexibility (Ed-Flex) program authority are not authorized to waive statutory or regulatory requirements related to standards, assessments, and accountability under section 1111 of the ESEA. The Department may, however, consider such waivers under the section 8401 waiver authority.

Assessments

The Department generally does not grant statewide waivers of assessment requirements under section 1111(b)(2) of the ESEA. The reason is that assessments provide important information to parents, educators, and the public about how well students are doing at mastering a State's content for each tested grade and subject. In cases where a school has been closed for a period of time, the assessment results still provide useful information about where individual students and groups of students will need support in the following school year. However, due to the unique circumstances that may arise as a result of COVID-19, such as a school closing during the entire testing window, it may not be feasible for a State to administer some or all of its assessments, in which case the Department would consider a targeted one-year waiver of the assessment requirements for those schools impacted by the extraordinary circumstances. States with schools that must close due to the COVID-19 may also want to consider whether it is possible to adjust or extend the testing window to accommodate as many students as possible, including students in schools that were closed for some period.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Accountability determinations

The ESEA affords each State the flexibility to design, within certain statutory parameters, an accountability system that best meets the needs of the State. Accordingly, impact from COVID-19 will affect each State's accountability system differently. If needed, the Department would consider a targeted one-year waiver of the requirement to identify a school for comprehensive or targeted support and improvement if the reason for the identification was related to the school being closed for a significant portion of the school year.

Accountability components

A State may be able to administer its assessments and may have data that it considers sufficient to produce accountability determinations but still require some flexibility around other components of its accountability system. Below we identify two areas that are most likely to be impacted by COVID-19, though we recognize that each State has a unique accountability system and that there may be other affected areas as well.

- 95 percent assessment participation rate
  The ESEA requires that all students in the tested grades be assessed annually and requires that, when calculating the Academic Achievement indicator, the denominator be based on the number of students assessed in reading/language arts and mathematics or 95 percent of the student population, whichever is greater. We recognize that students may be absent during the test window, leading to a participation rate below 95 percent. In such a case, the Department would consider a targeted one-year waiver for an impacted school to not factor the participation rate into its Academic Achievement indicator.

- Chronic absenteeism
  As noted above, a State has discretion in the design of its accountability system. One of the most common indicators that States have included in their accountability system is chronic absenteeism. This indicator is perhaps the most likely to be impacted by COVID-19 due to school closures or student absences. For this reason, the Department would consider a one-year waiver to exclude this indicator from a State's accountability system.

In addition to the potential impact on assessment and accountability systems, we recognize that districts could face challenges meeting certain ESEA fiscal requirements, such as: maintenance of effort; the requirement to obligate funds in the current Federal fiscal year for providing equitable services to eligible private school students, teachers, and families; and the limitation on carrying over no more than 15 percent of Title I, Part A funds. Should any of these issues or other topics be a concern, we encourage you to reach out to your contacts in the Department so that we can assist you. In addition, while this fact sheet focuses only on ESEA assessments and accountability, as earlier noted, the Department has created a website dedicated to COVID-19 information as it relates to many of our other programs at: https://www.ed.gov/coronavirus. Subject: PRDE Request for additional waivers

Greetings Mr. Brogan and USDE Team:

PRDE hereby respectfully submits a request for additional waivers, including a no cost extension for an additional period of time of 12 months for all awards that were active as of March 31st, 2020, among other flexibilities. We have utilized the template provided by the USDE for the fiscal waiver, the assessment template and others for the Perkins and WIOA grants. All were submitted by PRDE and responded by the USDE.

However, the fiscal template contemplates to provide an additional year to use 2018-2019 awards, but it does not include 2017-2018 funds. PRDE has several 17-18 grants that were active as of March 31st, 2020, so through this petition, we want to cover all active grants at the date established having in mind FY 2017-2018 too.

Additionally, PRDE seeks other waivers that were not included in neither of the templates provided, but that we understand will greatly benefit the Agency that has been affected due to various emergencies (such as earthquakes and COVID19 pandemic this 2020).

To comply with the requirement, we posted a notice in PRDE's webpage and provided enough time for the public and stakeholders to submit their input about it.

Also, we have copied the program officers to notify them of this request.

We appreciate your consideration over this matter.

Best,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

GOVERNMENT OF PUERTO RICO

DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
Auxiliary Secretariat of Federal Affairs

May 5, 2020

The Honorable Frank T. Brogan
Assistant Secretary for Elementary and Secondary Education Office of Elementary and Secondary Education
U.S. Department of Education 400
Maryland Avenue, SW Washington,
DC 20202
Frank.Brogan@ed.gov

Dear Assistant Secretary Brogan:

On March 19, 2020, the federal Office of Management and Budget (OMB) issued M-20-17, "Administrative Relief for Recipients and Applicants of Federal Financial Assistance Directly Impacted by the Novel Coronavirus (COVID-19) due to Loss of Operations," to provide flexibilities for grants to agencies affected by the loss of operational capacity and increased costs due to the COVID-19 crisis. This memorandum provides short term relief for administrative, financial management, and audit requirements under 2 CFR Part 200, Uniform Administrative Requirements, Cost principles and Audit Requirements for Federal Awards, without compromising Federal financial assistance accountability requirements.

For the flexibilities provided within the memorandum, agencies are reminded of their existing flexibility to issue exceptions on a case-by-case basis in accordance with 2 CFR § 200.102, Exceptions. In early April, the U.S. Department of Education released a template for waiver requests under Every Student Succeeds Act. The Puerto Rico Department of Education (PRDE) has submitted a request utilizing that template. However, there are flexibilities included in the OMB memo that were not covered by that template.

Appropriately, PRDE is writing to request waivers, of the requirement(s) enumerated below on behalf of the State Educational Agency (SEA) and its subgrantees:

☒ Flexibility with SAM registration. (2 CFR § 200.205)
PRDE is seeking flexibility of the requirement for active System for Award Management (SAM) registration at time of application in order to expeditiously issue funding. Under that OMB guidance, current registrants in SAM with active registrations expiring before May 16, 2020 can be afforded a one-time extension of 60 days.

The Department of Education does not discriminate under any circumstance on the grounds of age, race, color, gender, birth, religion, veteran status, political ideals, sexual orientation, gender identity, social condition or background, physical or mental incapacity; or for being victim of aggression, harassment, or domestic violence.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

☒ Allowability of salaries and other project activities. (2 CFR § 200.403, 2 CFR § 200.404, 2 CFR § 200.405)
PRDE would like to continue to charge salaries and benefits to currently active Federal awards consistent with our policy of paying salaries (under unexpected or extraordinary circumstances) from all funding sources, Federal and non-Federal. PRDE would charge other costs to Federal awards necessary to resume activities supported by the award, consistent with applicable Federal cost principles and the benefit to the project. PRDE will continue to maintain appropriate records and cost documentation as required by 2 CFR § 200.302 -Financial management and 2 CFR § 200.333 - Retention requirement of records to substantiate the charging of any salaries and other project activities costs related to interruption of operations or services.

☒ Allowability of Costs not Normally Chargeable to Awards. (2 CFR § 200.403, 2 CFR § 200.404, 2 CFR § 200.405)
PRDE has incurred costs related to the cancellation of events, travel, or other activities necessary and reasonable for the performance of the award, or the pausing and restarting of grant funded activities due to the public health emergency, and is requesting approval to charge these costs to our awards without regard to 2 CFR § 200.403, Factors affecting allowability of costs, 2 CFR § 200.404, Reasonable costs, and 2 CFR § 200.405, Allocable costs. PRDE is requesting approval to charge full costs of cancellation when the event, travel, or other activities are conducted under the auspices of the grant. PRDE will continue to maintain appropriate records and cost documentation as required by 2 CFR § 200.302 - Financial management and 2 CFR § 200.333 Retention requirement of records, to substantiate the charging of any cancellation or other fees related to interruption of operations or services.

☒ No-cost extensions on expiring awards. (2 CFR § 200.308)
To the extent permitted by law, PRDE is requesting an extension for awards which were active as of March 31, 2020 and scheduled to expire prior or up to December 31, 2020, automatically at no cost for a period of up to twelve (12) months. This will allow time for PRDE assessments, the resumption of many individual projects, and a report on program progress and financial status to agency staff. PRDE understands that project-specific financial and performance reports will be due 90 days following the end date of the extension, unless the U.S. Department of Education (ED) says otherwise.

☒ Extension of financial, performance, and other reporting. (2 CPR§ 200.327, 2 CPR§ 200.328)
PRDE is seeking permission to delay submission of financial, performance and other reports up to three (3) months beyond the normal due date. These reports will be submitted at the end of the postponed period. In addition, we are asking that ED waive the requirement for PRDE to notify the agency of problems, delays or adverse conditions related to COVID-19 on all grants (200 CPR 200.328(d)(l).

☒ Extension of currently approved indirect cost rates. (2 CPR§ 200.414 (c))
PRDE is asking ED to allow us to continue to use the currently approved indirect cost rates (i.e., predetermined, fixed, or provisional rates) to recover our indirect costs on Federal awards, for one additional year without submission of an indirect cost proposal. PRDE is also requesting an extension of the indirect cost rate proposal submission to finalize the current rates and establish future rates.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

☒ Extension of closeout. (2 CPR§ 200.343)
PRDE is also asking for authority to delay submission of any pending financial, performance and other reports required by the terms of the award for the closeout of expired projects for one year after the award expires, provided that PRDE gives proper notice to ED about the reporting delay.

In seeking these waivers, PRDE assures that:

☒ The SEA will use, and ensure that its subgrantees use, funds under the respective programs in accordance with the provisions of all applicable statutes, regulations, program plans, and applications not subject to these waivers.

☒ The SEA will work to mitigate, and ensure that its subgrantees work to mitigate, any negative effects, if any, that may occur as a result of the requested waivers.

☒ The SEA will provide the public in the State with notice of, and the opportunity to comment on, this request by posting information regarding the waiver request and the process for commenting on the PRDE website.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

(b)(6)

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Governor of Puerto Rico
WANDA VÁZQUEZ GARCED

May 18, 2020

The Honorable Betsy DeVos
Secretary of Education
U.S. Department of Education
400 Maryland Avenue, SW
Washington, D.C. 20202

Dear Secretary DeVos,

Thank you for the support the U.S. Department of Education (USDE) has provided to Puerto Rico as we work together to combat this global pandemic of COVID-19. On behalf of Puerto Rico's student population, I thank you for the continued assistance that USDE has provided to the island during this heightened time.

I write today to seek your assistance in ensuring that the Puerto Rico Department of Education (PRDE) has immediate access to the emergency funding provided under the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act so that we may provide urgently needed assistance to students, schools, and staff as we, like the other states and territories, navigate the challenges presented by long-distance learning. Under the CARES Act, Puerto Rico is to receive $349,113,000 from the Elementary and Secondary School Emergency Relief (ESSER) Fund and $47,812,236 from the Governor's Emergency Education Relief Fund (GEER Fund). Yet, PRDE was recently notified by USDE's Risk Management Services that Puerto Rico will not be allowed to access its CARES Act funding until a third-party fiduciary agent (TFPA) is in place. For the reasons outlined below, I urge you to reconsider this determination and ask that you provide me, as Governor, and the PRDE with immediate access to the CARES Act funding so that the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic do not take an even greater toll on our student population.

At the onset of the coronavirus in the United States, I took bold action to protect the 3.2 million U.S. citizens of Puerto Rico by, among other things, instituting the first mandatory lock-down in the nation. My efforts to protect the people of Puerto Rico were bolstered by the actions of the Trump Administration and Congress, who worked together to enact emergency legislation to protect our nation from both the immediate and long-term effect of the virus. The CARES Act, was enacted to provide urgently needed assistance to students, schools, institutions, and states across the country when so many schools were forced to close their brick and mortar campuses for the balance of the school year in order to keep people safe. As such, the bill provides state educational agencies (SEAs) and local educational agencies (LEAs) with immediate emergency relief funds to address the impact of COVID-19 on elementary and secondary schools, their students, and their staff. Two critical sources of funding included in the CARES Act are the ESSER Fund, which states can use for a wide range of purposes, including purchasing computers and hot spot devices for online learning; purchasing supplies for cleaning and sanitization, supporting professional development for educators, and supporting access to quality instruction for students with disabilities; and the GEER Fund, which Governors can use at their discretion and which I intend to use this summer to meet and improve the current educational and health related needs of students and faculty.

GEER Funds were provided by Congress to empower governors to decide how best to meet the current needs during this pandemic. They stand in contrast with most of the other emergency monies under the Education Stabilization Fund, which are more particularly directed at state and local educational agencies because these funds were given directly to all governors. Section 18002(a) of the CARES act clearly states that GEER fund is provided to the governor and the grant notices states that only governors (and the mayor of the District of Columbia) are eligible to receive funding.

Yet, even though Congress intended for these funds to provide immediate relief to students and schools during this global pandemic, we are being denied immediate access to these funds. This delay in access to funding is at odds with the spirit and intent of the CARES Act, which was written in order to provide the greatest immediate impact, and as such, I urge you to reconsider this determination. Moreover, this decision makes Puerto Rico the only SEA in the Nation that does not have access to these emergency funds at a time when access to funding is critical for Puerto Rico. The students of Puerto Rico have suffered two hurricanes, seen their schools collapsed by a series of earthquakes and now have experienced the anxiety and the uncertainty of the Covid 19 pandemic.

Our children should suffer no more. A boy or a girl in fourth grade may think that pandemics, earthquakes, and hurricanes are normal events in everyone's lives since they have become seemingly normal events in their short lives. I want to take care of the mental and behavioral health of our children, provide remedial education, improve distance learning, obtain protective material for teachers and students, and provide access to technology, and to educational materials. Along with the PRDE we need to establish guidance and best practices for provision of emergency care and develop comprehensive plans for reopening school programs.

Like you, I have been working around the clock to ensure these federal resources provided to Puerto Rico are in the hands of those who need them most and for whom these funds will have the greatest immediate impact. I am committed to ensuring that our 295,000 students do not fall behind and have access to meaningful learning options.

Denying Puerto Rico access to ESSER and GEER Funds under the CARES Act puts Puerto Rico's students at even greater risk of falling behind. With schools and administrative offices shut down across the island, Puerto Rico is following most other States in providing instruction to students remotely. Unfortunately, given our previous natural disasters, many students across the island still do not have access to the resources necessary for full virtual learning. The ESSER and GEER Funds are critical to ensuring students in Puerto Rico receive a free and appropriate education, as required by federal law.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

While USDE and PRDE continue to work through the FY2019 Specific Conditions placed on all new grant money awarded to PRDE, including the procurement of a TPFA, the unfortunate reality of the situation in front of us is that the COVID-19 crisis has significantly delayed PRDE's ability to finalize the fulfillment of these specific conditions. Travel restrictions, continued lockdowns, and remote working – necessary precautions to keep the people of Puerto Rico safe – add layers of complication that no one could foresee. As such, USDE's delaying PRDE's access to these much-needed emergency funds provided by the CARES Act will only continue to further harm students across the island. Due to this unforeseen emergency, we simply do not have the luxury of time.

In light of the emergency situation facing our students, I am respectfully requesting that PRDE gain immediate access to the funding provided under the CARES Act and that I gain access to the GEER Funds allocated to Puerto Rico for emergency education relief, as intended by Congress. In obligating and expending CARES Act funding, PRDE will stay in constant contact with USDE officials, as is the common practice in my administration, updating information regularly and ensuring that all costs incurred are allowable under the specific funding streams. If USDE has any questions or concerns regarding the allowability of costs, PRDE will move to address those concerns immediately to ensure compliance with federal statutes, rules, and regulations. PRDE is also happy to consider other requests for information or practicable special procedures that would help you and USDE staff feel comfortable with moving forward on this spending.

I thank you in advance for your attention to this matter, and look forward to working with you on a swift resolution. If you have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to contact Jennifer M. Storipan, Esq., Executive Director of the Puerto Rico Federal Affairs Administration at 202-778-0710 or jstoripan@prfaa.pr.gov.

OESE COVID-19 Mailbox Rapid Response Team
March 13, 2020

OESE will create a small, rapid-response team (response team) to coordinate the response to all COVID-19 questions coming into the COVID-19@ed.gov mailbox[1]. It will consist of a small team of 8-10 individuals (including staff working on formula and discretionary grants, and one staff member from OSEP) who can dedicate a significant portion of their time over at least the next month to this activity (approximately 50 percent, though that may change depending on the scale of questions received). In addition, at least two Office of the General Counsel (OGC) program attorneys will need to be on this team.

Proposed Staff: Co-Leads – Evan Skloot and Sarah Feldpausch

Process:

1. All incoming email is sent to COVID-19@ed.gov. If staff receive COVID-19 related emails, send them to COVID-19@ed.gov. Staff manning the COVID-19@ed.gov mailbox will route OESE-related questions to OESECOVID19@ed.gov .
2. An SGR staff member logs each question from the OESECOVID19@ed.gov email into SCOUT.
3. An OESE staff member sends a generic response from the COVID-19@ed.gov mailbox along the lines of:
    a. Thank you for your inquiry. We will respond to you as soon as possible. In the meantime, be safe and review the information from the Center for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) and your local health officials. The Department will continue to provide information at: www.ed.gov/coronavirus .
4. An SGR staff member delivers a report to the response team lead by 8 am daily of questions received since the previous day and any questions that have not yet received responses.
5. The OESE response team meets each morning at 9 am to discuss the questions and make assignments of questions. An SGR staff member will log the assignment in SCOUT.
6. Questions will be assigned a level:
    a. Level 1: Already answered. These are questions that have already been answered through a formal vetted process; if the response team agrees that the question is a level 1 question, the already-cleared answer can be used to respond (see step 8)
    b. Level 2: Program-specific question. These questions are not Level 1 and impact only one program. The response team member assigned will work with the program office to draft a response.
    c. Level 3: OESE- or ED-wide question. These questions are not Level 1 and have applicability across OESE (and potentially across ED). The group should identify the range of programs that are applicable. The response team member will draft a response for review by the program attorneys and group leaders for the applicable programs.
    d. Level 4: Federal government-wide questions. These are questions that include the uniform guidance or another aspect that spans beyond the U.S. Department of Education. If appropriate, questioner could be referred to CDC, USDA or FCC. Other questions could be referred to the ED Coronavirus Task Force led by Deputy Secretary Zais. Aimee Viana can facilitate this process.
7. Once drafted, the response team member, a program attorney and relevant group leader(s) will review the draft response. No more than 24 hours is given to review the response.

[1] A separate process will be led by Sarah Feldpausch to intake and respond to requests coming from OCO and IGA. She will ensure coordination with the response team, including responses being logged into SCOUT.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

8. Once step 7 is complete, the response team member will mark the response ready for senior leader review.
9. Daily at 4 pm, questions and proposed responses will be sent to the Senior Staff Review group. These responses could be sent as a SharePoint link to facilitate the review. The Senior Staff Review group consists of:
    a. Kent Talbert, Frank Brogan, Aimee Viana, Phil Rosenfelt, Liz Hill, and Ruth Ryder
    b. Each member of the Senior Staff Review group will complete their review by 8 am the following day.
    c. If there are conflicting comments, Aimee will quickly convene a short meeting to resolve the comments.
10. Following step 9, an OESE staff member will send the approved response from COVID-19@ed.gov to the original questioner, copying the relevant group leader, director, and others as appropriate.
11. An SGR team member will log the response and mark the item complete.
12. All questions and responses are posted on a regular basis (bi-weekly or weekly) on www.ed.gov/coronavirus in a manner that is consistent with FERPA.

Subject: Remote Learning for Middle / High School

Dear Madam Secretary DeVos,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Teaching Middle School Mathematics as a second career in a Title I district has me concerned about the viability of remote teaching. Many students I teach don't have the technology at home for it. Even if the district gives them a chrome book, they do not have internet in their home. Another issue is they don't have the support structure within their home to get help they may need. I can go on and on but I would rather try to provide a solution to the problem instead of complaining about it.

I would like to make a couple of suggestions on ways to possibly get schools functional even if we are still locked down in September. I do not believe we can let kids back into schools in high volumes until a vaccine is found or the virus is totally controlled.

There are three subjects I feel need to be taught in person Math, Language Arts and Science the rest can be taught remotely. You cannot have Lunch, Gym and class changes due to the students being on top of one another in the hallways when transferring classes. My solution is to have students come in for 3 hours at a time limiting them to approx. 10 - 12 students per class. We can even put up dividers between rows as an extra precaution along with face masks whatever is necessary. The teachers move to the students, they stay in the same classroom for the day where they can still get their free lunches at the end of the day and eat in the classroom. They would then be dismissed and a new group would come in and start their day with their free lunch.

I realize this plan still needs tweaking but do feel it is a viable option for Title I districts.

Another option for remote learning is to have all the technology issues worked out which would not be as difficult of a problem in more affluent districts. Teachers co-teach a lesson for the entire grade level in an empty classroom broadcast live and videotaped so all the students in math get the same lesson. Students then submit their work and give real time feedback but still bring students in on specific days to review work, complete science labs etc. This option would allow the teachers more time to work with struggling students that need the help.

This has issues that need to be addressed but I believe it is one of the best way to maximize teachers time in a smaller social distancing environment.

I write this for one reason the current method is not working and the students deserve better. Teachers were not prepared to do home teaching and it shows. I am convinced that not all home teaching can be done the same way across all districts. We need the government to give us guidance on options we still have over 100 days before school reopens let's not waste this valuable time. Please let me help, call me or write I would like to give you my expertise as a project manager at AT&T for twenty-two years and a teacher of middle school in a Title I district for the last fifteen years. The children are our future let's play the cards we are dealt and beat this virus by continuing to give a top quality education to our children.

Thank You for your valuable time and for reading my suggestions.

The Honorable Betsy DeVos
Secretary of Education
Department of Education
400 Maryland Avenue, S.W.
Washington, D.C. 20202

Dear Secretary DeVos,

I write to you today on behalf of students, teachers, parents, and other education leaders who are facing tremendous uncertainty as our nation grapples with the COVID-19 pandemic. Many schools across the state of Texas are currently closed, and we are concerned that federally-mandated standardized testing may no longer feasible this spring for every district.

As you are aware, 20 U.S.C. § 7861 permits the Secretary of Education to grant waivers of certain federal requirements for states, including the requirement to administer standardized testing. In consultation with local school boards, our state legislative delegation, and parents, I urge you to provide a waiver to the State of Texas in order to provide flexibility to schools and school districts on a case by case basis in Texas during this emergency.

While we believe in assessment and accountability, during this uncertain time we feel it could be tremendously difficult, and possibly dangerous to public health to move forward with standardized testing this spring for every school. It is for these reasons that I ask that you to grant a waiver from these requirements to the State of Texas without delay.

Thank you for your thoughtful consideration of this request.

Sincerely,

Phil,

This seems to be a cross-cutting issue with implications for both the field and the agency – Timelines for Consolidated State Performance Reports (CSPR).

This presentation has been planned by one of our offices, in order to provide information to the field re: Timelines for CSPR. My understanding is that its objective is to support data collections, and is strictly technical. It is also my current understanding that these timelines have not been modified due to the virus.

I provide the presentation and message below for your review / feedback prior to the webinar posting. It has been reviewed previously by Mike Anderson.

Please don't hesitate to reach out with questions or for additional clarification.

Thank you for all your efforts to support our work.

The team would like to provide this message at the top of the webinar:
"Welcome to the SY 2018-19 Consolidated State Performance Report Technical Webinar. If you are here for this presentation you are in the right place.
First, we want to acknowledge that these are challenging times for you, for your families, and for students and educators in your state. We also understand that the novel Coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) has caused widespread school closures, which has impacted some state agency operations. We appreciate your continued efforts to help students and families while providing for their health and safety and that of or your staff. They are counting on all of us to keep things going as normally as possible, and to provide needed information and resources, and to approach new challenges as opportunities to demonstrate resilience, ingenuity, and creativity. Please know that the U.S. Department of Education is committed to supporting you with every tool at our disposal and extending all flexibilities within our control. If you have any concerns about reporting this year, please contact the Partner Support Center at the contact information, below."

Hi Frank and Aimee,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Please see the note below from Kim, who has been working with Sarah (Newman), Amanda (Hoffman), our data team and NCES' team to modify plans for a webinar that will inform the field of what to expect related to our ongoing efforts to manage the Consolidated State Performance Report and other data collection efforts, while providing the states with as much flexibility as possible. I made a couple of minor edits to the introductory paragraph Kim proposed. As you know, the data that we collect have an ultimate impact on the allocation of resources we give to SEAs and LEAs. Although I support Kim's and the team's recommendation to continue the effort to provide the webinar—given that there are states who are capable of and want to provide data that they can currently report—we have made these adjustments as well:

- Eliminated the live broadcast of the webinar that would have required attendance on a specific date and time (i.e., yesterday);
- Rescheduled the broadcast to a later time (now Wednesday), but will record it so that it can be viewed again at the leisure and convenience of stakeholders;
- Eliminated a Q&A segment of the webinar, and have focused only on the technical information that stakeholders will need to engage the system;
- Continuing review of current requirements and flexibilities that ED can provide, and consideration of delay scenarios and the implications of them; and
- Pointing stakeholders to the Secretary's most recent guidance on flexibilities and to the Partner Support Center (PSC) for help with any additional questions or waiver flexibility they need now.

I have not seen the script entirely, but I have talked with time about it and am satisfied that it is sufficiently technical in nature, and does not set any policy or undermine any of the Secretary's published guidance. I also think that our decision to cut out the Q&A segment of the recorded webinar will help to ensure that our messages remain aligned with hers.

I am sending you the Powerpoint that Kim sent me, with hopes that you can help us get a "go/no go" decision today on whether we can move ahead with launching the webinar tomorrow. Please let me know if you need anything more to support and make a decision.

Thanks,

Mw

Hi Mark,

A quick update. We were able to change the "live" Monday webinar to a recorded presentation. States are still invited to listen in tomorrow 3/25 at 4 pm ET but there will be no Q&A. Also, the recording will be posted on the website for States that aren't able to join.

Issue: the script for the webinar is quite long and much of the information is about the new APR tool. I added a paragraph to the introductory text (below) that acknowledges COVID-19 and hopefully conveys the Department's position on flexibilities for States.

Question for you: Could you, Aimee, or Frank approve the below for today's recording?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

PRAXIS and Teacher Certification

Praxis I (Sometimes called "Praxis Core Academic Skills for Educators") is a general knowledge test that measures basic ability in Mathematics, Reading, and Writing. The content asked is anywhere from a 3rd to 6th grade level. Twenty-Seven states require their teachers receive a passing score on this exam prior to certification. Passing scores are determined by each state (listed below). Generally, the minimum scores are 150 (Math), 156 (Reading), 162 (Writing) – where a 100 is the lowest possible score and a 200 is the highest. A score of 150 should be seen as exactly average, similar to receiving a "C" on a test.

All states that require the Praxis I, also require a number of Praxis Subject Tests to be passed as well. These can focus on pedagogy, curriculum/instruction/assessment, or specific content knowledge (ex. Chemistry).

Some states do not require the Praxis I to be taken and either:

1) Require a test specific to their state be taken and passed with a score the state determines
2) Require the teacher to take only the Praxis Subject Test(s) tied to their specialty
3) A mix of a state specific test and Praxis Subject Tests

Beyond these tests, states will have additional requirements such as earning a bachelor's degree, completing an approved educator preparation program, and passing a background check. Some states have further requirements, for example Wyoming requires demonstrated knowledge of the US and Wyoming constitutions.

Importance: High

Good afternoon – I hope this email finds you all doing well. As shared by DOL Assistant Secretary and USICH Chair Pallasch at our last Council meeting, USICH is beginning the process of updating our strategic plan. The initial phase of that process is stakeholder input in order to help inform the plan update. A part of this work will be a series of (currently) 6 stakeholder input calls, beginning next week.

The first two of these calls are scheduled for Tuesday, June 9. Chrischanne Smith of our staff will be reaching out today via calendar invites for all scheduled calls so that all council member agencies have opportunity, from the outset, to be an active part of this process.

In the interim, please see the attached for the agenda we're using for these stakeholder input calls. Also attached is a document that outlines the purpose, intent, and asks of the stakeholders, as well as useful background information. Lastly, I'm sending all of the stakeholders' bios here, as well. (This list is currently being updated, FYA, to include other, pertinent stakeholder groups.)

I'm here for any questions/concerns. We look forward to your continued partnership throughout the plan update process.

Best Regards,

Hey again, Emily – No worries. Working on finalizing all of that now.

In the meantime, we're going to need to move Arne's June 8 call, to a later date; so we'll be starting on June 9, which gives us all an additional day of prep ☺.

I know you don't do his scheduling, but it'd be great if I could get connected to whoever does so that we can get that June 8 call rescheduled. (He gave me the original dates we worked from; so if I need to, I can reach out to him directly.)

Thanks so much,

Darren

Revising and Strengthening the Federal Strategic Plan to Prevent and End Homelessness, 2020

Stakeholder Input Calls

Purpose and Intent

USICH has been tasked by its current Chair, Department of Labor Assistant Secretary John Pallasch, to update the strategic plan by Fall, 2020. USICH Executive Director Marbut and staff are supporting Chairman Pallasch in this effort.

USICH's statute calls for us to coordinate the Federal response to homelessness as well as create a national partnership at every level of government and with the private sector to end homelessness. In that spirit of partnership, the intent of the calls is to gather stakeholder input to help inform our strategic plan.

Background

The last federal strategic plan, Home Together, was adopted in 2018 and included goals towards ending homelessness among Veterans, people with disabilities, families with children, unaccompanied youth, and homelessness among all other individuals. The plan also included objectives that supported communities in implementing systemic responses to homelessness.

Prior to Home Together, USICH's original strategic plan, Opening Doors, was issued in 2010, and included specific goals towards preventing and/or ending homelessness by population groups including Veterans, chronic, families, youth and children, and all other types of homelessness. Between 2010 and 2018, Opening Doors was amended twice to further strengthen its effectiveness.

Asks

USICH requests and welcomes your input as we begin the process of revising our federal strategic plan.

We ask that you use the following questions to guide your input. Both your written input as well as your participation in stakeholder input calls (see below):

1- If you were to propose one new initiative that the federal government is not doing now what would it be?
2- Outside of prior USICH federal strategic plan focuses, what else might the federal government do to prevent and/or reduce homelessness?
3- What is one activity the federal government is doing that you believe should be deprioritized?
4- What is one activity that the federal government is doing well and that should be prioritized?
5- Overall, what would you say the top 3 federal priorities should be as they relate to preventing and ending homelessness?
6- In terms of homelessness, what areas are in need of greater attention at the federal, state and local levels?
7- Anything else you wish to add?

We ask that you join our stakeholder input calls. USICH staff member, Chrischanne Smith, will be conducting outreach to schedule the calls. The agenda for the calls will be sent separately.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

And, finally, we ask that you respond to the questions above in written form at least one day before the call. You can send your responses directly to darren.g.franklin@usich.gov. In addition to your written responses, you will have time during the calls to provide a summary of your responses. There will also be opportunity after the call for further input via our online portal. Participants will be informed when the portal goes live.

If you have questions or concerns, please contact USICH's Chief Operating Officer, Darren Franklin. His email address is provided above, and his phone number is 202-262-6018.

Thank you for your support of our work to revise and strengthen our strategic plan.

Family and Youth

National Network for Youth mobilizes the collective power and expertise of our national community to influence public policy and strengthen effective responses to youth homelessness. NN4Y has been a public education and policy advocacy organization dedicated to the prevention and eradication of youth homelessness in America for over 40 years.

- Darla Bardine is a public interest attorney serving as Executive Director of the National Network for Youth (NN4Y). She has dedicated her career to young people and families who experience homelessness, poverty, violence and exploitation. Before joining NN4Y, Darla created and launched the Fight Child Exploitation in Tourism Initiative in South Africa and worked to reform foster care in Washington, DC. As a federal policy advocate, she fought to secure assistance for families navigating the complex criminal justice and child welfare systems. During this time, Darla established her reputation as an exceptional leader, policy advocate and grassroots organizer.
- In 2013, Dara helped re-launch and re-structure NN4Y. As Policy Director, she established an unprecedented coalition of homeless youth providers, advocates, experts and young leaders from across the country. She also launched NN4Y's 2013-2015 RHYA Reauthorization Working Group, the National Youth Advisory Council and the National Summit on Youth Homelessness. Since becoming Executive Director in 2014, Darla has continued to expand the width and depth of NN4Y's advocacy agenda. Moreover, she has strengthened the capacity of individuals and organizations to advocate on behalf of young people experiencing homelessness. Ms. Bardine holds a B.S. in Criminal Justice from Pennsylvania State University, an M.A. in Nonprofit Management from the University of Roehampton and a J.D. from Georgetown University Law Center.

SchoolHouse Connection is a national non-profit organization working to overcome homelessness through education. Schoolhouse Connection provides strategic advocacy and practical assistance in partnership with early childhood programs, schools, institutions of higher education, service providers, families, and youth. Schoolhouse Connection believes education is the only permanent solution to homelessness. Schoolhouse Connection's vision is that children and youth experiencing homelessness have full access to quality learning, birth through higher education, so they will never be homeless as adults, and the next generation will never be homeless.

- Barbara Duffield is Executive Director of SchoolHouse Connection. For more than 20 years, she has bridged policy and practice in early care, education, housing, and homelessness. Barbara began her career as a tutor for children experiencing homelessness in Washington DC in 1990. She was the Director of Education for the National Coalition for the Homeless from 1994-2003, where she collaborated with service providers, educators, federal agencies, and Congressional offices to address children's issues. She served as the Director of Policy and Programs at the National Association for the Education of Homeless Children and Youth in Washington D.C from 2003-2016, leading national efforts to strengthen federal protections and services for children and youth experiencing homelessness, from early childhood through higher education. Barbara helped to establish and develop the NAEHCY Scholarship Program, a comprehensive scholarship program for youth who have experienced homelessness and wish to pursue higher education. She has conducted technical assistance trainings, authored policy reports, appeared on television and radio shows, and has been quoted by various media outlets such as The New York Times and Education Week. Her academic work can be found in Educational Studies, Early Childhood Research Quarterly, and Families in Society: The Journal of Contemporary Social Services. Barbara has served on numerous commissions and advisory groups, including Sesame Street Workshop's Trauma Initiative and the National Commission on Children and Disasters education group. She received her Bachelor's degree summa cum laude in Political Science from the University of Michigan.

Family Promise's mission is to help homeless and low-income families achieve sustainable independence through a community-based response. Family Promise coordinated local efforts that bring communities together to help homeless families regain their housing, their independence, and their dignity.

- Claas Ehlers is the Chief Executive Officer of Family Promise, the national nonprofit leader on the issue of family homelessness. Born in New York State, he lived in multiple household settings in his first six years, impressing on him the critical need for stability for children and families. A graduate of New York University, Claas worked in video production, publishing, business development, and advertising while also teaching English as an adjunct professor at two local community colleges. From his work with low-income students, he saw first-hand the struggle of families to change their economic circumstances.
- In 2002, he was able to align his passion for social justice with his career, joining Family Promise to lead a project to diversify the faith groups involved in its programs. In 2003 he accepted the role of Director of Affiliate Development and later Affiliate Services, and in January of 2016 became the second president in the organization's 28-year history. His primary goals are to implement new strategies to empower families, deepen and broaden existing services, and increase the participation of volunteers outside the faith community. Claas frequently presents on the issues of family homelessness and volunteer engagement.
- Outside of work, Claas's interests include running, hiking, the New York Mets, music, and cooking. He lives in Mountainside, NJ with his wife, Ellen Pluta, a professor at Stern School of Business at NYU and has three children: Arabella, Luke, and Colette. He is known around the Family Promise office for his ability to identify any US town of more Quick update regarding notifications today. I didn't reach Tina so I just called people myself. I was able to reach Debbie Little-one of the two women who traveled to Seattle. I called Miriam Lund, the other one, but could only leave her a message to call me. I also called Julie Copeland, another member of that team who had gone on a monitoring visit to New York as well. I will let both Miriam and Julie know about the request to follow the 14-day telework protocol when we connect.

I also called Ruth and Patrick to advise them of the same. The team that Miriam supervises (and that both Debbie and Julie are a part of) is the 21st Century Community Learning Centers, which is a part of OSSA.

I'll confirm with you after I have spoken with everyone to advise them of the situation.

Subject: Catching Up + Potential Detail

Hi Frank,

I hope this email finds you well. I understand our offices are trying to connect us on several fronts. I am hopeful we can connect soon!

I wanted to follow up on an earlier discussion we had about detailing an individual to BIE. As I work with BIE to improve services to our schools and students, capacity continues to be an issue. They are improving their capacity but external expertise is crucial. There seems to be some level of interest in detailing specifically one of your ED OESE staff members, Robert Salley. After talking with my team, he has provided an invaluable program support for BIE over the last several years, and as BIE works to address special education issues and implement their Standards, Assessment, and Accountability System (SAAS) and Agency Plan, his expertise and support could ensure BIE is successful. Is this something you would be willing to consider?

If I had my way, a year-long detail would be ideal, but I am open to what ED can sustain- fully understanding that you have capacity issues of your own.

I have made sure that BIE is prepared to provide the funds for a lateral transfer for Mr. Salley and that space is available to him at Main Interior. From my understanding, this would be in line with similar formal details under prior administrations.

I see this as a joint win for ED and DOI as BIE rolls out its SAAS and goes to public consultation on their agency plan. We could even make a public announcement of this partnership. Mr. Salley's unique understanding of BIE helps us all get one step closer to improving Indian education. If due to circumstances Mr. Salley is unavailable, I welcome further recommendations.

Looking forward to your thoughts and consideration.

All the best,

Thank you for your interest in the Education Stabilization Fund-Rethink K-12 Education Models (ESF-REM) Discretionary Grant Program. Please note that State Educational Agencies (SEAs) are the only eligible entities that can apply for ESF-REM grant funds. SEAs are defined as the agency primarily responsible for the State supervision of public elementary or secondary schools.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

You are correct that the NIA for the ESF-REM program prohibits awarding subgrants to entities to directly carry out project activities described in its application. In all cases in which the eligible applicant proposes to pay another party for goods and services to carry out its grant, as opposed to delivering the goods and services itself, the applicant must describe how they propose to procure the goods and services needed to implement proposed project activities. Procurement transactions made with ESF-REM grant funds must be conducted in a manner providing full and open competition, consistent with their state procurement procedures standards in 2 CFR sections 200.317-326 which requires that grantees use their own procurement procedures to select contractors, provided that those procedures meet certain standards.

Because grantees must use appropriate procurement procedures to select contractors, applicants should generally not include information in their grant applications about specific contractors that may be used to provide goods or services for the proposed project if a grant is awarded. Instead, applicants should describe qualities and requirements needed from a service provider to carry out activities as proposed in the grant, but not name a specific contractor or vendor.

Hello-

We have been reviewing the NIA for the ESF-REM grant.

Can you clarify the definition of grantee for this grant for us? Is the SEA the grantee?

Per the NIA, it says:
3. Subgrantees: A grantee under this competition may not award subgrants to entities to directly carry out project activities described in its application.

We are trying to understand if CDE were to receive the grant, if we could award grants to other entities to carry out the project activities.

If it is easier to talk through this, please feel free to call me at 720-245-7896.

Thanks,

Chris,

I just wanted to let you know that as a sign of concern for employees, I held a brief meeting with staff to hear their concerns about the recent news from OCFO regarding a contracted employee in UCP and other virus-related events. Below is a highlight of our discussion. I am just sharing them with you for awareness (in no particular order).

- The possibility of parking passes available so that staff could avoid the metro.
- More ideas about social distancing while we are at work: encouraging staff, even on site, to attend meetings virtually.
- Remind people to put Skype links on all meetings.
- One asked about using FMLA for sickness or for taking care of a sick person and I said FMLA was something they could always request under the appropriate conditions, virus illness or not.
- Someone wanted to know if we could order face mask; other said it wasn't necessary or it would be keeping them form people who really need them.
- Should the take their GFE home regularly to be prepared for a sudden required telework day—I told them that was always something they could do.

Thanks,
Tara

Dr. Zais,

Here is the report for last week. A couple of things to note:

- Prior to this week, we were instructed to send all of FSA and OPE inquiries to OPE. Last week, working with OPE, our team was given guidance which inquiries should be sent directly to FSA.

- The period ending Friday, April 3, was before the new round of waiver guidance for ESEA went out. There are questions that will be inherently closed because of that guidance, but not reflected in this report.

- The information in the table is based on data submitted to the COVID-19 team by each POC.

Let us know if you have any questions.

Best, Paul

- Patrick Rooney is returning to his role as director of the School Support and Accountability (SSA) division. I want to thank Patrick for his admirable service in his dual role since early this year, and am excited for him to focus exclusively on the ESEA Title programs that are of critical importance.
- Venitia Richardson is the new director of the Effective Educator Development (EED) division. The School Ambassador Fellows program and the Teach to Lead program will also be relocated to EED, which will bring together all of our educator support and engagement activities into one place under Venitia's leadership.
- David Cantrell and the Program & Grantee Support Services division (PGSS) is now part of the Office of Formula Grants, which will more closely align our TA center contract and other TA efforts with many of the most frequent TA users.
- Anna Hinton is also serving as acting Director for School Choice and Improvement Programs division until Norris Dickard returns from detail. Jennifer Todd is serving as acting group leader for magnet school programs until the group leader returns from leave.
- Lastly, the Office of Discretionary Grants and Support Services (ODGSS) is now called the Office of Innovative Grant Programs (IGP). This new name pays homage to many of these grants originating in the former Office of Innovation & Improvement and more accurately represents the nature of these programs: advancing innovative practices in the field to improve student outcomes.

Please let me know if you have any questions. Thank you for all that you do each and every day.

Here's the reason:

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Cassidy has frequently cited this 2015 report called "Evaluation of Response to Intervention Practices for Elementary School Reading," and highlights its finding that the study "demonstrated the weaknesses and shortcomings of RtI, going as far as to say 'for those students just below the school-determined eligibility cut point in Grade 1, assignment to receive reading interventions did not improve reading outcomes; it produced negative impacts." This conclusion aligns with Cassidy's own feelings on RtI. With that in mind, Gen. Zais is reaching out to Mark Schneider to join us in the pre-meet.

Note that the way I see this playing out when we have the in-person meeting with Cassidy is that he will raise the report in support of his stance, and we just need a talking point to response to him. I would not recommend we have Mark Schneider attend the in person meeting with Cassidy.

Let me know if you have questions. thanks

2. The Notice of Intent to Award (NIA) a grant for a Model Demonstration Project for Early Identification of Students with Dyslexia in Elementary School which the Senator described as "deeply flawed," lacking "objective criteria," and "ultimately [rather than] comparing apples to apples, … compares apples to oranges to bananas."

<Letter to Secretary DeVos - Dyslexia Demo Project - Nov. 21.pdf>

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The Demonstration Project is deeply flawed. I expressed my concerns with the NIA to former Assistant Secretary Collett on a phone call, then in two letters dated July 22 and July 31. I emphasized that the NIA did not properly define dyslexia (and if NCIL was to be the standard, their definition is outdated), instructed grantees to screen numerous times for being at risk of dyslexia (screening only needs to be done once if the screening tool is psychometrically valid), did not require the diagnosis to be confirmed (which would differentiate the dyslexic from the non-dyslexic struggling reader), included progress monitoring (which is not part of screening, implies the use of a response to intervention (RTI) curriculum which ED has previously determined to be harmful to a student's educational achievement[1], and lacks objective criteria as to what constitutes progress), and lacked the confirmation of a diagnosis (inherent in screening is confirming a diagnosis with more specific follow up testing).

Since the intent was to screen for dyslexia so as to compare the prevalence of dyslexia in four different geographic regions, the NIA should have included a standard definition of dyslexia using the latest science and a standard, evidenced based screener using proven psychometrics shown to be efficient, low cost and user friendly for teachers. Standardization would have allowed uniform presentation of data for ED to analyze.

Instead, the NIA allows each site to use their own screener, with no standardization. It also incorporates progress monitoring, which is not part of screening and has nothing to do with prevalence. So, instead of using a standard definition and following criteria similar to that which is laid out above, ultimately comparing apples to apples, the Demonstration Project compares apples to oranges to bananas.

As I have continued to ask myself, how could this have been so mis-handled, possible explanations arose. I am aware that this project is handled by specific ED staff who have relationships with consultants. I am concerned that ED staff were influenced by the NCIL or NCIL's faculty in drafting the NIA despite the NCIL's demonstrated incompetence with the "Screening for Dyslexia" paper.

Looking at the resume of Jack Fletcher, one of the co-authors of "Screening for Dyslexia," reveals that he is also a consultant to the Department of Education on dyslexia and a University of Houston (UH) faculty colleague of a Model Demonstration Project awardee. While I understand that Dr. Fletcher is not the Project Director for UH's Demonstration Project, his research includes educational interventions for children with learning disabilities and has previously published with the UH Project Director. It is reasonable to assume he and the awardee communicate regularly on these issues.

This leads to several questions:

[1] [1]Rekha Balu, et al., Evaluation of Response to Intervention Practices for Elementary School Reading (National Center for Education Evaluation and Regional Assistance, 2015), 17. https://ies.ed.gov/ncee/pubs/20164000/pdf/20164000.pdf.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Regarding the overall project, what is ED's goal for the Demonstration Project? How does ED envision reconciling the lack of standards with their final project analysis?

- Did the NCIL and/or their contributors have any involvement with ED staff in drafting, reviewing or any other stage of the preparation and awarding of the NIA for the Demonstration Project?

- If NCIL was involved in consulting or drafting the NIA, did anyone affiliated with the NCIL, either directly or indirectly, have advanced notice of any specific criteria for the Demonstration Project, including submission dates of applications? If so, were they instructed to treat the information as embargoed or, in other words, instructed to not share with others?

- Were any reviewers of applications for the Demonstration Project affiliated with successful applicants, either as current or former coauthors, faculty, or professional colleagues?

- Specifically regarding Dr. Fletcher, did he have any involvement with staff at ED, either in consulting or in drafting the NIA and in any other role regarding the Demonstration Project?

- Did Dr. Fletcher help in the decision making process at ED to decide that NCIL would be the original recipient of the NCIL grant?

- Does Dr. Fletcher have a current working relationship with career or political staff at ED?

- Can Dr. Fletcher assure ED that he did not have prior knowledge of the NIA? If he did, can he assure ED that he did not inform his University of Houston colleague in advance that the NIA was being released before others or the general public would know?

It is critical that grant applications awarded by the Federal government are reviewed by an impartial, non-biased set of reviewers and that all applicants have equal and fair access to simultaneous information. It is an unfair advantage if an applicant has advance notice of a grant opportunity.

Madam Secretary, thank you for looking into this matter and for engaging on the importance of identifying students with dyslexia at an early age. Please do not hesitate to contact with questions regarding the above. I look forward to your reply.

Respectfully,

(b)(6)

Aimee, the call was with Jilian Balow, WY State Supt of Schools, and President of CCSSO. Gen. Zais' purpose was to establish a direct line of communication between the organization and himself. The call lasted about 15 minutes. Topics discussed:

- Most states are having conversations with districts and stakeholder groups, just to keep in contact, particularly teacher, auxiliary, and professional personnel groups
- CCSSO is advocating that districts be in close contact with their state and local health departments to guide them
- CCSSO is willing to be our partner both in sharing information and being a thought partner
- Especially as assessment season is coming, the guidance as to flexibilities and waivers is very important
- It would be helpful to them to have that guidance this week. There is a call on Thursday with CCSSO membership and Gen Zais.

UPDATED: Education Department releases new details on coronavirus task force

By Nicole Gaudiano

02/28/2020 04:09 PM EST

The Department of Education Friday afternoon released new details on its coronavirus task force members after rolling out a web page with guidance for schools on the disease.

Frank Brogan, the assistant secretary for elementary and secondary education, is leading the K-12 response, and Bob King, the assistant secretary for postsecondary education, is leading the higher education response, including Federal Student Aid, Liz Hill, a department spokesperson, wrote in an email.

Secretary Betsy DeVos announced at a congressional hearing Thursday that she set up the task force, led by her top deputy, Mick Zais, to coordinate the department's response to the disease.

"Every principal office will report up through this structure," Hill wrote.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Along with leading the department's working group, Zais is also the department's liaison for the interagency coronavirus task force, Hill wrote.

The web page, www.ed.gov/coronavirus, which went live at 4 p.m., has the latest guidance from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention for administrators of child care programs and K-12 schools. It will also include any guidance to the field from the Education Department, if needed, Hill wrote.

The page is also accessible from the department's homepage under "Coronavirus information."

On Friday, Mick Mulvaney, the acting White House chief of staff, warned of potential school shutdowns during the Conservative Political Action Conference.

"Are you going to see some schools shut down? Probably. May you see impacts on public transportation? Sure. But we do this. We know how to handle this," Mulvaney said.

Federal public health officials have urged schools to brace for more cases of the virus in the U.S. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention has recommended that schools across the country develop contingency plans for school dismissals and closures, as well as the continuation of classes online.

President Donald Trump said during a news conference on Wednesday that "schools should be preparing and get ready, just in case."

Hi Secretary Brogan -
Wanted to share the below quotes with you from Governor DeSantis, Commissioner Corcoran, and Chair Tuck for the announcement tomorrow. Let me know if there's anything else we can be helpful with!
Thank you,
Taryn
"Improving the quality and effectiveness of education for Florida's students is a priority of my administration and I am pleased that President Donald J. Trump and U.S. Department of Education Secretary Betsy DeVos are supportive of our efforts," said Governor Ron DeSantis. "Every state has unique needs and challenges and Florida is well equipped to determine the best use of education resources that will lead to the ultimate goal of increased student outcomes."
"President Trump and Secretary DeVos have repeatedly made a strong commitment to spending taxpayer dollars wisely by consolidating duplicative federal programs that are better implemented at the state and local level. They truly understand that each student is unique, and have empowered the nation, and Florida, to make great decisions that best serve individual students' needs. This plan puts students first and returns the freedom and power of a quality education to where it belongs: with families throughout our nation," said Chairman of the Florida State Board of Education, Andy Tuck.

"President Trump and Secretary DeVos have truly made educational freedom the foundation of education throughout our nation, and have empowered states to make decisions that best serve students. Receiving a great education creates life-long learners, and develops all students to have strong character. All students throughout the nation deserve the chance to receive a world-class education, be successful, and be civically engaged members of society, and I am proud to support this plan. This powerful collaboration with states enables educational opportunities to be placed back in the hands of states, local districts, and most importantly parents, the people that know their children the best," said Florida Commissioner of Education, Richard Corcoran.

Subject: Great Job! Onward to Pennsylvania- again!

Team,

I just wanted to drop you a quick note recapping how we got to where we are presently on extended travel to Pennsylvania today.

1. Ryan identified two OESE grant receiving charter school recipients in Pennsylvania
2. Kendyl researched the schools and set up school visits
3. Kendyl and Mike provided strategic staff support during today's visits
4. Our Principal Deputy Assistant Secretary was on point and knocked the visits out of the park!!!

So you might be thinking… thanks for the recap, where are we planning travel to next???

I wanted to update you on what occurred as an extension of above. Mid-morning today, press outlets were reporting that the 'National School Choice Celebration Rally' scheduled for THIS Tuesday in Allentown, Pennsylvania at Executive Education Academy Charter School had over 1,500 confirmed student, parent, education leader and related stakeholder RSVPs. Our boss decided that she wanted to get Assistant Secretary Frank Brogan to this rally (note it's this Tuesday!!) and I began a Friday afternoon effort of trying to see if there was any possible way that our Assistant Secretary could be recognized for being in attendance at the event.

Well… the response that I got was immediate. They said if our Assistant Secretary was anywhere close to as fantastic as Aimee was today in Pennsylvania, then they would amend their agenda to extend Frank the opportunity to be the keynote speaker and he will be the only government official permitted the opportunity to speak!!! So that leaves Jack here tonight finalizing briefing papers to make this happen and happy to do it! This opportunity, at this significant of a level may not have been extended to Frank to support the Secretary's top legislative priority, if we had not made such a successful school tour happen today in Pennsylvania with Aimee at the helm. How things come full circle!

Great work all around!! Really proud to serve on this team, keep up the fantastic work!

Sincerely,

Susan Falconer

Our office is looking to see what ED has info on what happens to before school programs with breakfast, school lunch, and after school programs with dinner if schools are forced to shut down because of the coronavirus? Is there any guidance or planned financial assistance to come from ED in these instances? I believe Senator Murray mentioned Washington schools closing because of the recent outbreaks. Has there been anything done in this capacity already?

How to talk to K-12 students about coronavirus

By Nicole Gaudiano

03/03/2020 05:20 PM EST

School psychologists are worried about coronavirus anxiety among kids in K-12 schools.

"It's a stressor, and how individuals perceive it is really kind of unique," said Stephen E. Brock, professor and school psychology program coordinator at California State University, Sacramento. "We're prepared for it to have an effect on students."

The National Association of School Psychologists is offering guidance to school mental health professionals, administrators, school crisis response teams and parents on how to help staff and students cope with the virus, called COVID-19.

Brock, a past president of NASP who wrote some of the guidance, said educators and psychologists can expect questions, and how they respond should depend on the developmental level of the students. In an interview with POLITICO, he offered some advice on how to talk with students about coronavirus.

This transcript has been edited for length and clarity.

What type of impact are you seeing on kids?

What is being reported to us is consistent with kids asking questions and being somewhat anxious, nervous, worried about the extent to which this could affect them. It's too soon to be really specific regarding the extent to which this is impacting students. Young children are going to be more likely impacted and affected by adult reactions. Older students, conversely, are going to be in a position to more accurately gauge independently the threat presented by COVID-19.

How should school administrators, teachers and psychologists talk to students about this virus? Should they talk about it at all?

It's going to vary depending upon developmental level. I would suggest that especially for the younger kids, we want their questions to be our guide. So beyond making sure my younger kids are engaging in behaviors that are going to keep them healthy and safe, I'm not going to give them a lot of unasked-for information about things like mortality statistics. ... The other thing that I'll be careful about with younger kids is screening media. There is an appropriate degree of attention to this being given by the media, but younger children may not be able to accurately interpret that.

What about for middle and high school students?

For older kids, actually, I like to make available well-crafted media reports to help them understand the objective threat that's being presented to them.

What if students start asking more detailed questions?

The answer that I'm going to give for 'What is COVID-19?' is going to be different for a second-grader than it is going to be for a high school science class. In high school science class, we're probably going to talk about viruses. Maybe a good teacher might even use this as a teachable moment, work it into the curriculum. For the younger child, it's more like, 'Yeah, there's this flu that's going around, and it's a new flu, so we're kind of worried about it. Do you have any questions about the new flu?'

Are there any concerns about this virus creating stigmas in a school setting?

We have seen that kind of thing in the past where people try to find someone or something to blame. Sometimes that is associated with behaviors that could be labeled bullying. And we do our best to try to mitigate that because it's just not helpful. For the kid that's bullied, now they're stressed about being sick and they're being bullied on top of it. For the bully, it's just not an adaptive behavior.

Brock provided some questions he expects from young children and how he would

respond:

Question: Will I get sick?

Answer: We don't know. I can't promise you that you will not get sick, but there are some very important things you can do to help keep yourself and others healthy [and then list guidance offered by the CDC].

Question: What will happen if I get sick?

Answer: When people get this virus they will have a temperature, a cough, and it might be difficult for them to catch their breath. Very few children are getting sick, but when they do, parents, doctors and other adults are able to help them feel better [CDC].

Statement: I am scared of coronavirus!

Response: During cold and flu season people do get sick, and sometimes so sick they need to see a doctor. It is a very good idea to do what we can to stay healthy. In our community … [and then offer any specific guidance from local health officials regarding whether or not a given community is at risk]. Here are things you can to do to keep from getting sick [and then list guidance offered by the CDC].

Question: Why is everyone talking so much about coronavirus?

Answer: Because it is new and for some people who are very old and not in good health it might cause them to see a doctor and go to the hospital.

Question: Will I die?

Answer: So far very few children are getting sick, and no young children have died. [If you are talking to a child 9 years of age or younger you could say: "So far no child your age has died." I have been referring to World Meter and JAMA].

Administrative Actions, Waivers, and Other Programmatic Changes that Impact Agency Provision of Service or Mission Delivery (Externally Facing)

- K-12 Guidance (Office of Elementary and Secondary Education). On March 12, the Department posted to its Coronavirus website and distributed to stakeholders a Fact Sheet on testing and other accountability flexibilities available to States and school districts under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA).

  During the week of March 16, the Department expects to finalize, clear, post, and distribute a detailed Question and Answer document titled "Non-Regulatory Guidance on Flexibility and Waivers for Grantees and Program Participants." The scope covers multiple programs in the Department.

  During the week of March 23 or March 30, the Department expects to finalize, clear, post, and distribute Continuity of Learning Guidance under elementary and secondary education programs.

- Disabilities Guidance (Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services). On March 12, the Department posted to its Coronavirus website and distributed to stakeholders, Frequently Asked Questions Guidance on Providing Services to Children With Disabilities During the Coronavirus Outbreak.

- Office for Civil Rights Guidance. Early in the week of March 16, the Department expects to post to its Coronavirus website a Fact Sheet "Addressing the Risk of COVID-19 in Schools While Protecting the Civil Rights of Students," as well as a webinar video on the same topic. Both will be distributed to education stakeholders.

- Higher Education (Office of Postsecondary Education and Federal Student Aid) Guidance. Early during the week of March 16, the Department expects to receive final clearance from OMB of draft guidance titled "Information for Accrediting Agencies Regarding Temporary Flexibilities Provided to Coronavirus-Impacted Institutions or Accrediting Agencies." This will be posted to the Department's Coronavirus website and distributed to institutions of higher education and other stakeholders.

Guidance, Communication and Outreach with Stakeholders

- See Guidance referenced above.

- Conference Call with Chief State School Officers. - National Association of State Boards of Education and National School Boards Association. During the week of March 16, the Department intends to host additional multi-agency conference calls with the National Association of State Boards of Education and National School Boards Association.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Actions That Affect Federal Facilities and Personnel

- Communication to all Department Employees: On March 11, Deputy Secretary Mick Zais communicated via email to all employees the actions the Department had taken to help ensure the health and wellness of staff. The notice advised of coordination with the Office of Management and Budget and other partner agencies, the refinement of principal office Business Continuity Plans, guidance of the Office of Personnel Management and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, the need to be telework ready, and business travel.

  On March 13, the Deputy Secretary provided updated telework guidance based on the most recent OMB guidance. The update focused on telework for older adults, those with chronic underlying health conditions, CDC-identified special populations, those affected by school closings and mass transportation changes, and further advised of the importance of performance management and record keeping.

- Travel Communication to all Department Employees on March 16. The Deputy Secretary will communicate the latest employee travel guidance from OMB on March 16 as well as any additional forthcoming guidance from OMB on telework.

Other Notable Responses

- Student Loan Interest Waiver. In accord with President Trump's announcement of the waiver of interest on student loans, the Office of Federal Student Aid convened a team of internal subject matter experts as well as representatives of each of FSA's servicing platforms to determine how to best effect this change.

  The new policy will affect 40.8 million borrowers with Department-managed loans.

  While the term "waiving interest" implies that interest accrues and then is forgiven, the most effective way to achieve the stated objective is to reset borrower interest rates to zero, as opposed to assessing interest or allowing interest to accrue, and then forgive it.

  While interest will be eliminated effective March 13, 2020 until further notice, borrower payments will not be reduced. Rather, the entirety of borrowers' monthly payments will be applied to principal once any outstanding interest has been satisfied.

  On Friday evening, March 13, the FSA team drafted requirements to present to the loan servicers. FSA is also working on scheduling a conference call with all servicers on March 16 to discuss the plan and respond to any questions.

  FSA expects to finalize the technical requirements on March 16 and issue formal guidance to loan servicers early in the week to make changes to all Department-held loans, regardless of status (e.g. in-school, grace, repayment, default, etc.), program (Direct Loans, Federal Family Education Loans, Perkins Loans), or repayment plan, retroactive to March 13.

Jordan Harding (OLCA) is trying to get the attached Congressional response up to the Hill before the Secretary's budget hearing on Thursday. The matter relates to mental health for Latina girls. Kent Talbert believes you should be a signer on the letter, along with HHS Secretary Azar. Kent made a couple of additional edits which we will accept, and both Jordan and OGC attorneys have reviewed and approved. If you agree, would you please approve for our use of the autopen on your behalf?

The Honorable Betsy DeVos
Secretary
U.S. Department of Education
400 Maryland Avenue, SW
Washington D.C. 20202

Dear Secretary Bernhardt and Secretary DeVos:

I am writing on behalf of the Gila River Indian Community to urge the prompt disbursement of the relief funding for Bureau of Indian Education (BIE) and Tribally-Controlled Schools contained in the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act which was enacted on March 27, 2020.

The CARES Act contained two significant provisions related to funding for BIE and tribally-controlled schools. First is $69 million to BIE schools and Tribal Colleges and Universities (TCUs) of which $46 million is designated to BIE schools to address the costs of closing schools, to ensure both students and teachers have the curriculum and equipment necessary for distance learning, and for other COVID-19 related expenses.

The second funding specific to BIE schools is through the Education Stabilization Fund at the Department of Education which contained $153.7 million for BIE-funded programs and TCUs. This funding is to be used for COVID-related needs such as: purchasing education technology hardware, software, and connectivity; prevention and response efforts related to COVID; providing mental health services and services specific to the unique needs of minorities and low-income children; planning summer learning and online learning during summer months; and cleaning and sanitizing school facilities.

The Gila River Indian Community has three BIE/Tribally-Controlled Schools: the Blackwater Community School, the Gila Crossing Community School, and the Casa Blanca Community School. The total student count of these three schools is 1,170.

The CARES Act was passed over two months ago, and to date, the BIE-specific funding has not been allocated to any of the BIE schools. This means that funding intended to assist our students and teachers with distance learning for the past two months of the school year was not allocated. With only 30% of our students able to access online programming, this funding is critical.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Summer school is starting this week but the Community has not received the CARES Act funding that is intended to assist with summer programming and technology needs. And, if funding is not disbursed immediately, our BIE schools will not have time to order and install the safety equipment needed to operate in a safe manner this Fall in the event of reopening, and will be ill-prepared should there be another outbreak of the coronavirus during the school year. These are just some of the immediate and critical needs our BIE schools have for this funding. I am certain the same is true for BIE schools across Indian Country.

The Community is appreciative that funding has been designated to ensure our BIE students have what they need to continue their education given the unprecedented circumstances related to COVID-19. However, because of delayed funding, we have missed opportunities to ensure our students, teachers and administrations have what they need to make sure every child is still receiving a quality education and to prepare for their return to school in a way that safeguards their health and safety.

With this letter, I am requesting the immediate disbursement of the funding from the Department of the Interior and the Department of Education that is intended for our BIE students. This pandemic has already been difficult for our students and their families. They should not also have to worry about falling behind and not receiving the educational support they need during this pandemic.

I am happy to discuss this with you further and answer any questions you may have.

Sincerely,

(b)(6)

Dear Assistant Secretary Blew, Assistant Secretary Brogan, and Director Dowling:

This week, President Trump released his proposed fiscal year 2021 budget for the Department of Education. We appreciate the inclusion of funding for Education Freedom Scholarships in the budget and look forward to continuing to work with you to expand educational opportunities for all Americans. However, we have questions about, and some concerns over, the Administration's proposal to consolidate federal K-12 programs into block grants to the states. A group of legislative directors from CAPE member organizations would like to request a meeting with the three of you to discuss the implications of these proposed changes.

In particular, we are eager to learn more about what this significant change would mean for private school participation in federal education programs. It did not escape the attention of private school leaders who watched the February 10 budget briefing that no mention appeared to be made of protecting equitable services for private schools and their students. Equitable services are a matter of core concern for CAPE's member organizations (listed to the left on this page). We are also interested in learning what this proposal would mean for the long-awaited Title VIII guidance that private school officials hope is forthcoming.

We would be grateful if you would be willing to meet with us for a conversation about the proposed changes. I have included the names of the individuals who would be part of our delegation on the next page. Thank you very much for your consideration of this request.

Sincerely,

Betsy DeVos,

I am deeply disappointed by Secretary DeVos's recent statement that she "may consider" testing waivers to areas hard hit by COVID 19. More than half of all states and nearly all large cities have shut down their schools, in some cases, for an indefinite period of time.

The last thing our students and teachers need is to worry about the stress of high-stakes tests.

I ask that the Secretary grant a blanket waiver to allow states to be exempt from all testing requirements.

Students' health and safety come first. Shut down the tests.

Hi Frank,

I and Phil Rosenfelt have reviewed the new draft waiver template and draft cover letter to Chiefs and they both generally look good.

Given the new governance structure that was put together for implementation of the CARES Act late last week, and given the waivers are based on the CARES Act, have you had a chance to run the template and letter through the new governance and signoff process?

Thanks.

I will ask James to set up.

Congress of the United States
Washington, DC 20515

June 5, 2020

The Honorable Betsy DeVos
Secretary of Education
U.S. Department of Education
400 Maryland Avenue, SW
Washington, D.C. 20202

Dear Secretary DeVos,

We write with urgent concern regarding the Department of Education's misallocation of funds from the Elementary and Secondary School Emergency Relief (ESSER) Fund and the Higher Education Emergency Relief (HEER) Fund. Congress created these funds through the CARES Act to help our nation's hardworking students and teachers survive the COVID-19 pandemic, not to support your personal political agenda. The Department of Education must stop misappropriating these funds.

The CARES Act directs the Department of Education to distribute the $13 billion ESSER Fund to state and local educational agencies (LEAs) based on their Title I, Part A allocation under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA). Title I, Part A of the ESEA funding is primarily based on the number and concentration of low-income students within the LEA attendance area. Section 18005(a) of the CARES Act directs LEAs to provide equitable services in the same manner as Section 1117 of the ESEA, which clearly requires LEAs to serve private school students based on the number of low-income students who reside in the school attendance area of Title I-A participating public schools in the LEA.

In violation of the CARES Act and the intent of Congress, the Department of Education published guidance and intends to publish a rule directing LEAs to calculate equitable services based on the total enrollment in private schools, regardless of income.[1] The Department of Education justified this illegal guidance by arguing that "if school districts were to count only poor students, 'they would be placing nonpublic school students and teachers at a disadvantage that Congress did not intend'" because the CARES Act allows schools to use these funds in ways that do not exclusively benefit low-income students.[2] It is not uncommon for the requirements that govern the allocation of funds to differ from the requirements that govern the use of funds. In fact, 95 percent of students who receive Title I-A services, funding that is allocated based on low-income student population, receive them through schoolwide Title I-A programs that serve to improve the academic achievement of all students in the school.[3] This means that although all students can benefit from schoolwide Title I-A programs, it does not change the fact that the school receives their Title I-A allocation based on the number of low-income students enrolled.

Allocating funds from the ESSER Fund according to total enrollment of private schools will disproportionately harm low-income, Black, and Latino students. Pennsylvania Education Secretary Pedro Rivera contends that the guidance would lead to "clearly inequitable" outcomes in which 53 percent more funds would flow from the "most disadvantaged to more advantaged students" in diverse urban districts such as Philadelphia while 932 percent more funds would flow towards more advantaged students in white rural communities such as Northeast Bradford.[4] It is ironic but not surprising that a guidance meant to ensure no student is "disadvantaged" takes money from the most disadvantaged students. Not even a pandemic can stop this Administration's unrelenting crusade to take funding and support away from low-income and communities of color.

The CARES Act directs the Department of Education to allocate 2.5 percent of the HEER Fund, approximately $350 million, to institutions of higher education (IHEs) with the "greatest unmet needs related to coronavirus." Section 18004(d) of the CARES Act also directs the Department to give priority to institutions that have not received at least $500,000 from other provisions of the CARES Act and have "significant unmet needs."

In another blatant violation of the CARES Act, the Department of Education is using these funds to ensure every institution receives at least $500,000 in funding, regardless of need. The Department has given IHEs until August 1, 2020 to apply for these funds, after which remaining funds will be reallocated through a competitive grant process. This need-blind allocation strategy gives small institutions absurdly high per capita funding while forcing struggling institutions to fight for scraps. With 12 students, Montessori Casa International is eligible to receive $41,000 in CARES Act funding per student.[5] With more than 20,000 students and located in a COVID-19 hotspot, Delgado Community College is eligible to receive about $550 in CARES Act funding per student.[6] The Department's haphazard distribution method has left schools that do not need government assistance flush with cash while other institutions struggle to scrape by. Instead of following the letter of the law, your department has created a convoluted funding process that forces hard hit IHEs to wait until August to apply for funds that Congress approved in March.

Our schools are in crisis; the costs of responding to the COVID-19 pandemic are skyrocketing and state revenue and public education funding will likely plummet.[7] Breaking the law and giving wealthy private schools and IHEs federal funding they do not need will not save the

Agency Reporting – Response to COVID-19

INSTRUCTIONS:

To facilitate coordination and communication with the President's Coronavirus Task Force, agencies are asked to provide daily updates on policy actions and other steps in response to the COVID-19 virus. OMB is collecting this information on behalf of the Task Force.

Note that this data collection is not intended to be redundant with information that is being exchanged daily among the lead response agencies and the Task Force. Rather, it should capture agency actions not directly related to the immediate health response, but are related to broader impacts that coronavirus may be having on the agency's internal and external stakeholders. For example, agencies should highlight upcoming program announcements, waivers to certain program requirements or other policy changes, and other significant actions affecting their programs. Similarly, agencies should highlight planned guidance to stakeholders on major changes to how Federal programs outside of the public health sphere will operate, and significant actions affecting the agency's facilities and workforce (i.e., invoking agency COOP plans, closing facilities).

Please complete the attached template each day, and share it with your OMB representative in the Resource Management Offices (RMOs) by no later than 1PM. PMC agencies should also upload this information to the PMC MAX site. Please provide more regular updates when necessary, on other major actions identified throughout the week. OMB will then share this information with the Task Force and White House offices, as appropriate, and follow up with next steps if necessary.

For each item, provide no more than five sentences describing the planned agency response, the anticipated date of any public release, and the policy official lead (provide attachments, website links and other supplemental materials as appropriate). When applicable, please also indicate when the agency plans to share information with OMB and the White House for vetting or policy consideration, or if there are areas where the agency seeks specific guidance.

Good afternoon, PREVENTS Stakeholders,

I am pleased to announce that the PREVENTS Roadmap will be launched by President Trump tomorrow, June 17. If you would like to watch the launch event live, you can watch it here or via Facebook Live. As you know, the Roadmap is the culmination of a year-long collaboration with over 150 public and private stakeholders. I am extremely proud of what has been accomplished thus far and grateful for your contributions to this first of its kind, all-of-nation approach to prevent suicide.

Following the launch by the President, the Roadmap will be available for your review on our recently updated PREVENTS website: www.va.gov/PREVENTS. We will also post the Supplemental Materials for the Roadmap, a companion document that provides additional information about specific elements of the Roadmap as well a description of the process that we followed during this effort.

I am also excited to announce that we will host PREVENTS Week beginning July 6 which will feature a number of events focused on some of our key areas of focus as we begin to engage America in this work. Please stay tuned for the announcement of specific events. I look forward to your participation and engagement.

Again, thank you for contributing to this critical effort. I look forward to your continued partnership.

Our work together has just begun.

Secretary Betsy DeVos
U.S. Department of Education

Washington, DC

Dear Secretary DeVos,

I am writing to bring to your attention an outstanding educator from Iowa who is applying for the Department's School Ambassador Fellowship, Part-Time Campus position.

I got to know Amy Whittington through her participation in our Educator Advisory Board, on which she has served for two years. She currently serves as Principal of two elementary schools in one of the most rural districts in Iowa, the Central Decatur Community School District. I am recommending Amy based on the strength of her instructional leadership skills, her ability to improve teaching and learning in her schools, and her ability to effectively analyze and communicate how issues of practice are impacted by policy decisions. I believe she would be a highly effective School Ambassador Fellow.

Central Decatur was an early participant in the Teacher Incentive Fund grant program, working in partnership with my organization on a TIF STEM grant awarded in 2012. Amy's leadership was a key factor in enabling her district to transform teaching and learning through the grant. She was skilled in building school leadership teams that included instructionally focused teacher leadership roles. Her use of teacher leaders as part of school leadership teams improved classroom instruction and increase student learning. The changes supported by the grant were fully embedded in schools, and continue to drive improvement.

The work to build more effective leadership teams and train teacher leaders as a key lever for change in Central Decatur played an important role in informing the development of Governor Branstad's Teacher Leadership and Compensation System. The TLC System provides districts across the state with funding for teacher leadership roles.

Amy's ability and willingness to reflect on, and to share, her learning led us to feature her work in our publication Unleashing Teacher Leadership: How Formal Teacher Leader Roles Can Improve Instruction. NIET selected Amy to participate in the recent National Summit on School Leadership hosted by the U.S. Department of Education where she engaged with other participants on her work to address adverse childhood experiences and trauma in her high need, rural district.

I believe Amy is a strong candidate for the School Ambassador Fellowship and would make a valuable contribution to the work of the Department of Education. Thank you for your consideration of her application.

Sincerely,

(b)(6)

Candice McQueen

The waivers doc is cleared and you can do that one first. It is technically a report to Congress, so the press release should be timed to coincide with its submission or soon after. Look to Kent or Hilary for the final doc. It probably only needs to be posted to our Coronavirus site.
The discretionary grants roll-out should be good for 2 pm or later. OMB promised passback by 11, and were not expecting many issues, if any.

I know we're crunching down to the wire with OMB on the two items that we want to rollout tomorrow, but I wanted to go ahead and try to get a sense of timing for the rollout and try to capture all of the moving parts.

Jim/Kent—do we have everything we need from OMB in order to rollout both the waivers to Congress and the discretionary grant announcement? If so, in what order should we rollout these out? Waivers first then discretionary grants?

Jordan—how much time do you want for Congressional notifications for each? 30 mins? An hour?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Daniela—which rollout involves a stakeholder call? Just the discretionary grants rollout? If so, what time is that scheduled for and is the Secretary participating?

Frank/Chris and Diane/Scott—who in your POCS will be posting the necessary documents for the discretionary grants announcements and who will be in charge of sending them to OCO for the press release?

Kent/Bob E—Where should the waiver request to Congress live on the website? If there a particular POC or place that it fits within the Department? Or should it just live on the temporary COVID-19 website in PDF form?

I think those are all the questions I have ☺ Once I hear back from everyone, I'll work on the tick-tocks.

Thanks!

Subject: Time Sensitive - Early Childhood back to school

Mr. Brogan,
Good afternoon! First of all, I want to thank you for leading the Elementary and Secondary Education. I have been reading and researching everything I can find about returning to school again in the fall. After reading this- I knew that I need to write and share with you...

The American Federation of Teachers (AFT) recently released a report detailing its suggestions for school districts to consider, according to a report on RochesterFirst.com.

The report, which was realized with the advice of educators, healthcare professionals, and parents, suggests limiting the number of students in a classroom, staggering schedules, placing a cap on the number of visitors to school at any given time, and regularly taking the temperature of all students, faculty and staff.

"This has to be a living document," said Randi Weingarten, the President of AFT. "People are going to have more ingenious ideas but this was a way to plan for this coming school year where we reopen carefully and responsibly."

I have been working on a proposal to present in response to COVID-19 specifically for Early Childhood Educators/Primary Schools/Pre-schools.

I would appreciate sharing with you or someone on your team, my new and innovated ideas. Also, to seek advice on how to proceed as an individual with a young company that has an incredibly needed new safety product group to give America's children the best opportunity to return to school this fall.

I appreciate your time and attention and would really appreciate any guidance you could give me.

Sincerely,
Cheryl Sims

Subject: Update on Insular Areas meeting

At this point it appears that some of the Insular Areas (IAs) are continuing their travel to DC despite our guidance. Guam, Palau and CNMI made the decision to continue even though they were in Hawaii at the time of receiving our message. (BTW, I heard on the radio this morning that HI now has a confirmed case of coronavirus. I have not been able to verify that on the CDC website.)

Guam may have sent some of their delegation back to Guam (originally 19 were coming) but Jon Hernandez and others will continue on. Jon indicated that he has meetings with Frank, RMS and OSEP as a justification for continuing on. Palau and CNMI seem to be sending their entire team, although I'm not sure how many are in each group.

Phil and I crafted a message last night that Patrick sent to them – it said: "Thank you for responding. While it would be best if you were able to turn back (based on the factors mentioned in our earlier email), if you are not able to turn back, we will plan to have your quarterly progress check, and a condensed version of selected sessions we had planned. We appreciate you contacting us with your questions, and look forward to hearing of your decision."
We have decided that doing a condensed version of some of the sessions would not be fair to the IAs that followed our health-related guidance to turn back. (VI was initially pushing back due to hotel and airline fees but ultimately decided to not send their team.) We will do the quarterly progress updates and I will do a listening session with each group and it will also be offered via teleconference for the other IAs.

After considerable messages going back and forth last night Patrick sent the following message:
"We will be in touch on Monday morning with additional scheduling details, but anticipate we will complete progress updates and any other activities on Tuesday.
If you have any questions over the weekend, please feel to reach out directly."

Finally, an issue that came up when we met Friday afternoon about concern with having the IA travelers in the building. Would appreciate your thoughts on this. We have not yet made arrangements for a room outside of LBJ but I could ask the team to look into it. On the other hand, if IA folks are meeting Frank and others, they'll be in the building anyway.

And just want to note that Patrick and Tiffany have been great in dealing with this disruption. Tiffany had planned a great agenda and I'm sure it's a disappointment to her to have to postpone and she is concerned that the postponement reflects badly on her. Frank and Aimee, if you get a chance to send her a note recognizing her work, that would be great.

Have a good weekend.

Frank, Aimee, Mark and Kim,

I know OLCA's correspondence manager has been in touch with each of yours, but I wanted to reach out to ensure this letter meets the noon deadline tomorrow and can be closed out in advance of the Secretary's hearing on Thursday.

As background, ED received this letter in June 2019 and it has undergone five rounds of Department clearance. We need to get this out the door.

My understanding is that Kent has provided comments (which are attached), but now it's been assigned to OESE for rewrite. Since this involves OSERS and OCR as well, I wanted to make sure all POCS were on this email chain. Please have this letter back to me and Kent by noon tomorrow, February 25th.

I'm sorry for the short turnaround, but we must be able to close out a June 2019 letter in advance of the Secretary's budget hearing on Thursday.

Let me know if you have any questions and thank you in advance!

From: National Association of English Learner Program Administrators (NAELPA)

Dear Assistant Secretary Brogan, Deputy Secretary McElwain, and Deputy Director Rooney,

The National Association of English learner Program Administrators (NAELPA) would like to take this opportunity to welcome Lorena Orozco McElwain to the Assistant Deputy Secretary and Director of OELA position. NAELPA has enjoyed a mutually beneficial, collaborative relationship with both the Office on English Language Acquisition (OELA) and the Office of Elementary and Secondary Education for many years and looks forward to continuing and enhancing this relationship.

The members of NAELPA are deeply involved in the responses of the education systems at the state and local levels to the COVID-19 pandemic throughout the country. As we have engaged with students, parents, school and district administrators, as well as with colleagues at the state and national level we have been made aware, more than ever, of the particularly inequitable and fragile systems that are failing to provide for English learner (EL) success.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The NAELPA Executive Board and membership are especially interested in exploring ways that NAELPA and USED can work together to help address the challenges and opportunities of English learners in these changing times. Addressing the unique issues related to equitably serving ELS in a distance learning environment will ultimately help address these issues in any learning environment. At this time, some of the needs felt throughout the country include the need for:

- Adequate software, devices, and internet connection for engaging in distance learning;
- Professional learning and appropriate instructional strategies for teaching ELs for both content teachers and teachers of English language proficiency (ELP) through online/distance learning;
- Materials and communications in a language ELs and their families can understand in a distance learning environment, including but not limited to; appropriate training and guidance for families to support students at home, setting up devices and installing software and hardware as needed, as well as, ensuring families understand instructional expectations of students;
- Guidance, strategies, and methodologies for assessing ELs in content areas and ELP (both the annual ELP assessment and screening assessments use for EL identification);
- Appropriate distance learning platforms that address all English language domains, engage students, and meet federal expectations of ELD programming.

At the heart of our mission is to communicate and collaborate with USED on issues of mutual interest such as these. We look forward to hearing from you and stand ready to work directly with the Department on the responses to these and other issues related to the success of English learners.

Sincerely,

Morgan Cox, NAELPA President for the NAELPA Executive Board

Hi OESE and Mark -
Mrs. Trump's office has reached out to see if we could help identify 5-7 outstanding teachers that she could call this week in support of Teacher Appreciation Week. It sounds like these would be off the record phone calls that she will make on her own. I am hoping that OESE could identify 1 -2 elementary school teachers, 1-2 middle school teachers and 1-2 high school teachers. I am hoping OSERS could help identify 1-2 outstanding special Ed teachers. They weren't specific on states/locations of teachers or what school type where each teaches (public, private, etc).

If you all want to send me a few names for each and we can pass along that would be great.

They would like to present options to Mrs. Trump tomorrow at some point so this would be a quick turnaround.

Name School
City, State
Brief Background of how we know/identified this teacher
Contact info - if you don't have this on hand - we can work on it with you.

Let me know your thoughts and thanks so much!

Over the last year, the Department undertook an extensive review of its processes for awarding Rural Education Achievement Program (REAP) funds through the Small, Rural School Achievement (SRSA) and Rural Low Income Schools (RLIS) programs, authorized under Title V, Part B of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, as amended by the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESEA). As a result of that review, the Department discovered that, in the past, some LEAs were erroneously determined to be eligible for RLIS funding on the basis of alternative poverty measures, instead of the U.S. Census Bureau's Small Area Income and Poverty Estimates (SAIPE) data, as required in section 5221(b)(1)(A)(i) of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, as amended by the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESEA). Knowing that some States have relied on the Department's past practice, we are working expeditiously to address this issue and will provide additional guidance soon related to RLIS eligibility for fiscal year 2020 awards. At this time, we do not anticipate States will need to submit updated eligibility data. Additionally, if we do request additional data to make RLIS awards for fiscal year 2020, we will only request that data after we provide updated guidance related to fiscal year 2020 RLIS eligibility in order to ensure all technical specifications are adhered to. If you have additional questions, please contact your REAP program officer or reap@ed.gov.

"State and local education authorities know their students the best, and they are best equipped to make decisions about if, and how, distance learning will take place. Where's the final approved doc? Who has it to provide to Chris's team? For situational awareness, if we don't get this out by 4:30 WH will require us to hold until after the podium briefing is complete.

Hey Liz – to respond to your question – this is the URL https://oese.ed.gov/files/2020/04/template-covid-fiscal-waiver-19-2020.pdf

It is not live yet and won't be live until we have the final approved document (which we don't yet have)

Great! Looping in Angela and Daniela for awareness. Who can let us know that Nate has signed off and the waiver form is live on the website? Chris—can you do that?

Also, will OESE be posting the letter to state chiefs to the website? If so, I'd like to link to the letter as well.

Thanks!

OMB has signed off on the two documents as drafted. These two are good to go to Nate for his approval.

I believe you already have the earlier redline versions for the package.

I will assume Liz and the OESE staff will coordinate on timing and sequencing of press release and posting to web once Nate signs off.

Please let me know if questions.

Paul,

Can you take a look at how I itemized these questions/concerns below from Governor Kate Brown. Also, I'm inclined to think instead of providing a written response, assuming you agree with how I broke these up, then I may just have Frank call and provide comment on the OESE ones. Thoughts?

Susan Falconer

1. Education & Early Learning 29. Cover School Day Recovery and Labor Force Maintenance Costs: I ask the Department of Education to consider covering the cost of making-up school days to ensure student learning after the COVID-19 outbreak has subsided. This also anticipates provisions for the absence of permanent staff related to COVID-19-related illness. Additionally, I ask the DoED to provide additional funding to cover increased costs associated with hiring substitute teachers and other school personnel. Additional Congressional appropriations for this may be necessary. OLCA

2. Cover Additional School Nurses: I request that the DoED provide additional funding to cover the additional costs for higher levels of staffing of school nurses. This is to address health concerns of all students and also increased needs of students with a 504 plan or with IEPs who require nursing services.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Additional Congressional appropriations may be necessary. (Who is the initial funding source of school nurses, I didn't realize it was us, this might be an allowable expense within the CDC appropriation) OLCA

3. One-Time School Cleaning Costs: I request that the DoED provide additional funding to cover the costs incurred by schools that have closed due to the spread of the virus. These funds would cover the cost of deep cleaning of schools should it be forced to close due to circumstances that may suggest there is a risk of contamination for returning students. While this would only be a short-term solution, it does provide for reassurance to students, parents, and staff that extra precautions have been taken. This combined with additional ongoing cleaning (see next cost driver), would reduce the overall risk. Additional Congressional appropriations for this may be necessary. OLCA

4. On-Line Learning Options: I ask the DoED to provide additional funding to cover costs associated with providing online learning options to students. These costs include hardware, software and internet services. Currently, many Oregon LEAs do not have the capability to provide on-line learning options to all students. Additional Congressional appropriations for this may be necessary. (OESE could communicate the programs that might provide funding)

5. Provide guidance for Delivery of Education and Services to Students with Individualized Education Plans or ADA 504 Plans: Students with underlying health conditions may not come to school during a COVID-19 outbreak. I request that the DoED provide guidance to states about delivery of instruction and services for students that are not onsite. (OESE)

6. Provide flexibility for certain requirements of the Every Students Succeeds Act (ESSA) and Provisions of State ESSA Plans: I ask that the DoED ensure that attendance is not required as an accountability measure for schools and districts impacted by COVID-19 absences or school closures. I further request that the DoED ensure that assessment participation is not required as an accountability measure for schools and districts impacted by COVID-19 absences or school closures. (OESE)

2. Title I (a refresher, perhaps on persistent issues)

Please provide the following for each:

1. General topic/ issue overview (Please keep to 2-3 bullets, short paragraphs)

2. Current actions in this area (Please keep to 2-3 bullets, short paragraphs)

3. Other important points on the topic (2-4 bullet points)

Frank,
The DRAFTs went into Sharepoint last night. I had trouble accessing the link, but will resolve this am.
I'll advise when it's ready for your review. Hopefully we will be able to push out this pm.
Other items to discuss this am before your call with LA (at 10am) are monitoring and talking points re: waivers.
Also to discuss: possible revision of FACT SHEET posted last week. (It was developed under last week's circumstances, which have significantly changed over the past week).
Larger guidance document is making its way through clearance, but waivers have taken priority.
Happy to discuss further. Pls fell free to call at your convenience.

Frank,

Quick update:
The OSSA and OGC teams have been working to develop a DRAFT that will be entered into clearance tomorrow. The goal was to have something this evening.

The DRAFT has not made it to my inbox, so the following information is meant for your awareness, until we have a final document to review.

A waiver template is being developed/ drafted, which would allow states to review, determine, and select different options listed.
-The template will have 3 parts.
-One part will offer options to waive requirements for academic and ELP assessments.
-The second part will offer options to waive accountability and identification requirements.
-The third part will offer the option to waive certain reporting requirements. (Select requirements in this section will likely remain, such as graduation rates and PPE).

It will be accompanied by a cover letter.
-Three fiscal provisions will be discussed in the cover letter.
-The first will be specific to Title programs.
-The second will discuss the extension of the period of availability of ESEA funds.
-The last one will discuss ESEA maintenance of effort requirements.

(One item to note – it is often assumed McKinney Vento is part of ESEA but it is not.)

Talking points will be developed and reviewed by OGC for you to share as soon as we have the final draft.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Thank you for your support and patience as the team worked to develop this.

I'm happy to connect and discuss further. Let me know if you'd like a call.

Thank you, Frank.

I just tried giving you a call. Feel free to give me a call for an update anytime that works for you.

The team is working as expeditiously as possible.

-OSSA and OGC are working toward providing waiver options to us asap. I will provide approved draft(s) as soon as it is available.

-My understanding is that Nate was going to assume responsibility for the suggestions to Congress. I will check with him on any updates.

-I will also be scheduling a daily check-in with Daniela and OCO/ IGA team in order to efficiently and comprehensively communicate.

-Ashley will attempt to reschedule today's OESE Sr. Leadership meeting for a time during which you can participate.

-We will schedule a daily OESE Sr. Leadership check-in to ensure good communication and updates are available on a regular basis.

I am very grateful for your support.

Safe travels - and don't hesitate to call if you need to touch base.

By 4:00 or before I want to see two things in my in-box:
A draft multi-issue waiver application .
Simple, concise and reviewed by OGC as legal

Second, a draft plan of the funding flexibility plan (block grants) with options available as to how it might be presented to Congress

Again, I will be on the 1:00 call and have received my script for it from OCO

Hi Frank,

I hope this email finds you well. I understand our offices are trying to connect us on several fronts. I am hopeful we can connect soon!

I wanted to follow up on an earlier discussion we had about detailing an individual to BIE. As I work with BIE to improve services to our schools and students, capacity continues to be an issue. They are improving their capacity but external expertise is crucial. There seems to be some level of interest in detailing specifically one of your ED OESE staff members, Robert Salley. After talking with my team, he has provided an invaluable program support for BIE over the last several years, and as BIE works to address special education issues and implement their Standards, Assessment, and Accountability System (SAAS) and Agency Plan, his expertise and support could ensure BIE is successful. Is this something you would be willing to consider?

If I had my way, a year-long detail would be ideal, but I am open to what ED can sustain- fully understanding that you have capacity issues of your own.

I have made sure that BIE is prepared to provide the funds for a lateral transfer for Mr. Salley and that space is available to him at Main Interior. From my understanding, this would be in line with similar formal details under prior administrations.

I see this as a joint win for ED and DOI as BIE rolls out its SAAS and goes to public consultation on their agency plan. We could even make a public announcement of this partnership. Mr. Salley's unique understanding of BIE helps us all get one step closer to improving Indian education. If due to circumstances Mr. Salley is unavailable, I welcome further recommendations.

Looking forward to your thoughts and consideration.

All the best,
Tara

The State Systemic Plan issue is one that OSERS will follow up on.

We continue to work with states that have concerns about FAPE provision and particularly the IDEA timelines. We are working with OGC to develop a series of fact sheets on the most critical topics and will begin moving those into clearance soon. Additional information on FAPE and IDEA timelines are the top priority.

Hi - I connected with:

1) Ben Jones (SD) -
- going well...."we are innovating here"
- concerns: some folks/districts paralyzed around FAPE, IDEA. Encouraged reach out to OSERS/Mark with specific issues/questions
- BIA - concerned about whether/how they will implement distance learning. Encouraged whatever we can do to help that.
- sharing great stories via Facebook - many already engaged with that

2) Kirsten Baesler (ND)
- "you and your team a doing VERY well. Thanks us. Responsive. Helpful.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- OSERS issues have been much better this week. Communication on Saturday was extremely helpful. Special Ed teams are now mobilized, not paralyzed.
- "although buildings are closed, learning will continue for our students"
- April 1 - distance learning begins across state. 99% homes have broadband, just fyi.
FOR FOLLOW UP: State Systemic Plan due April 1. Can get it done, but a couple weeks of grace would be appreciated as their small team is mostly focused on Special Ed needs right now. OESE to follow up?

3) Eric Mackey (AL)
-"things are going fine here in Alabama"
_"in all my years in education, department has NEVER been so responsive and good. Clear guidance. Clear answers."
- Sunday OSERS letter relieved a lot of tension for those who had been stuck.
- so many great stories: meal delivery by busses; teachers posting great video lessons for everyone - beyond their own students
GREAT STORY - Principal at Saraland Elementary (very small school) near Mobile is going online every morning to do morning announcements, Pledge of Allegiance and Moment of Silence.

4) Katy Anthes (CO)
- "thrilled" by dept team's responsiveness
- speed for waiver process was "awesome"
- would like to have flexibility around Title funding - assured her we are urging that as well
-lots of great stories: many districts have shared links to how they're implementing distance learning; several small mountain communities without broadband access have begun putting weekly learning packets together, parents are picking them up, and teachers are holding regular "office hours" via phone.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The NACIE subcommittee is interviewing candidates this week. They are interviewing 8 candidates that were referred to us by HR. The Designated Federal Official (DFO) for ED is managing the interview process.

The subcommittee plans to take their recommendations to the full NACIE membership on May 27th. The subcommittee will present their selections to the full NACIE membership who will vote to forward the top 3 candidates to ED for review.

An interview panel at ED will then interview the candidates and make recommendations to Frank (who we assume will act on behalf of the Secretary.)

If everything goes as planned we will have the process completed by mid-June.

Virginia,
Hello. Attached is a letter from a constituent from North Dakota. Monsignor Shea is a good friend of Senator Hoeven and the Administration. They are inquiring about a political appointee vacancy at the Department of Education. I was looking into this request to see if this is on the administrations radar. I assume there is an acting person in this role. Truthfully, we deal with Bureau of Indian Education at Interior a lot more then at Ed. So I take some blame for not paying attention. Anyway, if you could look into this position, It would be appreciated. I owe the President of Univ of Mary a response back.

Thanks and I hope your doing well,

Mike

Speechwriting indicated they would be interested in both. They apparently got some information the other day on post-secondary (universities), so first priority is secondary – high schools. They ask, how are high schools adjusting and shifting online?

Hello,

Speechwriting would appreciate the information below to help inform the President's press conference remarks today. Are you able to provide by noon today? Thank you.

Dept of Education:
Speechwriting wants to communicate that the American people are engaged in serious mitigation of the pandemic (i.e. saving the lives of their fellow citizens) and we want to do that with facts and figures from different aspects of American life. In particular, we want to communicate the shift to online education at the secondary level due to the Pandemic. Can DOEd provide us with any data to describe the shift underway? 2-3 key facts are far more compelling than 2-3 paragraph describing generally that secondary schools are moving online (data on primary school moves online would be good). We want to convey that Americans are mitigating to stop the spread of the virus through adaptation to online learning.

Good morning. I am following up on this. I met with Paul and Bryan and they made clear that they really do need Elyse at key points to cover her competition and other work, and cannot go with an open-ended detail for her at ONDCP. I meeting with the HR guy at ONDCP at 5:00 p.m. today to try to barter this, but I am advising again that we give Nate a heads up about this, because they may come to him again to appeal if they don't find my options to be palatable. We discussed how OSSS could make something work through October, but cannot sacrifice during the critical late September period.

Please let me know if you'd like to discuss further.

Have a good day,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Ruth and Aimee,

I am sending this for your awareness. ONDCP is (more or less) now asking for an open-ended arrangement for when we wind down Elyse's detail, because they cannot start her when expected. I balked at that today, getting a sense from Paul earlier that that would be untenable. I am fine just saying that she has to be back by September. But I know that will likely mean they'll go to Nate again. I want to give you time and cover to get to Nate before I respond on Friday—if you concur that we should hold firm this time. I am meeting with Paul and Bryan tomorrow to just be clear that I understand the impacts clearly, and what they really need most. Ruth, you can certainly join that meeting if you want, or Paul or I can update you. Just wanted to be sure you were looped in about this.

Thanks,

Mw

Hi Sebastian,

Thanks for the follow up note and my apologies for the silence on our end. We can certainly be flexible on the front end to accommodate your onboarding process. I am trying to determine how much flexibility we have on the end date. Elyse is in a new position and has a critical role. Her program manager was amenable to making the arrangement work for the adjusted times that ONDCP requested earlier. However, depending on the timing of the current request for flexibility for an end date, we need to discern the impact and how best to cover for Elyse's significant contribution in September, which is the busiest and heaviest (volume) time of our fiscal year. I hope to circle back by Friday with an answer. I will call you directly then.

Hi All,

Please find attached the counter-signed MOU; I'm not sure I sent it to you all earlier. The good news is that Elyse has passed her background investigation.

However, the issue now is onboarding Elyse during the daily evolving COVID-19 situation. At this time, with our agency only semi-functioning onsite, ONDCP would like to refrain from completing Elyse's onboarding process until there's more clarity about operating statuses in the DC metro region.

Per the MOU, ED and ONDCP are able to modify the agreement through simple email communications/agreement, and we're hoping to leverage this flexibility as it pertains to Elyse's planned start/end dates. Ideally ONDCP will be able to provide ED 30 days' notice when we're able to re-initiate the onboarding process. Please let me know if such flexibility on dates works for ED and for you as well, Elyse, and let me know if you have any questions.

Everyone's understanding is really appreciated during this unprecedented situation.

Frank,
Just a heads-up that I've now gotten a couple of calls (that's a pattern, right?) from school choice advocates worried that ED is going to issue ESSA waivers without any safeguards that private schools in their states are being treated equitably under federal law. As you work through the template/quick waiver approval concept, I hope you'll remember that some SEAs – especially in states with rich school-choice environments – need to improve their performance in this area. Happy to discuss more as you refine your waiver process.
Thanks, Jim

Hi Aimee and Frank,

Please see the updates that Tina did on our COVID-19 plan addendum to our current Business Continuity Plan (BCP). The only substantive response to our earlier submission last week was that we didn't reflect the tiers or waves of people we would allow to telework as a crises escalates. So you will see that addition has been made. You'll also see Tina's note asking for feedback on any other features of the addendum that should be addressed. There really wasn't strong guidance for how these plans should have been formatted—which allowed for flexibility. But the feedback seemed to suggest that there was a rubric or set of criteria against which the plans were scored. Anyway, I am sure that they will let us know if there are any additional edits needed.

Please let us know if you have any related questions.

Aimee,

In response to Puerto Rico and Florida requesting non-cost extensions for their Hurricane Assistance for Homeless Children and Youth (AHCY) awards, DRU plans to request from OMB approval for a 3-month performance period extension for the AHCY program.

PR and FL are requesting extensions due to COVID19 disrupting program operations; DRU supports the no-cost extensions requests.

OGC has reviewed and cleared on the attached request. Can you please let us know if you have any edits to or questions about the request? We hope to send this to OMB today or tomorrow.

Molly,

Thank you for your note.

By way of background, the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) administers Food and Nutrition Service programs, including the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP); Special Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC); and the National School Lunch and Breakfast Programs. USDA recently sent a press release (copied below) detailing flexibilities provided though these programs in light of COVID-19. Specifically, they approved a request from California to allow meal service during school closures. These meals are available at no cost to low-income children and are not required to be served in a group setting to ensure kids receive food while schools are temporarily closed.

USDA Makes It Easier, Safer to Feed Children in California Amid Coronavirus Outbreak

WASHINGTON, March 7, 2020 -- The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has approved a request from California to allow meal service during school closures to minimize potential exposure to the coronavirus. These meals are available at no cost to low-income children – and are not required to be served in a group setting – to ensure kids receive nutritious meals while schools are temporarily closed.

"USDA stands with the people of California as a part of a federal-wide coordinated response," said Brandon Lipps, Deputy Under Secretary for USDA's Food, Nutrition, and Consumer Services. "The flexibility provided by the waiver approved today will help ensure that our children get wholesome meals, safeguarding their health during times of need."

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The waiver announced today is effective immediately and will continue through June 30, 2020. USDA stands ready to provide additional assistance to the people of California and other areas impacted by the coronavirus as allowed by law and in coordination with the much larger government-wide response.

All Food and Nutrition Service programs – including the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP); Special Nutrition Program for Women, Infants, and Children (WIC); and the National School Lunch and Breakfast Programs – have flexibilities and contingencies built-in to allow them to respond to on-the-ground realities in the event of a disaster or emergency situation. For more information about the coronavirus response across USDA, please visit: https://www.usda.gov/coronavirus.

USDA's Food and Nutrition Service administers 15 nutrition assistance programs that leverage American's agricultural abundance to ensure children and low-income individuals and families have nutritious food to eat. FNS also co-develops the Dietary Guidelines for Americans, which provide science-based nutrition recommendations and serve as the cornerstone of federal nutrition policy.

Our office is looking to see what ED has info on what happens to before school programs with breakfast, school lunch, and after school programs with dinner if schools are forced to shut down because of the coronavirus? Is there any guidance or planned financial assistance to come from ED in these instances? I believe Senator Murray mentioned Washington schools closing because of the recent outbreaks. Has there been anything done in this capacity already?

Proposed addition for your consideration. I used the document Kent provided as a model and tried to leave it a little open ended since we are not certain how this will be finalized, e.g., template to request vs just granting vs something in between. We are looking at fiscal accountability as well but that may be a phase 2.

During the week of March 16, the Department expects to finalize, clear, distribute and post information related to broad waiver authority provided to States related to ESEA accountability and assessment provisions.

All very helpful and will use this as a guidepost to begin to tease out a structured approach including the actual logistics on setting up the Webinar…..date, time etc.
Will also work on the invitee list of possibilities….
I did reach out to Julie Young to see iif she would be interested in assisting as well as recommending any particular folks to participate, research, best practice hurdles and opportunities etc…..
Will get back to you as I get some of this formed up with possibilities.
I think timing is important based on the fact that this is currently a massive patchwork nationally job with some great examples of success woven in between

- What are the major hurdles you still need to jump?
- What advice can you offer to those who aren't up and running?
- Where is current public policy helping, and where is it hurting your efforts?
- Is this an inflection point to think about better uses of personalized learning, adaptive learning, course school and other student-centric delivery models?
- An age-old question: how do we "crack the code" on embedding technology into learning without losing the human touch?

Providers

- What resources have you made available to "instant homeschool" students and families?
- How can your tools help bridge the gap for disadvantaged students?
- How do you think about what "school" is moving forward from this crisis?

Frank, Aimee, Mark and Kim,

I know OLCA's correspondence manager has been in touch with each of yours, but I wanted to reach out to ensure this letter meets the noon deadline tomorrow and can be closed out in advance of the Secretary's hearing on Thursday.

As background, ED received this letter inJune 2019 and it has undergone five rounds of Department clearance. We need to get this out the door.

My understanding is that Kent has provided comments (which are attached), but now it's been assigned to OESE for rewrite. Since this involves OSERS and OCR as well, I wanted to make sure all POCS were on this email chain. Please have this letter back to me and Kent by noon tomorrow, February 25th.

I'm sorry for the short turnaround, but we must be able to close out a June 2019 letter in advance of the Secretary's budget hearing on Thursday.

Let me know if you have any questions and thank you in advance!

Hi OESE,

The Secretary is meeting with Mario Rossero on Tuesday, February 11 at 1:15pm. He used to be at the Kennedy Center and reached out to catch up with the Secretary. He is now the Executive Director of the National Art Education Association. Could you all pull a bio for him and also include information on what NAEA does and some on their policy positions so we can have background in case the meeting moves from catch up to information on Mario's new position?

This is due on Friday, February 7 by 12pm. I need to check if we will have staff for this meeting, stay tuned!

Thank you,

Hi Frank and Aimee--

I just want to take a moment to say Meredith has done outstanding work on the CARES Act. She works tirelessly to ensure the process works smoothly. In addition to her project management savvy and organization, she ensures a supportive environment for all involved, which facilitates success.

I am very impressed by her approach and work ethic, and greatly appreciate her time and skills.

OESE has two documents.

You currently have listed "Fact Sheet on Impact of COVID-19 on Assessments and Accountability (in process)". I recommend renaming to "Fact Sheet on Impact of COVID-19 on Assessments and Accountability under the ESEA (in process)"

Also, please add "Guidance on Flexibility and Waivers for Schools, SEAs, LEAs, Postsecondary Institutions, and other Program Participants Responding to COVID-19 (in process)"

Thank you!

Hello all,

Here are the guidance docs and fact sheets – either existing or upcoming – that I have on the list so far:

- Higher education (already posted)
- Civil rights letter (already posted)
- FERPA guidance (in final clearance with COS)
- Q and A on Services to Students with Disabilities (in process)
- Fact Sheet on Impact of COVID-19 on Assessments and Accountability (in process)
- Fact Sheet on Addressing Risk of COVID-19 in Schools While Protecting Civil Rights of Students (in process)

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

If you are working on a guidance doc not listed here, please let me know. In addition, we have a reporter asking if the department planning to issue any guidance on refunding of room and board paid using Title IV funds, or any guidance regarding international students specifically. The CDC's higher ed guidance has some information on student housing, but nothing about refunds. Is anyone working on guidance that will include these two topics?

Thanks,

Angela

Follow up:

This is the suggested request we would ask Sandy to submit to OMB:

> "The Office of Elementary and Secondary Education is responsible for the Department of Education's (Department) Agency Priority Goal (APG) 1: "Support state and local efforts to improve learning outcomes for all P-12 students in every community."
> We have 3 milestones we are aiming to reach in order to achieve our goal:
> 1) Continue to release resources on education freedom scholarships.
> 2) Provide outreach to states on education freedom scholarships, state-based vouchers, tax-credit scholarships, and education savings accounts programs.
> 3) Provide technical assistance, as appropriate, to Congress and other policymakers on the Department's education freedom scholarship proposal.
> We are requesting Milestone 3 to be removed. In order to quantify this milestone, as required, the Department must report the number of meetings with Members of Congress and other policymakers in which education freedom scholarships, state-based vouchers, tax-credit scholarships, and education savings accounts programs may have been mentioned. The nature of this type of information request is necessarily unreliable, as the definition of "technical assistance" is subject to interpretation. Similarly, the volume of formal and informal discussion with policymakers is significant and sometimes not documented, rendering the data flawed.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Reporting on Milestones 1 and 2 will adequately capture the intended information needed to report the Department's metrics on APG 1: "Support state and local efforts to improve learning outcomes for all P-12 students in every community.""

Please review the below information and advise. This is now urgent. Sandy Battle informed us today that the Data Call for Quarter 2 is open tomorrow. We need a plan for moving forward.

I am proposing we request milestone 3 to be removed. Reporting on Milestones 1 and 2 adequately capture the intended information needed to report ED metrics on APG 1: "Support state and local efforts to improve learning outcomes for all P-12 students in every community." Kim checked in with Sandy on this possibility and she asked we draft a short justification. Are you comfortable with this?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Aimee –

As you know, OESE is responsible for Agency Priority Goal (APG) 1: "Support state and local efforts to improve learning outcomes for all P-12 students in every community."

We have 3 "milestones" we are aiming to reach in order to achieve our goal (these are what we used to establish our metrics). OMB maintains these metrics and ED is responsible for reporting on our advancement throughout the year:

1. Continue to release resources on education freedom scholarships.
2. Provide outreach to states on education freedom scholarships, state-based vouchers, tax-credit scholarships, and education savings accounts programs.
3. Provide technical assistance, as appropriate, to Congress and other policymakers on the Department's education freedom scholarship proposal.

To complete our records for the first Quarterly Performance Review (QPR), we attempted to gather information from senior leaders in each POC but ran into some issues, particularly around milestone 3. In order to quantify this milestone, ED would have to report the number of meetings with Congress and other policymakers in which education freedom scholarships, state-based vouchers, tax-credit scholarships, and education savings accounts programs may have been mentioned. The nature of this type of information request is necessarily unreliable, as the definition of "technical assistance" is subject to interpretation. Separately, this is also a considerable reporting burden on staff because volume of formal and informal discussion with policymakers is significant and sometimes not documented.

I am proposing we request milestone 3 to be removed. Reporting on Milestones 1 and 2 adequately capture the intended information needed to report ED metrics on APG 1: "Support state and local efforts to improve learning outcomes for all P-12 students in every community."

Kim checked in with Sandy on this possibility and she asked we draft a short justification. Are you comfortable with this?

Just sent in a separate email. Also, I reached Debbie Little (Seattle) and Julie Coplin (NYC) yesterday and encouraged them to telework for the next 14 days (beginning Monday). I called and left messages for Miriam Lund (Seattle), but have yet to hear from her. I will continue today, beginning at 9:00 a.m. I also notified Ruth and Patrick Rooney, the supervisor for all of them.
I also advised that Julie and Miriam should NOT travel to planned monitoring visits to Harrisburg, PA and Atlanta, GA on Monday. They should stay close—and I believed it to be incongruent that we would require them to stay from the physical workplace, but require them to represent us out of state.
I'll keep you posted on Miriam throughout the day. Please let me know if you need anything else. Mw Kent requested that the bullet updated because these are waivers under the CARES Act. Please review and advise asap.

Waivers for Flexibility in Fiscal Management. Today the Department expects to issue a letter inviting state waiver requests, and an accompanying waiver template, for states to request flexibility in the use of funds under section 421(b) of the General Education Provisions Act (GEPA) and the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (ESEA), as authorized under CARES Act sec. 3511(b)(2) . Hi Liz,

The fact sheet that is currently working its way through clearance addresses the potential impact on assessments and accountability, specifically under ESSA.

It does not address connectivity issues.

Let me know if there is anything else I can help you with.

I'm writing today about how the digital divide could be devastating to kids without home internet access or computers if their schools close because of the coronavirus.

What is ED's plan for addressing this issue?

Sorry for the short notice. Please make the following updates to the www.ed.gov/coronavirus page as soon as possible.

The documents should have the following labels and make these the first two bullets on the list of resources:

- Invitation to waiver of assessments, accountability and reporting for the 2019-2020 school year (March 19, 2020) https://oese.ed.gov/files/2020/03/template-assessmentwaiver-19-20.pdf

Following up on our conversation just now, the OESE web team is going to create the URL for the two documents that we will then post on this page:

https://oese.ed.gov/guidance/guidance-documents/

The documents should have the following labels:

- Invitation to waiver of assessments, accountability and reporting for the 2019-2020 school year (March 19, 2020)
- Optional State template to review assessments, accountability and reporting waiver for the 2019-2020 school year (March 19, 2020)

And then we should use the same labels for the bullets on www.ed.gov/coronavirus page (and make these the first two bullets on the list of resources.

For what it's worth, I would recommend that the URLs be something somewhat short, like perhaps "assessmentwaiver-19-20" and "template-assessmentwaiver-19-20"

Thanks.

David – we have two documents that we are going to want to post. I don't have the final versions available yet, but I believe we need to post them on oese.ed.gov and then OCO cross-posts them on the coronavirus page. Is that correct?

If so, I want the two documents posted on: https://oese.ed.gov/guidance/guidance-documents/.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

I think we want both documents to be in the same row of the table on this page, if possible (since they are linked and it seems prudent to keep them together. Do you need the final documents to prepare the page for the posting and create the URL for the two documents? Can you do that in advance of the documents being final?

As we talked about on our call, we think there are three options for the PR SERV award:

A. Hold the grant and only obligate it once the TPFA is in place (which is what we told PR we would do – and what we have been doing for a month or so)
B. Obligate the grant with the condition that PRDE not draw any SERV funds until the TPFA is in place
C. Obligate the award, and as with ESSER and GEER, allow PRDE to draw down what they need in the next 60 days (Frank's suggestion)

So I was able to reach Mark Robinson today, after all. He confirmed my suspicion that the TPFA would only be managing funds not yet drawn down from G5. If we obligate the SERV grant now, and allow them to draw down some or all of the SERV funds before the TPFA is in place (option C), they could easily draw it all down in the next 60 days since it's all reimbursement and none of it would be under the TPFA. Mark believes it would be most consistent to obligate the SERV grant with the condition that they do not draw any funds until the TPFA is in place (Option B). I agree.

Aimee – in my absence, Lindsay and Molly can connect with you so that we can implement whatever option OESE leadership prefers. They'll need to work with OGC on the conditions.

Subject: Remote Learning for Middle / High School

Dear Madam Secretary DeVos,

Teaching Middle School Mathematics as a second career in a Title I district has me concerned about the viability of remote teaching. Many students I teach don't have the technology at home for it. Even if the district gives them a chrome book, they do not have internet in their home. Another issue is they don't have the support structure within their home to get help they may need. I can go on and on but I would rather try to provide a solution to the problem instead of complaining about it.

I would like to make a couple of suggestions on ways to possibly get schools functional even if we are still locked down in September. I do not believe we can let kids back into schools in high volumes until a vaccine is found or the virus is totally controlled.

There are three subjects I feel need to be taught in person Math, Language Arts and Science the rest can be taught remotely. You cannot have Lunch, Gym and class changes due to the students being on top of one another in the hallways when transferring classes. My solution is to have students come in for 3 hours at a time limiting them to approx. 10 - 12 students per class. We can even put up dividers between rows as an extra precaution along with face masks whatever is necessary. The teachers move to the students, they stay in the same classroom for the day where they can still get their free lunches at the end of the day and eat in the classroom. They would then be dismissed and a new group would come in and start their day with their free lunch.

I realize this plan still needs tweaking but do feel it is a viable option for Title I districts.

Another option for remote learning is to have all the technology issues worked out which would not be as difficult of a problem in more affluent districts. Teachers co-teach a lesson for the entire grade level in an empty classroom broadcast live and videotaped so all the students in math get the same lesson. Students then submit their work and give real time feedback but still bring students in on specific days to review work, complete science labs etc. This option would allow the teachers more time to work with struggling students that need the help.

This has issues that need to be addressed but I believe it is one of the best way to maximize teachers time in a smaller social distancing environment.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

I write this for one reason the current method is not working and the students deserve better. Teachers were not prepared to do home teaching and it shows. I am convinced that not all home teaching can be done the same way across all districts. We need the government to give us guidance on options we still have over 100 days before school reopens let's not waste this valuable time. Please let me help, call me or write I would like to give you my expertise as a project manager at AT&T for twenty-two years and a teacher of middle school in a Title I district for the last fifteen years. The children are our future let's play the cards we are dealt and beat this virus by continuing to give a top quality education to our children.

Thank You for your valuable time and for reading my suggestions.

Hi Frank and Aimee,

Please see the note below from Kim, who has been working with Sarah (Newman), Amanda (Hoffman), our data team and NCES' team to modify plans for a webinar that will inform the field of what to expect related to our ongoing efforts to manage the Consolidated State Performance Report and other data collection efforts, while providing the states with as much flexibility as possible. I made a couple of minor edits to the introductory paragraph Kim proposed. As you know, the data that we collect have an ultimate impact on the allocation of resources we give to SEAs and LEAs. Although I support Kim's and the team's recommendation to continue the effort to provide the webinar—given that there are states who are capable of and want to provide data that they can currently report—we have made these adjustments as well:

- Eliminated the live broadcast of the webinar that would have required attendance on a specific date and time (i.e., yesterday);
- Rescheduled the broadcast to a later time (now Wednesday), but will record it so that it can be viewed again at the leisure and convenience of stakeholders;
- Eliminated a Q&A segment of the webinar, and have focused only on the technical information that stakeholders will need to engage the system;
- Continuing review of current requirements and flexibilities that ED can provide, and consideration of delay scenarios and the implications of them; and
- Pointing stakeholders to the Secretary's most recent guidance on flexibilities and to the Partner Support Center (PSC) for help with any additional questions or waiver flexibility they need now.

I have not seen the script entirely, but I have talked with time about it and am satisfied that it is sufficiently technical in nature, and does not set any policy or undermine any of the Secretary's published guidance. I also think that our decision to cut out the Q&A segment of the recorded webinar will help to ensure that our messages remain aligned with hers.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

I am sending you the Powerpoint that Kim sent me, with hopes that you can help us get a "go/no go" decision today on whether we can move ahead with launching the webinar tomorrow. Please let me know if you need anything more to support and make a decision.

Thanks,

Mw

Subject: FW: RESPONSE NEEDED Fwd: SY 2018-19 CSPR APR Tool Webinar Presentation

Hi Mark,

A quick update. We were able to change the "live" Monday webinar to a recorded presentation. States are still invited to listen in tomorrow 3/25 at 4 pm ET but there will be no Q&A. Also, the recording will be posted on the website for States that aren't able to join.

Issue: the script for the webinar is quite long and much of the information is about the new APR tool. I added a paragraph to the introductory text (below) that acknowledges COVID-19 and hopefully conveys the Department's position on flexibilities for States.

Question for you: Could you, Aimee, or Frank approve the below for today's recording?

"Welcome to the SY 2018-19 Consolidated State Performance Report Technical Webinar. If you are here for this presentation you are in the right place.
First, we want to acknowledge that these are challenging times for you, for your families, and for students and educators in your state. We also understand that the novel Coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19) has caused widespread school closures, which has impacted some state agency operations. We appreciate your continued efforts to help ~~the rising generation succeed~~ students and families while providing for their health and safety and that of ~~students and~~ or your staff. They are counting on all of us to keep ~~our work~~ things going as normally as possible, and to provide needed information and resources, and to approach new challenges as opportunities to demonstrate resilience, ingenuity, and creativity. Please know that the U.S. Department of Education is committed to supporting you with every tool at our disposal and extending all flexibilities within our control. If you have any concerns about reporting this year, please contact the Partner Support Center at the contact information, below."

Note! On the due date of CSPR Parts I and II, PSC will be available via email until 8:00 p.m ET.

I've also attached their draft PPT so you have a sense of the topics covered.

Hi all (+Leslie, Adam, Susan, and Mike),

Susan let us know that Nate approved the RLIS CSSO letter for release tomorrow (5/1). The PDF and Word versions are attached for distribution and we have updated the master eligibility spreadsheet (see here) to match the table in the letter. Linda will send the letter to the Big 4 first, after which Adam H. will send to CSSOs, cc'ing state rural coordinators (contact list copied below). The REAP team will then take the following steps:

1. Post the CSSO letter on the RLIS eligibility website
2. Send an email with instructions for LEAs with eligibility changes (email reviewed by OGC and aligned with CSSO letter)
3. Send an email to State coordinators with additional information for LEAs with eligibility changes (email reviewed by OGC and aligned with CSSO letter)
4. Post the CSSO letter and updated master eligibility spreadsheet on OMB Max REAP Community page for state rural coordinators
5. Phone/email outreach to LEAs with eligibility changes to confirm program selection
6. During final SRSA application webinar – May 12 – provide an explanation of eligibility changes to dual eligible LEAs (slides and TPs reviewed by OGC and aligned with CSSO letter)

As of 8:00 PM tonight we have accepted 3,775 FY 2020 SRSA applications, so we are approaching our anticipated ~4,000 SRSA applications with 15 days till the application period closes. If you have any questions, please let me or Leslie know. Leslie started on Monday as the new REAP group leader, but I'll continue to support the RLIS eligibility work moving forward.

So I spoke with Nate and he was favorably inclined towards the option of making all FY19 recipients eligible for FY20 + the newly eligible FY20 districts based on SAIPE data. He did want to see the data and come to a final decision on Monday. He said one thing that might dissuade him is if the size of the haircut that the average district might take in FY20 is significant; I understand that's tricky to estimate but it would be helpful if we could describe impact.

I would encourage us not to try to push this out today. I'm worried we are going to rush and make a mistake somewhere. Is OCO creating a rollout plan?

I think we need to do the following:

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

1. Get the final ok and have Brittney autopen (assuming it's still for Frank to sign)
2. Get the document posted on www.ed.gov/coronavirus and also on oese.ed.gov (neither is queued up to do this)
3. Draft a press release (I don't know if OCO is working on this)
4. Alert the Hill that we are doing this?
5. Alert CCSSO that we are doing this?
6. Tee up Adam to send out to the chiefs (I'm emailing him now to alert him)
7. Post documents and send out announcement

Good morning Brittney

Attached are the revised 2nd waiver letter and template. There were no UAR comments so I'm hoping we can send this only to Bob Eitel, Kent Talbert and Phil Rosenfelt for final review and clearance. It will also need to go to Nate and I defer to Aimee and Chris on how to best accomplish that.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

We ae getting a lot of questions from States in the COVID mail box on how to access these waivers so there is some urgency to get this out today or tomorrow at the latest.

Thank you for your help with this and let me know if you have any questions.

Best
Ruth

The attached list contains requests for information on Ed's response to coronavirus. I've addressed them one at a time below. We should make sure any and all calls are PROPERLY staffed with SMEs from our POCs including OESE, OCR, OPE and FSA. These are just my thoughts. I hope they are helpful. Someone on Zais's team should coordinate with Susan Falconer on getting these items scheduled or responded to.

ACE (American Council of Education)

- What they've requested:
  - Would like to touch base with Deputy Secretary Zais
  - Currently keeping a running list of specific questions raised by institutions
- What we should do:
  - When our EA going to colleges and universities is ready to go, Zais (or someone from his team) should give their leadership a call and be staffed by Bob King (or someone from his team). Let them know of the following resources:
    - Provide them the link to CDC resources published yesterday for IHEs
    - Our EA
    - If they have specific questions, we can write them down and get back to them

CCSSO (Chief State School Officers):

- What they've requested:
  - Deputy Secretary Zais host a stakeholder call early next week with State Chiefs.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

    - State Chiefs would like to hear from him the purpose of the task force and have the opportunity to share with him their immediate concerns which as of today are school meals and testing windows.
- What we should do:
    - Dep Sec Zais should make the call and be staffed by OESE (Ruth Ryder, Frank Brogan)
        - We should probably have some kind of K-12 deliverable ready to go re: flexibilities around testing etc.
    - We should see if anyone from CDC can join the call to talk about their guidance to K-12 schools
    - We should reach out to AG to see if they would join as well since they are concerned about school meals
    - This call should not happen until we have it properly staffed

State Education Technology Directors Association:

- What they've requested:
    - Formally request Deputy Secretary Zais to host a conversation with their membership regarding his role on Coronavirus. They wish to communicate that their membership has done a lot of work on using digital learning and want to be helpful in avoiding learning time loss.
- What we should do:
    - Zais should give them a call and listen to what they have to say

National Governors Association:

- What they've requested:
    - Looking for information on Zais role
- What we should do:
    - Someone from Zais's team to give them a call and explain our internal working group to them

National Association of State Board of Educators (NASBE)

- What they've requested:
    - Looking for confirmation on Zais and taskforce and timeline on resource roll out
- Someone needs to give them a call or shoot them an email with information on our task force, provide them a link to our coronavirus webpage and email address
- Take down their questions and concerns and let them know that their input will help inform any guidance we put out to the field
- Let's make sure someone from OESE is on this call

Governor's Education Policy Advisors (GEPA)

- What they've requested:
    - Multiple Washington, DC based state policy advisors seek meeting with Zais or his team.
- What we should do:
    - I don't know this group, but if you are comfortable, we should set up a meeting

AASA, The School Superintendents Association:

- What they've requested:

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

    - Executive Director Noelle Ng formally requests Zais join the senior official they have confirmed from CDC for their corona-related webinar for their stakeholders.
- What we should do:
    - Find out when the call is and make sure that we have folks who can join the call from OESE including Ruth Ryder and Frank Brogan

National School Board Association (NSBA)

- What they've requested:
    - Austin Lustig, Director for Safe Schools reached out about Zais providing remarks for a multi-agency webinar
- What we should do:
    - Get more information

I hope this is helpful. Let me know if you have any questions or concerns.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

I met with Angeline, Budget and OGC today and they raised a number of areas where we will need clarification.

1. Does this duplicate any BIE-funded projects (TED grants)? If a tribe is getting TED funds, cant get STEP funds per statute.
2. Are the Sovereignty in Education (SIE) grants still in existence which could be another area of overlap.
3. If we proceed with Tribal consultation, it was suggested that someone from OS to attend and present on the proposal.
4. There was a question about substituting the above Absolute Priorities for the previous APs. We have to use the previous Aps because they are in statute but can use the new APs in addition.

Next steps is to have a larger meeting to discuss these issues and determine direction. Please let me know if you'd like us to proceed or to wait until you meet with Nate.

Let me know if you'd like to discuss.

Why was the meeting cancelled? And why did it happen so late after many of us had started our trips to DC?

We became aware of travel impediments for one of the Insular Areas and thought others might face similar or other travel challenges and felt that it was best to cancel the meeting. We didn't receive the information about the travel impediments until Friday afternoon. We apologize for the inconvenience to some travelers.

Will we be provided with the information that was to be provided at the meeting?

Yes, we will be looking for alternative strategies to provide the information effectively.

Why is the Department not delivering the information to those Insular Areas that chose to continue on to DC?

We appreciate the efforts of those who travelled to DC, and hope that the progress updates in person will be very helpful. In fairness to those Insular Areas that were not able to travel or heeded the Department's request to not come or DC, we will wait and provide the information in an equitable and effective way to all Insular Areas at the same time.

Ruth – as I mentioned earlier this afternoon, attached is the template we will use to formally approve the letters. Our plan is to use mail merge to reduce administrative burden of generating 50 identical letters. We want to get this template approved and then we will use it to create the letters. Once we have the ok on this template, it will be important that no one be able to edit the final letters when they come through the system officially for signature.

We would like to send forward the first batch Thursday, if possible.

Thanks.

Subject: Title IV-A National Activities

Attached is the budget page for the National Activities funds – the first page is Title IV-A. At the bottom are the funds in question. I've spoken with Kelly Rhoads and Jessica McKinney and we all think we are OK to go forward with the OET Data Privacy work, assuming that it is a priority for the Secretary, as we've been told. Although it looks like we have a shortfall, which we do, we are not certain that we will be able to fully use the course access or student centered funding funds, i.e., not sure we will get enough applications. Given that, I recommend we move forward with all three proposals and sort out the funds as we go along. Of course there is some risk that we get a lot of fundable applications and then we will have to re-group.

One thing to remember about these funds is that they are formula-like, in that we are working now with FY 19 funds. On July 1 we will get FY 2020 funds and those included a little bump to Title IV-A and hence a bump to the 2% set-aside.

For your convenience I have attached the OIE PD vs STEP memo so you have everything in one place.

Ruth, below is the student data privacy course project objectives (short write-up) that you can share with OGC to make sure we're on solid ground. I know neither of us expect this project to be bumped, but if it is I assume it's how I wrote it more than the concept. Phil was the first to come to me after the Policy Committee conversation to tell me how much he supports this idea.

We could chunk the work and write other tasks as options, however we'll fall short if those options are not completed. The smallest reasonable number that I currently believe will build an adequate course is $500K, which can reach one or two stakeholders. My original goal was to fund this project to hit the primary stakeholders and write in options to reach the others depending on funding and course use. To be clear, not each stakeholder group is $500K, content will overlap so the more stakeholders we target the cheaper it becomes to the point that we can target stakeholders through personalization without having to build new content.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

It's not my money to get in the middle of, but would cutting back $1M from course choice have a major impact on the initiative? Has OS set a floor on course choice? I like the idea, but I do wonder if we could gain more by putting $1M into data privacy training than we'll lose if course choice is $1M less than planned. Just a thought that I share privately.

Happy to meet with you any time you need.

Student Data Privacy Courses Project Objectives:
Systems and applications that are used in schools to collect student data are growing rapidly. The Secretary has recognized the need to better inform families and educational stakeholders about data privacy by building capacity around best practices for maintaining the safety and security of that data. OET in connection with SPPO is building a contract to design a suite of courses that help stakeholders understand both the legal requirements and best practices around privacy and information security. These courses are both personalized and competency based.

Subject: URGENT: 2nd batch of OESE waivers

Hi Phil

Ruth, Patrick, and I have prepared a new waiver template and accompanying letter in response to the waiver authority in the CARES Act. The template addresses all of the specified requirements (not already addressed by the first set of assessment, accountability, and reporting waivers) with the exception of two that we did not believe necessary: (1) 1111(b)(3), which concerns assessments and accountability for recently arrived Els, which we believe is covered by the general waivers of assessments and accountability; and (2) 1114(a)(1), which is the poverty threshold for schoolwide programs that States may already waive.

The letter is currently for Frank's signature. Although the CARES Act waiver authority has not yet been delegated to the Assistant Secretaries, my understanding is that Frank may offer the waivers and a subsequent delegation would cover him. Correct?

As we discussed yesterday, this set of waivers only covers programs under Frank's jurisdiction. Accordingly, it does not waive the Tydings amendment for programs such as Perkins V and IDEA, which we believe is authorized. We thought ease of approving the waivers merited limiting them to just OESE. Please let us know if you think a different action is preferable.

We hope this is ready for your review and, hopefully, OMB's this weekend. For the attorneys on this email, please feel free to make edits that we can incorporate while other review is occurring.

Good morning Nate,
I am sorry to pester you on your last day prior to some very well-deserved time off but wanted to see if you had time to look at the proposed webinar series, topics etc.
As you can see the first of the series on Technology is proposed for late June and if it is a go we would need to begin work on it immediately.
Also want you to know as always, the Secretary has a standing invitation to participate in any of these events and be involved in any way and for whatever time her schedule permits.
So if we can get a thumbs up or input regarding changes we can begin to put together the June event as well as begin to advertise that event and even the entire series, for "save the dates."
Again, sorry for the nudge today of all days and if you would like to discuss just give me a call

Good Morning OESE Family,

I wanted to take the opportunity as this week comes to a close to add my sentiments to the chorus of others who have helped to recognize and celebrate your efforts during Public Service Week.
These efforts are worthy of celebration regularly, but considering OESE's response during this unprecedented period, created by the Global Pandemic and our National Emergency, the response has been nothing short of amazing.
While working remotely and quickly moving to a "Stay Home" environment including entire families, our own OESE family jumped into action in contributing to the on-going effort to make certain that America's students have educational opportunities provided everywhere and to everyone.
Through it all we have provided the ability to secure unprecedented flexibility for states, and local communities when this is most desperately needed during this period of great uncertainty .
OESE has expedited rapid turn-around when considering and approving waivers, technical assistance to support those in need of urgent information and major efforts in communicating with stakeholders everywhere, working to see after their children. All of this without losing sight of the need to still maintain high standards of necessary accountability.

Yet another major example of the work contributing to this support effort has been the incredible response by the Department regarding the CARES ACT passed by Congress and signed into law by the President. Our work contributed directly to the ability to quickly, nimbly and with high attention to law, rule and regulation, assure that "the people's money" (over 30 Billion dollars) is distributed across America to support our most important constituency.... students.
Never, has there been such an organized effort by the Department of Education in support of all of education, at all levels, in such a remarkable way and especially in such a compressed period of time.

OESE should be very proud to be members of such a great team of professionals throughout the Department as well as being tremendous contributors to this successful effort.
Your hard work during very difficult times is recognized and appreciated!

As a small token of appreciation I would like to offer you a fifty-nine minute "departure" from your normal end-of-day responsibilities today! Relax, enjoy the family and know that you are truly valued as members of a great team!
Remain safe and GO OESE!

Dear OESE Colleagues,

While planning continues as to how and when the Department of Education will begin the phased re-opening of our buildings nationwide, it is at the same time very appropriate to consider the here and now and the wonderful work which continues to be carried out by our employees every single day.

Like you, I chose to come to work for this particular agency when I had the honor of being invited to join. Not only because I am a lifetime educator who has always believed passionately, that every child in America has the right but also the incredible need to have access to the finest quality education experience that can be provided. And by the way, a right which must never be less available, regardless of life's circumstances. The need as well, cannot be subject to only the good times nor just times of great difficulty. Truth be known however, the paramount urgency to continue access to world class education rises to even a greater level when times are the toughest. It is especially then that we must make certain the needs of students are met, thus ensuring them the greatest future possible. How could we do less?
If we really do want every American to have the chance to live their share of the great American dream, to actually become everything we know they are capable of being, then how powerful our efforts truly are and therefore, must be forever advanced.

As I have traveled the country on behalf of the Department since my arrival in Washington D.C. the most glaring observation resides in the differences I have witnessed from place to place. One state to another, one community to another, one educational approach to another, it is indeed the differences which I have found so striking. However, all of these differences represent anything but chaos. This is America. In spite of all of those differences however, there is one constant cohort upon whose future upon who we will all ultimately rely.....our students. They are indeed America's students. They are every color of the world, every possible native tongue, every socio-economic status and family structure. They are America today and they will be America's leaders tomorrow. It is their lives through education for which we in the Department toil. Regardless of the jobs we perform, or the place from which that work emanates, we must and will continue to shoulder that sacred trust which each of us has accepted. We along with so many others, have the awesome responsibility of helping our students overcome everything from the soft bigotry of low expectations and even outright bigotry wherever it exists, in all of its worst forms. Our students, their families and our country rely on us as allies in this effort. The stakes could not be higher for those of us serving America's students.

I continue to be so proud of the work that the OESE Team does each and every day and while I long to see all of you face-to-face very soon, I wanted you to know that you are even now with me each day in this effort. A unified team working to see after our country's greatest trust.
Thank you for your continued efforts on behalf of every one of our country's children and keep up the great work.
For the students,
Frank Brogan

RE: Privacy Protections for the Public Release of "SY2018-19 SEA and LEA Level FS141"

Overview

The Office of Elementary and Secondary Education requested that the Disclosure Review Board (DRB) review the privacy protections planned for the public release of the "SY2018-19 SEA and LEA Level FS141". The data is presented at the State Education Agency (SEA) and Local Education Agency (LEA) levels. Appendix A and B present the general table structures that the data will be presented at the different levels. All fifty states as well as BIE and Puerto Rico are represented in this release.

FS141 is composed of one data group, DG678. DG678 is defined as the unduplicated number of English learner (EL) students enrolled in an elementary or secondary school. The data are collected at the SEA, LEA and school-levels and released at the SEA and LEA-levels. The data are collected by an education unit total (total of all students) and by the following category sets:

Category Set A: Grade Level (Basic w13)

Category Set B: Language (Native)

Category Set C: Racial Ethnic Category Set D: Disability Status (Only)

The education unit total and language (native) data have been released in the past at the SEA-level in the CSPR and on ED Data Express. On ED Data Express, all disaggregations will be released at the SEA-level. In the past, the education unit total has been released at the LEA-level in the Common Core of Data. Beginning in SY2017-18, the education unit total and all disaggregations were released at the LEA-level on ED Data Express.

Some of the data from which these data elements are derived are "education records" within the meaning of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA (20 U.S.C. §1232g; 34 CFR Part 99)), and are therefore protected by FERPA.

Disclosure Risk Analysis

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

It has previously been determined that no privacy protections are needed at the SEA-level. The data do not contain any individual-level information. Because there are a number of non-observable factors that may affect whether an individual student is (or is not) included in these program participation counts when aggregated to the state-level, the ED-DRB has determined that the potential for disclosure is minimal and no privacy protections are required.

At the LEA-level, there is an increased risk of disclosure when there is a very small count of students reported or the count approaches the number of students in the school. These data are also released at the LEA-level at the education unit total in the Common Core of Data so it is recommended to align privacy protections to minimize risk of disclosure as a result of interactions between the two releases. This release will release LEA-level disaggregations in the data by grade level (basic w13), racial ethnic, language (native) (top 5 only), and disability status (only) for the first time. It is recommended that privacy protections match other LEA-level CSPR releases for consistency.

In addition, the ED-DRB considered the LEA-level release's interactions with the SEA-level data release and determined minimal risk because of differences in reporting between the two levels. At the SEA-level, student counts are unduplicated. At the LEA-level, States are instructed to report students at each LEA they are served at throughout the school year. When aggregated to the SEA-level, the LEA level count may be duplicated increasing the ambiguity of the data.

Disclosure Avoidance Methods Applied:

The SEA-level decision does not differ from the decision in previous years. Note that the disclosure avoidance methods are applied after any needed data quality suppression.

State-level Methodology:
The ED-DRB determined that no privacy protections are required for these data when reported at the State level.

LEA-level Methodology:
Because the education unit total has been released by the Common Core of Data, privacy protections have been aligned in order to stay consistent.

1) If education unit total is 1 or 2, set the education unit total to 3.

2) If membership (FS052) is zero, set the education unit total and all other values for the LEA to zero.

3) If membership (FS052) is not zero and the education unit total in FS141 is greater than membership minus 3, suppress the education unit total and all other values for the LEA.

For disaggregations in FS141, the steps are:

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

4) For breakdown by age/grade, racial/ethnic, top five languages, and disability status, suppress ("S") any cell if the count is blank, a reported zero, 1 or 2.

5) If only one age/grade category is suppressed, suppress the next lowest.

6) If only one racial/ethnic category is suppressed, suppress the next lowest.

7) If only one top five language is suppressed and it equals the education unit total, suppress the next lowest.

8) If children with disabilities count is greater than the education unit total minus 3, suppress children with disabilities count.

9) If the total CWD count reported in FS002/089 and released in the Common Core of Data is zero, suppress the children with disabilities count in FS141.

10) If the CWD count reported in FS002/089 is not zero and the children with disabilities count is greater than the CWD count (FS002/089) minus three, suppress the children with disabilities count in FS141.

For all disaggregations (except for the top five languages), if only one LEA in the State was suppressed, suppress the same category of data in another LEA.

Recommendation:

It is the consensus of the DRB that the "SY2018-19 SEA and LEA Level FS141" is safe for public release under FERPA. (Note: The DRB did not review the proposed release for accuracy, validity, or data quality.)

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
SES Performance Management System
Executive Performance Plan

PART 1. CONSULTATION

Section Purpose: Senior executive performance management systems must provide for consulting with senior executives on the development of performance elements and requirements [5 CFR 430.304(b)(2)]. This section provides documentation that the senior executive was consulted.

Instructions: Both the senior executive and rating official must sign and date the plan on their respective lines. The title of the rating official should also be provided. The appointment type of the senior executive is indicated by selecting the appropriate drop down selection (CA = Career; NC = Non-Career; LT/LE = Limited Term/Limited Emergency).

PART 2. PROGRESS REVIEW

Section Purpose: The supervisor must hold a progress review for each senior executive at least once during the appraisal period [5 CFR 430.306(b)]. This section provides documentation for that review.

Instructions: Following the senior executive's progress review, the supervisor, senior executive, and reviewing official (optional), sign and date the plan on their respective lines.

PART 3. SUMMARY RATING

Section Purpose: The supervisor must develop a written Initial Summary Rating of the senior executive's performance and share that rating with the senior executive [5 CFR 430.308(a)]. This section displays the supervisor's initial summary rating.

Instructions: An Initial Summary Rating is determined based on the appraisal of the critical elements and performance requirements in Part 5 and the derivation formula in Part 4. The rating official, senior executive and reviewing official (optional) sign and date the plan on their respective lines.

In the event a higher level review is requested, the request checkbox in the Higher Level Review section is selected and the senior executive initials and dates accordingly. Completion of the higher level review is indicated by selecting the completion checkbox. The higher level reviewer signs and dates the plan.

The Performance Review Board's (PRB) recommended rating is indicated by selecting the appropriate checkbox and a PRB member signs and dates the plan. The appointing authority must then assign the Annual Summary Rating of the senior executive's performance after considering the PRB's recommendation. The Annual Summary Rating indicated on this line of the plan is the Official Rating.

PART 4. DERIVATION FORMULA AND CALCULATION OF ANNUAL SUMMARY RATING

Section Purpose: Agencies must have a method for deriving Summary Ratings from appraisals of performance against performance requirements [5 CFR 430.304(c)(3)]. This section provides standardized Summary Level Ranges and a table for calculations.

Instructions: The supervisor will rate each individual critical element (see Part 5) and then record the point value corresponding to each element's rating in the first column of the derivation table (Initial). Point values (found in Part 5) for the five performance levels are as follows:

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

| Level 5 = 5 Points | Level 4 = 4 Points | Level 3 = 3 Points | Level 2 = 2 Points | Level 1 = 0 Points |
|---|---|---|---|---|

Each critical element's initial point value is then multiplied by its assigned weight. It is important that weighting percentages in the Weight column are recorded as whole numbers, not decimals (e.g., 30% is recorded as 30 and not .30). The product of the initial element's point value and the weight becomes the Initial Element Score. All the critical elements' Initial Element Scores are then summed to derive the Total Score. The Total Score for all of the critical elements is compared with the Summary Level Ranges.

The appointing authority will consider recommendations from the supervisor, higher level reviewer (if applicable), and the PRB to derive the Annual Summary Rating. The appointing authority will record any change to an Element Rating in the second column of the derivation table (Final (if changed)). Changing an Element Rating will require recalculating the Total Score and comparing the new score with the Summary Level Ranges to derive the Annual Summary Rating (recorded in Part 3).

PART 5. PERFORMANCE STANDARDS AND CRITICAL ELEMENTS

Section Purpose: A senior executive performance plan must include the individual and organizational expectations for the appraisal period and the Performance Requirements against which performance will be evaluated [5 CFR 430.305]. This section includes defined Performance Standards for each of the five performance levels in the appraisal system. This section also contains the required Performance Requirements for each critical element.

Instructions: The supervisor may expand on the mandatory Performance Requirements of any critical element by adding additional Agency-Specific Performance Requirements (which may be written as competencies or specific results/commitments associated with the element). The mandatory Performance Requirements of the Basic SES Performance Plan describe the Level 3 performance level, as established in the Performance Standards. Additional Agency-Specific Performance Requirements also must be written at the Level 3 performance level. Agencies are encouraged to develop requirements that set Performance Requirements for performance at Levels 5 and 2 as well, especially when describing expected results.

Critical element 5 is the Results Driven element. This critical element includes specific performance results expected from the executive during the appraisal period, focusing on measurable outcomes from the strategic plan or other measurable outputs and outcomes clearly aligned to organizational goals and objectives. The performance plan must have at least three performance requirements (including measures, targets, timelines, or quality descriptions, as appropriate) describing the range of performance at Level 3 for each result specified. Agencies may allow no more than five performance requirements. It is recommended to establish threshold measures/targets for Levels 5 and 2 as well. Each result in this section must have a relevant goal/objective from the Strategic Plan to which it aligns. Strategic Alignment requires citing the relevant goal(s)/ objective(s) (and page numbers where they can be found) in the Strategic Plan, Congressional Budget Justification/Annual Performance Plan, or other organizational planning document.

The supervisor should ensure that the weights are appropriately set (i.e., the Results Driven critical element is weighted 20% or higher; all other critical elements are weighted 5% or higher, and no individual critical element is weighted more than the Results Driven critical element) so that the total weight of all the critical elements is equal to 100%.

After evaluating the executive's performance, the supervisor selects a Critical Element Rating by checking the appropriate checkbox below each critical element. After all critical elements have been rated, the critical element rating points and weights are automatically populated in the Derivation Formula Table (see Part 4) and the Initial Total Score is calculated.

PART 6: SUMMARY RATING NARRATIVE (Mandatory)

Section Purpose: This section provides feedback for the senior executive, as well as performance information for a higher level reviewer (if requested) and the PRB (if necessary).

Instructions: Along with the Initial Summary Rating, the supervisor also provides a written Summary Rating Narrative, which is a written assessment describing the senior executive's performance. Information that helps justify the Initial Summary Rating should be included in this narrative.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Part 7: EXECUTIVE'S ACCOMPLISHMENT NARRATIVE (Optional)

Section Purpose: The Executive's Accomplishment Narrative allows the senior executive to provide a description of his/her accomplishments over the course of the rating period. This information is beneficial for the supervisor when rating and may be required by some agency appraisal systems.

Instructions: The senior executive should consider his/her performance over the course of the rating cycle and list/describe his/her accomplishments, particularly in terms of meeting or exceeding assigned performance requirements.

PART 8: EXECUTIVE DEVELOPMENT (Optional)

Section Purpose: This section should address any training or development activities the executive completed during the rating cycle that enhanced a specified leadership competency. In section 8a, the executive should identify training/development commitments at the beginning of the rating cycle. In section 8b, the executive should address what development activities were accomplished and how they related to enhancing or refining the identified competency. While this section is not required; it is highly recommended that the executive complete this portion and that the rating official take the activities into consideration when assessing critical performance elements.

UPDATED: Education Department releases new details on coronavirus task force

By Nicole Gaudiano

02/28/2020 04:09 PM EST

The Department of Education Friday afternoon released new details on its coronavirus task force members after rolling out a web page with guidance for schools on the disease.

Frank Brogan, the assistant secretary for elementary and secondary education, is leading the K-12 response, and Bob King, the assistant secretary for postsecondary education, is leading the higher education response, including Federal Student Aid, Liz Hill, a department spokesperson, wrote in an email.

Secretary Betsy DeVos announced at a congressional hearing Thursday that she set up the task force, led by her top deputy, Mick Zais, to coordinate the department's response to the disease.

"Every principal office will report up through this structure," Hill wrote.

Along with leading the department's working group, Zais is also the department's liaison for the interagency coronavirus task force, Hill wrote.

The web page, www.ed.gov/coronavirus, which went live at 4 p.m., has the latest guidance from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention for administrators of child care programs and K-12 schools. It will also include any guidance to the field from the Education Department, if needed, Hill wrote.

The page is also accessible from the department's homepage under "Coronavirus information."

On Friday, Mick Mulvaney, the acting White House chief of staff, warned of potential school shutdowns during the Conservative Political Action Conference.

"Are you going to see some schools shut down? Probably. May you see impacts on public transportation? Sure. But we do this. We know how to handle this," Mulvaney said.

Federal public health officials have urged schools to brace for more cases of the virus in the U.S. The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention has recommended that schools across the country develop contingency plans for school dismissals and closures, as well as the continuation of classes online.

President Donald Trump said during a news conference on Wednesday that "schools should be preparing and get ready, just in case."

Subject: Clarifying Question

Good morning,
I'm hoping you can provide clarification on the Foreign Schools section of the recently issued guidance.

We have students who returned to the U.S. from studying abroad at the Umbra Institute in Italy last week. The institute closed due to COVID-19. The students completed approximately 54% of the semester in Italy in-classroom. They will be finishing the remainder of their coursework through distance education taught by the Umbra Institute.

Given the guidance in the Foreign Schools section, it appears these students are no longer eligible for Title IV aid since the remaining coursework is through DE and being taught by a foreign school. However, since the students completed approximately 54% of the coursework in classroom and the remaining 46% via distance education, may we consider the coursework as hybrid? This would then mean a R2T4 calculation is NOT required.

Thank you for your assistance.

Good afternoon,

I have a few questions related to COVID-19 & student financial aid.

1. We need to apply/petition for a shortened academic year related to COVID-19. The College has decided to extend the spring break by one week without adding educational activities. What are the steps involved in securing approval for a shortened academic year?

2. Since the College has extended the spring break, that will change the percentage of the semester completed for R2T4 calculations. Do we need to recalculate those already completed or use the new break days going forward?

3. There is a possibility that the College will refund resident students a portion of the room and board for the period of the extended spring break. Do we need to adjust the COA?

Thank you for your help,

Troy

Subject: Academic Period Shortened

Hello-

Our institution has made the decision to be closed for two weeks and then converting to online. The result of this decision is that our spring semester is now 13 weeks in length which no longer meets the definition of standard term.

I have two questions then.

1- Since we treat our 'winter' non-standard term which is 4 weeks as part of spring, would we be 'ok' from a term definition given that we are 17 total weeks with that winterim term included?
2- Do we need to request a waiver for the shortening of our academic period given that we are no longer the 14-21 week definition of standard term?

If all else fails, we may decide as an institution to push our spring into our summer term dates, but given that it would result in a lot of class cancelations, I know that as an institution, that would be a tough decision.

Thank you for your assistance!

Subject: Academic Probation Flexibilities

To Whom It May Concern:
Thank you for the information that you have offered to guide higher education leaders during this time of continual changes. I am writing to request guidance on grading of courses that began in-person, then experienced a pause, and then resumed in alternative delivery (such as online). Some faculty may find it difficult to assess and evaluate students fairly, systematically, and consistently in this context of change. One potential solution is to move all classes to an automatic pass-fail (S/NC or S/U) grading scheme. One limitation, however, is this would preclude an opportunity for a student to increase their GPA…and in some instances this would automatically lead to continuation of a student on Academic Probation (I.e., not in good academic standing) by the qualitative standard. This could lead to situations where students are continued become ineligible for federal financial aid.
Is there flexibility in any of the financial aid policies to permit flexible grading this semester?
Thank you,
Bryan

Hello,

I have been referred to this email address for an answer to a pressing question. Will we be required to adjust Cost of Attendance at this point in the semester for students who receive a partial room/board credit for time that they are being asked to stay at home during the COVID-19 outbreak? This is presuming that the student is still enrolled at the status on which their award is based, and began attendance in the number of classes required for the aid they received. If the only change is that the student receives a partial room/board credit, months after their original award disbursed, are we required to make COA adjustments to account for the reduced room/board charges, and potentially have to return aid due to over award?

Thank you,

Kris

Hello,

I have a question about allocability and allowability of expenditures when activities are cancelled due to the COVID-19 pandemic:

> If SEAs and LEAs have travel scheduled to conferences which are now cancelled, and the hotel and/or airline will not refund the costs, can they still charge it to the federal grant?

For the most part, conferences themselves refund registration fees. However, airlines and hotels are either refusing to refund purchased tickets or reservations. Had the travel occurred, costs would have been allowable and allocable to one or more federal cost objectives.

Guidance regarding the allowability of cancelled travel would be most helpful, but information on how to deal with tickets that become a "travel credit" for use within a certain period would also be appreciated.

Good Morning-

Will there be guidance issued to higher education institutions pertaining to how they can administer campus-based funds (work-study) during this time when their campus has moved to online instruction and therefore students are not physically here to work? This will significantly impact a school's ability to spend down their allocation and thus impact FISAP reporting and potential future allocations.

Will the DOE be making an exception for this current year due to the COVID19 outbreak?

Our school has sent students home, but we are still operating with online course work so the college itself is not "closed or shut-down" therefore I do not believe we qualify for the guidance that was issued since the college as a whole is not closed, staff are still to report and classes are still happening.

Subject: Changing Term Dates

Good Afternoon,

Thank you for the invaluable guidance provided in the Electronic Announcement on March 5th. It has proven very helpful.

I have a couple of additional questions regarding a change my institution is considering in response to COVID-19. We are a standard term school consisting of two 16 week semesters delivered over the Fall and Spring. The institution has a scheduled break during the spring term of five days for Spring Break (causing it to be a total of 9 days within a return calculation). The school is considering extending Spring Break for an additional week in order to prepare for a switch to online delivery. This would cause the schedule break to increase to 16 days as no classes would be in session. However, the institution is not considering extending the term an additional week at the end of the term. Therefore, the term would now be defined as 15 weeks rather than 16.

I understand that this change alone will not make us non-standard. I also understand that this change would have no impact on our ability to meet the definition of an academic year. Here are my questions:

1. Because the number of weeks in the term is reduced, do I need to recalculate the costs of attendance for all students enrolled in the term?
2. If the student previously received aid based on the inclusion of the additional week within the COA, will I need to recalculate the student's aid eligibility and potentially resolve and resulting overawards?
3. If the change is made, I understand that any return calculation should reflect the number of scheduled days on the date of withdrawal. This would include the new number of days within the extended scheduled break. However, would I have to perform any recalculations for returns already calculated and processed prior to today (for the spring term)?
4. Can you think of anything else I should be concerned with in light of this potential change at DMACC?

Thanks for all your help!!!!

Respectfully,

Ean

I am disappointed that the Federal Department of Education is not allowing Christine Valmy close due to COVID-19.

Christine Valmy is a unique learning institution in the heart of Time Square. A high traffic area that receives over 330,000 visitors daily. Not only that, but many students and staff use mass public transportation daily to reach this location.

While the state of New York is taking precautions and even shutting down Broadway, which is the street the Christine Valmy is located on, it is not enough. The CDC and WHO are telling the public to avoid touching their faces. Christine Valmy is an institution that specializes in teaching people to touch faces.

The concept of staying home if you don't feel well is not enough. The virus can spread asymptomatically. This is putting not only students, staff, and clients at risk, but also any high risk individuals we come in contact with.

I understand there's finances involved in the decision to allow a school to close, but will the funds matter at the end of the day when people are hospitalized? Let's do our part to contain this virus so students can get the proper education we deserve.

Sincerely,
Maria Abela

Subject: Clarification need on Work-Study Guidance for 00282300

St. John's University, Queens New York OPE ID: 00282300 is planning to have all students attend online classes this Thursday and Friday and this will impact our Work Study Students.

In the face of COVID-19 and New York State's State of Emergency the University is planning for academic continuity. We are finalizing preparation to move courses online should that become necessary. Since transitioning our courses to an online format on a University scale has not been attempted before, we wish to test our systems this week. On Thursday, March 12 and Friday March 13 we will begin our trial run and deliver all classes via electronic channels. Students and faculty will not be required to be on campus for classes these days.

Our question based on this test scenario, under the recent release guidance can we pay Federal College Work-study students based on the hours they were scheduled to work even though administrative office will be open. Since courses will be online it would not be feasible for students to work since their work schedules are set around their class schedule.

We appreciate your guidance on this ever evolving issue.

Regards,
Eileen Flood

Importance: High

Good Afternoon,

I have verbally been instructed by our Dallas School Participation Team to direct clarification questions regarding the COVID-19 guidance published on 3/5/20 to this email address (federalstudentaid@ed.gov). I am also sending to COVID-19@ed.gov due to guidance received from the National Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators (NASFAA).

In the electronic announcement, it states that "If at any point an institution determines it will close as the result of a campus health emergency, it may contact the School Participation team to request a temporary reduction in the length of its academic year." Our institution, as well as many others, have decided to extend spring break (cancel classes) for an additional week and to offer classes remotely only for the two weeks following that break. For now, the plan is to begin offering normal classes after that timeframe but, as you know, that depends on how our community is effected by COVID-19. Also, if institutions are required to notify the Department of their closure plans, please know you can find that evolving information for our institution anytime at https://www.txstate.edu/coronavirus.

The question we have is do we have to extend our term end date to make up those days classes are cancelled? Or is the intent of this Electronic Announcement flexibility there to enable institutions to end on the original term end date (essentially it will shorten the term)?

Please know that we are aware of and have educated ourselves on the published guidance from ED thus far, including the COVID-19 ("Coronavirus") Information and Resources for Schools and School Personnel Website. This clarification would be most helpful to enable institutions to make decisions that will ultimately effect students' educational future.

Subject: clarification on students in cancelled study-abroad programs

Good morning,

I am seeking some clarification regarding adjusting educational accommodations due to COVID-19; specifically regarding students affected by the cancellation of study abroad programs.

(I copied specific excerpts from the guidance published March 5, 2020)

In the section regarding foreign schools not being able to offer online courses to students (using Title IV), is that referring to Foreign Schools that have been approved to use Title IV funds? Or, is it including ANY foreign school that a student is attending—even in the case of study abroad programs where we, the home school, is administering the aid to those affected students.

For example, student A is enrolled at our institution but participating in a study abroad program in Italy and attending a school in Italy. The program has been cancelled but the Italian school wishes to allow the student to complete classes via online. The student is receiving a direct loan, but we, the home school, administered and disbursed that aid. The student will earn their degree from our school. Can the student take this online course(s) to complete the study abroad term?

Accommodating Students Whose Enrollment is Disrupted by Coronavirus
Our goal is to work with institutions and find ways to enable you to accommodate students and help them continue their education despite interruptions caused by COVID-19. For many institutions, online education will provide a viable option for continuing to teach students through COVID-19-related interruptions. In some instances, students enrolled in ground-based programs at campuses that must temporarily close could participate in distance education for a period of time and then resume ground-based attendance when the campus reopens. In other instances, an institution may provide online learning opportunities for a student who was recalled from a travel-abroad program but the student is too late into the semester to enroll in other classes offered by the home campus, or the student who arrived in a foreign country intending to complete a travel abroad experience finds that the program has now been cancelled or temporarily suspended. We are providing the following flexibilities to institutions to help them understand what options they can make available to students and remain in compliance with Title IV requirements.

Approval to Offer Distance Education

….Finally, because we understand that some students may have been recalled from travel abroad programs or canceled-out of experiential learning opportunities after the semester began, institutions may offer courses to those students on a schedule that would otherwise be considered a non-standard term, if doing so enables those students to complete the term. These flexibilities will also be provided to institutions, or their additional locations or programs, that must temporarily close as a result of COVID-19.

Foreign Schools
We cannot extend flexibility regarding the use of distance learning to foreign schools since the Higher Education Act does not permit foreign schools to provide distance learning to U.S. students who participate in Title IV, HEA programs. We continue to consider if there are any other flexibilities we could extend to foreign schools that temporarily close due to COVID-19.

Hopefully I am clear in my question. If you need further clarification please let me know.

Thank you very much.

Our campus is not officially closing as administrative office plan to remain open, at least for now. However, ALL courses are moving to online, and no courses will be offered on campus for at least three weeks. Under these guideline, can we still pay students federal work study if they are not actually working on campus?

The guidelines state they are addressing this exact scenario:

- A campus temporarily stops offering ground-based classes in order to prevent the spread of COVID-19;

However, in the Federal work-study section it states 'if a campus must close' then we can pay work-study.

Does the temporary stoppage of ground-based classes count as a closure, per these regulations??

Hello-

We have a question regarding the guidance provided in the EA referenced above pertaining to students employed under the Federal Work-Study program, and implications of temporary school closures on their potential earnings. The EA indicates institutions may continue to pay students who were working prior to the temporary closure (assuming it continues to pay its regular employees); however, if students are in positions for which they have no opportunity to continue to work during a closure, how would the institution determine how much to pay the students going forward? Is the guidance truly saying that the students could be paid when they are not performing work? If so,would institutions pay the students based on the hours they would typically work in a pay period? What about a student whose work hours vary widely across pay periods?

Any additional guidance you could provide would be appreciated.

Good afternoon,

We are requesting clarification regarding the information about foreign schools and distance education contained in the electronic announcement.

We have students on a study abroad program for the spring 2020 term. The students began attendance in classes at the foreign institution but due to COVID-19, they are now taking only online classes. The classes are offered by the foreign institution. The students will be completing their coursework for the term in the online format. Is this an example of a foreign school providing distance learning and thus ineligible to receive Title IV aid?

Subject: Clarifying on FWS Disaster Provisions
Importance: High

Hello,

I have two clarifying questions regarding your "Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus (COVID-19)" posted on 3/5/2020. For the provision on FWS and disaster-affected students I wanted to know more about the language of closure. Does an institution have to be fully closed for the disaster provisions to apply or can the provisions apply when school stays in session in whole or in part but FWS student workers are no longer able to do their jobs because they can't be done remotely/because they have been instructed to stay home because they are not designated critical staff?

Further, regarding the phrase "For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement." I assume the yellow highlighted portion is supposed to be allowing for students in FWS positions with off-campus employers (IE Community Service FWS positions) to get paid. Does this provision apply if their FWS site/organization closes, but they are technically university employees, and the university stays open?

Thanks for clarifying!

Hello,
We are a small private, K-12 special needs school which depends on State checks to keep our educational facility open. We've been taking a wait and see approach and plan to follow the lead of our local School Board and directives from the County Health Department.
We do not have enough funding to continue to pay teachers for time off if our school is made to close for several weeks. Will there be emergency funding for a circumstance like this? If there's a chance schools close for the remainder of the year, will we still receive our 4th quarter scholarship checks? Will the 170 day attendance minimum be lifted?
Parents are asking, teachers are asking. We've done our part to clean at the school, put up appropriate hand washing and personal hygiene signs, but administration is being looked to for more defined plans at this point. I called the school choice office yesterday and was told there are not plans which have been announced yet.
Please advise,
Stacy

Good Morning,

I'm looking for clarification as I'm interpreting the language from two articles differently:

On the http://www.nasfaa.org/news-item/21105 article:

Finally, ED cannot provide relief for coronavirus-related enrollment status changes — for instance, when a student drops from full-time to three-quarter time status because an internship location closes due to coronavirus-related issues. Students in those situations would have to be treated as three-quarter time for financial aid purposes, such as their Pell Grant amount.

Compared to the IFAP announcement:

Enrollment Status Changes
We do not have the authority to waive the requirement to award or disburse Title IV funds based on a student's actual enrollment status. For example, assuming an institution defines full-time enrollment as 12 credit hours, when a full-time student enrolled for 12 credit hours drops or withdraws from three credits, that student is now enrolled at three-quarter time status. However, we remind institutions that for Direct Loans, the institution must only confirm at least half-time enrollment status as of the time of disbursement. It is not necessary to recalculate a student's Direct Loan eligibility based on changes in enrollment status that occur after the institution originates a Direct Loan. For enrollment status changes that occur after an institution's established Pell Grant recalculation (census) date, we do not require recalculation. Note that the student must have begun attendance in all courses comprising the enrollment status on which the Pell Grant payment was based.

I want to confirm if it's past our school's census date and a student drops below 12 credits, we are not required to recalculate Pell?

I have two questions about the Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus (COVID-19)

1. The Department is authorized under 34 CFR § 668.3 to approve a reduced academic year. Is a temporary five day "instructional recess" to transition from in-person to distance education courses considered a reduction in the length of the semester. If so, please provide me with the contact information of who my institution may need to inform.

2. Is the Department authorized to approve granting a semester hour of credit for fewer hours of instruction? For example, New York State Education Department has a provision that if the State or local government temporarily closes an institution due to a disaster (including an epidemic), section 52.2(c)(4) of the Regulations of the Commissioner of Education provides regulatory relief concerning the granting of a semester hour of credit for fewer hours of instruction.

Thank you for providing such useful information.

Greetings,

We are developing an action plan to avoid disruption of study due the Coronavirus.

We have read the 3/5/20 Electronic Announcement but we are hoping you can answer a few questions:

- If we switch our brick-and-mortar classes to distance learning due to the coronavirus, are there any additional requirements to monitor attendance or withdrawals? We currently have distance learning programs and since we are school that is not required to take attendance, we use academically-related activities to document attendance. The possible lack of documentation supporting attendance has us concerned.

- If enrollment is interrupted for a few weeks (no distance learning) and we have plans to reopen, can you confirm that this is not a withdrawal. What happens if we do not reopen due to ongoing coronavirus concerns? Would this be considered a withdrawal or would we call the School Participation team to request a reduced academic year?

- We have multiple campuses and students that come from all over the tristate NY area. Can you confirm that we can be selective on which campuses or programs we migrate from brick-and-mortar classes to distance learning?

Thank you for your guidance.

Subject: Clock Hour Programs Online

Dear Department COVID-19 Task Force:

On behalf of a cosmetology school client, we have a question related to response to COVID-19. The school offers clock hour based programs for which students earn clock hours for both theory (in class learning) and part practical (clinic) training hours. Traditionally, these programs have not offered any part of the education online. In light of the risks posed regionally by the COVID-19 virus, cosmetology schools are working to prepare contingency plans as recommended by USDE to avoid operational disruptions and to allow students to continue their education uninterrupted to the fullest extent possible if a locality or state mandates closure of institutions of education for any period, or if a school makes a decision on a temporary basis to close due to threat of illness.

We seek guidance on whether the Department would accept temporary online provision of educational services to replace in person theory or clinical instruction, and whether there are any limitations on that for Title IV purposes. Is a school required to obtain accreditor approval for online curriculum prior to offering, which can be a very lengthy process in particular for accreditors who are not experienced in evaluating these programs in an online format? Since these schools would not be seeking permanent offering of online forms of these programs, nor would they be marketed as such, accreditor approval would be burdensome and an impediment to adaptation to an emergency situation. Is USDE providing flexibility for schools to convert their state and accreditor approved program content to online or remote/live stream models for temporary purposes to meet the needs of students during any forced closure? What are the limitations or conditions of which schools should be aware, including around documenting attendance?

We urge the Department to take into consideration the needs of clock hour models and to provide the greatest flexibility possible to allow these schools to innovate to meet short term emergency needs.

Please let us know if there is a Department official that we can speak with on behalf of AACS to discuss in greater detail.

Subject: Clock-Hour School guidance

Hello,

I am seeking guidance for Clock-Hour schools in Ohio in regards to handling Title IV funding properly during a potential shut-down of our school. I have read over the Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus issued on March 5, 2020. We are a Career Technical school with hands-on training that will not be conducive to allowing online as an option.

With Ohio's governor taking the stance he is, and all public Universities going to fully online studies; we feel it is only a matter of time before K-12 schools will also move to this; and we would be required to follow their lead.

If we do a full shut-down of courses; would it be acceptable to put all Title IV students on an approved LOA status in NSLDS until we can resume operations? We would likely need to adjust and extend all their loan period and academic year dates in order to accommodate the completion of their programs once we are able to resume full operational status.

We would appreciate your consideration in including specific guidance for Clock Hour schools as electronic announcements are issued for this extreme health concern.

Good morning,

Our school has decided to extend our spring break another week and then classes will resume online. We are in discussion about offering prorated refunds on room and board charges and are wondering how we treat those refunds? Do we treat them as a "scholarship" or do we have to adjust the COA? We have a different COA budget for on-campus students and students living at-home as commuters but since this will be the first time we will be having remote online classes we have not had a different COA for students in this status. Can we leave the COA the same understanding that the students may have comparable food and housing expenses, even though they will not be paying the college directly?

Thank you for your help.

Subject: COA and R&B reduction of charges

Hello DOE,

Our campus is going to reduce some R&B charges because we are asking students to leave and we are moving to distance learning. I read the 3/5/20 DOE guidance but I do not see a specific COA overaward reference under COVID-19. My concern is that we may have a lot of overawards/over COA because students have borrowed PLUS /private loans up to the spring COA.

Here are my questions under the current COVID-19 environment:

1. Do we have to reduce the R&B COA allowance, for on-campus students, by the amount of the rebate? Or, can we change them to our " off-campus" estimate of the same $7200, thus preventing an overaward?

- We use estimated Room & Board charges for on-campus living ($ 7200)
- We use the same estimated cost of apartment living ( $7200)
- We use a reduced estimated cost for living with a parent ( $1600)

2. If we reduce charges, we may have an overaward/over COA situation.

- Pell- It is our understanding that if the student's enrollment does not change, we do not have to adjust PELL, even though they may be over COA.
- Direct LOAN/PLUS- If the DL has fully disbursed, we do not have to reduce loans, even though they may be over need/COA.
- SEOG- we may have to reduce SEOG over a $300 allowance if we are over need/COA?
- CWS- Like SEOG, we may have to reduce CWS over a $300 tolerance? But then continue to allow them to earn this reduced amount, under the 3/5/20 DOE guidance letter.

Please advise!

Many thanks,

Jan

Good Afternoon,

I am requesting additional guidance pertaining to the Work Study Program.

Scenario: The College activated the disaster pay for individuals who qualify for absences based on the advised of a medical professional (exhibit symptoms or may be at risk due to existing health condition). Can the College follow the same guidelines for student workers and continue paying the students even if they are unable to return to work during the time specified by the medical professional ?

Federal Work Study (FWS)

Federal law includes a provision allowing an institution to make FWS payments under certain limited circumstances to disaster-affected students who are unable to continue working. Given the unique nature of this situation, it is unlikely that an entire region would be declared a Federal disaster area, yet to students enrolled at a campus that must close temporarily, the loss of this important form of financial aid can be devastating. The impact may be magnified if the institution accommodates students by providing alternative instructional opportunities and the student is required to continue paying tuition, but the student loses FWS as an important part of their financial aid award.
For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement

I'm concerned about the potential of covid transmission in the tooth brushing protocol that is part of the public school pre-school program. After elementary schools, in the pre-school level, students brush their teeth together at a table and then place the dirty tooth brushes on a flat strainer. Then tap water is sprayed or poured over the brushes, allowing dirty water contact upon other brushes and sometimes brush to brush contact.
Could this practice be evaluated in light of the concern about community spread?
I'm not a school administrator and do not want my named to be used, because my status is as a substitite teacher, having experience with tooth brushing practice in the pre-school level.
If you're able to look into this, I'd sure love to hear back from you.

I am also concerned for teachers and staff who have medical issues. Two of teachers at our local middle school have medical conditions that weaken their immune system and one is on the waiting list for an organ transplant. Please consider closing schools to help slow the spread of this illness so that medical resources will be available for those that need help the most.

I know that everyone is busy and overwhelmed with all of the Covid-19 developments and are doing an outstanding job of protecting the health and safety of our students. I must ask, my student has chronic asthma, and he has a history of becoming extremely ill due to colds and flu, croup, and other respiratory infections. What provisions is the Dept of Education recommending for these sensitive group students??? I would like to know that students that have these conditions will be pulled from campus, if any risk of exposure is present. I am uncomfortable with the current guidelines, they do not address the needs of this vulnerable population within our school community. Thank you

Hello,

I am the Student Employment Coordinator at Bennington College. I've read over the helpful COVID-19 guidance issued on March 5th, and have a few questions about how to interpret the guidance should we decide to shift to remote operations. Assuming we do so, and want to continue supporting our students whose jobs would be affected by a closure/move to online learning:

1. Does the Department have guidance on how to calculate how many hours to pay each student for? Would we need to find out the respective average hours per week of each student worker and pay them based on this?
2. If not, could we establish a flat number of hours per week to pay all student workers for in their absence, based perhaps on the average number of hours per week needed for a student worker to meet their FWS allotment?
3. Am I correct in understanding that if we opt to continue supporting our student workers with work study, we must also continue to pay all of our staff—non-work study students, regular staff, and faculty?

I'm very grateful for any advice you can offer.

Thank you,

Subject: COVID-19 -school closure and new enrollees

Greetings,

Downey Adult School's Administration has advised me to ask ED for clarification regarding flexibilities afforded to institutions as a result of our on-campus school closure due to COVID-19.

Background:
Our school district has moved to provide instruction via an online modality. As a non-term, clock-hours school, we have received approval from the licensure bodies (BVNPT, EMS, and CAMTC) which typically prohibit online instruction, to temporarily provide online instruction during our school closure. In addition, we have amended a few policies which align with the guidelines and flexibilities afforded to us through the ELECTRONIC ANNOUNCEMENTS March 05, 2020 (OPE Announcements) Subject: Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus (COVID-19). Many of our non-term, clock hour programs offer new start dates (points of entry) that begin approximately every 5 weeks.

We need specific clarification on the following:
Since these programs are already approved for online instruction by our accreditor, The Council on Occupational Education, can we still allow new students to begin their respective programs on start dates that fall within the period of our school's closure? The "new" student would begin their instruction through the already-approved online modality. Furthermore, are institutions allowed to extend the flexibilities allowed by ED to students who begin instruction on a date after March 5th, 2020, which is the release of the ELECTRONIC ANNOUNCEMENTS March 05, 2020 (OPE Announcements) Subject: Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus (COVID-19)?

Your guidance is greatly appreciated.

Good morning,

We were advised from our accrediting body to reach out to ED for clarification on a few things. We do not run on a traditional/semester schedule. We begin programs every five weeks. Per the IFAP Announcement on 3/5, it references, "These instructions do not contemplate accommodations for students who have not yet enrolled or whose term has not yet begun, with certain exceptions."

We began a new term on 3/9/2020, just days after the announcement. We are currently in the process of determining if/when/how we transition to some distance education options. Per the announcement, it refers to the "certain exceptions." Is there any clarification on "certain exceptions"? If we decide to implement some distance learning options, are the students from the 3/9/2020 start date able to receive those accommodations.

Also, we have a start date of 4/20/2020. It is my understanding we should anticipate the institution and classes running like "normal" until any other determination from ED has been communicated?

I appreciate any feedback and guidance as I know you are probably swamped.

Good morning.

I am emailing to enquire as to whether the government has considered allowing US Foreign Schools to utilize some distance learning components during this crisis? Our school is located on the Swiss-Italian border and as such, is quite close to quarantined Italy. The closest airport and the one we use the most is in Milan and is currently completely closed. Our students are composed of 60% US student and 40% students from all over the world. As this crisis continues to rise around the world, it would greatly enhance our likelihood of enrolling our class for 2020-2021 if we can offer some alternatives to travelling abroad at this time.

Please consider this a desperate plea and advise.

Subject: Does a reduced cost of attendance mid-semester require schools to return FSA funds already disbursed?
Importance: High

Hello,

Our school has just notified students of a temporary, and possible indefinite school closure. We are intending for most classes to continue via online/distance education classes, so enrollment itself will hopefully not be too impacted. Our students are on spring break this week. Some students may home instead of returning to Cleveland either on or off campus. In the event we may need to credit student billing accounts for a partial refund of meal plans and/or on campus housing cost, or tuition itself, do we need to formally reduce the COA for financial aid purposes and subsequently reduce Direct or PLUS Loans or other FSA aid if the lower adjusted actual cost now results in total aid exceeding total cost? This assumes all aid to the student has already been disbursed.

Is the answer different depending if such adjustments are applicable before or after on 60% point in time of the term? My scenario assumes no change to the student's enrollment activities, that they are continuing to participate in the temporary distance/online coursework.

We do not yet know if we will be doing such adjustments, but we want to understand how/if this will impact the already disbursed student aid.

Thank you,

Hi there—

I'm Ashley Fetters, a reporter for The Atlantic. I write about kids and education, and I'm working on a story about how schools are dealing with and/or preparing for the spread of COVID-19. (Liz, cc'ing you on the recommendation of my terrific colleague Adam Harris.)

My coauthor and I are hoping to gain some insight as to what prolonged school closures would look like in the United States, and of course we want to include as much direct information from the Department of Education as we can. I've looked over some of the materials on the COVID-19 section of the ed.gov website, and I have a couple of quick additional questions — so I'm writing in hopes that someone from the Department of Education might be able to shed some light. Here's what I'm wondering:

- I've read about some schools considering adding extra time to the school day for students to periodically wash their hands. Does the Education Department have any specific stance or policy on this measure?
- Kids in Hong Kong have been home for several weeks now and are facing the question of how to make up for the weeks of school the students have now missed. Has the Department of Education released any guidelines, or are there any existing policies, regarding how schools should make up for days lost to school closure? (i.e., at what point should days be added onto the end of the year?)
- What is the Department of Education's stance on e-learning/online lessons? Under what circumstances, if any, would the Department advise school administrators to implement it?
- If school closures continue later into the spring, is there a federal-level plan in place for how to handle standardized testing, or college-entrance exams like the SAT and ACT?
- Are there any other contingency plans that are in the works or yet to be announced that I should look out for?

I'm hoping to file my story by the end of the day on Thursday, so let me know if there's someone who can help me learn a little more about this. Short turnaround, I know—and I apologize, as I know this must be an unbelievably busy time!—so I'm happy to hop on the phone, too, if that's easier. Thank you, talk soon,

Ashley

Good morning,

I apologize for requesting a very short turn around time but I need an answer as soon as possible. I have a student who is currently studying abroad in Austria. Based on the ban of incoming flights from Europe she has chosen to return to the United States. The program that she is attending is modular. Her module 1 and two classes were schedule on site in Austria. Due to the coronavirus they are offering the module 2 classes via distance learning. She completed 2 classes offered in module 1 at the institution in Austria. Her 2nd module 2 classes are scheduled to begin on Monday March 16, 2020. She would like to attend the classes in module 2 via distance learning video conferencing. I understand from the guidance dated March 5 that students attending a foreign institution cannot participate in a distance learning program.

To further complicate the issue, while in Austria she took 2 online classes offered at her home institution Shorter University. She completed the class in module 1 and will begin the module 2 class that is starting this week. So in essence she will be enrolled for the entire semester. Since she will be enrolled for the entire semester I am not required to perform the R2T4 but I am unsure how to proceed with the 2nd module of classes that she wants to take via distance learning in Austria?

Shorter University charges students using a block rate so her charges with us will not change. Can she attend the 2nd module of classes being offered via distance learning in Austria? The institution aid that she received at Shorter University will cover the cost of the two distance learning classes?

Good afternoon,

I have a question regarding the guidance issued on COVID19 in relation to Federal Work Study. Our campus is on spring break this week, our leadership has decided to close our campuses for instruction next week and offer distance learning to our students due to COVID19. Our campuses will be open for student services and our offices will be staffed with regular full time and part time staff. In this case, would we allow FWS students to physically work at the campuses during the instructional closure or would we be eligible to pay students FWS wages based on the instructional closure due to COVID19? Thank you for your guidance, please let me know if you need clarification. Thank you.

Annette

Federal Work Study (FWS)

Federal law includes a provision allowing an institution to make FWS payments under certain limited circumstances to disaster-affected students who are unable to continue working. Given the unique nature of this situation, it is unlikely that an entire region would be declared a Federal disaster area, yet to students enrolled at a campus that must close temporarily, the loss of this important form of financial aid can be devastating. The impact may be magnified if the institution accommodates students by providing alternative instructional opportunities and the student is required to continue paying tuition, but the student loses FWS as an important part of their financial aid award. For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement. Students who were prevented from beginning a term at the institution as a result of a COVID-19-related disruption would not be eligible for Federal Student Aid for that term, and therefore could not be paid FWS wages for hours they did not work. Graduate students who are paid FWS wages on salary may continue to be paid for the remainder of the term if the institution is also paying its faculty and staff during that period. In these instances, institutions should document (as contemporaneously as feasible) that the COVID-19 disruption was the reason the student received FWS funds without documentation of hours worked.

We are a small vocational school in the Rochester, NY area that has 3 programs (HVAC, Medical Office Assistant and Dental Assistant) that are Non-Standard, Clock hour courses with hands on job shadows. Our programs are for non-licensed certificates.

We have not seen any guidance for programming like ours and have a few questions.

Would we be able to switch to online video conferencing and if so would we still need to have the hands on portion?
If we are to shut down and are un able to switch to online video conferencing what would the effect be on to our students?
Is there a new general guide coming that will go over programs such as ours?

Good afternoon,
I am the financial aid officer at EHOVE in Ohio. Due to COVID-19, it is a possibility that we may have to close campus for a period of time. We are not approved to offer distance education and we've never had to do it before, but we are realizing that may be a reality in the near future.

Questions I have:
Is this a possibility for us even though we are not approved to do so?

Due to being a clock-hour school, we have to track hours that students sit in class. Are there restrictions or regulations in place to tell us how we would go about tracking attendance?

Most of our programs are mainly hands-on and distance learning is not a good option for them. What are our options with those programs regarding financial aid? Would extending academic years be an option if classes take several weeks off and need to move the end date back?

I'm somewhat new to this position, so this is all very new to me!
Any help would be greatly appreciated!

Good afternoon,
According to the March 5, 2020 guidance, we may continue to pay FWS students in case of a campus closure. We are not closed but are moving to distance education and our staff for the most part will work remotely. The offices will still be open with skeletal essential staff. Our understanding of the guidance is that we may pay FWS students if they are unable to work. However, we are not clear about the highlighted statement below:

"For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement."

We have student workers who receive institutional work study funds. In addition, we have some part time employees who will not be paid. Does this sentence mean that if we do not pay our institutional work study student employees and part-time employees without work, we cannot pay our FWS students if they don't work. We appreciate your help and input!

Federal Work Study (FWS)

Good Evening,

I hope you are well. I have a clarifying question on the following section of the COVID-19 guidance, specifically the non-standard term section.
If we have to cancel clinical, internships or other experiential learning due to COVID-19, would we be able to offer those classes in a format that they would overlap terms (typically making the program non-term) and still be able to remain standard term? So, for example, we would offer a clinical that starts in the Spring 2020 term, and runs through part of the Summer 2020 and/or Fall 2020 terms? Or, that starts in the Summer 2020 term and overlaps into the Fall 2020 term?

In addition, is this guidance below limited to clinical/internship type courses, or does it extent to courses, where moving to an online format isn't a viable completion option?

https://ifap.ed.gov/electronic-announcements/030520Guidance4interruptionsrelated2CoronavirusCOVID19

Finally, because we understand that some students may have been recalled from travel abroad programs or canceled-out of experiential learning opportunities after the semester began, institutions may offer courses to those students on a schedule that would otherwise be considered a non-standard term, if doing so enables those students to complete the term. These flexibilities will also be provided to institutions, or their additional locations or programs, that must temporarily close as a result of COVID-19.

Thanks!

I am a 2nd year student from Cincinnati, Ohio attending Tennessee State University, which has just cancelled its in-person meetings indefinitely. This is obviously a major transition to moving all credit hours online & removes the necessity of being on campus. With all the confusion and chaos going on due to the COVID-19, a lot of parents are sending for their children or the student is choosing to evacuate themselves due to the risk of contamination, the lack of supplies due to public panic and lack of required stay. I was listening to a broadcast called "Full Force" and heard about the government offering students who receive Financial Aid additional monetary assistance in order to travel home/make alternative housing arrangements so I wished to see how true those statements were.

Hello,

I would like to discuss the temporary reduction of the length of the academic year due to COVID-19 and potential downstream impacts. One proposal is to shorten our 17-week Spring term to 15 weeks. I would like to confirm that:

1. We would not need an exception for this reduction because we would still be over 30 weeks in the academic year.
2. For students who withdraw after the term has been reduced, their 60% mark for R2T4 would be calculated off of the new dates (making it arrive sooner).

Thank you,

Dear Colleage:

Our Spring Semester of 2020 start / end dates are 1/21/20 – 5/7/20. The scheduled spring break was 3/8/20 – 3/15/20. Due to COVID-19, the spring break has been extended through 3/22/20 to allow time for on-ground courses to be converted to an on-line format so that students have an opportunity to complete the semester.

For Federal Return to Title IV (R2T4) purposes, we are required to exclude scheduled breaks of => 5 days. Normally, we would have excluded 8 days in the R2T4 calculation.

- Do we continue to exclude 8 days in the R2T4 calculation since the extension reflects a temporary closure beyond the control of the institution (ex: due to weather, natural disaster, etc.) or must we exclude 15 days?

- If we have to exclude 15 days, are we required to recalculate R2T4 calculations completed prior to the decision to extend the spring break or does it only apply to total withdrawals beyond the decision date to extend the spring break?

Thanks for your guidance!

Good morning,

Our campus is considering options for preventing the spread of COVID-19 and need some guidance on the potential impact of the following scenarios:

1. Institutionally scheduled breaks of five or more consecutive days are excluded from the R2T4 calculation as periods of nonattendance. If we were to suspend classes for the spring semester, would this be defined as a "scheduled" break and would this rule apply? Are there other implications we need to consider?
2. What would be the impact of changing our academic calendar by moving up the end date of the spring semester? In this case, students would still be completing the semester; however, it would be shorter.
3. If there is a suspension of classes for more than five consecutive days or we change our academic calendar to end the semester early, would their be any impact on R2T4 calculations that were processed prior to this change?
4. If there is a change to our academic calendar to end the semester early, do we need to update the loan periods for loans that have already been disbursed for the aid year? What other implications do we need to consider?

Thank you in advance for your assistance.

Best regards,

Good evening,

We have students currently studying abroad in Italy who will be returning to the US. Their host school (a foreign institution) is able to continue to provide their coursework/materials by providing online instruction. Is this permissible for students receiving Title IV aid?

I've read that there is an exclusion that prohibits foreign schools to provide distance education, which would seem to be the scenario I mentioned - however, another article mentioned that this only applies to foreign institutions who receive Title IV aid. In this case, the foreign institution is not receiving Title IV aid, rather it is our college that is receiving the Title IV aid due to our students participating in their program.

Can you please clarify this?

Thank you!
Jessica

Subject: COVID-19 Questions; Gardner-Webb University, 00292900

Greetings,

On behalf of Gardner-Webb University's Senior Leadership, I am seeking guidance on our traditional ground-based undergraduate program due to actions taken for COVID-19. Most of our students in this traditional program are residential students. In general we have extended our spring break until Wednesday, March 18th and will begin transition to online coursework on that day. Those students who reside on campus have the option of returning to campus housing or remaining at home to complete their spring term coursework. We will reevaluate this temporary school "closure" on April 2nd.

Please see the following questions below. Your guidance is greatly appreciated, and your prompt attention is needed.

- With our extension of spring break and thus changing the break days in the R2T4 calculation, do we need to review all previous R2T4 calculations done thus far for spring term, or can the adjustments be made for any future calculations needed for the term once we transition to online on March 18th?

- If a decision to make reductions or discount housing or meals for this time period is made (and thus changes our cost of attendance for this population), does it follow whether or not the request and reduction is handled on an individual basis or if we apply the reduction across the residential population? Are there any exceptions if we resume normal ground-based classes before the normal end of the term in May?

- Since our traditional undergraduate population is defined as a ground-based program, do we need students to return to campus for spring term for this guidance to be valid, and if they don't, is it automatically a closure?

- Can the online environment be extended to our ground-based programs for a future enrollment such as summer or is this guidance only valid for the current term/payment period?

As always, thanks again for your guidance and prompt attention.

Regards,
Anita

I have a student that attends University of Florida and they were instructed that classes will transition to remote instruction immediately. According to the State University System of Florida website, they are directing the state universities to take steps to minimize the health and safety risks to students, faculty, staff and their communities.

This is what is on the University of Florida website:

REMOTE INSTRUCTION Effective immediately, all universities will make plans to transition to remote instruction as soon as possible.

UNIVERSITIES WITH STUDENTS CURRENTLY ON CAMPUS State universities with students who have returned from spring break, which includes Florida Gulf Coast University, Florida International University, Florida Polytechnic University, and the University of Florida, should implement a process to transition to remote instruction immediately and encourage students to return home for at least 2 weeks. Each university will provide detailed information to their students, faculty, and staff at the earliest possible time regarding this transition.

I have another student that attends Santa Fe College and according to the college they are following the recommendations from the Florida College System.

This is what is on the SF College website:

March 12, 2020, 8:08 a.m. - Santa Fe College is taking the threat of COVID-19 seriously and, is following the recommendations of the CDC, the Florida Department of Health and local emergency management. The college's emergency management team is meeting regularly like many colleges across the country and is preparing to move instruction online should the situation warrant it.

The college is following recommendations from the Florida College System and remains open at this time.

The SF college students were also on spring break at the same time University of Florida students were so what makes these students different than the University of Florida students?

I have a few concern with the recommendations of the Florida College System. Why are your recommendations different than the State University System of Florida? The health and safety of students within the State University System is their top priority. Why is it not yours?

I am a pediatric RN. I know the importance of handwashing and I understand the CDC has said that children are less likely to become infected, or their symptoms were so mild that their infection escaped detection but they can still become a carrier of the virus and infect others. (b)(6)

(b)(6)

(b)(6) Why is the Florida College System not implementing the same process for Santa Fe College as the State University System of Florida is implementing at the University of Florida? I don't see why the Santa Fe College students differ from University of Florida students.

I am sure that the University of Florida is working diligently with the Florida Department of Health and Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) to monitor COVID-19 as is the Florida College System but as said previously, why have you not made the same implementations for remote instruction at Santa Fe College?

The University of Florida is only 2 miles north and 5 mile west of Santa Fe College. The Gainesville, Fl community is a college town and is rather small and UF and Santa Fe students live, study, and work together, so with the virus rapidly spreading among the US and a confirmed case of the corona virus in Alachua county, wouldn't you want to protect the health and safety of students within the Florida College System and make it a top priority as well? As the State University System website states it has become clear that to protect the students and the residents of our state, proactive rather than reactive guidance to universities is necessary. Why is it not necessary for the Florida College System?

I would like for my concerns to be addressed and will be awaiting a reply. Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Good morning,

Will there be additional guidance on this statement in the current "Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus (COVID-19)":

The impact may be magnified if the institution accommodates students by providing alternative instructional opportunities and the student is required to continue paying tuition, but the student loses FWS as an important part of their financial aid award.

Our campus is not closing, but is instead shifting all classes to online. Faculty and staff will continue to be paid and we need to understand if we are permitted to allow Federal Work Study students to engage in work remotely and receive their funding during this time period.

Thank you for your assistance.

Subject: Federal Work Study Program and the COVID-19 at the University of Maryland, College Park MD

Greetings,
My son is a Sophomore at the University of Maryland, College Park and apart of his financial aid packet included work study. When he was informed that the school would be closing for two weeks he asked his supervisor if he would be able to work. He was informed that IF someone was working in the office, then he would be able to work. My concern is, IF someone is not in the office, will he still get paid for the week he was not able to work? According to your guidelines listed on https://ifap.ed.gov/electronic-announcements/030520Guidance4interruptionsrelated2CoronavirusCOVID19,, it indicates that he should still be able to get paid. If so, what would his supervisors need to do in order to abide by these guidelines. As you can imagine, the money he receives from the work-study program is necessary in order to pay his bills. Not receiving these benefits, that were already approved and allocated, will cause a huge financial burden on him and on his family.
Can you help us navigate through this process?
Thank you,

We have a situation that does not appear to be covered by the March 4th guidance. We are a standard term quarter school with limited online offerings. We were able to finish out winter quarter; however, due to COVID-19, all of our spring quarter courses will be taught online. We are not sure if campus offices will be open yet, but if they are, some students may be able to work, and some, who remain at home with the parents, will not be able to work. In a case like this, is it permissible to pay the students who cannot work on the same basis as those who can work? These students would be enrolled in either case.

Thanks…

Our school has decided to go to remote courses except for lab and hands-on technical classes (welding, automotive, etc.). Do our work study students qualify to be paid even if they can't work their hours? Our campus technically isn't closed. Specifically, several of our students work supervising the fitness centers on campus. The fitness centers have been closed so those workers have been displaced. Can they still be paid for their regular hours?

I would like to clarify the electronic announcement dated March 5th about the Guidance for interruption of study related to Coronavirus. Under the Federal Work Study section, the statement:

For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement.

To confirm that we can continue to pay the student FWS without hours worked (clocked in and out)? How does the school determine the hours? Do we base it on the average hours worked for the spring semester or do we just pay the maximum of 20 hours?

If you can please provide guidance on this.

Dear Sir/ Madam,

I am writing in connection with the Office of Postsecondary Education' electronic announcement of March 05, 2020 and the part regarding foreign schools: "We cannot extend flexibility regarding the use of distance learning to foreign schools since the Higher Education Act does not permit foreign schools to provide distance learning to U.S. students who participate in Title IV, HEA programs. We continue to consider if there are any other flexibilities we could extend to foreign schools that temporarily close due to COVID-19."

Due to the spread of Coronavirus (COVID-19) in Europe and following the safety recommendations of the Chief Sanitary Inspectorate, JU Rector Prof. Wojciech Nowak has cancelled all lectures conducted at Jagiellonian University. Wherever applicable, lectures should be made available online. Other classes (which take place in a smaller groups) will be held as per usual, with any additional restrictions to be introduced by the Faculties.

Please let me know if the above regulations (authorizing distance learning at programs which are not usually distance) do have an impact on students' eligibility for Title IV funds in the 2019-2020 summer semester and should we withhold the disbursements for this semester. Please note that these are exceptional circumstances and all decisions have been made to ensure student safety.

I would appreciate a reply asap as we have just evaluated students' Satisfactory Academic Progress after winter semester and we are ready to make the Title IV funds disbursements for the second semester.

Thank you,
Ewa Stankiewicz

Good afternoon,

I'm writing to confirm the guidance on Enrollment Status Changes. Scenario: a student was enrolled full-time in an on-campus program. Due to COVID-19 the IHE has moved all students out of their dorms to return home for the remainder of the spring term. All classes that can be taught by distance learning will, however, if a student's classes aren't all offered online and the student is now enrolled less than half-time, through no fault of his/her own, is the student now considered less than half-time? I assume from the guidance that yes, the student is less than half-time and will enter repayment on prior loans.

My school is currently on the spring break that had been scheduled. However, as of yesterday, my college chose to extend spring break due to cironavirus concerns by another week. What do I do for R2T4'S? I hope I do not have to go back and change all of the previously completed R2T4's. Do I even need to change my upcoming R2T4's since this was not an expected break for students and would negatively affect the earned aid they can keep?

Hello,

Our school has extended the spring break (one week) for an additional week. At the end of all classes will be converted to online.

Do we have to recalculate the R2T4's prior to this increase in the days for spring break?

If the schools gives an Incomplete for all courses do we have to complete R2T4?

If the students are reimbursed dormitory cost do we have to adjust our Cost of Attendance (COA)?

Do we have to adjust all the COA's due to the shortened semester?

Do we have to adjust all the COA's transportation component due to all classes are on line for the duration of the semester?

Thank for you time in this matter.

Good morning Ms. Hilsey…

My colleague (Amy Wood) from TSU forwarded your response as noted below. I want to ensure that I understand your guidance. Prior to my remarks, I acknowledge the following guidance provided in the March 5, 2020 Federal EA regarding FWS:

> Federal Work Study (FWS)
> Federal law includes a provision allowing an institution to make FWS payments under certain limited circumstances to disaster-affected students who are unable to continue working. Given the unique nature of this situation, it is unlikely that an entire region would be declared a Federal disaster area, yet to students enrolled at a campus that must close temporarily, the loss of this important form of financial aid can be devastating. The impact may be magnified if the institution accommodates students by providing alternative instructional opportunities and the student is required to continue paying tuition, but the student loses FWS as an important part of their financial aid award. For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement. Students who were prevented from beginning a term at the institution as a result of a COVID-19-related disruption would not be eligible for Federal Student Aid for that term, and therefore could not be paid FWS wages for hours they did not work. Graduate students who are paid FWS wages on salary may continue to be paid for the remainder of the term if the institution is also paying its faculty and staff during that period. In these instances, institutions should document (as contemporaneously as feasible) that the COVID-19 disruption was the reason the student received FWS funds without documentation of hours worked.

Our scheduled spring break was March 9 – 13, 2020. Due to COVID-19, we have extended the spring break through March 22, 2020. Students will resume classes on March 23, 2020. However, some classes that were already scheduled as on-line coursework may resume next week. During the week of March 16, on-ground coursework will be converted to on-line coursework to the extent possible. At this point, our on-campus housing will remain open. On-campus meals will still be provided. However, for an interim period, we are trying to promote social distancing by not offering on-ground classes, cancelling sport events, etc.

You indicated below "You may pay FWS wages to students who are unable to work due to classes being offered via distance education the same as would be able to pay them if the institution were closed." Please refer to the section highlighted in blue above. I'm having difficulty understanding what "close" means. Our campus will still be open to students except for the library and recreation center. Students can still drop by administrative offices for routine business. Except for the two locations just mentioned, students still have the option to continue working in their FWS positions. However, given the extended spring break and the fact that we will be converting to on-line coursework, some students may choose to not return to campus until on-ground coursework resumes. So…

Am I correct that we can either pay FWS students for actual hours worked if they choose to come to campus to work as normally scheduled and that we also have the option to pay other FWS students who choose not to return to campus during the interim period based on what they could have earned based on their normal scheduled hours? Or, must we be consistent and indicate to all FWS students that either they will only be paid if they come back to campus and work normal scheduled hours (since most locations are open) or that we will not allow any of them to work given the interim impact of COVID-19 but will nonetheless pay them based on their normal scheduled hours?

And based on your response to the above question, how does the library and recreation center factor into the equation since they will be closed to students and thus FWS students who work at these locations will not have the option to work?

Thanks so much for your guidance!

Importance: High

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

1. Has there been any administrative guidance on what to do if students are unable to complete planned FWS due to campuses moving to on-line only classes? Yes. You may pay FWS wages to students who are unable to work due to classes being offered via distance education the same as would be able to pay them if the institution were closed.
2. If the campus remains open, can we allow students to work any hours since technically they have no firm class schedules? Yes. With no firm class schedule, it would no longer be apparent where work hours might conflict with a student's classes. Students should be informed that they should not schedule work hours for time periods where they know, given revised schedules, they are supposed to be in class/lab etc. This pretty much puts students on their honor, with the school not being responsible if a student does end up working during a class.

3. Will we be able to receive a waiver if students are not able to earn enough to meet our commitment of required paid amounts due to campus closure or limited activity? No waiver exists as of yet . However, we are still exploring areas where relief may be necessary and what means or authority is at our disposal to grant such relief. We certainly will consider this.

Any assistance is appreciated.

Good morning,

My name is Tom Pinkl from the Financial Aid Office at La Salle University (School code 003287). I had a question about the announcement that went out on March 5th regarding Coronavirus.

Federal Work Study (FWS)
Federal law includes a provision allowing an institution to make FWS payments under certain limited circumstances to disaster-affected students who are unable to continue working. Given the unique nature of this situation, it is unlikely that an entire region would be declared a Federal disaster area, yet to students enrolled at a campus that must close temporarily, the loss of this important form of financial aid can be devastating. The impact may be magnified if the institution accommodates students by providing alternative instructional opportunities and the student is required to continue paying tuition, but the student loses FWS as an important part of their financial aid award. For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement. Students who were prevented from beginning a term at the institution as a result of a COVID-19-related disruption would not be eligible for Federal Student Aid for that term, and therefore could not be paid FWS wages for hours they did not work. Graduate students who are paid FWS wages on salary may continue to be paid for the remainder of the term if the institution is also paying its faculty and staff during that period. In these instances, institutions should document (as contemporaneously as feasible) that the COVID-19 disruption was the reason the student received FWS funds without documentation of hours worked.

La Salle University's spring break starts tomorrow March 13th, and will go until Sunday, March 22nd. The University is canceling face-to-face courses on campus for one week, from Monday, March 23 – Friday, March 27. Courses will resume through remote learning from Monday, March 30 – Friday, April 3. Face-to-face instruction on campus will resume no earlier than Monday, April 6. Based on the announcement above, I understand that students can still be paid FWS while face-to-face courses are cancelled. I was hoping for some clarification though. La Salle was granted a title III/IV waiver for the 2019-20 academic year and will not be doing an institutional match for FWS. Because we are not required to meet the institutional match requirement, can we still pay students FWS during the two week period that face-to-face courses are cancelled?

Any guidance would be greatly appreciated.

Thanks,

Tom Pinkl

Greetings!

We haven't closed (yet), but we're extending spring break a week in order to shore up the on-line instruction process for the campus. I would conclude that paying students for the week that they are required to be away is acceptable since they cannot return to campus. Then, students will be able to return to campus and have limited access to what and where they go (e.g. no face to face classes unless required, etc.) which may include not working in campus departments, etc. Is there flexibility here to continue to pay student workers if they are not being allowed to work (in order to reduce the likelihood of transmitting illness, etc.)? Administrative Offices may even restrict student visits to scheduling appointments.

Thanks for your feedback.

Best,
Fred

For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement. Students who were prevented from beginning a term at the institution as a result of a COVID-19-related disruption would not be eligible for Federal Student Aid for that term, and therefore could not be paid FWS wages for hours they did not work. Graduate students who are paid FWS wages on salary may continue to be paid for the remainder of the term if the institution is also paying its faculty and staff during that period. In these instances, institutions should document (as contemporaneously as feasible) that the COVID-19 disruption was the reason the student received FWS funds without documentation of hours worked.*

Good Morning,
Looking for guidance on paying federal work study to students while our institution has moved to online classes and staff is working from home. We are not closed but the work study students can not go to their places of employment. Are we still able to pay them? The guidance references a school closing so I want to be clear before making this offer.
Thank you so much for assistance during this confusing time.

Hello,

Thank you for the guidance but I have one follow up question.

Our school is transitioning all of our campus based students to online courses due to Covid-19. Some personnel is still to report, but most are not, including Federal Work Studies. In reference to the March 5th guidance, does this constitute a closure and therefor it is OK for Medaille College to pay its federal Work Studies for hours that they would have worked according to their schedules?

Federal Work Study (FWS)

Federal law includes a provision allowing an institution to make FWS payments under certain limited circumstances to disaster-affected students who are unable to continue working. Given the unique nature of this situation, it is unlikely that an entire region would be declared a Federal disaster area, yet to students enrolled at a campus that must close temporarily, the loss of this important form of financial aid can be devastating. The impact may be magnified if the institution accommodates students by providing alternative instructional opportunities and the student is required to continue paying tuition, but the student loses FWS as an important part of their financial aid award. For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the

Good morning,

After reading the electronic announcement dated March 05, 2020 "Subject Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus (COVID-19)" in regards to Federal Work Study, can you provide me with some additional guidance on the following:

The guidance indicates "For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement."

What about in the event of a partial closure? Currently, our college is in discussion of moving all/most lecture classes to online? Some of our Student Services Departments and staff members may be working remotely. Another possible scenarios is that the colleges suspends all face-to-face classes and student services are suspended. Both of these scenarios can impact our FWS students. Would either of the scenarios still be within the guidance above to continue paying our FWS students?

Subject: Federal Work Study and change of length of academic year

Good morning,
Our school is located in King County, near Seattle. Based on the recent developments we are considering delaying the start of our spring quarter. We moved most classes for the remainder of the winter quarter to alternate modalities to encourage social distancing.

I am meeting with the executive team later today and I'm trying to gather any information that would influence our decision for spring quarter. The recent Electronic Annourcement, dated March 5, 2020, states that schools can request a reduced academic year. Is there a specific process for this? What is the best way to contact the School Participation team? Our proposal would be to reduce the academic year by 2 weeks (making spring quarter an 8 week quarter instead of the typical 10).

Also, regarding FWS. If the school campus is closed to the public but classes are still running in alternate modalities at the beginning of the quarter, would the guidance of allowing FWS to be paid (provided we continue with the institutional share) still be applicable? What about if the closure is during the break? I would assume we could pay if the student was registered for spring quarter as we would during other breaks. Are there any additional considerations I need to take into account? At this point we don't have plans to completely close to the public, but we are making contingency plans.

Thank you for your assistance during this difficult time.

Regarding ED's guidance below we wanted to get confirmation that as an institution which does not intend on formally closing at this time due to COVID-19, but which is going to provide alternative/remote instruction, that the FWS allowance as described below is applicable.

ED addressed specific impacts on the Federal Work-Study (FWS) program if disruptions from the coronavirus occur. Currently, federal law allows institutions to continue making FWS payments in certain circumstances to students in disaster-impacted areas if the student is not able to continue working. While ED said it is "unlikely that an entire region would be declared a federal disaster area," due to the coronavirus, for students enrolled at an institution that has to close temporarily, "the loss of this important form of financial aid can be devastating."

In those circumstances — for FWS students enrolled at an institution that closes temporarily due to the coronavirus, or for those whose employer closes as a result of the coronavirus — the institution will be permitted to continue paying the FWS wages "if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement."

Good Morning-

Will there be guidance issued to higher education institutions pertaining to how they can administer campus-based funds (work-study) during this time when their campus has moved to online instruction and therefore students are not physically here to work? This will significantly impact a school's ability to spend down their allocation and thus impact FISAP reporting and potential future allocations.

Will the DOE be making an exception for this current year due to the COVID19 outbreak?

Our school has sent students home, but we are still operating with online course work so the college itself is not "closed or shut-down" therefore I do not believe we qualify for the guidance that was issued since the college as a whole is not closed, staff are still to report and classes are still happening.

Any insight is greatly appreciated.

Subject: Changing Term Dates

Good Afternoon,

Thank you for the invaluable guidance provided in the Electronic Announcement on March 5th. It has proven very helpful.

I have a couple of additional questions regarding a change my institution is considering in response to COVID-19. We are a standard term school consisting of two 16 week semesters delivered over the Fall and Spring. The institution has a scheduled break during the spring term of five days for Spring Break (causing it to be a total of 9 days within a return calculation). The school is considering extending Spring Break for an additional week in order to prepare for a switch to online delivery. This would cause the schedule break to increase to 16 days as no classes would be in session. However, the institution is not considering extending the term an additional week at the end of the term. Therefore, the term would now be defined as 15 weeks rather than 16.

I understand that this change alone will not make us non-standard. I also understand that this change would have no impact on our ability to meet the definition of an academic year. Here are my questions:

1. Because the number of weeks in the term is reduced, do I need to recalculate the costs of attendance for all students enrolled in the term?
2. If the student previously received aid based on the inclusion of the additional week within the COA, will I need to recalculate the student's aid eligibility and potentially resolve and resulting overawards?
3. If the change is made, I understand that any return calculation should reflect the number of scheduled days on the date of withdrawal. This would include the new number of days within the extended scheduled break. However, would I have to perform any recalculations for returns already calculated and processed prior to today (for the spring term)?

4. Can you think of anything else I should be concerned with in light of this potential change at DMACC?

St. John's University, Queens New York OPE ID: 00282300 is planning to have all students attend online classes this Thursday and Friday and this will impact our Work Study Students.

In the face of COVID-19 and New York State's State of Emergency the University is planning for academic continuity. We are finalizing preparation to move courses online should that become necessary. Since transitioning our courses to an online format on a University scale has not been attempted before, we wish to test our systems this week. On Thursday, March 12 and Friday March 13 we will begin our trial run and deliver all classes via electronic channels. Students and faculty will not be required to be on campus for classes these days.

Our question based on this test scenario, under the recent release guidance can we pay Federal College Work-study students based on the hours they were scheduled to work even though administrative office will be open. Since courses will be online it would not be feasible for students to work since their work schedules are set around their class schedule.

We appreciate your guidance on this ever evolving issue.

Eileen Flood

Good Afternoon,

I have verbally been instructed by our Dallas School Participation Team to direct clarification questions regarding the COVID-19 guidance published on 3/5/20 to this email address (federalstudentaid@ed.gov). I am also sending to COVID-19@ed.gov due to guidance received from the National Association of Student Financial Aid Administrators (NASFAA).

In the electronic announcement, it states that "If at any point an institution determines it will close as the result of a campus health emergency, it may contact the School Participation team to request a temporary reduction in the length of its academic year." Our institution, as well as many others, have decided to extend spring break (cancel classes) for an additional week and to offer classes remotely only for the two weeks following that break. For now, the plan is to begin offering normal classes after that timeframe but, as you know, that depends on how our community is effected by COVID-19. Also, if institutions are required to notify the Department of their closure plans, please know you can find that evolving information for our institution anytime at https://www.txstate.edu/coronavirus.

The question we have is do we have to extend our term end date to make up those days classes are cancelled? Or is the intent of this Electronic Announcement flexibility there to enable institutions to end on the original term end date (essentially it will shorten the term)?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Please know that we are aware of and have educated ourselves on the published guidance from ED thus far, including the COVID-19 ("Coronavirus") Information and Resources for Schools and School Personnel Website. This clarification would be most helpful to enable institutions to make decisions that will ultimately effect students' educational future.

Good morning,

I am seeking some clarification regarding adjusting educational accommodations due to COVID-19; specifically regarding students affected by the cancellation of study abroad programs.

(I copied specific excerpts from the guidance published March 5, 2020)

In the section regarding foreign schools not being able to offer online courses to students (using Title IV), is that referring to Foreign Schools that have been approved to use Title IV funds? Or, is it including ANY foreign school that a student is attending—even in the case of study abroad programs where we, the home school, is administering the aid to those affected students.

For example, student A is enrolled at our institution but participating in a study abroad program in Italy and attending a school in Italy. The program has been cancelled but the Italian school wishes to allow the student to complete classes via online. The student is receiving a direct loan, but we, the home school, administered and disbursed that aid. The student will earn their degree from our school. Can the student take this online course(s) to complete the study abroad term?

Accommodating Students Whose Enrollment is Disrupted by Coronavirus

19-related interruptions. In some instances, students enrolled in ground-based programs at campuses that must temporarily close could participate in distance education for a period of time and then resume ground-based attendance when the campus reopens. In other instances, an institution may provide online learning opportunities for a student who was recalled from a travel-abroad program but the student is too late into the semester to enroll in other classes offered by the home campus, or the student who arrived in a foreign country intending to complete a travel abroad experience finds that the program has now been cancelled or temporarily suspended. We are providing the following flexibilities to institutions to help them understand what options they can make available to students and remain in compliance with Title IV requirements.

Approval to Offer Distance Education

….Finally, because we understand that some students may have been recalled from travel abroad programs or canceled-out of experiential learning opportunities after the semester began, institutions may offer courses to those students on a schedule that would otherwise be considered a non-standard term, if doing so enables those students to complete the term. These flexibilities will also be provided to institutions, or their additional locations or programs, that must temporarily close as a result of COVID-19.

Foreign Schools
We cannot extend flexibility regarding the use of distance learning to foreign schools since the Higher Education Act does not permit foreign schools to provide distance learning to U.S. students who participate in Title IV, HEA programs. We continue to consider if there are any other flexibilities we could extend to foreign schools that temporarily close due to COVID-19.

Hopefully I am clear in my question. If you need further clarification please let me know.

Thank you very much.

And a bit more info.....most of our students are NOT local; their homes are at least 65 miles away. So they will be leaving campus tomorrow for spring break, and will not be returning to campus until ground-based classes resume. It will not be possible for them to work, even if offices remain open.

Our campus is not officially closing as administrative office plan to remain open, at least for now. However, ALL courses are moving to online, and no courses will be offered on campus for at least three weeks. Under these guideline, can we still pay students federal work study if they are not actually working on campus?

The guidelines state they are addressing this exact scenario:

- A campus temporarily stops offering ground-based classes in order to prevent the spread of COVID-19;

However, in the Federal work-study section it states 'if a campus must close' then we can pay work-study.

Does the temporary stoppage of ground-based classes count as a closure, per these regulations??

Hello-

We have a question regarding the guidance provided in the EA referenced above pertaining to students employed under the Federal Work-Study program, and implications of temporary school closures on their potential earnings. The EA indicates institutions may continue to pay students who were working prior to the temporary closure (assuming it continues to pay its regular employees); however, if students are in positions for which they have no opportunity to continue to work during a closure, how would the institution determine how much to pay the students going forward? Is the guidance truly saying that the students could be paid when they are not performing work? If so,would institutions pay the students based on the hours they would typically work in a pay period? What about a student whose work hours vary widely across pay periods?

Any additional guidance you could provide would be appreciated.

Hello,

I have two clarifying questions regarding your "Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus (COVID-19)" posted on 3/5/2020. For the provision on FWS and disaster-affected students I wanted to know more about the language of closure. Does an institution have to be fully closed for the disaster provisions to apply or can the provisions apply when school stays in session in whole or in part but FWS student workers are no longer able to do their jobs because they can't be done remotely/because they have been instructed to stay home because they are not designated critical staff?

Further, regarding the phrase "For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement." I assume the yellow highlighted portion is supposed to be allowing for students in FWS positions with off-campus employers (IE Community Service FWS positions) to get paid. Does this provision apply if their FWS site/organization closes, but they are technically university employees, and the university stays open?

Thanks for clarifying!

Good morning,
I'm hoping you can provide clarification on the Foreign Schools section of the recently issued guidance.

We have students who returned to the U.S. from studying abroad at the Umbra Institute in Italy last week. The institute closed due to COVID-19. The students completed approximately 54% of the semester in Italy in-classroom. They will be finishing the remainder of their coursework through distance education taught by the Umbra Institute.

Given the guidance in the Foreign Schools section, it appears these students are no longer eligible for Title IV aid since the remaining coursework is through DE and being taught by a foreign school. However, since the students completed approximately 54% of the coursework in classroom and the remaining 46% via distance education, may we consider the coursework as hybrid? This would then mean a R2T4 calculation is NOT required.

Thank you for your assistance.

Advisory

FEMA Support to Coronavirus Response

The federal government is taking aggressive and proactive steps to address the Coronavirus (COVID-19) threat working closely with state and local partners to protect the public's health and keep the public informed as the situation evolves domestically and globally. To that end, President Trump formed the White House Coronavirus Task Force, led by Vice President Pence, which leads coordinated federal efforts to contain the spread and mitigate the effects of the virus.

Consistent with Presidential Policy Directive-44: Enhancing Domestic Incident Response, the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) is the lead federal agency for public health responses. The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) – through a Crisis Action Task Force located at the HHS Secretary's Operations Center– provides support to HHS through delivery of crisis action planning, situational awareness reporting, interagency coordination, course of action development, and logistics supply chain analysis.

Please reference the attached Fact Sheet for more information.

FACT SHEET

FEMA Support to Coronavirus Response

The federal government is taking aggressive and proactive steps to address the Coronavirus (COVID-19) threat working closely with state and local partners to protect the public's health and keep the public informed as the situation evolves domestically and globally.

White House Task Force

- On January 29, 2020 President Trump announced the formation of the White House Coronavirus Task Force.
- On February 26, 2020, President Trump announced Vice President Pence would lead the Task Force. Additionally, Ambassador Deborah Birx will serve as the White House Coronavirus Response Coordinator. The Task Force will lead the Administration's efforts to contain the spread and mitigate the effects of the virus, while ensuring that the American people have the most accurate and up-to-date health and travel information.
- The Task Force is composed of subject matter experts from the White House and several United States Government agencies, including the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services whom is serving as the lead federal agency for coronavirus response. Task Force membership can be found on the White House website.

Federal Interagency Coordination

Lead Federal Agency

- Presidential Policy Directive-44: Enhancing Domestic Incident Response designates HHS as the lead federal agency for public health responses utilizing authority established through:
  - Pandemic and All Hazards Preparedness Act (PAHPA)
  - Public Health Service Act
  - National Response Framework (NRF) and associated operational plans.
- The Congress-designated appropriation for this mission is the Public Health Emergency Fund for coordinating and delivering assistance.
- Currently, Congress is considering a supplemental appropriation to support public health preparedness and response efforts.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

FEMA Role

FEMA is a supporting agency to HHS currently delivering crisis action planning, situational awareness reporting, interagency coordination, course of action development and logistics supply chain analysis through a Crisis Action Task Force located at the HHS Secretary's Operations Center.

- FEMA began planning and coordination with HHS in late January, including the assessment of the government's Pandemic Crisis Action Plan.
- Additionally, FEMA is readying over fifty teams to respond and support states and territories that may need assistance.

At this time, FEMA is not preparing an emergency declaration in addition to the Public Health Emergency declared by HHS on January 31, 2020.

Emergency Support Functions (ESF)

- The NRF and Response Federal Interagency Operational Plan (FIOP) are always in effect.
- In accordance with the NRF, HHS – under its ESF#8 Primary Authority for Public Health and Medical issues – has sixteen Supporting Agencies to initiate federal interagency coordination in the presence or absence of a Stafford Act declaration.
- Under a Non-Stafford Event, HHS – under the Economy Act – may request specific core capabilities from each (and appropriate) Federal Departments/Agencies through both a Memorandum of Agreement (MOA) and reimbursable Inter Agency Agreement (IAA);
- The Emergency Support Function Leadership Group (ESFLG) is convened at the request of HHS (or any other Lead Federal Agency for a given large-scale incident) at any time. FEMA can facilitate use of ESFLG using the Interagency Video Teleconference (VTC) format used during Stafford incidents
- Currently, HHS develops and provides a daily Senior Leadership Brief (SLB) reflecting interagency actions and lifeline impacts.

Pandemic Crisis Action Plan (PanCAP)

- Represents response to a 2013 avian influenza in China (H7N9) and a coronavirus in the Middle East (MERS-CoV)
- Provides a process that outlines Public Health and emergency management response activities with defined triggers for movement between threat phases.
- Provides a sample coordination structure for each phase, which has been modified for COVID-19 (FEMA, ASPR, CDC).

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

State/Territorial/ Tribal/ Local Assistance

The primary form of assistance to States, Territories, Tribes and Localities may come in the form of federal guidance, funding to support enhanced mitigation measures, logistics supply chain analysis, and regulatory relief facilitated through HHS.

Some federal medical team capabilities may be deployed to support specific federal mission requirements (e.g., Incident Management Teams, Disaster Medical Assistance Teams) however these are expected to be limited as the virus becomes more widespread.

Public Health and Medical Assistance

- In a declared Public Health Emergency, the Secretary of HHS can initiate several actions to facilitate SLTT response including waiving certain regulatory requirements and authorizing federal Public Health Grantees to use grant funds towards a response to COVID-19.

- Guidance or assistance, in the form of technical assistance, during a biological incident may occur through the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) under its legislative authorities and is anticipated to be the primary form of requested assistance.

- HHS manages the provision and development of vaccines and medications against this disease.

- The extent of additional HHS assistance to be available for States to manage the COVID-19 response is pending supplemental funding determinations from Congress.

Grant Assistance

FEMA Administrator, through the Grants Program Directorate, may direct emergency management grantees the use of awarded funds towards non-public health and non-medical capabilities to prepare and/or to respond to a biological incident whether directly impacted or not.

On March 3, 2020, the FEMA Grants Program Directorate provided notification to grant recipients and subrecipients to remind them of the cost allowability requirements of the Emergency Management, Homeland Security, and Tribal Homeland Security grant programs. Currently, FEMA is not proposing to expand allowability under any grant program.

- Emergency Management Performance Grant (EMPG): The purpose of the EMPG Program is to provide federal funds to states to assist state, local, territorial, and tribal governments in preparing for all hazards. EMPG funding can be used to support emergency preparedness and response capabilities for COVID-19.

  Allowable activities include, but are not limited to, strengthening public health incident management and emergency operations coordination to enable jurisdictions to provide emergency management response support that exceeds normal capacity; Strengthening information management and sharing; Strengthening community recovery and resilience; Vector control and surveillance; Health surveillance and epidemiological investigation; Laboratory testing and support services; and Blood safety.

- Homeland Security Grant Program (HSGP): The HSGP includes a suite of risk-based grants, including the State Homeland Security Program (SHSP) and Urban Area Security Initiative (UASI), designed to assist SLTT efforts in preventing, preparing for, protecting against, and responding to acts of terrorism.

  For both SHSP and UASI many activities that support the achievement of core capabilities related to terrorism preparedness may simultaneously support enhanced preparedness for hazards unrelated to acts of terrorism. However, all SHSP- and UASI-funded projects must assist recipients and subrecipients in achieving core capabilities related to preventing, preparing for, protecting against, or responding to acts of terrorism. States and high-risk urban areas must justify proposed expenditures of SHSP or UASI funds in their Investment Justification submissions.

- Tribal Homeland Security Grant Program (THSGP): Like HSGP, the THSGP assists directly eligible tribal governments with efforts related to preventing, preparing for, protecting against, and responding to acts of terrorism.

  Activities funded under THSGP that support the achievement of core capabilities related to terrorism preparedness may simultaneously support enhanced preparedness for hazards unrelated to acts of terrorism. However, all THSGP-funded projects must assist recipients in achieving core capabilities related to preventing, preparing for, protecting against, or responding to acts of terrorism. Tribal governments must justify proposed expenditures of THSGP funds in their Investment Justification submissions.

Our school is transitioning all of our campus based students to online courses due to Covid-19. Some personnel is still to report, but most are not, including Federal Work Studies. In reference to the March 5th guidance, does this constitute a closure and therefor it is OK for Medaille College to pay its federal Work Studies for hours that they would have worked according to their schedules?

Federal Work Study (FWS)
Federal law includes a provision allowing an institution to make FWS payments under certain limited circumstances to disaster-affected students who are unable to continue working. Given the unique nature of this situation, it is unlikely that an entire region would be declared a Federal disaster area, yet to students enrolled at a campus that must close temporarily, the loss of this important form of financial aid can be devastating. The impact may be magnified if the institution accommodates students by providing alternative instructional opportunities and the student is required to continue paying tuition, but the student loses FWS as an important part of their financial aid award. For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement. Students who were prevented from beginning a term at the institution as a result of a COVID-19-related disruption would not be eligible for Federal Student Aid for that term, and therefore could not be paid FWS wages for hours they did not work. Graduate students who are paid FWS wages on salary may continue to be paid for the remainder of the term if the institution is also paying its faculty and staff during that period. In these instances, institutions should document (as contemporaneously as feasible) that the COVID-19 disruption was the reason the student received FWS funds without documentation of hours worked.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Subject: Financial Aid Cost of attendance question

My University has a campus in Italy which we have closed. Students are completing courses for the semester online. I have reviewed the Electronic Announcement from March 5, 2020 and have a follow-up question regarding Cost of Attendance. Students are awarded on a Cost of Attendance that is enhanced to consider additional costs for travel, room, board, international flights, and supplies. Since the students had to return home and did not participate in much of the travel for the semester do we need to make a Cost of Attendance adjustment? We are refunding students for room, board, and class trips on a prorated basis. Do we need to then reduce the cost of attendance used to calculate Title IV eligibility to take these adjustments into account? We do have several students with up-to-cost loans that we are most concerned about. Thank you for your assistance in this matter.

Good morning,

Can ED provide guidance about financial aid budget adjustments allowed during Coronavirus emergency? We are encountering a number of students with unique circumstances due to this emergency. How much flexibility are we allowed for adjustments to: travel expenses increase/decrease, housing increase/decrease, meal plan increase/decrease, personal expenses increase, etc.

Good morning,

Florida State University has proactively monitored and responded to daily developments as the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) has spread in Florida and across the United States. Therefore, we will be shifting to an online instruction mode for a temporary period of two weeks beginning March 23rd. During this time our campus will be open, but students are encouraged to leave campus but are not required to do so. We are requesting additional guidance and clarity on the language released by the USDOE recently:https://ifap.ed.gov/electronic-announcements/030520Guidance4interruptionsrelated2CoronavirusCOVID19

We would like to know whether in our situation, we can continue to pay our FWS students without the need for them to be present and working on campus.
We do greatly appreciate your guidance.

Federal Work Study (FWS)
*Federal law includes a provision allowing an institution to make FWS payments under certain limited circumstances to disaster-affected students who are unable to continue working. Given the unique nature of this situation, it is unlikely that an entire region would be declared a Federal disaster area, yet to students enrolled at a campus that must close temporarily, the loss of this important form of financial aid can be devastating.The impact may be magnified if the institution accommodates students by providing alternative instructional opportunities and the student is required to continue paying tuition, but the student loses FWS as an important part of their financial aid award. For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement. Students who were prevented from beginning a term at the institution as a result of a COVID-19-related disruption would not be eligible for Federal Student Aid for that term, and therefore could not be paid FWS wages for hours they did not work. Graduate students who are paid FWS wages on salary may continue to be paid for the remainder of the term if the institution is also paying its faculty and staff during that period. Hello,

We have another question related to COVID-19. Some of our students who have returned from study abroad programs (e.g. Italy) who received Title IV aid via consortium agreements are continuing their programs online with the foreign school providing the instruction. This makes the most sense for academic continuity, although we recognize that 20 USC 1088(b)(3) prohibits Title IV aid for distance education provided by foreign schools.

Our questions are:

1. For financial aid purposes, can the foreign institution shorten the academic calendar for the term to exclude the online portion of the program so that students reach the 60% mark and keep aid that has disbursed?
2. Can we apply a R2T4-like calculation to allow students to keep the aid that they earned while they were physically present in the foreign country receiving in person instruction and return any unearned/online amounts?
3. Can we offer a 1- or 2-unit online course as the U.S. institution to enable students to keep their Title IV aid for the term?
4. When can we expect future guidance about "any other flexibilities" mentioned in the IFAP Electronic Announcement?

Thank you,
Megan

If our college is closed due to the Coronavirus, I just want to verify that all colleges, even a clock hour school like ours, are allowed to offer distance education? If so, what about attendance?

Also, programs that are more lab oriented than classroom time, it would be difficult to have distance education for those programs. For example: Welding. What would we do about those programs?

If I am reading this guidance correctly we could also offer a Leave of Absence, or a student could withdraw.

I appreciate your assistance with this issue.

1. We need to apply/petition for a shortened academic year related to COVID-19. The College has decided to extend the spring break by one week without adding educational activities. What are the steps involved in securing approval for a shortened academic year?

2. Since the College has extended the spring break, that will change the percentage of the semester completed for R2T4 calculations. Do we need to recalculate those already completed or use the new break days going forward?

3. There is a possibility that the College will refund resident students a portion of the room and board for the period of the extended spring break. Do we need to adjust the COA?

Thank you for your help,

Hello-

Our institution has made the decision to be closed for two weeks and then converting to online. The result of this decision is that our spring semester is now 13 weeks in length which no longer meets the definition of standard term.

I have two questions then.

1. Since we treat our 'winter' non-standard term which is 4 weeks as part of spring, would we be 'ok' from a term definition given that we are 17 total weeks with that winterim term included?
2. Do we need to request a waiver for the shortening of our academic period given that we are no longer the 14-21 week definition of standard term?

If all else fails, we may decide as an institution to push our spring into our summer term dates, but given that it would result in a lot of class cancelations, I know that as an institution, that would be a tough decision.

Thank you for your assistance!

Hello,

I have been referred to this email address for an answer to a pressing question. Will we be required to adjust Cost of Attendance at this point in the semester for students who receive a partial room/board credit for time that they are being asked to stay at home during the COVID-19 outbreak? This is presuming that the student is still enrolled at the status on which their award is based, and began attendance in the number of classes required for the aid they received. If the only change is that the student receives a partial room/board credit, months after their original award disbursed, are we required to make COA adjustments to account for the reduced room/board charges, and potentially have to return aid due to over award?

Thank you,

Kris

Hello,

I am the Student Employment Coordinator at Bennington College. I've read over the helpful COVID-19 guidance issued on March 5th, and have a few questions about how to interpret the guidance should we decide to shift to remote operations. Assuming we do so, and want to continue supporting our students whose jobs would be affected by a closure/move to online learning:

1. Does the Department have guidance on how to calculate how many hours to pay each student for? Would we need to find out the respective average hours per week of each student worker and pay them based on this?
2. If not, could we establish a flat number of hours per week to pay all student workers for in their absence, based perhaps on the average number of hours per week needed for a student worker to meet their FWS allotment?
3. Am I correct in understanding that if we opt to continue supporting our student workers with work study, we must also continue to pay all of our staff—non-work study students, regular staff, and faculty?

I'm very grateful for any advice you can offer.

Thank you,
Ray Stevens

Hello,

We are a small private, K-12 special needs school which depends on State checks to keep our educational facility open. We've been taking a wait and see approach and plan to follow the lead of our local School Board and directives from the County Health Department.

We do not have enough funding to continue to pay teachers for time off if our school is made to close for several weeks. Will there be emergency funding for a circumstance like this? If there's a chance schools close for the remainder of the year, will we still receive our 4th quarter scholarship checks? Will the 170 day attendance minimum be lifted?

Parents are asking, teachers are asking. We've done our part to clean at the school, put up appropriate hand washing and personal hygiene signs, but administration is being looked to for more defined plans at this point. I called the school choice office yesterday and was told there are not plans which have been announced yet.

Please advise,

Stacy

Subject: Corona Question

Good Morning,

I'm looking for clarification as I'm interpreting the language from two articles differently:

On the http://www.nasfaa.org/news-item/21105 article:

Finally, ED cannot provide relief for coronavirus-related enrollment status changes — for instance, when a student drops from full-time to three-quarter time status because an internship location closes due to coronavirus-related issues. Students in those situations would have to be treated as three-quarter time for financial aid purposes, such as their Pell Grant amount.

Compared to the IFAP announcement:

Enrollment Status Changes
We do not have the authority to waive the requirement to award or disburse Title IV funds based on a student's actual enrollment status. For example, assuming an institution defines full-time enrollment as 12 credit hours, when a full-time student enrolled for 12 credit hours drops or withdraws from three credits, that student is now enrolled at three-quarter time status. However, we remind institutions that for Direct Loans, the institution must only confirm at least half-time enrollment status as of the time of disbursement. It is not necessary to recalculate a student's Direct Loan eligibility based on changes in enrollment status that occur after the institution originates a Direct Loan. For enrollment status changes that occur after an institution's established Pell Grant recalculation (census) date, we do not require recalculation. Note that the student must have begun attendance in all courses comprising the enrollment status on which the Pell Grant payment was based.

I want to confirm if it's past our school's census date and a student drops below 12 credits, we are not required to recalculate Pell?

Thank you for you guidance,

Subject: Corona-related Academic Year & Credit Hours Question

I have two questions about the Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus (COVID-19)

1. The Department is authorized under 34 CFR § 668.3 to approve a reduced academic year. Is a temporary five day "instructional recess" to transition from in-person to distance education courses considered a reduction in the length of the semester. If so, please provide me with the contact information of who my institution may need to inform.

2. Is the Department authorized to approve granting a semester hour of credit for fewer hours of instruction? For example, New York State Education Department has a provision that if the State or local government temporarily closes an institution due to a disaster (including an epidemic), section 52.2(c)(4) of the Regulations of the Commissioner of Education provides regulatory relief concerning the granting of a semester hour of credit for fewer hours of instruction.

Thank you for providing such useful information.

Sincerely,

Elisa

Subject: Coronavirus - Action plan questions

Greetings,

We are developing an action plan to avoid disruption of study due the Coronavirus.

We have read the 3/5/20 Electronic Announcement but we are hoping you can answer a few questions:

- If we switch our brick-and-mortar classes to distance learning due to the coronavirus, are there any additional requirements to monitor attendance or withdrawals? We currently have distance learning programs and since we are school that is not required to take attendance, we use academically-related activities to document attendance. The possible lack of documentation supporting attendance has us concerned.

- If enrollment is interrupted for a few weeks (no distance learning) and we have plans to reopen, can you confirm that this is not a withdrawal. What happens if we do not reopen due to ongoing coronavirus concerns? Would this be considered a withdrawal or would we call the School Participation team to request a reduced academic year?

- We have multiple campuses and students that come from all over the tristate NY area. Can you confirm that we can be selective on which campuses or programs we migrate from brick-and-mortar classes to distance learning?

Thank you for your guidance.

Good afternoon,

In lieu of the current situation with the Coronavirus, American Medical Academy is looking at options to continue education while maintaining the safety of our students/ faculty/ staff and our community. After reading the publications posted on Ifap, we have a few questions and hope you can clarify for us.

1. What are the steps we need to take to receive approval for temporary online teaching for currently enrolled students attending a clock hour program?
2. Students attending clock hour programs must also complete externships outside the school. Unfortunately, these externships done at the hospitals or city rescue have been temporarily suspended by our affiliates in order to protect Patients/EMS personnel/Students. This portion of the program will have to continue after the restrictions are lifted. How will this affect the student's SAP? Should we re-do students' schedules to not reflect these hours and add them once the restrictions are lifted?
3. In the event a student is currently enrolled and attending the school and on the verge of starting a new semester/payment period, how will this affect the ability of getting disbursed?

Thank you in advance for all your help in this matter.

Hi…I wanted you both to see that I had just written to Gil as we got his message. See below. I think what needs to be addressed is 3-pronged as I describe below. I'm sure Education will not be the only one to provide relief on certain compliance requirements as it relates to this and we'll need to figure out how to eventually explain to auditors what they need to look for to determine compliance in their 2020 single audits. I'm hopeful that he and I will connect early next week.

Gil…I know you are traveling, but can we add the items below to the call request I asked you about for early next week? Let me know when you are free. We are starting to hear from a lot of members asking for our help, especially on the immediate deadline issue.

Single audit deadline extension – Some single audit clients closed in parts of the country. Local governments in the Pacific Northwest suggesting people stay home from work. Some clients require air travel to get to and some audit team members reluctant to go. While 3/31 is the most immediate deadline, I think flexibility considerations will need to go beyond that.

Effect of Agency Compliance Relief Guidance on 2020 Single Audits - See guidance at link below from Education. They are providing relief to certain requirements relating to SFA. Question is how will the 2020 Supplement address these types of things for 2020 single audits? For example, if an auditor is using the Supplement to audit SFA for a June 30, 2020, year-end single audit, how will they know that when they audit distance learning that ED has waived certain requirements and that they are recommending that institutions document, as contemporaneously as possible, any actions taken as a result of COVID-19 (i.e., that would change the scope of what the auditor would be looking for to determine compliance). I'm guessing ED won't be the only agency to take this kind of action so we need to think more broadly about how these types of changes will be communicated for the eventual single audits. Not sure you will want to hold 2020 Supplement for all of this, but, if not, maybe an addendum that will address all things coronavirus?

Coronavirus Spending – Not sure how the 8.3 billion will be provided. But wondering if the funds will be subject to single audit. If so, since funds will start being spent soon, will need to understand impact on 2020 single audits.

Chris

I was just reading yesterday's electronic announcement on COVID-19. I appreciate there are a lot of moving parts, but my initial thoughts are that the considerations included in the announcement will need to be addressed for the single audit. I am not sure of the best way to incorporate into the Compliance Supplement—whether it could be an "other information" section at the back of the SFA section or whether there could be grey boxes inserted within the applicable sections.

I am sure that if you want to brainstorm, Mary could put together a small group from the GAQC.

Mandy, It would seem to me that OMB and AICPA should be developing guidance for the audit community as a whole because ED is not going to be only agency providing relief to non-Federal entities. The implications for audit are nation-wide. It would also seem that the primary audit standard setting bodies for audit (GAO and AICPA) should be looking at what should be done. We have already gotten questions on whether auditors are required to do site visits. Chris

Subject: Coronavirus Impact on For-Profit Audits

Hi All: I am wondering if your agencies will be taking any action relating to the coronavirus in following areas. Note that the context for this is not single audits (I've already been in touch with Gil on that front), but rather audit requirements for for-profit entities. Not sure if you are right people to ask....please forward if not.

Extending audit deadlines. We have begun hearing from members in certain parts of the country that are being challenged in performing/completing their audits. For example, some audit clients are now closed in parts of the country. Local governments in the Pacific Northwest are suggesting people stay home from work in entire areas. Some clients require air travel by the audit firm and some audit team members are reluctant to go. While 3/31 is the most immediate deadline, I think deadline flexibility considerations may need to go beyond that. Are any of your agencies considering extending audit deadlines, even if based on certain criteria?

Relaxing compliance requirements. Just today we became aware that Education issued guidance at the link below providing guidance to Institutions on certain requirements relating to SFA. I've already got a question into Gil about how the 2020 Supplement will address these types of things for 2020 single audits. Are you aware of any similar types of efforts that would affect the audits performed under your federal audit guides/regulations? This aspect isn't as immediate as the question on audit deadlines above, but will eventually need to be addressed from an audit perspective.

Please let me know. I just want to stay in the loop and be able to communicate to the auditor community the latest developments on this as the concerns seem to be growing with each day.

Thanks.

Hi…I wanted you both to see that I had just written to Gil as we got his message. See below. I think what needs to be addressed is 3-pronged as I describe below. I'm sure Education will not be the only one to provide relief on certain compliance requirements as it relates to this and we'll need to figure out how to eventually explain to auditors what they need to look for to determine compliance in their 2020 single audits. I'm hopeful that he and I will connect early next week.

Gil…I know you are traveling, but can we add the items below to the call request I asked you about for early next week? Let me know when you are free. We are starting to hear from a lot of members asking for our help, especially on the immediate deadline issue.

Single audit deadline extension – Some single audit clients closed in parts of the country. Local governments in the Pacific Northwest suggesting people stay home from work. Some clients require air travel to get to and some audit team members reluctant to go. While 3/31 is the most immediate deadline, I think flexibility considerations will need to go beyond that.

Effect of Agency Compliance Relief Guidance on 2020 Single Audits - See guidance at link below from Education. They are providing relief to certain requirements relating to SFA. Question is how will the 2020 Supplement address these types of things for 2020 single audits? For example, if an auditor is using the Supplement to audit SFA for a June 30, 2020, year-end single audit, how will they know that when they audit distance learning that ED has waived certain requirements and that they are recommending that institutions document, as contemporaneously as possible, any actions taken as a result of COVID-19 (i.e., that would change the scope of what the auditor would be looking for to determine compliance). I'm guessing ED won't be the only agency to take this kind of action so we need to think more broadly about how these types of changes will be communicated for the eventual single audits. Not sure you will want to hold 2020 Supplement for all of this, but, if not, maybe an addendum that will address all things coronavirus?

Coronavirus Spending – Not sure how the 8.3 billion will be provided. But wondering if the funds will be subject to single audit. If so, since funds will start being spent soon, will need to understand impact on 2020 single audits.

Hello-

I host a podcast about technical communication and would love to take 10 minutes to talk to someone at The US Department of Education about your strategies for communicating about COVID-19. I can only imagine that you are extremely busy right now, so I can conduct the interview remotely at an expert's convenience. I promote this podcast to university instructors, who will likely share it with their students, so this could be a good way to reach college students who have moved online due to COVID-19.

Thank you for your time and your important work.

Clif,

Can you tell me if there is any guidance from the Department that clarifies whether authorizers can/must continue capitation payments based on enrollment vs. attendance in case of a loca/state/federal emergency?

Questions are arising as to whether charters will be negatively affected if all public schools are closed?

Subject: Cost of Attendance Component adjustment due to students leaving the residence halls

Greetings,
Like many others, our institution is asking students to vacate the residence halls and to continue their Spring 2020 Semester classes in an online format. Are we required to adjust the room and board components of each student's cost of attendance to reflect when they left the residence halls and when they changed to living off campus? Can we add to the personal/miscellaneous component of the cost of attendance an allowance for the cost associated with possibly purchasing a computer, obtaining or upgrading internet service, purchasing a camera so they can participate in video conferencing etc.?

Thank you for your time.
Paula

Our school has recently ceased in person classes, and will be going all online during the COVID-19. Students will moving out of the dorms, and their charges for housing and meals will be prorated. We are past the census date and aid has disbursed. Are we as an institution required to update the Cost of Attendance if charges are prorated which means students could be in a overaward situation? Enrollment hours have not changed.

Hi there—

I'm Ashley Fetters, a reporter for The Atlantic. I write about kids and education, and I'm working on a story about how schools are dealing with and/or preparing for the spread of COVID-19. (Liz, cc'ing you on the recommendation of my terrific colleague Adam Harris.)

My coauthor and I are hoping to gain some insight as to what prolonged school closures would look like in the United States, and of course we want to include as much direct information from the Department of Education as we can. I've looked over some of the materials on the COVID-19 section of the ed.gov website, and I have a couple of quick additional questions — so I'm writing in hopes that someone from the Department of Education might be able to shed some light. Here's what I'm wondering:

- I've read about some schools considering adding extra time to the school day for students to periodically wash their hands. Does the Education Department have any specific stance or policy on this measure?
- Kids in Hong Kong have been home for several weeks now and are facing the question of how to make up for the weeks of school the students have now missed. Has the Department of Education released any guidelines, or are there any existing policies, regarding how schools should make up for days lost to school closure? (i.e., at what point should days be added onto the end of the year?)
- What is the Department of Education's stance on e-learning/online lessons? Under what circumstances, if any, would the Department advise school administrators to implement it?
- If school closures continue later into the spring, is there a federal-level plan in place for how to handle standardized testing, or college-entrance exams like the SAT and ACT?
- Are there any other contingency plans that are in the works or yet to be announced that I should look out for?

I'm hoping to file my story by the end of the day on Thursday, so let me know if there's someone who can help me learn a little more about this. Short turnaround, I know—and I apologize, as I know this must be an unbelievably busy time!—so I'm happy to hop on the phone, too, if that's easier. Thank you, talk soon,

Subject: COV-19 Study Abroad and Distance Education

Good morning,

I apologize for requesting a very short turn around time but I need an answer as soon as possible. I have a student who is currently studying abroad in Austria. Based on the ban of incoming flights from Europe she has chosen to return to the United States. The program that she is attending is modular. Her module 1 and two classes were schedule on site in Austria. Due to the coronavirus they are offering the module 2 classes via distance learning. She completed 2 classes offered in module 1 at the institution in Austria. Her 2nd module 2 classes are scheduled to begin on Monday March 16, 2020. She would like to attend the classes in module 2 via distance learning video conferencing. I understand from the guidance dated March 5 that students attending a foreign institution cannot participate in a distance learning program.

To further complicate the issue, while in Austria she took 2 online classes offered at her home institution Shorter University. She completed the class in module 1 and will begin the module 2 class that is starting this week. So in essence she will be enrolled for the entire semester. Since she will be enrolled for the entire semester I am not required to perform the R2T4 but I am unsure how to proceed with the 2nd module of classes that she wants to take via distance learning in Austria?

Shorter University charges students using a block rate so her charges with us will not change. Can she attend the 2nd module of classes being offered via distance learning in Austria? The institution aid that she received at Shorter University will cover the cost of the two distance learning classes?

Good afternoon,

I have a question regarding the guidance issued on COVID19 in relation to Federal Work Study. Our campus is on spring break this week, our leadership has decided to close our campuses for instruction next week and offer distance learning to our students due to COVID19. Our campuses will be open for student services and our offices will be staffed with regular full time and part time staff. In this case, would we allow FWS students to physically work at the campuses during the instructional closure or would we be eligible to pay students FWS wages based on the instructional closure due to COVID19? Thank you for your guidance, please let me know if you need clarification. Thank you.

Annette

Federal Work Study (FWS)

Federal law includes a provision allowing an institution to make FWS payments under certain limited circumstances to disaster-affected students who are unable to continue working. Given the unique nature of this situation, it is unlikely that an entire region would be declared a Federal disaster area, yet to students enrolled at a campus that must close temporarily, the loss of this important form of financial aid can be devastating. The impact may be magnified if the institution accommodates students by providing alternative instructional opportunities and the student is required to continue paying tuition, but the student loses FWS as an important part of their financial aid award. For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement. Students who were prevented from beginning a term at the institution as a result of a COVID-19-related disruption would not be eligible for Federal Student Aid for that term, and therefore could not be paid FWS wages for hours they did not work. Graduate students who are paid FWS wages on salary may continue to be paid for the remainder of the term if the institution is also paying its faculty and staff during that period. In these instances, institutions should document (as contemporaneously as feasible) that the COVID-19 disruption was the reason the student received FWS funds without documentation of hours worked.

We are a small vocational school in the Rochester, NY area that has 3 programs (HVAC, Medical Office Assistant and Dental Assistant) that are Non-Standard, Clock hour courses with hands on job shadows. Our programs are for non-licensed certificates.

We have not seen any guidance for programming like ours and have a few questions.

Would we be able to switch to online video conferencing and if so would we still need to have the hands on portion?
If we are to shut down and are un able to switch to online video conferencing what would the effect be on to our students?
Is there a new general guide coming that will go over programs such as ours?

Dear Department COVID-19 Task Force:

On behalf of a cosmetology school client, we have a question related to response to COVID-19. The school offers clock hour based programs for which students earn clock hours for both theory (in class learning) and part practical (clinic) training hours. Traditionally, these programs have not offered any part of the education online. In light of the risks posed regionally by the COVID-19 virus, cosmetology schools are working to prepare contingency plans as recommended by USDE to avoid operational disruptions and to allow students to continue their education uninterrupted to the fullest extent possible if a locality or state mandates closure of institutions of education for any period, or if a school makes a decision on a temporary basis to close due to threat of illness.

We seek guidance on whether the Department would accept temporary online provision of educational services to replace in person theory or clinical instruction, and whether there are any limitations on that for Title IV purposes. Is a school required to obtain accreditor approval for online curriculum prior to offering, which can be a very lengthy process in particular for accreditors who are not experienced in evaluating these programs in an online format? Since these schools would not be seeking permanent offering of online forms of these programs, nor would they be marketed as such, accreditor approval would be burdensome and an impediment to adaptation to an emergency situation. Is USDE providing flexibility for schools to convert their state and accreditor approved program content to online or remote/live stream models for temporary purposes to meet the needs of students during any forced closure? What are the limitations or conditions of which schools should be aware, including around documenting attendance?

We urge the Department to take into consideration the needs of clock hour models and to provide the greatest flexibility possible to allow these schools to innovate to meet short term emergency needs.

Please let us know if there is a Department official that we can speak with on behalf of AACS to discuss in greater detail.

Hello,

I am seeking guidance for Clock-Hour schools in Ohio in regards to handling Title IV funding properly during a potential shut-down of our school. I have read over the Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus issued on March 5, 2020. We are a Career Technical school with hands-on training that will not be conducive to allowing online as an option.

With Ohio's governor taking the stance he is, and all public Universities going to fully online studies; we feel it is only a matter of time before K-12 schools will also move to this; and we would be required to follow their lead.

If we do a full shut-down of courses; would it be acceptable to put all Title IV students on an approved LOA status in NSLDS until we can resume operations? We would likely need to adjust and extend all their loan period and academic year dates in order to accommodate the completion of their programs once we are able to resume full operational status.

We would appreciate your consideration in including specific guidance for Clock Hour schools as electronic announcements are issued for this extreme health concern.

Subject: COA adjustments

Good morning,

Our school has decided to extend our spring break another week and then classes will resume online. We are in discussion about offering prorated refunds on room and board charges and are wondering how we treat those refunds? Do we treat them as a "scholarship" or do we have to adjust the COA? We have a different COA budget for on-campus students and students living at-home as commuters but since this will be the first time we will be having remote online classes we have not had a different COA for students in this status. Can we leave the COA the same understanding that the students may have comparable food and housing expenses, even though they will not be paying the college directly?

Thank you for your help.

Subject: COA and R&B reduction of charges

Hello DOE,

Our campus is going to reduce some R&B charges because we are asking students to leave and we are moving to distance learning. I read the 3/5/20 DOE guidance but I do not see a specific COA overaward reference under COVID-19. My concern is that we may have a lot of overawards/over COA because students have borrowed PLUS /private loans up to the spring COA.

Here are my questions under the current COVID-19 environment:

1. Do we have to reduce the R&B COA allowance, for on-campus students, by the amount of the rebate? Or, can we change them to our " off-campus" estimate of the same $7200, thus preventing an overaward?

- We use estimated Room & Board charges for on-campus living ($ 7200)
- We use the same estimated cost of apartment living ( $7200)
- We use a reduced estimated cost for living with a parent ( $1600)

2. If we reduce charges, we may have an overaward/over COA situation.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Pell- It is our understanding that if the student's enrollment does not change, we do not have to adjust PELL, even though they may be over COA.
- Direct LOAN/PLUS- If the DL has fully disbursed, we do not have to reduce loans, even though they may be over need/COA.
- SEOG- we may have to reduce SEOG over a $300 allowance if we are over need/COA?
- CWS- Like SEOG, we may have to reduce CWS over a $300 tolerance? But then continue to allow them to earn this reduced amount, under the 3/5/20 DOE guidance letter.

Please advise!

Many thanks,

Jan

Good Afternoon,

I am requesting additional guidance pertaining to the Work Study Program.

Scenario: The College activated the disaster pay for individuals who qualify for absences based on the advised of a medical professional (exhibit symptoms or may be at risk due to existing health condition). Can the College follow the same guidelines for student workers and continue paying the students even if they are unable to return to work during the time specified by the medical professional ?

Federal Work Study (FWS)

Federal law includes a provision allowing an institution to make FWS payments under certain limited circumstances to disaster-affected students who are unable to continue working. Given the unique nature of this situation, it is unlikely that an entire region would be declared a Federal disaster area, yet to students enrolled at a campus that must close temporarily, the loss of this important form of financial aid can be devastating. The impact may be magnified if the institution accommodates students by providing alternative instructional opportunities and the student is required to continue paying tuition, but the student loses FWS as an important part of their financial aid award.
For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement

To confirm that we can continue to pay the student FWS without hours worked (clocked in and out)? How does the school determine the hours? Do we base it on the average hours worked for the spring semester or do we just pay the maximum of 20 hours?

If you can please provide guidance on this.

Dear Sir/ Madam,

I am writing in connection with the Office of Postsecondary Education' electronic announcement of March 05, 2020 and the part regarding foreign schools: "We cannot extend flexibility regarding the use of distance learning to foreign schools since the Higher Education Act does not permit foreign schools to provide distance learning to U.S. students who participate in Title IV, HEA programs. We continue to consider if there are any other flexibilities we could extend to foreign schools that temporarily close due to COVID-19."

Due to the spread of Coronavirus (COVID-19) in Europe and following the safety recommendations of the Chief Sanitary Inspectorate, JU Rector Prof. Wojciech Nowak has cancelled all lectures conducted at Jagiellonian University. Wherever applicable, lectures should be made available online. Other classes (which take place in a smaller groups) will be held as per usual, with any additional restrictions to be introduced by the Faculties.

Please let me know if the above regulations (authorizing distance learning at programs which are not usually distance) do have an impact on students' eligibility for Title IV funds in the 2019-2020 summer semester and should we withhold the disbursements for this semester. Please note that these are exceptional circumstances and all decisions have been made to ensure student safety.

I would appreciate a reply asap as we have just evaluated students' Satisfactory Academic Progress after winter semester and we are ready to make the Title IV funds disbursements for the second semester.

Thank you,

Good afternoon,

I'm writing to confirm the guidance on Enrollment Status Changes. Scenario: a student was enrolled full-time in an on-campus program. Due to COVID-19 the IHE has moved all students out of their dorms to return home for the remainder of the spring term. All classes that can be taught by distance learning will, however, if a student's classes aren't all offered online and the student is now enrolled less than half-time, through no fault of his/her own, is the student now considered less than half-time? I assume from the guidance that yes, the student is less than half-time and will enter repayment on prior loans.

If the schools gives an Incomplete for all courses do we have to complete R2T4?

If the students are reimbursed dormitory cost do we have to adjust our Cost of Attendance (COA)?

Do we have to adjust all the COA's due to the shortened semester?

Do we have to adjust all the COA's transportation component due to all classes are on line for the duration of the semester?

Our campus is looking at different scenarios of how to address the best way to handle the COVID-19. One of the scenarios is to possibly close for a week but then extend the semester one week. In the guidance provided it talks about reducing the semester but not about extending the semester. Is this an option that would be allowed? We currently have a 16 week semester and that may extend it to 17 or more.

Good afternoon,
I am the financial aid officer at EHOVE in Ohio. Due to COVID-19, it is a possibility that we may have to close campus for a period of time. We are not approved to offer distance education and we've never had to do it before, but we are realizing that may be a reality in the near future.

Questions I have:
Is this a possibility for us even though we are not approved to do so?

Due to being a clock-hour school, we have to track hours that students sit in class. Are there restrictions or regulations in place to tell us how we would go about tracking attendance?

Most of our programs are mainly hands-on and distance learning is not a good option for them. What are our options with those programs regarding financial aid? Would extending academic years be an option if classes take several weeks off and need to move the end date back?

I'm somewhat new to this position, so this is all very new to me!
Any help would be greatly appreciated!
Thank you!

Support Contacts at US Department of Education:

we have some school districts reaching out about 2018-2019 grant funds that will expire at the end of September. Some districts have grant balances from funds that started July 1, 2018. They have plans that have been in place and approved for using the funds, but some of the activities were to be executed through this school year and summer.

What can we do as an agency to request a longer period of availability (if that is even an option) for these dying grant funds? Or, will the US Department of Education be understanding if states have to return grant funds that were unused because of the current circumstances that are causing disruptions?

The best examples I can share:
Cancelled Professional Development that uses Title II-A funds.
Cancelled additional tutoring services provided using Title I-A funds.
Cancelled Parent and Family Engagement activities that use Title I-A, and Title III funds.

Thank you so much for a quick response so that we can support our districts.

Subject: COVID-19 and Federal Work Study (FWS)

Good afternoon,
According to the March 5, 2020 guidance, we may continue to pay FWS students in case of a campus closure. We are not closed but are moving to distance education and our staff for the most part will work remotely. The offices will still be open with skeletal essential staff. Our understanding of the guidance is that we may pay FWS students if they are unable to work. However, we are not clear about the highlighted statement below:

"For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement."

We have student workers who receive institutional work study funds. In addition, we have some part time employees who will not be paid. Does this sentence mean that if we do not pay our institutional work study student employees and part-time employees without work, we cannot pay our FWS students if they don't work. We appreciate your help and input!

Federal Work Study (FWS)
Federal law includes a provision allowing an institution to make FWS payments under certain limited circumstances to disaster-affected students who are unable to continue working. Given the unique nature of this situation, it is unlikely that an entire region would be declared a Federal disaster area, yet to students enrolled at a campus that must close temporarily, the loss of this important form of financial aid can be devastating. The impact may be magnified if the institution accommodates students by providing alternative instructional opportunities and the student is required to continue paying tuition, but the student loses FWS as an important part of their financial aid award. For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement. Students who were prevented from beginning a term at the institution as a result of a COVID-19-related disruption would not be eligible for Federal Student Aid for that term, and therefore could not be paid FWS wages for hours they did not work. Graduate students who are paid FWS wages on salary may continue to be paid for the remainder of the term if the institution is also paying its faculty and staff during that period. In these instances, institutions should document (as contemporaneously as feasible) that the COVID-19 disruption was the reason the student received FWS funds without documentation of hours worked.

Thank you.

Subject: COVID-19 Clarifying Question

Good Evening,

I hope you are well. I have a clarifying question on the following section of the COVID-19 guidance, specifically the non-standard term section.
If we have to cancel clinical, internships or other experiential learning due to COVID-19, would we be able to offer those classes in a format that they would overlap terms (typically making the program non-term) and still be able to remain standard term? So, for example, we would offer a clinical that starts in the Spring 2020 term, and runs through part of the Summer 2020 and/or Fall 2020 terms? Or, that starts in the Summer 2020 term and overlaps into the Fall 2020 term?

In addition, is this guidance below limited to clinical/internship type courses, or does it extent to courses, where moving to an online format isn't a viable completion option?

https://ifap.ed.gov/electronic-announcements/030520Guidance4interruptionsrelated2CoronavirusCOVID19

Finally, because we understand that some students may have been recalled from travel abroad programs or canceled-out of experiential learning opportunities after the semester began, institutions may offer courses to those students on a schedule that would otherwise be considered a non-standard term, if doing so enables those students to complete the term. These flexibilities will also be provided to institutions, or their additional locations or programs, that must temporarily close as a result of COVID-19.

Thanks!

To whom it may concern,

I am a 2nd year student from Cincinnati, Ohio attending Tennessee State University, which has just cancelled its in-person meetings indefinitely. This is obviously a major transition to moving all credit hours online & removes the necessity of being on campus. With all the confusion and chaos going on due to the COVID-19, a lot of parents are sending for their children or the student is choosing to evacuate themselves due to the risk of contamination, the lack of supplies due to public panic and lack of required stay. I was listening to a broadcast called "Full Force" and heard about the government offering students who receive Financial Aid additional monetary assistance in order to travel home/make alternative housing arrangements so I wished to see how true those statements were.

As I understand it, this would be a change to our academic calendar which would impact all of our return of title IV calculations. Is this correct?

Hello,

I would like to discuss the temporary reduction of the length of the academic year due to COVID-19 and potential downstream impacts. One proposal is to shorten our 17-week Spring term to 15 weeks. I would like to confirm that:

1. We would not need an exception for this reduction because we would still be over 30 weeks in the academic year.
2. For students who withdraw after the term has been reduced, their 60% mark for R2T4 would be calculated off of the new dates (making it arrive sooner).

Thank you,
Megan

Dear Colleage:

Our Spring Semester of 2020 start / end dates are 1/21/20 – 5/7/20. The scheduled spring break was 3/8/20 – 3/15/20. Due to COVID-19, the spring break has been extended through 3/22/20 to allow time for on-ground courses to be converted to an on-line format so that students have an opportunity to complete the semester.

For Federal Return to Title IV (R2T4) purposes, we are required to exclude scheduled breaks of => 5 days. Normally, we would have excluded 8 days in the R2T4 calculation.

- Do we continue to exclude 8 days in the R2T4 calculation since the extension reflects a temporary closure beyond the control of the institution (ex: due to weather, natural disaster, etc.) or must we exclude 15 days?

- If we have to exclude 15 days, are we required to recalculate R2T4 calculations completed prior to the decision to extend the spring break or does it only apply to total withdrawals beyond the decision date to extend the spring break?

Thanks for your guidance!

Good morning,

Our campus is considering options for preventing the spread of COVID-19 and need some guidance on the potential impact of the following scenarios:

1. Institutionally scheduled breaks of five or more consecutive days are excluded from the R2T4 calculation as periods of nonattendance. If we were to suspend classes for the spring semester, would this be defined as a "scheduled" break and would this rule apply? Are there other implications we need to consider?
2. What would be the impact of changing our academic calendar by moving up the end date of the spring semester? In this case, students would still be completing the semester; however, it would be shorter.
3. If there is a suspension of classes for more than five consecutive days or we change our academic calendar to end the semester early, would their be any impact on R2T4 calculations that were processed prior to this change?
4. If there is a change to our academic calendar to end the semester early, do we need to update the loan periods for loans that have already been disbursed for the aid year? What other implications do we need to consider?

Thank you in advance for your assistance.

Best regards,

Wouldn't HIPAA laws still stand? At that point, this could cause an outbreak at the Department could it not? It seems the Agency is taking a reactive stance vs a proactive one. I'm a little worried!

Greetings,

On behalf of Gardner-Webb University's Senior Leadership, I am seeking guidance on our traditional ground-based undergraduate program due to actions taken for COVID-19. Most of our students in this traditional program are residential students. In general we have extended our spring break until Wednesday, March 18th and will begin transition to online coursework on that day. Those students who reside on campus have the option of returning to campus housing or remaining at home to complete their spring term coursework. We will reevaluate this temporary school "closure" on April 2nd.

Please see the following questions below. Your guidance is greatly appreciated, and your prompt attention is needed.

- With our extension of spring break and thus changing the break days in the R2T4 calculation, do we need to review all previous R2T4 calculations done thus far for spring term, or can the adjustments be made for any future calculations needed for the term once we transition to online on March 18th?

- If a decision to make reductions or discount housing or meals for this time period is made (and thus changes our cost of attendance for this population), does it follow whether or not the request and reduction is handled on an individual basis or if we apply the reduction across the residential population? Are there any exceptions if we resume normal ground-based classes before the normal end of the term in May?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Since our traditional undergraduate population is defined as a ground-based program, do we need students to return to campus for spring term for this guidance to be valid, and if they don't, is it automatically a closure?

- Can the online environment be extended to our ground-based programs for a future enrollment such as summer or is this guidance only valid for the current term/payment period?

As always, thanks again for your guidance and prompt attention.

Regards,
Anita

Do you know if your Department will be releasing any guidance on travel expenditure impacts due to the Coronavirus? As you know the National Afterschool Association (NAA) Conference was scheduled to begin on Sunday at the Gaylord there, but they changed that to a virtual platform as of yesterday. Some airlines are making exceptions to cancellation fees, etc. and others are not but I think you can still cancel a flight and just apply that money to another upcoming flight within a year (to which they could then attend another allowable afterschool event, etc.). One of the other hotels there in DC for the conference had a seven-day cancellation policy and don't want to budge on cancellation policies, but one of my sub-grantees was able to get the hotel to make a 50% refund but no more. Our CFO suggested contacting federal departments to see if you have any suggestions on what would be allowable for our sub grantees affected by travel costs, what should be refunded to states/federal, etc.

Thank you for any help you can provide.

We have students who live in this area, around this area, and some who have traveled outside of the state as well as the country for spring break.

Out university notified us that only mission trips/study abroad to China was cancelled, all other trips remained.

Additionally, as a nursing student we are in one of the largest hospitals in Texas for our clinical and are in ICU and ED departments for 36 hours a week. How does the Department of Education plan to addresses students in the hospital settings?

To whom it may concern,

What happens to a student's loans when they currently deferred as full time but then may be reduced to the less than the half time student status requirement because a class is cancelled due to COVID-19? Is there any administrative option to continue the deferment as though still a full time student or minimum half time student? Would students with no grace period be given a grace until they are able to re-enroll for the necessary minimum requirement?

The website (which is great by the way, thank you for that!!) indicated what happens when the student withdraws but doesn't mention this type of scenario. Should we follow the same guidance as though the student is considered withdrawn and defer from reporting?

Please do not hesitate to contact me with any further questions or concerns.

Subject: Distance Education Question - Non Traditional Start Dates

Good morning,

We were advised from our accrediting body to reach out to ED for clarification on a few things. We do not run on a traditional/semester schedule. We begin programs every five weeks. Per the IFAP Announcement on 3/5, it references, "These instructions do not contemplate accommodations for students who have not yet enrolled or whose term has not yet begun, with certain exceptions."

We began a new term on 3/9/2020, just days after the announcement. We are currently in the process of determining if/when/how we transition to some distance education options. Per the announcement, it refers to the "certain exceptions." Is there any clarification on "certain exceptions"? If we decide to implement some distance learning options, are the students from the 3/9/2020 start date able to receive those accommodations.

Also, we have a start date of 4/20/2020. It is my understanding we should anticipate the institution and classes running like "normal" until any other determination from ED has been communicated?

I appreciate any feedback and guidance as I know you are probably swamped.

Kindest Regards,

Good morning.

I am emailing to enquire as to whether the government has considered allowing US Foreign Schools to utilize some distance learning components during this crisis? Our school is located on the Swiss-Italian border and as such, is quite close to quarantined Italy. The closest airport and the one we use the most is in Milan and is currently completely closed. Our students are composed of 60% US student and 40% students from all over the world. As this crisis continues to rise around the world, it would greatly enhance our likelihood of enrolling our class for 2020-2021 if we can offer some alternatives to travelling abroad at this time.

Please consider this a desperate plea and advise.

Warm regards,
Sigrun O.

Importance: High

Hello,

Our school has just notified students of a temporary, and possible indefinite school closure. We are intending for most classes to continue via online/distance education classes, so enrollment itself will hopefully not be too impacted. Our students are on spring break this week. Some students may home instead of returning to Cleveland either on or off campus. In the event we may need to credit student billing accounts for a partial refund of meal plans and/or on campus housing cost, or tuition itself, do we need to formally reduce the COA for financial aid purposes and subsequently reduce Direct or PLUS Loans or other FSA aid if the lower adjusted actual cost now results in total aid exceeding total cost? This assumes all aid to the student has already been disbursed.

Is the answer different depending if such adjustments are applicable before or after on 60% point in time of the term? My scenario assumes no change to the student's enrollment activities, that they are continuing to participate in the temporary distance/online coursework.

We do not yet know if we will be doing such adjustments, but we want to understand how/if this will impact the already disbursed student aid.

Thank you,

Kristie

Chris

I was just reading yesterday's electronic announcement on COVID-19. I appreciate there are a lot of moving parts, but my initial thoughts are that the considerations included in the announcement will need to be addressed for the single audit. I am not sure of the best way to incorporate into the Compliance Supplement—whether it could be an "other information" section at the back of the SFA section or whether there could be grey boxes inserted within the applicable sections.

I am sure that if you want to brainstorm, Mary could put together a small group from the GAQC.

We have a situation that does not appear to be covered by the March 4th guidance. We are a standard term quarter school with limited online offerings. We were able to finish out winter quarter; however, due to COVID-19, all of our spring quarter courses will be taught online. We are not sure if campus offices will be open yet, but if they are, some students may be able to work, and some, who remain at home with the parents, will not be able to work. In a case like this, is it permissible to pay the students who cannot work on the same basis as those who can work? These students would be enrolled in either case.

My University has a campus in Italy which we have closed. Students are completing courses for the semester online. I have reviewed the Electronic Announcement from March 5, 2020 and have a follow-up question regarding Cost of Attendance. Students are awarded on a Cost of Attendance that is enhanced to consider additional costs for travel, room, board, international flights, and supplies. Since the students had to return home and did not participate in much of the travel for the semester do we need to make a Cost of Attendance adjustment? We are refunding students for room, board, and class trips on a prorated basis. Do we need to then reduce the cost of attendance used to calculate Title IV eligibility to take these adjustments into account? We do have several students with up-to-cost loans that we are most concerned about. Thank you for your assistance in this matter.

Sincerely,

Good morning,

Florida State University has proactively monitored and responded to daily developments as the novel coronavirus (COVID-19) has spread in Florida and across the United States. Therefore, we will be shifting to an online instruction mode for a temporary period of two weeks beginning March 23rd. During this time our campus will be open, but students are encouraged to leave campus but are not required to do so. We are requesting additional guidance and clarity on the language released by the USDOE recently:https://ifap.ed.gov/electronic-announcements/030520Guidance4interruptionsrelated2CoronavirusCOVID19

We would like to know whether in our situation, we can continue to pay our FWS students without the need for them to be present and working on campus.
We do greatly appreciate your guidance.

Federal Work Study (FWS)
Federal law includes a provision allowing an institution to make FWS payments under certain limited circumstances to disaster-affected students who are unable to continue working. Given the unique nature of this situation, it is unlikely that an entire region would be declared a Federal disaster area, yet to students enrolled at a campus that must close temporarily, the loss of this important form of financial aid can be devastating.The impact may be magnified if the institution accommodates students by providing alternative instructional opportunities and the student is required to continue paying tuition, but the student loses FWS as an important part of their financial aid award. For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement. Students who were prevented from beginning a term at the institution as a result of a COVID-19-related disruption would not be eligible for Federal Student Aid for that term, and therefore could not be paid FWS wages for hours they did not work. Graduate students who are paid FWS wages on salary may continue to be paid for the remainder of the term if the institution is also paying its faculty and staff during that period. In these instances, institutions should document (as contemporaneously as feasible) that the COVID-19 disruption was the reason the student received FWS funds without documentation of hours worked.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Hello,

We have another question related to COVID-19. Some of our students who have returned from study abroad programs (e.g. Italy) who received Title IV aid via consortium agreements are continuing their programs online with the foreign school providing the instruction. This makes the most sense for academic continuity, although we recognize that 20 USC 1088(b)(3) prohibits Title IV aid for distance education provided by foreign schools.

Our questions are:

1. For financial aid purposes, can the foreign institution shorten the academic calendar for the term to exclude the online portion of the program so that students reach the 60% mark and keep aid that has disbursed?
2. Can we apply a R2T4-like calculation to allow students to keep the aid that they earned while they were physically present in the foreign country receiving in person instruction and return any unearned/online amounts?
3. Can we offer a 1- or 2-unit online course as the U.S. institution to enable students to keep their Title IV aid for the term?
4. When can we expect future guidance about "any other flexibilities" mentioned in the IFAP Electronic Announcement?

Thank you,
Megan

Hello,

Some questions have come up about what it means for an institution to "continu[e] to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff)" to be eligible to pay FWS students at a campus that closes due to COVID-19:

1. Does the institution need to pay its employees 100% of their salary or hourly pay to satisfy this requirement? One proposal is to pay a percentage of the employee's pay (similar to disability) or pay based on reduced hours for certain positions until the institution reopens.

2. Would requiring employees to exhaust sick or vacation time before paying for hours they did not work qualify as "continuing to pay [] other employees"?

3. How long does the institution need to pay employees? For the duration of the closure, end of the term, or until the FWS students have completely earned their FWS award? Plans for paying employees may change depending on the length of the closure.

4. Does this apply to all employees, including non-FWS student workers, or just faculty and staff? Our institution is concerned about costs associated with paying non-FWS student wages just so we are able to pay FWS student wages.

Thank you in advance for your guidance on these topics.

Megan

I'm planning out title iv details to our president and needed to know a finite detail. We have students who would not be able to work if we switch to online classes. I understand we're authorized to continue paying students an average of their hours worked for the remainder of the semester.

Financially we are a 25% institutional share school of the FWS. For FWS students who can't continue to work, I'm assuming this rule remains?

Subject: FWS - COVID19

Good Morning,

I have a question/scenario regarding the current state of our institution as it relates to Federal Work Study (FWS) students and COVID-19. As of today, our president put the institution on a 'recess' wherein majority of in-person classes are suspended until March 23rd. All staff are still to report to work as all departments will run as normal. The institution is still open to students and visitors on campus as we are still providing services which includes advisement, tutoring, admissions, financial aid and the like. Majority of our in-person classes are not being held during this time with the exception of allied health and all fully online courses are still running as normal. On the 23rd, the institution will resume normal operation, including all in-person classes.

According to how we are reading the COVID-19 regulations as it pertains to school closing and FWS payment is that we are able to pay FWS students if the institution is closed due to COVID-19 or transitioned to fully online operation which would prevent students from working. Our situation does not appear to directly fit the criteria, however we want to have clarification concerning if our situation would qualify for students to be paid and not physically work the hours during this period even though the institution itself is open, but that in-person courses are not running with some exceptions.

Thank you for your time and attention,

Can you please confirm that the guidance in the March 5, Electronic Announcement under the Federal Work-Study (FWS) heading also applies in this scenario? We think the answer is, Yes.

Our campus, however, will not be "closing", just moving to an online format. Since the campus will not technically close and cease operations, are will still allowed to pay FWS for students who cannot continue in their positions.

Thank you very much!

Good morning,

We are trying to get/confirm guidance on partial closures related to COVID-19 protocols at our school.

If we have specific departments close as a precaution/protocol for the virus, would we be able to pay FWS students employed on campus at those locations. They would be labs and may include in-person tutoring services. I am not sure if the highlighted text below refers to FWS students that are working off-campus only.

The campus would remain open and be providing online learning and limited in-class instruction. Staff, in general, are expected to continue working.

Thank you in advance,

For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement.

Greetings!

I was hoping to get some clarification on the instances when an FWS-eligible student may still receive FWS pay despite not being able to work any hours.

We will begin and complete our spring term completely online in an effort to minimize student travel to campus, therefore our students will be enrolled AND will continue to incur and pay tuition. Your guidance indicates that students may only receive FWS payments for non-working hours for closures that occurred after the beginning of the term. However, if I am understanding the intention behind the guidance, because the student remains enrolled in the quarter, continues attendance, and pays tuition for which they rely on the FWS payments to help offset, it would seem that we would be able to pay them for hours not worked throughout our online spring term. Am I reading too much into the guidance?

Thanks for your help!

Good morning,

From ED Guidance: "For FWS students enrolled at an institution that closes temporarily due to the coronavirus, or for those whose employer closes as a result of the coronavirus — the institution will be permitted to continue paying the FWS wages "if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement."

Question: Can ED clarify or give guidance about the definition of "closes" under these circumstances? If an institution temporarily suspended classes on campus but offers classes online, is that institution considered to be closed for purposes of FWS payments?

Hello,
ACPHS will temporarily offer all coursework via distance technology for the remainder of this semester due to the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic. After reviewing the SFA notice dated March 05, 2020 with the Subject: Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus (COVID-19)", a question has arisen in regards to the institution surrounding the term "closed". Specifically, the guidance noted is:

"For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement."

Technically, the college will not be "closed", rather we will offer distance technology to students to continue their studies while maintaining social distancing and other recommendations of the CDC. Can FWS students continue to work for the College in positions that may be performed via distance technology? Are we able to continue their FWS employment in this way if the college is not "closed"?

Kindly provide some clarity on how we may best serve our students during this unfortunate hardship.
We appreciate your help greatly!

Tiffany

Hello,

I have a question about work study pay when a school has closed and students are asked not to come to campus. In this event, how do we determine how many hours the student will be paid for? Is it a flat 20 because that is the max, or is it an average of how many hours they typically work, or should we get something from the supervisor that tells us how many hours they would have been scheduled for?

Also, if the campus is closed to students and has moved online, but student services (financial aid) is still at campus and working, is it up to the campus/ supervisor's discretion as to whether FWS students working in student services will continue to come to campus and work?

Thank you,

To Whom It May Concern:

At American University (00143400), Federal Work Study recipients have the ability to work with external employers and receive FWS wage. The external employer pays the wage share. The external employer submit time sheets and payment are processed through American University. The student receives payment and a W2 from American University. If the external employer closes and is not paying its employees, can American University pay the FWS recipient by assuming the wage share of the external employer?

Are we allowed to pay FWS recipients who have been hired but has not yet worked, if the university ceases on campus operations?

Subject: Federal Work Study

Good morning,

My name is Tom Pinkl from the Financial Aid Office at La Salle University (School code 003287). I had a question about the announcement that went out on March 5th regarding Coronavirus.

Federal Work Study (FWS)
Federal law includes a provision allowing an institution to make FWS payments under certain limited circumstances to disaster-affected students who are unable to continue working. Given the unique nature of this situation, it is unlikely that an entire region would be declared a Federal disaster area, yet to students enrolled at a campus that must close temporarily, the loss of this important form of financial aid can be devastating. The impact may be magnified if the institution accommodates students by providing alternative instructional opportunities and the student is required to continue paying tuition, but the student loses FWS as an important part of their financial aid award. For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement. Students who were prevented from beginning a term at the institution as a result of a COVID-19-related disruption would not be eligible for Federal Student Aid for that term, and therefore could not be paid FWS wages for hours they did not work. Graduate students who are paid FWS wages on salary may continue to be paid for the remainder of the term if the institution is also paying its faculty and staff during that period. In these instances, institutions should document (as contemporaneously as feasible) that the COVID-19 disruption was the reason the student received FWS funds without documentation of hours worked.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

La Salle University's spring break starts tomorrow March 13th, and will go until Sunday, March 22nd. The University is canceling face-to-face courses on campus for one week, from Monday, March 23 – Friday, March 27. Courses will resume through remote learning from Monday, March 30 – Friday, April 3. Face-to-face instruction on campus will resume no earlier than Monday, April 6. Based on the announcement above, I understand that students can still be paid FWS while face-to-face courses are cancelled. I was hoping for some clarification though. La Salle was granted a title III/IV waiver for the 2019-20 academic year and will not be doing an institutional match for FWS. Because we are not required to meet the institutional match requirement, can we still pay students FWS during the two week period that face-to-face courses are cancelled?

Any guidance would be greatly appreciated.

Greetings!

We haven't closed (yet), but we're extending spring break a week in order to shore up the on-line instruction process for the campus. I would conclude that paying students for the week that they are required to be away is acceptable since they cannot return to campus. Then, students will be able to return to campus and have limited access to what and where they go (e.g. no face to face classes unless required, etc.) which may include not working in campus departments, etc. Is there flexibility here to continue to pay student workers if they are not being allowed to work (in order to reduce the likelihood of transmitting illness, etc.)? Administrative Offices may even restrict student visits to scheduling appointments.

Thanks for your feedback.

Best,
Fred

Subject: Federal Work Study (FWS)

Good morning,

After reading the electronic announcement dated March 05, 2020 "Subject Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus (COVID-19)" in regards to Federal Work Study, can you provide me with some additional guidance on the following:

The guidance indicates "For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement."

What about in the event of a partial closure? Currently, our college is in discussion of moving all/most lecture classes to online? Some of our Student Services Departments and staff members may be working remotely. Another possible scenarios is that the colleges suspends all face-to-face classes and student services are suspended. Both of these scenarios can impact our FWS students. Would either of the scenarios still be within the guidance above to continue paying our FWS students?

Subject: Federal Work Study and change of length of academic year

Good morning,
Our school is located in King County, near Seattle. Based on the recent developments we are considering delaying the start of our spring quarter. We moved most classes for the remainder of the winter quarter to alternate modalities to encourage social distancing.

I am meeting with the executive team later today and I'm trying to gather any information that would influence our decision for spring quarter. The recent Electronic Annourcement, dated March 5, 2020, states that schools can request a reduced academic year. Is there a specific process for this? What is the best way to contact the School Participation team? Our proposal would be to reduce the academic year by 2 weeks (making spring quarter an 8 week quarter instead of the typical 10).

Also, regarding FWS. If the school campus is closed to the public but classes are still running in alternate modalities at the beginning of the quarter, would the guidance of allowing FWS to be paid (provided we continue with the institutional share) still be applicable? What about if the closure is during the break? I would assume we could pay if the student was registered for spring quarter as we would during other breaks. Are there any additional considerations I need to take into account? At this point we don't have plans to completely close to the public, but we are making contingency plans.

Thank you for your assistance during this difficult time.

Dear Dept of ED Colleague -

Regarding ED's guidance below we wanted to get confirmation that as an institution which does not intend on formally closing at this time due to COVID-19, but which is going to provide alternative/remote instruction, that the FWS allowance as described below is applicable.

Thank you for your flexibility during this time,

Lynn Higinbotham

ED addressed specific impacts on the Federal Work-Study (FWS) program if disruptions from the coronavirus occur. Currently, federal law allows institutions to continue making FWS payments in certain circumstances to students in disaster-impacted areas if the student is not able to continue working. While ED said it is "unlikely that an entire region would be declared a federal disaster area," due to the coronavirus, for students enrolled at an institution that has to close temporarily, "the loss of this important form of financial aid can be devastating."

"The impact may be magnified if the institution accommodates students by providing alternative instructional opportunities and the student is required to continue paying tuition, but the student loses FWS as an important part of their financial aid award," ED continued.

In those circumstances — for FWS students enrolled at an institution that closes temporarily due to the coronavirus, or for those whose employer closes as a result of the coronavirus — the institution will be permitted to continue paying the FWS wages "if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement."

Good morning,

Will there be additional guidance on this statement in the current "Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus (COVID-19)":

The impact may be magnified if the institution accommodates students by providing alternative instructional opportunities and the student is required to continue paying tuition, but the student loses FWS as an important part of their financial aid award.

Our campus is not closing, but is instead shifting all classes to online. Faculty and staff will continue to be paid and we need to understand if we are permitted to allow Federal Work Study students to engage in work remotely and receive their funding during this time period.

Thank you for your assistance.

Greetings,

My son is a Sophomore at the University of Maryland, College Park and apart of his financial aid packet included work study. When he was informed that the school would be closing for two weeks he asked his supervisor if he would be able to work. He was informed that IF someone was working in the office, then he would be able to work. My concern is, IF someone is not in the office, will he still get paid for the week he was not able to work? According to your guidelines listed on https://ifap.ed.gov/electronic-announcements/030520Guidance4interruptionsrelated2CoronavirusCOVID19,, it indicates that he should still be able to get paid. If so, what would his supervisors need to do in order to abide by these guidelines. As you can imagine, the money he receives from the work-study program is necessary in order to pay his bills. Not receiving these benefits, that were already approved and allocated, will cause a huge financial burden on him and on his family.

Can you help us navigate through this process?

Thank you,

A student was being paid from our STATE Work Study allocation, but this funding has now been exhausted. Normally we would move the student to FEDERAL Work Study funding and allow them to finish out the semester.

Can I still move the student to a Federal Work Study award and continue the student's pay under the FWS rules? Or did the student have to be on FWS before my campus moved to online learning due to the COVID-19 pandemic?

I was just reading the U.S. Department of Education Newsletter and I was wondering if any adjustments will be made for our Veterans enrolled in college courses. I was speaking to our Veterans Affairs Coordinator this morning and I was told that these resources required our Veterans to participate in at least one on-ground course to keep their funding. Since the Covid-19 pandemic has occurred, our college is in the process of moving all of our on-ground courses to online courses until further notice. Will our Veterans loose their funds? Do you know if anything is in the works for this?

Hello
I'm writing because I am concerned for my kids health. I'm wondering how it is that the cdc and the govt are advising against large gatherings colleges are closing large businesses are having employees work from home sports teams are playing to empty stadiums Entire cities are shut down government officials are quarantined presidential candidates are canceling rallies there is an actual global pandemic yet our children are still sitting in public schools which are essentially large gatherings all day long. As A parents in the year 2020 And the age of technology that we live in I believe we should have the option to keep our kids home in the middle of a global health emergency. I believe that every state should have a blanket option for kids to do their schoolwork from home.we are about an hour and a half past washing hands and cleaning desks at this point. Those Of you in charge of the education system at the top should wake up and do something to protect our children because it seems everyone's being protected except our kids. The idea that my child is sitting in crowded classrooms all day currently in the middle of this global health crisis is total insanity. It is past time to close schools until It is no longer a health risk for our children to go and sit in crowded classrooms all day.
Thank you for your time

Hello. Our graduate program has a required course trip to Brussels scheduled for March 27-April 5. The college is considering postponing the trip amid health concerns and believes this scenario falls into the one referenced in the electronic announcement on March 5th .

- A student was enrolled or was supposed to begin a travel-abroad experience and either the student has been called back to the U.S. or was never able to begin the travel abroad experience;

Several students have borrowed federal student loans to pay for the course/trip, and I want to ensure their aid will not be negatively impact by postponing the trip a few months out. Also, since the aid had already been disbursed onto their student accounts, will the college need to make any changes regarding disbursement, academic year, loan periods/payment periods, etc. to adjust for those 12 days?

Please advise.

Subject: Guidance Questions Related to COVID-19

After reading the March 5, 2020 Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus (COVID-19), we have the following questions, which are highlighted in green below.

Accommodating Students Whose Enrollment is Disrupted by Coronavirus
Our goal is to work with institutions and find ways to enable you to accommodate students and help them continue their education despite interruptions caused by COVID-19. For many institutions, online education will provide a viable option for continuing to teach students through COVID-19-related interruptions. In some instances, students enrolled in ground-based programs at campuses that must temporarily close could participate in distance education for a period of time and then resume ground-based attendance when the campus reopens. In other instances, an institution may provide online learning opportunities for a student who was recalled from a travel-abroad program but the student is too late into the semester to enroll in other classes offered by the home campus, or the student who arrived in a foreign country intending to complete a travel abroad experience finds that the program has now been cancelled or temporarily suspended. We are providing the following flexibilities to institutions to help them understand what options they can make available to students and remain in compliance with Title IV requirements.

- Based on the highlighted statement, can we get clarification that elsewhere in the document when the department talks about relief provided to institutions/students in the event of a closure, that a move to online instruction for most/all courses is equal to a closure?
- If a student is unable to participate in online courses (e.g. no home internet, no computer, not able to learn in that format, etc.), does the relief extend to that student because of the change in mode of instruction?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Federal Work Study (FWS)

Federal law includes a provision allowing an institution to make FWS payments under certain limited circumstances to disaster-affected students who are unable to continue working. Given the unique nature of this situation, it is unlikely that an entire region would be declared a Federal disaster area, yet to students enrolled at a campus that must close temporarily, the loss of this important form of financial aid can be devastating. The impact may be magnified if the institution accommodates students by providing alternative instructional opportunities and the student is required to continue paying tuition, but the student loses FWS as an important part of their financial aid award. For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement. Students who were prevented from beginning a term at the institution as a result of a COVID-19-related disruption would not be eligible for Federal Student Aid for that term, and therefore could not be paid FWS wages for hours they did not work. Graduate students who are paid FWS wages on salary may continue to be paid for the remainder of the term if the institution is also paying its faculty and staff during that period. In these instances, institutions should document (as contemporaneously as feasible) that the COVID-19 disruption was the reason the student received FWS funds without documentation of hours worked.

- If the campus continues to be open for online instruction but an FWS student's job functions are no longer relevant due to this (e.g. a lab assistant where the lab is not meeting in person or a tutor), can this student continue to be paid when other student staff may be still working in their positions (e.g. an assistant in the Payroll Office).

Students Who Did Not Begin Attendance

We are aware that many U.S. students enrolled in eligible foreign institutions and in study abroad programs offered by domestic institutions have already been affected by local outbreaks of COVID-19 and the measures taken by institutions in response. Of immediate concern are those students who travelled to overseas destinations but were unable to begin classes due to school closures. There may also be instances where students at domestic institutions are similarly affected and unable to begin classes. Because these students did not begin attendance in a payment period or period of enrollment, 34 CFR § 668.21 (rather than Return of Title IV Funds) applies. In such a situation, the institution must return all Title IV grant funds disbursed for the payment period or period of enrollment and all Direct Loan funds that were credited to the student's account at the institution for that period. The institution must also return Direct Loan funds in the amount of payments made directly by or on behalf of the student to the institution for the period, up to the total amount of the loan funds disbursed. The institution is not responsible for returning Direct Loan funds that were disbursed directly to the student in the form of a credit balance as long as the institution was not aware that the student would not attend prior to the disbursement, and students will be able to repay those funds as a part of their educational loans. In these circumstances, institutions are permitted, but not required, to return all of a student's Direct Loan funds, including the amount comprising the credit balance.

Normally institutions, once aware that a student will not begin or has not begun attendance, must notify the loan servicer which results in issuance of a final demand letter to the borrower.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

However, we have determined that in the case where a student was unable to begin attendance due to a COVID-19-related school closure, the provisions of 34 CFR § 668.21(a)(2)(ii), requiring the institution to notify the servicer of that student's failure to begin attendance, do not apply because the option for the student to begin attendance did not exist. Accordingly, the institution should not notify the servicer that the student did not begin attendance. He or she will be permitted to repay any Direct Loan funds received under the terms of the promissory note. This will also prevent a student from being required to enter repayment within six months of withdrawing if the student withdrew as a result of a Coronavirus-related interruption

- If Pell is reduced due to a change in enrollment status (e.g. the student was enrolled full-time and does not begin attendance in one course forcing a Pell reduction to three quarter time), can the institution give the student SEOG funds even if the student is not a 0 EFC and not all 0 EFC students have been awarded SEOG because the institution determines that the student fits the "highest need" population based on the circumstances?
- What documentation is required to confirm that the student did not begin attendance due to COVID-19?
- If the school does not fully close but goes to online instruction only, does this guidance still apply?

Greetings,

In the event a college has moved its courses online for all students but the college is continuing to allow employees (and FWS students) to work on campus, can the FWS student now work during the time that their on ground class was scheduled for during the time frame that that class is only online?

Example: Student takes class Math 101 on Monday and Wednesday from 8am to 10am. During normal circumstances the fws student could not work during 8am to 10am. However, Math 101 has now been moved to online format for an undetermined amount of time. Can this student now work on campus from 8am to 10am given the class is online?

Subject: FWS Question

Hello,
I have a question regarding the FWS statement in the Electonic Announcement dated 3/5 below.

Scenario: An institution used all of their FWS allocation to pay their students and their earnings are now being paid by institutional student employment dollars. Because students are no longer being paid via FWS dollars, if the institution closes, the institution would not be obligated to continue to pay the students under the below circumstances, correct?

In those circumstances — for FWS students enrolled at an institution that closes temporarily due to the coronavirus, or for those whose employer closes as a result of the coronavirus — the institution will be permitted to continue paying the FWS wages "if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement."

Any guidance would be appreciated.

Thanks you,
Nick

Questions?

Do we have to continue to pay FWS students? Is it an Institutional option?

It says that we must be paying others including faculty and staff, do we have to continue paying our King Institutional Works Study students?

How do we determine what they get paid? Would it be ok to use their average?

Do we need any approval to do this? (Pay FWS Students)

Our campus is looking to move our face to face instruction to online only in the very near future. We will also be requiring that students leave campus. My question is related to our FWS allocation. We pay our students (undergraduates) in a bi-weekly pay check based on the number of hours worked. Subject: FWS Questions

I've read the guidance concerning FWS in the March 5th OPE guidance, but my institution has many questions so I'm in need of additional clarification.

We've stopped face-to-face instruction as of March 11th and will resume instruction on March 18th via online options. Faculty are being given this time to convert their classes to online options. We hope to resume face-to-face instruction April 1st, but will make that determination toward the end of March. The University is open during this time but students are being told to go home until March 31st unless there is a compelling reason for them to stay in campus housing. Many of our students are FWS recipients.

Based on this scenario, my questions are as follows:

1. May we pay our FWS students for hours they did not work with federal funds based on their pre-established work schedules for the period of March 11th through March 31st ?
2. May a FWS student who remains on campus because they are unable to return home be paid FWS funds if they do not work during this time period, 3/11 to 3/31?
3. May a FWS student who remains on campus because they are unable to return home be prevented from doing their work-study job during this time period, 3/11 to 3/31?
4. May a FWS student who remains on campus because they are unable to return home be allowed to do their work-study job during this time period, 3/11 to 3/31?
5. If the university decides to continue instruction via online options only from April 1st through the end of the semester, but the students are allowed to return to campus housing, must FWS recipients work in order to get paid for the period of 4/1 to 5/8?
6. Do you have any additional guidance I haven't thought to ask about?

I apologize for all the questions, but I want to make sure I advise my university accurately.

Since classes are suspended for a week and students are being encouraged to move out of the residence halls, it doesn't seem right to require them to come to campus to work to earn these needed funds. Since the EA only addresses a school closure, what about this type of disruption I just mentioned? Will ED be coming out with additional guidance on this topic? I've seen many things float around on finaid L that doesn't seem accurate.

Guidelines update, related to COVID-19

Faculty and staff,

After close consultation with state and federal authorities, emergency management, and public health experts, the UNC System Office has announced several guidelines for all UNC System schools in order to minimize the impact of COVID-19. This memo provides important and immediate actions that our campus will be taking in reaction to these guidelines. There are no confirmed cases at UNCG at this time.

This is a public health response and based on best practices. We must be proactive and do what is best to protect our students, our employees, and our extended community of families, friends, and neighbors.

We have notified students that all face-to-face classes will be suspended March 16 - 20 in order to prepare as many courses as possible to transition to an online format beginning Monday, March 23rd. Note that some classes cannot be delivered online and those courses will continue to be delivered face-to-face. More information about specific courses will be forthcoming. Though students will be encouraged to leave campus next week, some students will remain on campus, and many students may return the week of March 23rd.

UNCG will remain open as normal for the rest of the week of March 9th. Employees are expected to report to work as usual.

Effective immediately, supervisors are encouraged to explore teleworking arrangements for employees who can effectively complete their job assignments from a remote location.

Additionally, based on UNC System guidance, all events and programs with over 100 attendees that are scheduled to be held between now and March 30, must be cancelled or postponed, unless otherwise authorized by the Chancellor or Provost. It is likely that this time horizon will be extended, so look for subsequent communications on this matter.

University-sponsored travel outside of North Carolina, or within the state to gatherings of 100 people or more, shall be suspended unless prior written authorization to travel is given by the Chancellor or Provost. This prohibition includes student organizations.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Staff and faculty are encouraged to avoid travel to areas with active community transmission. See the University's Novel COVID-19 Information Page for links to information about affected areas.

These steps are designed to mitigate risk – reduce large groups, slow virus transmission, and provide a safer environment. UNCG employees should also practice smart hygiene and social distancing techniques. More information and guidance is available here. This includes:

- Wash your hands for 20 seconds with soap and water or use an alcohol-based hand sanitizer.
- Avoid shaking hands.
- Cover your cough with a tissue or sneeze/cough into your elbow.
- Do not share food.
- Keep exercise equipment and other shared assets clean.
- Disinfect frequently touched objects using a regular household cleaning spray or wipe.
- Stay home when you are sick and avoid close contact with those who are sick.
- Avoid touching your eyes, nose, and mouth.

UNCG is not closing, and we are moving forward with our semester, albeit under some unique circumstances. We recognize these actions will invariably lead to questions and new challenges. We appreciate your commitment, dedication, and focus on our mission. Please ensure you stay informed by monitoring email, following @UNCG social media channels, downloading our UNCG Mobile app (iTunes and Google Apps), and regularly visiting our dedicated coronavirus website.

Hi Ms. Gaudio,
I have not seen guidance requiring universities to notify DOE of changing the method of instructional delivery, however, I thought out of an abundance of caution I would send you a notification.

Jacksonville University has made the decision to switch to online instruction for all classes that were previously delivered in the classroom beginning March 16 through April 3 at this point. Since this week was spring break for students, they have been given the option to stay home during this time, or they can return to campus.

Please let me know if you require additional information.

My VP is asking if we were to close for a few weeks, could we extend our semester by a couple of weeks? Would this be allowable? I see in the guidance information about reducing the academic year, but nothing about extending it. We are a traditional 16 week semester standard term school. Our spring semester ends May 15th. My concern would be that currently our summer interim starts May 18th and goes until May 29th. If we extend the spring these semester overlap. Would we have to cancel our summer interim?

Hi,

I have a question related to the reference on page 8 of today's letter when a student does not begin attendance as a result of COVID-19. I've included the paragraph below with highlighted areas.

Federal Student Aid - IFAP: 030520Guidance4interruptionsrelated2CoronavirusCOVID19

Normally institutions, once aware that a student will not begin or has not begun attendance, must notify the loan servicer which results in issuance of a final demand letter to the borrower. However, we have determined that in the case where a student was unable to begin attendance due to a COVID-19-related school closure, the provisions of 34 CFR § 668.21(a)(2)(ii), requiring the institution to notify the servicer of that student's failure to begin attendance, do not apply because the option for the student to begin attendance did not exist. Accordingly, the institution should not notify the servicer that the student did not begin attendance. He or she will be permitted to repay any Direct Loan funds received under the terms of the promissory note. This will also prevent a student from being required to enter repayment within six months of withdrawing if the student withdrew as a result of a Coronavirus-related interruption.

My question is regarding reporting to NSLDS when a student does not begin attendance. Does this exception apply ONLY when the foreign school closes or does it also apply if the home institution cancels the program, even though the foreign institution did not close, prior to the students beginning attendance? An item of clarification-no TIV funds were disbursed.

Thank you for your help and clarification

Hello:

I am writing to request clarification on your March 5, 2020 Guidance for Interruption of Study Related to Coronavirus (COVID-19).

Specifically, in the section entitled "Foreign Schools" you indicate that you "cannot extend flexibility regarding the use of distance learning to foreign schools since the Higher Education Act does not permit foreign schools to provide distance learning to U.S. students who participate in Title IV, HEA programs." Does this limitation refer only to foreign schools directly receiving Title IV funds? Does the limitation apply to study abroad programs where the foreign school does not directly receive Title IV funds? Thank you in advance for any clarification you can provide.

Regards,

Hello,

My name is Jessica Johnson and I am the Employment Coordinator in the Office of Federal Work Study at Morgan State University. I wanted to reach out about clarity regarding our FWS Students.

In the event that Morgan State University closes its campus, where no students, staff, or faculty are present, what documents will be needed to continue to pay our FWS students? Also, are we to pay them based on their individual FWS contracts or is there a different pay scale or standard pay that should be paid?

If you need more clarification on these questions, please feel free to contact me at 443.885.4559.

Thank you for your time and I hope to hear from you soon.

Department of Education Staff -

Good morning. I just reviewed the guidance provided by the Dept. of ED on combating the COVID-19 virus. The briefing that I'm referring to was provided by IFAP.

Coursera is the leading provider of digital learning provided by leading academic institutions - Duke, Johns Hopkins, Yale, Georgia Tech, Northwestern, Univ. of MI, Univ. of MD, Univ. of VA and 160+ others around the world. 49M learners around the world have developed their skills on our platform, with the assistance of the best educators in the world.

The two policies from your briefing that I'd like to discuss are:

1. Approval to Offer Distance Education
   The Department is providing broad approval to institutions to use online technologies to accommodate students on a temporary basis, without going through the regular approval process of the Department in the event that an institution is otherwise required to seek Departmental approval for the use or expansion of distance learning programs. This flexibility only applies to a program during a payment period that overlaps the date of this electronic announcement or the following payment period. If an institution chooses to continue offering a new program or use distance education in a manner requiring the Department's approval after that point, it must seek approval under the Department's normal process.

2. Institutions may also enter into temporary consortium agreements with other institutions so that students can complete courses at other institutions but be awarded credit by their home institution. In addition, in instances where accrediting agencies require students to complete a final number or percentage of credits in residence at the institution, accrediting agencies may waive that requirement for students impacted by COVID-19 without objection by the Department.

Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus (COVID-19)
This electronic announcement addresses concerns expressed by higher education leaders regarding how they should comply with Title IV, Higher Education Act (HEA) policies for students whose activities are impacted by Coronavirus (COVID-19), either directly because the student is ill or quarantined, or indirectly because the student was recalled from travel-abroad experiences, can no longer participate in internships or clinical rotations, or attends a campus that temporarily suspended operations. This information provides flexibilities for schools that are working to help students complete the term in which they are currently enrolled.

These instructions do not contemplate accommodations for students who have not yet enrolled or whose term has not yet begun, with certain exceptions. We will continue to monitor the situation and make a later determination of what accommodations may be necessary should longer-term interruptions become likely. We will continue to provide updates to this information as appropriate.

We encourage institutions to visit the Department's Coronavirus webpage, https://www.ed.gov/coronavirus?src=feature, on this topic frequently, as we will post updates as they become available. In addition, the Department's webpage has links to guidance from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, including for how Institutions of Higher Education should manage human health risks associated with Coronavirus.

We address five potential student and campus scenarios: that may prompt an institution to have questions about how to comply with Title IV, HEA requirements if the Coronavirus impacts a student or a campus:

- A student was enrolled or was supposed to begin a travel-abroad experience and either the student has been called back to the U.S. or was never able to begin the travel abroad experience;
- A student was enrolled in a program and met the requirements for full-time enrollment; however, due to the COVID-19, one or more classes – such as an internship, a clinical rotation, student teaching or fieldwork – have been cancelled and now the student has fallen below the 12 credit hour minimum and is no longer considered to be a full-time student;
- A student is quarantined and misses class or a student is incapacitated due to COVID-19 illness;
- A campus temporarily stops offering ground-based classes in order to prevent the spread of COVID-19;
- A foreign school that serves U.S. students who participate in title IV programs temporarily suspends operations due to COVID-19.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

We offer information below about options we are making available to institutions under our current statutory authority to provide as much flexibility as possible so that you can continue to serve students. In some instances, we have been asked to consider providing flexibilities that are beyond our statutory authority. As a result, we cannot provide those flexibilities. If you have questions about the information provided in this electronic announcement, or you are encountering a scenario that we have not addressed, please email the Department at COVID-19@ed.gov.

We recommend that institutions document, as contemporaneously as possible, any actions taken as a result of COVID-19, including those actions described in this document.

Accommodating Students Whose Enrollment is Disrupted by Coronavirus

Our goal is to work with institutions and find ways to enable you to accommodate students and help them continue their education despite interruptions caused by COVID-19. For many institutions, online education will provide a viable option for continuing to teach students through COVID-19-related interruptions. In some instances, students enrolled in ground-based programs at campuses that must temporarily close could participate in distance education for a period of time and then resume ground-based attendance when the campus reopens. In other instances, an institution may provide online learning opportunities for a student who was recalled from a travel-abroad program but the student is too late into the semester to enroll in other classes offered by the home campus, or the student who arrived in a foreign country intending to complete a travel abroad experience finds that the program has now been cancelled or temporarily suspended. We are providing the following flexibilities to institutions to help them understand what options they can make available to students and remain in compliance with Title IV requirements.

Approval to Offer Distance Education

The Department is providing broad approval to institutions to use online technologies to accommodate students on a temporary basis, without going through the regular approval process of the Department in the event that an institution is otherwise required to seek Departmental approval for the use or expansion of distance learning programs. This flexibility only applies to a program during a payment period that overlaps the date of this electronic announcement or the following payment period. If an institution chooses to continue offering a new program or use distance education in a manner requiring the Department's approval after that point, it must seek approval under the Department's normal process.

We are also permitting accreditors to waive their distance education review requirements for institutions working to accommodate students whose enrollment is otherwise interrupted as a result of COVID-19. We currently are limiting that permission to distance learning opportunities developed for the purpose of serving students who were already in attendance, but whose attendance was interrupted by COVID-19. Please note that this flexibility is not available for clock-hour courses that lead to licensure if the licensure body will not accept distance learning courses or hours or give credit for them toward the number of hours a student must complete.

We want to make clear to institutions that for Title IV, HEA purposes, distance learning does not require the use of sophisticated learning management systems or online platforms, though accreditors may have additional standards included in their review of distance learning programs. We are, however, permitting accreditors to waive those standards for schools implementing distance learning programs solely for the purpose of allowing currently enrolled students to complete a term that is interrupted by COVID-19 closures. To meet the Department's requirements for providing distance education, an institution must communicate to students through one of several types of technology – including email – described under 34 CFR § 600.2, and instructors must initiate substantive communication with students, either individually or collectively, on a regular basis. In other words, an instructor could use email to provide instructional materials to students enrolled in his or her class, use chat features to communicate with students, set up conference calls to facilitate group conversations, engage in email exchanges or require students to submit work electronically that the instructor will evaluate.

Institutions may provide distance learning temporarily to accommodate students as a result of a COVID-19 interruption, including in cases where students began attendance in classes offered in a brick-and-mortar setting but were transitioned to a distance education format in the middle of the term. In these cases, we will accept the accreditation and state authorization of the institution for the programs in which those students were enrolled prior to the interruption due to COVID-19 to enable students to complete the current term.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Institutions may also enter into temporary consortium agreements with other institutions so that students can complete courses at other institutions but be awarded credit by their home institution. In addition, in instances where accrediting agencies require students to complete a final number or percentage of credits in residence at the institution, accrediting agencies may waive that requirement for students impacted by COVID-19 without objection by the Department.

The Department will permit students who wish to take an approved leave of absence for COVID-19-related concerns or limitations (such as interruption of a travel-abroad program), to take such leave, even if the student notifies the institution in writing after the approved leave of absence has begun. In such a case, the institution may retain those Title IV funds to apply when the student continues enrollment. If the student does not return to complete their program within 180 days, the school would then be expected to perform the Return of Title IV funds calculation based on the date on which the leave-of-absence began. Note that in term-based programs, if a student takes an approved leave of absence from a term-based program, the institution must ensure that the student is permitted to complete the coursework he or she began prior to the leave of absence.

Finally, because we understand that some students may have been recalled from travel abroad programs or canceled-out of experiential learning opportunities after the semester began, institutions may offer courses to those students on a schedule that would otherwise be considered a non-standard term, if doing so enables those students to complete the term. These flexibilities will also be provided to institutions, or their additional locations or programs, that must temporarily close as a result of COVID-19.

Foreign Schools

We cannot extend flexibility regarding the use of distance learning to foreign schools since the Higher Education Act does not permit foreign schools to provide distance learning to U.S. students who participate in Title IV, HEA programs. We continue to consider if there are any other flexibilities we could extend to foreign schools that temporarily close due to COVID-19.

Federal Work Study (FWS)

Federal law includes a provision allowing an institution to make FWS payments under certain limited circumstances to disaster-affected students who are unable to continue working. Given the unique nature of this situation, it is unlikely that an entire region would be declared a Federal disaster area, yet to students enrolled at a campus that must close temporarily, the loss of this important form of financial aid can be devastating. The impact may be magnified if the institution accommodates students by providing alternative instructional opportunities and the student is required to continue paying tuition, but the student loses FWS as an important part of their financial aid award. For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement. Students who were prevented from beginning a term at the institution as a result of a COVID-19-related disruption would not be eligible for Federal Student Aid for that term, and therefore could not be paid FWS wages for hours they did not work. Graduate students who are paid FWS wages on salary may continue to be paid for the remainder of the term if the institution is also paying its faculty and staff during that period. In these instances, institutions should document (as contemporaneously as feasible) that the COVID-19 disruption was the reason the student received FWS funds without documentation of hours worked.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Length of Academic Year

The Department is authorized under 34 CFR § 668.3 to approve a reduced academic year. If at any point an institution determines it will close as the result of a campus health emergency, it may contact the School Participation team to request a temporary reduction in the length of its academic year.

Professional Judgement

Financial aid administrators (FAA) have statutory authority to use professional judgement to make adjustments on a case-by-case basis to the cost of attendance or to the data elements used in calculating the EFC to reflect a student's special circumstances. The use of professional judgement where students and/or their families have been affected by COVID-19 is permitted, such as in the case where an employer closes for a period of time as a result of COVID-19. In making professional judgement determinations, FAAs must obtain documentation and retain it in each student's file. This documentation must substantiate the reason for any adjustment. Institutions are reminded that, regardless of how broadly an event may affect its student population, professional judgement determinations must be made and documented on a case-by-case basis.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP)

An institution's SAP appeal policy (34 CFR § 668.34(a)(9)) must, among other things, describe the basis on which a student may file an appeal: the death of a relative, an injury or illness of the student, or other special circumstances. Circumstances related to an outbreak of COVID-19, including, but not limited to, the illness of a student or family member, compliance with a quarantine period, or the general disruption resulting from

Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus (COVID-19)
This electronic announcement addresses concerns expressed by higher education leaders regarding how they should comply with Title IV, Higher Education Act (HEA) policies for students whose activities are impacted by Coronavirus (COVID-19), either directly because the student is ill or quarantined, or indirectly because the student was recalled from travel-abroad experiences, can no longer participate in internships or clinical rotations, or attends a campus that temporarily suspended operations. This information provides flexibilities for schools that are working to help students complete the term in which they are currently enrolled.

These instructions do not contemplate accommodations for students who have not yet enrolled or whose term has not yet begun, with certain exceptions. We will continue to monitor the situation and make a later determination of what accommodations may be necessary should longer-term interruptions become likely. We will continue to provide updates to this information as appropriate.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

We encourage institutions to visit the Department's Coronavirus webpage, https://www.ed.gov/coronavirus?src=feature, on this topic frequently, as we will post updates as they become available. In addition, the Department's webpage has links to guidance from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, including for how Institutions of Higher Education should manage human health risks associated with Coronavirus.

We address five potential student and campus scenarios: that may prompt an institution to have questions about how to comply with Title IV, HEA requirements if the Coronavirus impacts a student or a campus:

- A student was enrolled or was supposed to begin a travel-abroad experience and either the student has been called back to the U.S. or was never able to begin the travel abroad experience;
- A student was enrolled in a program and met the requirements for full-time enrollment; however, due to the COVID-19, one or more classes – such as an internship, a clinical rotation, student teaching or fieldwork – have been cancelled and now the student has fallen below the 12 credit hour minimum and is no longer considered to be a full-time student;
- A student is quarantined and misses class or a student is incapacitated due to COVID-19 illness;
- A campus temporarily stops offering ground-based classes in order to prevent the spread of COVID-19;
- A foreign school that serves U.S. students who participate in title IV programs temporarily suspends operations due to COVID-19.

We offer information below about options we are making available to institutions under our current statutory authority to provide as much flexibility as possible so that you can continue to serve students. In some instances, we have been asked to consider providing flexibilities that are beyond our statutory authority. As a result, we cannot provide those flexibilities. If you have questions about the information provided in this electronic announcement, or you are encountering a scenario that we have not addressed, please email the Department at COVID-19@ed.gov.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

We recommend that institutions document, as contemporaneously as possible, any actions taken as a result of COVID-19, including those actions described in this document.

Accommodating Students Whose Enrollment is Disrupted by Coronavirus

Our goal is to work with institutions and find ways to enable you to accommodate students and help them continue their education despite interruptions caused by COVID-19. For many institutions, online education will provide a viable option for continuing to teach students through COVID-19-related interruptions. In some instances, students enrolled in ground-based programs at campuses that must temporarily close could participate in distance education for a period of time and then resume ground-based attendance when the campus reopens. In other instances, an institution may provide online learning opportunities for a student who was recalled from a travel-abroad program but the student is too late into the semester to enroll in other classes offered by the home campus, or the student who arrived in a foreign country intending to complete a travel abroad experience finds that the program has now been cancelled or temporarily suspended. We are providing the following flexibilities to institutions to help them understand what options they can make available to students and remain in compliance with Title IV requirements.

Approval to Offer Distance Education

The Department is providing broad approval to institutions to use online technologies to accommodate students on a temporary basis, without going through the regular approval process of the Department in the event that an institution is otherwise required to seek Departmental approval for the use or expansion of distance learning programs. This flexibility only applies to a program during a payment period that overlaps the date of this electronic announcement or the following payment period. If an institution chooses to continue offering a new program or use distance education in a manner requiring the Department's approval after that point, it must seek approval under the Department's normal process.

We are also permitting accreditors to waive their distance education review requirements for institutions working to accommodate students whose enrollment is otherwise interrupted as a result of COVID-19. We currently are limiting that permission to distance learning opportunities developed for the purpose of serving students who were already in attendance, but whose attendance was interrupted by COVID-19. Please note that this flexibility is not available for clock-hour courses that lead to licensure if the licensure body will not accept distance learning courses or hours or give credit for them toward the number of hours a student must complete.

We want to make clear to institutions that for Title IV, HEA purposes, distance learning does not require the use of sophisticated learning management systems or online platforms, though accreditors may have additional standards included in their review of distance learning programs. We are, however, permitting accreditors to waive those standards for schools implementing distance learning programs solely for the purpose of allowing currently enrolled students to complete a term that is interrupted by COVID-19 closures. To meet the Department's requirements for providing distance education, an institution must communicate to students through one of several types of technology – including email – described under 34 CFR § 600.2, and instructors must initiate substantive communication with students, either individually or collectively, on a regular basis. In other words, an instructor could use email to provide instructional materials to students enrolled in his or her class, use chat features to communicate with students, set up conference calls to facilitate group conversations, engage in email exchanges or require students to submit work electronically that the instructor will evaluate.

Institutions may provide distance learning temporarily to accommodate students as a result of a COVID-19 interruption, including in cases where students began attendance in classes offered in a brick-and-mortar setting but were transitioned to a distance education format in the middle of the term. In these cases, we will accept the accreditation and state authorization of the institution for the programs in which those students were enrolled prior to the interruption due to COVID-19 to enable students to complete the current term.

Institutions may also enter into temporary consortium agreements with other institutions so that students can complete courses at other institutions but be awarded credit by their home institution. In addition, in instances where accrediting agencies require students to complete a final number or percentage of credits in residence at the institution, accrediting agencies may waive that requirement for students impacted by COVID-19 without objection by the Department.

The Department will permit students who wish to take an approved leave of absence for COVID-19-related concerns or limitations (such as interruption of a travel-abroad program), to take such leave, even if the student notifies the institution in writing after the approved leave of absence has begun. In such a case, the institution may retain those Title IV funds to apply when the student continues enrollment. If the student does not return to complete their program within 180 days, the school would then be expected to perform the Return of Title IV funds calculation based on the date on which the leave-of-absence began. Note that in term-based programs, if a student takes an approved leave of absence from a term-based program, the institution must ensure that the student is permitted to complete the coursework he or she began prior to the leave of absence.

Finally, because we understand that some students may have been recalled from travel abroad programs or canceled-out of experiential learning opportunities after the semester began, institutions may offer courses to those students on a schedule that would otherwise be considered a non-standard term, if doing so enables those students to complete the term. These flexibilities will also be provided to institutions, or their additional locations or programs, that must temporarily close as a result of COVID-19.

Foreign Schools

We cannot extend flexibility regarding the use of distance learning to foreign schools since the Higher Education Act does not permit foreign schools to provide distance learning to U.S. students who participate in Title IV, HEA programs. We continue to consider if there are any other flexibilities we could extend to foreign schools that temporarily close due to COVID-19.

Federal Work Study (FWS)

Federal law includes a provision allowing an institution to make FWS payments under certain limited circumstances to disaster-affected students who are unable to continue working. Given the unique nature of this situation, it is unlikely that an entire region would be declared a Federal disaster area, yet to students enrolled at a campus that must close temporarily, the loss of this important form of financial aid can be devastating. The impact may be magnified if the institution accommodates students by providing alternative instructional opportunities and the student is required to continue paying tuition, but the student loses FWS as an important part of their financial aid award. For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement. Students who were prevented from beginning a term at the institution as a result of a COVID-19-related disruption would not be eligible for Federal Student Aid for that term, and therefore could not be paid FWS wages for hours they did not work. Graduate students who are paid FWS wages on salary may continue to be paid for the remainder of the term if the institution is also paying its faculty and staff during that period. In these instances, institutions should document (as contemporaneously as feasible) that the COVID-19 disruption was the reason the student received FWS funds without documentation of hours worked.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Length of Academic Year

The Department is authorized under 34 CFR § 668.3 to approve a reduced academic year. If at any point an institution determines it will close as the result of a campus health emergency, it may contact the School Participation team to request a temporary reduction in the length of its academic year.

Professional Judgement

Financial aid administrators (FAA) have statutory authority to use professional judgement to make adjustments on a case-by-case basis to the cost of attendance or to the data elements used in calculating the EFC to reflect a student's special circumstances. The use of professional judgement where students and/or their families have been affected by COVID-19 is permitted, such as in the case where an employer closes for a period of time as a result of COVID-19. In making professional judgement determinations, FAAs must obtain documentation and retain it in each student's file. This documentation must substantiate the reason for any adjustment. Institutions are reminded that, regardless of how broadly an event may affect its student population, professional judgement determinations must be made and documented on a case-by-case basis.

Satisfactory Academic Progress (SAP)

An institution's SAP appeal policy (34 CFR § 668.34(a)(9)) must, among other things, describe the basis on which a student may file an appeal: the death of a relative, an injury or illness of the student, or other special circumstances. Circumstances related to an outbreak of COVID-19, including, but not limited to, the illness of a student or family member,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

compliance with a quarantine period, or the general disruption resulting from

Hello Patrick, Miriam and Debbie,

Our Governor announced a statewide closure of all Oregon schools from March 16th through March 31st due to the public health threat of coronavirus. Our agency's director confirmed this includes 21st CCLC programs across our state. Is it allowable for hourly 21st CCLC staff to be paid during the closure? These are people who are counting on a paycheck to support themselves and their families. Also, does the Department have any guidance for SEAs in the event a program is unable to fulfill the required number of program hours in a school year?

I've included a message sent out to Superintendents and Principals tonight:

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Date: March 12, 2020 (8:30 PM)

From: Colt Gill, Director of the Oregon Department of Education and Deputy Superintendent of Public Instruction

RE: Governor Kate Brown Announces Statewide School Closure for Students in Oregon from Monday, March 16 through Tuesday, March 31

In consideration of staffing challenges and health concerns due to the public health threat of coronavirus, Governor Kate Brown today announced a statewide closure of Oregon K-12 schools from Monday, March 16 through Tuesday, March 31.

"Schools are critical institutions that provide important services for all our students, but especially our most vulnerable, and during this crisis I have worked hard to ensure those critical services continue. So many of our families depend on school in order for parents to go to their jobs, and for students to access health care and receive nutrition assistance," said Governor Brown.

"However, I have heard from superintendents, school board members, teachers, parents, and students that it has now become impossible to functionally operate schools due to workforce issues and student absences. Schools are experiencing critical shortages in staff, and superintendents are concerned for school personnel who are at elevated risk such as those over age 60 and those with underlying medical issues.

"I want to be very clear: sending Oregon children home will not stop the spread of the coronavirus. While children are home, when at all possible, they should not be in the care of older adults or those with underlying health issues that are most at-risk from COVID-19.

"This is a trying time for our community and I am reluctant to increase the burden on families who are already struggling to adapt to and stay healthy during this crisis. However, we are left with little choice in light of school districts' staff capacity and operational concerns. I want to thank all of the teachers and school employees who have worked hard to keep our schools open until now."

Per the Governor's directives and with the support of the Oregon Department of Education and the state's Early Learning Division, during the closure:

- School districts are directed to develop plans for returning to school that accommodate ongoing impacts of coronavirus. Staff should utilize the final two days of March to finalize plans for operating schools under updated measures, with students expected to return on Wednesday, April 1.
- Districts are tasked with developing plans to continue nutrition services during the closure.
- The Oregon Department of Education will examine the impact the closure will have on instructional time.
- School districts will ensure adequate cleaning supplies for increased cleaning protocols following the closure.
- The Early Learning Division will support child care programs and will work to identify resources to support child care needs for our most vulnerable families, as well as health care professionals and first responders.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

"We are in close communication with school districts across the state, and they will be communicating regularly with their school communities throughout the closure period," said Colt Gill, Director of the Oregon Department of Education. "Due to the evolving nature of this crisis, these timelines will be reevaluated in late March in consultation with school administrators."

Governor Brown will be available to answer questions in a teleconference tomorrow, March 13, at 11:00 am with state agency directors and superintendents. A teleconference number will be provided in a morning advisory.

Thank you for your guidance in this matter.

Raquel

Can you give me some guidance on the potential closing of programs for Coronavirus? Do you believe 21st CCLC should be consider an "essential" or "non-essential" program (See our Governor's statement below). Your thoughts on this would be helpful as we determine guidance for our programs.
Thanks,

Good Morning Raquel,

Is there somewhere I can go to find more specific information about continuing afterschool programs? I'm not sure if the state considers 21st Century programs as essential or non-essential in regard to the Governor's press release.

I am having community partners pull out daily, as well as feilding emails and phone calls from parents and community members about the mesures we are taking to prevent the COVID-19 in the after school program.

Thanks for any assistance you can give me.

"The governor's new measures affect large gatherings, schools, workplaces and long-term care and assisted-living facilities. A statement from Brown's office included the following list:

1. Large gatherings: All large gatherings over 250 people will be canceled statewide effective immediately for four weeks. A gathering is defined as any event in a space in which appropriate social distancing of a minimum of three feet cannot be maintained.
2. Schools: In addition to previous guidance issued on March 8, 2020 to keep schools open, all non-essential school-associated gatherings and group activities should be canceled — such as group parent meetings, field trips, and competitions."

We are evaluating if we should pay FWS students who aren't working during the scenario below.

These FWS students already began attending their classes and already began earning FWS funds. Because of the virus, we cancelled classes for a few days and are switching to online classes for at least several weeks. During these weeks, students will not be able to live on campus and there will be reductions in some campus functions. These changes will prevent many FWS students from earning their FWS funds. During these weeks, we will continue to pay permanent staff, but may or may not be paying other non-FWS student employees who are employed in similar positions.

Is our ability to pay FWS earnings to these students contingent on the decisions we make about whether we will be paying other non-FWS student employees in similar positions?

Excerpt from announcement:

> "For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement."

Good evening,

Our campus is not closed but students have been asked to move out of the residence halls and all instruction is moving online for several weeks (possibly more). I've read that we can continue to pay students FWS, however, could you please provide additional details as to how we would go about doing this

- Some students may be able to work remotely and still be able to report scheduled/worked hours. For these students, I would assume "business as usual" - they can report their hours worked and be paid for these hours.

- Other students may not have the flexibility to do this - would we pay them for their regularly scheduled hours, and in the event that their schedule is varied, have them report & pay an average of their hours worked over the semester (or for the period of time they've been employed)?

Thank you!

I was a bit surprised that the guidance issued yesterday did not make reference to the Higher Education Relief Opportunities For Students (HEROES) Act of 2003 (Public Law 108-76). If the president were to declare a national emergency, certain flexibilities would become available, such as a waiver of the requirement to exercise professional judgment on a case-by-case basis, a waiver of the requirement to return grant funds under R2T4, allowing oral requests to substitute for written requests, exclusion of interruptions from the in-school and grace period and a waiver of parental signature requirements.

It would have been appropriate for the guidance to include a sentence along the lines of "In the event the President declares a national emergency, additional flexibility would become available under the HEROES Act of 2003 and the U.S. Department of Education would issue supplemental guidance at that time."

Hello-

I appreciate that there is an email address for assistance given we are currently trying to work through some policy implications on our end. ED has provided some guidance about school closures and distance ed, which is appreciated. I'm hope to get some guidance about a few other questions.

1. If students are sent home to continue their courses via distance learning, is there guidance regarding the adjustment of room, board and the cost of attendance.
    a. Our campus is primarily residential; most students live in the residence halls with a fixed cost of a meal plan and room charges. If they were to be sent home, and a pro-rated refund were provided, it is up to the school to determine the amount to pro-rate as a refund. Is there any "best practice" or guidance about this pro-rated refund?

    b. If a refund of 50% is provided for room & board, the question of adjusting our cost of attendance would need to be evaluated. In normal circumstances, we have a budget based on a standard room and standard meal plan. If students live at home with parents, we have a lower cost of attendance for housing on food. Is it necessary to use an amended cost of attendance for those students who return home that might represent partial on campus expenses and partial at home expenses? Or could we determine we will use the same on campus budget given that we are already almost at the 60% mark in the semester.

2. Is there additional consideration if spring break were to be lengthened to help assist with students' transition to their primary home if the school is closed?

Thank you in advance,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Sincerely,

Robin Thompson

Good Afternoon,

OGC and OLCA have a number of interns onboard. It has not been our practice to allow interns to telework. However, in the event that the Agency has to move to have employees telework for an extended period of time, is it possible to allow interns to telework? Many of our interns receive course credit for their work with the agency. If they are unable to fulfill their course requirements (which typically translate to a certain number of work hours), it could significantly impact their ability to receive course credit and/or be eligible to graduate. Any guidance you can provide on this issue would be very helpful.

In addition, I recognize that the telework policy indicates that a new employee should be onboard for at least 120 days before applying for telework. In light of the situation, do we have the discretion to allow new employees to have a situational telework agreement?

To: COVID-19 <COVID-19@ed.gov>
Subject: Inquiries regarding March 5 guidance

Thank you very much for the Department's guidance issued on March 5. We have two questions regarding that guidance.

Question 1: The guidance states on page 3 that institutions may use online technologies to accommodate students on a temporary basis without seeking Departmental approval for the expansion of distance learning programs. The guidance then states that "[t]his flexibility only applies to a program during a payment period that overlaps the date of this electronic announcement or the following payment period. If an institution chooses to continue offering a new program or use distance education in a manner requiring the Department's approval after that point, it must seek approval under the Department's normal process."

Should the highlighted "or" be read as "and"? We presume ED reasonably did not know when the current Covid-19 impact will end, and so intended the guidance to apply to the current payment period AND the next (i.e., for many schools, the summer term).

If this is not what the Department meant, then we would like to confirm the following specific application of the guidance: School A, which already has authorization to offer some courses via distance learning but may need to expand the extent to which it is offering such instruction to currently enrolled students, has a quarter term ending on March 27. The next quarter term (i.e., the next payment period) will begin on April 1. We presume ED's March 5 guidance was intended to extend into the April 1 payment period because the Covid-19 impact is unlikely to be resolved in the next three weeks, but we would appreciate your confirmation of this fact.

Question 2: An institution currently offers certain graduate programs via hybrid modality – offering a portion of instruction residentially once per month and offering a portion of the instruction online. One of the programs at issue began a new term (with some newly enrolled students) this week (i.e., after March 5). The students are attending the online portion of instruction now. They will be required to attend the first residential session in mid-April. The school currently plans to hold the residential session but cannot predict what, if any, limitations will be placed on them by local or state health authorities in mid-April. If they cannot hold the residential session in mid-April, then some new students, who were not enrolled in school as of March 5, will be the subject of "expanded" distance learning efforts. We assume this is valid because, at the time students began their program, the school intended to hold the residential session. Could you please confirm?

Please let me know if you need any additional information to answer these questions.

Thank You!

Sherry

Good afternoon,

We are updating our emergency response plans for COVID-19 and are reviewing financial aid policies.

In the Interruption of Study Guidance communication sent by the Department of Education on March 5, 2020, it states the following:

"If an institution ceases operation during a payment period and fails to reopen by the end of that payment period, its students are considered no longer in attendance and must be considered withdrawn for that payment period or period of enrollment, and would be subject to Return of Title IV funds requirements."

Could you please clarify how ED is defining "ceases operation?" Would it include switching to online modality, if we cease in-person, on-campus classes?

Thank you,

Jacksonville University has made the decision to switch to online instruction for all classes that were previously delivered in the classroom beginning March 16 through April 3 at this point. Since this week was spring break for students, they have been given the option to stay home during this time, or they can return to campus.

If I have a student who has returned from a study abroad program at Lorenzo de Medici, which is a branch campus of Marist College, is it possible for Marist College (in the U.S.) to offer the distance education so the student can complete their coursework remotely?

Also, if I have other students who have returned from study abroad programs, is it possible for faculty from our school to provide instruction to those students remotely?

Lastly, does it matter if the study abroad programs were through an exchange program between our school and a foreign school, or if we have a consortium agreement with the foreign school?

Thanks for your help.

Hello -

I've reviewed the Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus (COVID-19) and have a question that wasn't specifically addressed in it.

Our leadership is considering all possible scenarios, including one where students will be moved to completing their semester coursework via online instruction. Most of our students live on campus, and if we went to online instruction then we would be sending those students back home to finish their courses online. In this scenario, they would be asked to vacate the residence halls.

If this scenario were to happen, we are also considering whether we would pro-rate student's housing and meal plan charges for the unused portion of each of these. If we did this, would there be any impact to an existing financial aid award? Would we have to adjust each student's COA to reflect the prorated charge? Or are we far enough into the semester where we won't need to do anything?

At this point we are not looking to end the semester right now. Rather, we are trying to find ways to allow our students to complete the semester.

Any information you can provide would be most appreciated. If you need to discuss this over the phone I'm available at 512-863-1267.

Outside of sharing with them their options to take sick leave or consider teleworking, do managers have any other recourse? Also, please confirm that we cannot inquire with employees whether they have been tested for the flu or COVID-19 virus. I have indicated that due to privacy concerns this isn't an action that managers should take, but want to be sure there isn't a change that I am not aware of.

Subject: Question regarding FWS and the IFAP Announcement dated 03-05-2020

Hello-

We have a question regarding the Federal Work-Study (FWS) excerpt below from the IFAP Announcement dated 03-05-2020 concerning interruptions of study related to Coronavirus (COVID-19).

Our institution has not closed but has declared that all spring semester classes already in progress will be held remotely via distance education from March 16, 2020 through at least April 3, 2020. We are also strongly discouraging our students from returning to campus, off-campus locations, and group dwellings (e.g., apartments and fraternities), and we are advising them to return to, or remain at, home during this time period.

Question: Regarding the highlighted part of the FWS excerpt below, may we continue to pay those students, who are unable to continue working because of this situation, FWS wages during this temporary move from ground-based to remote classes, even though our institution has not closed?

We appreciate your assistance and look forward to hearing from you.

Excerpt from 3/5/20 IFAP Announcement:

Federal Work Study (FWS)

Federal law includes a provision allowing an institution to make FWS payments under certain limited circumstances to disaster-affected students who are unable to continue working. Given the unique nature of this situation, it is unlikely that an entire region would be declared a Federal disaster area, yet to students enrolled at a campus that must close temporarily, the loss of this important form of financial aid can be devastating. The impact may be magnified if the institution accommodates students by providing alternative instructional opportunities and the student is required to continue paying tuition, but the student loses FWS as an important part of their financial aid award. For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement. Students who were prevented from beginning a term at the institution as a result of a COVID-19-related disruption would not be eligible for Federal Student Aid for that term, and therefore could not be paid FWS wages for hours they did not work. Graduate students who are paid FWS wages on salary may continue to be paid for the remainder of the term if the institution is also paying its faculty and staff during that period. In these instances, institutions should document (as contemporaneously as feasible) that the COVID-19 disruption was the reason the student received FWS funds without documentation of hours worked.

Subject: Question Regarding Loan Period/Academic Year Dates

Hello,

Amid the COVID-19 issues, our school may be considering moving the start of our next term a week or two (we would still meet the requirements of our academic year definition); however, all the students' loans were packaged and originated with the original start date of 4/2/20 – the students would have a loan period and academic year start date of 4/2/20; however, if the term start was moved to 4/9/20 or 4/16/20, would we need to update every loan period and academic year?

Also, note that we do not pay disbursements until students post attendance, so it would not be an issue of students receiving funds too early.

I can't seem to find a way for our system to do this, and it appears it may be a manual thing we would have to do for thousands of students.

Thank you,

Good morning,

I have two questions:

1. If a colleges extends spring break by 1 week for student attending only on-ground (face to face) courses. However if the student is enrolled in an online course, they are expected to attend that course/s as scheduled. A. Would this one week extension impact the length of our academic year for those student enrolled only in face-to-face courses? If so, what steps would we need to take to notify our regional office of this change.
   B. Would this impact the loan period for borrowers in face-to-face courses only?

Thank you,
Myra

Greetings,

We have a student who received Title IV funds to study abroad at a foreign institution in Florence, Italy. Unfortunately and due to Coronavirus, the institution has temporarily closed and the student is on her way back to the U.S.

The foreign institution is making arrangements for the student to complete her coursework for the term online. It is the foreign institution (and not the home institution) that will be providing the instruction.

Whereas we understand that students are not permitted to receive Title IV funds for online instruction from foreign schools, does this also mean that we need to perform a R2T4 calculation for the student because she is no longer enrolled in Title IV eligible coursework? Her aid was already fully disbursed for the term, and we are unclear as to if a R2T4 calculation is required only because the method of instruction changed for a student who is still enrolled.

Again, she is still enrolled in the same courses upon which her Title IV disbursement was based. The method of instruction has just changed mid-way through the term due to this special circumstance. Assuming the student completes her coursework, she will still be receiving academic credit through her home institution.

I appreciate any clarity you can provide.

Due to the COVID-19 emergency, The Pennsylvania Department of Education (PDE) is inquiring about the requirements for monitoring state-wide assessments under ESEA. It is the recommendation of PDE to suspend all upcoming on-site monitoring activities for the Pennsylvania System of School Assessments (PSSAs) and Keystone Exams (EOC) for Spring 2020 (April & May). This would allow for less physical interactions between PDE monitoring staff and students/faculty out in the PA public school system (as would normally take place during monitoring activities). We are also wondering about how a federal monitoring requirement waiver (if granted) would impact Auditor General audits here in Pennsylvania due to no monitoring taking place (due to an ESSA waiver).

Please waive the direct supervision requirement for Federal Work Study students.

Our students have transitioned to on-line learning and are staying in their homes out of the area. Although we can allow them to come to work, we have populations that are high risk.

These vulnerable students are missing out on their aid (for 3 out of 4 weeks this month).

If the direct supervision requirement was waived, we could give them work to do remotely.

We have one program accrediting body which is requesting an application fee to approve online courses. My question based on the guidance ED provided, should the accreditor be charging this application fee?
This is not a clock-hour program and the accreditor does allow for distance learning courses.
Thanks in advance.

To whom it may concern:

In light of the COVID-19 outbreak and the way colleges and universities, including ours, are reacting to the outbreak, there are some questions that I have that do not appear to be answered through the electronic announcement released 3/5/2020 to provide guidance to FAAs. In our administration's decision to temporarily shift to remote education, there have also been talks of refunding a portion of room and board to students for the time that students are not able to return to campus. Is there any special guidance surrounding such adjustments in light of this outbreak? Or would a school who made the decision to refund a portion of room and board to students be required to process such an adjustment as either a reduction in COA or by processing such a credit as a component of financial aid?

Thank you for your assistance and guidance in this matter. I have CC'd our director of Student Financial Services, Ellen Curcio, so that she can be aware of any guidance provided in response to my questions.

Professional Judgement
Financial aid administrators (FAA) have statutory authority to use professional judgement to make adjustments on a case-by-case basis to the cost of attendance or to the data elements used in calculating the EFC to reflect a student's special circumstances. The use of professional judgement where students and/or their families have been affected by COVID-19 is permitted, such as in the case where an employer closes for a period of time as a result of COVID-19. In making professional judgement determinations, FAAs must obtain documentation and retain it in each student's file. This documentation must substantiate the reason for any adjustment. Institutions are reminded that, regardless of how broadly an event may affect its student population, professional judgement determinations must be made and documented on a case-by-case basis.

Dear Department of Education:

After reviewing the Department of Education's Electronic Announcement about interruptions of study due to the Corona virus (issued today, March 5, 2020), our college is planning for the various contingencies that may arise.

Our college is Thomas Aquinas College (OPE-ID 023580). Our main campus is located in Santa Paula, California. Today, the state of California has declared a state of emergency. Los Angeles County, which is adjacent to our county (Ventura County) has also declared a state of emergency.

Our fall semester was 17 weeks long. Our spring semester is also 17 weeks long, although it spans 18 weeks, with one week off for Easter (closed from Thursday, April 9, 2020 through Wednesday, April 15, 2020).

Could we reduce our spring semester to 12.5 weeks of instruction on campus (Monday, January 13, 2020 through Wednesday, April 8, 2020), followed by 1.0 week of exams taken at home after the Easter break (Thursday, April 16, 2020 through Wednesday, April 22, 2020)? The students would be asked to return their written exams by e-mail or paper mail. Under this scenario, our academic year will total 30.5 weeks (17 weeks in the fall plus 13.5 weeks in the spring).

Thank you.

Good afternoon and thanks for the information already offered in the EA on March 5.

We have two branch campuses that are on a quarter based system, set to begin a new term the second week of April. If we were still offering our classed in an online or distance education format under the new guidance, are we able to enroll those new students in an online model?

Thank you in advance for any information.

Thanks so much!

Hello again,

We are an institution with a Pell census date and we do not recalculate enrollment status for enrollment changes after the census date (unless we cannot document the student began attendance in a course.) For Pell Grant recipients who were enrolled on the census date but did not begin attendance in some or all of their classes due to cancellations related to COVID-19, may the institution treat courses which the student adds after the census date and begins attendance within the same term as courses in which the student was enrolled prior to the census date?

Good Morning,

Our school is reviewing alternate methods of instructions in case we are required to suspend face-to-face instructions due to COVID-19. We are a clock hour school and wishes to clarify how do we calculate and document number of clock hours scheduled and earned by students, in case face to face instructions are suspended and instructions were given via online tools, such as Google Class, Microsoft Team, etc. We need your advise on…

- If our face to face classroom duration is 5 hour session, should we require instructors and students be on the "remote class" for 5 clock hours with required breaks ? Or Instructors can send presentations, video tutorials and require students to complete assignments, that can be counted for number of clock hours required as per our daily schedule, i.e. 5 hours/day ?

- Currently we use classroom paper timesheets. Instructors are taking attendance and students & instructors both initial on the paper timesheets. In case of remote instructions, can Instructors complete the classroom timesheet and report to administration ?

Appreciate your quick attention and guidance. If required, advise me I should call to go over it for a quick discussion. You may contact me at 908-222-0002, extn: 337.

Good morning,

Our school is considering extending our semester into the summer. This is not how it was originally set up, but I know the length of semester restrictions have been reduced, so this is possible, but I am not sure if I can do it mid-semester. The guidance on the virus discusses shortening a semester, but not lengthening it so we can offer summer as part of the spring to ensure full time offerings.

Is there any guidance you could direct me to that would help me see what is possible?

St. John's University, Queens New York OPE ID: 00282300

The University has moved to offering students coursework in an online format and we are currently considering the option of paying work study student that had started to work in the spring semester based on their existing scheduled. From the guidance we understand that the option to pay exist if we continue to pay other employees. Our question centers around the notation in the guidance with regard to the institutional share. St. John's is a title III designated institution and has a waiver of the institutional share. Our question is if we choose may we still take advantage of ED's guidance even if we do not contribute an institutional share?

Hello,

Thank you for providing this guidance on interruptions related to COVID-19. It is very helpful. I have two questions related to leaves of absence:

1. In paragraph 13, where it discusses leaves of absence, will leaves of absence be allowed even if the institution does not currently have a leave of absence policy in place?*
2. Should term-based schools still follow the current guidance in the FSA Handbook (Vol 5, page 16) and contact the School Participation team prior to instituting a leave of absence procedure for COVID-19 impacted students?

Note – Development of such a policy for many schools will require consultation with faculty governing entities, which may not be expedient/feasible in current circumstances.*

Thank you for your assistance.

Subject: Questions regarding the March 5, 2020 Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus (COVID-19)

Hi,

I have a few questions regarding the guidance below provided in the March 5th COVID-19 guidance document.

Finally, because we understand that some students may have been recalled from travel abroad programs or cancelled out of experiential learning opportunities after the semester began, institutions may offer courses to those students on a schedule that would otherwise be considered a non-standard term, if doing so enables those students to complete the term. These flexibilities will also be provided to institutions, or their additional locations or programs, that must temporarily close as a result of COVID-19.

Our institution is looking to extend the end date of some courses in order to accommodate students whose enrollment was affected by COVID-19. We know that if a course is scheduled to be more than 2 weeks outside the standard semester begin and end dates, we would normally be dealing with a non-standard term situation.

1. We're interpreting the flexibility stated above to mean we can, for example, offer courses that extend more than 2 weeks beyond the end of the term without now being considered a non-standard term, is that correct?

2. We're also interpreting that this flexibility can only be applied to students affected by COVID-19, correct?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

3. Since there's no mention of flexibility to situations that would otherwise be considered non-term, is it correct that we still cannot allow courses to overlap other terms without now being considered non-term?

4. If we offer these students courses that extend beyond the standard end of term date, do we need to update our R2T4 calculations for those students since the days of attendance and days in the semester are different?

Thanks for any assistance you can provide.

Jean

Good Day,
Please see my questions below after reading the guidance received on this topic:

FWS - Is is truly up to each institution if we pay or not pay our work-study students?
R2T4 calcs - Would there be a relief as to how many days institutions would have to make these calculations?
ENDING TERM EARLY -- Are we to just call our School Participation Agreement to request this when the decision is made? If so, how long will it take to get an answer? And if time is not on our favor and we cannot wait for that response, could we just inform them?

We will watch the upcoming NASFAA webinar but it would be nice to also have something coming directly from the Federal Dpt of Education. Perhaps there will be somebody from the FDOE in that webinar too to answer any additional questions?

Thank you,

Hello

1) Our regular spring break starts on March 14th and ends March 22nd. The college has decided to extend the break by 7 days. I understand that I must reduce the denominator in my refund calc by the 7 additional days, but I need some guidance as to when I must use the reduced denominator in my refund calculations.

A student withdrew today - the last day of classes before the regularly scheduled spring break. Do I need to use the reduce denominator for this student's calculation?

2) Do I have to adjust the Cost of Attendance for students whose room or board charges are reduced due to the extended break period?

Thank you for your help. I can't just imagine how busy you are, and your assistance is much appreciated.

Hello,

How are we to handle days in the payment period as a result of a school closure for 5 consecutive days in response to COVID-19? We are closed for 5 consecutive days as our faculty train and transition to online course work. Would this be considered a scheduled break in the R2T4?

If yes, I assume we would not need to go back and adjust previously completed R2T4s with the new number of days in the term (due to the scheduled break) and just adjust any R2T4s moving forward?

Our campus is looking to add an additional week of Spring Break for our students to allow the campus (faculty and staff) time to prepare for the full implementation of online only instruction. My question is will we be required to add this extra week in to the R2T4 calculation as a break of 5 days or more? If we have to add this additional week to the calculation, how do we treat those students who withdrew prior to the addition of this extra week? Their adjustments would have been calculated correctly previously.

Our university's Fall/Spring semesters are 16 weeks in length.

Subject: R2T4 Question
Importance: High

Our campus is looking to add an additional week of Spring Break for our students to allow the campus (faculty and staff) time to prepare for the full implementation of online only instruction. My question is will we be required to add this extra week in to the R2T4 calculation as a break of 5 days or more? If we have to add this additional week to the calculation, how do we treat those students who withdrew prior to the addition of this extra week? Their adjustments would have been calculated correctly previously.

Our university's Fall/Spring semesters are 16 weeks in length.

Subject: Recalling Students from Study Abroad Experiences

We have students who are currently studying abroad in programs that we approved, and that they have already begun attending, and that are still continuing to provide all instruction as originally planned.

What happens if the university recalls students from an ongoing study abroad program, but the student refuses to stop attending and return home? Do we have the authority to administratively withdraw them from the semester and then adjust their aid based on an R2T4 calculation if they insist on continuing to attend despite our recall?

Thank you.

Subject: Fwd: recent update

With the recent guidance related to federal aid and coronavirus., I have a question regarding this situation.
We received this update for one of our students who is suppose to leave in a week. With coronavirus, IES is offering students the options to defer or withdraw for a program in Tokyo. So, technically this student is able to attend but it sounds like there are many people who are encouraging the student not attend. It is now too late to enroll in spring semester on campus. Does this student lose her grace period and go into repayment the same way a student who just doesn't return for spring semester?

Normally institutions, once aware that a student will not begin or has not begun attendance, must notify the loan servicer which results in issuance of a final demand letter to the borrower. However, we have determined that in the case where a student was unable to begin attendance due to a COVID-19-related school closure, the provisions of 34 CFR § 668.21(a)(2)(ii), requiring the institution to notify the servicer of that student's failure to begin attendance, do not apply because the option for the student to begin attendance did not exist. Accordingly, the institution should not notify the servicer that the student did not begin attendance. He or she will be permitted to repay any Direct Loan funds received under the terms of the promissory note. This will also prevent a student from being required to enter repayment within six months of withdrawing if the student withdrew as a result of a Coronavirus-related interruption.

Dear Foreign Schools Team,

Greetings from Rome! We have begun compiling our E-App for Recertification. May I please request your guidance on the following questions?

1. Section C, question 20
    a. JCU has more than 10 members on the Board of Trustees and the app has been updated to include the Executive Committee. However, there are five current board members on there who were previously listed but who are not, or are no longer, on the Executive Committee; shall I remove them at this time? If so, how should I go about making that update?

➢ Navigate to Section C, question 20. For any board members who were there before this application, enter an End Date. For board members whom you entered on this application but now want to delete, click the box under "Delete Board Member." Do not type over the names of former board members.

Note: Do not type over the name of former board members. Enter an end date for board members listed below who are no longer on your board. Enter new board members in an empty row.

| Prefix | First name | MI | Last name | Suffix | End Date (mm/dd/yyyy) | Delete Board Member |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Mr | Stefano | | Acunto | | | |

2. Section E, question 27a,b,c
    a. In this section, must I insert all the degree programs (AA, BA, MA) we currently have? It is not clear if our current degree programs are already registered within the E-App.

➢ As a fully certified institution, you do not have to report individual degree programs for approval at this time. However, if you were to add a program leading to a diploma or certificate (a "Gainful Employment" program), you would need to report that, or if you were to add a new level of approval (such as First Professional if you didn't already have it, etc.).

    b. We will start a new BA in Psychological Science in FA20 and a new MA in International Affairs in FA21; shall I add those programs to the E-App now?

➢ As a fully certified institution, you do not have to report individual degree programs for approval at this time.

3. Section F, question 30
    a. The Tiber Campus is only an additional building and not to be considered a separate location. However, it was reported and approved as a separate location on a previous recertification. We were advised by Mike Stein to not remove it during recent updates as it would cause issues down the road. Should we take this opportunity to remove this from the E-App so the application accurately reflects how many locations we have?

➢ End-date the location and include an explanation in Question 69. You will likely receive questions from me/a colleague about whether this is a closure of a location.

➢ Navigate to Section F, Question 30. Add an end date and end reason.

30. Name of Location
John Cabot University - Tiber Campus
Business street address
City
Rome
State Zip Zip+4
Foreign Province Country Postal Code
ITALY
OPE ID
03329301
DUNS number (Optional)
439399346
End Date (Enter date if this additional location is no longer valid.)
(mm/dd/yyyy format)
End Reason
Other Reason

4. Section K, question 70
    a. I am having trouble removing a name of a former employee from this section. Her name appears twice in fact. Can you advise how to delete these?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- This is likely a system issue. Add in Question 69 that the specific person is no longer at the school and should be end-date, and include the end date. I will use your response to fix the final product on this end.

Thank you for your kind assistance!

Warm regards,

Kirsten Rogerson

Hello!

We're in a brick-and-mortar setting and will be using online technologies to accommodate students on a temporary basis until a decision is made in April, 2020. Some students are choosing to go home for the rest of the Spring 2020 semester and complete classes online. We are primarily a residential campus and give them allowances for on-campus room and board charges on their Cost of Attendance (COA) budget. Do we have to adjust their COA budget if they go home, to relatives, to friends, etc. for the rest of the Spring 2020 semester and if they receive a refund on their board charges? Students will incur food expenses whether they're on-campus or at home or wherever they decide to stay for the rest of Spring 2020. Or, do we have broad approval to leave the COA board charges as if they're on campus?

Thanks!

Hi,

Thank you for your communication.

Our school has temporarily stopped offering ground based classes and the campus is closed to students.

However, our HR has indicated that students may come to work on campus if the department has work for them.

If a department does not have work for all students due to the closure, are we still able to pay the ones who do not work under the new guidance for COVID-19?

Thank you.

I have couple of questions related to your guidance.

- If an institution switches to on-line teaching but the campus remains open for faculty and staff, can the institution pay FWS, since it is essentially closed to students? Your guidance refers to campus closure but does that mean total closure, faculty, staff and students or can I assume in my scenario that it is permissible to pay students since they are not permitted to be on campus due to COVID-19?
- Institution extends spring two days to switch to on-line learning format so there will be a loss of two days of instruction for R2T4 purposes. We would need to adjust the calculations to account for the loss of those two days going forward but would we need to recalculate R2T4s prior to the COVID-19 crisis?

Good Day,
Please see my questions below after reading the guidance received on this topic:

FWS - Is is truly up to each institution if we pay or not pay our work-study students?
R2T4 calcs - Would there be a relief as to how many days institutions would have to make these calculations?
ENDING TERM EARLY -- Are we to just call our School Participation Agreement to request this when the decision is made? If so, how long will it take to get an answer? And if time is not on our favor and we cannot wait for that response, could we just inform them?

We will watch the upcoming NASFAA webinar but it would be nice to also have something coming directly from the Federal Dpt of Education. Perhaps there will be somebody from the FDOE in that webinar too to answer any additional questions?

Thank you,

Dear U.S. Department of Education Representatives:

Like many institutions of higher education, ours is determining how best to handle the COVID-19 crisis and protect our students. I have read the Title IV guidance issued last week, and I have some follow up questions. I am sure you are bombarded with these right now, so I apologize and appreciate any help you can give.

- Our school has extended our spring break by one week, and is deciding how to handle the rest of the semester. I see that we should contact our School Participation Team if this results in a reduced spring semester term (I think I understand how this affects R2T4 calculations going forward). But what happens if we decide to extend the spring semester by a week? Is that allowable, and should we notify the School Participation team? If this results in overlap with our summer session (which is scheduled to start in late May) is that a problem, given the unusual circumstances? (Our summer term is not required, and only some students take classes during that payment period).
- If students are no longer on campus and unable to work in FWS jobs, if we decide to continue to pay them wages under the guidance that has been provided, does the school decide how much to pay them per week? Would we do that using their average weekly wages earned from previous weeks? If the school is still open but students can no longer live on campus, is this still a possibility?
- Like many schools, we are considering teaching online, which may result in students moving out of the dorms early. I want to check on prorated room and board charges and the need to adjust the cost of attendance for these students. What financial aid would need to be adjusted in this case, assuming that the students remain enrolled full time? If the aid has already been disbursed for the semester and enrollment status has not changed, can students keep the financial aid they have already received, even if they receive an institutional refund of room and board charges?

To Whom it May Concern,

I work at Windward Community College (part of the University of Hawaii System), and although there is currently no concrete talks of moving our classes to an online platform just yet, I wanted to reach out for guidance about what we can do now to plan for such an event.

- If we were to close our campus, will there be contingencies in place to allow workers to be able to access the federal sites (NSLDS, COD, FAA Access, etc.) remotely (from a location or IP addresses NOT associated with the school)? I don't see how we could continue with our daily work if the school closes or if employees are under quarantine, if we are not able to access these sites from another location not associated with the school itself.
- Will any of the normal regulatory timeframes like Loan Exits (30-day regulation), R2T4, etc., be extended or not held to the normal regulatory timeframe to take into account entire offices that may have to be quarantined or in the event that the campuses close or if employees are at home and not at work?

I look forward to hearing from you.

Good morning,

We have several institutions who are currently extending spring breaks and transitioning to online course delivery. These transitions are currently only scheduled for a period of weeks, but may extend to the entire payment period as the situation further develops. Two questions have been posed to our office I hope you all can assist with.

1. The current guidance we read indicates payments to FWS eligible students is permitted in the event a campus closes or transitions to distance education "for the remainder of the payment period." Does this guidance also apply in situations where a school is temporarily moving to online instruction and is encouraging students to not visit campus for a period of weeks?
2. In scenarios where institutions are extending spring break for an additional week and encouraging students to not visit campuses, can we also follow the FWS guidance and pay those students who would have worked during that week but will not be on campus?

Thank you,

Good morning,

I hope this email finds you well. I'm writing from Fisher College in Boston, MA with Title IV compliance questions relating to emergency planning for our institution as a result of COVID-19.

- If a school moves courses completely online and students are forced to move out of the dorms, is the institution responsible to refund their housing charges and in turn, adjust their cost of attendance (as this would result in student eligibility for funds)?
- If a school decides to extend their scheduled spring break, are there flexibilities for the length of the academic year and how would that impact Return to Title IV calculations?
- Are there any plans to release additional Federal funding to support institutions and their students?
- Will additional guidance be available to address Title IV compliance concerns?

Many thanks in advance for your time and assistance,

SBA To Provide Small Businesses Impacted by Coronavirus (COVID-19) Up to $2 Million in Disaster Assistance Loans

WASHINGTON – SBA Administrator Jovita Carranza issued the following statement today in response to the President's address to the nation:

"The President took bold, decisive action to make our 30 million small businesses more resilient to Coronavirus-related economic disruptions. Small businesses are vital economic engines in every community and state, and they have helped make our economy the strongest in the world. Our Agency will work directly with state Governors to provide targeted, low-interest disaster recovery loans to small businesses that have been severely impacted by the situation. Additionally, the SBA continues to assist small businesses with counseling and navigating their own preparedness plans through our network of 68 District Offices and numerous Resource Partners located around the country. The SBA will continue to provide every small business with the most effective and customer-focused response possible during these times of uncertainty."

Process for Accessing SBA's Coronavirus (COVID-19) Disaster Relief Lending

- The U.S. Small Business Administration is offering designated states and territories low-interest federal disaster loans for working capital to small businesses suffering substantial economic injury as a result of the Coronavirus (COVID-19). Upon a request received from a state's or territory's Governor, SBA will issue under its own authority, as provided by the Coronavirus Preparedness and Response Supplemental Appropriations Act that was recently signed by the President, an Economic Injury Disaster Loan declaration.

- Any such Economic Injury Disaster Loan assistance declaration issued by the SBA makes loans available to small businesses and private, non-profit organizations in designated areas of a state or territory to help alleviate economic injury caused by the Coronavirus (COVID-19).

- SBA's Office of Disaster Assistance will coordinate with the state's or territory's Governor to submit the request for Economic Injury Disaster Loan assistance.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Once a declaration is made for designated areas within a state, the information on the application process for Economic Injury Disaster Loan assistance will be made available to all affected communities.

- SBA's Economic Injury Disaster Loans offer up to $2 million in assistance and can provide vital economic support to small businesses to help overcome the temporary loss of revenue they are experiencing.

- These loans may be used to pay fixed debts, payroll, accounts payable and other bills that can't be paid because of the disaster's impact. The interest rate is 3.75% for small businesses without credit available elsewhere; businesses with credit available elsewhere are not eligible. The interest rate for non-profits is 2.75%.

- SBA offers loans with long-term repayments in order to keep payments affordable, up to a maximum of 30 years. Terms are determined on a case-by-case basis, based upon each borrower's ability to repay.

- SBA's Economic Injury Disaster Loans are just one piece of the expanded focus of the federal government's coordinated response, and the SBA is strongly committed to providing the most effective and customer-focused response possible.

SBA To Provide Small Businesses Impacted by Coronavirus (COVID-19) Up to $2 Million in Disaster Assistance Loans

WASHINGTON – SBA Administrator Jovita Carranza issued the following statement today in response to the President's address to the nation:

"The President took bold, decisive action to make our 30 million small businesses more resilient to Coronavirus-related economic disruptions. Small businesses are vital economic engines in every community and state, and they have helped make our economy the strongest in the world. Our Agency will work directly with state Governors to provide targeted, low-interest disaster recovery loans to small businesses that have been severely impacted by the situation. Additionally, the SBA continues to assist small businesses with counseling and navigating their own preparedness plans through our network of 68 District Offices and numerous Resource Partners located around the country. The SBA will continue to provide every small business with the most effective and customer-focused response possible during these times of uncertainty."

Process for Accessing SBA's Coronavirus (COVID-19) Disaster Relief Lending

- The U.S. Small Business Administration is offering designated states and territories low-interest federal disaster loans for working capital to small businesses suffering substantial economic injury as a result of the Coronavirus (COVID-19). Upon a request received from a state's or territory's Governor, SBA will issue under its own authority, as provided by the Coronavirus Preparedness and Response Supplemental Appropriations Act that was recently signed by the President, an Economic Injury Disaster Loan declaration.

- Any such Economic Injury Disaster Loan assistance declaration issued by the SBA makes loans available to small businesses and private, non-profit organizations in designated areas of a state or territory to help alleviate economic injury caused by the Coronavirus (COVID-19).

- SBA's Office of Disaster Assistance will coordinate with the state's or territory's Governor to submit the request for Economic Injury Disaster Loan assistance.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- These loans may be used to pay fixed debts, payroll, accounts payable and other bills that can't be paid because of the disaster's impact. The interest rate is 3.75% for small businesses without credit available elsewhere; businesses with credit available elsewhere are not eligible. The interest rate for non-profits is 2.75%.

- SBA offers loans with long-term repayments in order to keep payments affordable, up to a maximum of 30 years. Terms are determined on a case-by-case basis, based upon each borrower's ability to repay.

Importance: High

As a special COVID-19 related accommodation, in the event a term-based school must temporarily close for COVID isolation after a semester has begun, without alternative education delivery modality either available or permitted, may the school treat the period of closure as an institutionally scheduled break? This seems like a reasonable solution that would apply to all students at the campus, particularly as the effect on students who do not return as scheduled would essentially be the same that for students who seek and secure either an LOA or provide written intent to return – that is, they would still be subject to withdrawal if they fail to return, and the days spent in the break (which would undoubtedly last longer than 5 consecutive days), LOA or absence with intent to return would all be treated in the same manner in an R2T4.

Allowing for an emergency-oriented institutional scheduled break would avert the burden to thousands of students of the need to submit LOA requests or written intent to return, especially during a time of stress and uncertainty, and relieve staff of an overwhelming volume of leave requests and withdrawals, only to undo the vast majority of those R2T4s.

Would I need to update our scheduled break on the R2T4 calendar in COD to what it as been extended to? If so, would any R2T4s that have been performed for this semester need to be adjusted and re-submitted?

Subject: School Closure

Good Afternoon,

I am reaching out as the current information does not address my concerns in enough detail to competently advise those making decisions on remaining open. Below I will detail our situation and will list the questions I have regarding the possible decision.

- We have 2 semesters of approximately 15 weeks in length.
- 4 year private not for profit institution
- Fall 9/3/19 – 12/13/19 Winter 1/6/20 – 4/17/20 break 2/24/20 – 2/28/20

Currently there is talk of ending the winter semester early. We would then not re-open until fall. There would be no on-line continuation of classes. I see the guidance about seeking approval for a shortened semester. When I refer to 34 CFR § 668.3 is indicates shortened would be 26 to 29 weeks. We would be looking at a much shorter period than this.

1. How would this effect out enrollment status reporting to NSLDS?
2. Would this require R2T4 calculations for every student receiving federal aid?
3. We still have families that may apply for plus loans for the current year so my understanding is if they apply after a closure we would not be able to process these loans. Is this correct?
4. Would our situation qualify for an approval of a shortened academic year? If it does would we need to update anything for the students?

Thank You
Michelle McNier

Importance: High

Dear Department,

I write on behalf of the University to seek advice from the US Department of Education.
La Trobe University is closely monitoring the Covid-19 situation here with our Critical Incident Management team. We continue to communicate with our students via our internal communication channels.

At present, it is 'business as usual', but as the situation is dynamic and changing rapidly. We continue to plan for various scenarios. Our University community is our top priority, and we are pleased that Semester 1 has commenced and is in full swing.

I write to seek advice in the case of the campus closure. Giving the COVID-19 situation is beyond anyone's control, a campus may need to temporarily stop offering ground-based classes to prevent the spread of COVID-19.

Refer to https://ifap.ed.gov/electronic-announcements/030520Guidance4interruptionsrelated2CoronavirusCOVID19, our questions are:

1. Students who are currently enrolled in ground-based programs at the campus will need to participate in distance education for a period of time and then resume ground-based attendance when the campus reopens. Being a foreign school, do we need further approval in addition to a broad approval provided by the Department? This related to the legislative compliance with Title IV requirements.
2. In the event where all enrolled subjects are not offered online, can you please provide guidance on any action required from the Foreign School?
    a. What happens if students enrolment falls below half-time? Will they still be considered entitled to the amount disbursed?
    b. Would this require a reassessment of their eligibility and entitlement?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

c. Would it involve returning Title IV funds considering the exceptional circumstances are beyond their control?
d. Would it be the Department's preferred option that students take a leave of absence if their enrolment falls below half-time? +

I look forward to receiving guidance from you shortly.

Good morning,
I wanted to get clarification on the recent guidance as it pertain to Study Abroad students. For our student aboard students who are attending host schools, where the institution has an agreement, are the students able to take advantage of distance learning opportunities provided by the host institution and receive Title IV? In reading the section on foreign institution below it appears No.

Foreign Schools
We cannot extend flexibility regarding the use of distance learning to foreign schools since the Higher Education Act does not permit foreign schools to provide distance learning to U.S. students who participate in Title IV, HEA programs. We continue to consider if there are any other flexibilities we could extend to foreign schools that temporarily close due to COVID-19.

In light of the need to take precautions to prevent the spread of coronavirus, our agency is closely examining staff travel for the next few months. Can you tell me if the USDE has plans to cancel or postpone some of the upcoming meetings for SEA project staff? Specifically, we have staff registered for two meetings at this time:

1. SEA Foster Care POCs, March 25-26 in Arlington, VA
2. Title III State Directors, May 27-29 in Washington, DC

Any information that you can provide will be most helpful. Thank you,

Greetings,

We are hoping to get some guidance on what type of documentation would be ADA and FERPA compliant in terms of students that may be impacted by COVID 19. Situations that we may need to document at WGU include the following:

- Students that may themselves have contracted the virus
- Students that have increased work hours in hospitals in order to meet national needs
- Students that are not able to complete Clinical Experience due to COVID
- Students who are having to care for members of their family due to COVID including childcare, elderly care etc.

As we prepare to support our students we are balancing the need to justify term extensions and accommodations, while also ensuring student privacy.

Thanks for any guidance you can provide.

Good Afternoon,

How should we handle financial aid for students are currently doing their student teaching and the school they are performing their student teaching closes due to Coronavirus? Also how do we handle room and board charges for students should we decide to close prior to the 60% rate of completion date which is March 26th. Even though we close, we will continue to teach all students via some type of technology? Would we have to prorate those charges? These answers are needed immediately as we try to plan for what actions we may take due to Coronavirus. Thank you!

Hello,

With the cancellation of many of our study abroad classes for Spring semester, we will be issuing refunds of the non-instructional costs to students. These costs have previously been used to increase the Cost of Attendance for the semester to support increased financial aid awards.

As we refund these costs to the student, will we be required to remove those costs from the Cost of Attendance, and recalculate awards to reduce any resulting overaward?

Dear Colleagues,

Our campus leaders announced this afternoon that we would suspend in-classroom course delivery and that class would be delivered through distance education.

If there is a decision to return a portion of room & board charged to our on-campus students because they will not be here, are we required to reduce that portion of their COA and therefore adjust their aid. Could relief be provided to schools since this likely effects many students at many schools?

I appreciate your consideration and guidance so that I may advise our leadership team about the administrative responsibility.

With best regards,

Mary

Dear Colleague:

This letter is a friendly reminder of the due date for your institution's compliance annual audit report, and, if required, audited financial statement for the fiscal year ended September 30, 2019. This letter also contains instructions for the electronic submission of your reports. Compliance audits and financial statements are due within six months of the end of each fiscal year. Your institution's compliance audit report and audited financial statements are due by March 31, 2020. Compliance audit reports are required for any year in which an institution receives Title IV funds. Financial statements are only needed if:

1) Title IV disbursement volume exceeded U.S. $500,000 in the fiscal year, or;
2) Your institution has a letter of credit on file with the Department or is participating under the Zone Alternative due to a previous low composite financial score or;
3) Your institution is in its initial period of participation and received funding.

General audit submission requirements for foreign institutions are provided in U.S. Department of Education regulations at 34 C.F.R. § 668.23. The attached enclosure gives more details.

Electronic Submission
You now have the option to submit your compliance audit and financial statement electronically, provided any personal identifiable information or PII is duly protected by encryption. If you submit electronically, you are not required to send hard copies. Submission can be sent to fsaforeignschoolaudits@ed.gov. This address is only for the submission of your compliance audit and financial statements. Please include in the subject line of your email the following:

- Name of your institution;
- OPEID ID number; and
- Name of each document - clearly labelled

Passwords must be sent separately, with the same school identifiers in the subject line.
Protect Personal Identifiable Information and Encryption Instructions

Compliance audit reports and audited financial statements containing any Personal Identifiable Information (PII), as defined below, must be protected. PII is any information about an individual which can be used to distinguish or trace an individual's identity (some examples are name, social security number, birth date, and place of birth) before transmitting the document electronically. PII submitted electronically or on media must be submitted in a WinZip file (.zip file extension) encrypted with Advanced Encryption Standard (AES) encryption (256-bit is preferred). The Department uses WinZip. However, files created with other encryption software are acceptable provided that they are compatible with WinZip and are encrypted with AES encryption. Also, the Department must receive an access password to view the encrypted information. The password must be e-mailed separately from the encrypted data. Please select a complex password at least 12 characters in length and which uses three of the following characters: upper case letter, lower case letter, number, special character. A manifest must be included with the e-mail that lists the types of files being sent (a copy of the manifest must be retained by the sender).

Subject: requesting additional guidance

We are asking for additional guidance on a particular issue, specifically, if a school needs to temporarily shut down* due to the Corona Virus. How will the school meet the 14-day requirement of issuing credit balances via physical checks?

Although we do offer to the student and parents the direct deposit and other electronic means of issuing credit balances, there are students/parents that choose not to enroll in the electronic means. A complete shutdown of a campus would mean that we would not be able to issue the physical credit balance check timely. Has FSA considered options for schools that are in this situation?

One possible solution would be to make it mandatory for student/parents to sign up for an electronic means of receiving the credit balance. However, if a student/parent continues to ignore the request what guidance can be provided?

*Please note that a shutdown would mean no person on campus but that does not mean that education would be halted.

Volume 4—Processing Aid and Managing FSA Funds, 2019–2020, pp 4-53

A school that is paying a student his or her credit balance with a direct disbursement must pay the student within the 14-day time frame. A school can, within that 14-day period, do a number of things, including sending a notice to the student that his or her money is available. A school that does that is considered to have met the 14-day requirement to give the student his or her credit balance, as long as the school's process complies with the rest of the regulation. That is, the school must be able to give the student a check when the student comes to the office within the 14-day time frame. If a student is told (within the 14-day period) to come to the business office to pick up his or her credit balance, the student must be able to leave the business office with the funds in some form (e.g., a check, cash, or an appropriate stored-value card), and not be told that a check will be mailed to him or her. A school may hold the check for up to 21 days after the date it notifies the student. If the student does not pick up the check within this 21-day period, the institution must immediately mail the check to the student or parent, initiate an EFT to the student's or parent's bank account, or return the funds to the appropriate FSA program.

Sincerely,
Agnes

Good evening,

As institutions are determining whether the need to close temporarily due to COVID-19 is necessary, we are seeking guidance regarding submission of the Statement of Educational Purpose, proof of U.S. Citizenship and proof of immigration status for eligible noncitizen students who are currently attending or planning to attend the College and need to complete the financial aid process.

Statement of Educational Purpose

The FSA handbook states

*"A student who is unable to appear at your school must go to a notary public and sign the statement of educational purpose. Question: If an institution temporarily closes due to COVID-19, would students be able to upload the Statement of Educational Purpose, a copy of their ID and the notary certification via the institutions secure website or would the student have to mail in the documents? Subject: Return to Title IV Policy Question due to COVID-19

Good morning,

I am the Assistant Director at California State University, Long Beach and oversee our Return to Title IV program. In response to COVID-19, we received guidance from our President this morning regarding new temporary changes in how courses are offered on our campus. As part of the guidance, our campus has suspended face-to-face courses and will provide alternative instruction in the form of online courses. To prepare for this change in instruction delivery, the campus is cancelling face-to-face classes for 6 days (Thursday, March 12 – Tuesday, March 17), but are keeping online courses open during this period. All classes will resume online on March 18. I have listed our President's guidance below.

"Dear Beach Community:

As we've communicated over the past few weeks, we've been engaged in ongoing planning since the emergence of novel coronavirus, or COVID-19. While there are no cases of COVID-19 related to our campus, as a preventative measure and with trusted medical advice, we are temporarily suspending the in-person, on-campus convening of classes.

This action is a proactive step being taken because of our commitment to your health and safety and supports the concept of "social distancing." Research shows that reducing the concentration of people in an area can lower the infection risk for everyone involved. As the number of cases grow in Los Angeles County, this step very well may save lives and it is on the advice of our medical professionals that we take this step.

To allow our faculty to make final preparations for alternative delivery of instruction, face-to-face classes are canceled from Thursday, March 12 through

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Tuesday, March 17, although the campus will remain open. Alternative instruction will begin on Wednesday, March 18. Online classes will continue as scheduled.

Some courses will continue to meet in person if alternative instruction is not appropriate, such as some laboratory, performing-arts, and physical-education courses. Accommodations associated with social distancing will be implemented in these courses."

As online classes are currently continuing, we would like to confirm that we do not need to adjust our "total days" for this term for R2T4 purposes to account for the break of 6 days of in-person instruction.

If I can provide any additional information, please let me know.

Best,

Subject: The impact of shortening the spring semester due to Coronavirus concerns

Dear Department of Education:

This e-mail contains two additional questions which I am adding to the original question our institution sent on March 5, 2020. That original question has not been answered and can be found below this e-mail.

In the March 5, 2020 Electronic Announcement ("Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus COVID-19"), the Department of Education (ED) wrote,

> Length of Academic Year
> The Department is authorized under 34 CFR § 668.3 to approve a reduced academic year. If at any point an institution determines it will close as the result of a campus health emergency, it may contact the School Participation team to request a temporary reduction in the length of its academic year.

In that same announcement, ED wrote,

> Definition of a Withdrawal Date
> If an institution ceases operation during a payment period and fails to reopen by the end of that payment period, its students are considered no longer in attendance and must be considered withdrawn for that payment period or period of enrollment, and would be subject to Return of Title IV funds requirements.

That raises two questions for our institution:

Question #1: If the institution receives an approval from the School Participation team to reduce the length of the spring semester due to a health emergency, is it correct to assume that the students who attend through the end of that reduced term will NOT be considered as withdrawn and will NOT be subject to Return to Title IV funds requirements?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Question #2: If the above assumption is correct, will the institution be required to revise its previously stated Cost of Attendance (COA) for the academic year (fall + spring) and recalculate each student's eligibility for federal student-based aid (Pell Grants and Federal Direct Student Loans) based on the revised COA?

Thank you.

Dear Department of Education:

After reviewing the Department of Education's Electronic Announcement about interruptions of study due to the Corona virus (issued today, March 5, 2020), our college is planning for the various contingencies that may arise.

Our college is Thomas Aquinas College (OPE-ID 023580). Our main campus is located in Santa Paula, California. Today, the state of California has declared a state of emergency. Los Angeles County, which is adjacent to our county (Ventura County) has also declared a state of emergency.

Our fall semester was 17 weeks long. Our spring semester is also 17 weeks long, although it spans 18 weeks, with one week off for Easter (closed from Thursday, April 9, 2020 through Wednesday, April 15, 2020).

Could we reduce our spring semester to 12.5 weeks of instruction on campus (Monday, January 13, 2020 through Wednesday, April 8, 2020), followed by 1.0 week of exams taken at home after the Easter break (Thursday, April 16, 2020 through Wednesday, April 22, 2020)? The students would be asked to return their written exams by e-mail or paper mail. Under this scenario, our academic year will total 30.5 weeks (17 weeks in the fall plus 13.5 weeks in the spring).

Thank you.

Hey,
I'm a student studying at Penn State. My university suspended in-person classes until at least April 3rd which is why I'm going back to my country (India). I'm concerned about not being able to come back to the states if my university chooses to resume in-person classes after April 3rd. If that is to happen, could I be assured in any way that my semester won't be compromised?

Thank you,

    a. Will we be required to make cost of attendance adjustments for the shortened semester, and to reflect 7 weeks of on-campus housing and 5 weeks of off campus housing?
2. For students who withdrew prior to the shortened semester decision and for whom R2T4 calculations were already performed, will we be required to recalculate for the shortened term?

The administration of the University of Puerto Rico has decreed an academic recess until March 23, 2020 to prevent the spread of COVID-19 in students. According to the statement from the Department of Education, students who are working in the Federal Work Study can collect their payroll for the period when they are not personally attending classes.

In the case of our institution that the recess so far is only academic and not administrative, that is to say that the employees will continue to attend our offices. The question is, although our offices will be open, students do not have to go to the areas where they work for FWS and can we pay them correct?

Re: Safety and Education for U.S. Students in Grenada during Coronavirus (COVID-19) Outbreak

Dear Under Secretary Jones:

I am writing on behalf of the students and faculty of St. George's University in Grenada and particularly the Schools of Medicine (OPEID 022000) and Veterinary Medicine (OPEID 03974300), which qualify as eligible foreign institutions participating in the Title IV loan program.

The schools have approximately 3,300 U.S. students who are Title IV-eligible and who are currently in the middle of their education programs at the SGU campus in Grenada, West Indies. Like many institutions in the United States, we are considering possible short-term contingency plans in order to prepare for the impacts of COVID-19 on our community and ensure that our students can continue their education programs in a safe manner. We write to you to seek your assistance to ensure that the Title IV rules are not construed in a way that prevents SGU from adequately serving its students in a safe environment, and we hope that we can meet or speak with you to discuss these urgent issues today or within the next day or two.

The rapid spread of the COVID-19 virus is an unprecedented global crisis that poses a unique threat to both Grenada's healthcare system and SGU's students. Our most pressing concern is that the medical system in Grenada may be overburdened by treatment for both its citizens and our students, faculty, and staff in the event that there is an outbreak of the virus on the island. We do not want our large student population to be an additional burden during this epidemic. As an institution of doctors and medical educators, we believe we have a moral and ethical obligation to take proactive steps to protect the health of our students, faculty, staff and the greater Grenada community. Like many universities in the United States, we feel compelled to allow U.S. students and others to return home until the imminent threat subsides.

At the same time, we want to be sure that we do not disrupt our students' academic programs. We have watched closely as schools in the United States have closed campuses, canceled in-person classes, and transitioned to online delivery methods in response to concerns over student safety. We have also closely reviewed the Department's March 5 COVID-19 Guidance providing flexibilities for schools to help students whose activities are impacted by Coronavirus complete the term in which they are currently enrolled. In particular, we note that in its Guidance, ED stated it will "continue to consider if there are any other flexibilities we could extend to foreign schools that temporarily close due to COVID-19."

We are requesting a meeting (in person or by phone) today or as soon as possible to discuss possible options that would enable SGU to implement temporary adjustments to its operations so that U.S. students, faculty, and staff can return to the United States if they wish with minimal disruption to their programs.

We would like to use the meeting to outline steps we are implementing to limit in-person interaction for students while in Grenada and further explore how SGU can, in a manner consistent with the Department's regulations, leverage the use of telecommunication technologies to supplement and support regular instruction via distance education for a temporary period for students who may choose to return to the United States until the imminent threat of the COVID-19 virus subsides.

As you know, the Department's regulations allow a level of flexibility for telecommunications or online delivery for eligible foreign institutions. Specifically, under 34 C.F.R. 600.51(d) as well as in the Federal Student Aid Foreign Schools Handbook, it is clear that Title IV-eligible foreign schools may use "telecommunications technologies . . . to supplement and support instruction that is offered in a classroom located in the foreign country where the students and instructor are physically present." We expect that some students and faculty will remain in Grenada fulfilling this requirement.

Both the Medical and Veterinary Schools currently use technology to supplement and support our classroom instruction. We also use technology for two of our non-Title IV-eligible graduate programs -- a U.S.-accredited master of public health program and a master of business administration program, that are taught primarily online. These are robust and innovative programs and we have developed sophisticated technology to support them. Accordingly, we have experience and the existing capacity to effectively educate our students using telecommunications and electronic education technology.

In close consultation with our deans and faculty, we have developed plans to expand our use of these technologies to facilitate effective online delivery of our medical and veterinary school programs. We are confident that we can provide the same high-quality education using technology to supplement and support classroom instruction for the Medical School and Veterinary School. Importantly, SGU would expect to continue classroom instruction on the campus in Grenada for those U.S. students and non-U.S. students who choose to remain in Grenada, thereby meeting the letter and the spirit of the Department's requirement. This temporary option can, if necessary, be in place for the balance of this existing term, so that students can complete their courses without interruption while also minimizing medical risk posed by COVID-19. We believe these are prudent steps that will protect our students, staff and faculty, while maintaining educational quality, all consistent with the "supplement and support" flexibility that is provided in the existing foreign school regulations.

This is our preferred contingency option, and the option that we have explored most thoroughly, but we would welcome the opportunity to discuss alternative solutions in this unique international medical crisis. It would be contrary to the interests of our U.S. students if the Title IV restrictions on foreign schools forced our U.S. students to disrupt their medical program, particularly in this case where SGU is capable of delivering quality education remotely for a temporary period. As the provider of the most new doctors to the U.S. healthcare system over the last ten years, St. George's University School of Medicine is an essential source of training for the current and future U.S. physician workforce. It is imperative, especially in light of this current pandemic, that these future physicians continue their medical education uninterrupted so that they are prepared to provide healthcare to local communities throughout the United States.

We know that the Department shares our concern for student welfare at this challenging time. Accordingly, we ask the Department to meet with us to further discuss these and other possible contingency plans that will protect students and allow them to continue their studies without any adverse determination regarding the Medical School's or Veterinary School's eligibility to continue to participate in the Title IV loan program.

We appreciate your understanding of the urgency of this situation and can be available today or over the coming days to meet to discuss these critical issues.

Good morning-

I am seeking guidance on a critical issue as it relates to our current aid eligible programs. We are clock-hour based and may find ourselves in the positon of having to postpone our programs due to COVID-19 concerns. If we postpone our classes are program end dates will change. What impact would the changing of our program end dates have an the financial aid status of our students? These programs include hands-on lab experiences and internships as part of their clock hour calculation.

Thank you for any guidance you can provide.

Good Morning,

We are seeking clarification on the guidance released on March 5th, 2020 concerning the provision to allow FWS payments to disaster-affected students unable to continue working. While UW-Madison has not officially closed, our campus has moved to virtual learning through at least April 10th and has strongly encouraged all students living on-campus to return to their permanent residence. In addition, we also have concerns for our students earning FWS at community-based organizations, who are beginning to decide to close. Both scenarios put students earning FWS at great potential risk without the ability to earn their FWS. As a result, we have three questions to seek clarification on our options to provide necessary support to these students:

1. Is it permissible to allow FWS payments to disaster-affected students at 100% federal share across our community-based non-profit organizations?
2. Is it permissible to allow FWS payments to disaster-affected students who were encouraged to return to their permanent residence and therefore cannot continue to hold a campus job, assuming campus continues to pay the institutional share of those FWS payments?
3. In the event the University updates its status to CLOSED, is it permissible to allow FWS payments to disaster-affected students regardless of the Universities ability to offer closure pay for all other (non-FWS) University Faculty/Staff/Students, assuming the Institution still continues to pay the institutional share of FWS payments?

We would like to have the ability to take potential action on all 3 items above and believe it is an extremely important measure for the health & wellbeing of all involved. I understand you are likely overwhelmed with questions, but very much appreciate your attention and guidance on this.

Hello,

I am the Director of Financial Aid at Vermont Law School and we are planning on closing our campus for at least two weeks, possibly longer, starting next week in response to the COVID-19 pandemic. We currently offer online classes as part of our standard term programs and would like to be able to expand our offerings to accommodate students needing to study remotely. In doing so, we might find ourselves in a situation where our Spring semester overlaps with our Summer semester by more than 2 weeks. In this instance, would we be able to continue awarding aid for these programs as standard term programs?

My question is if WVDE closes school is our hours dependent on the student literally be in the school in their seat or can we assign assignments, due virtual clinical etc. to meet those clock hours as long as I can account for those hours? We are converting all of our classes to online as of March 18th. We hope to resume face-to-face instruction on April 1st but realize it's very possible that we will remain online for the remainder of the semester. We are trying to accommodate our study abroad students who are being recalled and/or had begun study abroad programs that are now being closed through our online course conversion.

Questions

1. If a study abroad student is unable to complete all of their credits during the spring semester because the school closed or the student was required to come home early, can we allow them to finish their courses in a Maymester or summer session immediately following the spring semester without penalty? What about SAP?
2. If a study abroad student must withdraw from all their courses because we are unable to offer equivalent courses during the same semester, I'm assuming this student would be subject to R2T4, correct?
3. May we extend the spring semester beyond 15 weeks to allow study abroad students to complete online equivalent courses?
4. Is there any additional guidance or clarification you can provide beyond that which is stated in the March 5th OPE guidance?

Thank you once again for your time and consideration.

Hello,

I am not sure I should reach out to our school participation team but we have a course that is offered with a study abroad trip that falls within two weeks at the end of the term. Since the trip is no longer occurring due to COVID-19, the program wishes to reschedule the trip for the upcoming fall, but still hold the instructional portion during the spring term. Since we have not made the adjustments to the Cost of Attendance, can we offer this trip in the fall and leave the instructional in spring? Would the trip still qualify for financial aid and we could still increase the students budget in the fall since this is a unique situation? Or would we no longer be able to offer aid for students who are attending this trip as part of the spring course.

Let me know if there are any options that I would be able to offer. Thank you for your time.

Good morning,

My question is concerning the following passage:

We cannot extend flexibility regarding the use of distance learning to foreign schools since the Higher Education Act does not permit foreign schools to provide distance learning to U.S. students who participate in Title IV, HEA programs. We continue to consider if there are any other flexibilities we could extend to foreign schools that temporarily close due to COVID-19.

We have a few students who were enrolled full time in a study abroad experience in Italy for 2020 spring. They started their experience in January; due to COVID-19, these students were sent home to the U.S. in the last couple of weeks and they are finishing their courses online. Some of these students were awarded a Direct sub or unsub loan. Do we return these federal loans,based on the above passage? Thank you very much.

The university has made a conscious decision to close the campus for temporary period, this is a precautionary measure in light to the Coronavirus outbreak. Having read your guidance published on the 05th MArch , please can you confirm , if any, the implication it will have on university as a foreighn school currently admistrating Title IV

Greetings

I don't understand what this ruling means:

The Department is authorized under 34 CFR § 668.3 to approve a reduced academic year. If at any point an institution determines it will close as the result of a campus health emergency, it may contact the School Participation team to request a temporary reduction in the length of its academic year.

Does it mean the school would not be liable to return Title IV funds if it closes, temporarily or permanently? And what would a temporary reduction in academic year mean with respect to Title IV funds, already issued or pending?

Thanking you in advance.

All,

I haven't seen this situation discussed but if it has and I have missed it my apologies.

If a campus (SAY) were to temporarily suspend classes (e.g. two weeks) then resumes classes but extends the academic term by 2 weeks to make up for the lost time and that in turn creates overlapping terms (spring overlaps summer); under current regulations, that would then create a non-term environment and could not pay federal aid under SAY requirements. My question is, could the Department provide some latitude to institutions to temporarily suspend those requirements and allow for an overlap and continue to process aid under SAY requirements?

I trust my question makes sense; if not let me know and I will attempt to clarify further.

In the event a college has moved its courses online for all students but the college is continuing to allow employees (and FWS students) to work on campus, can the FWS student now work during the time that their on ground class was scheduled for during the time frame that that class is only online?

Example: Student takes class Math 101 on Monday and Wednesday from 8am to 10am. During normal circumstances the fws student could not work during 8am to 10am. However, Math 101 has now been moved to online format for an undetermined amount of time. Can this student now work on campus from 8am to 10am given the class is online?

Hello,
I have a question regarding the FWS statement in the Electonic Announcement dated 3/5 below.

Scenario: An institution used all of their FWS allocation to pay their students and their earnings are now being paid by institutional student employment dollars. Because students are no longer being paid via FWS dollars, if the institution closes, the institution would not be obligated to continue to pay the students under the below circumstances, correct?

In those circumstances — for FWS students enrolled at an institution that closes temporarily due to the coronavirus, or for those whose employer closes as a result of the coronavirus — the institution will be permitted to continue paying the FWS wages "if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement."

Any guidance would be appreciated.

Thanks you,
Nick

Can you please explain what the highlighted portion means? Do you mean the institution is continuing to pay its other employees while they are not working? If so, would we need to pay the other employees and not require them to use PTO or sick time?

FWS-

Our campus is looking to move our face to face instruction to online only in the very near future. We will also be requiring that students leave campus. My question is related to our FWS allocation. We pay our students (undergraduates) in a bi-weekly pay check based on the number of hours worked. If students are unable to come to campus to work, I'm concerned that we will be underspent in our FWS allocation. Does the department have any guidance around this?

I've read the guidance concerning FWS in the March 5th OPE guidance, but my institution has many questions so I'm in need of additional clarification.

We've stopped face-to-face instruction as of March 11th and will resume instruction on March 18th via online options. Faculty are being given this time to convert their classes to online options. We hope to resume face-to-face instruction April 1st, but will make that determination toward the end of March. The University is open during this time but students are being told to go home until March 31st unless there is a compelling reason for them to stay in campus housing. Many of our students are FWS recipients.

Based on this scenario, my questions are as follows:

1. May we pay our FWS students for hours they did not work with federal funds based on their pre-established work schedules for the period of March 11th through March 31st ?
2. May a FWS student who remains on campus because they are unable to return home be paid FWS funds if they do not work during this time period, 3/11 to 3/31?
3. May a FWS student who remains on campus because they are unable to return home be prevented from doing their work-study job during this time period, 3/11 to 3/31?
4. May a FWS student who remains on campus because they are unable to return home be allowed to do their work-study job during this time period, 3/11 to 3/31?
5. If the university decides to continue instruction via online options only from April 1st through the end of the semester, but the students are allowed to return to campus housing, must FWS recipients work in order to get paid for the period of 4/1 to 5/8?
6. Do you have any additional guidance I haven't thought to ask about?

I apologize for all the questions, but I want to make sure I advise my university accurately.

Thank you so much for your time and consideration,

Guidelines update, related to COVID-19

Faculty and staff,

After close consultation with state and federal authorities, emergency management, and public health experts, the UNC System Office has announced several guidelines for all UNC System schools in order to minimize the impact of COVID-19. This memo provides important and immediate actions that our campus will be taking in reaction to these guidelines. There are no confirmed cases at UNCG at this time.

This is a public health response and based on best practices. We must be proactive and do what is best to protect our students, our employees, and our extended community of families, friends, and neighbors.

We have notified students that all face-to-face classes will be suspended March 16 - 20 in order to prepare as many courses as possible to transition to an online format beginning Monday, March 23rd. Note that some classes cannot be delivered online and those courses will continue to be delivered face-to-face. More information about specific courses will be forthcoming. Though students will be encouraged to leave campus next week, some students will remain on campus, and many students may return the week of March 23rd.

UNCG will remain open as normal for the rest of the week of March 9th. Employees are expected to report to work as usual.

Effective immediately, supervisors are encouraged to explore teleworking arrangements for employees who can effectively complete their job assignments from a remote location.

Additionally, based on UNC System guidance, all events and programs with over 100 attendees that are scheduled to be held between now and March 30, must be cancelled or postponed, unless otherwise authorized by the Chancellor or Provost. It is likely that this time horizon will be extended, so look for subsequent communications on this matter.

University-sponsored travel outside of North Carolina, or within the state to gatherings of 100 people or more, shall be suspended unless prior written authorization to travel is given by the Chancellor or Provost. This prohibition includes student organizations.

Staff and faculty are encouraged to avoid travel to areas with active community transmission. See the University's Novel COVID-19 Information Page for links to information about affected areas.

These steps are designed to mitigate risk – reduce large groups, slow virus transmission, and provide a safer environment. UNCG employees should also practice smart hygiene and social distancing techniques. More information and guidance is available here. This includes:

- Wash your hands for 20 seconds with soap and water or use an alcohol-based hand sanitizer.
- Avoid shaking hands.
- Cover your cough with a tissue or sneeze/cough into your elbow.
- Do not share food.
- Keep exercise equipment and other shared assets clean.
- Disinfect frequently touched objects using a regular household cleaning spray or wipe.
- Stay home when you are sick and avoid close contact with those who are sick.
- Avoid touching your eyes, nose, and mouth.

UNCG is not closing, and we are moving forward with our semester, albeit under some unique circumstances. We recognize these actions will invariably lead to questions and new challenges. We appreciate your commitment, dedication, and focus on our mission. Please ensure you stay informed by monitoring email, following @UNCG social media channels, downloading our UNCG Mobile app (iTunes and Google Apps), and regularly visiting our dedicated coronavirus website.

Hi,

Our institution extended spring break for an additional week beginning next week, so our R2T4 calculation basis will change. Since this change affects all students enrolled this semester at our institution, are we required to adjust R2T4 calculations for students who already withdrew for the semester prior to the change? Or do the new calculations only apply to students who withdrew after the change?

Thank you for your assistance,

Hello,

Our institution has not announced any closures yet, but I wanted some additional guidance with the work study section. Is this saying that the student does not have to work and could still receive the work study pay if they already began the term before the school closure or should they still be working (example: tele work with a department etc)?

"For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement."

Thank you,
Clay

If our campus is moving to online, at least for next few weeks and has asked students to move off campus but are allowing some to stay for extenuating circumstances. We are leaving the library open as a resource IF students need help as we move online and at this point have not stopped our spring sports so student athletes are practicing.

Can I consider us "closed" to students since we have asked all to leave campus? And if so, can I pay all current students who have started classes this term without clocked hours?

The federal guidelines seem to indicate we can pay work study if we close. The guidelines imply that if we're offering courses online we can continue to pay work study even if the student isn't working. This is not quite the same as closing. What is the correct interpretation regarding the payment of FWS?

The other concern is that the guidance says that we may continue paying the FWS wages "if it [the closure] occurred after the beginning of the term." We are a quarter school. We are nearing the end of winter quarter and spring quarter starts at the end of March. We are not "closing" (as of now) but we are moving all of our courses online, at least temporarily. Many students will choose to stay away from campus, or be unable to be on campus due to COVID-19 issues. As a quarter school, do we have less flexibility because a new term starts soon and we made COVID-19 adjustments prior to the start of the spring quarter, and yet the guidance states "if it occurred after the beginning of the term?" This works for semester schools but not for quarter schools.

If we are allowed to pay work study to students who otherwise would be working but now can't, and yet they remain fully enrolled in their now-online courses, how do we know how many hours to give them? Can we look at their average earnings prior to the COVID-19 disruptions. Thank you. -John

Good morning all. The guidance here https://ifap.ed.gov/electronic-announcements/030520Guidance4interruptionsrelated2CoronavirusCOVID19 clearly states that we are permitted to pay our FWS students while we are temporarily moving academic instruction to online instruction and closing down the campus. One item I have been asked about is the statement found in the FWS guidance that says "the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff)." Does the term "staff" include non-FWS student employees?

Hello,

I have a couple questions regarding Federal Work-study and the outbreak of the COVID-19 virus and as we move to closing our university to the public.

1. After reading the guidance provided by ED regarding work-study, if the University remains open, but a specific office or department closes or a decision was made to make that department work remotely from home and there is a work-study student that works in that office that is closed, are we able to provide payments to that specific student affected? Or are there any specific guidance that can be given for this situation?
2. Part of our 7% Community Service allocation is from our university library that is open to the public. The decision was made by our university to close the library to the public. Would we have to exclude earnings by the work-study employee from our community service allocation during this closure?

Thank you in advance for your guidance.

> ...the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement.

Can you please explain what the highlighted portion means? Do you mean the institution is continuing to pay its other employees while they are not working? If so, would we need to pay the other employees and not require them to use PTO or sick time?

Hello all,

Hope this finds you well and safe.

Our institution has decided to close temporarily in order to prevent the spread of COVID-19. We will close starting March 13 to March 30. At that time we will re-evaluate and I will notify you of any events that prevent us from opening.

We have notified NACCAS and our State governing body.

We felt as a school in order to safeguard our students, staff, their families and our community that it was prudent to close for 2 weeks.

I didn't know who to notify at DOE or if I had to so I am sending this notification.

Hope you all will be safe.

With the recent guidance related to federal aid and coronavirus., I have a question regarding this situation.

We received this update for one of our students who is suppose to leave in a week. With coronavirus, IES is offering students the options to defer or withdraw for a program in Tokyo.

So, technically this student is able to attend but it sounds like there are many people who are encouraging the student not attend. It is now too late to enroll in spring semester on campus. Does this student lose her grace period and go into repayment the same way a student who just doesn't return for spring semester?

Normally institutions, once aware that a student will not begin or has not begun attendance, must notify the loan servicer which results in issuance of a final demand letter to the borrower. However, we have determined that in the case where a student was unable to begin attendance due to a COVID-19-related school closure, the provisions of 34 CFR § 668.21(a)(2)(ii), requiring the institution to notify the servicer of that student's failure to begin attendance, do not apply because the option for the student to begin attendance did not exist. Accordingly, the institution should not notify the servicer that the student did not begin attendance. He or she will be permitted to repay any Direct Loan funds received under the terms of the promissory note. This will also prevent a student from being required to enter repayment within six months of withdrawing if the student withdrew as a result of a Coronavirus-related interruption.

Hello,

Some questions have come up about what it means for an institution to "continu[e] to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff)" to be eligible to pay FWS students at a campus that closes due to COVID-19:

1. Does the institution need to pay its employees 100% of their salary or hourly pay to satisfy this requirement? One proposal is to pay a percentage of the employee's pay (similar to disability) or pay based on reduced hours for certain positions until the institution reopens.

2. Would requiring employees to exhaust sick or vacation time before paying for hours they did not work qualify as "continuing to pay [] other employees"?

3. How long does the institution need to pay employees? For the duration of the closure, end of the term, or until the FWS students have completely earned their FWS award? Plans for paying employees may change depending on the length of the closure.

4. Does this apply to all employees, including non-FWS student workers, or just faculty and staff? Our institution is concerned about costs associated with paying non-FWS student wages just so we are able to pay FWS student wages.

Thank you in advance for your guidance on these topics.

Financially we are a 25% institutional share school of the FWS. For FWS students who can't continue to work, I'm assuming this rule remains?

Good Morning,

I have a question/scenario regarding the current state of our institution as it relates to Federal Work Study (FWS) students and COVID-19. As of today, our president put the institution on a 'recess' wherein majority of in-person classes are suspended until March 23rd. All staff are still to report to work as all departments will run as normal. The institution is still open to students and visitors on campus as we are still providing services which includes advisement, tutoring, admissions, financial aid and the like. Majority of our in-person classes are not being held during this time with the exception of allied health and all fully online courses are still running as normal. On the 23rd, the institution will resume normal operation, including all in-person classes.

According to how we are reading the COVID-19 regulations as it pertains to school closing and FWS payment is that we are able to pay FWS students if the institution is closed due to COVID-19 or transitioned to fully online operation which would prevent students from working. Our situation does not appear to directly fit the criteria, however we want to have clarification concerning if our situation would qualify for students to be paid and not physically work the hours during this period even though the institution itself is open, but that in-person courses are not running with some exceptions.

Thank you for your time and attention,

Can you please confirm that the guidance in the March 5, Electronic Announcement under the Federal Work-Study (FWS) heading also applies in this scenario? We think the answer is, Yes.

Our campus, however, will not be "closing", just moving to an online format. Since the campus will not technically close and cease operations, are will still allowed to pay FWS for students who cannot continue in their positions.

Thank you very much!

Subject: FWS and partial closures

Good morning,

We are trying to get/confirm guidance on partial closures related to COVID-19 protocols at our school.

If we have specific departments close as a precaution/protocol for the virus, would we be able to pay FWS students employed on campus at those locations. They would be labs and may include in-person tutoring services. I am not sure if the highlighted text below refers to FWS students that are working off-campus only.

The campus would remain open and be providing online learning and limited in-class instruction. Staff, in general, are expected to continue working.

Thank you in advance,

For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement.

Greetings!

I was hoping to get some clarification on the instances when an FWS-eligible student may still receive FWS pay despite not being able to work any hours.

We will begin and complete our spring term completely online in an effort to minimize student travel to campus, therefore our students will be enrolled AND will continue to incur and pay tuition. Your guidance indicates that students may only receive FWS payments for non-working hours for closures that occurred after the beginning of the term. However, if I am understanding the intention behind the guidance, because the student remains enrolled in the quarter, continues attendance, and pays tuition for which they rely on the FWS payments to help offset, it would seem that we would be able to pay them for hours not worked throughout our online spring term. Am I reading too much into the guidance?

Thanks for your help!

Good morning,

From ED Guidance: "For FWS students enrolled at an institution that closes temporarily due to the coronavirus, or for those whose employer closes as a result of the coronavirus — the institution will be permitted to continue paying the FWS wages "if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement."

Question: Can ED clarify or give guidance about the definition of "closes" under these circumstances? If an institution temporarily suspended classes on campus but offers classes online, is that institution considered to be closed for purposes of FWS payments?

Hello,
ACPHS will temporarily offer all coursework via distance technology for the remainder of this semester due to the onset of the COVID-19 pandemic. After reviewing the SFA notice dated March 05, 2020 with the Subject: Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus (COVID-19)", a question has arisen in regards to the institution surrounding the term "closed". Specifically, the guidance noted is:

"For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement."

Technically, the college will not be "closed", rather we will offer distance technology to students to continue their studies while maintaining social distancing and other recommendations of the CDC. Can FWS students continue to work for the College in positions that may be performed via distance technology? Are we able to continue their FWS employment in this way if the college is not "closed"?

Kindly provide some clarity on how we may best serve our students during this unfortunate hardship.
We appreciate your help greatly!

Hello,

I have a question about work study pay when a school has closed and students are asked not to come to campus. In this event, how do we determine how many hours the student will be paid for? Is it a flat 20 because that is the max, or is it an average of how many hours they typically work, or should we get something from the supervisor that tells us how many hours they would have been scheduled for?

Also, if the campus is closed to students and has moved online, but student services (financial aid) is still at campus and working, is it up to the campus/ supervisor's discretion as to whether FWS students working in student services will continue to come to campus and work?

In the Interruption of Study Guidance communication sent by the Department of Education on March 5, 2020, it states the following:

"If an institution ceases operation during a payment period and fails to reopen by the end of that payment period, its students are considered no longer in attendance and must be considered withdrawn for that payment period or period of enrollment, and would be subject to Return of Title IV funds requirements."

Could you please clarify how ED is defining "ceases operation?" Would it include switching to online modality, if we cease in-person, on-campus classes?

Subject: March 5 2020 Guidance for interruptions of study related to COVID-19

Hi,

I have a question related to the reference on page 8 of today's letter when a student does not begin attendance as a result of COVID-19. I've included the paragraph below with highlighted areas.

Federal Student Aid - IFAP: 030520Guidance4interruptionsrelated2CoronavirusCOVID19

Normally institutions, once aware that a student will not begin or has not begun attendance, must notify the loan servicer which results in issuance of a final demand letter to the borrower. However, we have determined that in the case where a student was unable to begin attendance due to a COVID-19-related school closure, the provisions of 34 CFR § 668.21(a)(2)(ii), requiring the institution to notify the servicer of that student's failure to begin attendance, do not apply because the option for the student to begin attendance did not exist. Accordingly, the institution should not notify the servicer that the student did not begin attendance. He or she will be permitted to repay any Direct Loan funds received under the terms of the promissory note. This will also prevent a student from being required to enter repayment within six months of withdrawing if the student withdrew as a result of a Coronavirus-related interruption.

My question is regarding reporting to NSLDS when a student does not begin attendance. Does this exception apply ONLY when the foreign school closes or does it also apply if the home institution cancels the program, even though the foreign institution did not close, prior to the students beginning attendance? An item of clarification-no TIV funds were disbursed.

Thank you for your help and clarification

Hello:

I am writing to request clarification on your March 5, 2020 Guidance for Interruption of Study Related to Coronavirus (COVID-19).

Specifically, in the section entitled "Foreign Schools" you indicate that you "cannot extend flexibility regarding the use of distance learning to foreign schools since the Higher Education Act does not permit foreign schools to provide distance learning to U.S. students who participate in Title IV, HEA programs." Does this limitation refer only to foreign schools directly receiving Title IV funds? Does the limitation apply to study abroad programs where the foreign school does not directly receive Title IV funds? Thank you in advance for any clarification you can provide.

Department of Education Staff -

Good morning. I just reviewed the guidance provided by the Dept. of ED on combating the COVID-19 virus. The briefing that I'm referring to was provided by IFAP.

https://ifap.ed.gov/electronic-announcements/030520Guidance4interruptionsrelated2CoronavirusCOVID19

Coursera is the leading provider of digital learning provided by leading academic institutions - Duke, Johns Hopkins, Yale, Georgia Tech, Northwestern, Univ. of MI, Univ. of MD, Univ. of VA and 160+ others around the world. 49M learners around the world have developed their skills on our platform, with the assistance of the best educators in the world.

The two policies from your briefing that I'd like to discuss are:

1. Approval to Offer Distance Education
   The Department is providing broad approval to institutions to use online technologies to accommodate students on a temporary basis, without going through the regular approval process of the Department in the event that an institution is otherwise required to seek Departmental approval for the use or expansion of distance learning programs. This flexibility only applies to a program during a payment period that overlaps the date of this electronic announcement or the following payment period. If an institution chooses to continue offering a new program or use distance education in a manner requiring the Department's approval after that point, it must seek approval under the Department's normal process.
2. Institutions may also enter into temporary consortium agreements with other institutions so that students can complete courses at other institutions but be awarded credit by their home institution. In addition, in instances where accrediting agencies require students to complete a final number or percentage of credits in residence at the institution, accrediting agencies may waive that requirement for students impacted by COVID-19 without objection by the Department.

Can you please provide FAQ's for project directors of US Department of Education grants that are currently funded - all existing grants and scholarship programs? The NSF has a comprehensive list that addresses their expectations of grantees and because the nature of ED grants is so different, it would be very helpful for program directors to have something to share with their project directors at schools and universities nationwide.

Subject: Guidance Questions Related to COVID-19

After reading the March 5, 2020 Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus (COVID-19), we have the following questions, which are highlighted in green below.

Accommodating Students Whose Enrollment is Disrupted by Coronavirus

Our goal is to work with institutions and find ways to enable you to accommodate students and help them continue their education despite interruptions caused by COVID-19. For many institutions, online education will provide a viable option for continuing to teach students through COVID-19-related interruptions. In some instances, students enrolled in ground-based programs at campuses that must temporarily close could participate in distance education for a period of time and then resume ground-based attendance when the campus reopens. In other instances, an institution may provide online learning opportunities for a student who was recalled from a travel-abroad program but the student is too late into the semester to enroll in other classes offered by the home campus, or the student who arrived in a foreign country intending to complete a travel abroad experience finds that the program has now been cancelled or temporarily suspended. We are providing the following flexibilities to institutions to help them understand what options they can make available to students and remain in compliance with Title IV requirements.

- Based on the highlighted statement, can we get clarification that elsewhere in the document when the department talks about relief provided to institutions/students in the event of a closure, that a move to online instruction for most/all courses is equal to a closure?
- If a student is unable to participate in online courses (e.g. no home internet, no computer, not able to learn in that format, etc.), does the relief extend to that student because of the change in mode of instruction?

Federal Work Study (FWS)

Federal law includes a provision allowing an institution to make FWS payments under certain limited circumstances to disaster-affected students who are unable to continue working. Given the unique nature of this situation, it is unlikely that an entire region would be declared a Federal disaster area, yet to students enrolled at a campus that must close temporarily, the loss of this important form of financial aid can be devastating. The impact may be magnified if the institution accommodates students by providing alternative instructional opportunities and the student is required to continue paying tuition, but the student loses FWS as an important part of their financial aid award. For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement. Students who were prevented from beginning a term at the institution as a result of a COVID-19-related disruption would not be eligible for Federal Student Aid for that term, and therefore could not be paid FWS wages for hours they did not work. Graduate students who are paid FWS wages on salary may continue to be paid for the remainder of the term if the institution is also paying its faculty and staff during that period. In these instances, institutions should document (as contemporaneously as feasible) that the COVID-19 disruption was the reason the student received FWS funds without documentation of hours worked.

- If the campus continues to be open for online instruction but an FWS student's job functions are no longer relevant due to this (e.g. a lab assistant where the lab is not meeting in person or a tutor), can this student continue to be paid when other student staff may be still working in their positions (e.g. an assistant in the Payroll Office).

Students Who Did Not Begin Attendance

We are aware that many U.S. students enrolled in eligible foreign institutions and in study abroad programs offered by domestic institutions have already been affected by local outbreaks of COVID-19 and the measures taken by institutions in response. Of immediate concern are those students who travelled to overseas destinations but were unable to begin classes due to school closures. There may also be instances where students at domestic institutions are similarly affected and unable to begin classes. Because these students did not begin attendance in a payment period or period of enrollment, 34 CFR § 668.21 (rather than Return of Title IV Funds) applies. In such a situation, the institution must return all Title IV grant funds disbursed for the payment period or period of enrollment and all Direct Loan funds that were credited to the student's account at the institution for that period. The institution must also return Direct Loan funds in the amount of payments made directly by or on behalf of the student to the institution for the period, up to the total amount of the loan funds disbursed. The institution is not responsible for returning Direct Loan funds that were disbursed directly to the student in the form of a credit balance as long as the institution was not aware that the student would not attend prior to the disbursement, and students will be able to repay those funds as a part of their educational loans. In these circumstances, institutions are permitted, but not required, to return all of a student's Direct Loan funds, including the amount comprising the credit balance.

Normally institutions, once aware that a student will not begin or has not begun attendance, must notify the loan servicer which results in issuance of a final demand letter to the borrower. However, we have determined that in the case where a student was unable to begin attendance due to a COVID-19-related school closure, the provisions of 34 CFR § 668.21(a)(2)(ii), requiring the institution to notify the servicer of that student's failure to begin attendance, do not apply because the option for the student to begin attendance did not exist. Accordingly, the institution should not notify the servicer that the student did not begin attendance. He or she will be permitted to repay any Direct Loan funds received under the terms of the promissory note. This will also prevent a student from being required to enter repayment within six months of withdrawing if the student withdrew as a result of a Coronavirus-related interruption

- If Pell is reduced due to a change in enrollment status (e.g. the student was enrolled full-time and does not begin attendance in one course forcing a Pell reduction to three quarter time), can the institution give the student SEOG funds even if the student is not a 0 EFC and not all 0 EFC students have been awarded SEOG because the institution determines that the student fits the "highest need" population based on the circumstances?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- What documentation is required to confirm that the student did not begin attendance due to COVID-19?

- If the school does not fully close but goes to online instruction only, does this guidance still apply?

To whom it may concern at Department of Ed,

I would be grateful if the Department of Ed would lead the charge against the spread of COVID19 by putting out a directive to require schools to teach hand-washing technique in a short assembly, and to send a how-to-sheet home with the children. This would help to educate their parents as well. It is known that hand washing is the number one effective method for staying safe. My seven year old daughter has a pre-existing lung condition that puts her at risk. There would be far-reaching benefits to educating the children and having them educate their parents.

Here is the recommendation from the CDC:

Interim Guidance for Administrators of US Childcare Programs and K-12 Schools

Plan, Prepare and Respond to Coronavirus Disease 2019

Schools should continue to collaborate, share information, and review plans with local health officials to help protect the whole school community, including those with special health needs. School plans should be designed to minimize disruption to teaching and learning and protect students and staff from social stigma and discrimination. Plans can build on everyday practices (e.g., encouraging hand hygiene, monitoring absenteeism, communicating routinely) that include strategies for before, during, and after a possible outbreak.

Subject: HEROES Act

I was a bit surprised that the guidance issued yesterday did not make reference to the Higher Education Relief Opportunities For Students (HEROES) Act of 2003 (Public Law 108-76). If the president were to declare a national emergency, certain flexibilities would become available, such as a waiver of the requirement to exercise professional judgment on a case-by-case basis, a waiver of the requirement to return grant funds under R2T4, allowing oral requests to substitute for written requests, exclusion of interruptions from the in-school and grace period and a waiver of parental signature requirements.

It would have been appropriate for the guidance to include a sentence along the lines of "In the event the President declares a national emergency, additional flexibility would become available under the HEROES Act of 2003 and the U.S. Department of Education would issue supplemental guidance at that time."

Subject: Inquiries regarding March 5 guidance

Thank you very much for the Department's guidance issued on March 5. We have two questions regarding that guidance.

Question 1: The guidance states on page 3 that institutions may use online technologies to accommodate students on a temporary basis without seeking Departmental approval for the expansion of distance learning programs. The guidance then states that "[t]his flexibility only applies to a program during a payment period that overlaps the date of this electronic announcement or the following payment period. If an institution chooses to continue offering a new program or use distance education in a manner requiring the Department's approval after that point, it must seek approval under the Department's normal process."

Should the highlighted "or" be read as "and"? We presume ED reasonably did not know when the current Covid-19 impact will end, and so intended the guidance to apply to the current payment period AND the next (i.e., for many schools, the summer term).

If this is not what the Department meant, then we would like to confirm the following specific application of the guidance: School A, which already has authorization to offer some courses via distance learning but may need to expand the extent to which it is offering such instruction to currently enrolled students, has a quarter term ending on March 27. The next quarter term (i.e., the next payment period) will begin on April 1. We presume ED's March 5 guidance was intended to extend into the April 1 payment period because the Covid-19 impact is unlikely to be resolved in the next three weeks, but we would appreciate your confirmation of this fact.

Question 2: An institution currently offers certain graduate programs via hybrid modality – offering a portion of instruction residentially once per month and offering a portion of the instruction online. One of the programs at issue began a new term (with some newly enrolled students) this week (i.e., after March 5). The students are attending the online portion of instruction now. They will be required to attend the first residential session in mid-April. The school currently plans to hold the residential session but cannot predict what, if any, limitations will be placed on them by local or state health authorities in mid-April. If they cannot hold the residential session in mid-April, then some new students, who were not enrolled in school as of March 5, will be the subject of "expanded" distance learning efforts. We assume this is valid because, at the time students began their program, the school intended to hold the residential session. Could you please confirm?

Please let me know if you need any additional information to answer these questions.

Thank You!

Regards,
Sherry

Professional Judgement
Financial aid administrators (FAA) have statutory authority to use professional judgement to make adjustments on a case-by-case basis to the cost of attendance or to the data elements used in calculating the EFC to reflect a student's special circumstances. The use of professional judgement where students and/or their families have been affected by COVID-19 is permitted, such as in the case where an employer closes for a period of time as a result of COVID-19. In making professional judgement determinations, FAAs must obtain documentation and retain it in each student's file. This documentation must substantiate the reason for any adjustment. Institutions are reminded that, regardless of how broadly an event may affect its student population, professional judgement determinations must be made and documented on a case-by-case basis.

Dear Department of Education:

After reviewing the Department of Education's Electronic Announcement about interruptions of study due to the Corona virus (issued today, March 5, 2020), our college is planning for the various contingencies that may arise.

Our college is Thomas Aquinas College (OPE-ID 023580). Our main campus is located in Santa Paula, California. Today, the state of California has declared a state of emergency. Los Angeles County, which is adjacent to our county (Ventura County) has also declared a state of emergency.

Our fall semester was 17 weeks long. Our spring semester is also 17 weeks long, although it spans 18 weeks, with one week off for Easter (closed from Thursday, April 9, 2020 through Wednesday, April 15, 2020).

Could we reduce our spring semester to 12.5 weeks of instruction on campus (Monday, January 13, 2020 through Wednesday, April 8, 2020), followed by 1.0 week of exams taken at home after the Easter break (Thursday, April 16, 2020 through Wednesday, April 22, 2020)? The students would be asked to return their written exams by e-mail or paper mail. Under this scenario, our academic year will total 30.5 weeks (17 weeks in the fall plus 13.5 weeks in the spring).

Thank you.

Subject: Question about school start times and immunity

Hello,

Would the Dept. of Education consider recommending that schools start on a delayed morning time schedule? Many schools already have delayed morning start schedules built into their framework for weather delays/emergencies.

What this would do would be to allow students, especially high school students, to get more sleep and make sure their immune systems are healthy and strong. This could help limit the spread of the virus by preventing symptoms from emerging in the first place. Teenagers are known to have trouble falling asleep much before 11 pm, yet many schools start before 8 am.

The American Pediatric Association recommends high school start no earlier than 8:30 am under normal circumstances. It seems that with Covid-19 looming, it might make sense to shorten the school day for this reason by delaying school starts. As it is, in many communities like my own in Montgomery County Maryland, teenagers often get 5-7 hours of sleep only. That is not enough to stay healthy for staving off infection. Our community's delayed start schedule begin at 9:45 am, with school ending at the usual time. This would allow teenagers to get much more sleep. It sounds silly, but it might be a way to reduce the spread of Covid once it gets into communities....and I think it already has.

Thank you,

Hello again,

We are an institution with a Pell census date and we do not recalculate enrollment status for enrollment changes after the census date (unless we cannot document the student began attendance in a course.) For Pell Grant recipients who were enrolled on the census date but did not begin attendance in some or all of their classes due to cancellations related to COVID-19, may the institution treat courses which the student adds after the census date and begins attendance within the same term as courses in which the student was enrolled prior to the census date?

Good Morning,

Our school is reviewing alternate methods of instructions in case we are required to suspend face-to-face instructions due to COVID-19. We are a clock hour school and wishes to clarify how do we calculate and document number of clock hours scheduled and earned by students, in case face to face instructions are suspended and instructions were given via online tools, such as Google Class, Microsoft Team, etc. We need your advise on…

- If our face to face classroom duration is 5 hour session, should we require instructors and students be on the "remote class" for 5 clock hours with required breaks ? Or Instructors can send presentations, video tutorials and require students to complete assignments, that can be counted for number of clock hours required as per our daily schedule, i.e. 5 hours/day ?

- Currently we use classroom paper timesheets. Instructors are taking attendance and students & instructors both initial on the paper timesheets. In case of remote instructions, can Instructors complete the classroom timesheet and report to administration ?

Appreciate your quick attention and guidance. If required, advise me I should call to go over it for a quick discussion. You may contact me at 908-222-0002, extn: 337.

Good morning,

Our school is considering extending our semester into the summer. This is not how it was originally set up, but I know the length of semester restrictions have been reduced, so this is possible, but I am not sure if I can do it mid-semester. The guidance on the virus discusses shortening a semester, but not lengthening it so we can offer summer as part of the spring to ensure full time offerings.

Is there any guidance you could direct me to that would help me see what is possible?

Dear Colleagues,

I have read the guidance in the March 5th Electronic Announcement regarding Foreign Schools but I need additional guidance.

If I have a student who has returned from a study abroad program at Lorenzo de Medici, which is a branch campus of Marist College, is it possible for Marist College (in the U.S.) to offer the distance education so the student can complete their coursework remotely?

Also, if I have other students who have returned from study abroad programs, is it possible for faculty from our school to provide instruction to those students remotely?

Lastly, does it matter if the study abroad programs were through an exchange program between our school and a foreign school, or if we have a consortium agreement with the foreign school?

Thanks for your help.

Subject: Question re: moving our students online to finish the semester

Hello -

I've reviewed the Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus (COVID-19) and have a question that wasn't specifically addressed in it.

Our leadership is considering all possible scenarios, including one where students will be moved to completing their semester coursework via online instruction. Most of our students live on campus, and if we went to online instruction then we would be sending those students back home to finish their courses online. In this scenario, they would be asked to vacate the residence halls.

If this scenario were to happen, we are also considering whether we would pro-rate student's housing and meal plan charges for the unused portion of each of these. If we did this, would there be any impact to an existing financial aid award? Would we have to adjust each student's COA to reflect the prorated charge? Or are we far enough into the semester where we won't need to do anything?

At this point we are not looking to end the semester right now. Rather, we are trying to find ways to allow our students to complete the semester.

Any information you can provide would be most appreciated. If you need to discuss this over the phone I'm available at 512-863-1267.

Subject: Paying FWS Students

We are evaluating if we should pay FWS students who aren't working during the scenario below.

These FWS students already began attending their classes and already began earning FWS funds. Because of the virus, we cancelled classes for a few days and are switching to online classes for at least several weeks. During these weeks, students will not be able to live on campus and there will be reductions in some campus functions. These changes will prevent many FWS students from earning their FWS funds. During these weeks, we will continue to pay permanent staff, but may or may not be paying other non-FWS student employees who are employed in similar positions.

Is our ability to pay FWS earnings to these students contingent on the decisions we make about whether we will be paying other non-FWS student employees in similar positions?

Excerpt from announcement:

> "For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement."

Our campus is not closed but students have been asked to move out of the residence halls and all instruction is moving online for several weeks (possibly more). I've read that we can continue to pay students FWS, however, could you please provide additional details as to how we would go about doing this

- Some students may be able to work remotely and still be able to report scheduled/worked hours. For these students, I would assume "business as usual" - they can report their hours worked and be paid for these hours.

- Other students may not have the flexibility to do this - would we pay them for their regularly scheduled hours, and in the event that their schedule is varied, have them report & pay an average of their hours worked over the semester (or for the period of time they've been employed)?

Thank you!

To whom it may concern:

In light of the COVID-19 outbreak and the way colleges and universities, including ours, are reacting to the outbreak, there are some questions that I have that do not appear to be answered through the electronic announcement released 3/5/2020 to provide guidance to FAAs. In our administration's decision to temporarily shift to remote education, there have also been talks of refunding a portion of room and board to students for the time that students are not able to return to campus. Is there any special guidance surrounding such adjustments in light of this outbreak? Or would a school who made the decision to refund a portion of room and board to students be required to process such an adjustment as either a reduction in COA or by processing such a credit as a component of financial aid?

Thank you for your assistance and guidance in this matter. I have CC'd our director of Student Financial Services, Ellen Curcio, so that she can be aware of any guidance provided in response to my questions.

Good morning,

We have several institutions who are currently extending spring breaks and transitioning to online course delivery. These transitions are currently only scheduled for a period of weeks, but may extend to the entire payment period as the situation further develops. Two questions have been posed to our office I hope you all can assist with.

1. The current guidance we read indicates payments to FWS eligible students is permitted in the event a campus closes or transitions to distance education "for the remainder of the payment period." Does this guidance also apply in situations where a school is temporarily moving to online instruction and is encouraging students to not visit campus for a period of weeks?
2. In scenarios where institutions are extending spring break for an additional week and encouraging students to not visit campuses, can we also follow the FWS guidance and pay those students who would have worked during that week but will not be on campus?

Good morning,

I hope this email finds you well. I'm writing from Fisher College in Boston, MA with Title IV compliance questions relating to emergency planning for our institution as a result of COVID-19.

- If a school moves courses completely online and students are forced to move out of the dorms, is the institution responsible to refund their housing charges and in turn, adjust their cost of attendance (as this would result in student eligibility for funds)?
- If a school decides to extend their scheduled spring break, are there flexibilities for the length of the academic year and how would that impact Return to Title IV calculations?
- Are there any plans to release additional Federal funding to support institutions and their students?
- Will additional guidance be available to address Title IV compliance concerns?

Many thanks in advance for your time and assistance,

Hello,

Thank you for providing this guidance on interruptions related to COVID-19. It is very helpful. I have two questions related to leaves of absence:

1. In paragraph 13, where it discusses leaves of absence, will leaves of absence be allowed even if the institution does not currently have a leave of absence policy in place?*
2. Should term-based schools still follow the current guidance in the FSA Handbook (Vol 5, page 16) and contact the School Participation team prior to instituting a leave of absence procedure for COVID-19 impacted students?

Note – Development of such a policy for many schools will require consultation with faculty governing entities, which may not be expedient/feasible in current circumstances.*

Thank you for your assistance.

Subject: Questions regarding the March 5, 2020 Guidance for interruptions of study related to Coronavirus (COVID-19)

Hi,

I have a few questions regarding the guidance below provided in the March 5th COVID-19 guidance document.

Finally, because we understand that some students may have been recalled from travel abroad programs or cancelled out of experiential learning opportunities after the semester began, institutions may offer courses to those students on a schedule that would otherwise be considered a non-standard term, if doing so enables those students to complete the term. These flexibilities will also be provided to institutions, or their additional locations or programs, that must temporarily close as a result of COVID-19.

Our institution is looking to extend the end date of some courses in order to accommodate students whose enrollment was affected by COVID-19. We know that if a course is scheduled to be more than 2 weeks outside the standard semester begin and end dates, we would normally be dealing with a non-standard term situation.

1. We're interpreting the flexibility stated above to mean we can, for example, offer courses that extend more than 2 weeks beyond the end of the term without now being considered a non-standard term, is that correct?

2. We're also interpreting that this flexibility can only be applied to students affected by COVID-19, correct?

3. Since there's no mention of flexibility to situations that would otherwise be considered non-term, is it correct that we still cannot allow courses to overlap other terms without now being considered non-term?

4. If we offer these students courses that extend beyond the standard end of term date, do we need to update our R2T4 calculations for those students since the days of attendance and days in the semester are different?

Thanks for any assistance you can provide.

Regards,
Jean

Good Day,
Please see my questions below after reading the guidance received on this topic:

FWS - Is is truly up to each institution if we pay or not pay our work-study students?
R2T4 calcs - Would there be a relief as to how many days institutions would have to make these calculations?
ENDING TERM EARLY -- Are we to just call our School Participation Agreement to request this when the decision is made? If so, how long will it take to get an answer? And if time is not on our favor and we cannot wait for that response, could we just inform them?

We will watch the upcoming NASFAA webinar but it would be nice to also have something coming directly from the Federal Dpt of Education. Perhaps there will be somebody from the FDOE in that webinar too to answer any additional questions?

Thank you,

Hello

1) Our regular spring break starts on March 14th and ends March 22nd. The college has decided to extend the break by 7 days. I understand that I must reduce the denominator in my refund calc by the 7 additional days, but I need some guidance as to when I must use the reduced denominator in my refund calculations.

A student withdrew today - the last day of classes before the regularly scheduled spring break. Do I need to use the reduce denominator for this student's calculation?

2) Do I have to adjust the Cost of Attendance for students whose room or board charges are reduced due to the extended break period?

Thank you for your help. I can't just imagine how busy you are, and your assistance is much appreciated.

Hello,
How are we to handle days in the payment period as a result of a school closure for 5 consecutive days in response to COVID-19? We are closed for 5 consecutive days as our faculty train and transition to online course work. Would this be considered a scheduled break in the R2T4?
If yes, I assume we would not need to go back and adjust previously completed R2T4s with the new number of days in the term (due to the scheduled break) and just adjust any R2T4s moving forward?

Hello-

We have a question regarding the Federal Work-Study (FWS) excerpt below from the IFAP Announcement dated 03-05-2020 concerning interruptions of study related to Coronavirus (COVID-19).

Our institution has not closed but has declared that all spring semester classes already in progress will be held remotely via distance education from March 16, 2020 through at least April 3, 2020. We are also strongly discouraging our students from returning to campus, off-campus locations, and group dwellings (e.g., apartments and fraternities), and we are advising them to return to, or remain at, home during this time period.

Question: Regarding the highlighted part of the FWS excerpt below, may we continue to pay those students, who are unable to continue working because of this situation, FWS wages during this temporary move from ground-based to remote classes, even though our institution has not closed?

We appreciate your assistance and look forward to hearing from you.

Excerpt from 3/5/20 IFAP Announcement:

Federal Work Study (FWS)
Federal law includes a provision allowing an institution to make FWS payments under certain limited circumstances to disaster-affected students who are unable to continue working. Given the unique nature of this situation, it is unlikely that an entire region would be declared a Federal disaster area, yet to students enrolled at a campus that must close temporarily, the loss of this important form of financial aid can be devastating. The impact may be magnified if the institution accommodates students by providing alternative instructional opportunities and the student is required to continue paying tuition, but the student loses FWS as an important part of their financial aid award. For students enrolled and performing FWS at a campus that must close due to COVID-19, or for a FWS student who is employed by an employer that closes as a result of COVID-19, the institution may continue paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term, the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement. Students who were prevented from beginning a term at the institution as a result of a COVID-19-related disruption would not be eligible for Federal Student Aid for that term, and therefore could not be paid FWS wages for hours they did not work. Graduate students who are paid FWS wages on salary may continue to be paid for the remainder of the term if the institution is also paying its faculty and staff during that period. In these instances, institutions should document (as contemporaneously as feasible) that the COVID-19 disruption was the reason the student received FWS funds without documentation of hours worked.

Hello,

Amid the COVID-19 issues, our school may be considering moving the start of our next term a week or two (we would still meet the requirements of our academic year definition); however, all the students' loans were packaged and originated with the original start date of 4/2/20 – the students would have a loan period and academic year start date of 4/2/20; however, if the term start was moved to 4/9/20 or 4/16/20, would we need to update every loan period and academic year?

Also, note that we do not pay disbursements until students post attendance, so it would not be an issue of students receiving funds too early.

I can't seem to find a way for our system to do this, and it appears it may be a manual thing we would have to do for thousands of students.

Greetings,

We have a student who received Title IV funds to study abroad at a foreign institution in Florence, Italy. Unfortunately and due to Coronavirus, the institution has temporarily closed and the student is on her way back to the U.S.

The foreign institution is making arrangements for the student to complete her coursework for the term online. It is the foreign institution (and not the home institution) that will be providing the instruction.

Whereas we understand that students are not permitted to receive Title IV funds for online instruction from foreign schools, does this also mean that we need to perform a R2T4 calculation for the student because she is no longer enrolled in Title IV eligible coursework? Her aid was already fully disbursed for the term, and we are unclear as to if a R2T4 calculation is required only because the method of instruction changed for a student who is still enrolled.

Again, she is still enrolled in the same courses upon which her Title IV disbursement was based. The method of instruction has just changed mid-way through the term due to this special circumstance. Assuming the student completes her coursework, she will still be receiving academic credit through her home institution.

I appreciate any clarity you can provide.

Hello!

We're in a brick-and-mortar setting and will be using online technologies to accommodate students on a temporary basis until a decision is made in April, 2020. Some students are choosing to go home for the rest of the Spring 2020 semester and complete classes online. We are primarily a residential campus and give them allowances for on-campus room and board charges on their Cost of Attendance (COA) budget. Do we have to adjust their COA budget if they go home, to relatives, to friends, etc. for the rest of the Spring 2020 semester and if they receive a refund on their board charges? Students will incur food expenses whether they're on-campus or at home or wherever they decide to stay for the rest of Spring 2020. Or, do we have broad approval to leave the COA board charges as if they're on campus?

Thanks!

Dear U.S. Department of Education Representatives:

Like many institutions of higher education, ours is determining how best to handle the COVID-19 crisis and protect our students. I have read the Title IV guidance issued last week, and I have some follow up questions. I am sure you are bombarded with these right now, so I apologize and appreciate any help you can give.

- Our school has extended our spring break by one week, and is deciding how to handle the rest of the semester. I see that we should contact our School Participation Team if this results in a reduced spring semester term (I think I understand how this affects R2T4 calculations going forward). But what happens if we decide to extend the spring semester by a week? Is that allowable, and should we notify the School Participation team? If this results in overlap with our summer session (which is scheduled to start in late May) is that a problem, given the unusual circumstances? (Our summer term is not required, and only some students take classes during that payment period).
- If students are no longer on campus and unable to work in FWS jobs, if we decide to continue to pay them wages under the guidance that has been provided, does the school decide how much to pay them per week? Would we do that using their average weekly wages earned from previous weeks? If the school is still open but students can no longer live on campus, is this still a possibility?
- Like many schools, we are considering teaching online, which may result in students moving out of the dorms early. I want to check on prorated room and board charges and the need to adjust the cost of attendance for these students. What financial aid would need to be adjusted in this case, assuming that the students remain enrolled full time? If the aid has already been disbursed for the semester and enrollment status has not changed, can students keep the financial aid they have already received, even if they receive an institutional refund of room and board charges?

Thank you for your help!

To Whom it May Concern,

I work at Windward Community College (part of the University of Hawaii System), and although there is currently no concrete talks of moving our classes to an online platform just yet, I wanted to reach out for guidance about what we can do now to plan for such an event.

- If we were to close our campus, will there be contingencies in place to allow workers to be able to access the federal sites (NSLDS, COD, FAA Access, etc.) remotely (from a location or IP addresses NOT associated with the school)? I don't see how we could continue with our daily work if the school closes or if employees are under quarantine, if we are not able to access these sites from another location not associated with the school itself.
- Will any of the normal regulatory timeframes like Loan Exits (30-day regulation), R2T4, etc., be extended or not held to the normal regulatory timeframe to take into account entire offices that may have to be quarantined or in the event that the campuses close or if employees are at home and not at work?

Subject: RE: Concern re: Pre-School tooth brushing protocol and covid

Dear (b)(6)

Thank you for contacting the U.S. Department of Education (Department) concerning COVID-19 ("Coronavirus").

While there is currently no vaccine to prevent COVID-19, health officials are currently taking steps to prevent the introduction and spread of this respiratory disease. Schools can play an important role in this effort.

Through collaboration and coordination with local health authorities and other agencies, schools can disseminate important information about this disease and its potential transmission. Schools can also prepare to take additional steps to prevent the spread of COVID-19, should State and local health officials identify such a need.

The Department recommends that schools continue to promote everyday disease prevention strategies:

- If you are sick, stay home from school.
- Avoid close contact with those who are already sick.
- Cover your nose and mouth when coughing or sneezing with a tissue or the crook of your arm.
- Wash your hands often with soap and water.
- Avoid touching eyes, nose, or mouth.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) offers the most up-to-date information on COVID-19. Schools can share relevant CDC fact sheets to help students, families, and staff understand COVID-19, along with steps they can take to protect themselves. For further information, please visit www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-nCoV.

In addition, the Department has established a "COVID-19 Information and Resources for Schools and School Personnel" webpage, available at www.ed.gov/coronavirus, to support schools and communities as they plan, prepare and potentially respond to possible cases of COVID-19. The Department will regularly update this webpage as more information and guidance becomes available.

Thank you for sharing your concerns with us. We invite you to send questions on which the Department can be helpful to the following email address: COVID-19@ed.gov.

Subject: Concern re: Pre-School tooth brushing protocol and covid

I'm concerned about the potential of covid transmission in the tooth brushing protocol that is part of the public school pre-school program. After elementary schools, in the pre-school level, students brush their teeth together at a table and then place the dirty tooth brushes on a flat strainer. Then tap water is sprayed or poured over the brushes, allowing dirty water contact upon other brushes and sometimes brush to brush contact.

Could this practice be evaluated in light of the concern about community spread?

I'm not a school administrator and do not want my named to be used, because my status is as a substitite teacher, having experience with tooth brushing practice in the pre-school level.

If you're able to look into this, I'd sure love to hear back from you.

Thank you!

Subject: Concerned Parent with child who is high risk, has chronic respiratory disease

Hi,
I would like to thank everyone in the Dept of Education for their hard work and dedication to the future of America, our children. I know that everyone is busy and overwhelmed with all of the Covid-19 developments and are doing an outstanding job of protecting the health and safety of our students. I must ask, my student has chronic asthma, and he has a history of becoming extremely ill due to colds and flu, croup, and other respiratory infections. What provisions is the Dept of Education recommending for these sensitive group students??? I would like to know that students that have these conditions will be pulled from campus, if any risk of exposure is present. I am uncomfortable with the current guidelines, they do not address the needs of this vulnerable population within our school community. Thank you Sent from my iPhone

Our campus is not officially closing as administrative office plan to remain open, at least for now. However, ALL courses are moving to online, and no courses will be offered on campus for at least three weeks. Under these guideline, can we still pay students federal work study if they are not actually working on campus?

The guidelines state they are addressing this exact scenario:

- A campus temporarily stops offering ground-based classes in order to prevent the spread of COVID-19;

However, in the Federal work-study section it states 'if a campus must close' then we can pay work-study.

Does the temporary stoppage of ground-based classes count as a closure, per these regulations??

Good afternoon,

We are requesting clarification regarding the information about foreign schools and distance education contained in the electronic announcement.

We have students on a study abroad program for the spring 2020 term. The students began attendance in classes at the foreign institution but due to COVID-19, they are now taking only online classes. The classes are offered by the foreign institution. The students will be completing their coursework for the term in the online format. Is this an example of a foreign school providing distance learning and thus ineligible to receive Title IV aid?

Thank you.
Sabrina

Subject: COA and R&B reduction of charges

Hello DOE,

Our campus is going to reduce some R&B charges because we are asking students to leave and we are moving to distance learning. I read the 3/5/20 DOE guidance but I do not see a specific COA overaward reference under COVID-19. My concern is that we may have a lot of overawards/over COA because students have borrowed PLUS /private loans up to the spring COA.

Here are my questions under the current COVID-19 environment:

1. Do we have to reduce the R&B COA allowance, for on-campus students, by the amount of the rebate? Or, can we change them to our " off-campus" estimate of the same $7200, thus preventing an overaward? This is an institutional decision outside the Department's purview. There is no requirement for you to do this at the Department level.

- We use estimated Room & Board charges for on-campus living ($ 7200)
- We use the same estimated cost of apartment living ( $7200)
- We use a reduced estimated cost for living with a parent ( $1600)

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

2. If we reduce charges, we may have an overaward/over COA situation.

- Pell- It is our understanding that if the student's enrollment does not change, we do not have to adjust PELL, even though they may be over COA. Correct.
- Direct LOAN/PLUS- If the DL has fully disbursed, we do not have to reduce loans, even though they may be over need/COA. This is correct. But recall that there is no requirement to recalculate a DL award due to a change in COA once that DL has been originated, so you should not have to get to the point where an overaward comes into play.
- SEOG- we may have to reduce SEOG over a $300 allowance if we are over need/COA? If you reduce charges, it will be necessary to revise the COA and repackage for Campus-Based. And you are correct that an overaward may occur.
- CWS- Like SEOG, we may have to reduce CWS over a $300 tolerance? But then continue to allow them to earn this reduced amount, under the 3/5/20 DOE guidance letter. Correct.

Please advise!

Many thanks,

Jan

Hello,

Please contact University of Maryland for more information.

Institutions may pay students FWS funds for hours that the students were scheduled to work, but were unable to complete as a result of the Coronavirus threat. Institutions that decide to pay FWS funds to students in these situations should determine the amount of wages associated with those scheduled hours in the individual student contracts and make payments to students accordingly. The institution does not need a specific approval to pay FWS in this manner in accordance with the guidance described in the March 5, 2020 electronic announcement

Greetings,

My son is a Sophomore at the University of Maryland, College Park and apart of his financial aid packet included work study. When he was informed that the school would be closing for two weeks he asked his supervisor if he would be able to work. He was informed that IF someone was working in the office, then he would be able to work. My concern is, IF someone is not in the office, will he still get paid for the week he was not able to work? According to your guidelines listed on https://ifap.ed.gov/electronic-announcements/030520Guidance4interruptionsrelated2CoronavirusCOVID19,, it indicates that he should still be able to get paid. If so, what would his supervisors need to do in order to abide by these guidelines. As you can imagine, the money he receives from the work-study program is necessary in order to pay his bills. Not receiving these benefits, that were already approved and allocated, will cause a huge financial burden on him and on his family.

Can you help us navigate through this process?

Thank you,

Dear (b)(6):

Thank you for contacting the U.S. Department of Education (Department) concerning COVID-19 ("Coronavirus").

While there is currently no vaccine to prevent COVID-19, health officials are currently taking steps to prevent the introduction and spread of this respiratory disease. Schools can play an important role in this effort.

Through collaboration and coordination with local health authorities and other agencies, schools can disseminate important information about this disease and its potential transmission. Schools can also prepare to take additional steps to prevent the spread of COVID-19, should State and local health officials identify such a need.

The Department recommends that schools continue to promote everyday disease prevention strategies:

- If you are sick, stay home from school.
- Avoid close contact with those who are already sick.
- Cover your nose and mouth when coughing or sneezing with a tissue or the crook of your arm.
- Wash your hands often with soap and water.
- Avoid touching eyes, nose, or mouth.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) offers the most up-to-date information on COVID-19. Schools can share relevant CDC fact sheets to help students, families, and staff understand COVID-19, along with steps they can take to protect themselves. For further information, please visit www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-nCoV.

In addition, the Department has established a "COVID-19 Information and Resources for Schools and School Personnel" webpage, available at www.ed.gov/coronavirus, to support schools and communities as they plan, prepare and potentially respond to possible cases of COVID-19. The Department will regularly update this webpage as more information and guidance becomes available.

Thank you for sharing your concerns with us. We invite you to send questions on which the Department can be helpful to the following email address: COVID-19@ed.gov.

I was a bit surprised that the guidance issued yesterday did not make reference to the Higher Education Relief Opportunities For Students (HEROES) Act of 2003 (Public Law 108-76). If the president were to declare a national emergency, certain flexibilities would become available, such as a waiver of the requirement to exercise professional judgment on a case-by-case basis, a waiver of the requirement to return grant funds under R2T4, allowing oral requests to substitute for written requests, exclusion of interruptions from the in-school and grace period and a waiver of parental signature requirements.

It would have been appropriate for the guidance to include a sentence along the lines of "In the event the President declares a national emergency, additional flexibility would become available under the HEROES Act of 2003 and the U.S. Department of Education would issue supplemental guidance at that time."

Hi,

I have a question related to the reference on page 8 of today's letter when a student does not begin attendance as a result of COVID-19. I've included the paragraph below with highlighted areas.

Federal Student Aid - IFAP: 030520Guidance4interruptionsrelated2CoronavirusCOVID19

Normally institutions, once aware that a student will not begin or has not begun attendance, must notify the loan servicer which results in issuance of a final demand letter to the borrower. However, we have determined that in the case where a student was unable to begin attendance due to a COVID-19-related school closure, the provisions of 34 CFR § 668.21(a)(2)(ii), requiring the institution to notify the servicer of that student's failure to begin attendance, do not apply because the option for the student to begin attendance did not exist. Accordingly, the institution should not notify the servicer that the student did not begin attendance. He or she will be permitted to repay any Direct Loan funds received under the terms of the promissory note. This will also prevent a student from being required to enter repayment within six months of withdrawing if the student withdrew as a result of a Coronavirus-related interruption.

My question is regarding reporting to NSLDS when a student does not begin attendance. Does this exception apply ONLY when the foreign school closes or does it also apply if the home institution cancels the program, even though the foreign institution did not close, prior to the students beginning attendance? An item of clarification-no TIV funds were disbursed.

Thank you for your help and clarification

Hi Melinda,

Thank you so much for reaching out—and thank you for all you are doing during this time to support students experiencing homelessness in Washington. The Department is closely monitoring the impacts of COVID-19, and the Department's leaders are working to issue guidance as quickly as possible. I've attached a recent letter from Patrick Rooney, the Director of the Office of School Support and Accountability, describing the most recent round of guidance released by the Department.

As additional guidance is released it will be uploaded to the Department's COVID-19 website, which is available at www.ed.gov/coronavirus. I've also copied the Department's COVID-19 mailbox to this email; we are trying to route all COVID-19 related questions (and responses) through this mailbox. Please don't hesitate to reach out if we can support you in any way—I will certainly do all that I can to support your work.

Hello Bryan,
As Washington state is basically "ground zero" for the coronavirus, you are probably aware of our state's efforts to promote social distancing, cancel events, and most importantly close schools in our state. Over half of our state's total student population are now out of school. We are getting a lot of questions about our homeless students and how to support them at this time of crisis, including school of origin transportation (when one district is open and the other is in quarantine), how to ensure homeless students have access to online learning, how they can access food, etc.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

I'm wondering if/when the US Department of Education will be issuing guidance/information for hard hit states. We need help… so far I've heard nothing from ED so I was curious if there is a plan to support states with the crisis.

Thanks so much for your help,
Melinda

Secretary DeVos Releases New Resources for Educators, Local Leaders on K-12 Flexibilities, Student Privacy, and Educating Students with

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Disabilities During Coronavirus Outbreak

WASHINGTON – U.S. Secretary of Education Betsy DeVos issued new resources today that will assist education leaders in protecting student privacy and ensuring students with disabilities continue to receive services required under the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) in the event of school closures due to the Coronavirus (COVID-19) outbreak. The Education Department also released important information for K-12 educators on flexibilities the Department could grant when it comes to the accountability standards required by law under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA).

The new guidance on student privacy provides clarity about the requirements of the Federal Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) as it pertains to the COVID-19 outbreak. For example, it advises school officials on working with public health officials to manage COVID-19-related issues while protecting the privacy of students' education records.

In addition, the Department has posted a fact sheet for K-12 schools about their considerations related to assessments and accountability should a school be closed for an extended period. If a school is unable to meet certain benchmarks due to absenteeism or school closure, the Department would consider a targeted one-year waiver so that the participation rate or absenteeism metric would not be factored into the school's Academic Achievement indicator.

In order to ensure that students with disabilities continue to receive the services guaranteed by IDEA and Section 504, the Department has published a Q&A document for state and local educational authorities. This information answers the most common questions schools have about when and how they must provide instruction, including when to consider use of online or virtual instruction and other curriculum-based instructional activities.

"We are working closely with our inter-agency partners to provide state and local leaders the information they need to ensure the health and safety of their students and educators," said Secretary DeVos. "We will continue to work alongside them and provide them the flexibilities they need in order to best support their communities."

This communication is the latest step in the Department's ongoing effort to assist students, teachers, and education leaders as part of the Administration's unprecedented, whole-of-government response to the viral outbreak. It follows the earlier-released guidance to institutions of higher education and a letter on protecting civil rights in schools during this time of heightened concern.

The CDC has issued interim guidance to help K-12 schools and childcare programs plan for and prevent the spread of COVID-19 among students and staff. See Interim Guidance for Administrators of US Childcare Programs and K-12 Schools to Plan, Prepare, and Respond to Coronavirus Disease 2019 available at: https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/community/schools-childcare/guidance-for-schools.html.

Additional guidance will be announced in the coming days and posted at ed.gov/coronavirus.

Department of Education Staff -

Good morning. I just reviewed the guidance provided by the Dept. of ED on combating the COVID-19 virus. The briefing that I'm referring to was provided by IFAP.

https://ifap.ed.gov/electronic-announcements/030520Guidance4interruptionsrelated2CoronavirusCOVID19

Coursera is the leading provider of digital learning provided by leading academic institutions - Duke, Johns Hopkins, Yale, Georgia Tech, Northwestern, Univ. of MI, Univ. of MD, Univ. of VA and 160+ others around the world. 49M learners around the world have developed their skills on our platform, with the assistance of the best educators in the world.

The two policies from your briefing that I'd like to discuss are:

1. Approval to Offer Distance Education
   The Department is providing broad approval to institutions to use online technologies to accommodate students on a temporary basis, without going through the regular approval process of the Department in the event that an institution is otherwise required to seek Departmental approval for the use or expansion of distance learning programs. This flexibility only applies to a program during a payment period that overlaps the date of this electronic announcement or the following payment period. If an institution chooses to continue offering a new program or use distance education in a manner requiring the Department's approval after that point, it must seek approval under the Department's normal process.

2. Institutions may also enter into temporary consortium agreements with other institutions so that students can complete courses at other institutions but be awarded credit by their home institution. In addition, in instances where accrediting agencies require students to complete a final number or percentage of credits in residence at the institution, accrediting agencies may waive that requirement for students impacted by COVID-19 without objection by the Department.

Coursera is committed to assisting the nation during this crisis. We have the content, the scalability and the global past performance to serve as a strategic partner of the Department of Education and its learning leaders around the nation to help mitigate this crisis.

Please advise who I should contact to determine how we can help.

Warm regards,

Institutions may also enter into temporary consortium agreements with other institutions so that students can complete courses at other institutions but be awarded credit by their home institution. In addition, in instances where accrediting agencies require students to complete a final number or percentage of credits in residence at the institution, accrediting agencies may waive that requirement for students impacted by COVID-19 without objection by the Department.

Department of Education Staff -

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Good morning. I just reviewed the guidance provided by the Dept. of ED on combating the COVID-19 virus. The briefing that I'm referring to was provided by IFAP.

https://ifap.ed.gov/electronic-announcements/030520Guidance4interruptionsrelated2CoronavirusCOVID19

Coursera is the leading provider of digital learning provided by leading academic institutions - Duke, Johns Hopkins, Yale, Georgia Tech, Northwestern, Univ. of MI, Univ. of MD, Univ. of VA and 160+ others around the world. 49M learners around the world have developed their skills on our platform, with the assistance of the best educators in the world.

The two policies from your briefing that I'd like to discuss are:

1. Approval to Offer Distance Education
   The Department is providing broad approval to institutions to use online technologies to accommodate students on a temporary basis, without going through the regular approval process of the Department in the event that an institution is otherwise required to seek Departmental approval for the use or expansion of distance learning programs. This flexibility only applies to a program during a payment period that overlaps the date of this electronic announcement or the following payment period. If an institution chooses to continue offering a new program or use distance education in a manner requiring the Department's approval after that point, it must seek approval under the Department's normal process.
2. Institutions may also enter into temporary consortium agreements with other institutions so that students can complete courses at other institutions but be awarded credit by their home institution. In addition, in instances where accrediting agencies require students to complete a final number or percentage of credits in residence at the institution, accrediting agencies may waive that requirement for students impacted by COVID-19 without objection by the Department.

Subject: Coronavirus IFAP Notification Questions

Good afternoon,

In lieu of the current situation with the Coronavirus, American Medical Academy is looking at options to continue education while maintaining the safety of our students/ faculty/ staff and our community. After reading the publications posted on Ifap, we have a few questions and hope you can clarify for us.

1. What are the steps we need to take to receive approval for temporary online teaching for currently enrolled students attending a clock hour program?
2. Students attending clock hour programs must also complete externships outside the school. Unfortunately, these externships done at the hospitals or city rescue have been temporarily suspended by our affiliates in order to protect Patients/EMS personnel/Students. This portion of the program will have to continue after the restrictions are lifted. How will this affect the student's SAP? Should we re-do students' schedules to not reflect these hours and add them once the restrictions are lifted?

3. In the event a student is currently enrolled and attending the school and on the verge of starting a new semester/payment period, how will this affect the ability of getting disbursed?

Thank you in advance for all your help in this matter.

Best Regards,

Hi All: I am wondering if your agencies will be taking any action relating to the coronavirus in following areas. Note that the context for this is not single audits (I've already been in touch with Gil on that front), but rather audit requirements for for-profit entities. Not sure if you are right people to ask....please forward if not.

Extending audit deadlines. We have begun hearing from members in certain parts of the country that are being challenged in performing/completing their audits. For example, some audit clients are now closed in parts of the country. Local governments in the Pacific Northwest are suggesting people stay home from work in entire areas. Some clients require air travel by the audit firm and some audit team members are reluctant to go. While 3/31 is the most immediate deadline, I think deadline flexibility considerations may need to go beyond that. Are any of your agencies considering extending audit deadlines, even if based on certain criteria?

Relaxing compliance requirements. Just today we became aware that Education issued guidance at the link below providing guidance to Institutions on certain requirements relating to SFA. I've already got a question into Gil about how the 2020 Supplement will address these types of things for 2020 single audits. Are you aware of any similar types of efforts that would affect the audits performed under your federal audit guides/regulations? This aspect isn't as immediate as the question on audit deadlines above, but will eventually need to be addressed from an audit perspective.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Please let me know. I just want to stay in the loop and be able to communicate to the auditor community the latest developments on this as the concerns seem to be growing with each day.

Thanks.

Hi there—

I'm Ashley Fetters, a reporter for The Atlantic. I write about kids and education, and I'm working on a story about how schools are dealing with and/or preparing for the spread of COVID-19. (Liz, cc'ing you on the recommendation of my terrific colleague Adam Harris.)

My coauthor and I are hoping to gain some insight as to what prolonged school closures would look like in the United States, and of course we want to include as much direct information from the Department of Education as we can. I've looked over some of the materials on the COVID-19 section of the ed.gov website, and I have a couple of quick additional questions — so I'm writing in hopes that someone from the Department of Education might be able to shed some light. Here's what I'm wondering:

- I've read about some schools considering adding extra time to the school day for students to periodically wash their hands. Does the Education Department have any specific stance or policy on this measure?
- Kids in Hong Kong have been home for several weeks now and are facing the question of how to make up for the weeks of school the students have now missed. Has the Department of Education released any guidelines, or are there any existing policies, regarding how schools should make up for days lost to school closure? (i.e., at what point should days be added onto the end of the year?)
- What is the Department of Education's stance on e-learning/online lessons? Under what circumstances, if any, would the Department advise school administrators to implement it?
- If school closures continue later into the spring, is there a federal-level plan in place for how to handle standardized testing, or college-entrance exams like the SAT and ACT?
- Are there any other contingency plans that are in the works or yet to be announced that I should look out for?

I'm hoping to file my story by the end of the day on Thursday, so let me know if there's someone who can help me learn a little more about this. Short turnaround, I know—and I apologize, as I know this must be an unbelievably busy time!—so I'm happy to hop on the phone, too, if that's easier. Thank you, talk soon,

Subject: couple of questions for an Atlantic story

Hi there—

I'm Ashley Fetters, a reporter for The Atlantic. I write about kids and education, and I'm working on a story about how schools are dealing with and/or preparing for the spread of COVID-19. (Liz, cc'ing you on the recommendation of my terrific colleague Adam Harris.)

My coauthor and I are hoping to gain some insight as to what prolonged school closures would look like in the United States, and of course we want to include as much direct information from the Department of Education as we can. I've looked over some of the materials on the COVID-19 section of the ed.gov website, and I have a couple of quick additional questions — so I'm writing in hopes that someone from the Department of Education might be able to shed some light. Here's what I'm wondering:

- I've read about some schools considering adding extra time to the school day for students to periodically wash their hands. Does the Education Department have any specific stance or policy on this measure?
- Kids in Hong Kong have been home for several weeks now and are facing the question of how to make up for the weeks of school the students have now missed. Has the Department of Education released any guidelines, or are there any existing policies, regarding how schools should make up for days lost to school closure? (i.e., at what point should days be added onto the end of the year?)

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- What is the Department of Education's stance on e-learning/online lessons? Under what circumstances, if any, would the Department advise school administrators to implement it?
- If school closures continue later into the spring, is there a federal-level plan in place for how to handle standardized testing, or college-entrance exams like the SAT and ACT?
- Are there any other contingency plans that are in the works or yet to be announced that I should look out for?

I'm hoping to file my story by the end of the day on Thursday, so let me know if there's someone who can help me learn a little more about this. Short turnaround, I know—and I apologize, as I know this must be an unbelievably busy time!—so I'm happy to hop on the phone, too, if that's easier. Thank you, talk soon,

Ashley

To whom it may concern,

I am a 2nd year student from Cincinnati, Ohio attending Tennessee State University, which has just cancelled its in-person meetings indefinitely. This is obviously a major transition to moving all credit hours online & removes the necessity of being on campus. With all the confusion and chaos going on due to the COVID-19, a lot of parents are sending for their children or the student is choosing to evacuate themselves due to the risk of contamination, the lack of supplies due to public panic and lack of required stay. I was listening to a broadcast called "Full Force" and heard about the government offering students who receive Financial Aid additional monetary assistance in order to travel home/make alternative housing arrangements so I wished to see how true those statements were.

Best regards,

Hi Todd –

I hope this email finds you well!

I do not think this questions is for you but hoping you can point us in the right direction. Is Department of Ed tracking school closures due to COVID19? If so, is this type of data something you can share with us?

Thanks so much!

Maggie

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Greetings,

We have a student who received Title IV funds to study abroad at a foreign institution in Florence, Italy. Unfortunately and due to Coronavirus, the institution has temporarily closed and the student is on her way back to the U.S.

The foreign institution is making arrangements for the student to complete her coursework for the term online. It is the foreign institution (and not the home institution) that will be providing the instruction.

Whereas we understand that students are not permitted to receive Title IV funds for online instruction from foreign schools, does this also mean that we need to perform a R2T4 calculation for the student because she is no longer enrolled in Title IV eligible coursework? Her aid was already fully disbursed for the term, and we are unclear as to if a R2T4 calculation is required only because the method of instruction changed for a student who is still enrolled.

Again, she is still enrolled in the same courses upon which her Title IV disbursement was based. The method of instruction has just changed mid-way through the term due to this special circumstance. Assuming the student completes her coursework, she will still be receiving academic credit through her home institution.

I appreciate any clarity you can provide.

Cynthia

Subject: Fwd: recent update

With the recent guidance related to federal aid and coronavirus., I have a question regarding this situation.

We received this update for one of our students who is suppose to leave in a week. With coronavirus, IES is offering students the options to defer or withdraw for a program in Tokyo.

So, technically this student is able to attend but it sounds like there are many people who are encouraging the student not attend. It is now too late to enroll in spring semester on campus. Does this student lose her grace period and go into repayment the same way a student who just doesn't return for spring semester?

Normally institutions, once aware that a student will not begin or has not begun attendance, must notify the loan servicer which results in issuance of a final demand letter to the borrower. However, we have determined that in the case where a student was unable to begin attendance due to a COVID-19-related school closure, the provisions of 34 CFR § 668.21(a)(2)(ii), requiring the institution to notify the servicer of that student's failure to begin attendance, do not apply because the option for the student to begin attendance did not exist. Accordingly, the institution should not notify the servicer that the student did not begin attendance. He or she will be permitted to repay any Direct Loan funds received under the terms of the promissory note. This will also prevent a student from being required to enter repayment within six months of withdrawing if the student withdrew as a result of a Coronavirus-related interruption.

Subject: Reimbursing Spending for Interrupted Professional Development

Good Morning,

A number of Vermont LEAs have reached out with this type of question: they have spent local funds on plane tickets, registration fees, etc., for Professional Development events that were approved in their Title applications. Due to COVID-19 concerns, they have either elected not to take the trips or to attend the events, or in some case the events have simply been cancelled.

Our understanding is that we cannot reimburse with federal funds for activities that didn't end up happening—for example a flight that wasn't taken or a conference that wasn't attended—which leaves our LEAs, some of which can't afford to cover the costs ultimately with local funds, in a tough spot.

I guess I have two questions. First, is our understanding of the rules correct; that we can not reimburse for a purchased plane ticket or a conference registration with Title funds if attendance doesn't actually happen? Second, if this is the case, can the DOE provide some flexibility around this restriction in light of the circumstances?

Appreciatively,

Janelle and Amanda will work on drafting a note that can go out to grantees today and send that to you, with the list of registrants, as soon as possible.

As you know, we hosted a virtual meeting for our Title IV-A State Coordinators in September that was successful in many ways – and also had some useful lessons learned that we can apply here.

Can we plan to discuss next steps on planning the virtual meeting during our management call with you tomorrow at 3 p.m.? We will have other team members on the line to join in the conversation.

Thank you!

Dear Bronwyn, Janelle, Alison, and Amanda,

I have bittersweet news. We have been directed to cancel our in-person meeting and host it instead virtually.

Would you please send me a list of those who have already registered? And, please draft a note to all the grantees to plan on it being virtually.

As we have discussed, many of our grantees are also managing the virus for their state. We can discuss how we approach this. Perhaps we spread it out over 4 days. Perhaps no; we may lose folks that way. We can plan a time to discuss tomorrow.

Dear Mrs. (b)(6)

Thank you for contacting the U.S. Department of Education (Department) regarding travel advisories and COVID-19 ("Coronavirus").

Please note that the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) has posted guidance at https://wwwnc.cdc.gov/travel/notices/warning/coronavirus-italy for travelers that have spent time in Italy during the past 14 days. This guidance recommends the following:

- Stay home for 14 days from the time you left Italy and practice social distancing.
- If you get sick with fever, cough, or have trouble breathing seek medical care and call ahead before you go to a doctor's office or emergency room.
- Do not travel while sick.
- Cover your mouth and nose with a tissue or your sleeve (not your hands) when coughing or sneezing.
- Clean your hands often by washing them with soap and water for at least 20 seconds or using an alcohol-based hand sanitizer that contains at least 60%–95% alcohol immediately after coughing, sneezing or blowing your nose. Soap and water should be used if hands are visibly dirty.

Regarding your question related to additional family isolation, we recommend that you contact the Polk County Department of Health Communicable Disease Team at (515) 286-3890 for further guidance. The Iowa Department of Public Health has also posted information on COVID-19, which you can access at https://idph.iowa.gov/Emerging-Health-Issues/Novel-Coronavirus. Before you determine whether you must self-isolate, you should review the guidance put forth by the Iowa Department of Public Health (IDPH) and determine the degree to which you can implement it. For example, IDPH recommends your son can stay in a specific room and use a separate bathroom. https://idph.iowa.gov/Portals/1/userfiles/7/Instructions%20for%20Self-Isolation3_4__20update_1.pdf .

CDC offers the most up-to-date information on COVID-19 and how students and families can protect themselves. For further information, please visit www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-nCoV. The Department has also established a "COVID-19 Information and Resources for Schools and School Personnel" webpage, available at www.ed.gov/coronavirus, to support schools and communities as they plan, prepare and potentially respond to possible cases of COVID-19. The Department will regularly update this webpage as more information and guidance become available.

Thank you for sharing your concerns with us. We invite you to send questions on which the Department can be helpful to the following email address: COVID-19@ed.gov.

Dear Marybeth,

Thank you for contacting the U.S. Department of Education (Department) regarding travel advisories and COVID-19 ("Coronavirus").

Please note that current Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) guidance for schools states that "schools may need to postpone or cancel trips that could expose students and staff to potential community spread of COVID-19." CDC has also developed an FAQ document for travelers which includes questions related to students who plan to travel, or have traveled recently, to areas affected by COVID-19, which you may find helpful. Please visit https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/travelers/faqs.html for further information.

The New York Department of Health (NYDH) has issued similar recommendations for schools, which can be found at https://www.health.ny.gov/diseases/communicable/coronavirus under the tab "Child Care Providers and Schools." Specific guidance for student travel is described in the presentation "Update on COVID-19 for New York State Schools (Pre-K – 12) March 3, 2020." In this presentation, NYDH states the following:

- Recommend suspending school sponsored travel programs for all students and staff in currently impacted countries (China, Iran, Italy, Japan, and South Korea).
- Develop plans to suspend programs in all other countries, regardless of whether they are currently impacted by CDC travel alerts.
- Students and faculty returning from currently impacted countries or regions of impacted countries will be required to be quarantined for 14 days upon return.
- Includes school sponsored travel or individual travel (Spring break)

CDC offers the most up-to-date information on COVID-19 to help schools, students and families understand COVID-19, along with steps they can take to protect themselves. For further information, please visit www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-nCoV.

Dear NAME:

Thank you for your letter to Secretary DeVos at the U.S. Department of Education (Department) concerning the coronavirus and its considerations for school. Your letter was referred to the Office of Safe and Supportive Schools (OSSS) for review, and I am pleased to respond.

The Department created the "COVID-19 ("Coronavirus") Information and Resources for Schools and School Personnel," Web page, accessible at https://www.ed.gov/coronavirus?src=feature, to support school communities as they plan, prepare and potentially respond to possible cases of COVID-19 in their community. School officials, their community and their partners can go to the Department's "Coronavirus" to find links to the most up-to-date information from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) as well as a link to the Department's Readiness and Emergency Management for Schools (REMS) Technical Assistance (TA) Center accessible at https://rems.ed.gov/Resources_Hazards_Threats_Biological_Hazards.aspx.As with any disease that has the potential to affect our school communities, the CDC will provide information about the signs, symptoms, and severity of the virus, as well as the proper steps to help prevent its spread.

As for documentation describing travel recommendations, the CDC guidance for schools states, "Schools may need to postpone or cancel trips that could expose students and staff to potential community spread of COVID-19." As for foreign travel, CDC puts forth recommendations to "consider postponing or canceling upcoming student foreign exchange programs. IHE should consider asking current program participants to return to their home country." This is in its "Guidance for Student Foreign Travel for Institutions of Higher Education," accessible at https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/community/student-foreign-travel.html.Although written to IHE audience, the topic could be applied when creating policies and procedures to help protect K-12 schools.

The New York Department of Health (NYDH) puts forth similar recommendations in its briefing titled, Update on COVID-19 for New York State Schools (Pre-K – 12) (March 3, 2020) (PDF) which is accessible at https://www.health.ny.gov/diseases/communicable/coronavirus/docs/2020-03-02_k-12_webinar.pdf. On slide 19 of its presentation, NYDH states the following:

You may have heard that President Trump just announced he will suspended all travel from the Europe to the US for 30 days starting Friday.

Just for future information, CDC did publish guidance for Institutes of Higher Education that encouraged them consider to postponing or cancelling upcoming international student travel (That guidance can be found here: https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/community/student-foreign-travel.html).

I'm sorry your students will miss out on a trip I'm sure they were looking forward to. Please let us know if you have any other questions.

Hello Jubal,

Forgive me, I misunderstood the news coming out last night. It sounds like American citizens will be exempt from the travel restrictions from Europe. My only other consideration would be to add that this is a rapidly evolving situation and it is possible that travel rules or quarantine recommendations may be changed over the course of the next week that could have implications for your students' return.

I understand this is a difficult decision. Please let us know if there is anything else we can do to assist.

Hi Jubal,

You may have heard that President Trump just announced he will suspended all travel from the Europe to the US for 30 days starting Friday.

Just for future information, CDC did publish guidance for Institutes of Higher Education that encouraged them consider to postponing or cancelling upcoming international student travel (That guidance can be found here: https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/community/student-foreign-travel.html).

I'm sorry your students will miss out on a trip I'm sure they were looking forward to. Please let us know if you have any other questions.

Subject: RE: Prepare for School Closures?

Dear Ms (b)(6)

Thank you for contacting the U.S. Department of Education (Department) regarding travel advisories and COVID-19 ("Coronavirus").

While there is currently no vaccine to prevent COVID-19, health officials are currently taking steps to prevent the introduction and spread of this respiratory disease. Schools can play an important role in this effort.

Through collaboration and coordination with local health authorities and other agencies, schools can disseminate important information about this disease and its potential transmission. Schools can also prepare to take additional steps to prevent the spread of COVID-19, should State and local health officials identify such a need.

The Department recommends that schools continue to promote everyday disease prevention strategies:

- If you are sick, stay home from school.
- Avoid close contact with those who are already sick.
- Cover your nose and mouth when coughing or sneezing with a tissue or the crook of your arm.
- Wash your hands often with soap and water.
- Avoid touching eyes, nose, or mouth.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) offers the most up-to-date information on COVID-19. Schools can share relevant CDC fact sheets to help students, families, and staff understand COVID-19, along with steps they can take to protect themselves. For further information, please visit www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-nCoV.

In addition, the Department has established a "COVID-19 Information and Resources for Schools and School Personnel" webpage, available at www.ed.gov/coronavirus, to support schools and communities as they plan, prepare and potentially respond to possible cases of COVID-19. The Department will regularly update this webpage as more information and guidance becomes available.

Each state and/or local school district is providing their own process for the handling of continuity of learning should there be a disruption due to COVID-19. You will want to contact your local school district's office to learn of their plan for addressing a potential disruption.

Thanks again for writing and sharing your concerns about continuity of learning during a health event.

Hello,
My name is (b)(6) and I am an educator in Massachusetts in my 14th year of teaching. I teach grade 7 and 8 STEM. In light of mass school closures in other countries, I was wonder if USA teachers should prepare 10 days ( two school weeks) of lessons for our students to be able to do from home? If so now, before a quarantine or widespread educator illness seems like a good idea. This would insure our students continue to remain successful. It would also give them a psychological "boost" to have the normalcy of schoolwork.

Professional Judgement
*Financial aid administrators (FAA) have statutory authority to use professional judgement to make adjustments on a case-by-case basis to the cost of attendance or to the data elements used in calculating the EFC to reflect a student's special circumstances. The use of professional judgement where students and/or their families have been affected by COVID-19 is permitted, such as in the case where an employer closes for a period of time as a result of COVID-19. In making professional judgement determinations, FAAs must obtain documentation and retain it in each student's file. This documentation must substantiate the reason for any adjustment. Hello,

Would the Dept. of Education consider recommending that schools start on a delayed morning time schedule? Many schools already have delayed morning start schedules built into their framework for weather delays/emergencies.

What this would do would be to allow students, especially high school students, to get more sleep and make sure their immune systems are healthy and strong. This could help limit the spread of the virus by preventing symptoms from emerging in the first place. Teenagers are known to have trouble falling asleep much before 11 pm, yet many schools start before 8 am.

The American Pediatric Association recommends high school start no earlier than 8:30 am under normal circumstances. It seems that with Covid-19 looming, it might make sense to shorten the school day for this reason by delaying school starts. As it is, in many communities like my own in Montgomery County Maryland, teenagers often get 5-7 hours of sleep only. That is not enough to stay healthy for staving off infection. Our community's delayed start schedule begin at 9:45 am, with school ending at the usual time. This would allow teenagers to get much more sleep. It sounds silly, but it might be a way to reduce the spread of Covid once it gets into communities....and I think it already has.

Thank you,

Importance: High

As a special COVID-19 related accommodation, in the event a term-based school must temporarily close for COVID isolation after a semester has begun, without alternative education delivery modality either available or permitted, may the school treat the period of closure as an institutionally scheduled break? This seems like a reasonable solution that would apply to all students at the campus, particularly as the effect on students who do not return as scheduled would essentially be the same that for students who seek and secure either an LOA or provide written intent to return – that is, they would still be subject to withdrawal if they fail to return, and the days spent in the break (which would undoubtedly last longer than 5 consecutive days), LOA or absence with intent to return would all be treated in the same manner in an R2T4.

Allowing for an emergency-oriented institutional scheduled break would avert the burden to thousands of students of the need to submit LOA requests or written intent to return, especially during a time of stress and uncertainty, and relieve staff of an overwhelming volume of leave requests and withdrawals, only to undo the vast majority of those R2T4s.

I wanted to ask why high schools, middle schools, and elementary schools are not extending their spring break by one week like the colleges are? I know students and their families have traveled during this spring break, and I also have been told it might take days before symptoms of the virus becomes evident. Why would you not also extend spring break by one week for these children to give everyone a chance to be home and wait to see if anyone has been infected? It makes no since. I know from personal experience parents will send students to school even if they aren't feeling well, because parents need to go to work. If school isn't open, they will have to keep their children home. Why would you take the chance on this virus with our children and teachers?

Good Afternoon,

I am reaching out as the current information does not address my concerns in enough detail to competently advise those making decisions on remaining open. Below I will detail our situation and will list the questions I have regarding the possible decision.

- We have 2 semesters of approximately 15 weeks in length.
- 4 year private not for profit institution
- Fall 9/3/19 – 12/13/19 Winter 1/6/20 – 4/17/20 break 2/24/20 – 2/28/20

Currently there is talk of ending the winter semester early. We would then not re-open until fall. There would be no on-line continuation of classes. I see the guidance about seeking approval for a shortened semester. When I refer to 34 CFR § 668.3 is indicates shortened would be 26 to 29 weeks. We would be looking at a much shorter period than this.

1. How would this effect out enrollment status reporting to NSLDS?
2. Would this require R2T4 calculations for every student receiving federal aid?
3. We still have families that may apply for plus loans for the current year so my understanding is if they apply after a closure we would not be able to process these loans. Is this correct?
4. Would our situation qualify for an approval of a shortened academic year? If it does would we need to update anything for the students?

Thank You
Michelle McNier

Dear Department,

I write on behalf of the University to seek advice from the US Department of Education.
La Trobe University is closely monitoring the Covid-19 situation here with our Critical Incident Management team. We continue to communicate with our students via our internal communication channels.

At present, it is 'business as usual', but as the situation is dynamic and changing rapidly. We continue to plan for various scenarios. Our University community is our top priority, and we are pleased that Semester 1 has commenced and is in full swing.

I write to seek advice in the case of the campus closure. Giving the COVID-19 situation is beyond anyone's control, a campus may need to temporarily stop offering ground-based classes to prevent the spread of COVID-19.

Refer to https://ifap.ed.gov/electronic-announcements/030520Guidance4interruptionsrelated2CoronavirusCOVID19, our questions are:

1. Students who are currently enrolled in ground-based programs at the campus will need to participate in distance education for a period of time and then resume ground-based attendance when the campus reopens. Being a foreign school, do we need further approval in addition to a broad approval provided by the Department? This related to the legislative compliance with Title IV requirements.
2. In the event where all enrolled subjects are not offered online, can you please provide guidance on any action required from the Foreign School?
    a. What happens if students enrolment falls below half-time? Will they still be considered entitled to the amount disbursed?
    b. Would this require a reassessment of their eligibility and entitlement?
    c. Would it involve returning Title IV funds considering the exceptional circumstances are beyond their control?
    d. Would it be the Department's preferred option that students take a leave of absence if their enrolment falls below half-time? +

I look forward to receiving guidance from you shortly.

Subject: Seeking clarification on Study Abroad

Good morning,
I wanted to get clarification on the recent guidance as it pertain to Study Abroad students. For our student aboard students who are attending host schools, where the institution has an agreement, are the students able to take advantage of distance learning opportunities provided by the host institution and receive Title IV? In reading the section on foreign institution below it appears No.

Foreign Schools
We cannot extend flexibility regarding the use of distance learning to foreign schools since the Higher Education Act does not permit foreign schools to provide distance learning to U.S. students who participate in Title IV, HEA programs. We continue to consider if there are any other flexibilities we could extend to foreign schools that temporarily close due to COVID-19.

Thanks,
Jennifer Beck

Greetings,

We are hoping to get some guidance on what type of documentation would be ADA and FERPA compliant in terms of students that may be impacted by COVID 19. Situations that we may need to document at WGU include the following:

- Students that may themselves have contracted the virus
- Students that have increased work hours in hospitals in order to meet national needs
- Students that are not able to complete Clinical Experience due to COVID
- Students who are having to care for members of their family due to COVID including childcare, elderly care etc.

As we prepare to support our students we are balancing the need to justify term extensions and accommodations, while also ensuring student privacy.

Thanks for any guidance you can provide.

Good Afternoon,

How should we handle financial aid for students are currently doing their student teaching and the school they are performing their student teaching closes due to Coronavirus? Also how do we handle room and board charges for students should we decide to close prior to the 60% rate of completion date which is March 26th. Even though we close, we will continue to teach all students via some type of technology? Would we have to prorate those charges? These answers are needed immediately as we try to plan for what actions we may take due to Coronavirus. Thank you!

The word closed is used mad the university is closed but falls under the following distinction.

A campus that will temporarily stop offering ground-based classes in order to prevent the spread of COVID-19.

Or no, the entire campus must be closed, including to staff, before the guidance in the March 5, 2020 letter is followed?

Dear Colleagues,

Our campus leaders announced this afternoon that we would suspend in-classroom course delivery and that class would be delivered through distance education.

If there is a decision to return a portion of room & board charged to our on-campus students because they will not be here, are we required to reduce that portion of their COA and therefore adjust their aid. Could relief be provided to schools since this likely effects many students at many schools?

I appreciate your consideration and guidance so that I may advise our leadership team about the administrative responsibility.

Subject: requesting additional guidance

We are asking for additional guidance on a particular issue, specifically, if a school needs to temporarily shut down* due to the Corona Virus. How will the school meet the 14-day requirement of issuing credit balances via physical checks?

Although we do offer to the student and parents the direct deposit and other electronic means of issuing credit balances, there are students/parents that choose not to enroll in the electronic means. A complete shutdown of a campus would mean that we would not be able to issue the physical credit balance check timely. Has FSA considered options for schools that are in this situation?

One possible solution would be to make it mandatory for student/parents to sign up for an electronic means of receiving the credit balance. However, if a student/parent continues to ignore the request what guidance can be provided?

*Please note that a shutdown would mean no person on campus but that does not mean that education would be halted.

Volume 4—Processing Aid and Managing FSA Funds, 2019–2020, pp 4-53

A school that is paying a student his or her credit balance with a direct disbursement must pay the student within the 14-day time frame. A school can, within that 14-day period, do a number of things, including sending a notice to the student that his or her money is available. A school that does that is considered to have met the 14-day requirement to give the student his or her credit balance, as long as the school's process complies with the rest of the regulation. That is, the school must be able to give the student a check when the student comes to the office within the 14-day time frame. If a student is told (within the 14-day period) to come to the business office to pick up his or her credit balance, the student must be able to leave the business office with the funds in some form (e.g., a check, cash, or an appropriate stored-value card), and not be told that a check will be mailed to him or her. A school may hold the check for up to 21 days after the date it notifies the student. If the student does not pick up the check within this 21-day period, the institution must immediately mail the check to the student or parent, initiate an EFT to the student's or parent's bank account, or return the funds to the appropriate FSA program.

Agnes

Subject: Requesting guidance

Good evening,

As institutions are determining whether the need to close temporarily due to COVID-19 is necessary, we are seeking guidance regarding submission of the Statement of Educational Purpose, proof of U.S. Citizenship and proof of immigration status for eligible noncitizen students who are currently attending or planning to attend the College and need to complete the financial aid process.

Statement of Educational Purpose

The FSA handbook states

"A student who is unable to appear at your school must go to a notary public and sign the statement of educational purpose. He must then submit to your office that statement (again, with the "wet" signature), a certification from the notary that he appeared before her and presented a government issued photo ID confirming his identity, and a copy of the same ID."

Question: If an institution temporarily closes due to COVID-19, would students be able to upload the Statement of Educational Purpose, a copy of their ID and the notary certification via the institutions secure website or would the student have to mail in the documents? If not, what should institutions do to help facilitate the process for students while they are closed?

Proof of U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Documents for Eligible Noncitizens

DCL GEN 15-08 states

"Accepting Photocopies or Other Images

Consistent with the guidance that reproduction of these documents is lawful if it is for the limited purpose of applying for Title IV, HEA student financial assistance, an institution may provide additional guidance, as it deems appropriate, on how (e.g. time, place, and media) a student should submit photocopies or other images of his or her immigration or citizenship documentation. If the institution chooses to allow a student to submit a hard copy or electronic image of an original document, the institution should have a process in place to ensure that a student is submitting an exact copy, such as an affidavit. We are providing a sample copy of an affidavit with this letter that schools may choose to use for this purpose.

The institution must maintain, in the student's financial aid file, copies of the documentation provided by the student, including any affidavit, and, for eligible noncitizens, the completed DHS-USCIS Form G-845."

Question: Would institutions follow this guidance and request that students submit an affidavit with certification from a notary to be able to upload copies of their citizenship or immigration documents, via the institutions secured website, when the institution is temporarily closed due to COVID-19? If not, what should institutions do to help facilitate the process for students while they are closed?
