Subject: TEA GUIDELINES IN OPPOSITION OF DOE GUIDELINES

Please see the attached file. I am so very concerned that I ethically don't believe in using standardized assessments in a very non-standardized way. For example, there are no reliable and valid cognitive and achievement assessments that are designed to be administered online/remotely. I have looked, asked peers and colleagues, and unfortunately, there are no evidence-based alternatives at this time. From what I understand, it will take an act of Congress to dismiss FIIE timelines for this brief period of time. Please consider the recommendations of the Texas Association of School Psychologists. California has already recognized this dilemma and provided guidance on delaying face-to-face testing until I'm person education can be resumed.

Thank you so much for all of your hard work during this incredibly complicated time.

Subject: Texas Education Agency Timeline Concerns from a Texas LSSP

Dear Mr. Jones:

I humbly write in the middle of a time period that can only be described as unimaginable. I will keep this as brief as possible. I currently work as a Licensed Specialist in School Psychology at Texarkana Independent School District in Texarkana, Texas. The Texas Education Agency (TEA) recently updated special education guidelines amid school closures for COVID-19. I completely understand and agree with the mandates that we continue to conduct annual IEP meetings, evaluation review meetings, and related services the best we can in a virtual format. However, TEA states that assessment personnel must continue to honor the 45 day timeline for initial evaluations and other timelines set for reevaluations if the school is providing any type of instruction for students. I cannot even wrap my mind around this mandate. As an LSSP, this mandate violates my code of ethics and compromises the safety of myself, my family, our students, and their families.

- The CDC, local and state governments, and the federal government have mandated school and business closures. The CDC has reported no more than 10 people should gather. Some cities are beginning to shelter in place.

- I am one LSSP in a district of 7000 students (1:7000). I am the only person in my district responsible for completing psychological evaluations to determine if a student has an emotional disturbance. I currently have to complete 21 Full and Individual Initial Evaluations including formal assessment of cognitive ability, academic achievement, emotional and behavioral functioning, adaptive behavior skills, and in 3 cases formal assessment to determine if autism is present. I already had to complete these with only 40 days left in our school calendar. Now, I am told I have to still complete these while the students are not present. Also, previously scheduled referral meetings will add to the number of evaluations requested/required. I also must meet this challenge while assisting my own children with their daily instruction/academic assignments.

- In order to accomplish this, I will either have to complete these evaluations using ONLY informal data based on school records recorded up to the date the student was last at school - which does not by law constitute an appropriate evaluation. Or, I will have to expose that student (and the family that will be required to bring them for face to face assessment) to myself in order to gain required data needed for an appropriate evaluation. This then leads to my own exposure, my family's exposure, etc. etc.

- In order to identify a child with an emotional disturbance, I have to prove that the child has:
(A) An inability to learn that cannot be explained by intellectual, sensory, or health factors.
(B) An inability to build or maintain satisfactory interpersonal relationships with peers and teachers.
(C) Inappropriate types of behavior or feelings under normal circumstances.
(D) A general pervasive mood of unhappiness or depression.
(E) A tendency to develop physical symptoms or fears associated with personal or school problems.

- TEA states:

I urge you, please provide our state agencies with further guidance. It is unethical to determine a child has an emotional disturbance at this time because these children are now under anything but normal circumstances and are likely to be experiencing heightened emotional distress, just as you and I are. These are unprecedented circumstances. My focus should be on providing any support I can, continuing counseling services, and assisting families with basic needs. I do not need to be focusing on identifying disabilities, primarily a disability that is associated only with the impact of mental health on school performance. It is also highly likely that inappropriate decisions will be made by all assessment personnel (educational diagnosticians, speech pathologists, occupational therapists, physical therapists, etc.) based on invalid, unreliable, or just a lack of data. Please, please, help us continue to honor the ethics of our profession and to meet the needs of our students in the most effective ways. I can confidently speak for my colleagues as a whole. We love our students. We love our profession. We will always do what is right by kids.

Sincerely,
Sara Estes

Subject: Texas Special Education Evaluations and COVID-19

Good Afternoon,

My name is Christy Lindahl and I am an evaluator for Texas public schools in the state of Texas.

We are facing unprecedented times with the COVID-19 pandemic. As such our districts have had to turn to distance learning to continue providing instructional time to our

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Texas students. As such, because "school has resumed" through "virtual classrooms," Texas evaluators are being forced to continue to evaluate students that have an open consent for a Full and Individual Initial Evaluation or Reevaluation.

While the OCR document suggests that face-to-face evaluations should be discontinued while school is not in session and can resume when school is in session, TEA has put a directive that the timeline continues and the majority of evaluators, in order to obtain valid and reliable data, will be forced to meet face-to-face with the student.

If evaluators consider to do teleconferencing testing, the evaluators may not be properly trained or do not have access to instruments that are designed to be used in that format; therefore, the reliability or the validity of the data obtained will be compromised.

Furthermore, these are unique circumstances that are in fact fear or anxiety inducing, which will lead to issues with the validity of the data obtained. At this time, our families should not be worried about anything, but being together and following the directive to remain at home and reducing social contact.

I am reaching out to you as policy makers and as someone who could potentially advocate for us practitioners in this unprecedented unique situation. We are treading in uncharted waters and ultimately we want to act with an abundance of caution where we will not be hurting the student or our community.

While I understand the parents desire to get answers to their child's academic, behavioral, development, and/or emotional concerns, my hope is that TEA will adopt the recommendation from OCR that "If an evaluation of a student with a disability requires a face-to-face assessment or observation, the evaluation would need to be delayed until school reopens. Evaluations and re-evaluations that do not require face-to-face assessments or observations may take place while schools are closed, so long as a student's parent or legal guardian consents." The state of California has followed this guidance and will not be completing face-to-face evaluations until normal school routines have returned for all students. We ask that Texas adopts similar guidelines during this delicate and uncertain time.

My goal as a practitioner is to consider the best interests of the students and families we serve, while not abandoning their social, emotional, academic, and mental health needs. We have an ethical responsibility to maintain the integrity of our profession and conducting assessments during this pandemic would not be deemed as such.

Sincerely,

Christy Lindahl

Good Morning Christine:

Faatimah Muhammad forwarded your question concerning Title IV-A to the Office of Safe and Supportive Schools, and I'm pleased to respond.

Please note that Title IV-A funds may be used for expenses related to distance learning if the SEA determines it is allowable and consistent with the purposes of at least one of the three content areas (in this case well rounded), and if it is reasonable, necessary and allocable to the grant. Please note that the 15 percent special rule, ESEA Section 4109(b), applies only to the effective use of technology content area and not to well rounded.

At this time, we are not aware of any potential waiver of the 15 percent special rule, however I would recommend regularly checking the Department's webpage for any additional guidance.

If you have any further questions related to Title IV-A, please feel free to contact our office.

Thanks,

Hello and best wishes,

It has been requested that our office provide guidance for school and district leaders to develop short-term and long-term plans during COVID-19 school closure. I would like to know if USDE has any guidance in the following areas regarding Title I programming and plans to describe the following:

- Process for appropriate instruction to ensure accessibility to content, dependent on federal title designation
    - Schoolwide- this is addressed in the school's overall plan as staff funded with Schoolwide funds can serve all students
    - Targeted- this needs to be specifically addressed in how Title I teachers will be providing instruction to identified Title I students
    - Private- districts will need to reach out to private schools and include in their plan how Title I teachers will provide instruction to identified students

Good morning,

Our controller's office has a question and I have not yet found that it has been addressed (if it has been, my apologies):

If we refund a portion of room and board fees that were covered by the application of federal aid, can we apply a credit on a student's account to rollover to a future year (assuming they are returning), or must we refund in cash? I know per our federal policy we would refund in cash within the set amount of business days. However, I want to confirm that this is still the case with the COVID situation.

To whom it may concern,

My name is Tyler and I am currently attending a college abroad, in Poland to be specific. Due to the current situation of the Covid-19 virus, my university is temporarily closed down to prevent the spread to the students and instructors. As a result, my whole program is currently operating through e-learning programs. It's certainly not what we want, but we are doing what we can to keep our lives on track despite the situation. However, as a result of our university being temporarily closed down and learning online, for the time being, the Department of Education is not allowing the disbursement of affected students FASFA loans to be used to pay for school tuition.

I am sure that those of you reading this are already very aware of this situation, however, I would like you to know exactly how this situation is affecting myself and others in the same position. My school has already generously extended the payment for tuition to the end of April, however, I, like many others, will only be able to pay for this tuition if it is covered by our student loans. As a result, if my tuition goes unpaid, I will have to drop out of school and my visa will become void. I have been attending this university for the past two and a half years and am in my final semester before graduation. As you can likely imagine, having to drop out at this point would cause great damage to my life.

To get to the point, I would kindly ask that those of you at the Department of Education take fully into account the situation that the world is in right now and allow for the funds to be used to pay tuition in the case that a school is temporarily closed due to concerns over the virus.

I am already working with my school's financial aid office, other officials at my university, as well as contacts at FASFA and the USDE. I would be more than willing to provide any additional information required to resolve this situation.

Please also see below screenshots from emails between myself and my Financial Aid Administrator, Ewa Stankiewicz, at Jagiellonian University. (ewa.stankiewicz@uj.edu.pl)

Thank you and I look forward to hearing back from you,

REPRESENTING BEAUTY & WELLNESS EDUCATION

SINCE 1924

March 20, 2020

Honorable Betsy DeVos
Secretary
U.S. Department of Education
400 Maryland Avenue, S.W.
Washington, D.C. 20202

Dear Secretary DeVos:

On behalf of the American Association of Cosmetology Schools ("AACS"), we are requesting that the Department of Education provide regulatory flexibility on several pertinent issues that have arisen as a result of COVID-19 interruptions. AACS is a private, non-profit trade association founded in 1924 to represent the interests of state-licensed, accredited institutions of higher education that educate students for occupations in the beauty and wellness industry. Economists are predicting up to 20% unemployment as a result of the impacts of the pandemic on our economy, and individuals will require increased training and re-training to return to the workforce. Our schools are located throughout the United States and a majority participate in the U.S. Department of Education's Title IV programs. Our institutions are predominantly clock hour and lead to state licensed occupations. As our institutions attempt to adapt to the changing educational setting during this difficult time, we request that the Department provides us with additional flexibility on several regulatory areas described below.

1. Enrollment for new students. In the COVID-19 guidance provided by the Department to date, institutions are provided temporary flexibility to implement distance learning solutions for the purposes of educating students in the event of campus interruptions due to COVID-19. However, that guidance is limited to temporary online programming for currently enrolled students only. The guidance does not address the situation of clock hour institutions that do not operate on a traditional academic year calendar and that have either "rolling" starts or periodic start dates throughout the year. These institutions and programs are designed to provide maximum flexibility to adult learners by allowing multiple start dates and alternative scheduling. It is critical that these institutions be provided additional flexibility to continue to enroll and operate as close to normally as possible during the COVID-19 interruption. Accordingly, we are requesting that the Department issue guidance that makes clear that clock hour institutions may continue to enroll new students in temporary online programs with state and accreditor approval. This will allow clock hour schools to avoid existential interruptions and afford students the opportunity to continue their education while minimizing interruption during this period. Clock hour programs are far more vulnerable to the impact of COVID-19 as compared to degree granting programs. Clock hour-based programs are typically meaningfully shorter than degree granting programs with tuition paid only for hours attended. Hence, clock hour programs are more financially at risk. Conversely, clock hour programs are designed to get graduates in the workforce quickly, which is precisely what will be required during a weak economy which will follow in the wake of COVID-19.

2. Learning environment. With regard to the type of learning environment provided by institutions during the COVID-19 interruption, we are requesting that the Department issue clear and detailed guidance that makes clear that both asynchronous and synchronous online learning tools are acceptable for online programs offered by clock hour schools at least on a temporary basis. In an effort to offer our students the ability to follow a set schedule of online classes, our institutions have been working extremely hard, and very successfully, to transition from on ground to online learning and to provide continued quality educational opportunities to our students so that they can continue their studies. We believe that it is necessary to afford clock hour institutions the flexibility to use both synchronous and asynchronous learning, just like traditional institutions have been given, so long as the institution can demonstrate regular and substantive interaction via an asynchronous environment.

3. 90/10 and Composite Scores. Although this is a longer term concern, it needs to be addressed. Many cosmetology schools rely on allowable non-Title IV revenues related to their programs that derive from services offered on the clinic floor. Increasingly, as states implement additional safeguards, they are moving to mandate the temporary closure of all salon and barber related businesses. These services are not offered when a school closes its physical premises and moves to an online delivery model on a temporarily basis. As a result, we would expect that many of our member institutions may encounter issues with 90/10 compliance for the audit year impacted by the COVID-19 interruption. We request that given the circumstances, the Department provide a temporary waiver of the 90/10 requirement for the audit year impacted by the COVID-19 interruption. This will be imperative to the long-term compliance of affected institutions. This also raises more broadly the Department's need to provide a temporary waiver of composite score Title IV consequences due to revenue losses for the audit year impacted by COVID-19. We urge the Department to make clear that it would accept accreditors and states also providing temporary waivers of regulatory consequences tied to financial condition for the impacted year. If schools borrow towards the operation, the financial impact would be significant and if prolonged for a period of time would become extreme. As a result, the treatment of long term debt under the changes to the financial responsibility rules effective July 1, 2020 should be postponed.

4. Elimination of 50% on line distance education rule and relaxed SAP. We are asking the department to allow 100% online programs during the crisis and relaxed Satisfactory Academic Progress standards.

5. Class Size – Online. We request that the Department make clear that the Department has no restrictions on class size for online course enrollments and that it is acceptable for states and accreditors to waive any class size limitations that may apply to programs offered in person while institutions are using online delivery for current and new enrollments. By doing so, our institutions will be able to reach and educate additional students to be prepared to re-enter a recovering economy and without harming the learning environment.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

6. Leave of Absence: If a student does not return from an LOA due to coronavirus circumstances, the last date of attendance should be the date of determination (not the first date of the LOA as the law is written now).

7. Unemployment deferments and forbearances. We seek confirmation of waiver of interest during this pandemic as well as waiver of impacted months in the cumulative limits for deferments and forbearance. We also recommend waiver of an employment search as a requirement for the unemployment deferments during times of pandemic and quarantine.

On behalf of our entire association, we thank you for your consideration of our requests. Your staff may contact Katherine Brodie at Kdbrodie@duanemorris.com or call 202-776-5241 in connection with this request.

Very Truly Yours,

Kathy Chow

I am requesting these waivers because it is not possible to administer assessments required under ESEA section 1111(b)(2) or comply with the concomitant accountability, school identification, and reporting requirements as originally planned due to extensive school closures in the State. These closures are in response to extraordinary circumstances for which a national emergency has been duly declared by the President of the United States under the Robert T. In seeking this waiver, I assure that:

- ☑ Any school that is identified for comprehensive or targeted support and improvement or additional targeted support and improvement in the 2019-2020 school year will maintain that identification status in the 2020-2021 school year and continue to receive supports and interventions consistent with the school's support and improvement plan in the 2020-2021 school year.

- ☑ The State educational agency will provide the public and all LEAs in the State with notice of and the opportunity to comment on this request (e.g., by posting information regarding the waiver request and the process for commenting, on the State website).

Thank you for your consideration.

There's obviously something going on with special education that I don't really understand. I've been hearing this kind of stuff percolate up from educators around the country, but I don't know what is myth and fact. In any regard, I told this Alumni Fellow that I would share her concern with those working on these issues.

I believe the best information for her is the attached if anyone wants to get in touch with her.

Hey Gillian. I hope all is well with you. I know this is a long shot but rural schools need help from ED a result of covid-19? Rural America could use help. Because of sped law and regs, we cannot provide educational services to our reg Ed kids. In districts where maybe only 30% of students have access to internet bc of their location, it is tying our hands to do any good work that we can. Oregon just posted they won't offer any learning bc of the equity issues it could get them in. This is a national crisis and we need relaxed regs to ensure our entire population of students doesn't miss months of instruction bc of laws aimed to protect sped kids. Can u help?

I am trying to see if I can get my tax return instead of it being garnished but Everytime I call and explain my situation to the call center they tell me there is no way for me to receive my tax return unless I am facing foreclosure or eviction right now. Maybe someone else can help me with this?

That school was shut down nationwide for opening fraudulent loans on behalf of the students that's literally exactly what happened to me, I still remember my student advisor that said i was getting grants and I wouldn't have to pay them back.

To Whom It May Concern-

I have a question about study abroad interruptions due to COVID-19. I have reviewed the March 5th Electronic Announcement, 'Guidance for interruptions of study related to COVID-19'.

I understand that students can still receive Title IV aid for interrupted study abroad programs, if the student switches to online instruction provided by the foreign institution and if we have a Consortium/Contractual Agreement set up with the foreign institution. What is the definition of a foreign institution? We have students studying abroad through US based organizations. The students are studying at a foreign school, but the study abroad experience is coordinated through the US organization. We have a Consortium Agreement set up with the US organization, but not with the specific foreign institution that the student attends. Since we do not have a Consortium Agreement set up with the actual foreign school, would we need to do a R2T4 if that student returns to the US? Or would the Consortium Agreement with the US organization suffice?

Thank you-

Texas Association of School Psychologists

Greetings,

I am writing on behalf of the Texas Association of School Psychologists and licensed specialists in school psychology (LSSPs) practicing across the state. In response to the Texas Education Agency's position on evaluation timelines for special education eligibility, we strongly discourage the continuation of assessments during this turbulent time of crisis. With schools now ordered closed until April 3, 2020 and possibly with extensions, virtual instruction is encouraged. Per the current guidance, if instruction is offered by virtual means to all students, the 45 school day evaluation timeline still maintains. As we are preparing for shifts in our comprehensive scope of service delivery, the COVID-19 pandemic presents unique challenges in regards to ethical assessment and decision making practices:

- Many direct services to students can be provided through virtual means; however, direct observation and assessment cannot be administered through means other than face-to-face. A full and individual evaluation, initial or reevaluation, requires direct classroom-based observation of the student in the child's learning environment to document the child's academic performance and behavior in areas of difficulty (34 C.F.R. §300.310(a)).
- In reference to the federal guidelines, assessments and other evaluation materials used to assess a child are used for the purposes for which the assessments or measures are valid and reliable, administered by trained and knowledgeable personnel, and are administered in accordance with any instructions provided by the producer of the assessment (34 C.F.R. §300.304(c)(1)).
- LSSPs are not typically trained or competent in completing evaluations through electronic means. The standardized tests used (i.e. IQ tests, formal achievement tests) are not designed to be administered electronically more or less outside of a school setting during a pandemic crisis. In short, the administration of tests must be given through the means in which they were standardized. Deviations from standardization must be reported and, at times, can invalidate test results, which could potentially impact eligibility determinations.

- If evaluations are to be conducted remotely, they should be conducted through platforms specifically designed for that purpose. At this time, such delivery would also require training beyond the evaluator, but also include training for the student and adult facilitator (likely parent/caregiver) who is assisting the student at home. It is unlikely the appropriate supports can be developed quickly.
- In addition, the unique circumstances pose validity issues which must be addressed when assessments are taking place in a time of anxiety for youth, their families and caregivers, and school personnel. The likelihood of making inappropriate eligibility determinations based on invalid assessment data is high.

With consideration of the ethical implications and irresponsible assessment practices, the Texas Association of School Psychologists strongly recommends upholding the advice provided by the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Civil Rights as follows, "If an evaluation of a student with a disability requires a face-to-face assessment or observation, the evaluation would need to be delayed until school reopens. Evaluations and re-evaluations that do not require face-to-face assessments or observations may take place while schools are closed, so long as a student's parent or legal guardian consents." The state of California has followed this guidance and will not be completing face to face evaluations until normal school routines have returned for all students. We ask that Texas adopt similar guidelines during this delicate and uncertain time. Our goal as school psychologists is to consider the best interests of the students and families we serve, while not abandoning their social, emotional, academic, and mental health needs. We have an ethical responsibility to maintain the highest standard for professional practices in educational and psychological assessment.

Respectfully,

Stephanie Barbre, PhD, LSSP

Subject: U.S. Student Attending a Foreign Institution, Loan Funds Will Not be Disbursed? Urgent Help Needed
Importance: High

Good afternoon,
I hope this email finds you well.
My name is Amanda Nicole Alarcon and I am a U.S. citizen and student. I am currently studying at the Jagiellonian University and I am a participant in the William D. Ford Student Loan program that is currently offered at my foreign institution.
As you may know, the Jagiellonian University's physical operations were temporarily disrupted on 11 March, due to the COVID-19 virus. Until March 25, we conduct classes via distance learning (online). Through the financial aid officer responsible for the disbursement of our funds (Ewa Stankiewicz at the Jagiellonian University), we were told today that our loans would not be disbursed AT ALL this semester, without warning. It was a great shock, as we had previously been informed that once classes physically resumed, we would likely get our disbursement.
Is this information correct? If so, how can it be possible to leave a plethora of US students, who were studying at foreign institutions without the funding and loans that they took out? I would like to note that I attended ALL my classes before the disruptions and I still AM. I am still a full-time student. All of the necessary paperwork was given to my financial aid officers. I maintained a near perfect GPA in my program. I did everything that I needed to do to receive the money.
If this is true, I want to express my utter disbelief and shock, considering that we were to start classes again in person on 25 March. Our semester started BEFORE the operations were impacted, as we began our semester the last week on February (24th of February to be precise). We were even informed that there just may be a delay in the disbursement, when we resumed classes on 25 March.
Secondly, I want to express that I depend on my student loans to pay for my tuition fees and living expenses, when I am here. While I have a small part-time job, it could not cover my tuition fees and my living expenses that I have been stuck with.
What will be my options now? Is there anyway that I can appeal this decision through the Department of Education directly?
As an American student and citizen, I would like to note that I am in Krakow, Poland (where the Jagiellonian University) is currently located. I did NOT return to the United States, as I WILL be attending classes physically when they resume here! What am I expected to do now that the Department of Education has told the Jagiellonian University they cannot disburse my loan funds at all? How can we be left without these funds?
I do apologize if the tone of my email has been rather crass, however this is an extreme stress and burden that makes this time all the more difficult for me. Can the Department of Education not reconsider their policy on US students receiving these funds abroad? Can we not get some exception made?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

I look forward to your response soon.
Best regards,
Amanda Nicole Alarcon

Our institution has moved to an extended spring break beginning March 14,2020 until March 29, 2020. Our on-campus courses are not being held during this extended spring break, however our online courses are still being held. During the NASFAA webinar, it was mentioned that since this break will cause my academic year to be shortened, I would need to request an approval for reduction in length of academic year. I have few questions regarding this guidance.

1.) Do I need to request an approval for reduction in length of Academic year due to this extended spring break?
2.) Will this have an repercussions for the school, or will this negatively affect students Title IV eligibility?
3.) Does my institution need to extend our spring 2020 semester by 1 week, if this will have repercussions?
4.) If my institution decides to extend the semester by 1 week, do I need to request an extension of my academic aid year, since my payment period was originally set to end on May 8th?

Greetings

I have a question related to Verification groups 4 and 5 and the documentation schools are required to collect to verify student identity. I have attached a PDF of the relevant pages from the 2019/2020 FSA Application and Verification Guide.

Presently, a student who is selected for verification group 4 or 5 is required to appear in person at the school and sign ("wet" signature) the statement of educational purpose that certifies who s/he is and that the federal student aid s/he may receive will only be used for educational purposes and for the cost of attending the school for the 2019–2020 year. The student must then submit to the school that statement (again, with the "wet" signature), and present a valid, unexpired, government-issued photo identification (ID) such as a passport or a driver's license or other state-issued ID.

If the student is unable to appear at the school, s/he must go in person to a notary public and sign the statement of educational purpose. The student must then submit to the school that statement (again, with the "wet" signature), a certification from the notary that s/he appeared before the notary and presented a government issued photo ID confirming his/her identity, and a copy of the same ID (presented).

Currently, ED does not does not authorize the use of online notary services as an alternative to traditional, in person notary services.
During the current COVID-19 emergency, will this guidance be revisited to allow an impacted student use an online notary service to complete the documentation required to completed V4 or V5?

Please advise.

- An academic transcript that indicates the student successfully completed at least a two-year program that is acceptable for full credit toward a bachelor's degree at any participating school. You do not have to collect proof of high school status for graduate students if admission into their program required the completion of at least two years of undergraduate coursework.
- For a student who has not completed high school and is seeking enrollment in a program that leads to at least an associate degree or its equivalent, documentation from the high school that he excelled academically and from your school that he meets your written policy for admitting such students. This should be a rare occurrence.
- For homeschooled students, a copy of a secondary school completion credential for homeschool (other than a high school diploma or its recognized equivalent) if state law requires homeschooled students to get that credential. If it is not required, a transcript or the equivalent signed by the parent or guardian that lists the secondary school courses the student completed and documents the successful completion of a secondary school education in a homeschool setting.
- For students in an "eligible career pathway program," documentation that they passed an approved ATB test or completed at least 6 credit hours or 225 clock hours that are applicable toward a degree or certificate offered by your school. See the margin note.

If your school has already received one of these documents as part of the admission process, you do not need to ask for another. If you successfully verified a student's high school completion in a prior year, you do not need to do it again. Some schools collect seventh semester high school transcripts prior to students receiving an actual diploma, or they collect high school transcripts for some but not all of their students because they may have special programs that admit students without a high school diploma. In both cases, schools must collect separate documentation that shows the date when the diploma was awarded.

When documentation of high school completion is unavailable—e.g., the school is closed and no information is available from another source such as the school district or state department of education, or the parent or guardian who homeschooled the student is deceased—you may accept alternative documentation, such as a military DD Form 214 Certificate of Release or Discharge from Active Duty that indicates that the student is a high school graduate or equivalent. However, a student's self-certification is not acceptable except in rare instances for refugees, asylees, and victims of human trafficking, as explained in the margin note on page 88.

Identity and statement of educational purpose

Students should appear in person at your school and present a valid, unexpired,* government-issued photo identification (ID) such as a passport or a driver's license or other state-issued ID. You must maintain an annotated copy of that ID that includes the date it was received and the name of the person your school authorized to receive it. Note that an ID issued by a state university or college is not sufficient for this purpose.

Timing of signature
Any required signatures, such as signatures on worksheets or on copies of tax returns, must be collected at the time of verification—they can't be collected after the verification deadline for that award year.

Electronic signatures
For verification documentation, a school may collect an electronic signature for an applicant, parent, or spouse if the process includes an assurance of the identity of the person signing. This is often accomplished with a PIN or password that is assigned only after the identity of the person receiving the PIN or password has been authenticated.

V4 and V5 reporting
As explained on page 79, schools are required to report through FAA Access the outcomes of verifying high school completion status and identity/statement of educational purpose for applications with tracking flags V4 and V5.

* The ID just needs to be unexpired at the time it is checked. For proving identity, it does not matter if the ID is due to expire during the award year.
 The school may determine which of its staff are authorized to review an applicant's identity. We do recommend that the person(s) be full-time staff and that the school keep a record of who they are.

Hello,

Due to all of the recent changes, what happens if our institution does not use our full work-study allotment? Will we loose the amount that we didn't use? I'm thinking that with all of the recent changes, even if we continue to pay students, we may not use the full allowance.

Hi,

We are a third-party servicer.

A few of our schools notified us they will be unable to submit their annual compliance audit on time. Most of our clients have a fiscal year end of 12/31, which means their CPA compliance audit is due on 6/30/2020.

Is the Department of Education considering a delay in the CPA compliance audit deadlines due to the current health crisis?

Thank you and stay safe.

Hello
I am responsible for the administering of our Perkins Loan Program here at Bryn Mawr College. I just want to confirm information that I am hearing through webinars and news media concerning the interest waiver on Perkins Loans. From what I understand, this waiver will only apply to Perkins Loans held by the Federal government i.e. Perkins we have assigned back to the Dept of Ed. Our Campus held Perkins Loans do not qualify for the interest waiver. Is there any chance this would be reviewed so that our Campus Based Perkins would be included in this interest waiver?
This is going to be very confusing to explain to our Campus Based Perkins Loan borrowers. Our Campus Based Perkins borrowers are going to be struggling with repayment just as much as Federally owned Perkins Loan. Most of our borrowers in our Campus based Perkins Program have faithfully been repaying their Perkins Loan.
I am hoping that the policy regarding interest waiver on just Federally held Perkins Loans will be reviewed and that Colleges will at least be given the option to offer an interest waiver to their Perkins borrowers.
Thank you.

Hello,

My campus leadership is considering changing its grading type because of COVID-19. Currently, we us the standard letter grades on a 4.0 GPA scale (A, B, C, D, and F). Campus leadership is considering changing to a Pass\No-Pass grading type for this spring semester and possibly going forward. However, if we make this change in our grading type, we will not be able to calculate a SAP status for our students because this type of grading does not result in a GPA.

Will the Department be providing any waiver of the SAP requirements in this type or similar COVID-19 related scenario?

Does the Department have any guidance related to changing grading types to a Pass\No-Pass system and its impact on determining a students current and future eligibility for Title IV funds?

Best,

Subject: ChildFind: Face-to-face eval during COVID?

To Whom It May Concern:

As school districts are preparing to provide continued educational supports and services to all students, is there specific guidance and recommendations around the completion of Exceptional Student Education or 504 evaluations during this time of school closures due to COVID-19?

IQ tests results are only valid if the test is administered in a norm-referenced way, which requires face-to-face contact between the evaluator and the student being evaluated.

There are a number of students who are suspected as having a significant cognitive impairments. IQ results are required to determine eligibility for various ESE exceptionalities as well as informing access standards eligibility.

Specifically, for students who require direct, standardized assessments (i.e., IQ tests), should schools administer face-to-face evaluations despite the CDC's recommendations around social distancing? How should districts balance the federal ChildFind obligations with the DOH recommendations of social distancing?

Any guidance would be greatly appreciated.

Subject: Connecticut's ARC Teacher Certification Program?

To Whom it May Concern,

I am a candidate in the ARC "Alternate Route to Certification" teaching program in the state of CT. In order to graduate and get a temporary teaching certification, our state mandates we:
1) participate in a student practicum
2) get observed in the classroom by a program evaluator
3) submit video foot of our teaching through the edTPA program (operated by Pearson).

We are now unable to complete these requirements due to COVID-19 related public school closures and the uneven ability for our schools to provide eLearning opportunities. I have reached out to my program as well as to Connecticut's Commissioner of Education, the Office of Higher Education and my Alternate Route to Certification Program -- but have gotten no response.

I am one of over a hundred students in my program who are trying very hard to become teachers. We need to know if there is a pathway forward here. I saw your memorandum dated March 17, which called for transparency and open communication -- as well as innovation when dealing with this crisis. Accordingly, we have asked CT's Commissioner of Education to exercise the waivers and accommodations Governor Lamont has given him through recent executive orders.

I would be appreciative of your help with this matter. This not only concerns myself, and my classmates, but each and every teacher candidate in the state of CT, and throughout the nation. We are all in logistic limbo.

Thanks very much for your attention to this matter.

Best regards,

Dear Commissioner Cardona, Mr. Larson and Mr. Drezek,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

I am writing to you because I am a teacher-candidate in the Secondary English cohort of Connecticut's Alternate Route to Certification Program, and am requesting concrete answers on the viability of completing this program on time, given the COVID-19 related school closures in our state.

My fellow ARC classmates and myself have invested seven months of very hard work in this program, and are nearly 80 percent complete. We have made significant personal sacrifices to attend ARC, including quitting prior jobs in order to complete the student practicum requirement. Now our practicums have been put on hold because of school closures. Some of us continue to eTeach, but don't know if doing so will "count" toward our practicum. We are also unsure how ARC observation evaluations will be handled given the school closures, or whether that requirement be waived. But the elephant in the room is really edTPA. Nobody has given a definitive answer on whether the edTPA requirement will be waived for this year.

We understand that these are not normal times, and that each of us is doing his/her best to cope. Even so, I think we deserve timely answers to these questions.

Our hard work and perseverance in making our mid-life career shift is supposed to culminate in two months and four days. On May 21, 2020, Connecticut's Alternate Route to Certification Class of 2020 is supposed to don its gowns and mortarboards and celebrate our success. On May 21, 2020, ARC students will reaffirm our commitment to lifelong learning -- and will be ready to inspire a love of learning in our students!

However, none of this can happen without innovation, cooperation and flexibility from ARC, the Office of Higher Education, and the State Department of Education's Certification Office. On behalf of myself, the 109 other ARC students, and all teacher candidates currently in logistical limbo in the state of Connecticut, I implore you to work together to problem solve and make all the accommodations and modifications necessary to make our graduations possible.

Thanks very much for your attention to this matter.

Best regards,

Bonnie Dubson

It appears that guidelines from the FLDOE and CDC might be being interpreted incorrectly by some state college program administrators so, I have a question or I might have read incorrectly.

Did any of the guidelines recommend or state it was a good idea that a state vocational college program that requires one-on-one labs continue to operate? Specifically, should an aviation program with 70+ students (mostly in their 20's after spring break) and faculty (some in their 70's) be required to return on 3/23 or suffer consequences such as incompletes (for students) and firing (for faculty), respectively, when they are mostly in one occupied hanger space that can't provide sufficient "social distancing" especially for Professors? Didn't the FLDOE suggest that vocational schools cancel this semester or postpone classes until 4/15 for health and safety reasons?

Thank you.

Currently if students are not able to present original document, they may submit copies with affidavit of true copy. Due to the pandemic, they will have difficulties getting the affidavit notarized.

For, SAP appeals, if a student is on an academic plan or probation and was unable to meet the terms of the plan/ probation due to disruption in learning caused by COVID-19, are institutions allowed to amend the academic plan.

Suggested response to the attached email:

We recommend that MEP recruiterrs and other MEP staff make every effort to continue identifying and recruiting eligibility migratory children and working to ensure that those children and their families receive critical services, to the extent feasible and considering the health and safety of everyone involved. Certain precautionary or containment measures taken in response to the pandemic, such as school closures and social distancing, can compound the challenges already faced by migratory families, such as access to health care and food assistance, social isolation, etc. Recognizing the key role that MEP staff often play in outreach and advocacy for migratory families, we urge MEP recruiters and other staff to use telephone or video contact as an opportunity to assess the immediate needs of migratory children and their families, and work to address those needs either directly, or by connecting the families to other available resources. We encourage you to think creatively about methods to deliver needed services that don't require face-to-face contact or congregating in group settings. Such methods may include, but are not limited to, instruction provided via distance learning platforms, contactless food delivery, and helping inform families of available health services.

We recommend that MEP recruiters and other MEP ID&R staff follow the guidance issued by their State educational agency and local school district(s). It would be acceptable for the State to allow MEP staff to conduct recruitment activities remotely, i.e., telephone, Skype or Facetime, in order to reach families and other contacts such as employers and community organizations. This would include interviews with migratory families to obtain the information necessary to complete the Certificate of Eligibility (COE).

If all the required information is collected on the COE except for the interviewee signature, we recommend that the MEP proceed with its eligibility determination and COE approval process. We further recommend that a note be added to the Comments section of the COE to explain the circumstances that prevented the recruiter/interviewer from obtaining the interviewee's signature. After normal activities resume, if MEP staff are able to contact the interviewee in-person, we recommend that the individual's signature be added to the COE and the Comments section be updated. The signature may also be obtained by mail.

In terms of meeting the requirement of an independent re-interview after the implementation of the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA), the Office of Migrant Education (OME) is currently working within the Office of Elementary and Secondary Education (OESE) to extend waivers and flexibilities to States in addressing these regulations. As soon as information regarding increased flexibility and waivers around MEP regulations is available, it will be shared via the MEPSTATE Listserv and other OESE-wide avenues of communication to the States.

Good Afternoon,

Thank you for the opportunity to express concerns that have arisen in meeting federal timelines due to the COVID-19 outbreak. Over the past 2 weeks our state Part C staff has been working non-stop preparing guidance, responding to questions from providers, service coordinators, families and districts in an appropriate manner to alleviate fears, anxiety and panic related to EI services. With a limited staff, this is a heavy load given we are working remotely and trying to maintain regular business practices as well (i.e. payment to providers, contracts etc). This time has normally been spent preparing the SSIP report with the most current information, data, materials to demonstrate to OSEP that the state is making progress towards statewide implementation and seeing systemic improvement in services provided to infants and toddlers with disabilities and their families. However, with the current status the time to do this has not been afforded our office. Plus some of the materials needed are in the physical state office of which we are disallowed from entering at the current time.

South Dakota requests, that OSEP take into consideration this unprecedented time in our entire nation's history to consider allowing Part C programs the opportunity to delay submission of their SSIP reports. As of this morning President Trump announced that he was suspending ESSA state testing. As a member of a local school board this is a phenomenal relief for my personal school district. It takes a burden off our shoulders that we were finding impossible to accomplish given our size and resources. This allows school districts to focus on the here and now and what the immediate needs of our students, families and communities.

We are requesting that the Office of Special Education Programs please consider the state's have immediate needs to be available so to provide guidance and service to our providers and service coordinators and in turn they can serve our infants and toddlers and their families.

Good morning,

Another question about Federal WorkStudy. A student attends Spring semester and due to COVID-19 until Spring break, then goes distance learning to end of term.
This won't impact or negate a student wanting to work this summer during a period of non-enrollment correct?

Subject: Federal Work Study in New Term

Good morning,

Our institution's Winter term is ending this week. Our campus has been closed and we have continued to pay our Federal Work Study students even though they are not working or on campus.

We have a 2 week Spring Break scheduled and online instruction will begin in 3 weeks for the Spring term. Following our County's instructions for institutions, we are not set to re-open our campus until the first week of May.

The question we have is: can we continue to pay our students federal work study for the new term since we are expecting them to return to campus (pending no further changes to the current situation)? Or would our allowance to pay federal work study end now since students (although enrolled) cannot be on campus until May?

Thank you.

Subject: Federal Work Study Payment

Hello,

My institution, under recommendation of our state centers for disease control, moved all students to online instruction and moved students who were able off-campus. I've read the March 05, 2020 guidance and am reaching out to confirm understanding. My institution would like to continue to pay federal work study students based on the hours scheduled and will continue to meet our match requirements. This is our first disaster situation and I want to err on caution so as not to harm the student.

Should FWS payments continue to be paid via payroll, i.e. student continues to receive a paycheck even if they are not working and any applicable payroll taxes/deductions apply? If so, I would also assume the requirement to pay students at least monthly still applies. My Director of Payroll asked that I clarify prior to proceeding with payment.

Any guidance you can offer is greatly appreciated.

Dear Colleague,

Thank you for the information and guidance you are providing in these unprecedented times. We are grateful to be able to continue paying federal work-study students as we have transitioned our "in-seat" classes to online.

Some of our offices with work-study students do not have scheduled hours for the student to work. They have turned in electronic time cards documented by their supervisors for each pay period up to the transition to online classes. For these students, we had planned to determine their average weekly hours worked this semester and pay them for the remainder of the semester based on this average. We will document our procedures.

Is this permissible?

Thank you,

Schools have been closed to prevent the spread of the Coronavirus (COVID-19). In an effort to provide instructional services to the students, the schools have moved to a virtual school. Because of such, TEA has put out a guidance document indicating that as long as school is in session, which includes a virtual classroom, then the evaluation timelines are active.

School evaluators are being asked to conduct these evaluations despite the recommendation to avoid contact with others during this time of social distancing. In order for the evaluators to obtain reliable data, the evaluators are ethically obligated to meet face-to-face with the student. However, ethically, the evaluator is feeling an obligation to society to avoid a face-to-face meeting with the student.

In order to avoid face-to-face evaluations, a practitioner may consider testing through virtual means. As an LSSP, I am not trained nor do I feel competent to complete evaluations through electronic means. It would be difficult to conduct a cognitive assessment via teleconference. We would be breaking standardized procedures, thus invalidating the data and making eligibility determinations on inaccurate data. Obtaining accurate data is essential to our practice.

When conducting evaluations, we always want to function in the best interest of the student and we use instruments that will yield the most accurate data. Ethically and legally, our job is to ensure we obtain data that is free of extraneous factors that might confound our assessment data. During this COVID-19 pandemic, licensees have expressed concern that the child might be experiencing anxiety or fear. Therefore, this fear and anxiety could influence the child's performance. Several practitioners have expressed this is their greatest concern since we make significant decisions based on the results of the evaluation. We could have unreliable data that may not support eligibility criteria when under less stressful circumstances, the scores could be different. Therefore, obtaining data under these circumstances seems inappropriate.

I want to act in a responsible manner to our students and society. I would prefer to postpone face-to-face contact for an emotional, behavioral, cognitive and/or academic evaluation for the sake of not contributing to the spread of the virus.

The CDC, the President, and government officials recommend social distancing of at least 6 feet apart, when we conduct evaluations we are within close proximity because we are handling stimulus books and stimulus items (blocks, manipulatives, pencils, response booklets, etc). Some of the students we work with might be immunocompromised or live in multigenerational homes. If we consider the many different disciplines that may need to contribute to the evaluation, you are talking of potentially one or eight evaluators (LSSPs, Educational Diagnosticians, Speech Language Pathologists, Occupational Therapists, Physical Therapists, Vision & Orientations mobility teachers, Teachers to the Visually Impaired, and Teachers of the Deaf and Hard of Hearing), thus increasing the spread of a communicable disease.

I am reaching out to you as policy makers and as someone who could potentially advocate for us practitioners in this unprecedented unique situation. We are treading in uncharted waters and ultimately we want to act with an abundance of caution where we will not be hurting the student or our community.

While I understand the parent's desire to get answers to their child's academic, behavioral, development, and/or emotional concerns, my hope is that TEA, OSEP, and OCR would consider making an emergency legal waiver that will give school districts the ability to pause the timeline until this pandemic passes and the social distancing practices are lifted.

My goal as a practitioner is to consider the best interests of the students and families we serve, while not abandoning their social, emotional, academic, and mental health needs. We have an ethical responsibility to maintain the integrity of our profession and conducting assessments during this pandemic would not be deemed as such.

Gregg,

I hope you're doing well. I can't imagine how busy you are at OSEP. We had a call with State Directors this morning. Obviously the main topic was COVID-19 as it relates to servicing students with disabilities. I mentioned to them how incredibly helpful you have been in providing the guidance you're able to provide. I know OSEP will be coming out with guidance in the near future. Listed below are some questions that came up this morning to add to your list. If there are any that can be answered right away, any guidance is appreciated.

1. Many States are concerned about compensatory services with the delay occurring with IEP services. The question is, does OSEP have any guidance on how compensatory services will be paid and what monies can be used to pay for such services?
2. Many States are talking about using the delivery of related services through a virtual platform. The main question is, does an IEP team need to convene and approve the change of delivery of related services from onsite to virtual?
3. What does specially designed instruction look like in a home environment? Many school districts are providing work packets, will this suffice?
4. With most students at home, how do school districts address IEP annual reviews and three year evaluations?
5. With a lot of services shifting from the school to the home through virtual platforms, is there a need to amend the IEP to address those changes and would that include notice and consent?
6. What is OSEP's advice on providing services to the most severe and medically fragile students?
7. Since most school districts have closed schools, what are the expectations regarding SEA monitoring and levels of determination?
8. Can mediations be conducted through a Zoom a virtual platform?
9. There was concern regarding special education paraeducators. Is it permissible for paraeducators to keep working as long as their assignment has a relation to supporting students with disabilities (this is probably a State issue)?

Again, Gregg, we appreciate you and all you do to support the education of students with disabilities.

We are facing unprecedented times with the COVID-19 pandemic. As such our districts have had to turn to distance learning to continue providing instructional time to our Texas students. As such, because "school has resumed" through "virtual classrooms," Texas evaluators are being forced to continue to evaluate students that have an open FIIE or Reevaluation consent.

While the OCR document suggests that face-to-face evaluations should be discontinued while school is not in session and can resume when school is in session, TEA has put a directive that the timeline continues and the majority of evaluators, in order to obtain valid and reliable data, will be forced to meet face-to-face with the student.

If evaluators consider to do teleconferencing testing, the evaluators may not be properly trained or do not have access to instruments that are designed to be used in that format; therefore, the reliability or the validity of the data obtained will be compromised.

Furthermore, these are unique circumstances that are in fact fear or anxiety inducing, which will lead to issues with the validity of the data obtained. face-to-face assessment or observation, the evaluation would need to be delayed until school reopens. Evaluations and re-evaluations that do not require face-to-face assessments or observations may take place while schools are closed, so long as a student's parent or legal guardian consents." The state of California has followed this guidance and will not be completing face-to-face evaluations until normal school routines have returned for all students. We ask that Texas adopts similar guidelines during this delicate and uncertain time.

My goal as a practitioner is to consider the best interests of the students and families we serve, while not abandoning their social, emotional, academic, and mental health needs. A few of our schools notified us they will be unable to submit their annual compliance audit on time. Most of our clients have a fiscal year end of 12/31, which means their CPA compliance audit is due on 6/30/2020.

Is the Department of Education considering a delay in the CPA compliance audit deadlines due to the current health crisis?

Hello

I am responsible for the administering of our Perkins Loan Program here at Bryn Mawr College.

I just want to confirm information that I am hearing through webinars and news media concerning the interest waiver on Perkins Loans. From what I understand, this waiver will only apply to Perkins Loans held by the Federal government i.e. Perkins we have assigned back to the Dept of Ed. Our Campus held Perkins Loans do not qualify for the interest waiver. Is there any chance this would be reviewed so that our Campus Based Perkins would be included in this interest waiver?

This is going to be very confusing to explain to our Campus Based Perkins Loan borrowers. Our Campus Based Perkins borrowers are going to be struggling with repayment just as much as Federally owned Perkins Loan. Most of our borrowers in our Campus based Perkins Program have faithfully been repaying their Perkins Loan.

I am hoping that the policy regarding interest waiver on just Federally held Perkins Loans will be reviewed and that Colleges will at least be given the option to offer an interest waiver to their Perkins borrowers.

Thank you.

Hello,

My campus leadership is considering changing its grading type because of COVID-19. Currently, we us the standard letter grades on a 4.0 GPA scale (A, B, C, D, and F). Campus leadership is considering changing to a Pass\No-Pass grading type for this spring semester and possibly going forward. However, if we make this change in our grading type, we will not be able to calculate a SAP status for our students because this type of grading does not result in a GPA.

Will the Department be providing any waiver of the SAP requirements in this type or similar COVID-19 related scenario?

Does the Department have any guidance related to changing grading types to a Pass\No-Pass system and its impact on determining a students current and future eligibility for Title IV funds?

Best,
Garrick

My question focuses on the TPSID model projects funded through HEOA 2008. In the HEOA regulations, students with intellectual disabilities have been required to attend courses with their nondisabled peers on the physical campus in order to maintain their eligibility for federal student aid. Due to the CoVID19 virus many of Florida's and the nation's Institutes of Higher Education (IHE), that implement inclusive postsecondary education for students with intellectual disability, have closed their campuses and are serving college students online and not physically on campus.

We are working to serve our college students with intellectual disability online as well.

My question is, Will serving students with intellectual disability in online courses negate the IHE's Comprehensive Transition Program (CTP) status and student eligibility for federal student aid?

I appreciate you consideration of this issue.

To Whom It May Concern:

As school districts are preparing to provide continued educational supports and services to all students, is there specific guidance and recommendations around the completion of Exceptional Student Education or 504 evaluations during this time of school closures due to COVID-19?

IQ tests results are only valid if the test is administered in a norm-referenced way, which requires face-to-face contact between the evaluator and the student being evaluated.

There are a number of students who are suspected as having a significant cognitive impairments. IQ results are required to determine eligibility for various ESE exceptionalities as well as informing access standards eligibility.

Specifically, for students who require direct, standardized assessments (i.e., IQ tests), should schools administer face-to-face evaluations despite the CDC's recommendations around social distancing? How should districts balance the federal ChildFind obligations with the DOH recommendations of social distancing?

Any guidance would be greatly appreciated.

Downey Adult School is approved to offer the Medical Biller Coder program via online delivery. Our school district just announced that our school will not allow students to attend classes on campus from March 16th – March 26th. Our school is switching to strictly online delivery. Can our school allow new students to start a program on March 23 if the program was already approved to offer it via online?

Medical Biller Coder – Approved for online instruction – DAS can continue to enroll new enrollees via online instruction during this period

Subject: Concerns about individual psychological evaluations in public schools during the COVID-19 outbreak

To Whom It May Concern:

My name is Courtney Davis and I am an evaluator for Texas public schools in the state of Texas.

We are facing unprecedented times with the COVID-19 pandemic. As such, our districts have had to turn to distance learning to continue providing instructional time to our Texas students; because "school has resumed" through “virtual classrooms,” Texas evaluators are being forced to continue to evaluate students that have an open FIE or Reevaluation consent.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

While the OCR document suggests that face-to-face evaluations should be discontinued while school is not in session and can resume when school is in session, TEA has put a directive that the timeline continues and the majority of evaluators, in order to obtain valid and reliable data, will be forced to meet face-to-face with the student.

If evaluators consider to do teleconferencing testing, the evaluators may not be properly trained or do not have access to instruments that are designed to be used in that format; therefore, the reliability or the validity of the data obtained will be compromised.

Furthermore, these are unique circumstances that are in fact fear or anxiety inducing, which will lead to issues with the validity of the data obtained. At this time, our families should not be worried about anything, but being together and following the directive to remain at home and reducing social contact.

I am reaching out to you as policy makers and as someone who could potentially advocate for us practitioners in this unprecedented unique situation. We are treading in uncharted waters and ultimately we want to act with an abundance of caution where we will not be hurting the student or our community.

While I understand the parents desire to get answers to their child’s academic, behavioral, development, and/or emotional concerns, my hope is that TEA will adopt the recommendation from OCR that “If an evaluation of a student with a disability requires a face-to-face assessment or observation, the evaluation would need to be delayed until school reopens. Evaluations and re-evaluations that do not require face-to-face assessments or observations may take place while schools are closed, so long as a student’s parent or legal guardian consents.” The state of California has followed this guidance and will not be completing face-to-face evaluations until normal school routines have returned for all students. We ask that Texas adopts similar guidelines during this delicate and uncertain time.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

My goal as a practitioner is to consider the best interests of the students and families we serve, while not abandoning their social, emotional, academic, and mental health needs. We have an ethical responsibility to maintain the integrity of our profession and conducting assessments during this pandemic would not be deemed as such.

Subject: Concerns about individual psychological evaluations in public schools during the COVID-19 outbreak

To Whom It May Concern:

My name is Courtney Davis and I am an evaluator for Texas public schools in the state of Texas.

We are facing unprecedented times with the COVID-19 pandemic. As such, our districts have had to turn to distance learning to continue providing instructional time to our Texas students; because "school has resumed" through "virtual classrooms," Texas evaluators are being forced to continue to evaluate students that have an open FIE or Reevaluation consent.

While the OCR document suggests that face-to-face evaluations should be discontinued while school is not in session and can resume when school is in session, TEA has put a directive that the timeline continues and the majority of evaluators, in order to obtain valid and reliable data, will be forced to meet face-to-face with the student.

If evaluators consider to do teleconferencing testing, the evaluators may not be properly trained or do not have access to instruments that are designed to be used in that format; therefore, the reliability or the validity of the data obtained will be compromised.

Furthermore, these are unique circumstances that are in fact fear or anxiety inducing, which will lead to issues with the validity of the data obtained. At this time, our families should not be worried about anything, but being together and following the directive to remain at home and reducing social contact.

I am reaching out to you as policy makers and as someone who could potentially advocate for us practitioners in this unprecedented unique situation. We are treading in uncharted waters and ultimately we want to act with an abundance of caution where we will not be hurting the student or our community.

While I understand the parents desire to get answers to their child's academic, behavioral, development, and/or emotional concerns, my hope is that TEA will adopt the recommendation from OCR that "If an evaluation of a student with a disability requires a face-to-face assessment or observation, the evaluation would need to be delayed until school reopens. Evaluations and re-evaluations that do not require face-to-face assessments or observations may take place while schools are closed, so long as a student's parent or legal guardian consents." The state of California has followed this guidance and will not be completing face-to-face evaluations until normal school routines have returned for all students. We ask that Texas adopts similar guidelines during this delicate and uncertain time.

My goal as a practitioner is to consider the best interests of the students and families we serve, while not abandoning their social, emotional, academic, and mental health needs. We have an ethical responsibility to maintain the integrity of our profession and conducting assessments during this pandemic would not be deemed as such.

Sincerely,

To whom it may concern:

I was given this contact email by Florida PTA to address my concerns regarding the cancellation of statewide assessments.

I am a parent of an 8th grader in Indian Trails Middle School (Seminole County). My daughter is taking classes that require EOC exams so that she may receive high school credit for those classes and her grade average for the year to date is an "A" in all three:

Pre-AP History Geometry
Ecology

Please advise whether or not the cancellation of Statewide Assessments in Florida will impact her ability to receive this credit.

It would be detrimental to the future success of students such as my daughter to lose the opportunity to earn advanced high school credit. It would also be extremely unfair that they would be penalized due to no fault of their own.

Please reassure me this will not be the case. I am certain that there are many parents across the state that are as concerned as I am and would greatly appreciate reassurance on this matter.

Dear Sirs,

Am writing with regards to the Part C grant application. Currently my grant is open for public comment. However, the issues that will arise if the COVID-19 pandemic continues is ability to review with my ICC as scheduled. Also, there will be problems obtaining a "wet" signature as my lead agency person is working remotely as am I. He, however, is almost 300 miles away from where I am working remotely. Uncertain how to obtain a "wet" signature.
Also to consider is the required hard copy being able to submit timely depending upon mail availability.

It is uncertain what will come in the next weeks but this is something that consideration of would be appreciated.

Thank you

Good Morning,
Are there any provisions to accept copies of documents as proof as citizenship? Some students will be unable to bring their documents in, because we have moved to online learning. Currently if students are not able to present original document, they may submit copies with affidavit of true copy. Due to the pandemic, they will have difficulties getting the affidavit notarized.

For, SAP appeals, if a student is on an academic plan or probation and was unable to meet the terms of the plan/ probation due to disruption in learning caused by COVID-19, are institutions allowed to amend the academic plan.

Thank You,
Simone

HI Courtney

I hope you, your family, and folks at DEED are doing well.

Colton Christian reached out to me earlier this week (attaching our conversation for reference) and I let him know we will have a template coming out shortly that will allow for states to select what areas of title I they are specifically waiving. It should be fairly broad and capture a number of elements that states need flexibility. I am hopeful that goes out today, but no later than tomorrow.

Robert –
As you can imagine, our State is trying to navigate this time of uncertainty. We are reaching out specifically about US ED's current status on:

- Waivers or flexibility in reporting and grants administration.
- Waivers or flexibility related to ESEA fiscal requirements such as –
    - maintenance of effort,
    - carry over limits of 15% of Title I, Part A funds, and
    - the requirement to obligate funds in the current Federal fiscal year for providing equitable services to eligible private school students, teachers, and families.

Will ED be granting blanket waivers or will States be required to reach out to ED directly for waivers due to the COVID-19 pandemic? Will there be guidance issued?

Thank you!

Hi Colton—

Thanks for reaching out. My name is Robert Salley and I serve as Alaska's Program Officer here at ED (I've worked closely with Courtney Preziosi in the past).

This is a very good question. ED is going to release guidance and a template sometime this week to all states that will describe exactly what you will need to provide in order to seek a waiver of your assessment and participation rates. We're hoping that the template will be streamlined so that a state can select waivers that are pertinent to the affected issues across Title I and other ESEA programs. If it is possible for DEED to wait until this information is released to all states, I would advise you to do so as I think the instructions will describe what you will need to provide.

Does that make sense? Happy to discuss further or to hop on the phone if needed.

Thanks,
Robert

Hi there,

I've read through the Assessments and Accountability fact sheet related to COVID-19 and had a question that I was hoping you could answer.

I am wondering if there is any data collection that will be necessary in order to get a waiver for participation rate or for chronic absenteeism approved. In other words, will it be enough to show that participation rate drops sharply year-over-year or that chronic absenteeism increases sharply year-over-year? Or do we need to show that participation rate dropped because of COVID-19 and what evidence or data should we collect to show that?

Please let me know if you have any questions or if I can clarify the question.

Thanks in advance,
Colton

Hello,

Some institutions are considering applying credits from reduced housing and meal costs from the spring 2020 semester to fall 2020 housing and meal costs.
Specifically, students in good standing who have paid their bill for the spring semester will be able to receive a prorated credit for room and board once they have left campus and moved their possessions.
What are some of the financial aid implications? Are there credit balance considerations? Are there resource considerations? Is this advisable?

Thank you,
Michael

Suggested response to the attached email:

We recommend that MEP recruiterrs and other MEP staff make every effort to continue identifying and recruiting eligibility migratory children and working to ensure that those children and their families receive critical services, to the extent feasible and considering the health and safety of everyone involved. Certain precautionary or containment measures taken in response to the pandemic, such as school closures and social distancing, can compound the challenges already faced by migratory families, such as access to health care and food assistance, social isolation, etc. Recognizing the key role that MEP staff often play in outreach and advocacy for migratory families, we urge MEP recruiters and other staff to use telephone or video contact as an opportunity to assess the immediate needs of migratory children and their families, and work to address those needs either directly, or by connecting the families to other available resources. We encourage you to think creatively about methods to deliver needed services that don't require face-to-face contact or congregating in group settings. Such methods may include, but are not limited to, instruction provided via distance learning platforms, contactless food delivery, and helping inform families of available health services.

We recommend that MEP recruiters and other MEP ID&R staff follow the guidance issued by their State educational agency and local school district(s). It would be acceptable for the State to allow MEP staff to conduct recruitment activities remotely, i.e., telephone, Skype or Facetime, in order to reach families and other contacts such as employers and community organizations. This would include interviews with migratory families to obtain the information necessary to complete the Certificate of Eligibility (COE).

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

If all the required information is collected on the COE except for the interviewee signature, we recommend that the MEP proceed with its eligibility determination and COE approval process. We further recommend that a note be added to the Comments section of the COE to explain the circumstances that prevented the recruiter/interviewer from obtaining the interviewee's signature. After normal activities resume, if MEP staff are able to contact the interviewee in-person, we recommend that the individual's signature be added to the COE and the Comments section be updated. The signature may also be obtained by mail.

In terms of meeting the requirement of an independent re-interview after the implementation of the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA), the Office of Migrant Education (OME) is currently working within the Office of Elementary and Secondary Education (OESE) to extend waivers and flexibilities to States in addressing these regulations. As soon as information regarding increased flexibility and waivers around MEP regulations is available, it will be shared via the MEPSTATE Listserv and other OESE-wide avenues of communication to the States.

- How can we ensure timely recruitment of eligible children while we are facing personal contact restrictions?
- Can we complete a Certificate of Eligibilty (COE) remotely (for example, using Facetime, Skype or by phone)?
- Can we certify a COE without a signature? If not, what is the recommended alternative?
- If our state is not able to conduct/complete the 3rd – year re-interviews before August 31, can we still consider it as meeting that requirement for 19-20?

We look forward to your response.

I was just wondering if it was possible during this time to interview a family via face time and that be counted as a face to face. Would that be possible?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

March 20, 2020

To Whom This May Concern:

My name is Tiffany Allen-Duran, Licensed Specialist in School Psychology (LSSP) who is a Nationally Certified School Psychologist (NCSP) who has worked in the field for 18 years. I am an evaluator for Texas public schools in the state of Texas.

We are facing unprecedented times with the COVID-19 pandemic. Our districts have had to turn to distance learning to continue providing instructional time to our Texas students. Since "school has resumed" through "virtual classrooms," Texas evaluators are being forced to continue to evaluate students that have an open Full and Individual Evaluation (FIIE) or Reevaluation consent.

While the Office of Civil Rights (OCR) document suggests that face-to-face evaluations should be discontinued while school is not in session and can resume when school is in session, TEA has put a directive that the timeline continues and the majority of evaluators, in order to obtain valid and reliable data. As evaluators, we will be forced to meet face-to-face with the student to conduct best practices.

If evaluators consider to do teleconferencing testing, the evaluators may not be properly trained or do not have access to instruments that are designed to be used in that format; therefore, the reliability or the validity of the data obtained will be compromised.

Furthermore, these are unique circumstances that are fear and/or anxiety inducing, which will lead to issues with the validity of the data obtained. At this time, NO family should be worried about anything, other than being together and following the directive to remain at home and decrease social contact.

By reaching out to you as policy makers and as an individual who can advocate for practitioners in this unprecedented and unique situation. We are treading in uncharted waters and ultimately we want to act with an abundance of caution where we will not be hurting the student or our community.

While I understand the parent's desire to get answers to their child's academic, behavioral, development, and/or emotional concerns, it is my hope that TEA will adopt the recommendation from OCR that "If an evaluation of a student with a disability requires a face-to-face assessment or observation, the evaluation would need to be delayed until school reopens. Evaluations and re-evaluations that do not require face-to-face assessments or observations may take place while schools are closed, so long as a student's parent or legal guardian consents." The state of California has followed this guidance and will not be completing face-to-face evaluations until normal school routines have returned for all students. We ask that Texas adopts similar guidelines during this delicate and uncertain time.

RE: Special Education Evaluation Timelines

I am writing on behalf of the Texas Association of School Psychologists and licensed specialists in school psychology (LSSPs) practicing across the state. In response to the Texas Education Agency's position on evaluation timelines for special education eligibility, we strongly discourage the continuation of assessments during this turbulent time of crisis. With schools now ordered closed until April 3, 2020 and possibly with extensions, virtual instruction is encouraged. Per the current guidance, if instruction is offered by virtual means to all students, the 45 school day evaluation timeline still maintains. As we are preparing for shifts in our comprehensive scope of service delivery, the COVID-19 pandemic presents unique challenges in regards to ethical assessment and decision making practices:

- Many direct services to students can be provided through virtual means; however, direct observation and assessment cannot be administered through means other than face-to-face. A full and individual evaluation, initial or reevaluation, requires direct classroom-based observation of the student in the child's learning environment to document the child's academic performance and behavior in areas of difficulty (34 C.F.R. §300.310(a)).
- In reference to the federal guidelines, assessments and other evaluation materials used to assess a child are used for the purposes for which the assessments or measures are valid and reliable, administered by trained and knowledgeable personnel, and are administered in accordance with any instructions provided by the producer of the assessment (34 C.F.R. §300.304(c)(1)).
- LSSPs are not typically trained or competent in completing evaluations through electronic means. The standardized tests used (i.e. IQ tests, formal achievement tests) are not designed to be administered electronically more or less outside of a school setting during a pandemic crisis. In short, the administration of tests must be given through the means in which they were standardized. Deviations from standardization must be reported and, at times, can invalidate test results, which could potentially impact eligibility determinations.
- If evaluations are to be conducted remotely, they should be conducted through platforms specifically designed for that purpose. At this time, such delivery would also require training beyond the evaluator, but also include training for the student and adult facilitator (likely parent/caregiver) who is assisting the student at home. It is unlikely the appropriate supports can be developed quickly.
- In addition, the unique circumstances pose validity issues which must be addressed when assessments are taking place in a time of anxiety for youth, their families and caregivers, and school personnel. The likelihood of making inappropriate eligibility determinations based on invalid assessment data is high.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

With consideration of the ethical implications and irresponsible assessment practices, the Texas Association of School Psychologists strongly recommends upholding the advice provided by the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Civil Rights as follows, "If an evaluation of a student with a disability requires a face-to-face assessment or observation, the evaluation would need to be delayed until school reopens. Evaluations and re-evaluations that do not require face-to-face assessments or observations may take place while schools are closed, so long as a student's parent or legal guardian consents." The state of California has followed this guidance and will not be completing face to face evaluations until normal school routines have returned for all students. We ask that Texas adopt similar guidelines during this delicate and uncertain time. Our goal as school psychologists is to consider the best interests of the students and families we serve, while not abandoning their social, emotional, academic, and mental health needs. We have an ethical responsibility to maintain the highest standard for professional practices in educational and psychological assessment.

Stephanie Barbre, PhD, LSSP

My name is Kelli Cantu and I am an evaluator for Texas public schools in the state of Texas.

As such, because "school has resumed" through "virtual classrooms," Texas evaluators are being forced to continue to evaluate students that have an open FIE or Reevaluation consent.

While the OCR document suggests that face-to-face evaluations should be discontinued while school is not in session and can resume when school is in session, TEA has put a directive that the timeline continues and the majority of evaluators, in order to obtain valid and reliable data, will be forced to meet face-to-face with the student.

If evaluators consider to do teleconferencing testing, the evaluators may not be properly trained or do not have access to instruments that are designed to be used in that format; therefore, the reliability or the validity of the data obtained will be compromised.

Furthermore, these are unique circumstances that are in fact fear or anxiety inducing, which will lead to issues with the validity of the data obtained. At this time, our families should not be worried about anything, but being together and following the directive to remain at home and reducing social contact.

I am reaching out to you as policy makers and as someone who could potentially advocate for us practitioners in this unprecedented unique situation. We are treading in uncharted waters and ultimately we want to act with an abundance of caution where we will not be hurting the student or our community.

I am reaching out to you as policy makers and as someone who could potentially advocate for us practitioners in this unprecedented unique situation. We are treading in uncharted waters and ultimately we want to act with an abundance of caution where we will not be hurting the student or our community.

While I understand the parents desire to get answers to their child's academic, behavioral, development, and/or emotional concerns, my hope is that TEA will adopt the recommendation from OCR that "If an evaluation of a student with a disability requires a face-to-face assessment or observation, the evaluation would need to be delayed until school reopens. Evaluations and re-evaluations that do not require face-to-face assessments or observations may take place while schools are closed, so long as a student's parent or legal guardian consents." The state of California has followed this guidance and will not be completing face-to-face evaluations until normal school routines have returned for all students. We ask that Texas adopts similar guidelines during this delicate and uncertain time.

My goal as a practitioner is to consider the best interests of the students and families we serve, while not abandoning their social, emotional, academic, and mental health needs. We have an ethical responsibility to maintain the integrity of our profession and conducting assessments during this pandemic would not be deemed as such.

If evaluators consider to do teleconferencing testing, the evaluators may not be properly trained or do not have access to instruments that are designed to be used in that format; therefore, the reliability or the validity of the data obtained will be compromised.

Furthermore, these are unique circumstances that are in fact fear or anxiety inducing, which will lead to issues with the validity of the data obtained. To Whom This May Concern:

My name is Tiffany Allen-Duran, Licensed Specialist in School Psychology (LSSP) who is a Nationally Certified School Psychologist (NCSP) who has worked in the field for 18 years. I am an evaluator for Texas public schools in the state of Texas.

We are facing unprecedented times with the COVID-19 pandemic. Our districts have had to turn to distance learning to continue providing instructional time to our Texas students. Since "school has resumed" through "virtual classrooms," Texas evaluators are being forced to continue to evaluate students that have an open Full and Individual Evaluation (FIIE) or Reevaluation consent.

As evaluators, we will be forced to meet face-to-face with the student to conduct best practices.

If evaluators consider to do teleconferencing testing, the evaluators may not be properly trained or do not have access to instruments that are designed to be used in that format; therefore, the reliability or the validity of the data obtained will be compromised.

Furthermore, these are unique circumstances that are fear and/or anxiety inducing, which will lead to issues with the validity of the data obtained. RE: Special Education Evaluation Timelines

I am writing on behalf of the Texas Association of School Psychologists and licensed specialists in school psychology (LSSPs) practicing across the state. In response to the Texas Education Agency's position on evaluation timelines for special education eligibility, we strongly discourage the continuation of assessments during this turbulent time of crisis. With schools now ordered closed until April 3, 2020 and possibly with extensions, virtual instruction is encouraged. Per the current guidance, if instruction is offered by virtual means to all students, the 45 school day evaluation timeline still maintains. As we are preparing for shifts in our comprehensive scope of service delivery, the COVID-19 pandemic presents unique challenges in regards to ethical assessment and decision making practices:

- Many direct services to students can be provided through virtual means; however, direct observation and assessment cannot be administered through means other than face-to-face. A full and individual evaluation, initial or reevaluation, requires direct classroom-based observation of the student in the child's learning environment to document the child's academic performance and behavior in areas of difficulty (34 C.F.R. §300.310(a)).
- In reference to the federal guidelines, assessments and other evaluation materials used to assess a child are used for the purposes for which the assessments or measures are valid and reliable, administered by trained and knowledgeable personnel, and are administered in accordance with any instructions provided by the producer of the assessment (34 C.F.R. §300.304(c)(1)).
- LSSPs are not typically trained or competent in completing evaluations through electronic means. The standardized tests used (i.e. IQ tests, formal achievement tests) are not designed to be administered electronically more or less outside of a school setting during a pandemic crisis. In short, the administration of tests must be given through the means in which they were standardized. Deviations from standardization must be reported and, at times, can invalidate test results, which could potentially impact eligibility determinations.
- If evaluations are to be conducted remotely, they should be conducted through platforms specifically designed for that purpose. At this time, such delivery would also require training beyond the evaluator, but also include training for the student and adult facilitator (likely parent/caregiver) who is assisting the student at home. It is unlikely the appropriate supports can be developed quickly.
- In addition, the unique circumstances pose validity issues which must be addressed when assessments are taking place in a time of anxiety for youth, their families and caregivers, and school personnel. The likelihood of making inappropriate eligibility determinations based on invalid assessment data is high.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

With consideration of the ethical implications and irresponsible assessment practices, the Texas Association of School Psychologists strongly recommends upholding the advice provided by the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Civil Rights as follows, "If an evaluation of a student with a disability requires a face-to-face assessment or observation, the evaluation would need to be delayed until school reopens. Evaluations and re-evaluations that do not require face-to-face assessments or observations may take place while schools are closed, so long as a student's parent or legal guardian consents." The state of California has followed this guidance and will not be completing face to face evaluations until normal school routines have returned for all students. We ask that Texas adopt similar guidelines during this delicate and uncertain time. Our goal as school psychologists is to consider the best interests of the students and families we serve, while not abandoning their social, emotional, academic, and mental health needs. We have an ethical responsibility to maintain the highest standard for professional practices in educational and psychological assessment.

Victoria,

Thank you so much for the recent update regarding the waivers for accountability and assessment. I know all of the states are greatly appreciative for this decision and will relieve a lot of anxiety and pressure the States and school districts are facing at this time. In Secretary DeVos's letter to the Chief State Officers, she wrote the following statement that I would like to pursue.

I recognize that you have many questions and will need additional supports, including the possibility of additional waivers, as you deal with the COVID-19 national emergency.

I realize USDE is inundated with questions, and responding as quickly as possible. Our State Superintendent is in the same situation, and making every effort to ease the burden for school districts by implementing wise and prudent decisions to help the schools.

In the near future, our State, as well as other states will need to take immediate action by making decisions that possibly conflict with federal requirements. Our State has every intention to follow federal law and will need guidance on an issue such as

- School district teachers, administrators, and support personnel paid with federal funds will request to pay staff without evidence of timesheets or services technically rendered

The accountability for the use of the funds will not be documented for actual work performed, but the evidence to pay the federally funded personnel would be to demonstrate that the district was closed due to extenuating circumstances, such as COVID-19. The question is, "Will this evidence be sufficient enough due to this unique situation?"

I anticipate in the near future there will arise other occasions that waivers outside of accountability and assessment will need to be addressed to provide relief for our school districts. Does USDE anticipate a date for States to consider submitting other waivers impacting federal funding that will most likely be impossible for States and districts to meet the requirement?

A special thanks to you and Patrick for always being so prompt with your responses.

We will get through this together – hopefully, healthy and safe!

Subject: Federal TImelines during COVID-19 Pandemic

Good Afternoon,

Thank you for the opportunity to express concerns that have arisen in meeting federal timelines due to the COVID-19 outbreak. Over the past 2 weeks our state Part C staff has been working non-stop preparing guidance, responding to questions from providers, service coordinators, families and districts in an appropriate manner to alleviate fears, anxiety and panic related to EI services. With a limited staff, this is a heavy load given we are working remotely and trying to maintain regular business practices as well (i.e. payment to providers, contracts etc). This time has normally been spent preparing the SSIP report with the most current information, data, materials to demonstrate to OSEP that the state is making progress towards statewide implementation and seeing systemic improvement in services provided to infants and toddlers with disabilities and their families. However, with the current status the time to do this has not been afforded our office. Plus some of the materials needed are in the physical state office of which we are disallowed from entering at the current time.

South Dakota requests, that OSEP take into consideration this unprecedented time in our entire nation's history to consider allowing Part C programs the opportunity to delay submission of their SSIP reports. As of this morning President Trump announced that he was suspending ESSA state testing. As a member of a local school board this is a phenomenal relief for my personal school district. It takes a burden off our shoulders that we were finding impossible to accomplish given our size and resources. This allows school districts to focus on the here and now and what the immediate needs of our students, families and communities.

We are requesting that the Office of Special Education Programs please consider the state's have immediate needs to be available so to provide guidance and service to our providers and service coordinators and in turn they can serve our infants and toddlers and their families.

Thank you for your consideration,

Good morning,

Our institution's Winter term is ending this week. Our campus has been closed and we have continued to pay our Federal Work Study students even though they are not working or on campus.

We have a 2 week Spring Break scheduled and online instruction will begin in 3 weeks for the Spring term. Following our County's instructions for institutions, we are not set to re-open our campus until the first week of May.

The question we have is: can we continue to pay our students federal work study for the new term since we are expecting them to return to campus (pending no further changes to the current situation)? Or would our allowance to pay federal work study end now since students (although enrolled) cannot be on campus until May?

Thank you.

Hello,

My institution, under recommendation of our state centers for disease control, moved all students to online instruction and moved students who were able off-campus. I've read the March 05, 2020 guidance and am reaching out to confirm understanding. My institution would like to continue to pay federal work study students based on the hours scheduled and will continue to meet our match requirements. This is our first disaster situation and I want to err on caution so as not to harm the student.

Should FWS payments continue to be paid via payroll, i.e. student continues to receive a paycheck even if they are not working and any applicable payroll taxes/deductions apply? If so, I would also assume the requirement to pay students at least monthly still applies. My Director of Payroll asked that I clarify prior to proceeding with payment.

Any guidance you can offer is greatly appreciated.

Subject: Florida 2016 CSP grant waiver request to provide virtual education assistance

Kate and Ashley,

Attached is a request for a waiver (and application amendment) for Florida's 2016 CSP grant (Award U282A160012). The purpose of the request is to seek a waiver of the statutory and regulatory requirements that govern the CSP. Specifically, the Florida Department of Education seeks an amendment to award CSP sub-grants to new and established operators to provide them funds to purchase the hardware and software necessary to enable all of their students to access curriculum and lessons from home. Essentially, as public schools face a growing crisis from the threat of COVID-19 and increasingly plan for virtual instruction for the foreseeable future, the FDOE wants to equip all charter schools in Florida, to the extent possible, with a one-to-one student-to-device ratio. For that, we would need the Secretary of Education to exercise the waiver authority granted her under both the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) and the No Child Left Behind Act (NCLB, which governs Florida's award).

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

I appreciate your attention to this, knowing that you both are just as busy and active as we are. However, given the urgency of this request and the need for relief in Florida, I am asking that the U.S. Department of Education review this request as soon as possible.

Re: Application Amendment for 2016 Charter Schools Program SEA Grant and Waiver Request

The Florida Department of Education (FDOE) is seeking to amend its approved application for its 2016 SEA Charter School Program grant (CSP, Award U282A160012) and simultaneously seek a waiver of the statutory and regulatory requirements that govern the CSP. Specifically, the FDOE seeks an amendment to award CSP sub-grants to new and established operators to provide them funds to purchase the hardware and software necessary to enable all of their students to access curriculum and lessons from home. Essentially, as public schools face a growing crisis from the threat of COVID-19 and increasingly plan for virtual instruction for the foreseeable future, the FDOE wants to equip all charter schools in Florida, to the extent possible, with a one-to-one student-to-device ratio. For that, we would need the Secretary of Education to exercise the waiver authority granted her under both the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) and the No Child Left Behind Act (NCLB, which governs Florida's award).

Why we are seeking an amendment and a waiver

Given the unprecedented impact of the COVID-19 crisis on public education, the CSP grant is ideally suited to quickly provide relief, resources, flexibility and innovation in the charter sector. All public schools are moving into uncharted territory over the next several months, but independent charter schools lack the centralized support enjoyed by school districts, and their students arguably face some of the greatest disruption. Perhaps the most significant emergency plan for which schools must prepare is how to keep the instructional momentum going outside the brick-and-mortar classroom. Smaller "mom-and-pop" charter schools that serve the most educationally disadvantaged students are themselves disadvantaged. They would be the least likely to have a one-to-one student-to-device ratio, much less the ability to link their educational program to their students' homes. The CSP can provide immediate support and relief.

However, we seek this relief for all charter schools, to the extent practicable. The CSP, as it is currently governed by statute, provides one-time start-up support to new schools (or at least those in their first three to five years of operation). Smaller, independent schools that have been in operation for up to 20 years do not necessarily possess any greater capacity to successfully deliver a high-quality virtual education program than those in their first year of operation. For Florida to provide this relief, we require a waiver from the U.S. Department of Education. The Secretary has broad discretion to "waive any statutory or regulatory requirement over which the Secretary exercises administrative authority." By exercising this authority, the Secretary would enable Florida to help provide the resources necessary to continue the education of our most disadvantaged students during this time of crisis.

What we could accomplish with this waiver

With this flexibility, the FDOE can accomplish the following:

- Allow sub-grantees the ability to purchase computers, printers, and other peripherals for their students, particularly those low-income students who do not have access to these materials at home;
- Enable schools to provide students with the software and internet access necessary to access educational programs from their homes; and
- Support all professional development and planning costs associated with implementing and overseeing virtual instruction

What schools would benefit

While the FDOE aims to target all charter schools that need the support described above, the sub-grant budget from the FDOE's 2016 CSP $71.7 million project is finite (after all obligations to other sub-grant projects are accounted for). With this, the FDOE would prioritize all Title-I eligible, one-off independent charter schools. If any available funds remain, the FDOE would next accommodate those charter schools that operate fewer than five charter schools in Florida. If funds remain after that, Title I schools within charter networks that operate more than five schools in Florida would be eligible. And so on. The vision is to first benefit those schools that serve a disproportionate number of educationally disadvantaged students who lack the access to virtual instruction technologies.

Budget amendments and other waiver requests

The FDOE is proposing no budget amendments, as we plan to offer these sub-grant awards through our existing for sub-grants. We would, however, requests three additional but relevant waivers:

- Waiving the competitive nature of the CSP: Sub-grant applications would not be externally reviewed, for the sake of expediency, but would instead be evaluated based on the prioritized criteria identified above.
- Waiving the reimbursement requirements: For the further sake of expediency, and to get these materials and training into the hands of students and teachers as quickly as possible, the FDOE asks that the requirement that CSP-related purchases be reimbursed be waived. Instead, the FDOE would ensure that sub-grantees be advanced the funds only when they can produce an invoice and receive assurance that payment will be made within three days. The FDOE would also conduct desktop monitoring throughout the summer to ensure that inventory is used for the purposes described in this amendment.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Waiving the requirement that sub-grantees cannot have previously received a CSP award: Eligible schools under this application amendment and waiver request might have been operating for the last 20 years, and could have received a CSP sub-grant award many years ago. However, we will not award schools that have a current CSP project. Those can, if they are eligible, go through the FDOE's budget amendment process to achieve the goals outlined in this request.

Background on, and summary of, Florida's current 2016 CSP project

As 2016 CSP project begins to wind down, the FDOE is poised to drive system-wide improvements to one of the most significant charter school landscapes of any state. As detailed in our approved application, the FDOE has implemented many of the projects aimed at reforming the very building blocks of the charter school space and ensuring that all students, regardless of income or ZIP code, have access to a high-quality public school.

Specifically, the FDOE has undertaken the following projects to help enhance the capacity of charter school authorizers, advance outcome-based accountability and support visionary leaders committed to serve our highest-need children:

Governing Board Development: The FDOE, in partnership with Washington, D.C.-based Charter Board Partners, worked in several districts to match highly skilled executives in industry and matched them with the charter school governing boards that most benefitted from their talents. Our work spread from Hillsborough County (home to City of Tampa) to Polk County and, finally Duval County (home to the City of Jacksonville).

Charter School Performance Framework. The FDOE, in collaboration with authorizers, operators, and national experts, is developing a statewide charter school performance framework that will provide authorizers, schools, and the public with a standardized set of objective measures to evaluate the academic, financial, and organizational performance of public charter schools.

Authorizer Accountability. The FDOE conceptualized a statewide authorizer dashboard to evaluate and publicly report on authorizer performance, and it accomplished this with the primary input of the authorizers themselves.

Authorizer Training and Leadership Development. The FDOE implemented a successful charter school authorizer fellowship program. We selected two candidates from Florida's authorizers and immersed them in the offices of some of the best authorizers in the nation, including the Massachusetts Department of Education, the State University of New York, Denver Public Schools, and the D.C. Charter School Board. The candidates returned to share with their colleagues what they learned and observed.

Additionally, the FDOE contracted with the National Association of Charter School Authorizers (NACSA) to provide intensive training to authorizers on the Florida Principles and Standards of Quality Charter School Authorizing. Specifically, we immersed trainees in day-long workshops on each of the standards that the FDOE has published.

And, importantly, the FDOE has executed its most rigorous sub-grant award selection process to date. Through an innovative partnership with NACSA, sub-grant applicants under a comprehensive review of the very charter school application they submitted to their authorizer, and they must submit to a face-to-face capacity interview. Altogether, the FDOE has awarded 35 sub-grant awards after its first year of competitions, and is currently reviewing another 31 applications in its most recent competition. The FDOE anticipates hosting at least two more sub-grant competitions before the close of its CSP project.

Lastly, the FDOE has undertaken a sweeping dissemination strategy, anchored by its annual Florida Charter School Conference, which was held in November to 700 participants.

With this, the FDOE has achieved the following goals outlined in its CSP application:

- Increase academic achievement of educationally disadvantaged students
- Increase academic achievement of all students
- Decrease the achievement gap
- Increase access to high-quality charter schools

I was referred to you by Jacob Wainwright. I am writing to you on behalf of IES Abroad, a 70-year-old non-profit organization based in Chicago. IES Abroad provides premier study abroad programs, international internships and customized & faculty led programming around the world to over 10,000 US college students per year. We work with hundreds of colleges and universities in the U.S. and abroad. I received your contact information from Jacob, who is an IES Abroad alum (on our London Health Policy Program). Jacob is also my son Charlie's best friend. They attended Indiana University Bloomington together, and Charlie introduced Jacob to his wife, Rachel.

IES Abroad is being hit especially hard right now by the Coronavirus. We have been pro-actively preparing for and responding to it for several months, and putting the health and well-being of our students first in making decisions. Nevertheless, our projections and forecasts are very bleak during this period and for the foreseeable future. We are currently projecting that our enrollments and revenues will decline by 80% for the summer term, and by at least 50% for the fall term. We expect it will take some time for our enrollments to rebound given the impact and expected duration of the Coronavirus—and, frankly, through the 2020-21 academic year. We expect will last at least through the coming academic year. Enrollment and revenue drops at the levels projected would be financially catastrophic for our organization.

I am reaching out because I heard about the President's proposed legislation to provide financial relief to businesses and other enterprise adversely impacted by COVID-19. Jacob referred me to you as someone who would have a good idea of what is planned for the proposed legislation, the timeline for it, and whom it will apply.

Specifically, I am wondering whether non-profit organizations like IES Abroad will be eligible to apply for assistance under this program; and, if so, how and where to do so. Finally, I am wondering where and how to stay up to date on the proposed program as it progresses.

I would welcome any additional information you can provide to me concerning the program and its likely parameters.

Thank you in advance for any information you can provide. All the best.

Hi Danny and Charlie-

Thank you for the time today. The follow-up question we have regards the following:
Based upon this federal guidance, if a child or parent is unavailable due to illness, quarantine, a desire to practice social distancing, or under a state or federally declared shelter-in-place order, this would be a parent/family exceptional family circumstance. Illness, or desire to practice social distancing on the part of the EIS provider or closure of the EIS provider, is a system noncompliance reason. Public Health concerns must outweigh concerns about and reasonable actions to mitigate the spread of COVID-19, even if this results in noncompliance with Part C of IDEA timelines.

Michigan's schools and programs have been shut down by our Governor's Executive order. Will this be a system non-compliance for timelines or can programs use Exceptional Family Circumstance when the state educational system has been shut down?

Thank you for your guidance.

There's obviously something going on with special education that I don't really understand. I've been hearing this kind of stuff percolate up from educators around the country, but I don't know what is myth and fact. In any regard, I told this Alumni Fellow that I would share her concern with those working on these issues.

I believe the best information for her is the attached if anyone wants to get in touch with her.

Hey Gillian. I hope all is well with you. I know this is a long shot but rural schools need help from ED a result of covid-19? Rural America could use help. Because of sped law and regs, we cannot provide educational services to our reg Ed kids. In districts where maybe only 30% of students have access to internet bc of their location, it is tying our hands to do any good work that we can. Oregon just posted they won't offer any learning bc of the equity issues it could get them in. This is a national crisis and we need relaxed regs to ensure our entire population of students doesn't miss months of instruction bc of laws aimed to protect sped kids. Can u help?

Our institution has not closed but we have closed offices/department and have restricted public access to campus. We are in the process of converting the remainder of the semester to online instruction if possible. So with this being said, this as made it impossible for our work-study students to continue to work. If our institution has not closed but our students are unable to work due to office closures or restricted access, can we still pay them based on their scheduled hours as long as we can document the inability work due the COVID-19 protocol?

My college is closed to students 03/16/2020 – 03/31/2020. This has stopped all of our FWS student from being able to work. In the 03/05/2020 the FWS section indicated the FWS student could be paid as long as particular requirements were met. One of the conditions was "the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff)" and I need some clarification on this statement. Our college was closed as a result of a mandate by the SC governor. At this point, we have not been told if we, as state employees, will be paid for those 12 day without having to use annual or sick leave. In other words we are waiting to see how many days the governor is going to give faculty and staff. At this point faculty and staff are looking at the options below.

1. Government grants 1-12 days
2. Work from home for any days not granted by the governor
3. Use annual or sick leave for any days
4. Leave without pay.

In light of the above information, are my FWS students going to be eligible to be paid for all, part, or none of the time we are closed. Is being required to annual or sick leave considered "continuing to be paid"? I want to be able to pay my FWS student, but I also want to be sure I am in compliance with FSA guidance.

Thanks!

Jeff

Hello,

I am looking for some clarification on the 12 page guidance letter that was posted on March 5, 2020, referring to interruptions of study related to the Coronavirus (COVID-19). On page 3 of the letter under "Approval to Offer Distance Learning" it states that the institution may offer online technologies to students to accomodate them. It says that the flexibility only applies to a program during a payment period that overlaps the date of the electronic announcement (3-5-2020) OR the following payment period.

The "OR" that is used is making some confusion in determining what we should be looking at. Can you further define what you would consider the "following payment period" and possibly give an example of how it could be used? Thank you very much for you help.

With the current significantly low interest rate environmental, is it possible to refinance student loans at these lower interest rates? My loans are from the early to mid-1990's and early 2000's where interests were higher when compared to current rates. My interest rates are 6.125%. This could substantially lower my monthly payment and provided the needed relief for my family.

Subject: letter concerning special education evaluations

To Whom This May Concern:

My name is Judith Sakai and I am an evaluator for Texas public schools in the state of Texas.

We are facing unprecedented times with the COVID-19 pandemic. As such our districts have had to turn to distance learning to continue providing instructional time to our Texas students. As such, because "school has resumed" through "virtual classrooms," Texas evaluators are being forced to continue to evaluate students that have an open FIE or Reevaluation consent.

While the OCR document suggests that face-to-face evaluations should be discontinued while school is not in session and can resume when school is in session, TEA has put a directive that the timeline continues and the majority of evaluators, in order to obtain valid and reliable data, will be forced to meet face-to-face with the student.

If evaluators consider to do teleconferencing testing, the evaluators may not be properly trained or do not have access to instruments that are designed to be used in that format; therefore, the reliability or the validity of the data obtained will be compromised.

Furthermore, these are unique circumstances that are in fact fear or anxiety inducing, which will lead to issues with the validity of the data obtained. At this time, our families should not be worried about anything, but being together and following the directive to remain at home and reducing social contact.

I am reaching out to you as policy makers and as someone who could potentially advocate for us practitioners in this unprecedented unique situation. We are treading in uncharted waters and ultimately we want to act with an abundance of caution where we will not be hurting the student or our community.

While I understand the parents desire to get answers to their child's academic, behavioral, development, and/or emotional concerns, my hope is that TEA will adopt the recommendation from OCR that "If an evaluation of a student with a disability requires a face-to-face assessment or observation, the evaluation would need to be delayed until school reopens. Evaluations and re-evaluations that do not require face-to-face assessments or observations may take place while schools are closed, so long as a student's parent or legal guardian consents." The state of California has followed this guidance and will not be completing face-to-face evaluations until normal school routines have returned for all students. We ask that Texas adopts similar guidelines during this delicate and uncertain time.

My goal as a practitioner is to consider the best interests of the students and families we serve, while not abandoning their social, emotional, academic, and mental health needs. We have an ethical responsibility to maintain the integrity of our profession and conducting assessments during this pandemic would not be deemed as such.

Sincerely,

Judith Sakai, LSSP

I am reaching out to you as policy makers and as someone who could potentially advocate for us practitioners in this unprecedented unique situation. We are treading in uncharted waters and ultimately we want to act with an abundance of caution where we will not be hurting the student or our community.

While I understand the parents desire to get answers to their child's academic, behavioral, development, and/or emotional concerns, my hope is that TEA will adopt the recommendation from OCR that "If an evaluation of a student with a disability requires a face-to-face assessment or observation, the evaluation would need to be delayed until school reopens. Evaluations and re-evaluations that do not require face-to-face assessments or observations may take place while schools are closed, so long as a student's parent or legal guardian consents." The state of California has followed this guidance and will not be completing face-to-face evaluations until normal school routines have returned for all students. We ask that Texas adopts similar guidelines during this delicate and uncertain time.

My goal as a practitioner is to consider the best interests of the students and families we serve, while not abandoning their social, emotional, academic, and mental health needs. We have an ethical responsibility to maintain the integrity of our profession and conducting assessments during this pandemic would not be deemed as such.

Sincerely,

Judith Sakai, LSSP

During Ohio's ordered school-building closure, the health and safety of Ohio's students and educators remains the primary focus of the Ohio Department of Education. As Ohio's students with disabilities are among our state's most vulnerable children, Ohio is working closely with local school districts to ensure that our students with disabilities have access to a free and appropriate education during this very atypical period of time for learning and teaching. However, our districts and schools are seeking greater flexibilities with regard to deadlines and certain key regulations. Ohio is looking for flexibility specifically with timelines associated with IDEA, such as: IEP, ETR, reporting and monitoring, dispute resolution, state and local eligibility and use of funds. More detail on each of these specific issues is included in the attachment.

We recognize the extraordinary circumstances and appreciate the flexibility that the US Department of Education is providing in other areas of federal law. We understand that many states are asking similar questions. We respectfully submit this information for your consideration. Based on the March 20, 2020 CCSSO call, there appears to be some uncertainty about where flexibilities exist. We are interested in seeking flexibility if available for any of our identified issues. Likewise, we would be happy to engage in larger conversation to address issues that do not appear to have immediate remedies with the Office of Special Education Programs, as well as the organizations you are working with regarding the needs across all states (i.e., NAESDE and CCSSO). Mr. Latcham –
My client, the National School Transportation Association, has been working the Hill and administration with the attached proposal for relief from the negative impacts of corona. Secretary DeVos has been unresponsive and I understand DOEd is not on the task force. I have sent this to Larry Kudlow and Derek Kan. Can you direct me to anyone on the task force specifically dealing with education issues?

As background, NSTA members are private companies that provide 38% of the nation's school bus service under contract to school districts. As you can imagine, with the massive school closings across the country that may go on for several months, they are facing dire circumstances if their contracts are not paid for the time schools are closed. Some States have already announced schools will be closed for the remainder of the normal school year. Additional school activity and sports trips are also cancelled. Public school bus districts are continuing to receive funding and pay their drivers during this crisis.

NSTA is seeking a directive from Secretary DeVos (letter attached) or Congress asking school districts to continue to pay contractors for the duration of the shutdown as the funds have already been allocated for this at the State level. This would not cost the federal government any money at all but would keep 250,000 people in their jobs and 40% of the school transportation industry viable for when schools do resume. In the absence of that, NSTA is seeking $2.8 billion to cover losses due to the closing of schools in order to pay 250,000 drivers and mechanics and keep nearly 40% of the nation's school transportation capability in place for when schools do resume.

Appreciate it very much,
Becky Weber

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

March 19, 2020

Senator Mitch McConnell
Minority Leader Chuck Schumer
Speaker Nancy Pelosi
Minority Leader Kevin McCarthy

As you address relief for economic losses as a result of the COVID-19 virus, we write to seek your support for provisions to address the devastating effects it has had on the nation's private school bus companies.

The National School Transportation Association (NSTA) is the leading resource for school bus transportation solutions since 1964 - for school bus contract-operators engaged primarily in transporting students to-and-from school and school-related activities. Members range from small family businesses to large corporations operating tens of thousands of buses across multiple states. Private school transportation contractors represent roughly 38 percent of the 26 million students being transported daily - on an estimated 480,000 yellow school buses. Every day, the lives of children are entrusted to certified school transportation professionals who have receive special training and have the experience to ensure the safe transport of students.

Schools are closing across the country, and it is unlikely that districts will come close to achieving 180-day school year. Some states have already announced that schools will not reopen before summer, and many states have already indicated that this requirement will be waived in light of current events. Right now, school closings have had a devastating impact on school bus contractors and their employees.

NSTA is requesting legislation that provides for EITHER:

1) A directive, edict, or declaration that as a condition of additional funding to states and/or school districts, they are required to maintain and continue to pay school transportation contracts as long as schools remain closed;

OR

2) Emergency relief funding in the amount of $2.8 Billion to support school bus contractors, so that they can continue to pay the approximately 250,000 transportation staff and school bus drivers, maintain student welfare through extraordinary sanitizing measures and maintain the integrity of their fleets and companies

Taken together these actions are critical, so student transportation can seamlessly continue after school has reopened. It is not in the nation's interest to have nearly 40 percent of the nation's capabilities to provide school bus service disappear due to this crisis.

Option 1:

Thus far, three States (California, Illinois and Minnesota) have taken action to enable school bus contractors to continue to be paid by school districts during school closures, so that employees are paid as a result of COVID-19. NSTA continues to work in all states, and the District of Columbia, to achieve this same result. However, working state-by-state is time-consuming, and given the urgency of the situation, we are seeking Congressional action to ensure contracts continue to be paid. If additional funding is going to be made available to schools in the legislation, continuing to pay contracted providers of school transportation should be a condition of receiving funds. NSTA views this option as optimum as it does not require disbursement of any federal dollars.

Option 2:

If Option 1 is not possible, NSTA requests $2.8 Billion in 100 percent, federal no match, economic injury grants to address economic losses incurred by school bus contractors as a result of school closings due to COVID-19. It is estimated that overall the private school bus industry is a $9 billion industry. Companies are losing approximately $85 million per week. If the school closings last 16 or more weeks into June, the economic losses to the industry could reach $3 Billion.

Our members' first concern remains their employees, drivers, monitors, office staff, and maintenance staff. Maintaining pupil transportation revenue will result in our workforce being provided a regular paycheck. Maintaining consistent pupil transportation funding will enable our contractor members to continue to provide a regular paycheck to employees (maintenance, dispatch, mechanics, etc.) and drivers during this time of crisis, as most drivers live paycheck to paycheck and cannot afford to live or support their families on a reduced income derived through unemployment compensation.

Retention of drivers is also a concern. The industry already suffers from a shortage of bus drivers, and it is likely that drivers will seek employment elsewhere during this crisis if they cannot continue to be paid. If that is the case, it will lead to an insufficient number of drivers to provide transportation to students when school resumes. There is already a lack of applicants for driver positions, and depending upon the state, it can take up to 12 weeks for a new driver to be adequately and appropriately trained, tested, and licensed. If all new drivers need to be hired, trained, and licensed at the conclusion of this crisis, these factors could cause a disruption in transportation services.

School bus contractors have fixed costs and overhead – representing about 65 percent of operating expenses, including equipment financing for vehicles that cost $90,000 or more. Private operators must maintain and pay for insurance and maintenance costs for their facility. In addition, contractors calculate their costs and structure contract pricing based on the assumption of approximately 180 days of transportation revenue over multiple years.

Finally, School bus contractors are also disinfecting school bus equipment, to ensure a safe and clean environment for the students they transport - resulting in increased expenses.

In closing, some students, not attending classes, are no longer ensured school breakfast and lunch. The continuity of these programs may depend upon school bus contractors' ability to provide distribution of meals to students and can be tangible benefit of providing stimulus funding.

We appreciate your consideration of this request, and look forward to working with you to provide continuity in student transportation.

Sincerely,

Curt Macysyn
NSTA Executive Director

NSTA
NATIONAL SCHOOL TRANSPORTATION ASSOCIATION

August 7, 2020

The Honorable Betsy DeVos
Secretary
U.S. Department of Education
400 Maryland Avenue SW
Washington, D.C. 20202

Dear Secretary DeVos:

As you know, COVID-19 virus is presenting us with new and unprecedented challenges at many levels. The National School Transportation Association (NSTA) represents private school bus contractors, who are responsible for transporting nearly 38 percent of the 26 million children to-and-from school each day. Our member companies continue to work together in concert with our school districts – keeping our students safe and secure. Unfortunately, as we have seen, as the number of confirmed cases of COVID-19 have increased, various measures have been put in place to contain the spread of the virus. These measures include mandated closure of schools for a period of time, until this imminent threat dissipates.

These are extraordinary times, and we urge you to take immediate federal action that directs state Departments of Education to require their school districts to continue to pay for pupil transportation funding for a 180-day school year in the event of any reduction in transportation days. These funds are already allocated in State budgets and mechanisms are currently in place to distribute these funds. Our concern lies within a desire to maintain a sound student transportation infrastructure through this health crisis, a system that requires us to be prepared to re-engage immediately after this unprecedented interruption to the school year. It will not serve the schoolchildren of this country to have 38 percent of available student transportation options eliminated after this crisis subsides.

While the health and safety of our children remains our collective focus, we are vitally concerned in two areas that will undoubtedly affect the school children we transport. Our first concern is our employees; drivers, monitors, office staff and maintenance staff. Maintaining pupil transportation funding, and continuity in our payments, results in our workforce being provided a regular paycheck.

Specifically, our drivers cannot afford to live without a paycheck or support their families on a reduced amount of money they would collect by filing for unemployment insurance. Therefore, maintaining consistent pupil transportation funding through this crisis will enable our members provide a regular paycheck on an ongoing basis. In addition, a regular paycheck may ensure that drivers will not seek other employment, and will instead be available when school resumes. As you may know, the industry already suffers from a shortage of school bus drivers, and if the funding stream to contractors does not continue during this closure, we risk losing school bus drivers to employment opportunities.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The driver shortage will make the already challenging quest to find new drivers even more difficult. Keep in mind, furthering complicating this issue is the simple fact that it can take up to 12 weeks before a new driver can be adequately and appropriately trained, tested, and licensed.

In addition, like many businesses, school bus contractors have fixed costs and overhead – representing about 65 percent of operating expenses. For example, investment in equipment (i.e. – school buses) remains a major expense and is based on the assumption of approximately 180 days of transportation revenue over multiple years. A disruption in the student transportation revenue stream (i.e.- less than 180 contracted school days) will make it extremely difficult to meet financial obligations.

Finally, with the reality of school closures, the ability of many children to receive adequate nourishment through school breakfast and lunch programs will be compromised, and in worse case scenarios, curtailed indefinitely. Since school bus contractors already know pick-up and drop off routes, we are poised to provide distribution of meals to students for school districts. The continuity of these programs could be a net benefit of the decision to maintain payments to school bus contractors through the entire term of this crisis.

Thank you for your consideration of our request. Please feel free to contact me at 703-684-3200 ext. 700, or via email at cmacysyn@yellowbuses.org - should you require further information.

Sincerely,

Curt Macysyn

Subject: [EXTERNAL] private school bus companies and corona

Mr. Latcham –
My client, the National School Transportation Association, has been working the Hill and administration with the attached proposal for relief from the negative impacts of corona. Secretary DeVos has been unresponsive and I understand DOEd is not on the task force. I have sent this to Larry Kudlow and Derek Kan. Can you direct me to anyone on the task force specifically dealing with education issues?

As background, NSTA members are private companies that provide 38% of the nation's school bus service under contract to school districts. As you can imagine, with the massive school closings across the country that may go on for several months, they are facing dire circumstances if their contracts are not paid for the time schools are closed. Some States have already announced schools will be closed for the remainder of the normal school year. Additional school activity and sports trips are also cancelled. Public school bus districts are continuing to receive funding and pay their drivers during this crisis.

NSTA is seeking a directive from Secretary DeVos (letter attached) or Congress asking school districts to continue to pay contractors for the duration of the shutdown as the funds have already been allocated for this at the State level. This would not cost the federal government any money at all but would keep 250,000 people in their jobs and 40% of the school transportation industry viable for when schools do resume. In the absence of that, NSTA is seeking $2.8 billion to cover losses due to the closing of schools in order to pay 250,000 drivers and mechanics and keep nearly 40% of the nation's school transportation capability in place for when schools do resume.

Appreciate it very much,
Becky Weber

Senator Mitch McConnell
Minority Leader Chuck Schumer
Speaker Nancy Pelosi
Minority Leader Kevin McCarthy

As you address relief for economic losses as a result of the COVID-19 virus, we write to seek your support for provisions to address the devastating effects it has had on the nation's private school bus companies.

The National School Transportation Association (NSTA) is the leading resource for school bus transportation solutions since 1964 - for school bus contract-operators engaged primarily in transporting students to-and-from school and school-related activities. Members range from small family businesses to large corporations operating tens of thousands of buses across multiple states. Private school transportation contractors represent roughly 38 percent of the 26 million students being transported daily - on an estimated 480,000 yellow school buses. Every day, the lives of children are entrusted to certified school transportation professionals who have receive special training and have the experience to ensure the safe transport of students.

Schools are closing across the country, and it is unlikely that districts will come close to achieving 180-day school year. Some states have already announced that schools will not reopen before summer, and many states have already indicated that this requirement will be waived in light of current events. Right now, school closings have had a devastating impact on school bus contractors and their employees.

NSTA is requesting legislation that provides for EITHER:

1) A directive, edict, or declaration that as a condition of additional funding to states and/or school districts, they are required to maintain and continue to pay school transportation contracts as long as schools remain closed;

OR

2) Emergency relief funding in the amount of $2.8 Billion to support school bus contractors, so that they can continue to pay the approximately 250,000 transportation staff and school bus drivers, maintain student welfare through extraordinary sanitizing measures and maintain the integrity of their fleets and companies

Taken together these actions are critical, so student transportation can seamlessly continue after school has reopened. It is not in the nation's interest to have nearly 40 percent of the nation's capabilities to provide school bus service disappear due to this crisis.

Option 1:

Thus far, three States (California, Illinois and Minnesota) have taken action to enable school bus contractors to continue to be paid by school districts during school closures, so that employees are paid as a result of COVID-19. NSTA continues to work in all states, and the District of Columbia, to achieve this same result. However, working state-by-state is time-consuming, and given the urgency of the situation, we are seeking Congressional action to ensure contracts continue to be paid. If additional funding is going to be made available to schools in the legislation, continuing to pay contracted providers of school transportation should be a condition of receiving funds. NSTA views this option as optimum as it does not require disbursement of any federal dollars.

Option 2:

If Option 1 is not possible, NSTA requests $2.8 Billion in 100 percent, federal no match, economic injury grants to address economic losses incurred by school bus contractors as a result of school closings due to COVID-19. It is estimated that overall the private school bus industry is a $9 billion industry. Companies are losing approximately $85 million per week. If the school closings last 16 or more weeks into June, the economic losses to the industry could reach $3 Billion.

Our members' first concern remains their employees, drivers, monitors, office staff, and maintenance staff. Maintaining pupil transportation revenue will result in our workforce being provided a regular paycheck. Maintaining consistent pupil transportation funding will enable our contractor members to continue to provide a regular paycheck to employees (maintenance, dispatch, mechanics, etc.) and drivers during this time of crisis, as most drivers live paycheck to paycheck and cannot afford to live or support their families on a reduced income derived through unemployment compensation.

Retention of drivers is also a concern. The industry already suffers from a shortage of bus drivers, and it is likely that drivers will seek employment elsewhere during this crisis if they cannot continue to be paid. If that is the case, it will lead to an insufficient number of drivers to provide transportation to students when school resumes. There is already a lack of applicants for driver positions, and depending upon the state, it can take up to 12 weeks for a new driver to be adequately and appropriately trained, tested, and licensed. If all new drivers need to be hired, trained, and licensed at the conclusion of this crisis, these factors could cause a disruption in transportation services.

School bus contractors have fixed costs and overhead – representing about 65 percent of operating expenses, including equipment financing for vehicles that cost $90,000 or more. Private operators must maintain and pay for insurance and maintenance costs for their facility. In addition, contractors calculate their costs and structure contract pricing based on the assumption of approximately 180 days of transportation revenue over multiple years.

Finally, School bus contractors are also disinfecting school bus equipment, to ensure a safe and clean environment for the students they transport - resulting in increased expenses.

In closing, some students, not attending classes, are no longer ensured school breakfast and lunch. The continuity of these programs may depend upon school bus contractors' ability to provide distribution of meals to students and can be tangible benefit of providing stimulus funding.

We appreciate your consideration of this request, and look forward to working with you to provide continuity in student transportation.

Sincerely,

Curt Macysyn

NATIONAL SCHOOL TRANSPORTATION ASSOCIATION

The Honorable Betsy DeVos
Secretary
U.S. Department of Education
400 Maryland Avenue SW
Washington, D.C. 20202

Dear Secretary DeVos:

As you know, COVID-19 virus is presenting us with new and unprecedented challenges at many levels. The National School Transportation Association (NSTA) represents private school bus contractors, who are responsible for transporting nearly 38 percent of the 26 million children to-and-from school each day. Our member companies continue to work together in concert with our school districts – keeping our students safe and secure. Unfortunately, as we have seen, as the number of confirmed cases of COVID-19 have increased, various measures have been put in place to contain the spread of the virus. These measures include mandated closure of schools for a period of time, until this imminent threat dissipates.

These are extraordinary times, and we urge you to take immediate federal action that directs state Departments of Education to require their school districts to continue to pay for pupil transportation funding for a 180-day school year in the event of any reduction in transportation days. These funds are already allocated in State budgets and mechanisms are currently in place to distribute these funds. Our concern lies within a desire to maintain a sound student transportation infrastructure through this health crisis, a system that requires us to be prepared to re-engage immediately after this unprecedented interruption to the school year. It will not serve the schoolchildren of this country to have 38 percent of available student transportation options eliminated after this crisis subsides.

While the health and safety of our children remains our collective focus, we are vitally concerned in two areas that will undoubtedly affect the school children we transport. Our first concern is our employees; drivers, monitors, office staff and maintenance staff. Maintaining pupil transportation funding, and continuity in our payments, results in our workforce being provided a regular paycheck.

Specifically, our drivers cannot afford to live without a paycheck or support their families on a reduced amount of money they would collect by filing for unemployment insurance. Therefore, maintaining consistent pupil transportation funding through this crisis will enable our members provide a regular paycheck on an ongoing basis. In addition, a regular paycheck may ensure that drivers will not seek other employment, and will instead be available when school resumes. As you may know, the industry already suffers from a shortage of school bus drivers, and if the funding stream to contractors does not continue during this closure, we risk losing school bus drivers to employment opportunities.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The driver shortage will make the already challenging quest to find new drivers even more difficult. Keep in mind, furthering complicating this issue is the simple fact that it can take up to 12 weeks before a new driver can be adequately and appropriately trained, tested, and licensed.

In addition, like many businesses, school bus contractors have fixed costs and overhead – representing about 65 percent of operating expenses. For example, investment in equipment (i.e. – school buses) remains a major expense and is based on the assumption of approximately 180 days of transportation revenue over multiple years. A disruption in the student transportation revenue stream (i.e.- less than 180 contracted school days) will make it extremely difficult to meet financial obligations.

Finally, with the reality of school closures, the ability of many children to receive adequate nourishment through school breakfast and lunch programs will be compromised, and in worse case scenarios, curtailed indefinitely. Since school bus contractors already know pick-up and drop off routes, we are poised to provide distribution of meals to students for school districts. The continuity of these programs could be a net benefit of the decision to maintain payments to school bus contractors through the entire term of this crisis.

Thank you for your consideration of our request. Please feel free to contact me at 703-684-3200 ext. 700, or via email at cmacysyn@yellowbuses.org - should you require further information.

I am asking this question on behalf of a state Part C program. This state is working on major revisions to policies and procedures that they plan to submit to OSEP in the summer, after July 1. They will be conducting the public participation review and comment period in May and June. In mid-June they had planned to hold two face-to-face public hearings. If the prohibition of public group meetings is still in place in that state in June, they are seeking guidance from OSEP on whether they may fulfill the public hearing requirement in 303.208(b) via virtual public hearings conducted using Zoom or a similar format?

Subject: Question about impact on COA

Good afternoon,

Can you please provide clarification on the impact of a refund of housing and meals on the COA and estimated financial assistance?

The scenario is that our school will be adjusting the charges for students for the remainder of the semester since they are no longer in housing and no longer using their meal plans. For example, our original COA will have approximately $7000 for spring 2020 in room and board (I'm rounding). Once we refund students, the total charges to the students will be $3500 for the semester. Are we required to adjust the COA?

If the charge is not adjusted, and the student receives a waiver instead… Is it correct to not adjust the COA and to add the amount of the waiver as part of the student's total estimated financial assistance for spring?

Or it is ok to refund or waive the room and board with no changes to COA or estimated financial assistance? This is the rumor going around, and I have a lot of non-Financial Aid professionals pushing for this.

I would appreciate any guidance you can provide as I would like to make sure we are documenting students files accurately.

Thank you,

Hello,

I am an Admin of a clock hour school, we have received approval from state and accreditor to implement the Distance Education due to COVID-19. Our brick and mortar is closed, but we have adapted distance education to make a smooth transition for students to continue their education.

Where can I read up on Distance Education requirements? I saw the Dear Coll. Letter 3/5 but cant seem to locate any other standards that I may need to be aware of.

Anything else I should know as a clock hour school as it correlates to this?

Hello from Southwestern University - OPE ID 00362000

I have a question about the Federal Work Study payments. We have decided to move forward with paying our FWS students regardless of whether they work. We are migrating to distance learning protocol, so our students will be unable to work in the jobs they previously had.

In this situation, are we able to pay these students in a lump sum? The amount would be what we would pay them from now through the end of the semester. Or should we pay them every two weeks as we normally would? I couldn't find anything in the guidance that addressed this.

Thank you for your help.

Hello,
The nursing school I attend has cancelled in seat classes and clinical assignments for the rest of the semester. However, we received an email today that stated we will be required to return to school for exams. The exams will be held in an auditorium with at least 60 people or more inside. This leaves me with tremendous fear, uncertainty, and anxiety for the health of my children and my elderly parents for whom I care for.
Please provide guidance.

Hello,

Thank you for your call today to school system leaders. Very helpful! We have two questions:

1) Will USDOE will provide waivers to school districts for not being able to meet timelines for IEP meetings or eligibility processes that were under-way before massive school closures.

We appreciate the guidance on the provision of services to students with disabilities, but we are still struggling to figure out how we can adhere to the strict timelines around annual IEPs and eligibility timeframe requirements.

Will USDOE suspend these requirements until school resumes? If not, what guidance, given that many families are unable to join virtually (nor is this desirable), to school districts to meet these timelines when staff may be unable to be present themselves, when student files may still be left at school sites, or when related services providers or contractors (such as educational evaluators) are not available?

2) The stringent rules governing reimbursable meals through the Federal School Lunch Program: we are being told that we must follow every protocol to the letter and our state agency has reinforced this. While we respect the importance of regulations, and the need to provide nutritious meals, the myriad regs are making it extremely stressful to provide meals-- particularly in high-poverty school districts. What relief and/or support is USDA or ED providing to school districts to make it easier (and be able to guarantee reimbursement) to provide meals to our students who need them?

Thank you,
Tracy

Dear Colleagues,

Colorado LEAs have experienced challenges due to closures and event cancellations caused by COVID-19. We are seeking guidance on the following questions:

- Many LEAs will have in excess of 15% carryover of Title I funds due to so many event cancellations and refunds associated with closures/cancellations. Will there be a waiver of the carryover cap?
- Due to school closures and social distancing requirements in the State, consultations have been limited or not able to be conducted. Will LEAs and schools be able to conduct consultations after social distancing requirements have been lifted (possibly as late as August or later)?
- What flexibilities can be extended to schools and LEAs wanting to use ESEA funds to support distance and online learning for students? Can they purchase chromebooks? Pay for hot spots for students who do not have internet access otherwise? Can they pay for subscriptions to online educational resources?
- If an LEA is continuing to pay salaries of staff and teachers during closures, can they continue to use ESEA funds to also pay salaries? If so, what guidance or restrictions are there on the percentages to be paid out of ESEA funds?

We look forward to receiving your guidance and greatly appreciate your support in these difficult and challenging times.

- Current State position on the use of State funds, is that teachers can only get paid if they are working (could be providing services or engaging in professional development). There is some opposition to this from teachers unions. Regarding time and effort for IDEA:
    - If staff were not to be working, how would that be documented for time and effort?
    - If staff are engaged in non IDEA issues (such as child care), how would that be documented?
- What is impact on specific IDEA fiscal requirements: LEA MOE, Excess Cost and MFS? Note potential for increased State funds to pay for compensatory services, may result in a bump in State level of effort, which may not be sustained.
- If IDEA funds have already been obligated, but because of delays, cannot be expended prior to expiration what can be done (

Subject: Questions

Hey Kate-Upper management just called. They were on the OSEP call. Here is what I need to know:

APR- will states be waived from data collection from March 16-June 30, 2020( end of reporting period) Meaning, will states receive a determination next year when we were not able to collect data during school closures.

IEP timelines during school closures- Our teacher union is standing their ground and supporting teachers not working during the school closure. Will flexibility be given to lapse IEPs, overdue initial evaluations, overdue reevaluations, etc.

Dispute Resolution- what guidance will OSEP provide on complaint timelines, mediation requests, DPH requests timelines- "receipt "when school is out, when school resumes, etc.

I wish the department would consider using a different word than Compensatory Ed when the LEA has not failed to provide a service. To me this is more of a break in instruction and the break is for all students.

If OSEP will be providing guidance in the next day or two, I can wait and would rather wait so I get it right.

Thanks. Crystal

Hi.
I coordinate a Second Chance Pell experimental site at a correctional facility in CT. Online courses (any technology, really) is not an option for us. We have a plan to have assignments and instructions delivered weekly to the facility. Completed assignments will be picked up, graded and returned weekly also.
Do you define this as correspondence courses? Or not because the drop/off and pick up will occur weekly. I ask because correspondence courses are not approved for Second Chance Pell.
Thank you, Erin Pagano

Good morning,

Our controller's office has a question and I have not yet found that it has been addressed (if it has been, my apologies):

If we refund a portion of room and board fees that were covered by the application of federal aid, can we apply a credit on a student's account to rollover to a future year (assuming they are returning), or must we refund in cash? I know per our federal policy we would refund in cash within the set amount of business days. However, I want to confirm that this is still the case with the COVID situation.

Respectfully,

Lisa

Subject: Regarding Loan Disbursements for International Schools Affected by Covid-19

To whom it may concern,

My name is Tyler and I am currently attending a college abroad, in Poland to be specific. Due to the current situation of the Covid-19 virus, my university is temporarily closed down to prevent the spread to the students and instructors. As a result, my whole program is currently operating through e-learning programs. It's certainly not what we want, but we are doing what we can to keep our lives on track despite the situation. However, as a result of our university being temporarily closed down and learning online, for the time being, the Department of Education is not allowing the disbursement of affected students FASFA loans to be used to pay for school tuition.

I am sure that those of you reading this are already very aware of this situation, however, I would like you to know exactly how this situation is affecting myself and others in the same position. My school has already generously extended the payment for tuition to the end of April, however, I, like many others, will only be able to pay for this tuition if it is covered by our student loans. As a result, if my tuition goes unpaid, I will have to drop out of school and my visa will become void. I have been attending this university for the past two and a half years and am in my final semester before graduation. As you can likely imagine, having to drop out at this point would cause great damage to my life.

To get to the point, I would kindly ask that those of you at the Department of Education take fully into account the situation that the world is in right now and allow for the funds to be used to pay tuition in the case that a school is temporarily closed due to concerns over the virus.

I am already working with my school's financial aid office, other officials at my university, as well as contacts at FASFA and the USDE. I would be more than willing to provide any additional information required to resolve this situation.

Please also see below screenshots from emails between myself and my Financial Aid Administrator, Ewa Stankiewicz, at Jagiellonian University. (ewa.stankiewicz@uj.edu.pl)

Thank you and I look forward to hearing back from you,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

March 20, 2020

Honorable Betsy DeVos
Secretary
U.S. Department of Education
400 Maryland Avenue, S.W.
Washington, D.C. 20202

Dear Secretary DeVos:

On behalf of the American Association of Cosmetology Schools ("AACS"), we are requesting that the Department of Education provide regulatory flexibility on several pertinent issues that have arisen as a result of COVID-19 interruptions. AACS is a private, non-profit trade association founded in 1924 to represent the interests of state-licensed, accredited institutions of higher education that educate students for occupations in the beauty and wellness industry. Economists are predicting up to 20% unemployment as a result of the impacts of the pandemic on our economy, and individuals will require increased training and re-training to return to the workforce. Our schools are located throughout the United States and a majority participate in the U.S. Department of Education's Title IV programs. Our institutions are predominantly clock hour and lead to state licensed occupations. As our institutions attempt to adapt to the changing educational setting during this difficult time, we request that the Department provides us with additional flexibility on several regulatory areas described below.

1. Enrollment for new students. In the COVID-19 guidance provided by the Department to date, institutions are provided temporary flexibility to implement distance learning solutions for the purposes of educating students in the event of campus interruptions due to COVID-19. However, that guidance is limited to temporary online programming for currently enrolled students only. The guidance does not address the situation of clock hour institutions that do not operate on a traditional academic year calendar and that have either "rolling" starts or periodic start dates throughout the year. These institutions and programs are designed to provide maximum flexibility to adult learners by allowing multiple start dates and alternative scheduling. It is critical that these institutions be provided additional flexibility to continue to enroll and operate as close to normally as possible during the COVID-19 interruption. Accordingly, we are requesting that the Department issue guidance that makes clear that clock hour institutions may continue to enroll new students in temporary online programs with state and accreditor approval. This will allow clock hour schools to avoid existential interruptions and afford students the opportunity to continue their education while minimizing interruption during this period. Clock hour programs are far more vulnerable to the impact of COVID-19 as compared to degree granting programs. Clock hour-based programs are typically meaningfully shorter than degree granting programs with tuition paid only for hours attended. Hence, clock hour programs are more financially at risk. Conversely, clock hour programs are designed to get graduates in the workforce quickly, which is precisely what will be required during a weak economy which will follow in the wake of COVID-19.

2. Learning environment. With regard to the type of learning environment provided by institutions during the COVID-19 interruption, we are requesting that the Department issue clear and detailed guidance that makes clear that both asynchronous and synchronous online learning tools are acceptable for online programs offered by clock hour schools at least on a temporary basis. In an effort to offer our students the ability to follow a set schedule of online classes, our institutions have been working extremely hard, and very successfully, to transition from on ground to online learning and to provide continued quality educational opportunities to our students so that they can continue their studies. We believe that it is necessary to afford clock hour institutions the flexibility to use both synchronous and asynchronous learning, just like traditional institutions have been given, so long as the institution can demonstrate regular and substantive interaction via an asynchronous environment.

3. 90/10 and Composite Scores. Although this is a longer term concern, it needs to be addressed. Many cosmetology schools rely on allowable non-Title IV revenues related to their programs that derive from services offered on the clinic floor. Increasingly, as states implement additional safeguards, they are moving to mandate the temporary closure of all salon and barber related businesses. These services are not offered when a school closes its physical premises and moves to an online delivery model on a temporarily basis. As a result, we would expect that many of our member institutions may encounter issues with 90/10 compliance for the audit year impacted by the COVID-19 interruption. We request that given the circumstances, the Department provide a temporary waiver of the 90/10 requirement for the audit year impacted by the COVID-19 interruption. This will be imperative to the long-term compliance of affected institutions. This also raises more broadly the Department's need to provide a temporary waiver of composite score Title IV consequences due to revenue losses for the audit year impacted by COVID-19. We urge the Department to make clear that it would accept accreditors and states also providing temporary waivers of regulatory consequences tied to financial condition for the impacted year. If schools borrow towards the operation, the financial impact would be significant and if prolonged for a period of time would become extreme. As a result, the treatment of long term debt under the changes to the financial responsibility rules effective July 1, 2020 should be postponed.

4. Elimination of 50% on line distance education rule and relaxed SAP. We are asking the department to allow 100% online programs during the crisis and relaxed Satisfactory Academic Progress standards.

5. Class Size – Online. We request that the Department make clear that the Department has no restrictions on class size for online course enrollments and that it is acceptable for states and accreditors to waive any class size limitations that may apply to programs offered in person while institutions are using online delivery for current and new enrollments. By doing so, our institutions will be able to reach and educate additional students to be prepared to re-enter a recovering economy and without harming the learning environment.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

6. Leave of Absence: If a student does not return from an LOA due to coronavirus circumstances, the last date of attendance should be the date of determination (not the first date of the LOA as the law is written now).

7. Unemployment deferments and forbearances. We seek confirmation of waiver of interest during this pandemic as well as waiver of impacted months in the cumulative limits for deferments and forbearance. We also recommend waiver of an employment search as a requirement for the unemployment deferments during times of pandemic and quarantine.

On behalf of our entire association, we thank you for your consideration of our requests. Your staff may contact Katherine Brodie at Kdbrodie@duanemorris.com or call 202-776-5241 in connection with this request.

Very Truly Yours,

Kathy Chow

As a result of these necessary changes, our Spring 2020 semester has been reduced to 13 weeks of instruction which brings the total number of weeks of instruction for the 2019-2020 academic year to 28 weeks.

Hello!

I hope you are doing well!

UW La Crosse has made the decision to shorten the semester by one week as a result of the COVID 19 pandemic. The decision was made by our Chancellor and senior leadership here on campus. Are you able to outline the steps we need to take in order to make a formal request (to shorten the academic year) with the School Participation team? Any assistance is appreciated!

Thank you so much!

Please accept my apologies for sending this to all of you, but I'm not sure who the correct person is regarding my concern.

Hi there! I hope you and your family are well during this unusual time. I need some guidance and am hoping you can point me in the right direction of who to contact. I am the lead diagnostician for a special ed coop and we are getting conflicting directives from the federal department of education and TEA regarding special education evaluations while school is not physically in session. The federal department of education has stated that no face-to-face student evaluations should take place until students physically return to school (which is a logical and safe recommendation). However, TEA continues to advise that our evaluation timelines apply as long as students are participating in any form of education (virtual or otherwise) and have directed schools to have students come in for in-person evaluations so that we are not out of compliance. Face-to-face evaluations require close contact with students and the use of hands-on manipulatives which would lead to spread of COVID-19 if either the staff or student were infected. This puts us as evaluation personnel at risk, along with our families, and puts special needs students and their families at risk (and these are often students who have health concerns and place them in a higher risk category already). It also puts me at risk as I am 62 and have asthma, a respiratory disease which I take medication for on a daily basis. I'm appalled that TEA is ignoring the federal guidance and placing our staff and students at unnecessary risk. I've already emailed Governor Abbott's office, but I know that it could take awhile for my message to reach anyone. What other avenues would you suggest for me to pursue (and to urge others to pursue) in order to quickly reach the people who have any say in this matter? Thanks in advance for your help!

Good afternoon, Ms. Walters,

My name is Eleanor Garrett-Grimsley, and I am a resident of Arlington, TX. I am also an educational diagnostician with one of the local ISDs. I am writing because I am very concerned about guidance coming down from TEA regarding special education ARD meetings and evaluation timelines. We have been informed that TEA/OSEP still requires ISDs to hold annual ARD meetings and conduct evaluations.

In order to hold an ARD meeting, individualized testing must be conducted in order to determine present levels of academic and functional performance and determine appropriate IEP goals. Without face-to-face contact and extremely limited virtual data, it would be unfair to expect our special education providers to develop goals that are student-centered. They would have to make due with previous data that may not be appropriate once students return to school.

I have reviewed the OSEP guidance that face-to-face evaluations should be avoided at this time in accordance with CDC regulations, yet TEA appears to be mandating otherwise. In order to conduct valid evaluations, students must be tested face-to-face. Even existing virtual schools must conduct evaluations in person because of standardization procedures. Even with six foot social distancing, the assessments we use would be invalidated without closer contact such as demonstration of tasks. It is absolutely ridiculous that diagnosticians and other evaluators should put our health and safety, as well as that of our students, on the line in order to maintain an evaluation timeline.

I am a huge advocate for individuals with disabilities. I would never argue that we should deny them rights or hinder their freedoms in any way. My colleagues and I are doing all we can to make sure our students with disabilities continue to be accommodated and instructed appropriately. That said, when students' and educators' health is on the line, the priority should be fighting this pandemic and flattening the curve. With schools closed and ISDs given the opportunity to adjust educational procedures to accommodate the need for restricted contact, it is only fair that the government also give special education evaluators and facilitators the same fair treatment.

Thank you for your consideration of this important concern,
Eleanor Garrett-Grimsley

Subject: Special Education Evaluation Timelines under COVID-19 Distance Learning Guidelines: For Immediate Consideration!

Greetings!

My name is Margaret Bridgeman, and I am an Educational Diagnostician for the Austin Independent School District.

We are facing unprecedented times with the COVID-19 pandemic. As such, our districts have had to turn to distance learning to continue providing instructional time to our Texas students. Because "school has resumed" through "virtual classrooms," Texas evaluators are being forced to continue to evaluate students that have an open consent for a Full Individual Initial Evaluation or Re-evaluation via Special Education Evaluation Services.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

While the OCR document suggests that face-to-face evaluations should be discontinued while school is not in session and can resume when school is in session, TEA has put a contradictory directive that the timeline continues. The majority of evaluators, in order to obtain valid and reliable data, will be forced to meet face-to-face with the student.

If evaluators consider to do teleconferencing testing, the evaluators may not be properly trained or do not have access to instruments that are designed to be used in that format; therefore, the reliability or the validity of the data obtained will be compromised.

Furthermore, these are unique circumstances that are in fact fear or anxiety inducing, which will lead to issues with the validity of the data obtained. Many students in special education are immunocompromised themselves, or reside in households with multiple generations of family members. At this time, our families should not be worried about anything but being together and following the directive to remain at home and reduce social contact.

I am reaching out to you as policy makers and as someone who could potentially advocate for us practitioners in this unprecedented unique situation. We are treading in uncharted waters and ultimately we want to act with an abundance of caution where we will not be hurting the student or our community.

While I understand the sincere desire of parents to get answers to their child's academic concerns, my hope is that TEA will adopt the recommendation from OCR that "If an evaluation of a student with a disability requires a face-to-face assessment or observation, the evaluation would need to be delayed until school reopens, and federal and state timelines for evaluations extended accordingly. Evaluations and re-evaluations that do not require face-to-face assessments or observations may take place while schools are closed, so long as a student's parent or legal guardian consents." The state of California has followed this guidance and will not be completing face-to-face evaluations until normal school routines have returned for all students. We ask that Texas adopts similar guidelines during this delicate and uncertain time.

My goal as a practitioner is to consider the best interests of the students and families we serve, while not abandoning their needs. We have an ethical responsibility to maintain the integrity of our profession and conducting assessments during this pandemic would not be deemed as such.

Sincerely,

Margaret Bridgeman

I am reaching out to you as policy makers and as someone who could potentially advocate for us practitioners in this unprecedented unique situation. We are treading in uncharted waters and ultimately we want to act with an abundance of caution where we will not be hurting the student or our community.

While I understand the parents desire to get answers to their child's academic, behavioral, development, and/or emotional concerns, my hope is that TEA will adopt the recommendation from OCR that "If an evaluation of a student with a disability requires a face-to-face assessment or observation, the evaluation would need to be delayed until school reopens. Evaluations and re-evaluations that do not require face-to-face assessments or observations may take place while schools are closed, so long as a student's parent or legal guardian consents." The state of California has followed this guidance and will not be completing face-to-face evaluations until normal school routines have returned for all students. We ask that Texas adopts similar guidelines during this delicate and uncertain time.

My goal as a practitioner is to consider the best interests of the students and families we serve, while not abandoning their social, emotional, academic, and mental health needs. We have an ethical responsibility to maintain the integrity of our profession and conducting assessments during this pandemic would not be deemed as such.

Dr. Alecia Walters,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

My name is Laurie Miller and I am an evaluator, or Educational Diagnostician, for Texas public schools in the state of Texas.

We are facing unprecedented times with the COVID-19 pandemic. As such our districts have had to turn to distance learning to continue providing instructional time to our Texas students. As such, because "school has resumed" through "virtual classrooms," Texas evaluators are being forced to continue to evaluate students that have an open FIE or Reevaluation consent.

While the OCR document suggests that face-to-face evaluations should be discontinued while school is not in session and can resume when school is in session, TEA has put a directive that the timeline continues and the majority of evaluators, in order to obtain valid and reliable data, will be forced to meet face-to-face with the student.

If evaluators consider to do teleconferencing testing, most evaluators are not properly trained and do not have access to instruments that are designed to be used in this format; therefore, the reliability or the validity of the data obtained will be compromised.

Furthermore, these are unique circumstances that are in fact fear or anxiety inducing, which will lead to issues with the validity of the data obtained. At this time, our families should not be worried about anything, but being together and following the directive to remain at home and reducing social contact.

I am reaching out to you as policy makers and as someone who could potentially advocate for us practitioners in this unprecedented unique situation. We are treading in uncharted waters and ultimately we want to act with an abundance of caution where we will not be hurting the student or our community.

While I understand the parents desire to get answers to their child's academic, behavioral, development, and/or emotional concerns, my hope is that TEA will adopt the recommendation from OCR that "If an evaluation of a student with a disability requires a face-to-face assessment or observation, the evaluation would need to be delayed until school reopens. Evaluations and reevaluations that do not require face-to-face assessments or observations may take place while schools are closed, so long as a student's parent or legal guardian consents." The state of California has followed this guidance and will not be completing face-to-face evaluations until normal school routines have returned for all students. We ask that Texas adopts similar guidelines during this delicate and uncertain time.

COVID 19 and Special Education Q&A

Q1: Do Local Education Agencies (LEAs) have flexibility regarding the provision of a Free and Appropriate Public Education (FAPE) to students receiving special education services in times of emergencies such as the COVID-19 pandemic?

A1: No. Neither state nor federal law provide flexibility to LEAs in times of emergency regarding their obligation to provide FAPE to students receiving special education services. If an LEA closes its schools because the functioning or delivery of educational services is disrupted and does not provide any educational services to the general student population, then an LEA would not be required to provide services to students with disabilities during that same period of time. Once school resumes, the LEA must make every effort to provide special education and related services to the child in accordance with the child's Individualized Education Program (IEP). In addition, the Annual Review and Dismissal (ARD) committee would be required to make an individualized determination as to whether compensatory services are needed to make up for any skills that may have been lost because of an extended school closure.

If schools are closed, but the LEA continues to provide educational opportunities to the general student population during the closure, the school must ensure that students with disabilities also have equal access to the same opportunities, including the provision of FAPE. The LEA must ensure that, to the greatest extent possible, each student with a disability can be provided the special education and related services identified in the student's IEP.

Q2: What flexibility do LEAs have in the process required to adjust an individual student's existing IEP in times of emergencies such as the COVID 19 pandemic?

A2: LEAs should continue to follow local policies regarding changing or amending an existing IEP. In addition, according to previous guidance from the United States Department of Education, Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP), if a school continues to provide instruction to the general school population during an extended closure due to a disaster, but is not able to provide services to a student with a disability in accordance with the student's IEP, the student's ARD committee determines which services can be provided to appropriately meet the student's needs.

The ARD committee may meet by teleconference or other means (if all members are able) to determine if some, or all, of the identified services can be provided through alternate or additional methods. Once the school reopens, the ARD committee must determine whether, and to what extent, compensatory services are needed.

As stated in A1, if an LEA is providing educational opportunities to the general student population, the LEA is also required to provide the services and accommodations needed for students with disabilities to have an equal opportunity to participate in the virtual model of delivery.

Q3: Are LEAs still held to timeline requirements regarding Full and Individual Initial Evaluations (FIIE) in light of potential changes to school calendars and schedules due to the COVID-19 pandemic?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

A3: In situations in which school is closed and not in session (no educational services offered to anyone), state evaluation timelines halt as these timelines are based on school days. To be clear, for the purposes of FIIE timelines, the days that school is not in session (no educational services offered to anyone) do not count as school days. If the school remains open (either on a virtual basis or face-to-face), the 45 school-day timeline requirements of Texas Education Code sec. 29.004 apply.

This is true even if the LEA is experiencing low attendance due to COVID-19 related concerns, and uses the attestation related to educational support to count students absent from campus grounds as present for Average Daily Attendance (ADA) purposes referenced in the March 12th, 2020 To the Administrator Addressed letter regarding COVID 19 which can be found here.

Q4: Are LEAs still held to the 30 calendar day timeline requirements regarding initial eligibility determination, IEP, and placement decision ARD committee meetings upon completion of an FIIE in times of emergencies such as the COVID 19 pandemic?

A4: Yes. Requirements related to the 30 calendar day timeline for initial eligibility determination, IEP, and placement decision ARD committee meetings still apply. The ARD committee may meet by teleconference or other means (if all members are able) when necessary, to meet this required timeline.

Q5: What are options for how LEAs provide a free and appropriate public education (FAPE) to students with disabilities when a school goes to a digital/virtual learning platform for all students?

A5: LEAs must ensure that students served by special education have access to the same or equitable learning platform as their peers. To the greatest extent possible, the LEA must provide the student with the services required by the student's IEP. If there are services, accommodations, and modifications required by the student's IEP that cannot be provide during this time, the student's ARD committee must determine which services it can provide to meet the student's needs (34 CFR 300.324(a)(4).

Changes in services and accommodations may be made through the IEP amendment process. In many cases, instructional accommodations may be met in an online environment by providing additional supports, such as individualized telephone or video conferencing. LEAs should consider how current accommodations and modifications are provided in a physical classroom setting (i.e. extra time, redirection, small group, among others) and what this would look like in a virtual environment.

Q6: Is the LEA required to provide ancillary instructional, and/or related services when a school goes to a digital/virtual learning platform for all students?

A6: Yes. If a student's IEP requires the provision of ancillary instructional, and/or related services, the LEA is responsible for providing these services. In many cases, services such as speech and language therapy or special education counseling may be able to be effectively provided in a virtual environment. LEAs should plan carefully to ensure that the services can be provided effectively and that the students in question are able to effectively access them. LEAs should also carefully consider any implications related to privacy and the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA).

In other cases, it may be necessary to provide services in face-to-face environments. If the provision of these services results in an effective change in placement for the student, the change will need to be decided upon by the ARD committee and documented appropriately in the student's IEP. LEAs should carefully consider implications for staffing and travel if ancillary instructional and/or related services providers would need to be physically available for students.

Q7: Can an LEA provide a learning environment at the school or designated site for students who cannot have their learning needs met virtually?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

A7: Yes. When an LEA identifies learning needs that cannot be met virtually, they may decide to offer educational opportunities at a designated site, subject to ARD committee decision. If this results in achange in location, the change must be documented in the student's IEP. LEAs must ensure that the learning environment is clean, disinfected, and safe for students and staff to work.

When providing these services, the LEA would be required to meet all aspects of each student's IEP. This would mean that appropriately credentialed/certified academic and related services and support providers would need to be available to provide services to students. Additionally, if the student's IEP includes (or is amended to include) transportation as a related service, the LEA would be required to provide it.

Q8: While LEAs are required to implement IEPs and provide FAPE, what if the LEA cannot fully implement the IEP during the current COVID 19 pandemic COVID 19 response?

A8: If an LEA cannot provide services necessary for the provision of FAPE in either a face to face or virtual environment, the LEA should document carefully what services were not able to be provided to each individual student. This documentation must be detailed enough to enable the ARD committee to later make determinations regarding what compensatory services need to be provided to individual students. LEAs should plan for effective communication with families regarding any services that cannot be provided during the COVID 19 pandemic response.

Q9: If an LEA remains open, or reopens its schools but a state or local emergency authority prohibits students with special health care needs from returning to school for a specified period of time, what is the LEA's obligation for its students who receive special education services who are impacted by the prohibition?

A9: An LEA subject to such a prohibition is nevertheless required to provide FAPE to students with disabilities impacted by the prohibition. If the prohibition from returning to school is an emergency measure not to exceed 10 consecutive school days, the LEA should provide virtual instruction or otherwise grant the student access to educational instruction as discussed above.

If the emergency directive will, or is anticipated to extend beyond 10 consecutive school days, in addition to providing virtual or other educational services, the ARD committee must meet to consider the need for a change in placement in accordance with 34 CFR 300.115 - 300.116, taking into account the heightened health and safety needs, criteria and considerations in determining whether a homebound, or other placement along the continuum of alternative placements is the appropriate placement for the student. Refer to the OSEP guidance from March 12, 2020.

For additional guidance please see QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS ON PROVIDING SERVICES TO CHILDREN WITH DISABILITIES DURING THE CORONAVIRUS DISEASE 2019 OUTBREAK published by the United States Department of Education (ED), Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP) on March 12, 2020.

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION
Office for Civil Rights

March 16, 2020

Fact Sheet: Addressing the Risk of COVID-19 in Schools While Protecting the Civil Rights of Students

The U.S. Department of Education (Department) has established a working group to provide information and resources to parents, students, teachers, schools, and school personnel related to the possible outbreak of COVID-19 ("coronavirus") in school districts and postsecondary schools. Schools play an important role in disseminating information about and limiting the spread of the coronavirus. In addressing the possible risk of an outbreak of coronavirus in school districts and postsecondary schools, school officials must keep students safe and secure. In doing so, school officials should keep in mind federal civil rights requirements and respond appropriately to allegations of discrimination on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, or disability. Additional information is available at: www.ed.gov/coronavirus.

Schools and school administrators should use guidance from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) to determine, in close consultation with public health authorities, what actions to take to further reduce the potential risk of coronavirus transmission in schools, and should check the CDC website at "Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19)" (https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-nCoV/index.html) periodically for any updated guidance.

Compliance with CDC's recommendations should not create civil rights concerns. Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (Section 504) prohibits disability discrimination by schools receiving federal financial assistance. Title II of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (Title II) prohibits disability discrimination by public entities, including schools. Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (Title VI) prohibits race, color, and national origin discrimination by schools receiving federal funds.

This document provides information representing the interpretation of the Department of the applicable statutory or regulatory requirements in the context of the specific facts presented here and is not legally binding. The information in this document is not intended to be a replacement for the careful study of Section 504, Title II, or Title VI and their implementing regulations. Information regarding these federal civil rights laws and regulations and other important documents can be found at https://www2.ed.gov/about/offices/list/ocr/index.html.

School districts and postsecondary schools have significant latitude and authority to take necessary actions to protect the health, safety, and welfare of students and school staff. School officials have discretion to make educational decisions based on local health needs and concerns, and OCR recognizes this decision-making authority. As school leaders respond to evolving conditions related to coronavirus, they should be mindful of the requirements of Section 504, Title II, and Title VI, to ensure that all students are able to study and learn in an environment that is safe and free from discrimination.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Responding to Discrimination in Schools

Bullying or Harassment

Both Section 504 and Title VI require that every postsecondary, secondary, or elementary school that receives federal funds take appropriate action to investigate or otherwise determine what occurred when responding to reports of bullying and harassment of students based on actual or perceived disability, race, color, or national origin. If a school's investigation reveals that bullying or harassment based on actual or perceived disability, race, color, or national origin limited or denied a student's ability to participate in or benefit from the services, activities, or opportunities offered by a school, then the school must take prompt and effective steps reasonably calculated to end the bullying or harassment, and restore access to the educational program. The failure to do so could be a violation of Section 504 or Title VI.

In addressing the possible risk of an outbreak of coronavirus in school districts and postsecondary schools, school officials must keep students safe and secure. At that same time, school officials have an obligation to avoid discrimination on the basis of race, color, or national origin while cooperating with public health authorities to ensure that individuals are assessed and treated appropriately based on their actual risk status. School officials may not rely on assumptions or stereotypes related to race, color, or national origin in identifying students who may have recently traveled to a country with widespread transmission of coronavirus or who may otherwise be at risk of coronavirus infection. For example, a practice of only inquiring about the recent travel of students or family members of a particular race or national origin, rather than screening students based on recent travel, could raise civil rights concerns. For information that schools can share to protect against any misinformation that might lead to discriminatory behavior, please see the CDC's "Share Facts About COVID-19," at https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/about/share-facts.html.

School officials have an obligation to avoid discrimination on the basis of disability under Title II and Section 504, while cooperating with public health authorities to ensure that students with disabilities have access to the school's education program. School officials should acknowledge the expertise and role of public health authorities, as well as parental concerns, to determine whether students should stay home.

If a student who has an individualized education program (IEP) through the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, or is receiving services under Section 504, is required or advised to stay home by public health authorities or school officials for an extended period of time because of COVID-19, provision should be made to maintain education services. This also applies if the student is absent from school as advised by the student's treating physician, consistent with school policy and documentation requirements. During such absences, if the school is open and serving other students, the school must ensure that the student continues to receive a free appropriate public education (FAPE), consistent with protecting the health and safety of the student and those providing that education to the student. If feasible, the student's IEP Team, or the personnel responsible for ensuring FAPE to a student for the purposes of Section 504, can be utilized to assist with the effort to determine if some, or all, of the identified services can be provided through alternate or additional methods. Accessible technology may afford students, including students with disabilities, an opportunity to have access to high-quality educational instruction during an extended school closure, especially when continuing education must be provided through distance learning.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

If a school district closes its schools and does not provide any educational services to the general student population, then a school would not be required to provide services to students with disabilities during that same period of time. Once school resumes, the school must return to providing special education and related services to students with disabilities in accordance with the student's IEP or, for students entitled to FAPE under Section 504, consistent with any plan developed to meet the requirements of Section 504.

The Department understands that there may be exceptional circumstances that could affect how a particular service is provided. If a student does not receive services after an extended period of time, the student's IEP Team, or appropriate personnel under Section 504, must make an individualized determination whether and to what extent compensatory services are needed consistent with the respective applicable requirements, including to make up for any skills that may have been lost.

Additionally, IEP Teams are not required to meet in person while schools are closed. If an evaluation of a student with a disability requires a face-to-face assessment or observation, the evaluation would need to be delayed until school reopens. Evaluations and re-evaluations that do not require face-to-face assessments or observations may take place while schools are closed, so long as a student's parent or legal guardian consents. These same principles apply to similar activities conducted by appropriate personnel for a student with a disability who has a plan developed under Section 504, or who is being evaluated under Section 504.

Students with Disabilities at Postsecondary Schools

Officials at postsecondary schools should consult with public health officials in determining how to respond when there are cases of coronavirus in the community. Whatever decisions are made by the school (such as decisions to temporarily suspend classes), schools must continue to comply with their non-discrimination obligations under federal civil rights laws, including Section 504 and Title II.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Resources for Communicating about Coronavirus

Accurate information is an important tool in protecting the civil rights of students while addressing the risk of coronavirus.

- Assistant Secretary Kenneth L. Marcus' letter concerning reports of stereotyping, harassment, and bullying specifically related to coronavirus is available at https://www2.ed.gov/about/offices/list/ocr/correspondence/stakeholders/20200304-covid-19-outbreak-statement.pdf.
- The Department of Education's Readiness and Emergency Management for Schools (REMS) Technical Assistance Center offers a variety of resources related to infectious disease planning, available at rems.ed.gov/Resources_Hazards_Threats_Biological_Hazards.aspx.
- The CDC's coronavirus general information page can be found at https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/community/index.html?CDC_AA_refVal=https%3A%2F%2Fwww.cdc.gov%2Fcoronavirus%2F2019-ncov%2Fpreparing-individuals-communities.html.

Effective Communication and Language Assistance: When school officials provide information to students, parents, and the community about any aspect of coronavirus or actions the schools are taking in response to coronavirus, they generally need to provide meaningful access to such information to English learner students and adults with limited English proficiency. School officials also must ensure equally effective communications with persons with disabilities (such as persons who are deaf, deaf-blind, or blind). Thus, the information and materials must be provided, as appropriate, in alternate formats to facilitate effective communication for individuals with disabilities.

Privacy Concerns: For information about the federal law that protects the confidentiality of students' records maintained by public elementary and secondary schools and institutions of higher education, you may visit the website of the Department of Education's Student Privacy Policy Office (SPPO) which administers the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), at www.ed.gov/policy/gen/guid/fpco/index.html, contact SPPO at 1-855-249-3072, or submit questions at https://studentprivacy.ed.gov/contact.

* * * * *

If you have questions, need additional information or technical assistance, or believe that a school is violating federal civil rights law, you may visit the website of the Department of Education's OCR at www.ed.gov/ocr, contact OCR at (800) 421-3481 (TDD: 800-877-8339) or at ocr@ed.gov, or contact OCR's Outreach, Prevention, Education and Non-discrimination (OPEN) Center at OPEN@ed.gov. Subject: Special Education Timelines

To Whom This May Concern:

My name is Natalie Kormos and I am an LSSP/ Special Education Evaluator for Texas public schools.

We are facing unprecedented times with the COVID-19 pandemic. As such our districts have had to turn to distance learning to continue providing instructional time to our Texas students. Because "school has resumed" through "virtual classrooms," Texas evaluators are being forced to continue to evaluate students that have an open Initial Evaluation or Reevaluation consent.

While the OCR document suggests that face-to-face evaluations should be discontinued while school is not in session and can resume when school is in session, TEA has put a contradictory directive that the timeline continues. The majority of evaluators, in order to obtain valid and reliable data, will be forced to meet face-to-face with the student.

If evaluators consider to do teleconferencing testing, the evaluators may not be properly trained or do not have access to instruments that are designed to be used in that format; therefore, the reliability or the validity of the data obtained will be compromised.

Furthermore, these are unique circumstances that are in fact fear or anxiety inducing, which will lead to issues with the validity of the data obtained. At this time, our families should not be worried about anything, but being together and following the directive to remain at home and reducing social contact.

I am reaching out to you as policy makers and as someone who could potentially advocate for us practitioners in this unprecedented unique situation. We are treading in uncharted waters and ultimately we want to act with an abundance of caution where we will not be hurting the student or our community.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

While I understand the parents desire to get answers to their child's academic, behavioral, development, and/or emotional concerns, my hope is that TEA will adopt the recommendation from OCR that "If an evaluation of a student with a disability requires a face-to-face assessment or observation, the evaluation would need to be delayed until school reopens. Evaluations and re-evaluations that do not require face-to-face assessments or observations may take place while schools are closed, so long as a student's parent or legal guardian consents." The state of California has followed this guidance and will not be completing face-to-face evaluations until normal school routines have returned for all students. We ask that Texas adopts similar guidelines during this delicate and uncertain time.

My goal as a practitioner is to consider the best interests of the students and families we serve, while not abandoning their social, emotional, academic, and mental health needs. We have an ethical responsibility to maintain the integrity of our profession and conducting assessments during this pandemic would not be deemed as such.

I am attaching the guidance TEA (see A3) has release as well as the guidance the Federal Government has released (see page 3 paragraph 3).

Sincerely,

COVID 19 and Special Education Q&A

Q1: Do Local Education Agencies (LEAs) have flexibility regarding the provision of a Free and Appropriate Public Education (FAPE) to students receiving special education services in times of emergencies such as the COVID-19 pandemic?

A1: No. Neither state nor federal law provide flexibility to LEAs in times of emergency regarding their obligation to provide FAPE to students receiving special education services. If an LEA closes its schools because the functioning or delivery of educational services is disrupted and does not provide any educational services to the general student population, then an LEA would not be required to provide services to students with disabilities during that same period of time. Once school resumes, the LEA must make every effort to provide special education and related services to the child in accordance with the child's Individualized Education Program (IEP). In addition, the Annual Review and Dismissal (ARD) committee would be required to make an individualized determination as to whether compensatory services are needed to make up for any skills that may have been lost because of an extended school closure.

If schools are closed, but the LEA continues to provide educational opportunities to the general student population during the closure, the school must ensure that students with disabilities also have equal access to the same opportunities, including the provision of FAPE. The LEA must ensure that, to the greatest extent possible, each student with a disability can be provided the special education and related services identified in the student's IEP.

Q2: What flexibility do LEAs have in the process required to adjust an individual student's existing IEP in times of emergencies such as the COVID 19 pandemic?

A2: LEAs should continue to follow local policies regarding changing or amending an existing IEP. In addition, according to previous guidance from the United States Department of Education, Office of Special Education Programs (OSEP), if a school continues to provide instruction to the general school population during an extended closure due to a disaster, but is not able to provide services to a student with a disability in accordance with the student's IEP, the student's ARD committee determines which services can be provided to appropriately meet the student's needs.

The ARD committee may meet by teleconference or other means (if all members are able) to determine if some, or all, of the identified services can be provided through alternate or additional methods. Once the school reopens, the ARD committee must determine whether, and to what extent, compensatory services are needed.

As stated in A1, if an LEA is providing educational opportunities to the general student population, the LEA is also required to provide the services and accommodations needed for students with disabilities to have an equal opportunity to participate in the virtual model of delivery.

Q3: Are LEAs still held to timeline requirements regarding Full and Individual Initial Evaluations (FIIE) in light of potential changes to school calendars and schedules due to the COVID-19 pandemic?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

A3: In situations in which school is closed and not in session (no educational services offered to anyone), state evaluation timelines halt as these timelines are based on school days. To be clear, for the purposes of FIIE timelines, the days that school is not in session (no educational services offered to anyone) do not count as school days. If the school remains open (either on a virtual basis or face-to-face), the 45 school-day timeline requirements of Texas Education Code sec. 29.004 apply.

This is true even if the LEA is experiencing low attendance due to COVID-19 related concerns, and uses the attestation related to educational support to count students absent from campus grounds as present for Average Daily Attendance (ADA) purposes referenced in the March 12th, 2020 To the Administrator Addressed letter regarding COVID 19 which can be found here.

Q4: Are LEAs still held to the 30 calendar day timeline requirements regarding initial eligibility determination, IEP, and placement decision ARD committee meetings upon completion of an FIIE in times of emergencies such as the COVID 19 pandemic?

A4: Yes. Requirements related to the 30 calendar day timeline for initial eligibility determination, IEP, and placement decision ARD committee meetings still apply. The ARD committee may meet by teleconference or other means (if all members are able) when necessary, to meet this required timeline.

Q5: What are options for how LEAs provide a free and appropriate public education (FAPE) to students with disabilities when a school goes to a digital/virtual learning platform for all students?

A5: LEAs must ensure that students served by special education have access to the same or equitable learning platform as their peers. To the greatest extent possible, the LEA must provide the student with the services required by the student's IEP. If there are services, accommodations, and modifications required by the student's IEP that cannot be provide during this time, the student's ARD committee must determine which services it can provide to meet the student's needs (34 CFR 300.324(a)(4).

Changes in services and accommodations may be made through the IEP amendment process. In many cases, instructional accommodations may be met in an online environment by providing additional supports, such as individualized telephone or video conferencing. LEAs should consider how current accommodations and modifications are provided in a physical classroom setting (i.e. extra time, redirection, small group, among others) and what this would look like in a virtual environment.

Q6: Is the LEA required to provide ancillary instructional, and/or related services when a school goes to a digital/virtual learning platform for all students?

A6: Yes. If a student's IEP requires the provision of ancillary instructional, and/or related services, the LEA is responsible for providing these services. In many cases, services such as speech and language therapy or special education counseling may be able to be effectively provided in a virtual environment. LEAs should plan carefully to ensure that the services can be provided effectively and that the students in question are able to effectively access them. LEAs should also carefully consider any implications related to privacy and the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA).

In other cases, it may be necessary to provide services in face-to-face environments. If the provision of these services results in an effective change in placement for the student, the change will need to be decided upon by the ARD committee and documented appropriately in the student's IEP. LEAs should carefully consider implications for staffing and travel if ancillary instructional and/or related services providers would need to be physically available for students.

Q7: Can an LEA provide a learning environment at the school or designated site for students who cannot have their learning needs met virtually?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

A7: Yes. When an LEA identifies learning needs that cannot be met virtually, they may decide to offer educational opportunities at a designated site, subject to ARD committee decision. If this results in achange in location, the change must be documented in the student's IEP. LEAs must ensure that the learning environment is clean, disinfected, and safe for students and staff to work.

When providing these services, the LEA would be required to meet all aspects of each student's IEP. This would mean that appropriately credentialed/certified academic and related services and support providers would need to be available to provide services to students. Additionally, if the student's IEP includes (or is amended to include) transportation as a related service, the LEA would be required to provide it.

Q8: While LEAs are required to implement IEPs and provide FAPE, what if the LEA cannot fully implement the IEP during the current COVID 19 pandemic COVID 19 response?

A8: If an LEA cannot provide services necessary for the provision of FAPE in either a face to face or virtual environment, the LEA should document carefully what services were not able to be provided to each individual student. This documentation must be detailed enough to enable the ARD committee to later make determinations regarding what compensatory services need to be provided to individual students. LEAs should plan for effective communication with families regarding any services that cannot be provided during the COVID 19 pandemic response.

Q9: If an LEA remains open, or reopens its schools but a state or local emergency authority prohibits students with special health care needs from returning to school for a specified period of time, what is the LEA's obligation for its students who receive special education services who are impacted by the prohibition?

A9: An LEA subject to such a prohibition is nevertheless required to provide FAPE to students with disabilities impacted by the prohibition. If the prohibition from returning to school is an emergency measure not to exceed 10 consecutive school days, the LEA should provide virtual instruction or otherwise grant the student access to educational instruction as discussed above.

If the emergency directive will, or is anticipated to extend beyond 10 consecutive school days, in addition to providing virtual or other educational services, the ARD committee must meet to consider the need for a change in placement in accordance with 34 CFR 300.115 - 300.116, taking into account the heightened health and safety needs, criteria and considerations in determining whether a homebound, or other placement along the continuum of alternative placements is the appropriate placement for the student. Refer to the OSEP guidance from March 12, 2020.

Fact Sheet: Addressing the Risk of COVID-19 in Schools While Protecting the Civil Rights of Students

The U.S. Department of Education (Department) has established a working group to provide information and resources to parents, students, teachers, schools, and school personnel related to the possible outbreak of COVID-19 ("coronavirus") in school districts and postsecondary schools. Schools play an important role in disseminating information about and limiting the spread of the coronavirus. In addressing the possible risk of an outbreak of coronavirus in school districts and postsecondary schools, school officials must keep students safe and secure. In doing so, school officials should keep in mind federal civil rights requirements and respond appropriately to allegations of discrimination on the basis of race, color, national origin, sex, or disability. Additional information is available at: www.ed.gov/coronavirus.

Schools and school administrators should use guidance from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) to determine, in close consultation with public health authorities, what actions to take to further reduce the potential risk of coronavirus transmission in schools, and should check the CDC website at "Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19)" (https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-nCoV/index.html) periodically for any updated guidance.

Compliance with CDC's recommendations should not create civil rights concerns. Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (Section 504) prohibits disability discrimination by schools receiving federal financial assistance. Title II of the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990 (Title II) prohibits disability discrimination by public entities, including schools. Title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (Title VI) prohibits race, color, and national origin discrimination by schools receiving federal funds.

This document provides information representing the interpretation of the Department of the applicable statutory or regulatory requirements in the context of the specific facts presented here and is not legally binding. The information in this document is not intended to be a replacement for the careful study of Section 504, Title II, or Title VI and their implementing regulations. Information regarding these federal civil rights laws and regulations and other important documents can be found at https://www2.ed.gov/about/offices/list/ocr/index.html.

School districts and postsecondary schools have significant latitude and authority to take necessary actions to protect the health, safety, and welfare of students and school staff. School officials have discretion to make educational decisions based on local health needs and concerns, and OCR recognizes this decision-making authority. As school leaders respond to evolving conditions related to coronavirus, they should be mindful of the requirements of Section 504, Title II, and Title VI, to ensure that all students are able to study and learn in an environment that is safe and free from discrimination.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Responding to Discrimination in Schools

Bullying or Harassment

Both Section 504 and Title VI require that every postsecondary, secondary, or elementary school that receives federal funds take appropriate action to investigate or otherwise determine what occurred when responding to reports of bullying and harassment of students based on actual or perceived disability, race, color, or national origin. If a school's investigation reveals that bullying or harassment based on actual or perceived disability, race, color, or national origin limited or denied a student's ability to participate in or benefit from the services, activities, or opportunities offered by a school, then the school must take prompt and effective steps reasonably calculated to end the bullying or harassment, and restore access to the educational program. The failure to do so could be a violation of Section 504 or Title VI.

In addressing the possible risk of an outbreak of coronavirus in school districts and postsecondary schools, school officials must keep students safe and secure. At that same time, school officials have an obligation to avoid discrimination on the basis of race, color, or national origin while cooperating with public health authorities to ensure that individuals are assessed and treated appropriately based on their actual risk status. School officials may not rely on assumptions or stereotypes related to race, color, or national origin in identifying students who may have recently traveled to a country with widespread transmission of coronavirus or who may otherwise be at risk of coronavirus infection. For example, a practice of only inquiring about the recent travel of students or family members of a particular race or national origin, rather than screening students based on recent travel, could raise civil rights concerns. For information that schools can share to protect against any misinformation that might lead to discriminatory behavior, please see the CDC's "Share Facts About COVID-19," at https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/about/share-facts.html.

School officials have an obligation to avoid discrimination on the basis of disability under Title II and Section 504, while cooperating with public health authorities to ensure that students with disabilities have access to the school's education program. School officials should acknowledge the expertise and role of public health authorities, as well as parental concerns, to determine whether students should stay home.

If a student who has an individualized education program (IEP) through the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act, or is receiving services under Section 504, is required or advised to stay home by public health authorities or school officials for an extended period of time because of COVID-19, provision should be made to maintain education services. This also applies if the student is absent from school as advised by the student's treating physician, consistent with school policy and documentation requirements. During such absences, if the school is open and serving other students, the school must ensure that the student continues to receive a free appropriate public education (FAPE), consistent with protecting the health and safety of the student and those providing that education to the student. If feasible, the student's IEP Team, or the personnel responsible for ensuring FAPE to a student for the purposes of Section 504, can be utilized to assist with the effort to determine if some, or all, of the identified services can be provided through alternate or additional methods. Accessible technology may afford students, including students with disabilities, an opportunity to have access to high-quality educational instruction during an extended school closure, especially when continuing education must be provided through distance learning.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

If a school district closes its schools and does not provide any educational services to the general student population, then a school would not be required to provide services to students with disabilities during that same period of time. Once school resumes, the school must return to providing special education and related services to students with disabilities in accordance with the student's IEP or, for students entitled to FAPE under Section 504, consistent with any plan developed to meet the requirements of Section 504.

The Department understands that there may be exceptional circumstances that could affect how a particular service is provided. If a student does not receive services after an extended period of time, the student's IEP Team, or appropriate personnel under Section 504, must make an individualized determination whether and to what extent compensatory services are needed consistent with the respective applicable requirements, including to make up for any skills that may have been lost.

Additionally, IEP Teams are not required to meet in person while schools are closed. If an evaluation of a student with a disability requires a face-to-face assessment or observation, the evaluation would need to be delayed until school reopens. Evaluations and re-evaluations that do not require face-to-face assessments or observations may take place while schools are closed, so long as a student's parent or legal guardian consents. These same principles apply to similar activities conducted by appropriate personnel for a student with a disability who has a plan developed under Section 504, or who is being evaluated under Section 504.

Students with Disabilities at Postsecondary Schools

Officials at postsecondary schools should consult with public health officials in determining how to respond when there are cases of coronavirus in the community. Whatever decisions are made by the school (such as decisions to temporarily suspend classes), schools must continue to comply with their non-discrimination obligations under federal civil rights laws, including Section 504 and Title II.

Resources for Communicating about Coronavirus

Accurate information is an important tool in protecting the civil rights of students while addressing the risk of coronavirus.

- Assistant Secretary Kenneth L. Marcus' letter concerning reports of stereotyping, harassment, and bullying specifically related to coronavirus is available at https://www2.ed.gov/about/offices/list/ocr/correspondence/stakeholders/20200304-covid-19-outbreak-statement.pdf.
- The Department of Education's Readiness and Emergency Management for Schools (REMS) Technical Assistance Center offers a variety of resources related to infectious disease planning, available at rems.ed.gov/Resources_Hazards_Threats_Biological_Hazards.aspx.
- The CDC's coronavirus general information page can be found at https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/community/index.html?CDC_AA_refVal=https%3A%2F%2Fwww.cdc.gov%2Fcoronavirus%2F2019-ncov%2Fpreparing-individuals-communities.html.

Effective Communication and Language Assistance: When school officials provide information to students, parents, and the community about any aspect of coronavirus or actions the schools are taking in response to coronavirus, they generally need to provide meaningful access to such information to English learner students and adults with limited English proficiency. School officials also must ensure equally effective communications with persons with disabilities (such as persons who are deaf, deaf-blind, or blind). Thus, the information and materials must be provided, as appropriate, in alternate formats to facilitate effective communication for individuals with disabilities.

Privacy Concerns: For information about the federal law that protects the confidentiality of students' records maintained by public elementary and secondary schools and institutions of higher education, you may visit the website of the Department of Education's Student Privacy Policy Office (SPPO) which administers the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA), at www.ed.gov/policy/gen/guid/fpco/index.html, contact SPPO at 1-855-249-3072, or submit questions at https://studentprivacy.ed.gov/contact.

Good Afternoon,

First and foremost, I hope you all are well and taking care of yourself.

I am inquiring about state assessments and compliance for ESSA. Will we have any updates if there will be any suspension of state testing this year? SPSA? LCAP Federal Addendum

I support my local districts and are trying to get them answers. So far the state says there will be an extension, but I don't know if it would be more helpful for them to know if they might be suspended for 2020.

They have so much to do right now, they are worried. Thank you so much for any information you might have.

My name is Taylor pinciaro. I am currently set up on a payment plan with the debt collectors agency that has my student loan. I still have to make 3 payments to them to be considered out of delinquency, however, due to covid 19 I have lost my job. I am trying to see if I can get my tax return instead of it being garnished but Everytime I call and explain my situation to the call center they tell me there is no way for me to receive my tax return unless I am facing foreclosure or eviction right now. Maybe someone else can help me with this?

Thank you,

To Whom It May Concern-

I have a question about study abroad interruptions due to COVID-19. I have reviewed the March 5th Electronic Announcement, 'Guidance for interruptions of study related to COVID-19'.

I understand that students can still receive Title IV aid for interrupted study abroad programs, if the student switches to online instruction provided by the foreign institution and if we have a Consortium/Contractual Agreement set up with the foreign institution. What is the definition of a foreign institution? We have students studying abroad through US based organizations. The students are studying at a foreign school, but the study abroad experience is coordinated through the US organization. We have a Consortium Agreement set up with the US organization, but not with the specific foreign institution that the student attends. Since we do not have a Consortium Agreement set up with the actual foreign school, would we need to do a R2T4 if that student returns to the US? Or would the Consortium Agreement with the US organization suffice?

Thank you-

TASP A partner on the path to student success

Texas Association of School Psychologists

Greetings,

I am writing on behalf of the Texas Association of School Psychologists and licensed specialists in school psychology (LSSPs) practicing across the state. In response to the Texas Education Agency's position on evaluation timelines for special education eligibility, we strongly discourage the continuation of assessments during this turbulent time of crisis. With schools now ordered closed until April 3, 2020 and possibly with extensions, virtual instruction is encouraged. Per the current guidance, if instruction is offered by virtual means to all students, the 45 school day evaluation timeline still maintains. As we are preparing for shifts in our comprehensive scope of service delivery, the COVID-19 pandemic presents unique challenges in regards to ethical assessment and decision making practices:

- Many direct services to students can be provided through virtual means; however, direct observation and assessment cannot be administered through means other than face-to-face. A full and individual evaluation, initial or reevaluation, requires direct classroom-based observation of the student in the child's learning environment to document the child's academic performance and behavior in areas of difficulty (34 C.F.R. §300.310(a)).
- In reference to the federal guidelines, assessments and other evaluation materials used to assess a child are used for the purposes for which the assessments or measures are valid and reliable, administered by trained and knowledgeable personnel, and are administered in accordance with any instructions provided by the producer of the assessment (34 C.F.R. §300.304(c)(1)).
- LSSPs are not typically trained or competent in completing evaluations through electronic means. The standardized tests used (i.e. IQ tests, formal achievement tests) are not designed to be administered electronically more or less outside of a school setting during a pandemic crisis. In short, the administration of tests must be given through the means in which they were standardized. Deviations from standardization must be reported and, at times, can invalidate test results, which could potentially impact eligibility determinations.
- If evaluations are to be conducted remotely, they should be conducted through platforms specifically designed for that purpose. At this time, such delivery would also require training beyond the evaluator, but also include training for the student and adult facilitator (likely parent/caregiver) who is assisting the student at home. It is unlikely the appropriate supports can be developed quickly.
- In addition, the unique circumstances pose validity issues which must be addressed when assessments are taking place in a time of anxiety for youth, their families and caregivers, and school personnel. The likelihood of making inappropriate eligibility determinations based on invalid assessment data is high.

provided by the U.S. Department of Education, Office of Civil Rights as follows, "If an evaluation of a student with a disability requires a face-to-face assessment or observation, the evaluation would need to be delayed until school reopens. Evaluations and re-evaluations that do not require face-to-face assessments or observations may take place while schools are closed, so long as a student's parent or legal guardian consents." The state of California has followed this guidance and will not be completing face to face evaluations until normal school routines have returned for all students. We ask that Texas adopt similar guidelines during this delicate and uncertain time. Our goal as school psychologists is to consider the best interests of the students and families we serve, while not abandoning their social, emotional, academic, and mental health needs. We have an ethical responsibility to maintain the highest standard for professional practices in educational and psychological assessment.

Greetings,

I am writing on behalf of the Texas Association of School Psychologists and licensed specialists in school psychology (LSSPs) practicing across the state. In response to the Texas Education Agency's position on evaluation timelines for special education eligibility, we strongly discourage the continuation of assessments during this turbulent time of crisis. With schools now ordered closed until April 3, 2020 and possibly with extensions, virtual instruction is encouraged. Per the current guidance, if instruction is offered by virtual means to all students, the 45 school day evaluation timeline still maintains. As we are preparing for shifts in our comprehensive scope of service delivery, the COVID-19 pandemic presents unique challenges in regards to ethical assessment and decision making practices:

- Many direct services to students can be provided through virtual means; however, direct observation and assessment cannot be administered through means other than face-to-face. A full and individual evaluation, initial or reevaluation, requires direct classroom-based observation of the student in the child's learning environment to document the child's academic performance and behavior in areas of difficulty (34 C.F.R. §300.310(a)).
- In reference to the federal guidelines, assessments and other evaluation materials used to assess a child are used for the purposes for which the assessments or measures are valid and reliable, administered by trained and knowledgeable personnel, and are administered in accordance with any instructions provided by the producer of the assessment (34 C.F.R. §300.304(c)(1)).
- LSSPs are not typically trained or competent in completing evaluations through electronic means. The standardized tests used (i.e. IQ tests, formal achievement tests) are not designed to be administered electronically more or less outside of a school setting during a pandemic crisis. In short, the administration of tests must be given through the means in which they were standardized. Deviations from standardization must be reported and, at times, can invalidate test results, which could potentially impact eligibility determinations.
- If evaluations are to be conducted remotely, they should be conducted through platforms specifically designed for that purpose. At this time, such delivery would also require training beyond the evaluator, but also include training for the student and adult facilitator (likely parent/caregiver) who is assisting the student at home. It is unlikely the appropriate supports can be developed quickly.
- In addition, the unique circumstances pose validity issues which must be addressed when assessments are taking place in a time of anxiety for youth, their families and caregivers, and school personnel. The likelihood of making inappropriate eligibility determinations based on invalid assessment data is high.

Hello

Thank you for providing this valuable resource for schools. Our institution notified the Department that we have shortened our spring term by one week due to an extended spring break. I see guidance that if schools extend their academic year rather than shorten there is no need to adjust loan term dates and send to COD. I am assuming that is the case for shortening due to this crisis but I do not see that in writing anywhere.

Can you confirm that if we shorten our semester and are approved to do so by the department we do not have change the loan term dates and send to COD for spring.

Thanks for all you are doing.

Hello,

We have several programs that would like to give their students blanket "IP" grades for their spring semester courses. Would we then just have to follow our institutional policy about the timeframe in which these courses must be complete? Also, our SAP policy states that any "I" grade will be calculated into our completion rate, so I would assume I would calculate SAP as normal, and a student could use COVID-19 disruption as a basis for appeal?

Many of the programs in question are health-care related, so many of the students are otherwise occupied with the real-world pandemic.

Thank you for your expertise in this. I appreciate it.

Good afternoon,
If we issue a credit to the student that can be used for 2020-21 housing are we required to include as EFA in 2021? I understand that for refunds in 1920 we do not have to adjust COA but what about a credit towards 2021?
Best,
Jennifer

Institutional Refunds and Cost of Attendance Recalculations

As institutions have considered offering refunds of some institutional charges, questions have arisen about the institution's obligations to adjust cost of attendance (COA) and possibly financial aid packages to reflect those refunds. ED's guidance states that if an institution provides "a waiver or refund of expenses for all or part of a student's tuition, fees, room and board charges, or other institutional charges, or if you become aware that a student has moved off campus for the remainder of the term, the Department will not require a re-evaluation of the student's cost of attendance."

It's important to note that in most cases, recalculation of the COA is not required; however, if your institution chooses to have a policy to recalculate the COA, then you must follow your own policy. In addition, any resulting Title IV credit balances would be subject to current regulation under 668.164(h), which requires the funds be paid to the student or parent within 14 days, unless the institution has written authorization from the student or parent, as applicable to hold the credit balance. Even with authorization to hold the Title IV credit balance, the institution must pay any remaining balance on loan funds by the end of the loan period, and any remaining other Title IV funds by the end of the last payment period in the award year for which they were awarded.

Institutional refund policies (such as refunding room and board costs) are at the discretion of the institution.

Ours schools districts have been asked to work with their community to provide child-care for healthcare providers and first responders during the pandemic school closures. NYSED believes that our 21st Century providers are perfectly poised to assist in this endeavor, as they are both screened and trained in working with both 0 to5 and school age populations. I know that our providers are already concerned about meeting their numbers and whether they will continue to receive funding while their programs are closed. This could be a win-win, as they would be helping health care workers provide the care COVID-19 victims need while also giving our generous 21st Century sub-grantees the opportunity to help and stay employed. (NY)

Costs must match the purpose of the funding see 2 CFR 200.300 of the Uniform Guidance which speaks the non-Federal entity being responsible for complying with Federal requirements for the award. The Uniform Guidance in 2 CFR 200.405 states that costs are allocable to a particular Federal award if the goods and services are chargeable or assignable to that Federal award. Furthermore in 2 CFR 200.403 the Uniform Guidance states that costs must be ) be necessary and reasonable for the performance of the Federal award and be allocable thereto under these principles and conform to any limitations or exclusions set forth in these principles or in the Federal award as to types or amount of cost items. The Nita M. Lowey 21st Century Community Learning Center (21st CCLC) grant is an academic grant whose funds are set aside for specific academic activities that provide services to help students who attend low-performing schools to meet the State academic standards. While child-care is not the intended purpose of the funds, it Is permissible for 21st CCLC staff whose programs have been temporarily closed to volunteer as child-care workers if they please.

In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, the University of Richmond has extended spring break an additional week to allow faculty to prepare for remote instruction. By extending our spring break for students an additional week, our academic year is reduced from 15 weeks to 14 weeks.

We have submitted a request for a waiver to provide distance education to SACSCOC and want to make sure we are in compliance with federal student aid policies regarding our reduction in the length of the academic year.

Please provide any information regarding the steps we need to take in order to either update our PPA or to inform DOE of our reduction so we may remain in compliance with federal student aid policies. Hi Claudette-
The University is contemplating giving students an additional 2 weeks of extended Spring Break. We currently have 15 weeks of instruction for Spring but that will be reduced by 2 weeks if we decide to do this, bringing us down to 13 weeks of instruction. This is all due to the need to give faculty time to put face to face courses online because of Coronavirus. Do we need to make one of those weeks a week of instruction or study time to comply with the minimum 14 weeks of instruction or will there be waivers granted due to the unforeseen circumstance?

Thank you for your help!

Hello Philadelphia Participation Team Folks,

I am reaching out today to obtain permission to shorten our spring semester, and therefore our academic year by two weeks. Due to precautions surrounding the coronavirus and COVID-19, Slippery Rock University 00332700 will extend our spring break period by two full weeks. After that time, all education will be delivered online. All course content, objectives, hours, etc. will be completed during the remaining weeks of instruction but we can not add days to the end of the term because of our contractual obligations with unionized faculty. Therefore, I am seeking permission to temporarily define our academic year as 28 weeks of instruction rather than 30. Please advise as to what else is required to achieve this. I appreciate your assistance.

Subject: COVID-19 question

Anna,

Thank you for responding to my phone message.

Like many colleges, as a response to the COVID-19 outbreak, Cornerstone has made the decision to move fully to online education for the next few weeks. We are cancelling all classes in our traditional undergraduate programs from March 12 through March 20. On March 23 we will resume with all courses online through at least April 14. (Our adult undergraduate and all of our graduate programs are not affected by this. They are moving online immediately.)

Closing down fully next week means that our spring semester will have only 14 weeks of instruction/exams, meaning our 2019-20 academic year will be only 29 weeks.

The electronic announcement of March 5 concerning interruptions of study related to Coronavirus stated that we should contact our School Participation team to request a temporary reduction in the length of our academic year. I am writing to see what the process is for being approved for this temporary reduction.

Hi Scott,
Nice chatting with you this morning.
Following up on our conversation here is the detailed question

The New School OPEID 02066200 has a branch campus in Paris France. Because that campus does not fall under CDC guidance, but rather the French Ministry, there is the chance that they would be required to close, shortening the term, even though NYC campus is still open and working virtually/remotely. If this were to happen, how would we address the situation?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Is it possible that NYC could extend independent studies courses to complete the curriculum (which is ours) so that students don't lose a term?
Or do we have to report the shortened term and make adjustments to the PPA?

Looking forward to hearing from you soon.
With kind regards,
Deirdre

Dear Ms. Barnett,

I am requesting approval to comply with Title IV policies impacted by Cornoavirus (Covid-19), and need to clarify guidance regarding Return of Title IV regulations.

A. Request for Approval Due to a Temporary Reduction in Length of Academic Year

On Thursday, March 12, 2020, Oakton Community College made a decision to extend our Spring Break by an additional week. The non-instructional period will run from March 16—March 29, 2020. No classes will be held during this time. The extension is intended to allow faculty to prepare online instruction.

All lecture components of a credit courses will move to an online format from March 30—April 24, 2020. Courses that have a lab component will continue to be taught with face-to-face instruction. The College plans to be open so students may secure key services such as tutoring, library service, testing, disability services, wellness/counseling, and computer lab access. The Office of Student Financial Assistance will also be open.

The spring semester will be 14 weeks and 3 days. The spring semester began on January 21, 2020 and the last date of student attendance will be May 15, 2020.

B. Return of Title IV Clarification

The March 5, 2020 electronic announcement that provides guidance for interruptions of study mentioned Return of Title IV within the context of leave of absences. Can you confirm that Oakton does not need to recalculate Return of Title IV calculations performed prior to March 13, 2020? And confirm that for calculations performed on/after March 13, 2020, those calculations are required to include the additional week of closure as part of a scheduled break?

Good Morning Deborah,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

I am hoping you can help me with a question I have about the Corona Virus and if a school would have to temporarily suspend in-house classes. For the Credit Hour students we are going to be teaching those classes on-line. We are currently working on a Contingency Plan, making sure students will have the capability to continue he/her studies this way. My main concern is for the students who are enrolled in our Cosmetology program, which Title IV funding is based on Clock Hours and not Credit Hours. These students Title IV funding is based on the actual hours they are in a class. They have lecture classes which can be moved on-line but the majority of his/her classes are hands on and by not having the classroom to practice, how would this affect the Contract End Date and when the student was to finish by. Will we be able to move the contract end date because of the suspension of in-house classes. Also what if there are no lecture classes schedule for the students for this payment period and the student only has in-house classes. My concern is this case would be the 14 day termination policy because of attendance. What would the school need to do in this instance.

Thank you for your help,
Stephanie

Good afternoon,

The below e-mail is from Augustana College (OPE: 00163300) regarding a reduction of weeks in the institution's Spring semester due to COVID-19. The institution is informing the Chicago/Denver SPD it is going from a 15 week semester to 14 week semester. Although the e-mail doesn't request it, my discussion with the Financial Aid Director was that she is requesting permission to reduce the semester a week without any change/interruption to the student's disbursement of Title IV aid. The institution will still have an academic year over 30 weeks in length (due to a intersession attached to the Fall semester) and the traditional fall semester will only be a week longer than the spring semester.

Jason

Hi Priscilla,

Sorry to bother you but since our B23 programs can do Remote EI (Medicaid approved and HIPAA secure with TA from ECPC) they WANT to provide continuity of care to their families. The lead agency is not closed and only 4 of the 26 EIS programs in CT have temporarily closed.

As you can see below our OEC crisis team wants me to consult with "the Feds". I don't think EI is essential during our "Stay Safe, Stay at Home" executive order so we want to tell them NO in person EIS since they have Remote EI as an option. The funding for Remote EI will be the same we use for in-person and will just replace the in-person claims.

We are psyched that Medicaid is on board!

Do you agree with my approach? Or should we talk on the phone? My land line at home is 860-283-8499.

Thanks!

Alice,

Before any other communication can go out to B23 providers, please consult with the feds on the CT Executive Order and whether the feds deem B23 an essential service.

Once we obtain that information we can determine how to proceed with communication to B23 providers. We will need to have a specific conversation regarding funding commitments based on federal guidance. We can schedule a call about this when you have the info.

Hi,

Don't know if you are preparing one memo for all programs at OEC about the EO but either way I would like to send something like to my program directors as soon as possible so they can update their staff.

Given the recent "Stay Safe, Stay at Home" executive order, many of you have asked me whether Birth to Three is "essential" because we provide health insurance billable services. All Birth to Three Programs can have all staff working from home using Remote Early Intervention (EI) for all EI services as posted in both procedures on our website at https://www.birth23.org/providers/provider-resources/procedures/. Therefore Birth to Three Programs are not essential (even though you are).

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The Remote EI procedures are currently in the approval process at DSS for Medicaid billing and they provide the continuity of care required by OSEP for families when EIS programs are open. If you signed up for messages from DSS you will be notified as soon as the provider bulletins (PB) are published. If the PBs are not published with March 16th as the effective date, the OEC will cover all Remote EIS provided from March 16th to the effective date in the PB. We will confirm the method for billing before the end of the month.

Ms. Devos,
Now that we know that the restrictions imposed on meat markets following the SARS outbreak nearly 20 years ago would have prevented the Coronavirus, the time is ripe to educate students. Since American school children are home, wouldn't it be a great time for them to visit the factory farms and slaughterhouses to learn where their cheese, butter, ice cream, sausage, bacon, steak and chicken come from? For the ones who remain quarantined, they can watch videos on the internet because this education about how to save our planet, end the sickness/sick care/financial crises, eradicate world hunger, and stop unnecessary violence and suffering is invaluable. Good evening Secretary Devos,
I am emailing you because I have a grave concern for the lives of all service and administrative personnel in the public school system. I have researched and this issue is pervasive across the nation. Service personnel are still working to provide meals for children. Secretaries are still answering phones and working on financials. Teachers are still coming in periodically to upload materials, make packets, or call students. Administrators are there when the building is open, so everyday Monday through Friday. Many bus drivers are going door to door to deliver meals. In some counties not only meals, but personal hygiene products are delivered. While I understand that caring for our children is extremely important, many state school leaders and Governors feel that they must do some version of this to maintain funding. We love our students and our dedication is not in question, not following the President's urgent pleas for social distancing and following his 15 day time line are not happening in the school system. I have read many executive orders from various states and I have relatives living in other states. This alternative learning and meal distribution is common place. Why is it being done? It occurs so that these can be instructional days. It allows and even promotes people congregating together. This does not fall on the shoulders of my Superintendent or State Superintendent. I am asking you to put a stop to all school personnel across the country working in any capacity until the President's full 15 time frame has expired and then reevaluate. We received word that we could miss work without taking docked time, that is not the issue, as long the job is expected many will continue to work. I know I will be there as long as school remains open in this fashion. Children/students are not provided these types of services in the summer or during any school breaks. We have a Federal and State Emergency situations. While assisting the communities and children is a blessing, safety must be considered. Please work out someway to not penalize the states in terms of funding. People are facing unnecessary exposure. My prayer is that you will take this concern to the President and perhaps to Congress if need be. Funding should never be placed over lives.

I look forward to hearing from you!

Sincerely,

Robin L. Stump

Good morning,

We have extended our Spring Break for one additional week (totaling 2 weeks); our school district is slated to reconvence face-to face on April 15th, as we know this may change. We are also looking to move to a distance learning/web enhanced methods while allowing students to come in groups of 9 for practical work, labs, etc. We are unsure at this time if we will fall below the 30 week academic year. What exactly is it that we will need to do at this time for approval?

Subject: Clarification SUNY Student Loan DHHS loans, Perkins Loans, Health Professions, Nursing Student

To Whom it May Concern:

SUNY is requesting clarifications for our Student Loan Servicing Center – we have a number of students calling due to the President's announcement about slashing interest rates on federal student loans to 0%. We know ED does not oversee these DHHS loans, but we are seeking clarification if there is any way to find out if this applies to the DHHS loans. We are also looking for clarification if this applies to federal Perkins loans, along with the Health Professions and Nursing Student loans. We want to ensure any guidance we have is accurate. Thank you for your attention to this matter and hope to hear from you soon. If you need any additional clarification or context, please do not hesitate to contact me. Stay safe.

Subject: Closure Days

Hello,

Based on State and National guidance we had to make the decision to close our school prior to our distant education plan being ready and approved with the State and our accreditation board, NACCAS. We notified our State and NACCAS that the school would be closed between 3/17/2020 - 3/30/2020. Do we need to send any official communication to the DOE as well regarding this temporary closure? We hope to have our distant education approved before the 31st to be able to reopen for that.

I had a few questions on how we treat the closed days for students. NACCAS has informed me that for their purposes we would amend these days for students as unscheduled and adjust the students graduation dates accordingly. They told me that in this case because the school is closed that it is not treated as an LOA and we do not have to count the closed days into the students allowable 180 days. Does the DOE have the same standpoint? I have one student who has exhausted her LOA days and was trying to determine if I needed to drop her and perform an R2T4 if the days do count as LOA.

It is then my understanding from NACCAS that once our distant education is up and running the school is considered open. So students who choose not to use the distant education would need to request an LOA or be counted as absent until we reopen the physical school. Then the regular LOA guidelines would apply.

Thank you for your time.

To Whom It May Concern:

Colorado Northwestern Community College (OPEID: 00135900) has taken steps to reduce the risk of COVID-19 for our students, staff, and community. This has been communicated to students and staff, with continual updates as warranted.

Below are the steps CNCC has taken:

- We have extended our spring break by one week, to allow remote deliver to be set up, thus reducing our spring term by one week. This will reduce the number of weeks for this academic year to 29 weeks.
- We are transitioning the majority of our coursework to remote delivery beginning March 30, 2020.
- Campus will remain open for support services and allow access for critical functions to complete their coursework.

Thank you, let me know if you have any questions.

Good morning and just checking to see when ED will provide confirmation and guidance for the FFEL community to use for commercially held FFEL loans? We want to help these FFEL borrowers (in repayment and default) immediately and we have requested confirmation of use of the disaster guidance contained in GEN 17-08. It's certainly a place for us to start for the three months until we see if a longer time may be needed or additional waivers based on how long the pandemic lasts etc but that would allow us to provide some immediate assistance to FFEL borrowers. Why are construction workers being mandated to continue work on these campuses? These projects are not essential. Subject: COVID-19 Standard Academic Year Length Reduction Request for Gulf Coast State College (001490-00)

To Whom It May Concern,

Good afternoon –

My institution, Gulf Coast State College (001490-00), has extended our spring 2020 break closure due to COVID-19. Our spring break was originally scheduled to be from 03/14/2020 to 03/22/2020, but it is now from 03/14/2020 till 03/29/2020. Accordingly, can you please permit a reduction in the length of our 2019-2020 standard academic year by a week per the ED & NASFAA guidance below?

Length of Academic Year

The Department is authorized under 34 CFR § 668.3 to approve a reduced academic year. If at any point an institution determines it will close as the result of a campus health emergency, it may contact the School Participation team to request a temporary reduction in the length of its academic year.

https://www.nasfaa.org/news-item/21208/Trending_AskRegs_Q_A_What_Factors_Do_We_Consider_When_Deciding_to_Extend_a_Scheduled_Break_Due_to_Coronavirus

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Academic Year Length: First, you must ask yourself, "When we extend our scheduled break, does it shorten the academic year to less than 30 weeks?"

Under 34 CFR 668.3, an academic year in a credit-hour program must consist of 30 weeks of instructional time. According to guidance NASFAA has received from ED, if you extend your scheduled break, it may reduce the number of weeks of instructional time in your term/payment period and thereby your academic year to less than 30 weeks. For example, if your academic year consists of two 15-week semesters, and the additional week of scheduled break reduces the 15-week semester to a 14-week semester, you have reduced your academic year length to 29 weeks. If this happens, the guidance under "Length of Academic Year" in the March 5, 2020 Electronic Announcement applies, and you must obtain approval from your ED School Participation Division. On the other hand, if you have a program consisting of two 16-week semesters with a 32-week academic year, and the extended break reduces your spring term by two weeks, you do not need ED's approval.

These are the steps to follow:

1. The institution should determine if the reduction in the number of weeks of instructional time in the term brings the academic year to less than 30 weeks. If not, no further action is necessary.
2. Assuming the reduction in the length of instruction in the term results in an academic year consisting of fewer than 30 weeks, the institution should submit a request for reduction in the length of an academic year to COVID-19@ed.gov, including the number of weeks that will now comprise the academic year, (e.g., 28 weeks).
3. The institution's request will be routed to the appropriate School Participation Division which will inform the institution of its decision.

They can grant a reduction to as little as 26 weeks for a credit-hour program at this time. To avoid a reduction in your academic year length, you could choose to add days to the end of the term/payment period to make up for the lost week(s) of instructional time.

Subject: Enquiry for the information regarding JU's programs eligibility for Title IV in connection with the distance learning due to COVID-19

OPE ID: 03597300
DUNS: 422178194

Dear Sir or Madam,

In reference to the Office of Postsecondary Education's announcement of March 05, 2020, I would respectfully ask to receive the information whether Jagiellonian University (JU) is eligible to disburse Title IV funds for the 2019-2020 summer semester to U.S. students who participate in the William D. Ford Federal Direct Loan Program while studying at JU.

In accordance with the OPE's announcement of March 05, 2020, Higher Education Act does not permit foreign schools to provide distance learning to U.S. students who participate in Title IV, HEA programs and the U.S. Department of Education does not exempt foreign schools from no permission for distance learning due to COVID-19.

However, in accordance with the Section 10 of S. 3489 Supporting Students in Response to Coronavirus Act, Section 481(b) of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1088(b))

is amended (1) by redesignating paragraph (4) as paragraph (5); and (2) by inserting after paragraph (3) the following: "(4) Notwithstanding the restriction in paragraph (3) with respect to a foreign institution, in the case of a public health emergency, major disaster or emergency, or national emergency declared by the applicable government authorities in the country in which the foreign institution is located, the Secretary may permit any part of an otherwise eligible program to be offered via distance education for the duration of such emergency or disaster and the following payment period".

Moreover, other federal programs for the U.S. students, such as The Post-9/11 GI Bill, U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs, allowes JU as a foreign school to disburse education benefits regardless of the fact that students programs have changed from resident training to online training. The VA's offices are making no adjustments to students' awards regarding COVID-19 until further notice.

The 2019/2020 summer semester at Jagiellonian University starts on February 24, 2020 and ends on September 30, 2020. By JU Rector's decision made in connection with the Government of Poland's regulations due to COVID-19, JU provides distance learning from March 10, 2020 until further notice.

Please be advised that there are thirteen U.S. students who are Title IV recipients at JU. Students have informed the Financial Aid Administrator that they currently still residing in Poland and attending online courses provided by JU. Students point to they difficult financial situation and the fact that they are not able to pay the 2019-2020 summer semester tuition fee without the Title IV funds support.

Thank you in advance for keeping us informed if there is a guidance which allows foreign schools to disburse Title IV funds regardless of the fact that the program has changed to distance learning. Should any additional information be required, please do not hesitate to contact Ms. Ewa Stankiewicz, Financial Aid Administrator (ewa.stankiewicz@uj.edu.pl).

Subject: Extending Spring Term

Good Morning,

I'm emailing because I've been notified that our school may extend the spring term into the summer in order to have students complete some instruction that can't be done online as well as studio time (we are an art school). We have transitioned to fully online as the school is currently closed for COVID-19.

My question is regarding adjustments to cost of attendance as well as the loan terms. From earlier guidance, it doesn't appear loan terms need to be adjusted. If students do not incur additional tuition/fee charges, but need to borrow additional loans to assist with the expenses associated with extending the term, is that something we can increase COA to account for? If a spring only loan is originated, should it have the new extended end date?

Subject: FAFSA signature pages

Hi,

I work for a college access & scholarship organization that supports the Denver Public Schools. We're working with 12th graders to complete the FAFSA and any follow-up so that they're ready to start college in the fall. We're grateful to the Department of Education for providing last week's COVID-19 FAQs, which answered many of our questions about federal student aid during this transition.

Does the Department have an alternative for submitting parent signature pages for the FAFSA for parents who aren't able to get an FSA ID? Now that our schools have moved to remote learning only, students no longer have access to printers or mailing supplies to be able to send a paper signature page. Ideally, this would be some form of electronic signature like DocuSign, or at least the ability to email (rather than mail) the signed signature page.

Many thanks,
Natasha

What is the Department of Education plan to assist States in flexibilities, and is there an office POC that we could contact for information by state/school district?

We are also looking to move to a distance learning/web enhanced methods while allowing students to come in groups of 9 for practical work, labs, etc. We are unsure at this time if we will fall below the 30 week academic year. What exactly is it that we will need to do at this time for approval?

Subject: Adjusting Timelines for Evaluations

To Whom This May Concern:

My name is Bobbi Davenport and I am an evaluator for Texas public schools in the state of Texas.

We are facing unprecedented times with the COVID-19 pandemic. As such our districts have had to turn to distance learning to continue providing instructional time to our Texas students. As such, because "school has resumed" through "virtual classrooms," Texas evaluators are being forced to continue to evaluate students that have an open FIIE or Reevaluation consent.

While the OCR document suggests that face-to-face evaluations should be discontinued while school is not in session and can resume when school is in session, TEA has put a directive that the timeline continues and the majority of evaluators, in order to obtain valid and reliable data, will be forced to meet face-to-face with the student.

If evaluators consider to do teleconferencing testing, the evaluators may not be properly trained or do not have access to instruments that are designed to be used in that format; therefore, the reliability or the validity of the data obtained will be compromised.

Furthermore, these are unique circumstances that are in fact fear or anxiety inducing, which will lead to issues with the validity of the data obtained. At this time, our families should not be worried about anything, but being together and following the directive to remain at home and reducing social contact.

I am reaching out to you as policy makers and as someone who could potentially advocate for us practitioners in this unprecedented unique situation. We are treading in uncharted waters and ultimately we want to act with an abundance of caution where we will not be hurting the student or our community.

While I understand the parents desire to get answers to their child's academic, behavioral, development, and/or emotional concerns, my hope is that TEA will adopt the recommendation from OCR that "If an evaluation of a student with a disability requires a face-to-face assessment or observation, the evaluation would need to be delayed until school reopens. Evaluations and re-evaluations that do not require face-to-face assessments or observations may take place while schools are closed, so long as a student's parent or legal guardian consents." The state of California has followed this guidance and will not be completing face-to-face evaluations until normal school routines have returned for all students. We ask that Texas adopts similar guidelines during this delicate and uncertain time.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

My goal as a practitioner is to consider the best interests of the students and families we serve, while not abandoning their social, emotional, academic, and mental health needs. We have an ethical responsibility to maintain the integrity of our profession and conducting assessments during this pandemic would not be deemed as such.

Good afternoon,
In Florida, all schools are preparing to move to virtual instruction for all students, including specialized instruction and related services, due to mandatory COVID-19 school closures and CDC guidelines.
Virtual is a broad term used to describe instruction and services that are provided remotely. There are a variety of ways to do this and districts, schools, and families will work together to plan for this.
Each student's current IEP is to be implemented in this new environment to the extent practicable. We currently have models for every type of related service to be provided remotely. This temporary instructional setting does not change the child's previous IEP and is to conclude when schools reopen.
What is the best way to formally communicate this to parents. Would it be a a type of prior written notice? There is no precedence for this. What about the best way to document the temporary instructional setting? Perhaps an addendum to the IEP?
We want to begin services at the same time students without disabilities begin, with no delay to services. If IEP teams must meet prior to resuming services in this new way there will be a delay to SWD participating in the remote learning and reviewing their services.
Please let me know if a call will help to explain this better.
Thank you!

Under 34 CFR §300.503(a), the school district must give you a written notice (information received in writing), whenever the school district: (1) Proposes to begin or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of your child or the provision of a free appropriate public education (FAPE) to your child; or (2) Refuses to begin or change the identification, evaluation, or educational placement of your child or the provision of FAPE to your child. Subject: Closure Days

Hello,

Based on State and National guidance we had to make the decision to close our school prior to our distant education plan being ready and approved with the State and our accreditation board, NACCAS. We notified our State and NACCAS that the school would be closed between 3/17/2020 - 3/30/2020. Do we need to send any official communication to the DOE as well regarding this temporary closure? We hope to have our distant education approved before the 31st to be able to reopen for that.

I had a few questions on how we treat the closed days for students. NACCAS has informed me that for their purposes we would amend these days for students as unscheduled and adjust the students graduation dates accordingly. They told me that in this case because the school is closed that it is not treated as an LOA and we do not have to count the closed days into the students allowable 180 days. Does the DOE have the same standpoint? I have one student who has exhausted her LOA days and was trying to determine if I needed to drop her and perform an R2T4 if the days do count as LOA.

It is then my understanding from NACCAS that once our distant education is up and running the school is considered open. So students who choose not to use the distant education would need to request an LOA or be counted as absent until we reopen the physical school. Then the regular LOA guidelines would apply.

Thank you for your time.

Washington, DC 20202-3100

Dear Madam Secretary,

The COVID-19 outbreak is an international health crisis that will require an unprecedented response. President Donald Trump has declared a National Emergency, and the World Health Organization has labeled the outbreak a pandemic. Sports leagues are postponing their seasons, public events and concerts are being canceled, and states are ordering businesses to close.

Schools are also facing extreme difficulties, such as sending their students home indefinitely. The gravity of the current situation they are facing navigating the COVID-19 outbreak creates an undue burden for preparing and administering statewide assessments. Therefore, I respectfully ask you to immediately grant any state requests for a one-year waiver from Section 8401 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (20 U.S.C. § 7861). No state or district should have their participation rate or absenteeism metric factored into any school's Academic Achievement indicators.

Our state and local education agencies cannot be expected to administer assessments that are reliable and valid during this unforeseen and challenging academic year. For instance, the impact to Tennessee caused by inclement weather and COVID-19 will undeniably affect our state's accountability system due to school closures and student absences. States should be encouraged to postpone pending annual assessments where education has been interrupted by COVID-19

We must recognize that our districts could face critical challenges meeting certain Elementary and Secondary Education Act fiscal requirements, such as maintenance of effort; the requirement to obligate funds in the current federal fiscal year for providing equitable services to eligible private school students, teachers, and families; and the limitation on carrying over no more than 15% of Title I, Part A funds.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

We must continue to work together to ensure the safety and security of our citizens. The health and safety of our students, staff, and their families must be our top priority. Please grant any state request for a one-year waiver from Section 8401 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (20 U.S.C. § 7861).

Sincerely,

Hi Sarah,

This correspondence came to OESE, but program officers have been directed to send all COVD-related inquiries to the COVID-19 inbox for a response. We were not sure about this one and whether OESE, the COVID-19 Rapid Response Team, or you should take the lead on the response. Would you prefer we work with the COVID-19 team?

To make sure I have this straight: COVID-19 mailbox received this communication directly from Congressman Mark Green's office? Or was it sent from someone in OLCA to that mailbox?

Also - can you attach the correspondence?

Thanks for the additional context!

To Whom It May Concern:

Colorado Northwestern Community College (OPEID: 00135900) has taken steps to reduce the risk of COVID-19 for our students, staff, and community. This has been communicated to students and staff, with continual updates as warranted.

Below are the steps CNCC has taken:

- We have extended our spring break by one week, to allow remote deliver to be set up, thus reducing our spring term by one week. This will reduce the number of weeks for this academic year to 29 weeks.
- We are transitioning the majority of our coursework to remote delivery beginning March 30, 2020.
- Campus will remain open for support services and allow access for critical functions to complete their coursework.

Thank you, let me know if you have any questions.

Good Evening Dr. Forrester,

Due to the COVID-19 pandemic, The Virgin Islands Department of Education has closed schools for three weeks starting Monday, March 16, 2020. As we continue to meet the needs of our students, we are preparing to transition to distance learning. A population of students has been identified that we would have to support in order to facilitate instruction.

I am requesting the flexibility to approve CGA budget modifications that would normally require approval from USED. This would allow for expedited goods and services to be provided to facilitate student instruction during this difficult time.

See below for an idea of some of the requests from the St. Thomas and St. Croix Districts:

MIFI devices - Approximately 1,000 students Territory-wide are without internet access at home. Both districts would like to allocate $16,000 to provide internet access temporarily for the remainder of the school year for these students. STX - Education Reform Project and STTJ - Technology Integration project would fund this expense
VIDE LIVE via radio & Facebook - In order to ensure a continuation of learning for students, the districts would supplement the distance learning by having teachers provide instruction simultaneously via television, Facebook and radio, by grade span, for 10-hours a day in the 4 content areas. STX and STTJ - Engaging Families Projects would fund this expense.

Good morning and just checking to see when ED will provide confirmation and guidance for the FFEL community to use for commercially held FFEL loans? We want to help these FFEL borrowers (in repayment and default) immediately and we have requested confirmation of use of the disaster guidance contained in GEN 17-08. It's certainly a place for us to start for the three months until we see if a longer time may be needed or additional waivers based on how long the pandemic lasts etc but that would allow us to provide some immediate assistance to FFEL borrowers. I'm happy to discuss or answer any questions. Thank you!

Why are construction workers being mandated to continue work on these campuses? These projects are not essential. If these men and women become ill and lose their lives who will finish the renovations then. "Essential" should not mean remodeling projects. I have attached a picture of the sink that was provided for workers to wash their hands no soap was supplied and the hand sanitizer station that was just provided today. There is no way for them to wipe the surfaces they have touched.

Dear Jim:

Hope all is well.

The Corona Virus is currently getting a lot of attention at our University due to the fact that there are current indications of 20 identified cases in Iowa.

To ensure the safety of our community we are considering canceling the scheduled Spring Break Recess planned between March 20th and March 29th. If we decide to do that is it acceptable within the USDE Semester length guidelines as long as we move up the end of the Semester from June 18th to June 8th?

Also, would it be appropriate as an alternative to canceling the Spring break, to push it back with dates later in the Semester? This hasn't been discussed but could be an option. It would imply the same Semester ending date with the same length of a Spring Break but some of the inclusive Block dates would need to be changed.

Good morning Ms. Bell,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, the University of Richmond has extended spring break an additional week to allow faculty to prepare for remote instruction. By extending our spring break for students an additional week, our academic year is reduced from 15 weeks to 14 weeks.

We have submitted a request for a waiver to provide distance education to SACSCOC and want to make sure we are in compliance with federal student aid policies regarding our reduction in the length of the academic year.

Please provide any information regarding the steps we need to take in order to either update our PPA or to inform DOE of our reduction so we may remain in compliance with federal student aid policies. Your assistance is appreciated. Please let me know if you need additional information about our change in instruction modality or our plans for providing remote instruction.

Best,

Hi Claudette-
The University is contemplating giving students an additional 2 weeks of extended Spring Break. We currently have 15 weeks of instruction for Spring but that will be reduced by 2 weeks if we decide to do this, bringing us down to 13 weeks of instruction. This is all due to the need to give faculty time to put face to face courses online because of Coronavirus. Do we need to make one of those weeks a week of instruction or study time to comply with the minimum 14 weeks of instruction or will there be waivers granted due to the unforeseen circumstance?

Thank you for your help!

It appears that guidelines from the FLDOE and CDC might be being interpreted incorrectly by some state college program administrators so, I have a question or I might have read incorrectly.

Did any of the guidelines recommend or state it was a good idea that a state vocational college program that requires one-on-one labs continue to operate? Specifically, should an aviation program with 70+ students (mostly in their 20's after spring break) and faculty (some in their 70's) be required to return on 3/23 or suffer consequences such as incompletes (for students) and firing (for faculty), respectively, when they are mostly in one occupied hanger space that can't provide sufficient "social distancing" especially for Professors? Didn't the FLDOE suggest that vocational schools cancel this semester or postpone classes until 4/15 for health and safety reasons?

Thank you.

Hello Philadelphia Participation Team Folks,

I am reaching out today to obtain permission to shorten our spring semester, and therefore our academic year by two weeks. Due to precautions surrounding the coronavirus and COVID-19, Slippery Rock University 00332700 will extend our spring break period by two full weeks. After that time, all education will be delivered online. All course content, objectives, hours, etc. will be completed during the remaining weeks of instruction but we can not add days to the end of the term because of our contractual obligations with unionized faculty. Therefore, I am seeking permission to temporarily define

Anna,

Thank you for responding to my phone message.

Like many colleges, as a response to the COVID-19 outbreak, Cornerstone has made the decision to move fully to online education for the next few weeks. We are cancelling all classes in our traditional undergraduate programs from March 12 through March 20. On March 23 we will resume with all courses online through at least April 14. (Our adult undergraduate and all of our graduate programs are not affected by this. They are moving online immediately.)

Closing down fully next week means that our spring semester will have only 14 weeks of instruction/exams, meaning our 2019-20 academic year will be only 29 weeks.

The electronic announcement of March 5 concerning interruptions of study related to Coronavirus stated that we should contact our School Participation team to request a temporary reduction in the length of our academic year. I am writing to see what the process is for being approved for this temporary reduction.

Please disseminate the attached guidance to your D/A's regional, state, and/or local offices. As states and municipalities restrict movement, it is critical this guidance reaches those setting and enforcing protocols as well as the industries and workers performing these functions.

DHS Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security (CISA) is focusing on the supply chain and critical infrastructure workforce in COVID-19 response. Within the attached guidance, CISA identifies an initial list of "Essential Critical Infrastructure Workers" to help State and local officials consider COVID-19-related restrictions, and prioritize activities related to continuity of operations and incident response, including the appropriate movement of critical infrastructure workers within and between jurisdictions. Therefore, please review the attached guidance and distribute to all relevant staff.

MEMORANDUM ON IDENTIFICATION OF ESSENTIAL CRITICAL INFRASTRUCTURE WORKERS DURING COVID-19 RESPONSE

FROM: Christopher C. Krebs
Director
Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency (CISA)

---

As the Nation comes together to slow the spread of COVID-19, on March 16th, the President issued updated Coronavirus Guidance for America. This guidance states that:

> "If you work in a critical infrastructure industry, as defined by the Department of Homeland Security, such as healthcare services and pharmaceutical and food supply, you have a special responsibility to maintain your normal work schedule."

The Cybersecurity and Infrastructure Security Agency (CISA) executes the Secretary of Homeland Security's responsibilities as assigned under the Homeland Security Act of 2002 to provide strategic guidance, promote a national unity of effort, and coordinate the overall federal effort to ensure the security and resilience of the Nation's critical infrastructure. CISA uses trusted partnerships with both the public and private sectors to deliver infrastructure resilience assistance and guidance to a broad range of partners.

In accordance with this mandate, and in collaboration with other federal agencies and the private sector, CISA developed an initial list of "Essential Critical Infrastructure Workers" to help State and local officials as they work to protect their communities, while ensuring continuity of functions critical to public health and safety, as well as economic and national security. The list can also inform critical infrastructure community decision-making to determine the sectors, sub-sectors, segments, or critical functions that should continue normal operations, appropriately modified to account for Centers for Disease Control (CDC) workforce and customer protection guidance.

The attached list identifies workers who conduct a range of operations and services that are essential to continued critical infrastructure viability, including staffing operations centers, maintaining and repairing critical infrastructure, operating call centers, working construction, and performing management functions, among others. The industries they support represent, but are not necessarily limited to, medical and healthcare, telecommunications, information technology systems, defense, food and agriculture, transportation and logistics, energy, water and wastewater, law enforcement, and public works.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

We recognize that State, local, tribal, and territorial governments are ultimately in charge of implementing and executing response activities in communities under their jurisdiction, while the Federal Government is in a supporting role. As State and local communities consider COVID-19-related restrictions, CISA is offering this list to assist prioritizing activities related to continuity of operations and incident response, including the appropriate movement of critical infrastructure workers within and between jurisdictions.

Accordingly, this list is advisory in nature. It is not, nor should it be considered to be, a federal directive or standard in and of itself.

In addition, these identified sectors and workers are not intended to be the authoritative or exhaustive list of critical infrastructure sectors and functions that should continue during the COVID-19 response. Instead, State and local officials should use their own judgment in using their authorities and issuing implementation directives and guidance. Similarly, critical infrastructure industry partners will use their own judgment, informed by this list, to ensure continued operations of critical infrastructure services and functions. All decisions should appropriately balance public safety while ensuring the continued delivery of critical infrastructure services and functions.

CISA will continue to work with you and our partners in the critical infrastructure community to update this list as the Nation's response to COVID-19 evolves. We also encourage you to submit how you might use this list so that we can develop a repository of use cases for broad sharing across the country.

Should you have questions about this list, please contact CISA at CISA.CAT@cisa.dhs.gov.

Guidance on the Essential Critical Infrastructure Workforce: Ensuring Community and National Resilience in COVID-19 Response

Version 1.0 (March 19, 2020)

THE IMPORTANCE OF ESSENTIAL CRITICAL INFRASTRUCTURE WORKERS

Functioning critical infrastructure is imperative during the response to the COVID-19 emergency for both public health and safety as well as community well-being. Certain critical infrastructure industries have a special responsibility in these times to continue operations.

This guidance and accompanying list are intended to support State, Local, and industry partners in identifying the critical infrastructure sectors and the essential workers needed to maintain the services and functions Americans depend on daily and that need to be able to operate resiliently during the COVID-19 pandemic response.

This document gives guidance to State, local, tribal, and territorial jurisdictions and the private sector on defining essential critical infrastructure workers. Promoting the ability of such workers to continue to work during periods of community restriction, access management, social distancing, or closure orders/directives is crucial to community resilience and continuity of essential functions.

CONSIDERATIONS FOR GOVERNMENT AND BUSINESS

This list was developed in consultation with federal agency partners, industry experts, and State and local officials, and is based on several key principles:

1. Response efforts to the COVID-19 pandemic are locally executed, State managed, and federally supported
2. Everyone should follow guidance from the CDC, as well as State and local government officials, regarding strategies to limit disease spread.
3. Workers should be encouraged to work remotely when possible and focus on core business activities. In-person, non-mandatory activities should be delayed until the resumption of normal operations.
4. When continuous remote work is not possible, businesses should enlist strategies to reduce the likelihood of spreading the disease. This includes, but is not necessarily limited to, separating staff by off-setting shift hours or days and/or social distancing. These steps can preserve the workforce and allow operations to continue.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

5. All organizations should implement their business continuity and pandemic plans, or put plans in place if they do not exist. Delaying implementation is not advised and puts at risk the viability of the business and the health and safety of the employees.

6. In the modern economy, reliance on technology and just-in-time supply chains means that certain workers must be able to access certain sites, facilities, and assets to ensure continuity of functions.

7. Government employees, such as emergency managers, and the business community need to establish and maintain lines of communication.

8. When government and businesses engage in discussions about critical infrastructure workers, they need to consider the implications of business operations beyond the jurisdiction where the asset or facility is located. Businesses can have sizeable economic and societal impacts as well as supply chain dependencies that are geographically distributed.

9. Whenever possible, jurisdictions should align access and movement control policies related to critical infrastructure workers to lower the burden of workers crossing jurisdictional boundaries.

IDENTIFYING ESSENTIAL CRITICAL INFRASTRUCTURE WORKERS

The following list of sectors and identified essential critical infrastructure workers are an initial recommended set and are intended to be overly inclusive reflecting the diversity of industries across the United States. CISA will continually solicit and accept feedback on the list (both sectors/sub sectors and identified essential workers) and will evolve the list in response to stakeholder feedback. We will also use our various stakeholder engagement mechanisms to work with partners on how they are using this list and share those lessons learned and best practices broadly. We ask that you share your feedback, both positive and negative on this list so we can provide the most useful guidance to our critical infrastructure partners. Feedback can be sent to CISA.CAT@CISA.DHS.GOV.

To Whom It May Concern,

Good afternoon –

My institution, Gulf Coast State College (001490-00), has extended our spring 2020 break closure due to COVID-19. Our spring break was originally scheduled to be from 03/14/2020 to 03/22/2020, but it is now from 03/14/2020 till 03/29/2020. Accordingly, can you please permit a reduction in the length of our 2019-2020 standard academic year by a week per the ED & NASFAA guidance below?

Length of Academic Year

The Department is authorized under 34 CFR § 668.3 to approve a reduced academic year. If at any point an institution determines it will close as the result of a campus health emergency, it may contact the School Participation team to request a temporary reduction in the length of its academic year.

https://www.nasfaa.org/news-item/21208/Trending_AskRegs_Q_A_What_Factors_Do_We_Consider_When_Deciding_to_Extend_a_Scheduled_Break_Due_to_Coronavirus

Academic Year Length: First, you must ask yourself, "When we extend our scheduled break, does it shorten the academic year to less than 30 weeks?"

Under 34 CFR 668.3, an academic year in a credit-hour program must consist of 30 weeks of instructional time. According to guidance NASFAA has received from ED, if you extend your scheduled break, it may reduce the number of weeks of instructional time in your term/payment period and thereby your academic year to less than 30 weeks. For example, if your academic year consists of two 15-week semesters, and the additional week of scheduled break reduces the 15-week semester to a 14-week semester, you have reduced your academic year length to 29 weeks. If this happens, the guidance under "Length of Academic Year" in the March 5, 2020 Electronic Announcement applies, and you must obtain approval from your ED School Participation Division. On the other hand, if you have a program consisting of two 16-week semesters with a 32-week academic year, and the extended break reduces your spring term by two weeks, you do not need ED's approval.

These are the steps to follow:

1. The institution should determine if the reduction in the number of weeks of instructional time in the term brings the academic year to less than 30 weeks. If not, no further action is necessary.
2. Assuming the reduction in the length of instruction in the term results in an academic year consisting of fewer than 30 weeks, the institution should submit a request for reduction in the length of an academic year to COVID-19@ed.gov, including the number of weeks that will now comprise the academic year, (e.g., 28 weeks).
3. The institution's request will be routed to the appropriate School Participation Division which will inform the institution of its decision.

They can grant a reduction to as little as 26 weeks for a credit-hour program at this time. To avoid a reduction in your academic year length, you could choose to add days to the end of the term/payment period to make up for the lost week(s) of instructional time.

Dear Assistant Secretary Brogan, Dr. Marbut, and Friends –

I realize that I may not be following protocols, appropriate channels, or formalities, and for that I apologize.

But in light of the current emergency, and in preparation for USICH's Large Scale Service Provider Call, please find attached and below:

- A survey to date from K-12 educators and EHCY personnel (we also have responses from early ed, higher ed, and community providers, but this is just the K12 side). This information was gathered for the purpose of driving both private philanthropy to homeless children and youth (working with many education foundations) as well as public supplemental funding. It has only been open for a day.
- A checklist for LEAs and ECE programs, created at request of the field. In less than 24 hours, this has been accessed over 2,400 times.
- I will send notes from the "chat box" from yesterday's virtual chat soon, when we can clean it up and organize it.
- The biggest questions/challenges coming our way are: 1) serving homeless students who are staying in different districts (food, education, health); 2) eligible use of both EHCY and Title I Part A funds (seeking broader uses); and 3) school meals (confusion over USDA waivers, etc). Being able to quickly adjust existing MV and Title I budgets to meet new emergent needs is essential. Express permission from ED is much needed.

- Biggest overarching principle: any SEA or LEA communication strategy, and/or service delivery model, that does not take into account the high mobility and invisibility of homeless children and youth will not reach them. There are tremendous safety issues, basic needs issues, and educational issues. They can't self-isolate, they can't shelter in place, the risk of abuse, neglect, trafficking, harm, illness is even higher now. Intentional and dedicated support to the MV EHCY professionals, and MV students, is paramount.

Dear Assistant Secretary Brogan, Dr. Marbut, and Friends –

I realize that I may not be following protocols, appropriate channels, or formalities, and for that I apologize.

But in light of the current emergency, and in preparation for USICH's Large Scale Service Provider Call, please find attached and below:

- A survey to date from K-12 educators and EHCY personnel (we also have responses from early ed, higher ed, and community providers, but this is just the K12 side). This information was gathered for the purpose of driving both private philanthropy to homeless children and youth (working with many education foundations) as well as public supplemental funding. It has only been open for a day.

- A checklist for LEAs and ECE programs, created at request of the field. In less than 24 hours, this has been accessed over 2,400 times.
- I will send notes from the "chat box" from yesterday's virtual chat soon, when we can clean it up and organize it.
- The biggest questions/challenges coming our way are: 1) serving homeless students who are staying in different districts (food, education, health); 2) eligible use of both EHCY and Title I Part A funds (seeking broader uses); and 3) school meals (confusion over USDA waivers, etc). Being able to quickly adjust existing MV and Title I budgets to meet new emergent needs is essential. Express permission from ED is much needed.
- Biggest overarching principle: any SEA or LEA communication strategy, and/or service delivery model, that does not take into account the high mobility and invisibility of homeless children and youth will not reach them. There are tremendous safety issues, basic needs issues, and educational issues. They can't self-isolate, they can't shelter in place, the risk of abuse, neglect, trafficking, harm, illness is even higher now. Intentional and dedicated support to the MV EHCY professionals, and MV students, is paramount.

Thank you so much for all that you are doing. We wish to be of service to you, in our collective work to serve children, youth, and families.

Subject: Distance learning question for students who haven't started school yet

Good afternoon, I have a question regarding students who haven't started school yet. I have read the Covid-19 Electronic Announcement a few times and I just want to be clear on one thing, are we allowed to give Federal Student Aid to students who have not yet started (We dont do early disbursements or give any aid until the student has actually attended). We are a clock-hour school and are implementing Distance Learning during this time until we are able to reopen our campus. We start new classes approx every 8 weeks and we have a new class starting April 7th. It's unclear to me if we are able to provide those students with Financial Aid? We have approval from the state but I just wanted to double check with the Dept that we are allowed to start new students during this time or if we are only allowed to serve currently enrolled students? Any guidance would be greatly appreciated. Thank you very much!

Hello team,

Please see question below. Below is also a draft response to this question regarding Title III requirements:

If a district's schools are closed and no education is happening, there is no obligation to screen new students. However, if the district is operating via distance learning[1], districts should make efforts to include new students to the extent practicable. If new students are enrolled, districts should make attempts to identify ELs remotely. For example, the district's online registration process could include a home language survey for parents. Districts may be able to conduct a version of their screening assessment online. When schools reopen, the district should complete the full identification procedures to promptly ensure the proper identification and placement for new ELs.

Good morning Ms. Calderon,

I wanted to follow-up with you regarding the question that I posed regarding the ten-day identification window and EL identification during school closures. We have quite a few districts that still have active student enrollment and the question of how do they identify ELs within a ten-day window as best they can while keeping the safety and well-being of staff and students at the forefront, is a constant question. There are many concerns surrounding the face-to-face aspect of administering the identification screeners to students during this time.

Any guidance that you could share is much appreciated.

Subject: Enquiry for the information regarding JU's programs eligibility for Title IV in connection with the distance learning due to COVID-19

OPE ID: 03597300
DUNS: 422178194

Dear Sir or Madam,

In reference to the Office of Postsecondary Education's announcement of March 05, 2020, I would respectfully ask to receive the information whether Jagiellonian University (JU) is eligible to disburse Title IV funds for the 2019-2020 summer semester to U.S. students who participate in the William D. Ford Federal Direct Loan Program while studying at JU.

In accordance with the OPE's announcement of March 05, 2020, Higher Education Act does not permit foreign schools to provide distance learning to U.S. students who participate in Title IV, HEA programs and the U.S. Department of Education does not exempt foreign schools from no permission for distance learning due to COVID-19.

However, in accordance with the Section 10 of S. 3489 Supporting Students in Response to Coronavirus Act, Section 481(b) of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1088(b))

is amended (1) by redesignating paragraph (4) as paragraph (5); and (2) by inserting after paragraph (3) the following: "(4) Notwithstanding the restriction in paragraph (3) with respect to a foreign institution, in the case of a public health emergency, major disaster or emergency, or national emergency declared by the applicable government authorities in the country in which the foreign institution is located, the Secretary may permit any part of an otherwise eligible program to be offered via distance education for the duration of such emergency or disaster and the following payment period".

Moreover, other federal programs for the U.S. students, such as The Post-9/11 GI Bill, U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs, allowes JU as a foreign school to disburse education benefits regardless of the fact that students programs have changed from resident training to online training. The VA's offices are making no adjustments to students' awards regarding COVID-19 until further notice.

The 2019/2020 summer semester at Jagiellonian University starts on February 24, 2020 and ends on September 30, 2020. By JU Rector's decision made in connection with the Government of Poland's regulations due to COVID-19, JU provides distance learning from March 10, 2020 until further notice.

Please be advised that there are thirteen U.S. students who are Title IV recipients at JU. Students have informed the Financial Aid Administrator that they currently still residing in Poland and attending online courses provided by JU. Students point to they difficult financial situation and the fact that they are not able to pay the 2019-2020 summer semester tuition fee without the Title IV funds support.

Thank you in advance for keeping us informed if there is a guidance which allows foreign schools to disburse Title IV funds regardless of the fact that the program has changed to distance learning. Should any additional information be required, please do not hesitate to contact Ms. Ewa Stankiewicz, Financial Aid Administrator (ewa.stankiewicz@uj.edu.pl).

Good Morning,

I'm emailing because I've been notified that our school may extend the spring term into the summer in order to have students complete some instruction that can't be done online as well as studio time (we are an art school). We have transitioned to fully online as the school is currently closed for COVID-19.

My question is regarding adjustments to cost of attendance as well as the loan terms. From earlier guidance, it doesn't appear loan terms need to be adjusted. If students do not incur additional tuition/fee charges, but need to borrow additional loans to assist with the expenses associated with extending the term, is that something we can increase COA to account for? If a spring only loan is originated, should it have the new extended end date?

Thank You,

Hi,

I work for a college access & scholarship organization that supports the Denver Public Schools. We're working with 12th graders to complete the FAFSA and any follow-up so that they're ready to start college in the fall. We're grateful to the Department of Education for providing last week's COVID-19 FAQs, which answered many of our questions about federal student aid during this transition.

Does the Department have an alternative for submitting parent signature pages for the FAFSA for parents who aren't able to get an FSA ID? Now that our schools have moved to remote learning only, students no longer have access to printers or mailing supplies to be able to send a paper signature page. Ideally, this would be some form of electronic signature like DocuSign, or at least the ability to email (rather than mail) the signed signature page.

Many thanks,
Natasha

Dear Colleague,

Thank you for the information and guidance you are providing in these unprecedented times. We are grateful to be able to continue paying federal work-study students as we have transitioned our "in-seat" classes to online.

Some of our offices with work-study students do not have scheduled hours for the student to work. They have turned in electronic time cards documented by their supervisors for each pay period up to the transition to online classes. For these students, we had planned to determine their average weekly hours worked this semester and pay them for the remainder of the semester based on this average. We will document our procedures.

Is this permissible?

Thank you,

This was asked and answered (mostly) in the Q&A. We are an institution that has temporarily moved all courses online until April 3rd. Our campus is still open for services (dorms, dining hall (carryout only), computer labs, library, financial aid office and advising, etc.). We would like to discourage students from coming back on campus if they don't have to. Since we are not "closed" can we still pay our FWS students without them technically working?

Thanks again,
Teri

From the Q&A

Our institution is not closed, but we have suspended classes on campus and moved them to a distance education format. May we pay Federal Work Study (FWS) wages to students who are unable to work because they have been impacted by COVID-19?

Yes. The FWS guidance in the Electronic Announcement dated March 5, 2020, applies when the student is unable to work because the school made the decision to close or to move to online/distance education classes and the institution meets the conditions described in Q&A #3 below.
If an FWS student is unable to work his/her scheduled hours because of COVID-19 disruptions (school closures, employer closures, student quarantined, etc.), the school may pay the student for any scheduled hours or allow the student to work by another means (on-line, remote, telecommute, etc.). Students should be paid the wage rate that they would have been paid if they were able to work the scheduled hours.
In this circumstance, when a school pays the student for the hours the student was scheduled to work, but did not work, the school is not required to submit any documentation to the Department. However, the school must document the number of scheduled hours a student should be paid prior to paying the student. Schools should also document in the student's file any actions that were taken regarding payment of FWS funds for scheduled hours that were not worked by the student.

How would the Department view the possibility of a college utilizing the average number of hours to calculate the pay during a shutdown due to COVID-19. The average number of hours may be more accurate and fair for students as opposed to the scheduled hours. Some students are notoriously bad about working all their scheduled hours while others will work additional yours if available. All guidance up to this point, references scheduled hours but average hours (historical view) could be a more accurate methodology.

To Whom This May Concern:

If our institution has moved the majority of classes online, but still have some students coming back residentially, are we considered "closed" for the purposes of paying FWS to students?

Additionally, if we have some students that choose to work in their FWS position and some that do not choose to work, are we able to pay both sets of students FWS? We have some areas that are still open for operation and we would like to be able to utilize a student worker, assuming they return. Some of the guidance initially made it seem as though it was all or nothing for paying FWS, but some of the recent guidance makes it seem as though we can pick and choose who we pay depending on whether or not they return.

I would like some additional guidance on if we can pay FWS to students who do not return and then also pay those that do return.

Lastly, are we able to pay students FWS and FW Assistance under these circumstances?

Good afternoon,

We have nearly 30 students who are unable to obtain a high school transcript. Is there any guidance on what a school can do in this case? For example can we take a written explanation as to why we are unable to obtain said transcripts?

We look forward to hearing from you.
Very Respectfully

Hello

Thank you for providing this valuable resource for schools. Our institution notified the Department that we have shortened our spring term by one week due to an extended spring break. I see guidance that if schools extend their academic year rather than shorten there is no need to adjust loan term dates and send to COD. I am assuming that is the case for shortening due to this crisis but I do not see that in writing anywhere.

Can you confirm that if we shorten our semester and are approved to do so by the department we do not have change the loan term dates and send to COD for spring.

Thanks for all you are doing.

Hi, Alice -

I really wish it was up to me to make this call, but I have to refer this inquiry to the Covid-19 team. Based on the information shared on Friday's call, the team understands that these matters are urgent and are responding quickly. I'm including the team on this message with the hope that someone will see it first thing in the morning.

If I hear something before you do, I'll be sure to let you know.

Be well –

Hi Priscilla,

Sorry to bother you but since our B23 programs can do Remote EI (Medicaid approved and HIPAA secure with TA from ECPC) they WANT to provide continuity of care to their families. The lead agency is not closed and only 4 of the 26 EIS programs in CT have temporarily closed.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

As you can see below our OEC crisis team wants me to consult with "the Feds". I don't think EI is essential during our "Stay Safe, Stay at Home" executive order so we want to tell them NO in person EIS since they have Remote EI as an option. The funding for Remote EI will be the same we use for in-person and will just replace the in-person claims.

We are psyched that Medicaid is on board!

Do you agree with my approach? Or should we talk on the phone? My land line at home is 860-283-8499.

Thanks!

Alice,

Before any other communication can go out to B23 providers, please consult with the feds on the CT Executive Order and whether the feds deem B23 an essential service.

Once we obtain that information we can determine how to proceed with communication to B23 providers. We will need to have a specific conversation regarding funding commitments based on federal guidance. We can schedule a call about this when you have the info.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Hi,

Don't know if you are preparing one memo for all programs at OEC about the EO but either way I would like to send something like to my program directors as soon as possible so they can update their staff.

Given the recent "Stay Safe, Stay at Home" executive order, many of you have asked me whether Birth to Three is "essential" because we provide health insurance billable services. All Birth to Three Programs can have all staff working from home using Remote Early Intervention (EI) for all EI services as posted in both procedures on our website at https://www.birth23.org/providers/provider-resources/procedures/. Therefore Birth to Three Programs are not essential (even though you are).

The Remote EI procedures are currently in the approval process at DSS for Medicaid billing and they provide the continuity of care required by OSEP for families when EIS programs are open. If you signed up for messages from DSS you will be notified as soon as the provider bulletins (PB) are published. If the PBs are not published with March 16th as the effective date, the OEC will cover all Remote EIS provided from March 16th to the effective date in the PB. We will confirm the method for billing before the end of the month.

Alice

Subject: IDEA timelines

With most schools experiencing closures, or engaging in virtual learning with students not physically attending school, we (Indiana Department of Education) are receiving a number of questions about how to meet timelines to conduct educational evaluations and convene IEP meetings. While national and state health emergencies are in effect, is USED going to grant waivers for conducting timely evaluations and IEP team meetings, as well as annual case review meetings? Evaluations require in-person meetings with the student as well as classroom observations. These required components of an educational evaluation are not reasonably possible at this time, and may not be for a month or more.

In a similar vein, conducting timely complaint investigations, mediations, and due process hearings may not be possible at this time. While cognizant of OSEP Memo 13-08, which indicates several instances that do not constitute exceptional circumstances to extend the 60 day time limit for state complaints, OSEP has not provided guidance as to what might constitute exceptional circumstances. Would a national or state health emergency which closes all schools in a state qualify? If an LEA is unable to provide documentation to adequately respond to a complaint, or if LEA personnel are not available for interviews during the investigation, due to the state or national health emergency, would that qualify as an exceptional circumstance permitting the SEA to extend the timelines?

For due process complaints (hearings), can the following timelines be extended when the school is not in session due to a health emergency (COVID-19)?

1. 10 days to file response (34 CFR §300.508(e) & (f)).
2. 15 days to object to the sufficiency (34 CFR §300.508(d)).
3. 15 days to conduct the resolution meeting (34 CFR §300.510(a))

While we recognize that an independent hearing officer can grant extensions of time (EOT) at the request of a party for most hearings, the same is not true for expedited hearings. 34 CFR §300.532. Is there any relief that can be granted for expedited hearings? We realize that the timelines for expedited hearings are based on school days. However, school days include virtual or eLearning days during the time when states, including schools, are prohibited from conducting in-person meetings. If a school is providing distance instruction or virtual learning, instructional days still accrue, but at a distance to keep everyone safe. But these regulations would require hearings that bring people together, in violation of state health emergency orders.

Any guidance on these matters would be greatly appreciated.

Thank you.

Q1 - Are schools required to convene IEP mtgs and/or amend IEPs to change delivery of service when distance education is needed? There is some confusion given OSERs QA and Supplemental Fact Sheet (each implying different expectations).

Q2 - Is there an operational definition for educational services and educational opportunities? Some are using interchangeably.

Subject: IEP questions from Connecticut

Hi. I would appreciate your review of the following questions from Connecticut:

Background: Connecticut schools are closed, with the exception of correctional facilities. Connecticut is in the process of making continued educational opportunities available to all students.

1. Evaluations. Connecticut is using the State established timeline, which is based on school days. So there will be no evaluations while school is closed. This seems correct to me, but let me know if there is an issue.
2. If a child is quarantined and school is open, if the child is out of school for 10 days, this is a change in placement. But if a child is quarantined and school is closed, and the child is out for more than 10 days, it is not a change in placement. Is this correct? I think it is correct.
3. There is a question about the purpose of the IEP meeting. All districts will be offering continued educational opportunities for all students, including students with disabilities. It is Connecticut's understanding that, while a child's IEP should be taken into consideration when offering continued educational opportunities, an IEP meeting does not have to be held in order to provide continued educational opportunities to a child with a disability. Is that correct? Should the IEP be revised (without an IEP meeting) to document that continued educational opportunities are provided for a child with a disability?
4. Connecticut understands that to the greatest extent possible, IEP meetings should be held virtually. However, this raises issues of availability of the required members of an IEP team and confidentiality. Also, there may be additions needed to the IEP as a result of the school closings. Does to IEP meeting have to be held to discuss future opportunities when school is back in session? Can the IEP be reviewed and revised after school closures end, even if this goes beyond timelines?

Ms De Vos,
As an occupational therapist working in the public school system, along with my wife who is a speech therapist, we have checked both the state (California) and federal website for particular guidance in regards to Special Education and the IEP process. I have spent countless hours reviewing the law over the past eighteen years, and on a good day the law has numerous areas that need clarification even after re-authorization. Whether one checks the State of California website or the federal website the result is the same. Ultimately you are directed to the "Question and Answer " page regarding COVID19 and delivery of service to students with special needs. This proves fairly frustrating as not only is there a legal disclaimer but the upshot is that the reader is advised to read IDEA in its' entirety. What may be more useful and far less cumbersome might be clear direction as pertains to certain aspects of the IEP process. For example: According to statute an assessment of a child must be completed within 60 days of receipt of signed assessment plan. What will happen to this current timeline if it has been interuppted by this event. Will there be a waiver? Example: After an evaluation is completed, an agreed upon time to convene and conduct the IEP (within the 60 day timeline) is arrived at. What will happen to this statuatory piece. Meetings of a certain size are currently cancelled and conference calls may prove difficult, if not impossible, with families and large staff numbers, for any number of reasons. Example: While typically developing peers may have the focus, attention and cognition to attend to coursework over the internet, at home, this could prove particularly difficult for children that require direct service such as severely autistic children, children with significant attention challenges and students with compromised motor skills. Example: How would a speech therapist deliver intra-oral therapy or articulation therapy without the student physically present. Example: If a district opts to provide distance learning to students, is the assumption that the special education students will attempt distance learning using devices they have no familiarity with nor are their parents equipped to enact this task. Special educaton is a particularly challenging aspect of public education and to lump it in with the melieu of regular education is folly. It would be extremely helpful if your office could see its' way to issuing waivers at least on IEP assement, evaluation and meeting times as everyone is currently at a complete loss. Thank you for your considerations. Jeff Steiger

Hello,

We have several programs that would like to give their students blanket "IP" grades for their spring semester courses. Would we then just have to follow our institutional policy about the timeframe in which these courses must be complete? Also, our SAP policy states that any "I" grade will be calculated into our completion rate, so I would assume I would calculate SAP as normal, and a student could use COVID-19 disruption as a basis for appeal?

Many of the programs in question are health-care related, so many of the students are otherwise occupied with the real-world pandemic.

Thank you for your expertise in this. I appreciate it.

With respect to the current deferment on student loans, will the Dept of Ed continue to deduct installments from social security on a default loan? Will your office temporarily cease the deductions as stated on 3/20/20? Your response is greatly appreciated.

Subject: Institutional Refunds and Cost of Attendance Recalculations

Good afternoon,
If we issue a credit to the student that can be used for 2020-21 housing are we required to include as EFA in 2021? I understand that for refunds in 1920 we do not have to adjust COA but what about a credit towards 2021?
Best,
Jennifer

Institutional Refunds and Cost of Attendance Recalculations

As institutions have considered offering refunds of some institutional charges, questions have arisen about the institution's obligations to adjust cost of attendance (COA) and possibly financial aid packages to reflect those refunds. ED's guidance states that if an institution provides "a waiver or refund of expenses for all or part of a student's tuition, fees, room and board charges, or other institutional charges, or if you become aware that a student has moved off campus for the remainder of the term, the Department will not require a re-evaluation of the student's cost of attendance."

It's important to note that in most cases, recalculation of the COA is not required; however, if your institution chooses to have a policy to recalculate the COA, then you must follow your own policy. In addition, any resulting Title IV credit balances would be subject to current regulation under 668.164(h), which requires the funds be paid to the student or parent within 14 days, unless the institution has written authorization from the student or parent, as applicable to hold the credit balance. Even with authorization to hold the Title IV credit balance, the institution must pay any remaining balance on loan funds by the end of the loan period, and any remaining other Title IV funds by the end of the last payment period in the award year for which they were awarded.

Institutional refund policies (such as refunding room and board costs) are at the discretion of the institution.

RRT-

Below is a question from our Interagency partner, NOAA. We have 4 interagency partnerships; NOAA, NASA, IMLS and NPS. We expect all four partners to want a reply to this question.

Do you anticipate additional flexibility in 21stCCLC grantee timelines and award periods as a result of this situation? Do you think we could extend the period of our interagency agreement to complete the work if we have a lot of delays getting projects started?

> Yes, it will be possible for the U.S. Department of Education to allow flexibility with our inter-agency partners around timelines, deliverables and may be able to extend the period of performance. Various activities that were scheduled between NOAA and 21st CCLC schools will be able to be rescheduled once we resume normal operations.

Dear NAME:

Thank you for contacting the U.S. Department of Education (Department) concerning COVID-19 ("Coronavirus").

While there is currently no vaccine to prevent COVID-19, health officials are currently taking steps to prevent the introduction and spread of this respiratory disease. Schools can play an important role in this effort.

Through collaboration and coordination with local health authorities and other agencies, schools can disseminate important information about this disease and its potential transmission. Schools can also prepare to take additional steps to prevent the spread of COVID-19, should State and local health officials identify such a need.

The Department recommends that schools continue to promote everyday disease prevention strategies:

- If you are sick, stay home from school.
- Avoid close contact with those who are already sick.
- Cover your nose and mouth when coughing or sneezing with a tissue or the crook of your arm.
- Wash your hands often with soap and water.
- Avoid touching eyes, nose, or mouth.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) offers the most up-to-date information on COVID-19. Schools can share relevant CDC fact sheets to help students, families, and staff understand COVID-19, along with steps they can take to protect themselves. For further information, please visit www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-nCoV.

In addition, the Department has established a "COVID-19 Information and Resources for Schools and School Personnel" webpage, available at www.ed.gov/coronavirus, to support schools and communities as they plan, prepare and potentially respond to possible cases of COVID-19. The Department will regularly update this webpage as more information and guidance becomes available.

Thank you for sharing your concerns with us. We invite you to send questions on which the Department can be helpful to the following email address: COVID-19@ed.gov.

Sincerely,

COVID-19 Response Team

I'm attending LECOM dental school in Bradenton Florida. Our school is still open and seeing emergency patients, who we are not really able to address their issues due COVID 19. Because school is worrying about interruption of education, more than 100 students and faculties have to attend school and report to their clinics. School refuses to listen to students' and faculties' opinions about temporarily closing campus for our safety. I'm very concerning about our safety as well as our family's safety.

Hi Scott,
Nice chatting with you this morning.
Following up on our conversation here is the detailed question

The New School OPEID 02066200 has a branch campus in Paris France. Because that campus does not fall under CDC guidance, but rather the French Ministry, there is the chance that they would be required to close, shortening the term, even though NYC campus is still open and working virtually/remotely. If this were to happen, how would we address the situation?
Is it possible that NYC could extend independent studies courses to complete the curriculum (which is ours) so that students don't lose a term?
Or do we have to report the shortened term and make adjustments to the PPA?

Looking forward to hearing from you soon.
With kind regards,
Deirdre

Rapid Response Team:

These questions all deal with 21st CCLC programs' location. Whether they will be held onsite or are virtual programs allowable. A tie in questions is if onsite can the programs be moved to another location? Tied into the programing questions is what documentation might be required by subgrantees?

| PA | Carmen Medina | cmedina@state.pa.us |

| OH | Shannon Teague | Shannon.Teague@education.ohio.gov |

Given that 21st CCLC is an out-of-school time grant, is it possible for them to offer remote programming during these school shut-downs. It seems like something feasible from my end, if they have a good plan that we can approve, but I wanted to make sure it doesn't in any way conflict with the intentions or requirements of the grant. Any feedback you can provide is much appreciated. (DC)

ii. With school buildings closing, our programs want to know if they can do a 100% on-line program if all the students they serve have the technology available. Programs purchase laptops to be used in the program, grantees want to know if they do a 100% on-line program if they can lend the laptops to those kids that don't have one during this time of crisis. (PA)

iii. Can 21st CCLC activities be held in other locations if the primary site (the school) has closed down? (CO)

iv. Will federal grant activities such as teleconferencing or working at home be permissible? What documentation would be acceptable? (OH)

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Yes, a State has the authority to designate programs to operate remotely or virtually 100 percent of there scheduled time during the COVID-19 emergency. It is the State's decision what type of documentation it would require from a program operating remotely/virtually. Programs should return to normal operations at such time the governor reopens schools.

Furthermore, the State has the authority to allow programs to modify their approved application's activities and budget to allow for programs to utilize the laptops in approved/modified activities utilizing the purchased of laptops. The laptops should be labeled the property of the program and inventoried pre and post check out.

Good morning. NY is in need of technical assistance for this question:

Can children who have not yet been determined to be Part B eligible (because of school closures) remain in EI past their third birthday during the COVID-19 emergency?

We anticipate that the current declared state of emergency will not resolve quickly. Depending on what happens with the schools and whether children can return this spring, we would likely want to have the ability to serve children in EI until Part B preschool is up and running and actual Part B determinations can be made (even on a case by case basis) or the end of the current school year (6/30/20), whichever comes first.

Hello,

Thank you for your communication as we try our best to move through this unprecedented COVID ordeal.

As a Supervisor of Student Teaching for a SUNY NYS College, I am looking for guidance during this Spring 2020 semester regarding Student Teachers finalizing their expected placements.

Specific questions included:

1. Is there a NYS expectation/decision yet for Student Teachers in their current 2nd placement to be involved with the public school classroom for on-line learning? (Or are NYS Student-Teacher placements canceled ? )

2. If there is still the expectation for Student Teachers to complete their placement as planned, will these Student Teachers be completing their edTPA Unit/Assessment for certification?

3. Should the Student-Teacher Supervisor maintain the instructional/observation and evaluative role using individual college platforms previously used?

4. Are there guidelines edTPA/ Pearson have provided that are supported and validated by the NYS Education Department.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

My apologies if I did not recognize these details in previously shared documents. Your guidance is very much appreciated as we try to support our future teachers on their path to graduation and certification.

May you and yours stay well.

Kind Regards,

Dear Ms. Barnett,

I am requesting approval to comply with Title IV policies impacted by Cornoavirus (Covid-19), and need to clarify guidance regarding Return of Title IV regulations.

A. Request for Approval Due to a Temporary Reduction in Length of Academic Year

On Thursday, March 12, 2020, Oakton Community College made a decision to extend our Spring Break by an additional week. The non-instructional period will run from March 16—March 29, 2020. No classes will be held during this time. The extension is intended to allow faculty to prepare online instruction.

All lecture components of a credit courses will move to an online format from March 30—April 24, 2020. Courses that have a lab component will continue to be taught with face-to-face instruction. The College plans to be open so students may secure key services such as tutoring, library service, testing, disability services, wellness/counseling, and computer lab access. The Office of Student Financial Assistance will also be open.

The spring semester will be 14 weeks and 3 days. The spring semester began on January 21, 2020 and the last date of student attendance will be May 15, 2020.

B. Return of Title IV Clarification

The March 5, 2020 electronic announcement that provides guidance for interruptions of study mentioned Return of Title IV within the context of leave of absences. Can you confirm that Oakton does not need to recalculate Return of Title IV calculations performed prior to March 13, 2020? And confirm that for calculations performed on/after March 13, 2020, those calculations are required to include the additional week of closure as part of a scheduled break?

Subject: Online notary services as an alternative to traditional, in person notary services

We understand that at the present time, the Department does not authorize the use of online notary services as an alternative to traditional, in person notary services. This is becoming more and more of a burden for students trying to complete V4 and V5 verification, specifically with our campuses closed. The student is unable to appear at our school to complete the Statement of Educational Purpose in person and therefore must submit to us a statement and certification from a notary public that the student appeared before a notary public, along with the copy of the government-issued photo ID that the student presented to the notary.

Can this be discussed and options presented for student's to complete verification?

Greetings from American University,

We are considering allowing our students to receive Pass/Fail grades in spring courses due to moving instruction to on-line for the remainder of the term. If we have a brand new student who just started in the Spring term and that student decides to take all the courses as Pass/Fail, and passes everything, they still will not have a cumulative GPA at the end of the spring term. Can we make an exception to our SAP policy that says a student must maintain a 2.0 cumulative GPA?

Many thanks for your guidance!

My university was considering offering pass/fail courses for this payment period and this item was one of the questions in the "COVID-19 and Federal Student Aid: What We Know" Webinar Q&A Segment Transcript — Recorded March 17, 2020...

"OK, a school is wondering if they can change to a pass/fail grading system at this point semester. I'm assuming because there's just been so much disruption.
Jill Desjean:
It certainly hasn't been addressed in any of the guidance we've seen. I can't say that I'm familiar with whether that's a thing that would be generally allowed.
Justin Draeger:
Karen, any thoughts?
David Futrell:
Yeah, we don't have an answer for this one.
Justin Draeger:
OK, we will flag this one for follow-up."

I was wondering if there is any more information on this subject.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Dear NAME:

Thank you for contacting the U.S. Department of Education (Department) concerning COVID-19 ("Coronavirus").

While there is currently no vaccine to prevent COVID-19, health officials are currently taking steps to prevent the introduction and spread of this respiratory disease. Schools can play an important role in this effort.

Through collaboration and coordination with local health authorities and other agencies, schools can disseminate important information about this disease and its potential transmission. Schools can also prepare to take additional steps to prevent the spread of COVID-19, should State and local health officials identify such a need.

The Department recommends that schools continue to promote everyday disease prevention strategies:

- If you are sick, stay home from school.
- Avoid close contact with those who are already sick.
- Cover your nose and mouth when coughing or sneezing with a tissue or the crook of your arm.
- Wash your hands often with soap and water.
- Avoid touching eyes, nose, or mouth.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) offers the most up-to-date information on COVID-19. Schools can share relevant CDC fact sheets to help students, families, and staff understand COVID-19, along with steps they can take to protect themselves. For further information, please visit www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-nCoV.

In addition, the Department has established a "COVID-19 Information and Resources for Schools and School Personnel" webpage, available at www.ed.gov/coronavirus, to support schools and communities as they plan, prepare and potentially respond to possible cases of COVID-19. The Department will regularly update this webpage as more information and guidance becomes available.

Thank you for sharing your concerns with us. We invite you to send questions on which the Department can be helpful to the following email address: COVID-19@ed.gov.

Sincerely,

COVID-19 Response Team

Then maybe have a couple weeks off at the end and then start the "next" grade at normal time.... just a thought.... Thanks. Marci Hutchison

Subject: Quarantine schedules

Hello- just an idea.... instead of having unqualified parents homeschool, why don't we just have "summer vacation" now and then resume the current year in the summer when the quarantine is over. Then maybe have a couple weeks off at the end and then start the "next" grade at normal time.... just a thought.... Thanks. Marci Hutchison

Subject: question about special education documentation during school shutdown

Good morning DOE authorities,
I communicated with Dr. Allen Pratt of the National Rural Education Association and he shared this email address to submit questions. Thanks for all of your hard work during these extraordinary times.

Many school districts in Iowa are continuing to pay staff during our schools COVID-19 shutdown, at least for the first four weeks, and will have to consider options if the shutdown is extended. The way school finance works in Iowa, however, districts will have to use general funds to pay for special education teachers and paras, if there isn't relief from documentation concerning the hours used to provide special education services.

Schools remain concerned that hourly support staff in particular will search for other work or more affordable living circumstances and may not be available to return when school resumes if they have to live on reduced income levels from unemployment insurance, especially if the shutdown is extended. With many school districts budgeting in survival mode for the last several years, there just aren't sufficient local dollars to supplant the salaries of our special education staff. We need them to be ready to jump in and help make up for missed time and services when school resumes.

Please consider allowing districts to flexibility use special education funds to continue to pay special education staff, which would include some short term relief from the regulations to document hours and services provided if employees are paid by schools for days of shutdown due to COVID-19.

Again, thank you for your hard work during this unprecedented and extraordinary series of events.
Margaret

Several of our schools are trying to work with just graduating seniors. The schools would like to know if just select grades can be receiving instructional services and not have to provide services to the entire school, such as just working with Seniors) is acceptable. In other words, the schools are asking if they only provide instructional services to seniors would this require the school to provide instructional services to all special education students not just senior special education students. They know that if any seniors are identified as students with disabilities those students services would need to be addressed.

Subject: Question

Good Morning Deborah,

I am hoping you can help me with a question I have about the Corona Virus and if a school would have to temporarily suspend in-house classes. For the Credit Hour students we are going to be teaching those classes on-line. We are currently working on a Contingency Plan, making sure students will have the capability to continue he/her studies this way. My main concern is for the students who are enrolled in our Cosmetology program, which Title IV funding is based on Clock Hours and not Credit Hours. These students Title IV funding is based on the actual hours they are in a class. They have lecture classes which can be moved on-line but the majority of his/her classes are hands on and by not having the classroom to practice, how would this affect the Contract End Date and when the student was to finish by. Will we be able to move the contract end date because of the suspension of in-house classes. Also what if there are no lecture classes schedule for the students for this payment period and the student only has in-house classes. My concern is this case would be the 14 day termination policy because of attendance. What would the school need to do in this instance.

Thank you for your help,
Stephanie

Questions from NJDOE
1) Are school districts expected to adhere to the IDEA's timelines for conducting student evaluations?
a) Are the timelines tolled or suspended when schools are closed and/or school staff are not in the building as a result of COVID-19?

2) How are the special education dispute resolution timelines affected by closures resulting from COVID-19?

3) How are the state complaint timelines affected by closures resulting from COVID-19?

4) How are school districts expected to provide certain in-home services, such as ABA home programs or parent training, during the COVID-19 pandemic?
Also, will data submission timelines via EdFacts be adjusted? Data managers do not have access to SEA servers to submit timely because they do not have access to buildings.

- Interim IFSP's: What are the terms and conditions around the use of interim IFSP's? For example, can the program use the interim IFSP until a face to face eval or meeting can be held? Is a face to face meeting a requirement?
- Eligibility- many States use assessments that require the use of manipulatives and these evals cannot be done through telehealth- States are waiting for the publishers to respond and many States don't allow services to be based solely on clinical opinion without it being backed up. Again, this will delay eligibility but States aren't sure how to handle it if their tool cannot be used through virtual means (every expensive, training etc. for new tool) One Child Outcomes assessment tool, the BDI cannot be done remotely. What are their options?
- CONSENT: We have provisions around electronic consent. Electronic consent with the privacy protections is VERY difficult for families. Providers cannot get consent electronically from families that don't have the means to print, scan and send. A lot are using DocuSign but still…its not enough. Is verbal consent an option? States are asking if the family can send a picture, a text or an email regarding consent?

Subject: Questions regarding student verification

Good afternoon-

A number of schools have asked us about verification requirements; two in particular are problematic in light of the COVID-19 closures- notarization for verification and collecting high school diplomas.

With regards to the use of a notary, the FSA Manual provides that schools must verify the application information of those students selected by the Department's Central Processing System (CPS). Schools must verify the identity of each selected student either by requiring the student to appear in person at the school or before a notary. The FSA Handbook states, "Currently the Department does not authorize the use of online notary services as an alternative to traditional, in person notary services." (FSA Handbook, AVG Ch. 4, p. 90.)

With regards to high school diplomas, many high schools are closed or operating in a remote capacity such that they are unable to provide these documents at this time.

In light of these questions we are wondering:

1) Is it possible that the Department could temporarily suspend verifications?

Alternatively:
2) Could a school temporarily use an electronic notary service?
3) Can a school rely on attestations for Proof of Graduation?

Thank you for your assistance.

Best,
Kristina

Good afternoon, I have a couple of questions in regards to Title IV.

1. SAP- we have our term ending this week 3/27 and there will most likely be quite a few students who are requesting an incomplete with the ability to finish their coursework within 60 days. Is SAP going to be waived for the current term?
2. We have students who need to fill out verification worksheets. What can we accept as far as signatures and documents especially for V4 and V5 who need to be "in person" or "signed by notary"
3. For Federal Work Study, can we keep paying students for the remainder of 19/20 even if we do not come back? What if we do not spend our 7% of community service because students are not working?

However, I have a question about timing. If we have a withdrawal with an LDA before the calendar adjustment, but the R2T4 was performed after the calendar adjustment – which calendar do we use? The original calendar or the updated calendar?

Thanks for any advice you can give.

Hi,

Western Dakota Tech (OPEID 01017000) would like to be proactive in the event that we need to reduce our academic calendar fewer than 30 weeks. We currently have a 32 week academic calendar. At this time, 24 weeks have been completed for on campus courses and 25 weeks have been completed for online courses. If Western Dakota Tech needs to reduce our academic calendar to be fewer than 30 weeks, how long would that take to get approval? Some of our programs will be at least 30 weeks, but others could fall below the 30 week minimum requirement due to the COVID-19 situation.

Thank you for routing this to the appropriate School Participation Division Team.

I have been asked to find more information regarding the following scenario -

Should a school decide to reduce institutional charges for room & board for this semester, and a refund is now created on the student account, are the following options available for the credit?

- apply credit to future semester
- issue the refund from the account (and does this fall under the paying FSA credit balance rules)

- not all students have FSA who may may have a newly created credit
- some students may have FSA and have already received their FSA refunds

The updated FAQs address not needing to adjust COA for changing the students residential status, but not any refund due from reduced charges. Can you guide to the regulations so we may have it on file once a decision has been made?

My entire tax refund was offset on March 11th, 2020 Is it true the DOE is giving that back to the people they took it from? If so, is it a check or going to be reimbursed back by the way we filed our return? Any information would be great.

Hello,

Kalamazoo College is extending our Spring Break by 2 days and will now begin Spring quarter on Wednesday, April 1, 2020 instead of March 30, 2020. I am requesting a temporary reduction in length of our academic year due to COVID-19. Do I need to officially change the start date of our Spring quarter? Can we keep the same payment period? I'm wondering what date we should use.

Thank you,

Good afternoon,

The below e-mail is from Augustana College (OPE: 00163300) regarding a reduction of weeks in the institution's Spring semester due to COVID-19. The institution is informing the Chicago/Denver SPD it is going from a 15 week semester to 14 week semester. Although the e-mail doesn't request it, my discussion with the Financial Aid Director was that she is requesting permission to reduce the semester a week without any change/interruption to the student's disbursement of Title IV aid. The institution will still have an academic year over 30 weeks in length (due to a intersession attached to the Fall semester) and the traditional fall semester will only be a week longer than the spring semester.

Thank you,

Jason

Due to COVID-19, Augustana will be extending our spring break reducing spring term from 15 to 14 weeks.

Our current calendar is:

Elyse,
I am writing to request guidance about how, under what circumstances, and on what basis a SEA can authorize expenditures for hot spots and other out-of-school internet access to facilitate student learning in this period of widespread and extended school closures?

The FCC has waived the gift rules FCC's memo about waiving E-rate gift rules "[Federal Communication] Commission rules prohibit entities eligible for the RHC and E-Rate programs from soliciting or accepting any thing [sic] of value from a service provider participating or seeking to participate in those programs. Today's waiver will allow health care providers, schools, and libraries to accept improved capacity, Wi-Fi hotspots, networking gear, or other equipment or services to support doctors and patients, teachers and students, and librarians and patrons during the coronavirus outbreak. For example, some providers have expressed interest in providing free network upgrades for hospitals that need more robust connections to treat patients via telemedicine and free connected devices and hotspots for students who will be taking classes at home. This waiver will enable them to do such things."

Also, we have had many requests to use Title IV- A funding to pay for the cleaning and disinfecting of classrooms. While the cleaning of classrooms would normally be covered by the school, this extra care, as outlined by the CDC will be more intense and expensive. The thought of returning children to potentially unsanitized classrooms is causing stress among parents, students, teachers, principals and other school leaders. Can they use Safe and Healthy Students funds to pay for this extra sanitizing?

Dear NAME:

Thank you for contacting the U.S. Department of Education (Department) concerning COVID-19 ("Coronavirus").

While there is currently no vaccine to prevent COVID-19, health officials are currently taking steps to prevent the introduction and spread of this respiratory disease. Schools can play an important role in this effort.

Through collaboration and coordination with local health authorities and other agencies, schools can disseminate important information about this disease and its potential transmission. Schools can also prepare to take additional steps to prevent the spread of COVID-19, should State and local health officials identify such a need.

The Department recommends that schools continue to promote everyday disease prevention strategies:

- If you are sick, stay home from school.
- Avoid close contact with those who are already sick.
- Cover your nose and mouth when coughing or sneezing with a tissue or the crook of your arm.
- Wash your hands often with soap and water.
- Avoid touching eyes, nose, or mouth.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) offers the most up-to-date information on COVID-19. Schools can share relevant CDC fact sheets to help students, families, and staff understand COVID-19, along with steps they can take to protect themselves. For further information, please visit www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-nCoV.

In addition, the Department has established a "COVID-19 Information and Resources for Schools and School Personnel" webpage, available at www.ed.gov/coronavirus, to support schools and communities as they plan, prepare and potentially respond to possible cases of COVID-19. The Department will regularly update this webpage as more information and guidance becomes available.

Thank you for sharing your concerns with us. We invite you to send questions on which the Department can be helpful to the following email address: COVID-19@ed.gov.

Sincerely,

COVID-19 Response Team

Dear Jim,

I left you a voice message today at 1:45 pm. CST. I have been asked to inquire about the "how" and guidance to ensure compliance with the Department should the university need to close as a result of COVID 19. Per the EA received last week:

Length of Academic Year

The Department is authorized under 34 CFR § 668.3 to approve a reduced academic year. If at any point an institution determines it will close as the result of a campus health emergency, it may contact the School Participation team to request a temporary reduction in the length of its academic year.

Hello,

I am the Director of Financial Aid at Jackson College. We are a participant in the Second Chance Pell program and currently teach in 8 different correctional facilities with approximately 650 Pell grant recipients. It is my understanding with ESI, that correspondence courses are not a modality that can be use. Given the COVID-19 pandemic in the US and with the Michigan Department Of Corrections moving to lock down this limits us in ways to provide instruction. They (MDOC) do not allow for on-line instruction (at least not currently) and to suspend the class and perform R2T4s on the students would leave them with a balance they could not afford to pay back. Is the correspondence course offering being reviewed to allow Pell grant funds to be provided to Second Chance Pell students?

Any guidance that could be provided or best practices from other schools would be greatly appreciated.

Thanks and stay healthy!

We have term based programs and have a policy that students can only have 1 approved LOA in a 12 month period. Due to closures of some of the external sites our students will not be able to participate in externships or practical portions of lab classes.

Can the institution waive its policy with regard to only allowing 1 LOA in a 12 month period to allow students who have already taken an approved LOA the opportunity to take a second LOA if their studies have been impacted and they cannot complete the practical or externship? They would not exceed the 180 day requirement for LOA.

Dear DOE Clery Handbook & COVID-19 Personnel,

As an Assistant Compliance Officer for Clery at The University of Texas System, and on behalf of our System, we are seeking clarification and guidance on COVID-19 Emergency Notifications:

- Under what circumstances must an institution send an emergency notification relating to an outbreak of COVID-19?
    - As examples:
        a. When a positive case of COVID-19 is confirmed?
        b. When a presumptive case of COVID-19 has been reported to the institution, but not confirmed yet?
        c. When a student or employee reports signs/symptoms of COVID-19; but has not had access to a testing kit yet?
- What information is required in a COVID-19 emergency notification?
- How frequent must an institution send an emergency notification relating to an outbreak of COVID-19?
    - As examples:
        a. Under the Clery Act, is an institution required to send an emergency notification each time a positive/confirmed case of COVID-19 of a student or employee?
        b. After the first positive case is confirmed, then by institutions sending regular updates to the campus community regarding updated # of positive cases, updates in health and safety protocols by the institution, etc., are "regular updates" meeting the Clery Act requirements for emergency notifications?

We have reviewed the Clery Handbook, but with the unprecedented circumstances around COVID-19, we just wanted to confirm your official guidance on COVID-19 at this time. Thank you in advance for your time, and on behalf of UT System, we look forward to your response.

Mr. Al Jones,

My name is Laurie Miller and I am an evaluator, or Educational Diagnostician, for Texas public schools in the state of Texas.

We are facing unprecedented times with the COVID-19 pandemic. As such our districts have had to turn to distance learning to continue providing instructional time to our Texas students. As such, because "school has resumed" through "virtual classrooms," Texas evaluators are being forced to continue to evaluate students that have an open FIE or Reevaluation consent.

While the OCR document suggests that face-to-face evaluations should be discontinued while school is not in session and can resume when school is in session, TEA has put a directive that the timeline continues and the majority of evaluators, in order to obtain valid and reliable data, will be forced to meet face-to-face with the student.

If evaluators consider to do teleconferencing testing, most evaluators are not properly trained and do not have access to instruments that are designed to be used in this format; therefore, the reliability or the validity of the data obtained will be compromised.

Furthermore, these are unique circumstances that are in fact fear or anxiety inducing, which will lead to issues with the validity of the data obtained. At this time, our families should not be worried about anything, but being together and following the directive to remain at home and reducing social contact.

I am reaching out to you as policy makers and as someone who could potentially advocate for us practitioners in this unprecedented unique situation. We are treading in uncharted waters and ultimately we want to act with an abundance of caution where we will not be hurting the student or our community.

While I understand the parents desire to get answers to their child's academic, behavioral, development, and/or emotional concerns, my hope is that TEA will adopt the recommendation from OCR that "If an evaluation of a student with a disability requires a face-to-face assessment or observation, the evaluation would need to be delayed until school reopens. Evaluations and reevaluations that do not require face-to-face assessments or observations may take place while schools are closed, so long as a student's parent or legal guardian consents." The state of California has followed this guidance and will not be completing face-to-face evaluations until normal school routines have returned for all students. We ask that Texas adopts similar guidelines during this delicate and uncertain time.

My goal as an examiner is to consider the best interests of the students and families we serve, while not abandoning their social, emotional, academic, and mental health needs. We have an ethical responsibility to maintain the integrity of our profession and conducting assessments during this pandemic would not be deemed as such.

Sincerely,

Laurie Miller

Subject: Special Education Timelines

To Whom This May Concern:

My name is Natalie Kormos and I am an LSSP/ Special Education Evaluator for Texas public schools.

We are facing unprecedented times with the COVID-19 pandemic. As such our districts have had to turn to distance learning to continue providing instructional time to our Texas students. Because "school has resumed" through "virtual classrooms," Texas evaluators are being forced to continue to evaluate students that have an open Initial Evaluation or Reevaluation consent.

While the OCR document suggests that face-to-face evaluations should be discontinued while school is not in session and can resume when school is in session, TEA has put a contradictory directive that the timeline continues. The majority of evaluators, in order to obtain valid and reliable data, will be forced to meet face-to-face with the student.

If evaluators consider to do teleconferencing testing, the evaluators may not be properly trained or do not have access to instruments that are designed to be used in that format; therefore, the reliability or the validity of the data obtained will be compromised.

Furthermore, these are unique circumstances that are in fact fear or anxiety inducing, which will lead to issues with the validity of the data obtained. At this time, our families should not be worried about anything, but being together and following the directive to remain at home and reducing social contact.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

I am reaching out to you as policy makers and as someone who could potentially advocate for us practitioners in this unprecedented unique situation. We are treading in uncharted waters and ultimately we want to act with an abundance of caution where we will not be hurting the student or our community.

While I understand the parents desire to get answers to their child's academic, behavioral, development, and/or emotional concerns, my hope is that TEA will adopt the recommendation from OCR that "If an evaluation of a student with a disability requires a face-to-face assessment or observation, the evaluation would need to be delayed until school reopens. Evaluations and re-evaluations that do not require face-to-face assessments or observations may take place while schools are closed, so long as a student's parent or legal guardian consents." The state of California has followed this guidance and will not be completing face-to-face evaluations until normal school routines have returned for all students. We ask that Texas adopts similar guidelines during this delicate and uncertain time.

My goal as a practitioner is to consider the best interests of the students and families we serve, while not abandoning their social, emotional, academic, and mental health needs. We have an ethical responsibility to maintain the integrity of our profession and conducting assessments during this pandemic would not be deemed as such.

I am attaching the guidance TEA (see A3) has release as well as the guidance the Federal Government has released (see page 3 paragraph 3).

Sincerely,

Natalie Kormos M.S., LSSP

Subject: Statement of Educational Purpose administrative requirements

To Whom It May Concern:

My name is Jessica Raine. I'm an Assistant Director at Berklee College, and I'm writing to you for advice regarding the Statement of Educational Purpose.

We are struggling, under the present circumstances, to meet the requirement that the Statement of Educational Purpose be submitted via original hard copy only.

- Many of the students in our Online School are trying to mail this document to us from increasingly isolated areas where US Mail pickup/delivery isn't reliable during the current crisis.
- Even if they are able to mail it to us, we've just been notified that due to Massachusetts' statewide stay-in-place advisory, we can no longer access the mailroom on our campus or any other campus facilities.
- Additionally, the requirement that this form be signed in the presence of a notary is creating a hardship for some students. Visiting notaries in bank branches or other institutions isn't consistent with "social distancing best practice" even for students for whom it's physically feasible.

Is there any possibility of a temporary relaxing of these requirements to allow online submission of the form? Could students be permitted to seek the services of an online/teleworking notary rather than risk COVID-19 exposure? Any guidance would be greatly appreciated.

Thank you,
Jessica Raine

Dear NAME:

Thank you for contacting the U.S. Department of Education (Department) concerning COVID-19 ("Coronavirus").

While there is currently no vaccine to prevent COVID-19, health officials are currently taking steps to prevent the introduction and spread of this respiratory disease. Schools can play an important role in this effort.

Through collaboration and coordination with local health authorities and other agencies, schools can disseminate important information about this disease and its potential transmission. Schools can also prepare to take additional steps to prevent the spread of COVID-19, should State and local health officials identify such a need.

The Department recommends that schools continue to promote everyday disease prevention strategies:

- If you are sick, stay home from school.
- Avoid close contact with those who are already sick.
- Cover your nose and mouth when coughing or sneezing with a tissue or the crook of your arm.
- Wash your hands often with soap and water.
- Avoid touching eyes, nose, or mouth.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) offers the most up-to-date information on COVID-19. Schools can share relevant CDC fact sheets to help students, families, and staff understand COVID-19, along with steps they can take to protect themselves. For further information, please visit www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-nCoV.

In addition, the Department has established a "COVID-19 Information and Resources for Schools and School Personnel" webpage, available at www.ed.gov/coronavirus, to support schools and communities as they plan, prepare and potentially respond to possible cases of COVID-19. The Department will regularly update this webpage as more information and guidance becomes available.

Thank you for sharing your concerns with us. We invite you to send questions on which the Department can be helpful to the following email address: COVID-19@ed.gov.

Sincerely,

The Afterschool Alliance asked if subgrantees will continue to require payments at current rate, to programs to continue to serve children when parents or caregivers experience an inability to make co-payments or pay tuition. (Afterschool Alliance)

> The 21st CCLC grant program does not require students' families provide a co-payment of any type to participate in and receive the full benefits of the program. Any subgrantee who currently has received prior approval to collect any payments ( fees, co-payments or "tuition)" made to 21st CCLC subgrantee programs by students' parents or caregivers should be suspended indefinitely or until such a time as the COVID-19 national emergency has suspended and families have gotten back on their feet after the loss of jobs, lay-offs, and regained financial stability. The 21st CCLC program's purpose is to serve students from low-income families who attend low-performing schools to meet the challenging State academic standards though a broad array of activities and offer families of student opportunities for active and meaningful engagement in their children's education.

Hello,

Will the Dept. of Education be releasing any guidance regarding services to English learners during the COVID-19 situation? As an SEA, we have been receiving many questions surrounding the identification, screening, instruction, and assessment of English learners during this time. While we can speak to our state contexts, there is an underpinning of federal laws and guidance that we need direction.

Some examples:

A. Schools are closed across the State of Illinois through April 8th per Governor Pritzker's executive order. If a family enrolls in a district during this time of closure, when would the 30 days to screen and place a child start? The day they completed online registration or the day that schools are back in session? If it is when the parents completed online registration, then schools may quickly find themselves out of compliance should the school closures be extended.
B. Should schools move to e-Learning and not return to in-person classes due to COVID-19, what should the procedures be for screening children? Should we require them and their families to come into a school building in order to be screened? This would violate "Shelter in place" orders and potentially put district/ school staff and the families in danger of contracting the disease. How should districts / schools handle actually screening the students from a distance?

We are anxiously awaiting guidance for English Learners similar to the guidance released related to Special Education students.

Stay healthy,

At this time, email is the most efficient way to contact me. I will respond as quickly as possible.

Please see the attached file. I am so very concerned that I ethically don't believe in using standardized assessments in a very non-standardized way. For example, there are no reliable and valid cognitive and achievement assessments that are designed to be administered online/remotely. I have looked, asked peers and colleagues, and unfortunately, there are no evidence-based alternatives at this time. From what I understand, it will take an act of Congress to dismiss FIIE timelines for this brief period of time. Please consider the recommendations of the Texas Association of School Psychologists. California has already recognized this dilemma and provided guidance on delaying face-to-face testing until I'm person education can be resumed.

Thank you so much for all of your hard work during this incredibly complicated time.

Please see the attached file. I am so very concerned that I ethically don't believe in using standardized assessments in a very non-standardized way. For example, there are no reliable and valid cognitive and achievement assessments that are designed to be administered online/remotely. I have looked, asked peers and colleagues, and unfortunately, there are no evidence-based alternatives at this time. From what I understand, it will take an act of Congress to dismiss FIIE timelines for this brief period of time. Please consider the recommendations of the Texas Association of School Psychologists. California has already recognized this dilemma and provided guidance on delaying face-to-face testing until I'm person education can be resumed.

Thank you so much for all of your hard work during this incredibly complicated time.

RE: Waiver Request – Section 4109(b), Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA)

Assistant Secretary Brogan:

The Tennessee Department of Education (TDOE) is seeking a waiver from the requirements in section 4109(b) of the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA), which states "A local educational agency, or consortium of such agencies, shall not use more than 15 percent of funds for purchasing technology infrastructure as described in subsection (a)(2)(B), which shall include technology infrastructure purchased for the activities under subsection (a)(4)(A)."

Specifically, Tennessee requests flexibility and removal of the 15% technology cap on the Title IV, part A-Student Support and Academic Enrichment grant to allow districts and local education agencies (LEAs) to purchase devices, equipment, connectivity, platforms, and adaptive software applications in order to ensure that the 973,659 students across Tennessee have access to and can participate in distance learning as we address the national and state emergencies in Tennessee.

The state continues to address both the COVID-19 outbreak and the state of emergency resulting from recent tornadoes across Tennessee. Our state experienced seven EF3 and EF4 tornadoes on March 2 and 3 which destroyed numerous homes, schools, and lives—the second deadliest tornado outbreak in Tennessee history. We are continuing to support our district and school leaders in recovering from this natural disaster, and the impact on communities is significant. As a result, on March 3, Governor Bill Lee declared a state of emergency.

While in this state of emergency, Tennessee continues to have a growing number of districts with confirmed cases of COVID-19; in one week, we now have cases in twice as many districts. Governor Bill Lee announced that all public schools in Tennessee would close through the end of March—a decision that would be reevaluated and possibly extended later in the month. Our state is beginning to see more long-term closure decisions made locally, with one large suburban district announcing closure at least until May 1.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

As long-term closures are being announced, districts are working to develop and implement continuity of instruction plans, and technology is a critical component in these plans. However, many of our largest urban and suburban districts, serving over 500,000 of Tennessee's students, also serve most of the state's highest poverty schools where many students do not currently have access in their homes. Further, we have heard from superintendents in our state's rural districts that students also do not have the infrastructure, connectivity, or technology to support continuity of instruction plans for extended closure. For context, 90 of Tennessee's 147 districts are serving fewer than 5,000 students. This waiver would provide needed flexibility for all districts—urban, suburban, and rural—to utilize Title IV more directly aligned with the emergent need we are current facing and will continue to face based on current data.

Due to the evolving nature and scope of the current crises Tennessee is facing, we did not provide public notice prior to submission of this waiver request. We will actively communicate this request and provide appropriate follow-up communication with stakeholders.

Thank you for your consideration of this waiver request. Should you have questions regarding this request, please reach out to Eve.Carney@tn.gov.

Subject: Texas Education Agency Timeline Concerns from a Texas LSSP

Dear Mr. Jones:

I humbly write in the middle of a time period that can only be described as unimaginable. I will keep this as brief as possible. I currently work as a Licensed Specialist in School Psychology at Texarkana Independent School District in Texarkana, Texas. The Texas Education Agency (TEA) recently updated special education guidelines amid school closures for COVID-19. I completely understand and agree with the mandates that we continue to conduct annual IEP meetings, evaluation review meetings, and related services the best we can in a virtual format. However, TEA states that assessment personnel must continue to honor the 45 day timeline for initial evaluations and other timelines set for reevaluations if the school is providing any type of instruction for students. I cannot even wrap my mind around this mandate. As an LSSP, this mandate violates my code of ethics and compromises the safety of myself, my family, our students, and their families.

- The CDC, local and state governments, and the federal government have mandated school and business closures. The CDC has reported no more than 10 people should gather. Some cities are beginning to shelter in place.

- I am one LSSP in a district of 7000 students (1:7000). I am the only person in my district responsible for completing psychological evaluations to determine if a student has an emotional disturbance. I currently have to complete 21 Full and Individual Initial Evaluations including formal assessment of cognitive ability, academic achievement, emotional and behavioral functioning, adaptive behavior skills, and in 3 cases formal assessment to determine if autism is present. I already had to complete these with only 40 days left in our school calendar. Now, I am told I have to still complete these while the students are not present. Also, previously scheduled referral meetings will add to the number of evaluations requested/required. I also must meet this challenge while assisting my own children with their daily instruction/academic assignments.

- In order to accomplish this, I will either have to complete these evaluations using ONLY informal data based on school records recorded up to the date the student was last at school - which does not by law constitute an appropriate evaluation. Or, I will have to expose that student (and the family that will be required to bring them for face to face assessment) to myself in order to gain required data needed for an appropriate evaluation. This then leads to my own exposure, my family's exposure, etc. etc.

- In order to identify a child with an emotional disturbance, I have to prove that the child has:
(A) An inability to learn that cannot be explained by intellectual, sensory, or health factors.
(B) An inability to build or maintain satisfactory interpersonal relationships with peers and teachers.
(C) Inappropriate types of behavior or feelings under normal circumstances.
(D) A general pervasive mood of unhappiness or depression.
(E) A tendency to develop physical symptoms or fears associated with personal or school problems.

- TEA states:

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

I urge you, please provide our state agencies with further guidance. It is unethical to determine a child has an emotional disturbance at this time because these children are now under anything but normal circumstances and are likely to be experiencing heightened emotional distress, just as you and I are. These are unprecedented circumstances. My focus should be on providing any support I can, continuing counseling services, and assisting families with basic needs. I do not need to be focusing on identifying disabilities, primarily a disability that is associated only with the impact of mental health on school performance. It is also highly likely that inappropriate decisions will be made by all assessment personnel (educational diagnosticians, speech pathologists, occupational therapists, physical therapists, etc.) based on invalid, unreliable, or just a lack of data. Please, please, help us continue to honor the ethics of our profession and to meet the needs of our students in the most effective ways. I can confidently speak for my colleagues as a whole. We love our students. We love our profession. We will always do what is right by kids.

Sincerely,
Sara Estes

Subject: Texas Special Education Evaluations and COVID-19

Good Afternoon,

My name is Christy Lindahl and I am an evaluator for Texas public schools in the state of Texas.

We are facing unprecedented times with the COVID-19 pandemic. As such our districts have had to turn to distance learning to continue providing instructional time to our Texas students. As such, because "school has resumed" through "virtual classrooms," Texas evaluators are being forced to continue to evaluate students that have an open consent for a Full and Individual Initial Evaluation or Reevaluation.

While the OCR document suggests that face-to-face evaluations should be discontinued while school is not in session and can resume when school is in session, TEA has put a directive that the timeline continues and the majority of evaluators, in order to obtain valid and reliable data, will be forced to meet face-to-face with the student.

If evaluators consider to do teleconferencing testing, the evaluators may not be properly trained or do not have access to instruments that are designed to be used in that format; therefore, the reliability or the validity of the data obtained will be compromised.

Furthermore, these are unique circumstances that are in fact fear or anxiety inducing, which will lead to issues with the validity of the data obtained. At this time, our families should not be worried about anything, but being together and following the directive to remain at home and reducing social contact.

I am reaching out to you as policy makers and as someone who could potentially advocate for us practitioners in this unprecedented unique situation. We are treading in uncharted waters and ultimately we want to act with an abundance of caution where we will not be hurting the student or our community.

While I understand the parents desire to get answers to their child's academic, behavioral, development, and/or emotional concerns, my hope is that TEA will adopt the recommendation from OCR that "If an evaluation of a student with a disability requires a face-to-face assessment or observation, the evaluation would need to be delayed until school reopens. Evaluations and re-evaluations that do not require face-to-face assessments or observations may take place while schools are closed, so long as a student's parent or legal guardian consents." The state of California has followed this guidance and will not be completing face-to-face evaluations until normal school routines have returned for all students. We ask that Texas adopts similar guidelines during this delicate and uncertain time.

My goal as a practitioner is to consider the best interests of the students and families we serve, while not abandoning their social, emotional, academic, and mental health needs. We have an ethical responsibility to maintain the integrity of our profession and conducting assessments during this pandemic would not be deemed as such.

Sincerely,

Christy Lindahl

Importance: High

The State of New Jersey is requesting to allocate Federal funds to address these extraordinary COVID-19 circumstances by using these funds to support childcare of essential workers so they may protect the health and safety of students, staff, and our communities.

- Providing childcare will ensure these students receive uninterrupted education and nutrition in a safe environment while their parents are addressing the State's essential needs.
- Students will be able to continue their education in a safe environment that will reduce some of the anxiety they are feeling about the status of their education and where they will be while parents are serving the community in critical roles. Similar to security cameras addressing the social emotional learning needs of students, a safe environment will be assist with the learning continuum and mental health of students.

Thank you for your consideration for this request to keep children safe, healthy and in a routine that will support their educational needs.

Good morning: Please add the following from NJ DOE:

During this crisis, the State is looking to provide educational and childcare support to the school age children of emergency responders and healthcare workers. What is the allowable uses of Federal funds (Title and IDEA) to support this type of program?

Thank you all for the continued work during this crisis period!

Stay healthy!

Good Morning Christine:

Faatimah Muhammad forwarded your question concerning Title IV-A to the Office of Safe and Supportive Schools, and I'm pleased to respond.

Please note that Title IV-A funds may be used for expenses related to distance learning if the SEA determines it is allowable and consistent with the purposes of at least one of the three content areas (in this case well rounded), and if it is reasonable, necessary and allocable to the grant. Please note that the 15 percent special rule, ESEA Section 4109(b), applies only to the effective use of technology content area and not to well rounded.

At this time, we are not aware of any potential waiver of the 15 percent special rule, however I would recommend regularly checking the Department's webpage for any additional guidance.

If you have any further questions related to Title IV-A, please feel free to contact our office.

Thanks,

Bryan Williams

Hi there,

Thank you for the quick response. Here are questions that we just gathered during our call. I am happy to disseminate any information you will be able to share. Thank, Christine

1. Can Title IIA SEA funds be used to purchase devices (tablets/laptops or hot spots for connectivity) for students to ensure equitable access to effective educators since students can't go to school? Or will there be a waiver about purchasing devices?

2. Since for many districts, engaging in online learning is not part of regular instruction - is this supplemental? What types of purchases would be permitted?

3. Will there be a waiver for Title IVA cap of 15% for Effective Use of Technology ?

4. Are any plans to extend the federal grant period?
    a. Will dates for both 2018-19 and 19-20 be moved? Districts are concerned about carryover that expires this September 2020.

With schools being closed and many of us working remotely, is there any leniency regarding the processing of paper refund checks to students with Title IV credit balances. I know that we have only 14 days to make them available and we strongly encourage students to set up direct deposit; however, for those that do not and we have to write and mail refund checks do I still have only 14 days or since we are social distancing do I get a little longer?

Good afternoon once again,

I hope this email finds you well.

I wanted to also write to you this afternoon to inquire about the effect of the probable passing of the CARES Act (S. 3548) that would allow for eligible foreign institutions to access and disburse these Title IV funds. I have included a portion of SEC. 4510. (CONTINUING EDUCATION AT AFFECTED FOREIGN INSTITUTIONS) from the CARES Act (S. 3548) below:

"(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding section 481(b) of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1088(b)), with respect to a foreign institution, in the case of a public health emergency, major disaster or emergency, or national emergency declared by the applicable government authorities in the country in which the foreign institution is located, the Secretary may permit any part of an otherwise eligible program to be offered via distance education for the duration of such emergency or disaster and the following payment period for purposes of title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1070 et seq.).
(b) ELIGIBILITY.—An otherwise eligible program that is offered in whole or in part through distance education by a foreign institution between March 1, 2020, and the date of enactment of this Act shall be deemed eligible for the purposes of part of title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1087a et seq.) for the duration of the qualifying emergency and the following payment period for purposes of title IV of the Higher Education

Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1070 et seq.). Not later than June 30, 2020, an institution of higher that uses 224 HEN20256 S.L.C. T1C F1 9DX 1 the authority provided in the previous sentence shall report such use to the Secretary."

Has the Department of Education been in contact with eligible foreign institutions about these current proposed legislation pieces? If they pass, will the Department of Education work with foreign institutions to release these funds to students? The foreign institution (the Jagiellonian University) would be eligible with the passing of this legislation, as we did not enact distance learning measures until March 11, 2020. We would be considered eligible under this proposed bill.

Thank you for taking the time to read this. I look forward to your response.

Very best regards,

Hello,

Currently, eligible foreign institutions enrolling U.S. students are prohibited by law from offering any part of that program via distance education (online), and (per regulations) allowing students to complete any part of their program in the U.S. It is unfortunate for students, but we cannot change this without a Congressional waiver.

Importance: High

Good afternoon,

I hope this email finds you well.

My name is Amanda Nicole Alarcon and I am a U.S. citizen and student. I am currently studying at the Jagiellonian University and I am a participant in the William D. Ford Student Loan program that is currently offered at my foreign institution.

As you may know, the Jagiellonian University's physical operations were temporarily disrupted on 11 March, due to the COVID-19 virus. Until March 25, we conduct classes via distance learning (online). Through the financial aid officer responsible for the disbursement of our funds (Ewa Stankiewicz at the Jagiellonian University), we were told today that our loans would not be disbursed AT ALL this semester, without warning. It was a great shock, as we had previously been informed that once classes physically resumed, we would likely get our disbursement.

Is this information correct? If so, how can it be possible to leave a plethora of US students, who were studying at foreign institutions without the funding and loans that they took out? I would like to note that I attended ALL my classes before the disruptions and I still AM. I am still a full-time student. All of the necessary paperwork was given to my financial aid officers. I maintained a near perfect GPA in my program. I did everything that I needed to do to receive the money.

If this is true, I want to express my utter disbelief and shock, considering that we were to start classes again in person on 25 March. Our semester started BEFORE the operations were impacted, as we began our semester the last week on February (24th of February to be precise). We were even informed that there just may be a delay in the disbursement, when we resumed classes on 25 March.

Secondly, I want to express that I depend on my student loans to pay for my tuition fees and living expenses, when I am here. While I have a small part-time job, it could not cover my tuition fees and my living expenses that I have been stuck with.

What will be my options now? Is there anyway that I can appeal this decision through the Department of Education directly?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

As an American student and citizen, I would like to note that I am in Krakow, Poland (where the Jagiellonian University) is currently located. I did NOT return to the United States, as I WILL be attending classes physically when they resume here! What am I expected to do now that the Department of Education has told the Jagiellonian University they cannot disburse my loan funds at all? How can we be left without these funds?

I do apologize if the tone of my email has been rather crass, however this is an extreme stress and burden that makes this time all the more difficult for me. Can the Department of Education not reconsider their policy on US students receiving these funds abroad? Can we not get some exception made?

I look forward to your response soon.

Best regards,
Amanda Nicole Alarcon

How would the Department view the possibility of a college utilizing the average number of hours to calculate the pay during a shutdown due to COVID-19. The average number of hours may be more accurate and fair for students as opposed to the scheduled hours. Some students are notoriously bad about working all their scheduled hours while others will work additional yours if available. All guidance up to this point, references scheduled hours but average hours (historical view) could be a more accurate methodology.

To Whom This May Concern:

If our institution has moved the majority of classes online, but still have some students coming back residentially, are we considered "closed" for the purposes of paying FWS to students?

Additionally, if we have some students that choose to work in their FWS position and some that do not choose to work, are we able to pay both sets of students FWS? We have some areas that are still open for operation and we would like to be able to utilize a student worker, assuming they return. Some of the guidance initially made it seem as though it was all or nothing for paying FWS, but some of the recent guidance makes it seem as though we can pick and choose who we pay depending on whether or not they return.

I would like some additional guidance on if we can pay FWS to students who do not return and then also pay those that do return.

Lastly, are we able to pay students FWS and FW Assistance under these circumstances?

Good afternoon,

Our office is wondering if you can provide some guidance for a situation in which a student finds himself. We were contacted by a student that requested a Status Information Letter from Selective Service. It was sent on March 10 and received on March 12, but when he spoke with someone there yesterday, they told him that it could be a month before anything is processed. They suggested that he contact us to see if there is any way to proceed without the letter. This is the message on the Selective Service website right now:

> ⚠ Due to the COVID-19 outbreak, the SSS has been placed in telework status. The call center is available with delays. There will also be delays processing mail and requests for a Status Information Letter will be on hold until further notice. Online Registration and Verification are available 24/7. View our news section for more information.

We did call the Selective Service today and spoke with someone who confirmed that all staff members are teleworking and there is no mail going into or coming out of the office, so processing is essentially on hold. There will be a backload once they can return, but at this time there is no workaround.

Given the circumstances, is it acceptable to only require a personal statement from the student explaining why he never registered and process financial aid if we determine that his nonregistration was not intentional?

Thank you for your time.

Subject: Summer-Intersession

Good afternoon,

I have a two-fold question for OME staff:

1) If schools close for the rest of the semester, can we consider that closure date the start of "Summer"? Also, in reverse, if they extend school to possibly as late as June 30, how does that impact the start of summer?
2) If schools are closed for a time period (say this past week and the next 3), can that be considered an "Intersession" time and if services are provided, can we record it as a "Summer/Intersession" service?

Thank you.

Good Afternoon,
I recently was asked a question regarding state mandated school closures potentially effecting teachers applying for the Teacher Loan Forgiveness program. Has there been any discussion on the impact these closures would have on the requirement of teaching a "full academic year"?
Thank you for your consideration.

Temporary Distance Learning Questions - The Institute of Beauty and Wellness OPE ID 03808300 and Aveda Institute Madison OPE ID 03808301

I am emailing with some questions regarding distance learning as the Coronavirus impacts our schools.

Our schools have temporarily stopped offering ground-based classes in order to prevent the spread of COVID-19.

This was effective March 18, 2020 until at least March 31, 2020.

Our school has received approval from the State of Wisconsin and our accreditor, NACCAS, to offer temporary distance education.

Can you please confirm that the U.S. Department of Education will allow currently enrolled students and new starts on or prior to 6/1/2020 to receive Title IV Aid for the distance education hours completed?

Any additional clarification/guidance you can provide is greatly appreciated.

Thank you.

Good Afternoon Ms. DeVos,
I am writing to you because I need your help in making sure that our school bus drivers are taken care of during school closures not only in the state of NJ but nationwide. Although Governor Phil Murphey has asked companies in NJ to continue to pay their employees, my mother's bus company has informed us that they will not be able to pay their employees unless the school district pays them. Although these schools have created budgets that include busing transportation for 180 days, they are not legally held to paying those monies out to bus contractors when crises like COVID-19 prompt school shutdowns. The Department of Education has told school bus contractors that they will need to contact attorneys specializing in contracts in order move payments along if roadblocks are met by the school districts they operate for.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

This is unacceptable. Not only is this causing a delay in payment and costing money but it's wholly unnecessary when a swift directive to could be made that will keep not only bus drivers but school bus business owners at ease during this difficult time.

all school districts
Please take immediate action in ensuring that the Department of Education requires/mandates our state's school districts to continue to pay on schedule for pupil transportation for a 180-day school year.
Without this continued funding my mother as well as thousands of school bus drivers in the state will continue to not be paid. Currently, my mother has been laid off, told to file unemployment, and has no return date. Further implications of this include school bus companies shutting down because they cannot pay their bills or the loans they have on their buses. A scenario like this will likely wreak havoc when normal school operations resume, and our bus drivers and companies are not able to immediately reengage.
Once again, I am asking you to take action. I believe implementing this directive will not be burdensome on the state of NJ and will have a plethora of positive implications on a very important group of marginalized workers in our state. Please show your support. We need to look after one other during times of crisis.
Thank you for your time and stay safe.

I have grandchildren in the public school system whose mom is a nurse at a local hospital.
I wonder how many safety goggles and masks are sitting in the science and industrial arts departments of our schools. Is there a way to coordinate efforts and get this equipment out to the hospitals? The hospital workers are putting their lives on the line, now they are starting to contract the virus... they need all the help they can get.
I'm sure all the secondary schools and colleges in the Commonwealth have boxes of these vitally necessary items that could ultimately save lives of those on the front lines.
Do you know if any public school districts, or private schools, have cleared out their closets and storage rooms and already donated to local hospitals? If not, they really really are needed, and it seems like such a simple thing.

I think the DOE needs to make sure there are certain standards that are being implemented and maintained.

When this crisis passes and it will ..we should try to make sure we all come out looking good.. Or at a minimum not delinquent

In the aftermath,everything will be reassessed and despite some inevitable failures ...we should target at least having a positive overall response from the People we are meant to serve .

Right now nine out of 10 people I've talked to are very unhappy.

I'm not sure if other towns are approaching in this manner but we really should re-look at this..

especially if it goes long term.

Re: Distance Learning in WPS

Thank you for responding .I really do appreciate that

Frankly I'm shocked at the information that's come out

I really thought it would be a lot better and more accountable ..and valuable.

This is what's happening in our house:

Since there's no accountability or requirements to complete school exercises ..

It is not being done .

I'm having to now become a teacher as well as do my full-time job

Which now will commence at home starting Monday frankly I m more the principle and less the teacher because I have to keep cracking

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

the whip all day

And up until yesterday ..I was doing it from work

So we know how that was going over 🤦

Here is a breakdown of my sixteen-year-old's day:

Sleep time-50%..that's fine

Misc activities-10%... Most of this is just mess making exercise time-5%-thank God for online yoga outside time -5%-at least the dog is getting walked schoolwork-.5%-emailing teachers just to check in as they are checking in with them ..but no work is getting done

Phone time-29.5%-likely more like 50% but it's being hidden from me I'm sure

Play space is now the new office

Dining room table is half game room and half art room

Half of my kitchen(ugh) is TesT kitchen.That is not pretty as my daughter has become the family cook or as she would say .. top chef

Our garage /yard is the gym

LR is tv and wii space (who knew we still had it )

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Bedroom is phone space... So I'm pretty much Never going to see her ☹

Since schoolwork  Is not a "requirement " that obviously is setting up a lot of frustration and anxiety in my home

I.e. now we're fighting about doing school work that  doesn't have to be done within a time frame that doesn't matter

I know teens are hoping for no work  but I think they're all  starting to understand how this is going to really disrupt them both this summer , in the fall and When they apply to college. The school is really doing a disservice to them

We all hate that we're here but the school really should be stepping up Like private and parochial schools..

Not failing

The SAT tutor i had set up ..I am  now engaging to do 'homework 'with her just so that I can get her to do some work every day and there's accountability factor because she knows I'm having to pay for it

Just to reiterate ..I should not have to do this. I should be able to rely

On public school.

We all know the tools are in place to do it

This is a hardship financially  for us eventually she will have to take the SAT and who knows if I don't do something and rely on the school ...she'll be a zombie when she shows up at the test

Which we hope is still on in June

So just to summarize :

I'm working my full-time job at home now which is harder and being a principal to ensure that she does some work and stays on schedule all day

and

I'm also have to pay additional fees for teaching .....that I've already paid for in my Taxes

This is bad

Is this poor response part of some union agreement?

Some "global crisis " rider to their agreement ?

Is that why teachers are not teaching?

Are they still being paid?

Don't get me wrong ..I think teachers should be paid but I also think they should be teaching.

( just as an aside ..I think great teachers should be paid handsomely ...and poor teacher should be let go.

Winchester has both of those of course

Despite the apparent benefit ..That's the problem with unions..

It restrains greatness and rewards mediocrity and failure)

I digress..

In a The time when I don't know how long

My job will be required ...and my next check will be forthcoming... We should be able to count on you to do your part

... And we can't

You guys are all about kids making good decisions and being valuable members of the community but when the rubber hits the road ,you guys bail.

You are hypocrites.

And this BS about teachers checking in on students.... Fake concern

I don't think anybody's buying it

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

That is not teaching

Hi Jennifer

I m sure you have your hands full

I am waiting on the school info to be sent to me so I can ENFORCE the work. It Cant just be sent to kids...I m sure you know.

Hope that is happening.

I heard a rumor from Jules last night that she has started to get some emails from teachers. Very sporadic and haphazard...hoping official is still coming.

I assume this plan has some parameters and the teachers are not just throwing out.....whatever

Seems that way so far.

Jules has had 2 teachers say ...'watch this movie on netflex and answer some questions'

Whaaat?!?

Nothing due, no requirements...no grades...

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Whaat?!

REALLY hope that is not the case. I ll be patient abit more but...gotta tell you...there needs to be a quality 'program' in place ...or parents will 'freak'. .....Especially if these weeks become months.

Winchester's educational system reputation is on the line. We better step up.

( haven't gotten details but heard Belmont's is up and running....well and distinctly..??)

Dear Winchester Families and Colleagues:

As you know, one of our district goals has focused on the social and emotional well-being of all of the members of our community. As we enter into unknown territory, that goal has never been more important. We begin each day by practicing gratitude for our students who are working to stay calm and focused, our staff members who are busy behind the scenes creating outstanding distance learning opportunities, and the outpouring of parent and community support to help the schools, students, and each other during this time.

We are excited to roll-out our distance learning initiative on Wednesday March 18th. Below is a list of highlights to outline what distance learning will look like for the next three weeks. Please keep in mind that we respect and understand that every family situation is different and that there may be circumstances where students cannot participate (such as illnesses or other family concerns). As our first priority is to everyone's well-being, we will reach out to your child/you if we do not see participation, so please just let teachers and administrators know if there are extenuating circumstances. Please be patient with us through this process; we are learning too and will do our very best to adjust and grow through this time! If you have any concerns with the distance learning, please: first, reach out to the teacher, and if there is still a concern, reach out to the building administrator.

Please note:

* Our primary goals for distance learning: connection, engagement, and extension.
* Work during this time period will not be formally graded, but instead, teachers will provide feedback for learning.
* The focus is on providing engaging, challenging, and innovative learning.
* Although students will certainly need devices for communication and collaboration, the expectation is not that students are on a device for all of their learning
* We are working hard to build meaningful and engaging activities, and to stay away from "packets" and lectures.

Again, we thank you for your patience, support, and community-focus!

March 20, 2020

The Honorable Betsy DeVos
U.S. Department of Education
400 Maryland Avenue, SW
Washington, D.C. 20202

Dear Secretary DeVos:

National emergencies require us to move beyond business as usual and come together as a nation. Our government must act with urgency. And leaders of the largest, most powerful corporations must look past their bottom lines to do what's right for all working people.

On behalf of millions of service and healthcare workers on the front lines of this crisis, we demand immediate action by major industries and corporations to secure the health, safety, and long-term economic well-being of America's workers, regardless of where they work, their race, their immigration status, or current healthcare coverage.

1. Fully-funded, accessible healthcare for every worker, including paid leave and 100%-paid testing and treatment for COVID-19. Corporations must provide full healthcare coverage to direct and franchise employees and contractors. Any uninsured person should automatically be enrolled in Medicaid. Every worker must be covered by permanent, comprehensive paid leave policies, providing immediate access to 12 weeks' leave at full pay for workers who are sick, mandated to stay home, or caring for loved ones.

2. Job, wage, and economic security for every worker. Establish industry funds to fully reimburse wages lost by workers whose hours or jobs have been cut or cut back. These funds must cover direct and franchise employees and contractors, compensate tipped workers at a rate of at least $15 an hour, and provide regular payments. Industries must provide easily accessed emergency child care funds, debt-relief, and housing assistance.

3. Immediate investment in the health and safety of every worker. Provide emergency relief for states to hire and train healthcare workers and first responders, and expand healthcare, long term care, and child care coverage. Corporations and industries should take aggressive, immediate measures to ensure clean, safe, sanitary work environments and protection from infection during this health crisis, with continuing access to personal protective equipment and training.

4. Working families at the center of every emergency relief package. Elected leaders of every party must act to put the health, safety, and financial well-being of workers first. Any industry relief or bailout must prioritize healthcare and financial support for workers over executive pay, shareholders, or profits. Relief efforts must directly address the disproportionate impact of economic and health crises on Black, brown, Asian Pacific Islander, and immigrant workers.

To more fully address the needs of workers in early education setting, we are calling on you to address:

- Create an emergency child care fund to ensure the children of first responders, doctors, nurses, other healthcare workers and workers providing essential services for the community at large are cared for during this crisis.

To more fully address the needs of workers in the k-12 industry, we are calling on you specifically to address:

- Ensure staff are paid as they normally would be during school shutdowns.
- Provide appropriate protective equipment and safety training. Strictly enforce health and safety standards and ensure that proper protocols for diluting cleaning solutions are followed.
- Provide workforce funds to enable the rapid hiring and training of cleaning staff.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Ensure all school employees are eligible for unemployment insurance.
- Provide meals for children who rely on free and reduced meals.
- Work with families of special needs students to coordinate and deliver care, particularly for families who must work and need backup care, and deliver distance learning 1:1 for these students.
- Provide stipend or hazard pay for employees who must work or volunteer to work during school closures.
- Require that districts provide a waiver during pandemic and a grace period afterwards for required training that employment or wages are dependent on and employees are unable to access currently.
- Waive any federal mandates related to required days and testing for the remaining school year.
- Ensure students who lack computer or internet access or are homeless are not disadvantaged relative to other students as districts implement distance learning.

To more fully address the needs of workers in the higher education industry, we are calling on you to specifically address:

- Issue guidance to states and localities to levy taxes on endowments and/or end state tax exemptions on endowment investment returns; and invest revenue/savings into public higher education especially into community colleges, which are a likely destination for people who lose their jobs as a result of the recession. Ensure that funds do not go to colleges that spend less than 50% of tuition revenue on instruction.
- Make federal student loan payments optional for the next 12 months and move to a program that cancels a significant portion of federal student debt for education workers including part-time faculty who teach more than two classes per semester, healthcare workers and other frontline emergency workers.
- Provide a fund for immediate professional development training for online instruction.
- Make available emergency campus housing to those students and campus workers who are homeless, have violent or immunocompromised households.
- Many campus professional and service workers are expected to remain on campus to provide needed services to students or keep campuses sanitary. These workers require sufficient protective gear, training and information on potentially dangerous chemicals and solvents used.
- Partner with higher education unions and associations, including instructional, professional, service and trades unions, to ensure that rapidly developing campus policies and government orders are informed by the workers responsible for ensuring the quality and safety of colleges and universities.

Protecting all workers is the patriotic and moral requirement of this moment, and always.

Signed,

Mary Kay Henry, International President

Hello Ms. DeVos,

I hope this email finds you well. Please kindly read my concern below regarding the current COVID-19 issue for grad students and consider taking action as soon as possible.

At this point, it seems abundantly clear that the infection rates are going to continue to climb for the next month based on the most optimistic estimates. Schools are supposed to end by early May this semester. I am a graduate student living on my own at the moment and my parents don't live nearby so I am having a lot of difficulty getting bare essentials and I am constantly worried about catching the virus as I really don't have time or the money to be living a healthy lifestyle (my master's is extremely academically intense as its for applying to med school). As the situation becomes more serious, it is going to become significantly more difficult to take care of non-academic matters such as getting food, toilet paper, and avoiding getting sick so I was wondering if there was a coordinated effort amongst US med/grad/etc institutions to possibly delay this semester asap. What's happening in Italy is around the corner for us here based on the numbers. I'm sure there are drugs that may start being re-purposed to improve outcomes but there's no way that meaningful action can occur within the next few weeks. in the mean time, grad students, etc. have very little time and opportunity to prepare for any worst case scenarios if classes and exams continue. For example, my school gave us THREE days while they moved to online lectures... last week. You could image how abundantly stocked the shelves at supermarkets and Costco were down here in South Florida. Please immediately begin some kind of nationwide coordination plan as we graduate students are woefully unprepared for COVID-19 to get any worse.

Thank you very much for your time, Dave A

Rapid Response Team:

These questions all deal with 21st CCLC programs' location. Whether they will be held onsite or are virtual programs allowable. A tie in questions is if onsite can the programs be moved to another location? Tied into the programing questions is what documentation might be required by subgrantees?

Given that 21st CCLC is an out-of-school time grant, is it possible for them to offer remote programming during these school shut-downs. It seems like something feasible from my end, if they have a good plan that we can approve, but I wanted to make sure it doesn't in any way conflict with the intentions or requirements of the grant. Any feedback you can provide is much appreciated. (DC)

ii. With school buildings closing, our programs want to know if they can do a 100% on-line program if all the students they serve have the technology available. Programs purchase laptops to be used in the program, grantees want to know if they do a 100% on-line program if they can lend the laptops to those kids that don't have one during this time of crisis. (PA)

iii. Can 21st CCLC activities be held in other locations if the primary site (the school) has closed down? (CO)

iv. Will federal grant activities such as teleconferencing or working at home be permissible? What documentation would be acceptable? (OH)

Yes, a State has the authority to designate programs to operate remotely or virtually 100 percent of there scheduled time during the COVID-19 emergency. It is the State's decision what type of documentation it would require from a program operating remotely/virtually. Programs should return to normal operations at such time the governor reopens schools.

Furthermore, the State has the authority to allow programs to modify their approved application's activities and budget to allow for programs to utilize the laptops in

Rapid Response Team,

This question comes to us from multiple 21st CCLC State SEAs per the list below:

Question--

If a 21st CCLC program has to shut down for a period of time because the students served attend a school that has closed, what will be the consequences to the grant? Can programs still access funds for contingency planning purposes?

Proposed Response--

> The State has authority to modify its requirements, policies and guidelines subgrants are subject to. We encourage States to be flexible when working with their subgrantees. For example, programs may temporarily adapt their on-site services to provide virtual innovative programming where appropriate. Contingency planning is an allowable cost as determined by the State as long as the cost is reasonable and allocable to the subgrant.

Dear Mr. Fosker, Erik:

Dear Covid-19 Pandemic US DOE representatives:

We have notified the Hawaii State Department of Education, our accrediting commission, and are hereby notifying the US DOE of the following information regarding a temporary closure of Hawaii Institute of Hair Design relating to the Covid-19 Pandemic, and we are looking for guidance of any other department, person, email address that this notification should be sent to within the US DOE.

Yesterday, the school sent notification to all students and employees of a temporary school closure, effective beginning today, March 23, 2020. We have asked the students to request leave of absences for this Covid-19 situation, and informing them that they will need to complete and sign them. We will likely retain one staff member to work at home and continue to answer/return phone calls, texts, and emails and continue researching information on this situation. I will be reading emails and return important calls.

Sent from Mail for Windows 10
Hello,

Thank you for your communication as we try our best to move through this unprecedented COVID ordeal.

As a Supervisor of Student Teaching for a SUNY NYS College, I am looking for guidance during this Spring 2020 semester regarding Student Teachers finalizing their expected placements.

Specific questions included:

1. Is there a NYS expectation/decision yet for Student Teachers in their current 2nd placement to be involved with the public school classroom for on-line learning? (Or are NYS Student-Teacher placements canceled ? )

2. If there is still the expectation for Student Teachers to complete their placement as planned, will these Student Teachers be completing their edTPA Unit/Assessment for certification?

3. Should the Student-Teacher Supervisor maintain the instructional/observation and evaluative role using individual college platforms previously used?

4. Are there guidelines edTPA/ Pearson have provided that are supported and validated by the NYS Education Department.

My apologies if I did not recognize these details in previously shared documents. Your guidance is very much appreciated as we try to support our future teachers on their path to graduation and certification.

May you and yours stay well.

Kind Regards,

Sherry Keihl

We understand that at the present time, the Department does not authorize the use of online notary services as an alternative to traditional, in person notary services. This is becoming more and more of a burden for students trying to complete V4 and V5 verification, specifically with our campuses closed. The student is unable to appear at our school to complete the Statement of Educational Purpose in person and therefore must submit to us a statement and certification from a notary public that the student appeared before a notary public, along with the copy of the government-issued photo ID that the student presented to the notary.

Can this be discussed and options presented for student's to complete verification?

Greetings from American University,

We are considering allowing our students to receive Pass/Fail grades in spring courses due to moving instruction to on-line for the remainder of the term. If we have a brand new student who just started in the Spring term and that student decides to take all the courses as Pass/Fail, and passes everything, they still will not have a cumulative GPA at the end of the spring term. Can we make an exception to our SAP policy that says a student must maintain a 2.0 cumulative GPA?

Hi~

A school has moved its classes online for the remainder of their spring term, and plans to pay FWS students for their scheduled hours for the remainder of the term. The school has asked if that FWS payment can be made to a student in one lump sum. We are thinking, yes. That's up to the school. Yes?

According to the March 2020 Document from USDOE, "teleconference or other alternative methods (such as e-mail or video conference), consistent with privacy interests, to provide consultative services, guidance, and advice as needed." Please clarify what video conference means? Can my providers access WhatsApp video chat? Will this be in line with FERPA?

- Interim IFSP's: What are the terms and conditions around the use of interim IFSP's? For example, can the program use the interim IFSP until a face to face eval or meeting can be held? Is a face to face meeting a requirement?
- Eligibility- many States use assessments that require the use of manipulatives and these evals cannot be done through telehealth- States are waiting for the publishers to respond and many States don't allow services to be based solely on clinical opinion without it being backed up. Again, this will delay eligibility but States aren't sure how to handle it if their tool cannot be used through virtual means (every expensive, training etc. for new tool) One Child Outcomes assessment tool, the BDI cannot be done remotely. What are their options?
- CONSENT: We have provisions around electronic consent. Electronic consent with the privacy protections is VERY difficult for families. Providers cannot get consent electronically from families that don't have the means to print, scan and send. A lot are using DocuSign but still…its not enough. Is verbal consent an option? States are asking if the family can send a picture, a text or an email regarding consent?

Subject: Questions regarding student verification

Good afternoon-

A number of schools have asked us about verification requirements; two in particular are problematic in light of the COVID-19 closures- notarization for verification and collecting high school diplomas.

With regards to the use of a notary, the FSA Manual provides that schools must verify the application information of those students selected by the Department's Central Processing System (CPS). Schools must verify the identity of each selected student either by requiring the student to appear in person at the school or before a notary. The FSA Handbook states, "Currently the Department does not authorize the use of online notary services as an alternative to traditional, in person notary services." (FSA Handbook, AVG Ch. 4, p. 90.)

With regards to high school diplomas, many high schools are closed or operating in a remote capacity such that they are unable to provide these documents at this time.

In light of these questions we are wondering:

1) Is it possible that the Department could temporarily suspend verifications?

Alternatively:
2) Could a school temporarily use an electronic notary service?
3) Can a school rely on attestations for Proof of Graduation?

Thank you for your assistance.

Best,
Kristina

Good afternoon, I have a couple of questions in regards to Title IV.

1. SAP- we have our term ending this week 3/27 and there will most likely be quite a few students who are requesting an incomplete with the ability to finish their coursework within 60 days. Is SAP going to be waived for the current term?
2. We have students who need to fill out verification worksheets. What can we accept as far as signatures and documents especially for V4 and V5 who need to be "in person" or "signed by notary"
3. For Federal Work Study, can we keep paying students for the remainder of 19/20 even if we do not come back? What if we do not spend our 7% of community service because students are not working?

Hello –

I am looking for guidance on R2T4s. We added an extra week on to Spring Break so we know we have to adjust our R2T4 calendar. We also know that any R2T4 performed before the calendar adjustment will remain as is.

However, I have a question about timing. If we have a withdrawal with an LDA before the calendar adjustment, but the R2T4 was performed after the calendar adjustment – which calendar do we use? The original calendar or the updated calendar?

Thanks for any advice you can give.

I think I figured out what happened. OLCA was looped into this letter differently than usual which confused us. To answer a question: Yes, OLCA has seen this letter. If there's a CCM#, then OLCA should know ED received it and who it's assigned to. Once OESE finalizes a response, I presume they'll send it back to Exec Sec (looping Exec Sec). Our analysts (Kim, Linda) are available to help write the draft but this response seems very straight forward and concise. If the letter goes through Departmental Clearance, OLCA will see it again. If there isn't a clearance process, OLCA needs to see the draft if we haven't already (analyst AND ME). And presumably we'll email the final, signed response to the Hill, as usual. I wasn't familiar with how we're handling COVID congressional letters but I think I better understand now.

It did -- I copied you on what I sent back to Kelly. The attachments she forwarded were from Exec Sec. and it said on there that OLCA was copied. So unless I'm missing something, this went thru ES and the CCM system assigned it to OESE. I believe in OESE because its covid-related, it went to that mailbox for processing.

Linda, I have not seen the draft response. As always, it's useful for me to review the drafts too since I can catch formatting errors. If there's formatting errors, OLCA will send the letter back after signature, which is not fun for anyone. I've not been updated on how COVID19 congressional letters will be processed (differently). I presume I can contact Exec Sec for that info.

So unless I'm missing something, this went thru ES and the CCM system assigned it to OESE. I believe in OESE because its covid-related, it went to that mailbox for processing.

Will this congressional letter on COVID-19 go through Exec Sec's Departmental Clearance process?

So if it's a congressional from the Secretary then ExSec controls it and it went to OESE for a response. And you can see from the control sheet that OLCA received a copy so there is no need to let us know, Sara would have this.

The Honorable Betsy DeVos
U.S. Department of Education
400 Maryland Avenue, SW
Washington, DC 20202-3100

Dear Madam Secretary,

The COVID-19 outbreak is an international health crisis that will require an unprecedented response. President Donald Trump has declared a National Emergency, and the World Health Organization has labeled the outbreak a pandemic. Sports leagues are postponing their seasons, public events and concerts are being canceled, and states are ordering businesses to close.

Schools are also facing extreme difficulties, such as sending their students home indefinitely. The gravity of the current situation they are facing navigating the COVID-19 outbreak creates an undue burden for preparing and administering statewide assessments. Therefore, I respectfully ask you to immediately grant any state requests for a one-year waiver from Section 8401 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (20 U.S.C. § 7861). No state or district should have their participation rate or absenteeism metric factored into any school's Academic Achievement indicators.

Our state and local education agencies cannot be expected to administer assessments that are reliable and valid during this unforeseen and challenging academic year. For instance, the impact to Tennessee caused by inclement weather and COVID-19 will undeniably affect our state's accountability system due to school closures and student absences. States should be encouraged to postpone pending annual assessments where education has been interrupted by COVID-19

We must recognize that our districts could face critical challenges meeting certain Elementary and Secondary Education Act fiscal requirements, such as maintenance of effort; the requirement to obligate funds in the current federal fiscal year for providing equitable services to eligible private school students, teachers, and families; and the limitation on carrying over no more than 15% of Title I, Part A funds.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

We must continue to work together to ensure the safety and security of our citizens. The health and safety of our students, staff, and their families must be our top priority. Please grant any state request for a one-year waiver from Section 8401 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (20 U.S.C. § 7861).

Sincerely,

MARK E. GREEN, M.D.

Member of Congress

I'm sorry, what is this? There is no attachment. If it's in the CCM system for handling then we should already know about it but copying Sara who handles all correspondence in OLCA.

Perfect - that's all I needed!

Leslie -

I'm not sure where this correspondence currently is but please ensure it goes through the COVID-19 mailbox, which will then be routed to the OESE COVID Rapid Response Team. I will not be involved with this one on the backend.

Thank you all!

Best,
Sarah

Hi Sarah,

This correspondence came to OESE, but program officers have been directed to send all COVD-related inquiries to the COVID-19 inbox for a response. We were not sure about this one and whether OESE, the COVID-19 Rapid Response Team, or you should take the lead on the response. Would you prefer we work with the COVID-19 team?

Thank you for including me. I am only handling ones that are directed to me through established chains of communication in OLCA, OS, and OCO (which actually may change as well).

To make sure I have this straight: COVID-19 mailbox received this communication directly from Congressman Mark Green's office? Or was it sent from someone in OLCA to that mailbox?

Also - can you attach the correspondence?

Thanks for the additional context!

The Honorable Betsy DeVos
U.S. Department of Education
400 Maryland Avenue, SW
Washington, DC 20202-3100

Dear Madam Secretary,

The COVID-19 outbreak is an international health crisis that will require an unprecedented response. President Donald Trump has declared a National Emergency, and the World Health Organization has labeled the outbreak a pandemic. Sports leagues are postponing their seasons, public events and concerts are being canceled, and states are ordering businesses to close.

Schools are also facing extreme difficulties, such as sending their students home indefinitely. The gravity of the current situation they are facing navigating the COVID-19 outbreak creates an undue burden for preparing and administering statewide assessments. Therefore, I respectfully ask you to immediately grant any state requests for a one-year waiver from Section 8401 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (20 U.S.C. § 7861). No state or district should have their participation rate or absenteeism metric factored into any school's Academic Achievement indicators.

Our state and local education agencies cannot be expected to administer assessments that are reliable and valid during this unforeseen and challenging academic year. For instance, the impact to Tennessee caused by inclement weather and COVID-19 will undeniably affect our state's accountability system due to school closures and student absences. States should be encouraged to postpone pending annual assessments where education has been interrupted by COVID-19

We must recognize that our districts could face critical challenges meeting certain Elementary and Secondary Education Act fiscal requirements, such as maintenance of effort; the requirement to obligate funds in the current federal fiscal year for providing equitable services to eligible private school students, teachers, and families; and the limitation on carrying over no more than 15% of Title I, Part A funds.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

We must continue to work together to ensure the safety and security of our citizens. The health and safety of our students, staff, and their families must be our top priority. Please grant any state request for a one-year waiver from Section 8401 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (20 U.S.C. § 7861).

Sincerely,

MARK E. GREEN, M.D.

Member of Congress

Congressman Green's letter was assigned to OESE for the Assistant Secretary's signature. OS has not been instructed that responses signed by Assistant Secretaries regarding COVID-19 should be cleared with us. However, we defer to your office on any Congressional responses you may wish to clear.

I think I figured out what happened. OLCA was looped into this letter differently than usual which confused us. To answer a question: Yes, OLCA has seen this letter. If there's a CCM#, then OLCA should know ED received it and who it's assigned to. Once OESE finalizes a response, I presume they'll send it back to Exec Sec (looping Exec Sec). Our analysts (Kim, Linda) are available to help write the draft but this response seems very straight forward and concise. If the letter goes through Departmental Clearance, OLCA will see it again. If there isn't a clearance process, OLCA needs to see the draft if we haven't already (analyst AND ME). And presumably we'll email the final, signed response to the Hill, as usual. I wasn't familiar with how we're handling COVID congressional letters but I think I better understand now.

It did -- I copied you on what I sent back to Kelly. The attachments she forwarded were from Exec Sec. and it said on there that OLCA was copied. So unless I'm missing something, this went thru ES and the CCM system assigned it to OESE. I believe in OESE because its covid-related, it went to that mailbox for processing.

To Whom It May Concern,

Good afternoon –

My institution, Gulf Coast State College (001490-00), has extended our spring 2020 break closure due to COVID-19. Our spring break was originally scheduled to be from 03/14/2020 to 03/22/2020, but it is now from 03/14/2020 till 03/29/2020. Accordingly, can you please permit a reduction in the length of our 2019-2020 standard academic year by a week per the ED & NASFAA guidance below?

Length of Academic Year

The Department is authorized under 34 CFR § 668.3 to approve a reduced academic year. If at any point an institution determines it will close as the result of a campus health emergency, it may contact the School Participation team to request a temporary reduction in the length of its academic year.

https://www.nasfaa.org/news-item/21208/Trending_AskRegs_Q_A_What_Factors_Do_We_Consider_When_Deciding_to_Extend_a_Scheduled_Break_Due_to_Coronavirus

Academic Year Length: First, you must ask yourself, "When we extend our scheduled break, does it shorten the academic year to less than 30 weeks?"

Under 34 CFR 668.3, an academic year in a credit-hour program must consist of 30 weeks of instructional time. According to guidance NASFAA has received from ED, if you extend your scheduled break, it may reduce the number of weeks of instructional time in your term/payment period and thereby your academic year to less than 30 weeks. For example, if your academic year consists of two 15-week semesters, and the additional week of scheduled break reduces the 15-week semester to a 14-week semester, you have reduced your academic year length to 29 weeks. If this happens, the guidance under "Length of Academic Year" in the March 5, 2020 Electronic Announcement applies, and you must obtain approval from your ED School Participation Division. On the other hand, if you have a program consisting of two 16-week semesters with a 32-week academic year, and the extended break reduces your spring term by two weeks, you do not need ED's approval.

These are the steps to follow:

1. The institution should determine if the reduction in the number of weeks of instructional time in the term brings the academic year to less than 30 weeks. If not, no further action is necessary.
2. Assuming the reduction in the length of instruction in the term results in an academic year consisting of fewer than 30 weeks, the institution should submit a request for reduction in the length of an academic year to COVID-19@ed.gov, including the number of weeks that will now comprise the academic year, (e.g., 28 weeks).

3. The institution's request will be routed to the appropriate School Participation Division which will inform the institution of its decision.

They can grant a reduction to as little as 26 weeks for a credit-hour program at this time. To avoid a reduction in your academic year length, you could choose to add days to the end of the term/payment period to make up for the lost week(s) of instructional time.

Elyse,
I am writing to request guidance about how, under what circumstances, and on what basis a SEA can authorize expenditures for hot spots and other out-of-school internet access to facilitate student learning in this period of widespread and extended school closures?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The FCC has waived the gift rules FCC's memo about waiving E-rate gift rules "[Federal Communication] Commission rules prohibit entities eligible for the RHC and E-Rate programs from soliciting or accepting any thing [sic] of value from a service provider participating or seeking to participate in those programs. Today's waiver will allow health care providers, schools, and libraries to accept improved capacity, Wi-Fi hotspots, networking gear, or other equipment or services to support doctors and patients, teachers and students, and librarians and patrons during the coronavirus outbreak. For example, some providers have expressed interest in providing free network upgrades for hospitals that need more robust connections to treat patients via telemedicine and free connected devices and hotspots for students who will be taking classes at home. This waiver will enable them to do such things."

Also, we have had many requests to use Title IV- A funding to pay for the cleaning and disinfecting of classrooms. While the cleaning of classrooms would normally be covered by the school, this extra care, as outlined by the CDC will be more intense and expensive. The thought of returning children to potentially unsanitized classrooms is causing stress among parents, students, teachers, principals and other school leaders. Can they use Safe and Healthy Students funds to pay for this extra sanitizing?

Kind regards,

Dear DOE Clery Handbook & COVID-19 Personnel,

As an Assistant Compliance Officer for Clery at The University of Texas System, and on behalf of our System, we are seeking clarification and guidance on COVID-19 Emergency Notifications:

- Under what circumstances must an institution send an emergency notification relating to an outbreak of COVID-19?
    - As examples:
        a. When a positive case of COVID-19 is confirmed?
        b. When a presumptive case of COVID-19 has been reported to the institution, but not confirmed yet?
        c. When a student or employee reports signs/symptoms of COVID-19; but has not had access to a testing kit yet?
- What information is required in a COVID-19 emergency notification?
- How frequent must an institution send an emergency notification relating to an outbreak of COVID-19?
    - As examples:
        a. Under the Clery Act, is an institution required to send an emergency notification each time a positive/confirmed case of COVID-19 of a student or employee?
        b. After the first positive case is confirmed, then by institutions sending regular updates to the campus community regarding updated # of positive cases, updates in health and safety protocols by the institution, etc., are "regular updates" meeting the Clery Act requirements for emergency notifications?

We have reviewed the Clery Handbook, but with the unprecedented circumstances around COVID-19, we just wanted to confirm your official guidance on COVID-19 at this time. Thank you in advance for your time, and on behalf of UT System, we look forward to your response.

Sincerely,

Please see the attached file. I am so very concerned that I ethically don't believe in using standardized assessments in a very non-standardized way. For example, there are no reliable and valid cognitive and achievement assessments that are designed to be administered online/remotely. I have looked, asked peers and colleagues, and unfortunately, there are no evidence-based alternatives at this time. From what I understand, it will take an act of Congress to dismiss FIIE timelines for this brief period of time. Please consider the recommendations of the Texas Association of School Psychologists. California has already recognized this dilemma and provided guidance on delaying face-to-face testing until I'm person education can be resumed.

Thank you so much for all of your hard work during this incredibly complicated time.

Good afternoon once again,
I hope this email finds you well.
I wanted to also write to you this afternoon to inquire about the effect of the probable passing of the CARES Act (S. 3548) that would allow for eligible foreign institutions to access and disburse these Title IV funds. I have included a portion of SEC. 4510. (CONTINUING EDUCATION AT AFFECTED FOREIGN INSTITUTIONS) from the CARES Act (S. 3548) below:
"(a) IN GENERAL.—Notwithstanding section 481(b) of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1088(b)), with respect to a foreign institution, in the case of a public health emergency, major disaster or emergency, or national emergency declared by the applicable government authorities in the country in which the foreign institution is located, the Secretary may permit any part of an otherwise eligible program to be offered via distance education for the duration of such emergency or disaster and the following payment period for purposes of title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1070 et seq.).
(b) ELIGIBILITY.—An otherwise eligible program that is offered in whole or in part through distance education by a foreign institution between March 1, 2020, and the date of enactment of this Act shall be deemed eligible for the purposes of part of title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1087a et seq.) for the duration of the qualifying emergency and the following payment period for purposes of title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965 (20 U.S.C. 1070 et seq.). Not later than June 30, 2020, an institution of higher that uses 224 HEN20256 S.L.C. T1C F1 9DX 1 the authority provided in the previous sentence shall report such use to the Secretary."
Has the Department of Education been in contact with eligible foreign institutions about these current proposed legislation pieces? If they pass, will the Department of Education work with foreign institutions to release these funds to students? The foreign institution (the Jagiellonian University) would be eligible with the passing of this legislation, as we did not enact distance learning measures until March 11, 2020. We would be considered eligible under this proposed bill.
Thank you for taking the time to read this. I look forward to your response.
Very best regards,
Amanda Nicole Alarcon

Hello,

Currently, eligible foreign institutions enrolling U.S. students are prohibited by law from offering any part of that program via distance education (online), and (per regulations) allowing students to complete any part of their program in the U.S. It is unfortunate for students, but we cannot change this without a Congressional waiver.

Subject: U.S. Student Attending a Foreign Institution, Loan Funds Will Not be Disbursed? Urgent Help Needed
Importance: High

Good afternoon,

I hope this email finds you well.

My name is Amanda Nicole Alarcon and I am a U.S. citizen and student. I am currently studying at the Jagiellonian University and I am a participant in the William D. Ford Student Loan program that is currently offered at my foreign institution.

As you may know, the Jagiellonian University's physical operations were temporarily disrupted on 11 March, due to the COVID-19 virus. Until March 25, we conduct classes via distance learning (online). Through the financial aid officer responsible for the disbursement of our funds (Ewa Stankiewicz at the Jagiellonian University), we were told today that our loans would not be disbursed AT ALL this semester, without warning. It was a great shock, as we had previously been informed that once classes physically resumed, we would likely get our disbursement.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Is this information correct? If so, how can it be possible to leave a plethora of US students, who were studying at foreign institutions without the funding and loans that they took out? I would like to note that I attended ALL my classes before the disruptions and I still AM. I am still a full-time student. All of the necessary paperwork was given to my financial aid officers. I maintained a near perfect GPA in my program. I did everything that I needed to do to receive the money.

If this is true, I want to express my utter disbelief and shock, considering that we were to start classes again in person on 25 March. Our semester started BEFORE the operations were impacted, as we began our semester the last week on February (24th of February to be precise). We were even informed that there just may be a delay in the disbursement, when we resumed classes on 25 March.

Secondly, I want to express that I depend on my student loans to pay for my tuition fees and living expenses, when I am here. While I have a small part-time job, it could not cover my tuition fees and my living expenses that I have been stuck with.

What will be my options now? Is there anyway that I can appeal this decision through the Department of Education directly?

As an American student and citizen, I would like to note that I am in Krakow, Poland (where the Jagiellonian University) is currently located. I did NOT return to the United States, as I WILL be attending classes physically when they resume here! What am I expected to do now that the Department of Education has told the Jagiellonian University they cannot disburse my loan funds at all? How can we be left without these funds?

I do apologize if the tone of my email has been rather crass, however this is an extreme stress and burden that makes this time all the more difficult for me. Can the Department of Education not reconsider their policy on US students receiving these funds abroad? Can we not get some exception made?

I look forward to your response soon.

Best regards,
Amanda Nicole Alarcon

Subject: Reduce Academic Calendar

Hi,

Western Dakota Tech (OPEID 01017000) would like to be proactive in the event that we need to reduce our academic calendar fewer than 30 weeks. We currently have a 32 week academic calendar. At this time, 24 weeks have been completed for on campus courses and 25 weeks have been completed for online courses. If Western Dakota Tech needs to reduce our academic calendar to be fewer than 30 weeks, how long would that take to get approval? Some of our programs will be at least 30 weeks, but others could fall below the 30 week minimum requirement due to the COVID-19 situation.

Thank you for routing this to the appropriate School Participation Division Team.

I have been asked to find more information regarding the following scenario -

Should a school decide to reduce institutional charges for room & board for this semester, and a refund is now created on the student account, are the following options available for the credit?

- apply credit to future semester
- issue the refund from the account (and does this fall under the paying FSA credit balance rules)

- not all students have FSA who may may have a newly created credit
- some students may have FSA and have already received their FSA refunds

The updated FAQs address not needing to adjust COA for changing the students residential status, but not any refund due from reduced charges. Can you guide to the regulations so we may have it on file once a decision has been made?

Subject: Request for Reduction in Length of Academic Year

Dear Sir/Madame;

In response to the COVID-19 pandemic, the University of Richmond has extended spring break an additional week to allow faculty to prepare for remote instruction. By extending our spring break for students an additional week, our academic year is reduced from 15 weeks to 14 weeks. Per instruction stated below, this email serves as a request for approval for this change.

We have submitted a request for a waiver to provide distance education to SACSCOC and want to make sure we are in compliance with federal student aid policies regarding our reduction in the length of the academic year.

Your assistance is appreciated. Please let me know if you need additional information.

Under 34 CFR 668.3, an academic year in a credit-hour program must consist of 30 weeks of instructional time. According to guidance NASFAA has received from ED, if you extend your scheduled break, it may reduce the number of weeks of instructional time in your term/payment period and thereby your academic year to less than 30 weeks. For example, if your academic year consists of two 15-week semesters, and the additional week of scheduled break reduces the 15-week semester to a 14-week semester, you have reduced your academic year length to 29 weeks. If this happens, the guidance under "Length of Academic Year" in the March 5, 2020 Electronic Announcement applies, and you must obtain approval from your ED School Participation Division. On the other hand, if you have a program consisting of two 16-week semesters with a 32-week academic year, and the extended break reduces your spring term by two weeks, you do not need ED's approval.

These are the steps to follow:

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

1. The institution should determine if the reduction in the number of weeks of instructional time in the term brings the academic year to less than 30 weeks. If not, no further action is necessary.
2. Assuming the reduction in the length of instruction in the term results in an academic year consisting of fewer than 30 weeks, the institution should submit a request for reduction in the length of an academic year to COVID-19@ed.gov, including the number of weeks that will now comprise the academic year, (e.g., 28 weeks).
3. The institution's request will be routed to the appropriate School Participation Division which will inform the institution of its decision.

Subject: Room & Board Adjustment Clarification

Our institution is considering reducing the room and board charges for the remainder of the Spring 20 semester due to moving to online instruction due to COVID-19.
The institution has seen several other institutions indicate that they plan to apply the "refund" to the next semester, which would be Fall 20 semester. This would overlap academic years.
I listened to a webinar last week and there seemed to be several issues if institutions opted to take this approach.
Based on what I heard, rolling forward creates an overlapping academic year situation. Schools are not permitted to hold Title IV (federal aid) refunds. Schools would have to look at each individual student to determine if the refund of charges would create a Title IV credit balance. Is so that portion must still be refunded within 14 days of the credit occurring in the Spring 20 term.
The cost of attendance (COA) for 2020-2021 may need adjusted which would impact financial aid awards for 2020-2021.
The refund of charges may count as income on the student's 2020 income tax return or count as untaxed income on the student's FAFSA.
Also it was implied that the Department of Education is highly encouraging schools to provide refunds in the term they occurred as families need these funds/savings now as they are dealing with companies temporarily closing but not continuing to pay employees, dealing with day care needs, added food costs as more family members are at home, etc.
My understanding is if schools refund during the term the charges occurred (Spring 20) then we don't have to deal with any of these issues.
Is this correct? My institution wants to make a decision and inform our students this week, but we want to make sure our understanding is correct.
Thank you for your time. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Westminster College in Salt Lake City, Utah recently approved an extension of the spring break by one week due to COVID-19. Increasing the break week then reduces the weeks of instructional time for the 2019-2020 academic year to 29 weeks. Westminster is requesting approval for an academic year less than 30 weeks.

Hello,

I am the Director of Financial Aid at Jackson College. We are a participant in the Second Chance Pell program and currently teach in 8 different correctional facilities with approximately 650 Pell grant recipients. It is my understanding with ESI, that correspondence courses are not a modality that can be use. Given the COVID-19 pandemic in the US and with the Michigan Department Of Corrections moving to lock down this limits us in ways to provide instruction. They (MDOC) do not allow for on-line instruction (at least not currently) and to suspend the class and perform R2T4s on the students would leave them with a balance they could not afford to pay back. Is the correspondence course offering being reviewed to allow Pell grant funds to be provided to Second Chance Pell students?

Any guidance that could be provided or best practices from other schools would be greatly appreciated.

Thanks and stay healthy!

Good Afternoon,

We have term based programs and have a policy that students can only have 1 approved LOA in a 12 month period. Due to closures of some of the external sites our students will not be able to participate in externships or practical portions of lab classes.

Can the institution waive its policy with regard to only allowing 1 LOA in a 12 month period to allow students who have already taken an approved LOA the opportunity to take a second LOA if their studies have been impacted and they cannot complete the practical or externship? They would not exceed the 180 day requirement for LOA.

Thanks for your guidance on this matter.

Dear DOE Clery Handbook & COVID-19 Personnel,

As an Assistant Compliance Officer for Clery at The University of Texas System, and on behalf of our System, we are seeking clarification and guidance on COVID-19 Emergency Notifications:

- Under what circumstances must an institution send an emergency notification relating to an outbreak of COVID-19?
    - As examples:
        a. When a positive case of COVID-19 is confirmed?
        b. When a presumptive case of COVID-19 has been reported to the institution, but not confirmed yet?
        c. When a student or employee reports signs/symptoms of COVID-19; but has not had access to a testing kit yet?
- What information is required in a COVID-19 emergency notification?
- How frequent must an institution send an emergency notification relating to an outbreak of COVID-19?
    - As examples:
        a. Under the Clery Act, is an institution required to send an emergency notification each time a positive/confirmed case of COVID-19 of a student or employee?
        b. After the first positive case is confirmed, then by institutions sending regular updates to the campus community regarding updated # of positive cases, updates in health and safety protocols by the institution, etc., are "regular updates" meeting the Clery Act requirements for emergency notifications?

We have reviewed the Clery Handbook, but with the unprecedented circumstances around COVID-19, we just wanted to confirm your official guidance on COVID-19 at this time. Thank you in advance for your time, and on behalf of UT System, we look forward to your response.

To whom it may concern:

Talofa from American Samoa Part C,

I hope this email finds you well. I am writing to seek your guidance regarding our programs potential protocols during the Covid-19 pandemic outbreak in accordance to our public health and safety guidance from our local government. I have attached here supporting documents for your review. Effective today, our government has declared a Code Blue (please see Declaration of a state of Emergency attached). Just a brief update from our end with Covid-19. As of today, we do not know if we have any confirmed cases. Our tiny island lack medical supplies, medical personnel, quarantine facilities, and other equipment to combat the virus in the event that we get a confirmed case. Unfortunately, our borders are still open. Schools and daycares officially closed today and all mass gatherings have been discouraged until further notice. I will keep you posted with any further information.

For American Samoa Part C program, our proposed service protocols during the Covid-19 outbreak is as follows:

1. Face to face services will be on hold immediately until further notice.
2. Kids on the 45 Day Deadline queue who have not completed intake process will be placed on monitor for 2 months pending coronavirus all clear. Family will be contacted earlier than 2 months to resume services should our island be declared Covid-19 free.
3. If child has been IFSP'd. services will be conducted via zoom and/or phone call unless family opts to hold services for now.

Please advise if these protocols would be appropriate in response to the Covid-19 outbreak. I'll be open to any suggestions or feed back. Please let me know if you need to discuss this further or might need additional information from my end.

Please stay safe.

Honorable David Bernhardt
Secretary
United States Department of the Interior
Washington D.C. 20204

Dear Secretary Bernhardt:

As our Nation struggles to ease the mounting precipitated anguish and fear perpetrated by the escalated spread of the coronavirus in the continental United States and possibly the Territories, we are comforted by the aggressive and bold leadership posture being adopted by President Trump, Vice President Mike Pence and federal leaders reflected in the actions being implemented along with availing financial resources to facilitate the implementation of States and Territories' mitigation strategies to prevent, contain, treat, and improve the health outcomes for all Americans infected by the Coronavirus.

We appreciate the Weekly Briefings conducted by Vice President Mike Pence and the Federal Coronavirus Task Force, as it gives us Governors the opportunity to receive real-time information on the current actions being implemented along with the chance to ask questions and to seek support. We thank you for your leadership and your leadership team in the Department of the Interior and especially the Office of Insular and International Affairs for ensuring that the needs of the territories are not neglected.

Subsequent to my letter to you on March 9, 2020, I am very pleased to submit for your consideration and hopefully your favorable review of the Territory of American Samoa's Response and Action Plan aimed to prevent the spread through aggressive surveillance, monitoring, tracking, isolation, and quarantine of suspected individuals; setting protocols for effective treatment of confirmed cases; comprehensive implementation of our community awareness, community outreach, community education, presenting our financial proposal for funds to empower us to fully implement our mitigation strategy; and our economic development impact assessment of the fiscal repercussions consequential to the coronavirus health storm.

American Samoa is highly vulnerable because our current healthcare service delivery system grossly lacks the capacity to address the healthcare fallout from epidemics and pandemics. The incidence of accelerated spread of the coronavirus is also very high because of our social structure and cultural edicts which discourages social distancing. There is great fear that our healthcare service delivery system could collapse if the projections and estimates on the percentage of people who will be infected in any community hold true. There is only one hospital in American Samoa and the nearest U.S. Healthcare institution is Hawaii 2,300 miles away, but then given the highly contagious nature of the coronavirus travel might not be a viable option.

In light of these logistical challenges, American Samoa needs to access tools to allow it to determine the degree and level of infection to guide effective implementation of our mitigation strategies, advisories, and guidance. The recommended primary detection measure is TESTING. Regrettably, the Territory of American Samoa is not on the list for Test-Kits distribution. I earnestly implore your intervention in this issue because of the obvious impact on the efficacy of our mitigation and treatment plans.

Our dependency status on imports (95% consumables & 100% healthcare supplies) also adds to our great susceptibility, thus we appreciate the current sensitivity of the federal leaders in the efforts to keep the supply chains open. While this poses another layer of threat to the spread of the coronavirus, the challenge lies in striking a balance between these opposing issues. This will be our challenge as we try to find an acceptable medium to ensure that the health issue will not contribute to the social and economic collapse and does not compromise our ultimate objective of saving lives.

The final component of the Response and Action Plan is the economic assessment of the effect of the coronavirus' fiscal impact on American Samoa's economy with implications on our future prospects and the reciprocal consequences to the American Samoa Government's financial capacity.

We recognize that the major source of public distress stems from the perspective of the unknown and lacking access to information on the nature of the coronavirus and the appropriate actions they must take to prevent being infected. Thus, we have included in our media strategy to get the information out to our people.

Our experience gained from combating the Measles Outbreak with our containment protocols still in place has given us a head start in our fight to prevent and contain the spread of the coronavirus although there is still so much uncertainty surround this pandemic relative to its very nature.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The American Samoa's Territorial Wide Response and Action Plan is prepared to clearly outline the required protocols, guidance, and advisories to combat the entry, prevent community spread, and provide the most effective treatment for those infected by the Coronavirus.

As of March 12, 2020, no case of coronavirus has been detected, reported, or confirmed. Thus, while our ultimate desire is to prevent the entry of the coronavirus into our territory supported by the aggressive prevention protocols which have been declared and implemented, American Samoa's Territorial Wide Response and Action Plan is fashioned assuming the posture that the coronavirus has already reached our shores. This perspective has been adopted to forge the assessment of our healthcare infrastructure capacity whether it can respond efficaciously in mitigating the effects of the coronavirus on our people, our community, our economy, and our society.

Moreover, the Territory of American Samoa is located 2,300 miles Southeast of Hawaii which is the nearest U.S. Jurisdiction, and 5,000 miles to the West Coast of the United States Continental. This remote characteristic presents many difficult challenges which compel us to be as self-sufficient as possible and practical. Susceptibility to surface and air transportation is significant heightening our vulnerability and dependence on Hawaii and other states of the Union for assistance as 95% of our consumables and 100% of our medications are imported. The cost differentia of consumables and medication compared to the States is high shrinking our purchasing capacity.

Prompt detection of the coronavirus through the testing is vital to the determination of subsequent protocols to be implemented. The lapsed time between conducting the test and receiving results is paramount. With American Samoa's remote location, it is imperative that testing must be conducted on-site to provide preliminary indication as to the status of the person tested. American Samoa is the last territory that has not been issued Test-Kits, thus immediate detection is impossible. The LBJ Tropical Medical Center has CLIA certification hence it should be accorded the privilege to conduct these tests which by current protocols these tests will be sent to Hawaii for analysis. The response time is set at a minimum of 3 days turn-around. These three (3) days or more are critical as it could translate to more people being infected.

The assessment of our healthcare infrastructural system revealed major deficiencies in our capacity to effectively respond to epidemics and pandemics. Healthcare facilities were built to deliver standard health care services not contagious in nature. Additionally, special supplies, equipment, medication are limited given the rarity of epidemics. Consequently, epidemic related supplies and medication must now be specially ordered and stockpiled to avoid unnecessary interruption or delay in rendering services. Special isolation and quarantine facilities must now be built as current infrastructural configuration didn't account for the needs or to handle epidemics or pandemics.

Although we have embraced the attitude that the coronavirus has reached our shores, we acknowledge the plain fact that the most effective response to prevent the community spread of the coronavirus rests with each resident by practicing and adhering to the common-sense hygiene regimen. Public awareness, community outreach, and education is vital to empowering all residents of American Samoa to take ownership of their individual responsibility to prevent the spread of the coronavirus.

Financial resources are critically needed to finance all the planned tasks, activities, construction of facilities, purchase of equipment, supplies, COVID-19 test kits, and recruitment of additional healthcare professions to help alleviate the load assumed by regular physicians, nurses, technicians and all support functions of the LBJ Tropical Medical Center and the Department of Health. The territory has been combating the measles epidemic which exhausted its financial resources crippling it from availing financial resources to accommodate the demands of the coronavirus pandemic.

In light of the growing economic fallout, consequential to actions taken to address the coronavirus, an economic impact assessment has been conducted to estimate the financial and economic damages sustained by the Territory of American Samoa. Clearly, American Samoa is significantly affected and it will take years to recover.

The American Samoa's Territorial Wide Response and Action Plan provides details on the prevention, screening, monitoring, tracing, and isolation protocols. Treatment protocols are also clearly articulated. Advisories and Guidance on special groups have also been defined and incorporated. Community Awareness, Community Outreach, and Community Education Campaign is provided. It also presents the financial proposal outlining the anticipated expenditures which will be incurred in the implementation.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Current Situation

An outbreak of a new coronavirus disease in 2019 (COVID-19) that began in Wuhan, China has been developing since December 2019. This outbreak now includes tens of thousands of infections in China and thousands of confirmed cases in a number of other countries, including hundreds in the United States.

As of 8:00 AM, March 12, 2020 there have been 1,215 total cases detected in 42 states and the District of Columbia. This represents an increase of 792 cases in the past 3 days. Among the identified cases to-date, 125 have been travel-related, 102 were from person-to-person spread, and 988 are still under investigation. An additional 49 cases have been identified among persons repatriated (brought back to the US from abroad) by the US government from Wuhan, China or the Diamond Princess Cruise Ship. There have been 36 total deaths.

Impact to American Samoa

As of March 12, 2020, the Territory of American Samoa has no confirmed Covid-19 case, nor anyone is being quarantined for suspected possible infected by the Covid-19. While this is deemed to be a blessing or a reflection of the aggressive actions being implemented by the American Samoa Government to preempt the entry of the virus, we have adopted the posture that the inevitable will happen given the heightened risk connected with travel emanating from states which have been infected by the COVID-19 which have large Samoan Communities.

Based on our belief that the inevitable will indeed happen the American Samoa Government is now assessing the sufficiency of its capacity to effectively and competently respond positively to any outbreak of the coronavirus in American Samoa.

To provide needed oversight to ensure that real time, practical, and functionable information and recommendations are developed and presented for executive decision on the course of actions to be pursued to combat the COVID-19, the American Samoa Coronavirus Task Force has been established to assume this responsibility. All major agencies of the American Samoa Government are made members of the American Samoa Coronavirus Task Force (ASCTF).

To support the work of the ASCTF, the Coronavirus Working Group (CWG) is also establish to provide staffing support to conducted need research on best practices in terms of effectiveness are being adopted by States and Territories are available for consideration and possible replication by our local strategies. The CWG will also provide secretariat functions to speed the work of the ASCTF. We have also compelled our D.C. based consultants and lobbyists to ensure that the needs of the Territory of American Samoa are clearly and aggressively articulate to the Congress, the White House, CDC, and the DHHS. General Memorandum No. 135 is included in the Appendix Section of the Response & Action Plan.

The anticipated impact in American Samoa will be overwhelming on our health and economic fallout which is already being felt although no confirmed Coronavirus case has been detected. The primary and immediate impact is on the territory healthcare infrastructure and systems.

a. Medical personnel

DOH and LBJ reshuffle personnel to meet the demand of recent measles outbreak mass vaccination. The shortage of healthcare profession to assist in emergency response while maintaining normal health care operations, presents the need to recruit and hire more physicians and nurses, and to compensate personnel involved in emergency response.

The healthcare professionals are already stretched beyond acceptable standards promulgated by CDC given that many healthcare professionals are working very long hours which certainly impact the quality of the service being provided. LBJ Tropical Medical Center is being financially burdened by chronic overtime given the shortage in nurses. The same is prevalent at the Emergency Room of the only Acute Care Facility on island.

b. Medical Facilities

The Territory of American Samoa lacks the appropriate facilities to quarantine and to treat those infected by the Coronavirus. LBJ currently does not have the capacity to effectively isolate and treat infected patients without presenting unacceptable risks to non-COVID-19 patients. While LBJ is struggling to make room to accommodate COVID-19 patients the probability of propagation is still high. The ideal option is not to place COVID-19 patients in close proximity to the patient population. Accordingly, LBJ is renovating the Behavioral Health Center to cater to the isolation and treatment of the COVID-19. Patients. The cost of this work is projected in the financial section of the Response & Action Plan.

The Department of Health (DOH) is solely assume the responsibility of isolation, monitoring, and caring for infected patients. This quarantine facility was setup to address isolation of suspected measles patients. The capacity is limited to 10 which is deemed grossly inadequate to accommodate the expected spread of the COVID-19 upon confirmation of one person. New facilities are being renovated to address the anticipate growth in the number suspected COVID-19. A new facility is being constructed specifically for isolation and quarantining of suspected COVID-19 cases. The cost of these infrastructural hardening activities is reflected in our funding request.

c. Medical Supplies

As of this writing, American Samoa has not been given Test-Kits to facilitate the immediate determination of the infected status of a suspected individual exhibiting the COVID-19 Symptoms. This is crucial as American Samoa is remotely located with Hawaii as the nearest U.S. Health facility 2,300 miles away. We lack the healthcare facilities to accommodate everyone with COVID-19 symptoms given that our borders are open for travel from the United States by U.S. passport holder, U.S. Nationals, and residents of American Samoa recognizing the CDC travel advisory.

Protective gowns are critically needed to protect the healthcare professionals and first responders. CDC approved masks are needed as well for the healthcare givers, first responders, and the general public desiring to use masks.

Equipment are needed particularly those addressing the respiratory issues, laboratory equipment for testing and preliminary diagnosis, obtainment of specimens, handling, and transportation of the same to U.S. designate labs for COVID-19 analysis.

Standard medical supplies are needs as well to ensure maintenance of a sufficient stock to sustain our healthcare response to combat the coronavirus. The cost of facilities, equipment, masks, gowns, and supplies are reflected in the financial request section.

Current Challenges:

The geographic location of the Territory of American Samoa creates severe logistical challenges which magnify operational issues exacerbating the status of healthcare infrastructural platform, human resources capacity and capability, operating supplies, financial resources, position within the Pacific Region, status within the federal family hierarchy, and the uniqueness of the cultural setting which ongoing family gatherings.

American Samoa's COVID-19 Response & Action Plan

The Response & Action Plan content contains protocols and advisories recommended by the Department of Health, LBJ Tropical Medical Center, Medicaid Office, Department of Education, American Samoa Community College, Department of Human and Social Services. Territorial Administration on Aging, the Department of Public Works, Department of Youth and Women, Department of Treasury, Department of Human Resources, Department of Local Government, Office Planning and Budget, Office of Procurement, Office of Public Information, American Samoa Environmental Protection Agency, Department of Legal Affairs, Department of Port/Airport Administration, Department of Commerce, and the Veterans Administration Health Clinic in American Samoa.

The approval of this Response & Action Plan by the Governor and the Lieutenant Governor will provide guidance to the entire territory regard steps to take to preempt being infected by the Coronavirus. Judicious note should be taken that these protocols and advisories will change as the status of the Coronavirus evolves as the entire situation is currently very fluid with continuing metamorphosing. Any changes or amendments to the articulate protocols will be clearly articulated to the entire community.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

While focus on building the healthcare capacity to respond effectively and positively to curb the spread of the coronavirus, equal attention is placed on developing and implementing a community awareness and educational campaign to empower all the residents of American Samoa to be vigilant and diligent in adopting all hygiene advisories presented in this Response & Action Plan.

I. Prevention, Surveillance, Monitoring, Detection, Testing, & Quarantine Protocols:

The success of the prevention of the Novel Coronavirus stems from the enforcement of the situational changing "DOH Travel Advisory" under the authority vested through the Governor's Public Health Emergency declaration and the Title 13 Health Economics Welfare Services, Chapter 2 American Samoa Emergency Health Powers Act, 13.0215.

All Personnel involved in the following procedures will adhere to Prevention and Control measures and PPE Protocols as outlined by the Isolation and Quarantine Plan.

1. Basic Epidemiology:

Infectious Agent

The 2019 Novel Coronavirus (COVID-19) is a virus (more specifically, a coronavirus) identified as the cause of an outbreak of respiratory illness first detected in Wuhan, China.

Transmission

Studies have been conducted to determine the transmission of COVID-19. The studies suggest that the most likely modes of transmission for COVID-19 are droplet and direct person-to-person contact. However, there is evidence that indirect contact and aerosol spread also exist. It also possible that COVID-19 spread from ill people to others through close contact, such as caring for or living with an infected person. Infected people have spread COVID-19 to others in healthcare settings, such as hospitals.

Incubation Period

The incubation period of a novel coronavirus causing severe acute respiratory disease depends on the type of novel coronavirus. The incubation period for COVID-19 is still under study but it is estimated to be 2 to 14 days with a median of 5 to 6 days.

Communicability

The period of communicability for the COVID-19 is not completely understood. For SARS-CoV, epidemiologic and virologic studies and clinical follow-up during the 2003 epidemic indicated that transmission does not occur before the onset of clinical signs and symptoms and the maximum period of communicability is less than 21 days. The period of communicability of COVID-19 is unknown.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Clinical Illness

The novel coronavirus, COVID-19, can cause acute respiratory illness. For confirmed COVID-19 infections, reported illnesses have ranged from infected people with little to no symptoms, to people being severely ill and dying. Symptoms may include: Fever, Cough, Shortness of breath

2. Definitions;

Case definitions for the COVID-19 continues to evolve as clinical and epidemiologic information on these virus changes. Please refer to the novel coronavirus information on CDC's website for the most recent definitions. The CDC COVID-19 case definitions may be found here: https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/COVID-19/clinical-criteria.html.

Clinical Case Definition

Limited data on the clinical presentation of COVID-19 are available; most published clinical information to date is from critically ill patients. At hospital admission, common signs and symptoms include fever, chills/rigors, headache, non-productive cough, dyspnea and myalgia. Other symptoms can include sore throat, coryza, sputum production, dizziness, nausea and vomiting, diarrhea and abdominal pain. Atypical presentations including mild respiratory illness without fever and diarrheal illness preceding development of pneumonia have been reported.

Laboratory Confirmation

- Identification of a novel coronavirus that is different from currently circulating human coronavirus as confirmed by CDC's laboratory, by public health laboratories using CDC-approved protocols for a specific novel strain or by labs using an FDA-approved test for a specific novel strain.
- Confirmatory laboratory testing requires a positive PCR on at least two specific genomic targets or a single positive target with sequencing on a second.
- Other laboratory confirmation criteria may be defined by CDC for the specific novel coronavirus.

Case Classifications

- Confirmed: A confirmed case is a person with laboratory confirmation of COVID-19 infection.
- Probable: A probable case is a Patient Under Investigation (PUI) with absent or inconclusive laboratory results for COVID-19 infection who is a close contact of a laboratory-confirmed COVID-19 case. Examples of laboratory results that may be considered inconclusive include a positive test on a single PCR target, a positive test with an assay that has limited performance data available, or a negative test on an inadequate specimen.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Suspect (Patient Under Investigation [PUI]): A person who has both clinical features and an epidemiologic risk should be considered a Patient Under Investigation (PUI) based on one of the following scenarios:

- Fever AND pneumonia or acute respiratory distress syndrome (based on clinical or radiological evidence) AND EITHER:

  - A history of travel from countries with known COVID-19 (China, Korea, Japan, Thailand, Philippines, and US) within 14 days before symptom onset,

    OR

  - Close contact with a symptomatic traveler who developed fever and acute respiratory illness (not necessarily pneumonia) within 14 days after traveling from countries mentioned above, OR

  - A member of a cluster of patients with severe acute respiratory illness (e.g., fever and pneumonia requiring hospitalization) of unknown etiology in which COVID-19 is being evaluated, in consultation with state and local health department, OR

- Fever AND symptoms of respiratory illness (not necessarily pneumonia; e.g., cough, shortness of breath) AND a history of being in a healthcare facility (as a patient, worker or visitor) within 14 days before symptom onset in a country or territory in or near in which recent healthcare-associated cases of COVID-19 have been identified.

- Fever OR symptoms of respiratory illness (not necessarily pneumonia, e.g., cough, shortness of breath) AND close contact with a confirmed MERS case while the case was ill.

3. SURVELANCE AND CASE INVESTIGATION

Case Investigation

Local and regional health departments should investigate all reports of novel coronavirus including COVID-19. Investigations should include an interview of the case or surrogate to obtain a detailed exposure history. The current investigation form is in Appendix 1. Completion of a more detailed investigation form may be required for probable or confirmed cases or in the event of an outbreak or other special situation. This more detailed investigation form will be provided by ASDOH, if needed.

Suspect (Patient Under Investigation [PUI]) Case Investigation Checklist

- Any suspected novel coronavirus case should be investigated immediately.

- Ensure that appropriate control measures have been implemented (see Prevention and Control Measures, below).

- Determine whether the patient meets the case definition.

  - Obtain medical records, interview the suspected case-patient or surrogate and interview the patient's healthcare provider.

- Notify ASDOH immediately of suspect (PUI) cases of COVID-19.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Prevention and Control Measures

Prevention and control guidelines for COVID-19 are subject to change as disease knowledge evolves. Please refer to the CDC websites provided below for the most recent recommendations.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Healthcare Facilities and Healthcare Personnel

Please see "Interim Infection Prevention and Control Recommendations for Hospitalized Patients with COVID-19 available at https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/COVID-19/clinical-criteria.html

Infection Control Recommendations

Minimize Chance for Exposures

Ensure facility policies and practices are in place to minimize exposures to respiratory pathogens including COVID-19. Measures should be implemented before patient arrival, upon arrival, and throughout the duration of the affected patient's presence in the healthcare setting.

Before Arrival

- When scheduling appointments, instruct patients and persons who accompany them to call ahead or inform LBJ ER upon arrival if they have symptoms of any respiratory infection (e.g., cough, runny nose, fever) and to take appropriate preventive actions (e.g., wear a facemask upon entry to contain cough, follow triage procedure).

Upon Arrival and During the Visit

- Take steps to ensure all persons with symptoms of a respiratory infection adhere to respiratory hygiene and cough etiquette, hand hygiene, and triage procedures throughout the duration of the visit. Consider posting visual alerts (e.g., signs, posters) at the entrance and in strategic places (e.g., waiting areas, elevators, cafeterias) to provide patients and Health Care Providers with instructions (in appropriate languages) about hand hygiene, respiratory hygiene, and cough etiquette. Instructions should include how to use facemasks or tissues to cover nose and mouth when coughing or sneezing, to dispose of tissues and contaminated items in waste receptacles, and how and when to perform hand hygiene.

- Provide space and encourage persons with symptoms of respiratory infections to sit as far away from others as possible. If available, facilities may wish to place these patients in a separate area while waiting for care.

- Ensure rapid triage and isolation of patients who might have COVID-19 infection

  - Identify patients at risk for having COVID-19 infection before or immediately upon arrival to the hospital

    Implement triage procedures to detect patients at risk for having COVID-19 infections during or before patient triage or registration (e.g., at the time of patient check-in) and ensure that all patients are asked about the presence of symptoms of a respiratory infection and history of travel to areas experiencing transmission of COVID-19 or contact with possible COVID-19 patients. See the "Interim Guidance for Healthcare Professionals" (https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/COVID-19/clinical-criteria.html) for which patients to evaluate for COVID-19.

  - Immediately isolate those identified as at risk for having COVID-19 infection Implement Respiratory Hygiene and Cough Etiquette (i.e., placing a facemask over the patient's nose and mouth) and isolate those at risk for COVID-19 infection in an Airborne Infection Isolation Room (AIIR). See recommendations for "Patient Placement" below.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Provide supplies to perform hand hygiene to all patients upon arrival to facility (e.g., at entrances of facility, waiting rooms, at patient check-in) and throughout the entire duration of the visit to the healthcare setting.

Ensure Adherence to Standard, Contact and Airborne Precautions

Standard precautions assume that every person is potentially infected or colonized with a pathogen that could be transmitted in the healthcare setting. Elements of standard precautions that apply to patients with respiratory infections, including those caused by COVID-19 are summarized below. Attention should be paid to training and proper donning, doffing and disposal of any personal protective equipment. All aspects of standard precautions (e.g., injection safety) are not emphasized in this document but can be found in the guideline titled Guideline for Isolation Precautions: Preventing Transmission of Infectious Agents in Healthcare Settings. All Health Care Providers who enter the room of a patient with suspected or confirmed COVID-19 should adhere to Standard, Contact, and Airborne precautions, including the following:

- Gloves
  - Put on clean, non-sterile gloves upon entry into the patient room or care area. Change gloves if they become torn or heavily contaminated.
  - Remove and discard gloves immediately upon leaving the patient room or care area. Please see section below on "Using More than one Kind of Personal Protective Equipment (PPE)" for recommended sequence of PPE removal.

- Gowns
  - Put on a clean disposable gown upon entry into the patient room or area. Change the gown if it becomes soiled. Remove and discard the gown immediately upon leaving the patient room or care area.

Hand Hygiene

- HCP should perform hand hygiene before and after all patient contact, contact with potentially infectious material, and before putting on and upon removal of PPE, including gloves. Hand hygiene in healthcare settings can be performed by washing with soap and water or using alcohol-based hand rubs. If hands are visibly soiled, use soap and water, not alcohol-based hand rubs.

- Healthcare facilities should ensure that facilities and supplies for performing hand hygiene are readily available to all personnel.

Personal Protective Equipment

Employers should select appropriate PPE and provide it to workers in accordance with OSHA's PPE standards (29 CFR 1910 Subpart I). Workers must receive training on and demonstrate an understanding of when to use PPE; what PPE is necessary; how to properly don (put on), use, doff (take off) PPE; how to properly dispose of or disinfect and maintain PPE; and the limitations of PPE. Any reusable PPE must be properly cleaned, decontaminated, and maintained after and between uses.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Respiratory Protection
  - Use respiratory protection (i.e., a respirator) that is at least as protective as a fit-tested NIOSH-certified disposable N95 filtering facepiece respirator upon entry to the patient room or care area.
  - The respirator should be the last part of the PPE ensemble to be removed. If reusable respirators are used, they must be cleaned and disinfected according to manufacturer's reprocessing instructions prior to re-use. If disposable respirators are used, they should be removed and discarded after leaving the patient room or care area and closing the door.
  - Respirator use must be in the context of a complete respiratory protection program in accordance with Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) Respiratory Protection standard (29 CFR 1910.134). Staff should be medically cleared and fit-tested if using respirators with tight-fitting facepieces (e.g., a NIOSH-certified disposable N95) and trained in the proper use of respirators, safe removal and disposal, and medical contraindications to respirator use.
- Eye Protection
  - Put on eye protection (e.g., a disposable face shield) upon entry to the patient room or care area. Remove and discard eye protection immediately upon leaving the patient room or care area. Reusable eye protection (e.g., goggles) must be cleaned and disinfected according to manufacturer's reprocessing instructions prior to re-use.
- Using More than one Kind of Personal Protective Equipment (PPE)
  - Different types of PPE are used together to prevent multiple routes of transmission.
  - The following sequence is a general approach to putting on this PPE combination for respiratory pathogens: first gown; then respirator; then goggles or face shield; then gloves.
  - The following sequence is a general approach to removing PPE for respiratory pathogens: first gloves; then goggles or face shield; then gown; then respirator.
  - Except for respirator, remove PPE at doorway or in anteroom. Remove respirator after leaving patient room and closing door.
  - Careful attention should be given to prevent contamination of clothing and skin during the process of removing PPE.
  - Perform hand hygiene as described above immediately before putting on and after removing all PPE.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Patient Placement

- Place a patient who might be infected with COVID-19 in an Airborne Infection Isolation Room (AIIR) that has been constructed and maintained in accordance with current guidelines.

    - AIIRs are single patient rooms at negative pressure relative to the surrounding areas, and with a minimum of 6 air changes per hour (12 air changes per hour are recommended for new construction or renovation). Air from these rooms should be exhausted directly to the outside or be filtered through a high-efficiency particulate air (HEPA) filter before recirculation. Room doors should be kept closed except when entering or leaving the room, and entry and exit should be minimized. Facilities should monitor and document the proper negative-pressure function of these rooms.

    - If an AIIR is not available, the patient should be transferred as soon as is feasible to a facility where an AIIR is available. Pending transfer, place a facemask on the patient and isolate him/her in an examination room with the door closed. The patient should not be placed in any room where room exhaust is recirculated without high-efficiency particulate air (HEPA) filtration.

- Once in an AIIR, the patient's facemask may be removed; the facemask should remain on if the patient is not in an AIIR. Limit transport and movement of the patient outside of the AIIR to medically-essential purposes. When outside of the AIIR, patients should wear a facemask to contain secretions.

- Only essential personnel should enter the AIIR. Implement staffing policies to minimize the number of HCP who enter the room.

    - Facilities should consider caring for these patients with dedicated HCP to minimize risk of transmission and exposure to other patients and other HCP.

- Facilities should keep a log of all persons who care for OR enter the rooms or care area of these patients.

- Once the patient vacates a room, unprotected individuals, including HCP, should not be allowed in that room until sufficient time has elapsed for enough air changes to remove potentially infectious particles. More information on clearance rates under differing ventilation conditions is available here: http://www.cdc.gov/mmwr/preview/mmwrhtml/rr5417a1.htm?s_cid=rr5417a1_e%20-%20tab1. In addition, the room should undergo appropriate cleaning and surface disinfection before unprotected individuals are allowed to reenter it.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Duration of Infection Control Precautions

- At this time, information is lacking to definitively determine a recommended duration for keeping patients in isolation precautions.
- Duration of precautions should be determined on a case-by-case basis, in conjunction with local, state, and federal health authorities.
- Factors that should be considered include: presence of symptoms related to COVID-19, date symptoms resolved, other conditions that would require specific precautions (e.g., tuberculosis, Clostridium difficile) and available laboratory information.

Manage Visitor Access and Movement Within the Facility

Establish procedures for monitoring, managing and training visitors.

All visitors should follow respiratory hygiene and cough etiquette precautions while in the common areas of the facility.

Restrict visitors from entering the COVID-19 patient's room. Facilities can consider exceptions based on end-of-life situations or when a visitor is essential for the patient's emotional well-being and care.

Visitors who have been in contact with the patient before and during hospitalization are a possible source of COVID-19 for other patients, visitors, and staff.

Visitors to COVID-19 patients should be scheduled and controlled to allow for:

- Screening visitors for symptoms of acute respiratory illness before entering the hospital.
- Facilities should evaluate risk to the health of the visitor (e.g., visitor might have underlying illness putting them at higher risk for COVID-19) and ability to comply with precautions.
- Facilities should provide instruction, before visitors enter patients' rooms, on hand hygiene, limiting surfaces touched, and use of PPE according to current facility policy while in the patient's room.
- Facilities should maintain a record (e.g., log book) of all visitors who enter patient rooms.
- Visitors should not be present during aerosol-generating procedures.
- Visitors should be instructed to limit their movement within the facility.

Exposed visitors (e.g., contact with symptomatic COVID-19 patient prior to admission) should be advised to report any signs and symptoms of acute illness to their health care provider for a period of at least 14 days after the last known exposure to the sick patient.

Implement Engineering Controls

Consider designing and installing engineering controls to reduce or eliminate exposures by shielding HCP and other patients from infected individuals. Examples of engineering controls include physical barriers or partitions to guide patients through triage areas, curtains between patients in shared areas, closed suctioning systems for airway suctioning for intubated patients, as well as appropriate air-handling systems (with appropriate directionality, filtration, exchange rate, etc.) that are installed and properly maintained.

Monitor and Manage Ill and Exposed Healthcare Personnel

Health Care Providers who care for patients with COVID-19 should be monitored. They should immediately report any signs (e.g., fever) or symptoms (e.g., cough, shortness of breath) of acute illness to their supervisor or a facility designated person (e.g., occupational health services) for a period of 14 days after the last known contact with a COVID-19 patient, regardless of their use of PPE.

Interim Guidelines for Collecting, Handling, and Testing Clinical Specimens from Patients Under Investigation (PUIs) for 2019 Novel Coronavirus (COVID-19)

- At this time, diagnostic testing for COVID-19 will be conducted at Hawaii State Lab.
- ASDOH will immediately notify Hawaii State Epidemiologist and CDC Regional Officer to report the PUI and determine whether testing for COVID-19 at Hawaii State Lab is indicated.
- Specimen Type and Priority. To increase the likelihood of detecting infection, CDC recommends:
  - Collection of three specimen types: lower respiratory, upper respiratory and serum specimens for testing is recommended.
  - If possible, additional specimen types (e.g., stool, urine) should be collected and should be stored initially until decision is made by CDC whether additional specimen sources should be tested.
  - Specimens should be collected as soon as possible once a PUI is identified regardless of symptom onset. Maintain proper infection control when collecting specimens.

General Guidelines

Store specimens at 2-8°C and ship overnight to CDC on ice pack. Label each specimen container with the patient's ID number (e.g., medical record number), unique specimen ID (e.g., laboratory requisition number), specimen type (e.g., serum) and the date the sample was collected. Complete a CDC Form 50.34 for each specimen submitted. In the upper left box of the form, 1) for test requested select "Respiratory virus molecular detection (non-influenza) CDC-10401" and 2) for At CDC, bring to the attention of enter "Stephen Lindstrom: COVID-19 PUI".

Respiratory Specimens

Lower respiratory tract

- Bronchoalveolar lavage, tracheal aspirate.
  - Collect 2-3 mL into a sterile, leak-proof, screw-cap sputum collection cup or sterile dry container. Refrigerate specimen at 2-8°C and ship overnight to CDC on ice pack.
- Sputum

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Have the patient rinse the mouth with water and then expectorate deep cough sputum directly into a sterile, leak-proof, screw-cap sputum collection cup or sterile dry container. Refrigerate specimen at 2-8°C and ship overnight to CDC on ice pack.

Upper respiratory tract

- Nasopharyngeal swab AND oropharyngeal swab (NP/OP swab)
  - Use only synthetic fiber swabs with plastic shafts. Do not use calcium alginate swabs or swabs with wooden shafts, as they may contain substances that inactivate some viruses and inhibit PCR testing. Place swabs immediately into sterile tubes containing 2-3 ml of viral transport media. NP and OP specimens should be kept in separate vials. Refrigerate specimen at 2-8°C and ship overnight to CDC on ice pack.
  - Nasopharyngeal swab: Insert a swab into the nostril parallel to the palate. Leave the swab in place for a few seconds to absorb secretions. Swab both nasopharyngeal areas with the same swab.
  - Oropharyngeal swab (e.g., throat swab): Swab the posterior pharynx, avoiding the tongue.
- Nasopharyngeal wash/aspirate or nasal aspirate
  - Collect 2-3 mL into a sterile, leak-proof, screw-cap sputum collection cup or sterile dry container. Refrigerate specimen at 2-8°C and ship overnight to CDC on ice pack.

Serum

Minimum volume required:

- Children and adults: Collect 1 tube (5-10 mL) of whole blood in a serum separator tube.
- Infant: A minimum of 1 mL of whole blood is needed for testing pediatric patients. If possible, collect 1 mL in a serum separator tube.

Serum separator tubes should be stored upright for at least 30 minutes, and then centrifuged at 1000–1300 relative centrifugal force (RCF) for 10 minutes before removing the serum and placing it in a separate sterile tube for shipping (such as a cryovial). Refrigerate the serum specimen at 2-8°C and ship overnight to CDC on ice-pack.

Shipping

- Specimens PUI's must be packaged, shipped, and transported according to the current edition of the International Air Transport Association (IATA) Dangerous Goods Regulations external icon.
- Store specimens at 2-8°C and ship overnight to Hawaii State Lab on ice pack. If a specimen is frozen at -70°C ship overnight to Hawaii State Lab on dry ice.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Additional useful and detailed information on packing, shipping, and transporting specimens can be found at Interim Laboratory Biosafety Guidelines for Handling and Processing Specimens Associated with 2019 Novel Coronavirus (COVID-19).

Recommended Prevention Steps for Confirmed Coronavirus Individuals:

The following prevention steps are recommended for people confirmed to have COVID-19 infection who can receive care at home and do not need to be hospitalized for medical reasons; people being evaluated by a healthcare provider for COVID-19 infection; caregivers and household members of a person confirmed to have, or being evaluated for, COVID-19 infection; and other people who have had close contact with a person confirmed to have, or being evaluated for, COVID-19 infection:

Note: If you are confirmed to have, or being evaluated for, COVID-19 infection you should follow the prevention steps below until a healthcare provider or local or state health department says you can return to your normal activities.

Stay home

- You should restrict activities outside your home, except for getting medical care. Do not go to work, school, or public areas, and do not use public transportation or taxis.

Separate yourself from other people in your home

- As much as possible, you should stay in a different room from other people in your home. Also, you should use a separate bathroom, if available.

Call ahead before visiting your doctor

- Before your medical appointment, call the healthcare provider and tell him or her that you have, or are being evaluated for, COVID-19 infection. This will help the healthcare provider's office take steps to keep other people from getting infected.

Wear a facemask

- You should wear a facemask when you are in the same room with other people and when you visit a healthcare provider. If you cannot wear a facemask, the people who live with you should wear one while they are in the same room with you.

Cover your coughs and sneezes

- Cover your mouth and nose with a tissue when you cough or sneeze, or you can cough or sneeze into your sleeve. Throw used tissues in a lined trash can, and immediately wash your hands with soap and water.

Wash your hands

- Wash your hands often and thoroughly with soap and water. You can use an alcohol-based hand sanitizer if soap and water are not available and if your hands are not visibly dirty. Avoid touching your eyes, nose, and mouth with unwashed hands.

Avoid sharing household items

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- You should not share dishes, drinking glasses, cups, eating utensils, towels, bedding, or other items with other people in your home. After using these items, you should wash them thoroughly with soap and water.

Monitor your symptoms

Seek prompt medical attention if your illness is worsening (e.g., difficulty breathing). Before going to your medical appointment, call the healthcare provider and tell him or her that you have, or are being evaluated for, COVID-19 infection. This will help the healthcare provider's office take steps to keep other people from getting infected. Ask your healthcare provider to call the local or state health department.

Protocols for Contract Tracing:

For all confirmed and probable cases of novel coronavirus infection, contact tracing for close contacts (see CDC's close contact definition below) is required. In addition, because COVID-19 and other novel coronaviruses are not fully understood, ASDOH may request that contact tracing activities for confirmed and probable cases include healthcare workers who were wearing recommended PPE but otherwise meet the definition of close contact.

The extent of follow-up required for close contacts of confirmed or probable cases may depend on the number of cases identified, the severity of illness or interest from public health leaders or media. Contract tracing requirements may cease in specific situations (e.g., in the case of an ongoing pandemic), as specified by ASDOH.

Contact tracing

- Contact tracing should be done for all probable and confirmed cases.
- Complete the ASDOH Respiratory Disease Contact Tracking and provide a copy to ASDOH
- Advise contacts of signs and symptoms of illness, and refer them to their healthcare providers if they experience any symptoms compatible with novel coronavirus infection within 14 days of their last contact with the confirmed or probable case.
    - Advise ill close contacts to call ahead prior to visiting their healthcare provider and inform their healthcare provider about recent contact with a confirmed or probable case.
    - Close contacts with respiratory or other compatible symptoms should be tested for novel coronavirus.
- Close contacts should be actively monitored for symptoms of novel coronavirus infection for a minimum of 14 days after last contact with the confirmed/probable case (i.e., follow-up should be performed at regular intervals).
- Collect serum specimens or other laboratory specimens on asymptomatic close contacts, when requested (See Laboratory Procedures section)
- Provide close contacts with a disease fact sheet, if available.

Close contacts definition for COVID-19:
Close contact is defined as a) being within approximately 6 feet (2 meters), or within the room or care area, of a confirmed COVID-19 case for a prolonged period of time (such as caring for, living with, visiting, or sharing a healthcare waiting area or room with, a confirmed COVID-19 case) while not wearing recommended personal protective equipment or PPE (e.g., gowns, gloves, NIOSH-certified disposable N95 respirator, eye protection); or b) having direct contact with infectious secretions of a confirmed COVID-19 case (e.g., being coughed on) while not wearing recommended personal protective equipment (i.e., gowns, gloves, respirator, eye protection).

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Data to inform the definition of close contact are limited; considerations when assessing close contact include the duration of exposure (e.g., longer exposure time likely increases exposure risk) and the clinical symptoms of the person with COVID-19 (e.g., coughing likely increases exposure risk). At this time, transient interactions, such as walking by a person with COVID-19, are not thought to constitute an exposure; however, final determination should be made in consultation with public health authorities.

Protocols to Manage Special Situations:

Clusters of Patients with Severe Acute Respiratory Illness

- Clusters of patients with severe acute respiratory illness (e.g., fever and pneumonia requiring hospitalization) without recognized links to a case of COVID-19 infection or to travelers from countries in or near the Arabian Peninsula should be evaluated for common respiratory pathogens.
- If the illnesses remain unexplained, providers should consider testing for COVID-19, in consultation with state and local health departments.
- In accordance with the World Health Organization's guidance for COVID-19, a cluster is defined as two or more persons with onset of symptoms within the same 14 days period, and who are associated with a specific setting such as a classroom, workplace, household, extended family, hospital, other residential institution, military barracks or recreational camp.
- If a cluster of patients with severe acute respiratory illness is identified, notify Command Post immediately at (684) 633-5871 or (684) 633-5872.

Multiple Cases/Outbreaks of Novel Coronavirus

If there is more than one case of novel coronavirus in a household, local area or facility, or an outbreak is suspected, notify Command Post immediately at (684) 633-5871 or (684) 633-5872.

The ASDOH EpiNet Teams will:

- Investigate common exposures among the cases and work with any identified facilities or entities.
- Recommend appropriate control measures for the specific entity or setting.
- Perform contact tracing and monitoring for close contacts of confirmed/probable cases.
- Collect specimens from close contacts, if requested.
- Encourage persons with compatible symptoms to be evaluated by a healthcare provider.
- Alert all healthcare providers in the area to be cognizant of possible cases and encourage immediate reporting of suspected cases.
- Collect and ship specimens on all suspected or probable cases to the Hawaii State Lab laboratory or another public health laboratory qualified to perform novel coronavirus testing using CDC-approved protocols for a specific novel strain.
- Enhance respiratory virus surveillance (e.g., case reporting and laboratory testing) in the facility or in a defined geographic area (depending on the specific outbreak situation)

Specimen Collection

Please see https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/COVID-19/guidelines-clinical-specimens.html for the most up-to-date guidelines.

Specimen Type and Priority

To date, little is known about pathogenic potential and transmission dynamics of COVID-19. To increase the likelihood of detecting infection, CDC recommends collecting multiple specimens from different sites at different times after symptom onset, if possible.

Points to consider when determining which specimen types to collect from a patient under investigation for COVID-19 include:

- The number of days between specimen collection and symptom onset
- Symptoms at the time of specimen collection

Additional points to consider:

- Maintain proper infection control when collecting specimens
- Use approved collection methods and equipment when collecting specimens
- Handle, store, and ship specimens following appropriate protocols

Collection of all three specimen types (not just one or two of the three)—lower respiratory, upper respiratory and serum specimens—for testing using the CDC COVID-19 rRT-PCR assay is recommended. Lower respiratory specimens are preferred, but collecting nasopharyngeal and oropharyngeal (NP/OP) specimens, and serum, is strongly recommended depending upon the length of time between symptom onset and specimen collection. Respiratory specimens should be collected as soon as possible after symptoms begin – ideally within 7 days. However, if more than a week has passed since symptom onset and the patient is still symptomatic, respiratory samples should still be collected, especially lower respiratory specimens since respiratory viruses can still be detected by rRT-PCR. For example,

- If symptom onset for a PUI with respiratory symptoms was less than 14 days ago, a single serum specimen (see Serum section, below), an NP/OP specimen, and a lower respiratory specimen (see Respiratory Specimens section, below) should be collected for CDC MERS rRT-PCR testing at an authorized state or local public health laboratory.
- If symptom onset for a PUI with an ongoing respiratory tract infection (especially a lower respiratory tract infection) was 14 or more days ago, a single serum specimen for serologic testing at CDC (see Serum section, below) in addition to a lower respiratory specimen and an NP/OP specimen (see Respiratory Specimens section, below) are recommended.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

General Guidelines

For short periods (≤ 72 hours), most specimens should be held at 2-8°C rather than frozen. For delays exceeding 72 hours, freeze specimens at -70°C as soon as possible after collection (with exceptions noted below). Label each specimen container with the patient's ID number, specimen type and the date the sample was collected.

Respiratory Specimens

A. Lower respiratory tract

Bronchoalveolar lavage, tracheal aspirate, or pleural fluid

- Collect 2-3 mL into a sterile, leak-proof, screw-cap sputum collection cup or sterile dry container.
- Refrigerate specimen at 2-8°C if the specimen will arrive at the testing laboratory within 72 hours of collection; if exceeding 72 hours, freeze at -70°C and ship on dry ice.

Sputum

- Have the patient rinse his/her mouth with water and then expectorate (deep cough) sputum directly into a sterile, leak-proof, screw-cap sputum collection cup or sterile dry container.
- Refrigerate specimen at 2-8°C if the specimen will arrive at the testing laboratory within 72 hours of collection; if exceeding 72 hours, freeze at -70°C and ship on dry ice.

B. Upper respiratory tract

Nasopharyngeal AND oropharyngeal swabs (NP/OP swabs)

- Collection of both nasopharyngeal and oropharyngeal swabs, or a combined NP/OP specimen, is recommended.
- Use only synthetic fiber swabs with plastic shafts. Do not use calcium alginate swabs or swabs with wooden shafts, as they may contain substances that inactivate some viruses and inhibit PCR testing.
- Collection technique
  - Nasopharyngeal swabs: Insert a swab into the nostril parallel to the palate. Leave the swab in place for a few seconds to absorb secretions. Swab both nasopharyngeal areas.
  - Oropharyngeal swabs: Swab the posterior pharynx, avoiding the tongue.
- Place swabs immediately into sterile tubes containing 2-3 ml of viral transport media. NP/OP specimens can be combined, placing both swabs in the same vial.
- Refrigerate specimen at 2-8°C if the specimen will arrive at the testing laboratory within 72 hours of collection; if exceeding 72 hours, freeze at -70°C and ship on dry ice.

Nasopharyngeal wash/aspirate or nasal aspirates

- Collect 2-3 mL into a sterile, leak-proof, screw-cap sputum collection cup or sterile dry container.
- Refrigerate specimen at 2-8°C if the specimen will arrive at the testing laboratory within 72 hours of collection; if exceeding 72 hours, freeze at -70°C and ship on dry ice.

C. Serum

Serum (for serologic testing at CDC) [Note: Use this serum guidance if the only serum specimen available would be collected 14 or more days after illness onset]

- Because we do not want to delay detection of COVID-19 infection and since the prevalence of COVID-19 in the US is low, serologic testing on a single serum sample collected 14 or more days after symptom onset may still be beneficial. This is in contrast to serologic testing for many other respiratory pathogens which require collection and testing of acute and convalescent serum specimens. Serologic testing is currently available at CDC upon request and approval. Please be aware that the COVID-19 serologic test is for research/surveillance purposes and not for diagnostic purposes - it is a tool developed in response to the COVID-19outbreak. Contact CDC's Emergency Operations Center (EOC) (770-488-7100) for consultation and approval if serologic testing is being considered.

☐ Serum (for rRT-PCR testing at authorized state or local public health lab) [Note: Use this serum guidance for specimens collected during the first two weeks of the patient's illness onset]

- For rRT-PCR testing (i.e., detection of the virus and not antibodies), a single serum specimen collected optimally during the first 10-12 days after symptom onset is recommended. Note: The kinetics of COVID-19 are not well understood. Once additional data become available, these recommendations will be updated as needed.
- The minimum amount of serum required for COVID-19 testing (either serologic or rRT-PCR) is 200 µL. If both COVID-19 serology and rRT-PCR tests are planned, the minimum amount of serum required is 400 µL (200 µL for each test). Serum separator tubes should be stored upright for at least 30 minutes, and then centrifuged at 1000–1300 relative centrifugal force (RCF) for 10 minutes before removing the serum and placing it in a separate sterile tube for shipping (such as a cryovial). Refrigerate the serum specimen at 2-8°C and ship on ice-pack; freezing and shipment of serum on dry ice is permissible.
- Children and adults
  - Collect 1 tube (5-10 mL) of whole blood in a serum separator tube.
- Infants
  - A minimum of 1 mL of whole blood is needed for testing pediatric patients.
  - If possible, collect 1 mL in a serum separator tube.

II. Protocols, Advisories and Guidance for Isolation and Treatment:

PURPOSE:

To prevent potential healthcare associated infection (HAI) transmission of COVID-19 to patients, staff or visitor.

Background:

Coronaviruses are common in many different species of animals, including camels and bats. Rarely, these coronaviruses can evolve and infect humans and then spread between humans.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Recent examples of this include Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome (SARS-CoV) and Middle East Respiratory Syndrome (MERS-CoV).

Most coronaviruses infect animals, but not people. In the future, one or more of these other coronaviruses could potentially evolve and spread to humans, as has happened in the past. We still don't understand why only certain coronaviruses are able to infect people. https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/index.html (Jan 26,2020)

2019 Novel Coronavirus (COVID-19) is a virus (more specifically, a coronavirus) identified as the cause of an outbreak of respiratory illness first detected in Wuhan, China. Early on, many of the patients in the outbreak in Wuhan, China reportedly had some link to a large seafood and animal market, suggesting animal-to-person spread. However, a growing number of patients reportedly have not had exposure to animal markets, indicating person-to-person spread is occurring.

At this time, it's unclear how easily or sustainably this virus is spreading between people. Chinese officials report that sustained person-to-person spread in the community is occurring in China. Person-to-person spread in the United States has not yet been detected, but it's likely to occur to some extent. Cases in healthcare settings, like hospitals, may also occur.

DEFINITIONS:

Case Definitions for COVID-19

1. Severe acute respiratory infection (SARI) in a person, with history of fever and cough requiring admission to hospital, with no other etiology that fully explains the clinical presentation (clinicians should also be alert to the possibility of atypical presentations in patients who are immunocompromised);

   AND any of the following:
   a) A history of travel to Wuhan, Hubei Province China in the 14 days prior to symptom onset; or
   b) the disease occurs in a health care worker who has been working in an environment where patients with severe acute respiratory infections are being cared for, without regard to place of residence or history of travel; or
   c) the person develops an unusual or unexpected clinical course, especially sudden deterioration despite appropriate treatment, without regard to place of residence or history of travel, even if another etiology has been identified that fully explains the clinical presentation.

2. A person with acute respiratory illness of any degree of severity who, within 14 days before onset of illness, had any of the following exposures:
   a) close physical contact[2] with a confirmed case of 2019 n-CoV infection, while that patient was symptomatic: or
   b) a healthcare facility in a country where hospital-associated 2019 n-CoV infections have been reported.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Definition of Healthcare Personnel (HCP) – For the purposes of this guidance, HCP refers to all persons, paid and unpaid, working in healthcare settings engaged in patient care activities, including: patient assessment for triage, entering examination rooms or patient rooms to provide care or clean and disinfect the environment, obtaining clinical specimens, handling soiled medical supplies or equipment, and coming in contact with potentially contaminated environmental surfaces.

Definition of PATIENT UNDER INVESTIGATION (PUI) for 2019n-CoV:

Healthcare providers should evaluate patients in the U.S. for MERS-CoV infection if they meet the following criteria, defined as a Patient Under Investigation (PUI). The below criteria serve as guidance for testing; however, patients should be evaluated and discussed with public health departments on a case-by-case basis if their clinical presentation or exposure history is equivocal (e.g., uncertain history of health care exposure).

Table 1

| Clinical Features | And | Epidemiologic Risk |
|---|---|---|
| Severe illnessFever and pneumonia or acute respiratory distress syndrome (based on clinical or radiological evidence) | and | A history of travel from affected countries within 14 days before symptom onset, or close contact with a symptomatic traveler who developed fever and acute respiratory illness (not necessarily pneumonia) within 14 days after traveling from affected countries.– or –A member of a cluster of patients with severe acute respiratory illness (e.g., fever and pneumonia requiring hospitalization) of unknown etiology. |
| Milder illnessFever and symptoms of respiratory illness (not necessarily pneumonia; e.g., cough, shortness of breath) | and | A history of being in a healthcare facility (as a patient, worker, or visitor) within 14 days before symptom onset in an affected country or territory which recent healthcare-associated cases of 2019n-CoV have been identified. |
| Fever or symptoms of respiratory illness (not necessarily pneumonia; e.g., cough, shortness of breath) | and | Close contact with a confirmed 2019n-CoV case while the case was ill. |

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Confirmed Case

A confirmed case is a person with laboratory confirmation of 2019 n-CoV infection. Confirmatory laboratory testing requires a positive PCR on at least two specific genomic targets or a single positive target with sequencing on a second.

Probable Case

A probable case is a PUI with absent or inconclusive laboratory results for 2019 n-CoV infection who is a close contact of a laboratory-confirmed 2019n-CoV case. Examples of laboratory results that may be considered inconclusive include a positive test on a single PCR target, a positive test with an assay that has limited performance data available, or a negative test on an inadequate specimen.

TRANSMISSIONS-BASED PRECAUTIONS (ISOLATION PRECAUTIONS)

PURPOSE

Transmission-Based Precautions are to be used in addition to Standard Precautions for patients with documented or suspected infection or colonization with highly transmissible or epidemiologically important pathogens for which additional precautions are needed to prevent transmission.

DEFINITIONS

- The term Airborne Precautions has been supplemented with the term Airborne Infection Isolation Room (AIIR) for consistency with the Guidelines for Environmental Infection Control in Healthcare Facilities, the Guidelines for Preventing the Transmission of Mycobacterium tuberculosis in Health-Care Settings 2005 and the Facility Guidelines Institute Guidelines for Design and Construction of Hospitals.
- Respirator protection protects staff from hazardous or infectious aerosols, such as Mycobacterium tuberculosis. These devices have a sub-micron filter capable of excluding particles that are less than five (5) microns in diameter. Prior to using a respirator, staff must be fit tested for the appropriate size and fit and be in-service on the correct use of the respirator. Staff are responsible for fit checking the respirator before each use. Commonly used respirators in the healthcare setting are:
  - N95 Particulate Respirator
  - N99 Particulate Respirator
  - N100 Particulate Respirator
- Transmission-Based Precautions shall be used in addition to Standard Precautions to prevent the spread of infection throughout the hospital.
- Transmission-Based Precautions include:
  - Contact Precautions
  - Droplet Precautions
  - Airborne Precautions/Airborne Infection Isolation Room (AIIR)

CONTACT PRECAUTIONS

- Contact Precautions shall be used for patients with known or suspected infections or evidence of syndromes that represent an increased risk for contact transmission. See also CDC pathogen-specific recommendations.
- Discontinue Contact Precautions after signs and symptoms of the infection have resolved or according to CDC pathogen-specific recommendations.
  - Patient Placement:
    - Patients who require Contact Precautions shall be placed in a single-patient room when available.
    - When single-patient rooms are in short supply, apply the following principles for making decisions on patient placement shall be used:
    - Patients with conditions that may facilitate transmission (i.e., uncontained drainage, stool incontinence) shall be prioritized for single-patient room placement.
    - Patients who are infected or colonized with the same pathogen and are suitable roommates shall be placed together (cohorted).

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- If it becomes necessary to place a patient who requires Contact Precautions in a room with a patient who is not infected or colonized with the same infectious agent, the following principles shall be followed:
- Avoid placing patients on Contact Precautions in the same room with patients who have conditions that may increase the risk of adverse outcome from infection or that may facilitate transmission (i.e., those who are immunocompromised, have open wounds, or have anticipated prolonged lengths of stay).
- Ensure that patients are physically separated (i.e., greater than three [3] feet apart) from each other. Draw the privacy curtain between beds to minimize opportunities for direct contact.
- Change protective attire and perform hand hygiene between contact with patients in the same room, regardless of whether one or both patients are on Contact Precautions.

- Personal Protective Equipment:
  - Gloves shall be worn whenever touching the patient's intact skin or surfaces and articles in close proximity to the patient (i.e., medical equipment, bed rails). Gloves shall be donned upon entry into the patient's room or cubicle.
  - Gowns shall be worn whenever it is anticipated that clothing will have direct contact with the patient, or potentially contaminated environmental surfaces or equipment in close proximity to the patient. Gown shall be donned upon entry into the room or cubicle. Gown shall be removed, and hand hygiene performed before leaving the patient-care environment.
  - Note: After gown removal, ensure that clothing and skin do not contact potentially contaminated environmental surfaces that could result in possible transfer of microorganism to other patients or environmental surfaces.
- Patient Transport:
  - Patient transport shall be limited to the movement of patients outside of the room for medically necessary purposes.
  - When transport or movement is necessary, the infected or colonized areas of the patient's body shall be contained and covered.
  - Any contaminated PPE shall be removed and disposed, and hand hygiene shall be performed prior to transporting patients on Contact Precautions.
  - Clean PPE shall be donned to handle the patient at the transport destination.
- Patient-Care Equipment and Instruments/Devices:
  - Handle patient-care equipment and instruments/devices according to Standard Precautions.
  - Disposable non-critical patient-care equipment (i.e., blood pressure cuffs) or patient-dedicated equipment shall be used whenever possible for patients on Contact Precautions. If common use of equipment for multiple patients is unavoidable, equipment shall be cleaned and disinfected prior to use on another patient.
- Environmental Measures:
  - Rooms for patients on Contact Precautions shall be prioritized for frequent cleaning and disinfection (i.e., at least daily), with a focus on frequently-touched surfaces (i.e., bed rails, overbed table, bedside commode, lavatory surfaces in patient bathrooms, doorknobs) and equipment in the immediate vicinity of the patient.

DROPLET PRECAUTIONS

- Droplet Precautions shall be used in accordance with CDC Recommendations for patients known or suspected to be infected with pathogens transmitted by respiratory droplets (i.e., large-particle droplets greater than 5μ in size) that are generated by a patient who is coughing, sneezing or talking.
- Droplet Precautions shall be discontinued after signs and symptoms have resolved or according to CDC pathogen-specific recommendations.

Patient Placement:

- Patients who require Droplet Precautions shall be placed in a single-patient room when available.
- When single-patient rooms are in short supply, the following principles for making decisions on patient placement shall be used:
  - a. Prioritize patients who have excessive cough and sputum production for single-patient room placement
  - b. Place together in the same room (cohort) patients who are infected with the same pathogen and are suitable roommates
  - c. If it becomes necessary to place patients who require Droplet Precautions in a room with a patient who does not have the same infection:
    - Avoid placing patients on Droplet Precautions in the same room with patients who have conditions that may increase the risk of adverse outcome from infection or that may facilitate transmission (i.e., those who are immunocompromised, have or have anticipated prolonged lengths of stay).
    - Ensure that patients are physically separated (i.e., greater than three [3] feet apart) from each other. Draw the privacy curtain between beds to minimize opportunities for close contact.
    - Change protective attire and perform hand hygiene between contact with patients in the same room, regardless of whether one patient or both patients are on Droplet Precautions.

Personal Protective Equipment:

- A face mask shall be donned upon entry into the patient room or cubicle.
- For patients with suspected or proven SARS, avian influenza or pandemic influenza, refer to the CDC website for the most current recommendations.

Patient Transport:

- Patient transport shall be limited to transport and movement of patients outside of the room for medically necessary purposes only.
- If transport or movement in any healthcare setting is necessary, the patient shall be instructed to wear a face mask and follow Respiratory Hygiene/Cough Etiquette.
- Note: No mask is required for persons transporting patients on Droplet Precautions.

AIRBORNE PRECAUTIONS

- Airborne Precautions shall be used in accordance with CDC recommendations for patients known or suspected to be infected with infectious agents transmitted person-to-person by the airborne route (i.e., M tuberculosis, measles, chickenpox, disseminated herpes zoster).
- Airborne Precautions shall be discontinued according to CDC pathogen-specific recommendations.

Patient Placement:

- In the event of an outbreak or exposure involving large numbers of patients who require Airborne Precautions, the following should be considered:
  - The Infection Preventionist shall be consulted at 633-1222 Ext. 369 before patient placement to determine the safety of alternative room that do not meet engineering requirements for an AIIR.
  - Cohort patients who are presumed to have the same infection (based on clinical presentation and diagnosis when known) in areas of the facility that are away from other patients, especially patients who are at increased risk for infection (i.e., immunocompromised patients).
  - Use temporary portable solutions (i.e., exhaust fan) to create a negative pressure environment in the converted area of the facility. Air shall be directly discharged to the outside, away from people and air intakes, or direct all the air through HEPA filters before it is introduced to other air spaces.

Staff Restrictions:

- Susceptible healthcare staff shall be restricted from entering the rooms of patients known or suspected to have measles (rubeola), varicella (chickenpox), disseminated zoster or smallpox, if other immune healthcare staff are available.

Use of PPE:

- A fit-tested NIOSH-approved N95 or higher-level respirator shall be worn for respiratory protection when entering the room of a patient when the following diseases are suspected or confirmed:
  - Infectious pulmonary or laryngeal tuberculosis, or when infectious tuberculosis skin lesions are present, and procedures that would aerosolize viable organisms (i.e., irrigation, incision and drainage, whirlpool treatments) are performed
  - Smallpox (vaccinated and unvaccinated)
  - Respiratory protection is recommended for all healthcare staff, including those with a documented "take" after smallpox vaccination, due to the risk of a genetically engineered virus against which the vaccine may not provide protection, or of exposure to a very large viral load (i.e., from high-risk aerosol-generating procedures, immunocompromised patients, hemorrhagic or flat smallpox.

Patient Transport:

- Patients on Airborne Precautions shall only be transported for medically necessary purposes only.
- When transport or movement outside an AIIR is necessary, patients shall be instructed to wear a surgical mask, if possible, and observe Respiratory Hygiene/Cough Etiquette.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- For patients with skin lesions associated with varicella or smallpox, or draining skin lesions caused by M. tuberculosis, the affected area shall be covered to prevent aerosolization or contact with the infectious agent in skin lesions.
- Note: Healthcare staff transporting patients who are on Airborne Precautions do not need to wear a mask or respirator during transport if the patient is wearing a mask and infectious skin lesions are covered.

Exposure Management:

- Susceptible persons shall be offered immunization or provided with the appropriate immune globulin as soon as possible following unprotected contact (i.e., exposed) to a patient with measles, varicella or smallpox.
- Administration of measles vaccine (at any interval following exposure) or immune globulin (within six [6] days of exposure, particularly contacts less than or equal to six [6] months of age, pregnant women, and immunocompromised people, for whom the risk of complications is highest) to susceptible contacts.
- Varicella vaccine should be administered to exposed susceptible persons within 120 hours after the exposure, or administer varicella immune globulin (VZIG or alternative product), when available, within 96 hours for high-risk persons in whom vaccine is contraindicated (i.e., immunocompromised patients, pregnant women, newborns whose mother's varicella onset was less than five [5] days before or within 48 hours after delivery).
- Smallpox vaccine should be administered to exposed susceptible persons within four (4) days after exposure.

PATIENT MOVEMENT IN ISOLATION AREA

- Patient movement and transport outside the isolation area shall be limited to medically necessary purposes.
- Dedicated portable x-ray equipment shall be available in areas designated for cohorting influenza patients.
- If transport or movement is necessary, ensure that the patient wears a surgical or procedure mask.
    - If a mask cannot be tolerated (i.e., due to the patient's age or deteriorating respiratory status), apply the most practical measures to contain respiratory secretions.
- Patients should perform hand hygiene before leaving the room.
- Alternate routes for persons with possible influenza infection and those who have no symptoms of influenza shall be considered in areas where patient transport is common.
- If there is patient contact with surfaces, these surfaces shall be cleaned and disinfected.

CONTROL MEASURES IN OUTPATIENT CLINICS

Patients with nonemergency symptoms of an influenza-like illness may seek care from their medical provider. Implementation of infection prevention and control measures when these patients present for care will help prevent exposure among other patients and clinical and non-clinical office staff.

Outpatient Clinics:

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Staff shall post visual alerts (in appropriate languages) at the entrance to outpatient offices instructing persons with respiratory symptoms (i.e., patients, persons who accompany them) to:

- Inform reception and staff when they first register for care
- Practice respiratory hygiene/cough etiquette
- Triage patients calling for medical appointments for influenza symptoms:
  - Discourage unnecessary visits to medical facilities
  - Instruct symptomatic patients on infection prevention and control measures to limit transmission in the home and when traveling to necessary medical appointments
  - Symptomatic patients shall be referred to Medical Triage Tent/ER and appointment rescheduled soon as possible to limit their time in common waiting areas.

Staff shall post signs that promote cough etiquette in common areas (i.e. waiting areas, cafeterias, lavatories) where they can serve as reminders to all persons in the healthcare facility.

Signs shall instruct persons to:

- Cover the nose/mouth with tissue or arm when coughing or sneezing
- Dispose of tissues in the nearest waste receptacle after use
- Perform hand hygiene after contact with respiratory secretions

Outpatient offices shall facilitate adherence to respiratory hygiene/cough etiquette and ensure the availability of materials in waiting areas for patients and visitors.

- Provide tissues and no-touch receptacles (i.e., waste containers with pedal-operated lid or uncovered waste container) for used tissue disposal
- Provide conveniently located dispensers of alcohol-based hand rub
- Provide soap and disposable towels for hand washing where sinks are available
- Promote the use of procedure or surgical masks and spatial separation by persons with symptoms of influenza
- Offer and encourage the use of either procedure masks (i.e., with ear loops) or surgical masks (i.e., with ties or elastic) by symptomatic persons to limit dispersal of respiratory droplets.
- Encourage coughing persons to sit at least three (3) feet away from other persons in common waiting areas
- If possible, screen patients for influenza-like illness by phone or before coming into the facility and rescheduling appointments for those whose care is nonemergency

Canceling all nonemergency services when there is pandemic influenza in the community.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

EMERGENCY MEDICAL SERVICES INFECTIOUS TRANSPORT

Call Taking

- Appropriate information from the caller and dispatcher; appropriate protocols for response, clinical care, application of administrative and environmental controls and use of personal protective equipment (PPE) by responding EMS personnel; and transport to the hospital can provide effective evaluation and treatment of the suspected condition.
- Screening for suspected highly infectious pathogens often involves questioning patients about recent travel to endemic areas and presenting signs and symptoms.
- Travel history and/or direct exposure to potential case within the number of days of the incubation period for the illness of interest.
- Specific signs and symptoms of illness
- Consult with Department of Health Epidemiologist and LBJTMC Infection Preventionist to identify required modifications to processes and protocols to ensure consistency with CDC guidance.

Response

- Regardless of dispatch information, EMS personnel should be vigilant for travel history and signs and symptoms of communicable disease (e.g., fever, cough, shortness of breath) and use standard precautions and add appropriate transmission-based infection control precautions whenever history or exam findings warrant.
- Implement strict standard and transmission-based precautions based on the patient's clinical information to avoid exposure to potentially infectious bodily fluids, droplets, and airborne particles.
- Identify patients who may be infected with a serious communicable disease by verbal screening and symptoms and recognize the potential hazards.
- Avoid direct contact with a patient who may have a serious communicable disease until you are wearing appropriate PPE.
    - Maintaining a distance of at least six feet may provide protection from transmission of many diseases.
    - Understand and practice with PPE so that you can rapidly and safely don and carefully doff the equipment without cross-contamination.
- Patients or their caregivers may find responders wearing high levels of PPE. Communicating with and calming anxious patients may be more challenging due to PPE as well. Responders should be mindful of this and be prepared to reassure patients and to address their distress and fear.
- Limit the number of EMS providers making contact with a potentially infectious patient to the minimum required to perform tasks safely.
- Hand hygiene (e.g., handwashing with non-antimicrobial soap and water, alcohol-based hand rub, or antiseptic hand wash) is one of the best ways to remove germs, avoid getting sick, and prevent the spread of germs to others.
- Place a surgical mask on a patient with likely infectious cough to significantly limit droplet generation.
    - Patients should cover their nose and mouth when coughing or sneezing; use tissues to contain respiratory secretions and, after use, dispose them in the nearest waste receptacle; and perform hand hygiene after having contact with respiratory secretions and contaminated objects or materials.

  - Apply PPE appropriate for the patient's condition prior to making direct patient contact.
- Patients with respiratory illnesses
  - Interview conducted at least 6 feet away from the patient may provide some protection from infectious droplets.
  - Ask any patient with respiratory symptoms to wear a surgical mask if they can tolerate it.
- Keep nonessential equipment away from the patient, so as minimize contamination on the scene and in the ambulance.
- Infection control practices can evolve with novel agents or during infectious disease outbreaks or epidemics.

Personal Protective Equipment

- Disposable exam gloves – standard gloves for standard precautions
- Disposable exam gloves – with elongated cuffs for use with barrier gowns/suits
- Cleanable goggles OR face shield
- Surgical masks for patients and providers
- Disposable fluid-resistant gown OR disposable fluid-resistant coverall
- Disposable National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH)-approved, fit-tested N95 or equivalent/higher level respirator (e.g., reusable half-face elastomeric respirator N95 or higher rating mask or PAPR with full hood and HEPA filter)
- Disposable boot/shoe covers
- Full face shield (plus consider head cover)
- Boots (disposable or reusable)
- Fluid-resistant coverall – if service uses gowns for other contact exposures
- Disposable, impermeable apron in addition to fluid-resistant coverall for unstable patients

EMERGENCY MEDICAL SERVICES SANITIZING VEHICLES

During an influenza pandemic, LBJTMC shall ensure that all emergency transport vehicles shall be cleaned and maintained in accordance with Centers for Disease Control and Prevention's (CDC) guidelines.

Procedure:

- LBJTMC shall coordinate with the CDC's Health Alert Network, Public Health Information Network (PHIN) and/or Public Health Information Rapid Exchange (PHIRE), and local agencies to ensure the organization has the most recent information on the pandemic situation, and rapidly and properly disseminates up-to-date clinical standards, treatment protocols and just-in-time training to the EMS coordinator.
- Any interim CDC guidance related to a pandemic shall be incorporated into the organization's infection prevention and control plan which, at a minimum, shall include the consistent practice of basic infection prevention and control procedures, including:

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Vehicle/equipment decontamination
- Hand hygiene
- Cough and respiratory hygiene
- Proper use of Food and Drug Administration (FDA)-regulated medical personal protective equipment (PPE) regardless of the likelihood of an influenza pandemic

- Routine cleaning methods for emergency transport vehicles shall be employed throughout each vehicle with special attention to the following:
  - Clean and disinfect non-patient care areas of the vehicle according to the vehicle manufacturer's recommendations.
  - Non-patient care areas of the vehicle, such as the driver's compartment, may become indirectly contaminated, such as by touching the steering wheel with a contaminated glove. Staff shall be particularly vigilant to avoid contaminating environmental surfaces that are not directly related to patient care (i.e., steering wheels, light switches).
  - Nonsterile, disposable gloves that are recommended by the manufacturer of the detergent/disinfectant shall be worn while cleaning the patient care compartment and when handling cleaning and disinfecting solutions.
  - Gloves shall be disposed of in a sturdy leak proof (i.e., plastic) bag that is tied shut and not reopened if gloves become damaged or soiled or when cleaning is completed,
  - Frequently touched surfaces in patient care compartments (including stretchers, railings, medical equipment control panels, adjacent flooring, walls, ceilings and work surfaces, door handles, radios, keyboards and cell phones) that become directly contaminated with respiratory secretions and other bodily fluids during patient care, or indirectly by touching the surfaces with gloved hands, shall be cleaned first with detergent and water, and then disinfected using an EPA-registered hospital disinfectant in accordance with the manufacturer's instructions.
    - All safety precautions or other recommendations issued by the manufacturer shall be followed (i.e., allowing adequate ventilation in confined areas, proper disposal of unused product or used containers).
  - Non-porous surfaces in patient care compartments that are not frequently touched shall be cleaned with detergent and water. Large-surface cleaning methods that produce mists or aerosols or disperse dust in patient care areas (i.e., use wet dusting techniques, wipe application of cleaning and/or disinfectant solutions) shall be avoided.
  - Any small spills of bodily fluids (i.e., vomit from an ill patient) shall be cleaned first with detergent and water, followed by disinfection using an EPA-registered hospital disinfectant from EPA List D or E in accordance with the manufacturer's use instructions and safety precautions.
  - Large spills of bodily fluids (i.e., vomit) shall be managed by removing visible organic matter with absorbent material (i.e., disposable paper towels discarded into a leak-proof properly labeled container). The spill shall then be cleaned and disinfected as above.

- Contaminated reusable patient care devices and equipment shall be placed in biohazard bags clearly marked for cleaning and disinfection or sterilization as appropriate.
- Reusable devices and equipment shall be clean and disinfected or sterilized according to the manufacturer's recommendations.
- After cleaning, remove and dispose of gloves as instructed in a leak-proof bag or waste container.
- Immediately clean hands with soap and water or an alcohol-based hand gel. Avoid touching the face with gloved or unwashed hands.[1]

III. Travel Advisories and Guidance:

Information for Travelers

General prevention measures for all travelers:

- Wash your hands often with soap and water. If soap and water are not available, use an alcohol-based hand sanitizer.
- Avoid touching your eyes, nose, and mouth. Germs spread this way.
- Avoid close contact with sick people.
- Be sure you are up to date with all of your shots, and if possible, see your health care provider at least 4–6 weeks before travel to get any additional shots.
- Visit CDC's Travelers' Health website (http://wwwnc.cdc.gov/travel/) for more information on healthy travel.
- CDC does not recommend that travelers change their plans because of COVID-19. Most instances of person-to-person spread have occurred in health care workers and other close contacts (such as family members and caregivers) of people sick with COVID-19. If you are concerned about COVID-19, you should discuss your travel plans with your doctor.

Travelers who are ill:

- Cover your mouth with a tissue when you cough or sneeze, and throw the tissue in the trash.

- Avoid contact with other people to keep from infecting them. This might mean delaying your travel until you are well.

- Call a doctor if you develop a fever and symptoms of lower respiratory illness, such as cough or shortness of breath, within 14 days after traveling from countries with known COVID-19 transmission l the doctor about your recent travel before you go in for an appointment.

- Tell people who have been in close contact with you to monitor their health for 14 days after the last time they were around you.

    - They should call a doctor and tell them about your illness and travel history and their current symptoms.

- If you get sick while you are traveling, see "Getting Health Care Abroad" (http://wwwnc.cdc.gov/travel/page/getting-health-care-abroad) for information about how to locate medical services overseas.

IV. Advisory and Guidance for Schools and Daycare Centers

School/Daycare Exclusion Criteria

Policy:

Children with a fever from any infectious disease cause should be excluded from school and daycare for at least 24 hours after fever subsides without the use of fever-suppressing medications. It is recommended that adults not return to work for at least 24 hours after fever has subsided without the use of fever suppressing medications. Do not exclude close contacts from daily activities such as work or school as long as they have no other reasons for exclusion. In the event of a pandemic the exclusion period may be extended.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

V. HUMAN RESOURCES EMPLOYMENT ADVISORIES AND GUIDANCE

This memorandum and outlined protocols provide additional guidance for the American Samoa Government Workforce on how to respond to the impacts of Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19).

The Department of Health continues to remind the general public that immediate health risk from COVID-19 is considered low. However, it remains critically important that we continue to strengthen our efforts to protect the health and welfare of our employees by ensuring the continuity of operations or Territorial Emergency Response Plan (TEOP) are updated to minimize any disruption in services to the people of American Samoa. In general, it is important to make sure your employees have a clear understanding of their work priorities, a responsibility that Agency Heads and managers can take ownership. Set clear expectations on establishing work hours and task prioritization. Empower team leaders to create management by objectives and deliverables for employees to ensure projects are progressing at no expense to quality production.

Flex accommodation will be unique from one organization to another, but organizations must create policies that are effective to their teams. Therefore, the Department of Human Resources (DHR) is providing the following guidance on COVID-19 to supplement public awareness campaign and brochures currently in mass distribution by the Department of Public Health.

This information may also be accessed on our agency website at www.americansamoa.gov

The protocols highlighted on this memorandum reflect the various inquiries DHR has received from agencies and employees regarding COVID-19 and human resources policies. The topics discussed include:

- Call-In Procedures;
- Annual Leave;
- Sick Leave;
- Flex-Scheduling;

Agencies are strongly encouraged to review and update their employees (call-sheet) and emergency contact information, as needed.

Relative to our educational awareness campaign and prevention measures, the DHR strongly encourages Directors and Agency Heads to enforce these added caveats as per ASAC §4.505(2), which states that, "Each department is responsible for administering the annual leave system for their employees and must issue instructions concerning the granting of annual and sick leave."

If an employee with suspected symptoms of COVID-19 as published by the Department of Health's Response Manual should adhere to the following guidance:

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Call-In Procedures: (Annual & Sick Leave/Absence Notification)

An employee must notify your supervisor or the Office of the Director for each sick time or absence from work before the start of the business day at 7:30 a.m. The notification must be received at least fifteen (15) minutes before the start of work with a grace period of fifteen (15) minutes past 7:30 a.m. to be considered proper notification.

When providing notification of being sick, an employee must state the reason why they will be absent, whether it is COVID-19 related or instructed by a medical provider to be self-quarantined. While the granting of leave is permitted given all subsections of ASAC §4.0506 are met, it is mandatory that the employee furnish documentary evidence in the form of a medical certificate for periods in excess of 3 consecutive days. However, management may require that the employee furnish such certificate for sick leave involving "any" length of time.

If all sick leave is exhausted, the Agency may charge towards Annual or Compensatory Time.

Flex-Scheduling:

The Department of Human Resources is committed to helping and assist employees with work flexibilities given our prevention efforts to combat COVID-19. Flex-Scheduling for employees will be reviewed on a case-by-case basis in situations where self-quarantine or as a caretaker for qualified family members who are classified as suspected, probable, or confirmed with COVID-19 may be granted Flex-Scheduling to accommodate and accomplish both work and personal goals to provide increased productivity at no expense to quality output.

Flexible work arrangements are not appropriate for all employees or positions. The following conditions are also considered for flex-scheduling to be approved: The employee must have a satisfactory history of attendance, meet all performance expectations of his or her current position, and consistently demonstrated the ability to complete tasks and assignments on a timely basis. The nature of the employee's work and responsibilities must be conducive to a flexible work arrangement without causing significant disruption to performance and/or service delivery.

All flex-scheduling and potential work arrangements must be approved with concurrence of the Department of Human Resources prior to announcement or implementation.

For additional information or support, please contact our office at 633-4485. Thank you.

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ):

1. Generally, how should agencies manage incidences of quarantinable communicable disease, such as COVID-19?

    a. The constitution of Flex Scheduling for qualified employees promotes "social distancing" and an alternative to sick and annual leave for exposure to quarantinable communicable disease for an employee who is asymptomatic or caring for a qualified immediate family member who is asymptomatic. Agencies should have mechanisms in place to monitor and track flexible work arrangements in the event of emergency situations.

2. Like the Measles epidemic in November 2019, where schools and day care centers were suspended, is it permissible for Flex-Scheduling to perform work from home with a child in the home?

    a. A department or agency that has a general bar on Flex-Scheduling when there are young children requiring care and supervision as a special exception, such as the COVID-19, would be expected to account for work and non-work hours during the approved period of flex accommodation to take appropriate leave (AL/LWOP) to account for the time spent away from normal work related duties (i.e. to care for child or small children).

3. If an employee runs out of sick leave, can the agency grant advanced sick leave to an employee who is ill (symptomatic) due to COVID-19, or must care for a family member who is ill?

    a. No. Advanced sick leave is not an employee entitlement and may only granted with the approval of the Governor.

4. If an employee is healthy but stays home because his or her asymptomatic family member has been quarantined due to exposure to COVID-19, in what pay/leave status is the employee placed?

    a. Currently, an employee may use annual, sick, or compensatory time off to care for a family member who is healthy but has been quarantined due to COVID-19.

5. If the Governor declares COVID-19 to be a pandemic, can an agency order one or more employees to evacuate their offices to work from home?

    a. It depends. However, it is highly encouraged that Departments and Agencies review their concept of operations to be able to sustain minimal functions on a "skeletal staffing" matrix, either with employees who have been approved for Flex-Scheduling or a team of employees with critical functions to remain unless otherwise instructed by the Office of the Governor.

VI. ADVISORIES & GUIDANCE FOR SENIOR CITIZENS

The Territory Administration on Agency will use the advisories and guidance provided in the health hygiene protocols to prepare presentations, flyers, and brochures for distribution to the Senior Citizen population of American Samoa who are deemed to be most vulnerable to the coronavirus.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The Territorial Administration on Aging will closely collaborate with the Department of Health and the LBJ Tropical Medical Center in educating and making the seniors fully aware of the best hygiene practices which they must practice each day.

TAOA - Fact Sheet

What do Older Adults and People with Disabilities Need to Know?

- Early data suggest older people are twice as likely to have serious COVID-19 illness.
- This may be because immune systems change with age, making it harder to fight off diseases and infection.
- Older adults also are more likely to have underlying health conditions that make it harder to cope with and recover from illness.

In addition, people of all ages, with or without disabilities, seem to be at higher risk for getting very sick from COVID-19 if they have serious chronic medical conditions like heart, lung or kidney disease.

Reducing exposure is especially important for people at higher risk of complications!

If you are at higher risk, Am. Samoa Department of Health recommends that you:

- Stay at home as much as possible if COVID-19 is spreading in your community.
- Make sure you have access to several weeks of medications and supplies in case you need to stay home for prolonged periods of time. CDC has great resources to help you plan.

Everyday actions to prevent illness

Everyone, regardless of age or disability, should follow ASDOH's recommendations to help prevent the spread of all respiratory diseases, including colds and flu and COVID-19. For example:

- Avoid close contact with people who are sick.
- Avoid touching your eyes, nose, and mouth.
- Stay home when you are sick.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Watch for symptoms and emergency warning signs

- COVID-19 symptoms include fever, cough, and shortness of breath. If you feel like you are developing symptoms, call DOH Command Post at 633-5871/5872.
- If you develop emergency warning signs for COVID-19 get medical attention immediately. These include:
  - Difficulty breathing or shortness of breath
  - Persistent pain or pressure in the chest
  - New confusion or inability to arouse
  - Bluish lips or face
  - This list is not all inclusive. Consult your medical provider for any other symptom that is severe or concerning.

Follow DOH & LBJ guidance:

Decisions about community measures will be made by ASDOH Health Officials, in consultation with federal officials as appropriate, based on the scope of the outbreak and the severity of illness. It's important for older adults and people with disabilities, as well as families and the organizations in the aging and disability networks who support them, to pay close attention to information and instructions published by ASDOH.

VII. DIAL-A-RIDE GUIDANCE AND ADVISORIES

The Dial-A-Ride project administered by the Department of Public Works offers transportation to seniors, physically challenged, and other special population of American Samoa. It is current estimated that 1,400 weekly rides are accommodated by this program. The risk is high for propagation of the coronavirus thus health protocols will be adopted to abate the risk of spreading the coronavirus. Appropriate policy is being developed along with protocols for disclosure and incorporated in this document soon.

VIII. PUBLIC AWARENESS AND EDUCATION CAMPAIGN

The Department of Health is spearheading the Public Awareness and Education Campaign aimed to inundated the community with information on the coronavirus so they take ownership of self-responsibility to protect themselves from being infected by the coronavirus together with knowing what to do if they suspect that they might be infected.

- Brochures have been developed both in the Samoan and English Languages for immediate distribution.
- Television forums will be conducted by health professionals to ensure that the information delivered to the public is accurate and easy to understand.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Radio programs will also be conducted to deliver the same message to the community and will be conducted by the health professionals as well.
- The Department of Health is deploying its comprehensive community campaign wherein all villages are visited by the Department of Health Team to get the word out on the coronavirus.
- The Local Government infrastructure is being compelled to work with the Department of Health and the LBJ Tropical Medical Center to get the message out to the villages to report individuals with possible coronavirus symptoms so appropriate response is activated.
- The Office of Public Information is charge to provide every assistance possible to facilitate implementation of the Community Awareness and Education Program.

IX. FINANCIAL PROPOSAL

General Healthcare Capacities:

The operating capacities of our only acute care facility and our Department of Health are stretched thinly thus precluding launching an effective, aggressive, efficacious, and campaign to combat the spread of the Coronavirus. Our fight relative to containing the spread of the Measles virus is winding down but the financial impact on our financial resources was overwhelming which exacerbated the efforts to respond to this more deadly virus.

The Department of the Interior executed the Congressional Mandate calling for the assessment of the Territory of American Samoa's healthcare system particularly the LBJ Tropical Medicals Center. The assessment was conducted by United States Army Corp of Engineers. The assessment was comprehensive and it identified all of the deficiencies attributed to antiquated physical facilities which we are aggressively attempting to upgrade. We are grateful to you and the Department for continuing provide funds to finance this facility improvement program. The health treatment demands for the Coronavirus find us scrambling to secure space to isolate infected away from the general patient population. Funds are being spent right now with the hope of reimbursement to create an isolation ward to safely treat coronavirus patients. These costs are reflected in our funding request.

Bases for Financial Plan Development:

The healthcare service delivery challenges are clearly document in the earlier sections of this Response & Action Plan. Specifically, testing kits, protective gear, masks, equipment, gowns, medical supplies, and physical facilities are need to quarantine and isolate suspected cases.

The remote geographic location of American Samoa elevates the level of the cost of planned tasks and activities to implement the protocols, advisories, and guidance articulated in this Response & Action Plan. Transporting supplies is a constant challenge, and disruption of service will effectively create a true health crisis for American Samoa. There is already a noticeable shortage in goods because the vessels are being impacted by the Coronavirus.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The economy is also feeling the adverse impact of the coronavirus which is also negatively affecting the American Samoa Government's revenue posture disabling it from financing all of the planned expenditures connected with combating and mitigating the effects of the Coronavirus.

X. ECONOMIC IMPACT OF MEASLES & CORONAVIRUS OUTBREAK

Since the Governor of American Samoa first issued a declaration of public health emergency on November 13, 2019, the territorial government has spent approximately $1.6 Million on containment and preventative measures. Additionally, the amendment to the public health emergency that was issued on December 8, 2019 initiated a full closure of schools and daycares and set in place restrictions on public gatherings that lasted until December 16th, 2019. Additional amendments were subsequently issued by the Governor's office in response to the developing, global novel coronavirus (COVID-19) outbreak, which was followed by several additional travel restrictions. A decrease in economic activity followed the December 8th amendment that directly impacted hundreds of private sector businesses and thousands of workers.

The following graph details the breakdown of the direct costs incurred by the American Samoa Government (ASG) during the efforts to contain the measles outbreak and total anticipated expenditures on the containment of COVID-19. Initial costs began to accumulate after the initial declaration of public health emergency on November 13, 2019. Since that time, 443 ASG employees worked nearly 40,000 regular work hours and more than 150,000 overtime hours on Measles containment and several thousand additional hours are expected to be devoted to the COVID-19 containment efforts. Total labor costs that attributed to the outbreaks are estimated to be $1,530,326.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The largest Measles containment expenditure was the purchase of MMR vaccination vials. The total number of individuals requiring this vaccination was estimated to be 15,841. Although the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) provided the American Samoa Department of Health (DOH) with 7,000 infant and toddler doses, another 8,841 doses were necessary to inoculate the remaining individuals. The cost of procuring these MMR vials from a private vendor was estimated to be $744,604, with another $46,320 expensed on the procurement of related medical supplies. When additional medical supplies required to combat COVID-19 is factored in, total supply expenditures are anticipated to be $7,836,933. Logistics costs, which included fuel, transportation, public service marketing, and miscellaneous goods and services that are necessary during the containment and disease management efforts, were valued at $5,289,989.

Total estimated containment costs to ASG were $15,042,755. When the value of the MMR vials that were provided by the CDC are included, the total cost of containment increases to $15,389,465, which is roughly equal to 2.4% of American Samoa's 2018 nominal gross domestic product.

The impact to the local economy goes beyond the cost of containment and the preventative costs. These impacts include the effects that school and daycare closures, public gathering restrictions, and travel limitations have had on private businesses and employees. 11,400 pre-school and elementary school aged children and 164 private school staff missed 10 school days during the closure, while 900 children that regularly attend day care and 215 workers missed 22 days or more during the measles-related closures, resulting in an estimated income loss of $321,000 for staff and faculty.

Roughly 85% of parents surveyed suggested that at least one gainfully employed adult in the household would be required to take time off from work to care for children during the mandatory school and day care closures. When the average hourly wage and average number of school age children per household are considered, the time taken off of work by parents resulted in an estimated $2.8 Million in foregone regular wages and income in late 2019 and early 2020. This loss of income is expected to drive the average annual in American Samoa down by $87.11 in 2020. Any additional school and daycare closures that may result from COVID-19 would be expected to have a proportional impact.

Additionally, seven passenger leisure cruise ships that were scheduled to visit Pago Pago between December 2019 and March 2020 have cancelled their excursions to the territory as a direct result of the outbreaks. The number of passengers and disembarking crew from these cruise ships is estimated to be nearly 14,000. The loss of these cruise ship passengers and crew is anticipated to have led to $1.5 million in foregone durable, nondurable, and service consumption by cruise ship visitors to the territory. Similarly, an outbreak-related decrease in air visitors to American Samoa is estimated to lead to $2.0 million in foregone durable, nondurable, and service consumption by air visitors in 2020.

In analyzing the impacts of the Measles and COVID-19 outbreaks on territorial gross domestic product (GDP), the revenue and income loses outlined above are partially offset by higher territorial government spending. Specifically, outbreak-related expenditures by the territorial government may be as much as $14.7 million higher in 2020 than expected if the outbreaks had not occurred, while consumer and business spending on goods and services and net exports, combined, are predicted to be approximately $19.7 million lower. As such, 2020 nominal GDP is estimated to be $5.0 million (0.8%) lower in this scenario. Adjusted for inflation, GDP is forecast to be $3.6 million (-0.6%) lower in 2020.

Additional details of the assessed impacts of the 2019-20 Measles and COVID-19 outbreaks on the economy of American Samoa can be found in the following tables.

Economic Policy Recommendations:

1. Establish a workgroup to assess detailed impacts to businesses by industry.
    a. This would be a collaboration between the Department of Commerce, private sector partners, and other key stakeholders.

2. Establish a separate workgroup to make recommendations/update State of Emergency Powers/Provisions (i.e. Procurement process being streamlined during state of emergency) to include other business/employment sector-facing provisions that help sustain business, build reserves, and support employment. This could include the reduction of excise tax on essential perishable food items; excise tax reduction on supplies and materials used to produce food items (i.e. bottles for locally produced bottled water), etc.; provisions to allow for (government) workers to telecommute to avoid lost wages as a result of school closures (no day care); etc.

3. Assess the feasibility of establishing a local state of emergency Revolving Loan Fund that would be accessible to qualified businesses following emergency declarations. The funding mechanism would ideally be a more streamlined than SBA loans, which are often unavailable in the critical days and weeks following an emergency declaration.

4. Public-Private Partnerships to identify opportunities for the leveraging of resources via agreements/MOU to support response and recovery efforts in times of crises (natural, man-made, and/or epidemic).

5. Creation of a public-private disaster group comprising key businesses and relevant government agencies and immediately activated when necessary to mobilize resources as Federal assistance is pending.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Looking Ahead (Post-Recovery): Homeland Security Recommendations

1. Updating the Territorial Emergency Operations Plan (TEOP) to include response to Outbreaks/Pandemics.

2. Roundtable and Full-scale exercises re: epidemic/pandemics involving critical first responders and community stakeholders.

3. Elevating the potential threats of outbreaks into the Threats and Hazards Identification Risk Assessment (THIRA) to communicate current vulnerabilities, capabilities, and resource gaps to FEMA and relevant entities (CDC).

Tele-Health
Our long-term approach to containing and managing the spread of Coronavirus is the deployment of telecommunications systems and technologies in order to connect local patients with highly trained, off-island healthcare providers. It is possible to provide the residents of American Samoa 24 hours access to doctors in Hawaii via Tele-Health Care Mobile and web-based application. The cost to implement this service is estimated to be up to $1.095 million.

LIEUTENANT GOVERNOR

March 10, 2020 Serial: 135

From: Governor of American Samoa

Subject: The Coronavirus Task Force and Coronavirus Working Group

On January 30, 2020, the International Health Regulations Emergency Committee of the World Health Organization declared the outbreak of a public health emergency of international concern. On January 31, 2020, Health and Human Services Secretary Honorable Alex M. Azar II declared a public health emergency (PHE) for the United States to aid the nation's healthcare community in responding to COVID-19.

Since the promulgation of these two declarations, we immediately took steps to prevent and preempt the entry of this virus into American Samoa. The disclosure of this pandemic in the midst of the Measles Outbreak caused the extension of the same protocols and advisories on our initiative to contain the spread of the Coronavirus. Furthermore, a group was appointed to prepare our Coronavirus Action Plan to be submitted to the Department of the Interior, CDC, the White House, DHHS, and our Delegate to Congress articulating our needs.

The speed at which the incidence of the Coronavirus is being propagated throughout the United States gives us cause to formalize the establishment of our Task Force charged with the responsibility to prepare our comprehensive Action Plan aimed to combat the entry, spread, and treatment of the Coronavirus in our territory for review and approval by the Lieutenant Governor and I with intended submission to Honorable David Bernhardt, Secretary of the Interior for subsequent transmittal to CDC, the White House, DHHS, and appropriate agencies of the Federal Government involved with combating the spread of the Coronavirus. The Coronavirus Task Force membership shall include the following heads of the following agencies of the American Samoa Government. The Director of the VA Clinic is included as a member as well to ensure arms-length collaboration and coordination of efforts ensuring inclusion of all members of community.

ASTCA is taking the Covid-19 threat very seriously. Bulletin #1.

American Samoa is a small, remote, isolated, densely populated island community.

ASTCA cannot prevent the virus from arriving on our shores, or spreading throughout the community, but ASTCA can take steps that will slow the number of infections and the speed of the virus's spread.

ASTCA can also take steps to make sure ASTCA is ready to provide reliable telecommunications as American Samoa responds to the Covid-19 threat. ASTCA anticipates a much greater reliance on telecom in the weeks and months ahead, due to the need to communicate more in times of trouble, magnified by the effects of social distancing (e.g., less physical interaction, more working from home with communication devices).

By increasing hygienic measures and practising social distancing, we will do our part to "flatten the curve" (see graphic below) so that when the virus is here, it will spread slowly and not overwhelm our health care system. https://globalnews.ca/news/6665558/coronavirus-flatten-the-curve/

For example,

- We will minimize staff entry to homes and offices where people are sick or self-quarantined. We ask for your cooperation and patience.
- We will curtail unnecessary activities that pose a risk.
- We will take steps to protect staff and customers, in our offices, stores and field work.

We will start to practise social distancing in our own operations. For example,

- Tele-work
- Stepped-up hygiene

Executive Assistant to the Governor
Government of American Samoa
Pago Pago, American Samoa. 96799

Dear Chairman Iulogologo,

In response to the severity of health concerns raised by the COVID-19 virus, and given the fact that TAOA carries the responsibility of ensuring the Senior Citizen population of American Samoa is provided with all information and protective measures available, the following actions have been or will be implemented by TAOA and staff to ensure this is, in fact, the case:

- An emergency meeting has been held to inform all 120 SCSEP workers of risks, protective practices and information regarding the COVID-19 virus. DOH brochures were provided for all attendees.
- SCSEP program/job placement will be temporarily discontinued effective March 16, 2020 until further notice.
- All SCSEP participants placed in health facilities have been reassigned.
- All Congregate Meal program renewal requirements have been suspended for two months. This will not impact meal eligibility but will eliminate a required visit to the TAOA office.
- In partnerships with DYWA, seniors will sew their own reusable protective masks. While it is understood that masks may not prevent the virus, it is believed that masks will serve as a deterrent to the common practice of touching one's face.
- There are no plans at this time to discontinue the Meal Program; however, all meal service duties at centers will be carried out by TAOA staff beginning March 17, 2020.
- Community outreach at all meal centers conducted regularly by TAOA staff and participants.
- Janitorial responsibilities have been upgraded to include frequent wipe-downs and thorough disinfecting of common areas.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- All employees who show signs of illness/fever are being sent home or told to stay home.
- Congregating amongst staff is discouraged; distancing is encouraged.

We take our unique responsibilities to the Senior Citizens of the Territory very seriously and welcome any additional COVID-19 preventive measures that may be recommended regarding their vulnerability in such times. We continue to monitor the CDC and Administration for Community Living (ACL) websites for additional announcements to ensure our seniors receive sufficient information regarding their health and well-being.

I commend you and the Coronavirus Task Force and the Coronavirus Working Group for the tremendous efforts being made to address the unique challenges presented by the COVID-19 pandemic and the prevention of its entry into American Samoa.

Our prayers for the good health and safety of our island community.

Sincerely,

Evelyn Lili'o-Satele, Director

DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS
TRANSIT DIVISION
CORONAVIRUS PREVENTATIVE MEASURES

March 11, 2020

While there are no confirmed cases of COVID-19 in American Samoa, we understand people in our community may feel concern about the safety of using our Dial-a-ride transit service. We want the public to know we take this situation seriously, and are taking actions to help prevent common illnesses from spreading and in the event, we should have a confirmed case.

Dial-a-ride Service Summary:

The Dial-a-ride service provides approximately 100-140 weekday trips totaling approximately 500-600 trips per week on 7 transit vehicles. Trip destinations are to the LBJ Medical center for Medical appointments, Health Centers, Financial institutions, Retirement & Social Security office, Food Stamp, TAOA employment and a few grocery shopping. Our ridership registration is currently at 1300 actively serving 600, with 279 riders using wheelchair.

Strategies for Preventive Measures:

1) Drivers & Dispatchers & Support Staff:
    a. The agency is closely coordinating with the local Coronavirus Task Force on updated information and reporting it back to drivers, dispatchers and transit staff to ensure the health and safety of riders and employees.
    b. Clear protocols and procedures for the cleaning and disinfection of vehicles has been reiterated to all Drivers & dispatchers.
    c. Inspection forms are in place for verifying the completion of tasks. Forms are signed by drivers and verified by shift dispatchers.
    d. Drivers & dispatchers have been equipped with hand sanitizers, Personal Protective Equipment (gloves), tissues for precautionary measures.
    e. Drivers & Dispatchers have been advised to stay home when feeling sick.
2) Dial-a-ride Vehicles:
    a. Posters are posted in the vehicles that encourage staying home when sick, cough and sneeze etiquette, proper hand washing techniques, Coronavirus pamphlet from local Dept. of Public Health for rider information.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

b. Agency vehicle cleaning procedures has been updated to include nightly disinfecting of all transit vehicles. Exterior washing of buses has also been upgraded to three times a week.
c. No-touch disposal receptacles are provided in vehicles for use;
d. Vehicles are being sanitized by drivers after each group drop off and periodically throughout the day.

NATIONAL PACIFIC INSURANCE

Private and Confidential

13th March 2020

Ms Elizabeth Perri
Insurance Commissioner
By Email: eperri.asg.govoffice@gmail.com

Dear Ms Perri,

Re: Covid-19

On behalf of our Country Manager, Ms. Agnes Polu, and NPI General Manager, Ms. Joanne Rasmussen, I would like to provide you with a high-level summary relating to our organisational preparedness, business continuity, potential staff impact along with our initial business impact assessment, including re-insurance arrangements.

Organisational Preparedness

As part of Tower Insurance Limited (TIL), NPI American Samoa has a Pandemic Management Plan (PMP). With respect to the World Health Organisation's "continuum of pandemic phases" we have assessed that we are in phase 3. As such, we are undertaking the relevant activities listed in the Appendix: "Preparedness: Phase 3".

From a business continuity perspective, we have an established Crisis Management Plan and a business unit Business Continuity Plan (BCP).

Our BCP seeks to enable (a) continued operations as close to BAU as possible, and in the extreme (b) the bare minimum operational functional to enable the business to remain viable. Due to NPI being part of TIL, we have the advantage of our Pacific Operations Hub in Suva, 7 other Pacific Island jurisdictions along with Tower NZ to provide continuity services in an extreme situation.

Operational Continuity

In American Samoa, the vast majority of our customer interactions are face to face. As such we have undertaken a number of scenario assessments to test our operational continuity in the event:

- A staff member tests positive or has been in close proximity to someone who has tested positive
- Societal restrictions are imposed such as restriction to public transport or closing of schools
- Our government requests or requires that we amend our operating practices, for example, we must ensure that our staff sit a certain distance apart and take other practical measures to mitigate any possible spread
- We are requested or required to close our branches and go to skeleton staff with no public contact
- We are required to keep our staff at home

Our business priorities have been defined at a high level as:

- Ensuring continuation of payroll for our employees

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Processing claims for our customers
- Processing renewals for our customers
- Maintaining accounts payable on time for our suppliers
- Providing new business services

We are currently investigating the viability of enabling our staff to operate from home through procurement of new hardware and where required reallocation of laptops from non-essential staff to the frontline teams. This will enable us to increase the number of people able to service customers remotely. However, under these circumstances we do expect a degradation in customer service standards. In this case, we will redirect our landlines to company provided mobile telephones and increase public communications via our Facebook page supported by private communications via email. From a customer service perspective, priority will be given to insurance claims, followed by customer service enquires, sales, and then non-essential back office functions.

Potential Staff Impacts

We have and will continue to communicate with our staff through various channels (i.e. emails, our intranet page and people leaders communications). These communications include letting all staff know we have a plan in place, how to stay healthy, our stance on international business travel (we have put a stop to all non-essential international travel), and links to the latest advice from the NZ Ministry of Health and relevant Pacific Island health organisations.

As always, we will continue to monitor the well-being of our staff and provide support as required including flexible working and leave arrangements and directing staff to EAP support as required.

As of this week, all staff have been requested to stay at home if they feel unwell for any reason. We have also communicated that any staff who are off work caring for unwell family members should remain off work until the entire household is fully recovered. Where staff have exceeded their contractual entitlement of sick leave, they will be provided extended paid sick leave.

We are currently investigating the early roll out of our annual flu vaccination, subject to availability.

Staff leave (non-medical related) is being monitored so that the impact to the resourcing levels is minimized in the event of increased absences due to other staff member's illness.

In addition to this, the needs of vulnerable staff members, such as those who are pregnant, have underlying medical conditions and those who live with elderly residents are being managed on an individual basis.

Stress Testing/Business Impact Assessment

A high-level review of our product wordings has been undertaken to understand the potential insurance risks associated with Covid-19. From the analysis done there is no material exposure. Some products may respond but the exposure is considered very limited.

Apart from insurance risk, other potential risks to Tower/NPI include:

- Reduction in GWP – following reduction in turnover within business, there is a potential for reduced GWP where rates are based on turnover,
- Moral hazard – possibility of fraudulent claims where businesses fall into financial difficulties,
- Increased demand on resource – managing queries from customers querying and/or trying to claim on policies that do not respond, and
- Revenue management – risk of customers defaulting on premium payments and/or cancelling their policies to reduce costs, and the cashflow impact of any inability to process premium payments through automated means.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

ED-20-0731-A-010628

NATIONAL PACIFIC INSURANCE

The financial impacts of these risks to Tower/NPI have not been assessed as there isn't enough information to inform reasonable impact estimates. Having said that, the Tower/NPI Product Teams are monitoring the situation to identifying any emerging adverse experience.

Reinsurance Arrangements

As stated above, there is no material risk of increased claims arising from a pandemic. Hence, reinsurance considerations are not relevant to Tower/NPI.

Community

From a community perspective, our office has health notices prominently displayed, along with hand sanitisers. We are increasing the frequency and intensity of our office cleaning rotations. We have commenced the recording of all appointments with external parties and are recording visits by customers, contractors and members of the public via a visitor book so that we can contribute to the national health organisations tracing needs, if required.

In addition to this, we are currently investigating what additional community support we could provide in the event of an outbreak in American Samoa.

Next Steps

Over the coming week, Tower and NPI offices will be continuing to refine the PMP and BCP. If there is any material change to our position in this regard, we will bring this to your attention at the earliest opportunity.

Please do not hesitate to contact me should you require any further information,

Yours sincerely

To Whom It May Concern:

My name is Jessica Raine. I'm an Assistant Director at Berklee College, and I'm writing to you for advice regarding the Statement of Educational Purpose.

We are struggling, under the present circumstances, to meet the requirement that the Statement of Educational Purpose be submitted via original hard copy only.

- Many of the students in our Online School are trying to mail this document to us from increasingly isolated areas where US Mail pickup/delivery isn't reliable during the current crisis.
- Even if they are able to mail it to us, we've just been notified that due to Massachusetts' statewide stay-in-place advisory, we can no longer access the mailroom on our campus or any other campus facilities.
- Additionally, the requirement that this form be signed in the presence of a notary is creating a hardship for some students. Visiting notaries in bank branches or other institutions isn't consistent with "social distancing best practice" even for students for whom it's physically feasible.

Is there any possibility of a temporary relaxing of these requirements to allow online submission of the form? Could students be permitted to seek the services of an online/teleworking notary rather than risk COVID-19 exposure? Any guidance would be greatly appreciated.

Thank you,
Jessica Raine

Hello,

Will the Dept. of Education be releasing any guidance regarding services to English learners during the COVID-19 situation? As an SEA, we have been receiving many questions surrounding the identification, screening, instruction, and assessment of English learners during this time. While we can speak to our state contexts, there is an underpinning of federal laws and guidance that we need direction.

Some examples:

A. Schools are closed across the State of Illinois through April 8th per Governor Pritzker's executive order. If a family enrolls in a district during this time of closure, when would the 30 days to screen and place a child start? The day they completed online registration or the day that schools are back in session? If it is when the parents completed online registration, then schools may quickly find themselves out of compliance should the school closures be extended.
B. Should schools move to e-Learning and not return to in-person classes due to COVID-19, what should the procedures be for screening children? Should we require them and their families to come into a school building in order to be screened? This would violate "Shelter in place" orders and potentially put district/ school staff and the families in danger of contracting the disease. How should districts / schools handle actually screening the students from a distance?

We are anxiously awaiting guidance for English Learners similar to the guidance released related to Special Education students.

Stay healthy,

My plant is shutting down until further notice and I could really use my refund with 2 kids that I still have to try and provide for during this time. Also there was a payment plan already in place before my offset occurred so I could rehabilitate my loan. I never received a offset notice letter either. The Honorable Betsy DeVos
U.S. Secretary of Education
Lyndon Baines Johnson (LBJ)Department of Education Building

March 23, 2020

Dear Secretary DeVos:

The National Association of Private Special Education Centers (NAPSEC) was established in 1971 as a nonprofit association with the vision of supporting access to appropriate special education programs as vital components of the continuum. NAPSEC currently represents over 200 private early intervention providers, schools, residential therapeutic centers, and adult service programs.

Our members are striving to provide students with disabilities critical educational, behavioral health, and support services to the greatest extent possible in this time of crisis. As you develop directives and guidance for our nation's education system, we strongly urge you to ensure that nonpublic special education schools are supported in a sustainable manner so they may continue to meet the needs of students.

NAPSEC members are an integral part of the education continuum for students with disabilities. As you know, during this pandemic our members are facing unprecedented closures, public health constraints, and difficult decisions while prioritizing, above all else, the well-being and safety of a diverse, exceptional population. In particular, this emergency introduces severe financial risks resulting in employment issues, including staff furloughs, due to mandated closures and uncertain guidance on tuition support.

We strongly urge the U.S. Department of Education to communicate specific guidance that supports continued payment of nonpublic school services in accordance with students' Individualized Education Programs and existing contracts and service agreements with local education agencies (LEAs). We suggest the following guidance be issued to governors and state departments of education to ensure the continued flow of funds to nonpublic schools that is critical to their ability to serve students with exceptional needs:

- Encourage states to enact provisions for the payment of invoices for nonpublic schools.
- Direct states to provide assurances that nonpublic schools are authorized to pay staff during periods of school closure and that they will be reimbursed, as school districts/LEAs are.
- Provide direction to states to ensure that if public schools receive average daily attendance rates during this state of emergency, nonpublic schools must also receive payment of daily rates, regardless of closure. This will ensure that school personnel are able to deliver innovative distance and online learning programs to meet students' needs and will safeguard their availability to return to work once schools reopen.

In the absence of this guidance, our members are being forced to make incredibly difficult decisions to limit financial losses and ensure the safety of students and staff. These short-term decisions will have significant long-term implications, potentially exacerbating the existing shortage of special education personnel in the field and limiting the ability of schools to meet the ongoing needs of their students.

Thank you for your attention and concern for the students, families, and communities NAPSEC programs proudly serve. Please do not hesitate to contact me for further discussion or clarification. I may be reached at napsec@napsec.org or (202) 434-8225.

Respectfully,

Danielle Johnson

I'm not sure where this correspondence currently is but please ensure it goes through the COVID-19 mailbox, which will then be routed to the OESE COVID Rapid Response Team. I will not be involved with this one on the backend.

Thank you all!

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Dear Dr. Andjaparidze:

Thank you for contacting the U.S. Department of Education (Department) concerning COVID-19 ("Coronavirus").

These are challenging times for schools and communities, and administrators and public health officials are facing difficult decisions related to preventing the spread of this respiratory disease. While there is currently no vaccine to prevent COVID-19, health officials are currently taking steps to prevent the introduction and spread of this respiratory disease. Schools can play an important role in this effort.

Through collaboration and coordination with local health authorities and other agencies, schools can disseminate important information about this disease and its potential transmission. Schools can also prepare to take additional steps to prevent the spread of COVID-19, should State and local health officials identify such a need.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) offers the most up-to-date information on COVID-19. Schools and communities can share relevant CDC fact sheets to help students, families, and staff understand COVID-19, along with steps they can take to protect themselves. For further information, please visit www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-nCoV.

In addition, the Department has established a "COVID-19 Information and Resources for Schools and School Personnel" webpage, available at www.ed.gov/coronavirus, to support schools and communities as they plan, prepare and potentially respond to possible cases of COVID-19. The Department will regularly update this webpage as more information and guidance becomes available.

Thank you for sharing this information with us. We invite you to send questions on which the Department can be helpful to the following email address: COVID-19@ed.gov.

Sincerely,

COVID-19 Response Team

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Dear Ms. Beaudean:

Thank you for contacting the U.S. Department of Education (Department) about COVID-19 ("coronavirus").

These are challenging times for schools and communities, and administrators and public health officials are facing difficult decisions related to preventing the spread of this respiratory disease. Unfortunately, there are no easy answers.

Regarding your specific concerns about your children being unable to return to school, please note that, in accordance with the most recent interim guidance issued by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), the Department is encouraging that decisions related to implementing school-based strategies (e.g., dismissals, event cancellations, and other social distancing measures) be made locally, in collaboration with local health officials who can help determine the level of transmission in the community. Therefore, we recommend that you contact the administrators at your children's school to learn more about plans for the continuity of teaching and learning.

For further information, and the most up-to-date information on COVID-19, please visit CDC's webpage at www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-nCoV. The Department has also established the "COVID-19 Information and Resources for Schools and School Personnel" webpage, available at www.ed.gov/coronavirus, to support schools and communities as they plan, prepare and potentially respond to possible cases of COVID-19. The Department will regularly update this webpage as more information and guidance becomes available.

Dear Secretary,

Lengthen the school year from 180 days to 240 days. You will soon have to deal with recovery from the Virus School Closings and this could be a great step forward.

The U.S. has steadily fallen behind other nations in education. Our teachers are disappointed in their wages. Taxpayers are disappointed in paying for a short work year. High School Graduates should speak our language fluently, know our laws and our history, be able to balance their checkbooks, and earn a living.

Our schools are warm in Winter and cool in Summer. We no longer need students on our farms for planting, weeding, and harvesting. We could reduce the daily hours to allow adequate sleep for young bodies. Our kids deserve better than they are currently getting.

Thank you for what you have accomplished for our students and please consider leading us to an even higher level.

Subject: COVID-19 and LOA's for Term Based Students
Importance: High

Hi John,

I heard from a reliable colleague that you are part of the Department's COVID-19 task force, and I truly appreciate all that you and others are doing for students and schools during this difficult time. We are living through circumstances that none of us could have imagined just a short time ago.

I have been asked by multiple school clients to seek additional guidance from the Department on Leaves of Absence (LOAs) in term-based programs. Specifically, the question I have from several school is whether students in a term-based program, if granted a LOA, still need to re-enter a program where they left off? If they do not, the follow-up questions include how to handle pertinent dates (Academic Year, Loan Period, etc.), and also whether R2T4 is still required?

As you might imagine, there continues to be some significant confusion among both schools and the compliance community (e.g. auditors and attorneys) regarding these issues, and the Department's guidance to date does not specifically address this LOA question in the term-based context. I also note there is legislation pending in Congress that would appear to expressly waive, as a matter of statute, any LOA requirement for students to re-enter a program where they left off. It is not clear to me whether that statutory change is needed before the Department can provide more guidance with respect to term-based LOAs in these circumstances.

Anything that the Department can do to clarify these issues – of course as quickly as possible for schools facing imminent LOA decisions – would be greatly appreciated.

Thanks,
Jonathan

Hello,

I am writing to request some clarification regarding EFA for the next school year for continuing students. It is our understanding that if the institution makes adjustments to tuition/room/board then we are not required to make COA adjustments. It is also up to the institution to determine if the school completes the refund process.

The piece that needs clarification is, if an institution makes the adjustments and decides to refund or credit a student's account, are these funds considered EFA for the upcoming school year? Would we need to include these funds when calculating student's aid for the 2020-21 school year?

Subject: Federal Work Study

Hello,

My name is Iftekhar Rahman and I am a student at Drexel University in Philadelphia, PA. I had a question concerning work study pay due to the closure of my university. I work at the residence hall as a Desk Assistant, and I lost my job because everything was evacuated and closed.

I was informed by Drexel that only positions that can continue working remotely will be able to collect their funds. This is highly unlikely for me and many of my coworkers, and we strongly really rely on our work study funding for support during college. Is there any provision for students in our position? I have been trying to read online about policies to help students affected by COVID-19 but I don't see anything else pertaining to my situation.

Thank you for your help in clarifying this issue, I am very confused and concerned because I rely on work study as a source of income and I don't know what to do with everything closed.

Sincerely,

Iftekhar (Ifty) Rahman

Subject: A lot of new migrant families

Hi Sarah,
I'm getting anecdotal information that families living in more urban areas (Boise and immediate surrounding areas) are losing work in restaurants, construction, etc. and moving to outlying towns to find work in agriculture since farmers are still hiring. Most of our family liaison/recruiters are not working this week due to spring break, but I'm not sure how many will be going to work at schools next week. I suspect many will be stuck at home for a while to come, but many liaisons are connected by phone to migrant families in their areas. If they hear of a new potential family in the area, my concern is how they will recruit the family without being put at risk through doing home visits. I'm guessing many/most will be forbidden to do home visits for quite a while.

We use an electronic COE that requires an interviewee signature and also has a place for a parent signature for a FERPA release to MSHS/HEP/CAMP. After talking to our IT developer about possible options for remote signatures, he asked me if we (under these very unusual circumstances) could accept a parent's verbal "signature" over the phone and sign the COE, "Parent name by phone" and they would add the date. Then we would mail the COE to the family when it was approved. We do have the ability to do state approval electronically, so that wouldn't be a problem.

Have a great day!

Dear RRT-

Below is a email string from Afterschool Alliance. I've included their questions and the proposed responses in questions previously sent to your mailbox. I think it is important for you to see the emails from this national organization.

You received all of the questions in the attached document but included it here so you'll note that most of Afterschool Alliance questions have proposed answers drafted.

Miriam

 Please go to the end of this email string for the guidance that the Afterschool Alliance desires. I changed that piece of the email to blue font to make it easier for you to find.

Dear Dept of Ed 21ST CCLC team:

I just got off a webinar with a large 21st CCLC provider – that serves more than 70,000 students (not all 21st CCLC funded) and they are starting layoffs tomorrow. Any sense when we will have some guidance – I urged them to wait a day but I can't emphasize how urgent the timing on this is for the majority of states whose SEAS are waiting on the Dept of Ed for guidance– many of these employees are currently delivering food and supplies to families and making sure they have everything they need.

Every hour matters at this point. Guidance for even a few days or weeks would be incredibly helpful.

Thank you.

Subject: 21st CCLC Guidance in response to the pandemic- offer of assistance and some recommendations

Dear Nita M. Lowey, 21st Century Community Learning Center Dept of Educational Leaders:
First and foremost I wanted to offer the assistance of myself and our entire team as you navigate the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic on our students and families. We have been reaching out to the field since this began to hear their concerns, challenges, and best practices. We are reaching out to the field daily and sharing resources and best practices through our web site www.afterschooalliance.org
I urge you to share guidance, even if it needs to be amended, as quickly as possible. The more certainty afterschool programs have, the better they can navigate each day.
Afterschool programs are concerned about the children they serve while their parents and guardians are working – making sure they are safe and have access to food and making sure staff is healthy and supported. Many are coming up with creative solutions like virtual programming to serve students who are home. Others are moving to full day schedules to take care of students in places where schools have closed. Programs, especially those that rely on reimbursement based on attendance, are fearful that they will have to permanently close.
Attached is the guidance that was sent out by Massachusetts - it is a terrific model – it would be really helpful for the US Department of Education to share something similar and encourage all State Education Agencies to do the same. One note on their guidance, we feel programs should be reimbursed at their pre-closure levels, based on enrollment, but that staff working from home should engage in professional development and other program enhancement activities like the ones listed in the Mass. guidance.

"For planning purposes and comprehensive communication for families, districts and schools are encouraged to include specific guidance or information about their OST programs in coordination with any school day decision.

Over the past 24 hours, many of MA school districts have closed or will close their schools until the end of March or possibly longer.

While decisions about implementing this are at the discretion of the school district/organization, state guidance of an interim work-from-home policy for 21st CCLC sites is as follows

The following are approved tasks that me be conducted from home for staff to receive pay:

- Virtual staff meetings (conference calls, Zoom meetings, Skype, etc.)
- Curriculum work (must be specific to the 21st CCLC program)
- Lesson plan development (must be specific to the 21st CCLC program)
- 21st CCLC program data analysis
- Online professional development through the Y4Y Portal (https://y4y.ed.gov/)
- Other online professional development designed or approved by your district/ employer (this must be related to your 21st CCLC program work)

Additionally If the school in which a 21st CCLC program is housed is closed, you can move the location of the program with the approval of the school department, local board of health and, if applicable, EEC for licensed programs provided it is for same students that participate in the 21st CCLC program.

Please keep in mind that collaborative planning and virtual communication will be essential in implementing an effective interim "work-from-home" policy.

As 21st CCLC Coordinators and supervisors, each of you should have an ongoing understanding of what each member of your staff is working on during any remote working hours that result from COVID-19-related school/program closures. In a continued effort to ensure that grant funds are being used appropriately, please also be aware that evidence of employee work during any such closures may be requested, at the Department's discretion.

Please also note the state has received a waiver from the federal government which allows school meals to be distributed and eaten offsite. The department is working with schools and other community-based organizations to help get food to students who may need it while schools are closed."

Here are the Afterschool Alliance's current policy requests as we navigate the local, state and national response to COVID-19. If you can address these through guidance that would be very helpful.

- Direct assistance to providers based on enrollment, not attendance, including but not limited to the Nita M. Lowey 21st Century Community Learn Center (21st CCLC) Program
- Payments at current rate to programs and workers in the case of COVID-19-related closures of school or community-based afterschool programs, including back-up care

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Payments at current rate to programs to continue to serve children when parents or caregivers experience an inability to make co-payments or pay tuition
- Assistance to cover the cost of substitute educators at afterschool programs
- Consider community-based afterschool programs as a resource to provide meals to students when schools are closed, and provide the flexibility and resources for that to occur.
- Non-profit organizations, including afterschool and youth-serving organizations, should be included in relief efforts targeted to small businesses. These relief efforts cannot be tax cuts alone.

Thank you in advance. I know we are all working round the clock to do what we can to ease the burden of this pandemic.
Be safe and well.

Question from 21st CCLC SEAs

Waivers/Grant Extensions

1. i. Will the Federal government be issuing any no-cost extensions (Tydings Waivers) for the current Federal awards? [DE}

ii. Federal grant funds with an end date of June 30, 2020, what statement, if any, has been received from ED regarding pausing activity and/or extending end dates for these grants? (OH)

iii. Will there be any consideration of an extension of the funding availability for 21st CCLC funding? Considering the month our schools will be out, it will be very difficult for programs and LDOE to spend all of the funds. (LA)

> 20 U.S.C. 7661 waives statutory and regulatory requirements that receives funds under a program authorized under Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 (reauthorized by Every Student Succeeds Act). In a case such as the COVID-19 national emergency the U.S. Department of Education may make broad reaching waivers available to States or Indian Tribes.
> Waivers of the Tydings Amendment, Section 421(b) of the General Education Provisions Act (GEPA), will be available to States who want to extend funding availability for 21st CCLC funding.

Staffing/Paying Staff

2.i. Is there any guidance for staffing and staff retention during periods of closure? (CO)

ii. Are we allowed to pay staff during this suspended period? As a District we are paying school day personnel their normal wages and considering it paid administrative leave. Are we able to do the same for our 21st Century Community Center staff? Can we continue to pay the staff who are in administrative/coordination roles or the hourly employees that can work from home? (IA)(GA)

iii. For programs that have closed for the next two weeks, can they be reimbursed for work and planning they are doing during this time? Again, I assume that would not be an issue, but wanted to double check. (DC)

iv. Our programs are led by salaried leaders and staffed by part-time hourly employees. Our payrolls for these folks come primarily from 21st CCLC funds. Our intent is to keep paying all staff through this closure period for staff retention and to help them make ends meet. This is a built-in stimulus for our local economies as well. We are working within the community to put all our folks to good use where they are needed, particularly in their center communities and particularly to meet the needs of young people. I appeal to you to please allow reimbursements to continue within approved operating budgets during virus-related program closures. (SC)(WA)

v. If the program closes because there are no buildings to use, can the part-time staff such as teachers can be paid during the time is closed. It is our position that they can't get paid. If they have the opportunity to run the program with less required weekly hours, can they do that? For example, they are required a minimum of 12 hours a week, if they only can work 3 days a week that will be less than the 12 hours, if that will be fine?(PA)(AR)

vi. Direct assistance to providers based on enrollment, not attendance, including but not limited to the Nita M. Lowey 21st Century Community Learn Center (21st CCLC) Program. (Afterschool Alliance)

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Kay has written the response to this question

vii. Assistance to cover the cost of substitute educators at afterschool programs. (Afterschool Alliance)

During emergency closures the 21st CCLC subgrantees must follow local personnel policies that pertain to their staffs employment contracts.21st CCLC subgrantees may only continue to support staff who are listed in the project's approved budget and cannot cover pay of substitute educators who only work occasionally in programs.

Guidance from ED

3. i. Will there be any guidance on how to support grantees running 21st CCLC programs? Will ED send out guidance for states regarding 21st CCLC and COVID-19? (CO)

ii. I am about to send an email out to all of our SC 21st CCLC Project Directors to give them information 21st CCLC. If there aren't any updates yet from US Dept of Ed, I am prepared to tell them that we are awaiting guidance but as soon as we hear from the US Dept of Education, we will be sure to pass the information along to them. Do you think this is sufficient? (SC)

iii. Do you know if the Department will hold a webinar or call with SEAs? (NJ)

ED will send out guidance over the listserv and host a Webinar to inform the SEAs of specific guidance pertaining to operating 21st CCLC programs during the COVID-19 emergency on XX date beginning at XX:00pm. The link for the meeting is abcefghijklmnop…

Funds

4. i. Can funding through 21st CCLC have flexibility for subgrantees to help families and 21st CCLC students with food and other emergency items? Related question: Could funding pay for food for non-school hours where activities would have been held but are not because of school closures? (CO)

Costs must match the purpose of the funding see 2 CFR 200.300 of the Uniform Guidance which speaks the non-Federal entity being responsible for complying with Federal requirements for the award. Furthermore, the Uniform Guidance places emphasis on strong internal controls. In accordance with 2 CFR 200.302 all grant recipients must have financial management systems that include written procedures for ensuring all expenditures conform to the terms and conditions of the grant as well as the Uniform Guidance Cost Principles.

The 21st CCLC grant is for academic purposes. Funds are for specific academic and enrichment activities that help students who attend low-performing schools to meet the State academic standards.

While 21st CCLC program funds may not be used to purchase food and other emergency items during school or non-school hours the USDA has posted guidance at: https://www.fns.usda.gov/disaster/pandemic for utilizing USDA food for programs during the COVID-19 emergency.

ii. If forced to cancel activities and/or shut down entirely, can a program reallocate those projected unspent funds toward supplies and equipment through a budget amendment, for example, to purchase laptop computers for students and desktop computers for staff?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

States' have the authority to allow budget amendments that are reasonable and necessary and align with the approved application.

iii. Consider community-based afterschool programs as a resource to provide meals to students when schools are closed and provide the flexibility and resources for that to occur.

The 21st CCLC is an academic program; as such its role is to provide meaningful, high-quality programing utilizing effective strategies and to provide professional development for staff in specific content areas and youth development. While students are being served it is appropriate to provide snacks/meals to the children enrolled in the program.

It would be the decision of a community-based afterschool organization whether or not to serve as a resource/location for providing meals to students when schools are closed. Community-based programs should consult with their Local Educational Agencies to determine how best to utilize the guidance provided by USDA food for programs posted at https://www.fns.usda.gov/disaster/pandemic as 21st CCLC program funds may not be used to purchase food and other emergency items during school or non-school hours.

Programing

Virtual/Remote

5. i. Given that 21st CCLC is an out-of-school time grant, is it possible for them to offer remote programming during these school shut-downs. It seems like something feasible from my end, if they have a good plan that we can approve, but I wanted to make sure it doesn't in any way conflict with the intentions or requirements of the grant. Any feedback you can provide is much appreciated. (DC)

ii. With school buildings closing, our programs want to know if they can do a 100% on-line program if all the students they serve have the technology available. Programs purchase laptops to be used in the program, grantees want to know if they do a 100% on-line program if they can lend the laptops to those kids that don't have one during this time of crisis. (PA)

iii. Can 21st CCLC activities be held in other locations if the primary site (the school) has closed down? (CO)

iv. Will federal grant activities such as teleconferencing or working at home be permissible? What documentation would be acceptable? (OH)

Yes, a State has the authority to designate programs to operate remotely or virtually for part of or the entirety of their scheduled time during the COVID-19 emergency. It is the State's decision what type of documentation it would require from a program operating remotely/virtually. Programs should return to normal operations at such time when schools reopen.

Furthermore, the State has the authority to allow programs to modify their approved application's activities and budget to allow for programs to purchase necessary supplies such as laptops in when approving modified activities. The laptops should be labeled the property of the program and inventoried pre- and post- check out.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Program Planning

v. If a 21st CCLC program has to shut down for a period of time because the students served attend a school that has closed, what will be the consequences to the grant? Can programs still access funds for contingency planning purposes?

> The State has authority to modify its requirements, policies and guidelines subgrants are subject to. We encourage States to be flexible when working with their subgrantees. For example, programs may temporarily adapt their on-site services to provide virtual innovative programming where appropriate. Contingency planning may be an allowable cost as determined by the State as long as the cost is reasonable and allocable to the subgrant.

Child Care/Fees, Tuition

6. i. Ours schools districts have been asked to work with their community to provide child-care for healthcare providers and first responders during the pandemic school closures. NYSED believes that our 21st Century providers are perfectly poised to assist in this endeavor, as they are both screened and trained in working with both 0 to5 and school age populations. I know that our providers are already concerned about meeting their numbers and whether they will continue to receive funding while their programs are closed. This could be a win-win, as they would be helping health care workers provide the care COVID-19 victims need while also giving our generous 21st Century sub-grantees the opportunity to help and stay employed. (NY)

Commented [CJ1]: Not sure you want to include this here. It was asked knowing a waiver would be required.

ii. If a Nita M. Lowey 21st CCLC site chooses to serve as a childcare resource within the community, are they permitted to use 21st CCLC funds for "normal approvable" activities? (NJ)

iii. Can 21st CCLC funds be used to provide daycare for parents that continue to work (health care and other professions)? Students would utilize Alternative Methods of Instruction (AMI) work (with 21st CCL staff support) and then students would be provided supplemental learning enrichment opportunities (identified in 21st CCLC application). (AR)

> Costs must match the purpose of the funding see 2 CFR 200.300 of the Uniform Guidance which speaks the non-Federal entity being responsible for complying with Federal requirements for the award. The Uniform Guidance in 2 CFR 200.405 states that costs are allocable to a particular Federal award if the goods and services are chargeable or assignable to that Federal award. Furthermore in 2 CFR 200.403 the Uniform Guidance states that costs must be ) be necessary and reasonable for the performance of the Federal award and be allocable thereto under these principles and conform to any limitations or exclusions set forth in these principles or in the Federal award as to types or amount of cost items.. The 21st CCLC grant is for academic purposes. Funds are for specific academic and enrichment activities that help students who attend low-performing schools to meet the State academic standards.
> While child care is not the intended purpose of the funds, it is permissible for 21st CCLC staff whose programs have been temporarily closed to consider working as a child care provider.

Jane and Kay; I just want to make sure a State doesn't have the authority to insist that 21st CCLC staff provide child-care to "earn" their pay.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

iv. Payments at current rate to programs to continue to serve children when parents or caregivers experience an inability to make co-payments or pay tuition. (Afterschool Alliance)

The 21st CCLC grant program does not require students' families provide a co-payment of any type to participate in and receive the full benefits of the program. Any subgrantee who currently has received prior approval to collect any payments ( fees, co-payments or "tuition)" made to 21st CCLC subgrantee programs by students' parents or caregivers should be suspended indefinitely or until such a time as the COVID-19 national emergency has suspended and families have gotten back on their feet after the loss of jobs, lay-offs, and regained financial stability. The 21st CCLC program's purpose is to serve students from low-income families who attend low-performing schools to meet the challenging State academic standards though a broad array of activities and offer families of student opportunities for active and meaningful engagement in their children's education.

States according to 20 U.S.C. 7173 will ensure that the awards are of sufficient size and scope to support high-quality effective programs that are consistent with the purpose of the statute in amounts that are consistent with section 4204(h).

Data

7.i. May Nita M. Lowey 21st CCLC subgrantees receive a waiver (state or federal) if the targeted number of students are not met, due to COVID 19 school related closures? What is the waiver and submission process? (NJ)

It is not reasonable to expect target numbers to be met when the district or state closes programs due to COVID-19. States have the authority to suspend the collection of attendance data through the duration of the school closure and to adapt its attendance and budget policies accordingly.

Eligible Students/Attendance

8. i. If a Nita M. Lowey 21st CCLC site opens or remains open, may they serve students who have not attended the 21st CCLC program? (NJ)(NY)

Yes, after all eligible students desiring or assigned to attend a 21st CCLC program have been enrolled, the site may serve other students who want to attend.

IAA Partnerships

9. Do you anticipate additional flexibility in 21stCCLC grantee timelines and award periods as a result of this situation? Do you think we could extend the period of our interagency agreement to complete the work if we have a lot of delays getting projects started?

Yes, it will be possible for the U.S. Department of Education to allow flexibility with our inter-agency partners around timelines, deliverables and may be able to extend the period of performance. Various activities that were scheduled between NOAA and 21st CCLC schools will ~~be able to~~ be rescheduled once we resume normal operations.

National Policy

Non-profit organizations, including afterschool and youth-serving organizations, should be included in relief efforts targeted to small businesses. These relief efforts cannot be tax cuts alone. (Afterschool Alliance)

This item refers to a national policy. The U.S. Department of Education and its staff do not have the authority to ask Congress to include the afterschool and youth-serving communities to be included in any relief legislation that includes tax cuts to be targeted to small businesses.

Commented [CJ2]: I think you should ask Patrick about this one. The Secretary and Asst Secretaries have the ability to ask Congress and that's probably what they are asking for.

Per recent guidance, I am requesting an approval to revise the Program Participation Agreement for Clinton Community College due to a shortened academic year. Clinton Community College has extended Spring Break by one week and will transition all courses to an on-line version. On-line instruction will begin March 30, 2020 and extend through the end of the term, May 15, 2020. This change will result in a 14 week Spring term and a resulting 29 week Academic year for 2019/2020.

I thank you for your consideration and guidance during this time.

Sara,

Thank you.

Tara,

Tara, thanks for talking with me about my concerns with our recruiters earlier today. I really appreciate your assistance. I looked for some information on the signatures and this is what I have found according to the National COE instructions, Results web page, and NRG for Chapter two. If you look at the H4 it stated that, "the content of these sections must remain unaltered, with limited exceptions." I am not sure if the we could write a comment stating, "signature could not be obtained due to COVID-19." I would like to see what Whitney things about that. Also, we would verify these signatures on September 1 to ensure the student is still eligible during the next funding year.

Here are a few options I have talked about with other states and wanted to get your thoughts.

1. Get electronic COEs over phone and then write comment about not getting signature with COVID-19.

2. Get a ECOE over phone and then hold the COE until a signature is obtained. Then mail a copy of the COE to the family/farmer, etc. and get a paper signature and write on the COE that signature is on file. The virus dies on paper within 24 hours. (Issue: some people don't know their address.)

3. Get Electronic COEs over phone and then write in comments about not getting signature with COVID-19 but get a signature verification before 9-1-20 to verify there were here one day during the current performance period. (Issues: The people may have moved so we may not be able to get signatures for all.)

Chapter 2: Child Eligibility

H4. What are the required data sections for the national COE?

The required data sections mandated by the national COE are as follows: Qualifying Moves & Work Section, Comment Section, Interviewee Signature Section, and Eligibility Certification Section. The content of these sections must remain unaltered, with limited exceptions. Certain formatting changes are allowable.

H10. Must the recruiter sign the national COE?

Yes. The recruiter's signature on the national COE certifies that: (1) the children are eligible for the MEP, and (2) the information upon which the recruiter based the eligibility determination is correct to the best of his or her knowledge. Moreover, under 34 C.F.R. § 200.89(c) and (d), the Department requires this signature on the national COE as an element of a reasonable system of quality control.

Results web page:

Interviewee Signature Section. The interviewee signs and dates the COE on the day the interview is conducted. The interviewee must also write his or her relationship to the child.
I understand the purpose of this form is to help the state determine if the child(ren)/youth listed on this form is/are eligible for the Title I, Part C, Migrant Education Program. To the best of my knowledge, all of the information I provided to the interviewer is true.
Signature, Relationship to the child(ren), Date

The person who signs the COE must be the source of the information contained in the document and should verify any information provided by another source. If the interviewee is unable to sign his or her name, he or she must mark an "X" in the signature section and the recruiter must print the parent's name and relationship to the child in the Comments section. If the interviewee refuses to sign his or her name, the recruiter must document the interviewee's refusal in the Comments section and print the interviewee's name and relationship to the child.

If a state chooses to include other statements that require, for example, a parent/guardian signature specifically, the state can include those statements separately from the Interviewee Signature. ED strongly recommends that states obtain the approval of their legal counsel to ensure that additional statements they add to this section comply with the applicable federal, state, and local laws and policies.

The recruiter should make sure the interviewee understands what he or she is signing. The recruiter can do this by reviewing every line of the COE and confirming with the parent that the information is correct. If the interviewee can read, the recruiter should give the interviewee a blank copy of the COE form in his or her native language (if available) so the interviewee can follow along. Once the SEA-designated reviewer reviews, signs, and dates, the COE, the MEP should send a copy of the COE by mail or hand-deliver it at a later date.

COE Directions

Dear Kelly,

This should be looked at.

In brief, asthma is a condition that could be considered under the Rehab Act & IDEA; therefore, I added CDC's language regarding persons at a higher risk as well as a statement that schools and families can work together to determine if additional modifications and accommodations would be applicable.

I updated the title of the document and the text.

As always, I welcome your feedback. More, you sending the draft is incredibly helpful; thank you!

Hi,
I would like to thank everyone in the Dept of Education for their hard work and dedication to the future of America, our children. I know that everyone is busy and overwhelmed with all of the Covid-19 developments and are doing an outstanding job of protecting the health and safety of our students. I must ask, my student has chronic asthma, and he has a history of becoming extremely ill due to colds and flu, croup, and other respiratory infections. What provisions is the Dept of Education recommending for these sensitive group students??? I would like to know that students that have these conditions will be pulled from campus, if any risk of exposure is present. I am uncomfortable with the current guidelines, they do not address the needs of this vulnerable population within our school community. Thank you Sent from my iPhone

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Dear NAME:

Thank you for contacting the U.S. Department of Education (Department) concerning COVID-19 ("Coronavirus").

The Department created the "COVID-19 ("Coronavirus") Information and Resources for Schools and School Personnel," Web page, accessible at https://www.ed.gov/coronavirus?src=feature, to support school communities as they plan, prepare and potentially respond to possible cases of COVID-19 in their community. As with any disease that has the potential to affect our school communities, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) will provide information about the signs, symptoms, and severity of the virus, as well as the proper steps to help prevent its spread. Schools can work with their local health department to determine specific criteria and possible response actions for supporting students and staff who may be ill with possible symptoms such as a fever as well as those who are considered to be at higher risk, including students with Asthma.

School plans should be designed to complement other community mitigation strategies to protect high-risk populations; minimize disruption to teaching and learning and protect students and staff from social stigma and discrimination. Currently, the CDC recommends persons who are at higher risk to speak with their healthcare providers about possible protective measures. Schools and the families of students with asthma can work together to determine whether a student has rights under Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (Section 504) or the Individuals With Disabilities Education Act (IDEA) in which case a specific set of accommodations and modifications may be developed to help ensure inclusion to the extent possible under the law, per the CDC guidelines and the healthcare provider recommendations. ~~.~~

~~While there is currently no vaccine to prevent COVID-19, health officials are currently taking steps to prevent the introduction and spread of this respiratory disease. Schools can play an important role in this effort. Schools can also prepare to take additional steps to prevent the spread of COVID-19, should State and local health officials identify such a need.~~

~~The Department recommends that schools continue to promote everyday disease prevention strategies:~~

- ~~If you are sick, stay home from school.~~
- ~~Avoid close contact with those who are already sick.~~
- ~~Cover your nose and mouth when coughing or sneezing with a tissue or the crook of your arm.~~
- ~~Wash your hands often with soap and water.~~
- ~~Avoid touching eyes, nose, or mouth.~~

The CDC offers the most up-to-date information on COVID-19. Schools can share relevant CDC fact sheets to help students, families, and staff understand COVID-19, along with steps they can take to protect themselves. For further information, please visit www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-nCoV.

We did add an additional week to our spring break. I went back and added the days in the fall 2019 and spring 2020 term and we got 209 total days. Based on our 209 days, we are at 29 weeks and 6 days. I think 30 weeks equals 210 total days. If we started half-way through a week does that whole week count as one week? For example our fall 2019 first day of classes was Wednesday, August 21st. Not sure what we need to do??

I was on a NASFAA call today and they told us if we shortened our semester we needed to notify our school participation team. Is that true? We added an additional week to the spring break, so for the spring term its going to be 15 weeks instead of 16. Do I need to notify someone if we still hit the 30 weeks for fall and spring?

Hello DOE,

At this point, it seems abundantly clear that the infection rates are going to continue to climb for the next month based on the most optimistic estimates. Schools are supposed to end by early May this semester. I am a graduate student living on my own at the moment and my parents don't live nearby so I am having a lot of difficulty getting bare essentials and I am constantly worried about catching the virus as I really don't have time or the money to be living a healthy lifestyle (my master's is extremely academically intense as its for applying to med school). As the situation becomes more serious, it is going to become significantly more difficult to take care of non-academic matters such as getting food, toilet paper, and avoiding getting sick so I was wondering if there was a coordinated effort amongst US med/grad/etc institutions to possibly delay this semester asap. What's happening in Italy is around the corner for us here based on the numbers. I'm sure there are drugs that may start being re-purposed to improve outcomes but there's no way that meaningful action can occur within the next few weeks. in the mean time, grad students, etc. have very little time and opportunity to prepare for any worst case scenario (like what's happening in Italy right now) if classes and exams continue. For example, my school gave us THREE days while they moved to online lectures... last week. You could image how abundantly stocked the shelves at supermarkets and Costco were down here in South Florida. Please immediately begin some kind of nationwide coordination plan as we students are woefully unprepared for COVID-19 to get any worse.

Thank you for your time,
Dave A

Subject: Fiscal Question - Guidance needed :: LEA Maintenance of Effort
Importance: High

Hello Kathleen & Angela,

There is a growing concern over the maintenance of effort requirements for states. Since states are closing by mandate and unable to function a full normal calendar year, the LEA expenditures will reflect this to a degree. For reference (if this email gets forwarded), Maintenance of Effort requires LEAs to maintain expenditures from their state & local or local-only funds.

> 34 CFR § 300.203 Maintenance of effort.
> (b) Compliance standard.
> > (1) Except as provided in §§ 300.204 and 300.205, funds provided to an LEA under Part B of the Act must not be used to reduce the level of expenditures for the education of children with disabilities made by the LEA from local funds below the level of those expenditures for the preceding fiscal year.
> > (2) An LEA meets this standard if it does not reduce the level of expenditures for the education of children with disabilities made by the LEA from at least one of the following sources below the level of those expenditures from the same source for the preceding fiscal year, except as provided in §§ 300.204 and 300.205:
> > > (i) Local funds only;
> > > (ii) The combination of State and local funds;
> > > (iii) Local funds only on a per capita basis; or > > > (iv) The combination of State and local funds on a per capita basis.

Now the only exceptions which are allowed for an LEA to reduce expenditures are through the following reasons which are built into the regulations.

> 34 CFR § 300.204 - Exception to maintenance of effort.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Notwithstanding the restriction in § 300.203(b), an LEA may reduce the level of expenditures by the LEA under Part B of the Act below the level of those expenditures for the preceding fiscal year if the reduction is attributable to any of the following:

(a) The voluntary departure, by retirement or otherwise, or departure for just cause, of special education or related services personnel.

(b) A decrease in the enrollment of children with disabilities.

(c) The termination of the obligation of the agency, consistent with this part, to provide a program of special education to a particular child with a disability that is an exceptionally costly program, as determined by the SEA, because the child -

(1) Has left the jurisdiction of the agency;

(2) Has reached the age at which the obligation of the agency to provide FAPE to the child has terminated; or

(3) No longer needs the program of special education.

(d) The termination of costly expenditures for long-term purchases, such as the acquisition of equipment or the construction of school facilities.

(e) The assumption of cost by the high cost fund operated by the SEA under § 300.704(c).

As such, will there be flexibility granted to the LEAs in states that allow expenditures to be reduced in light of the recent health issues and mandatory closures? I have been in discussions with states who are already doing six-weeks and now with Arizona doing four-weeks with a potential for more we are in the same boat. The LEAs have already hinted at this and the concern will hit full speed within the next 60 days. I am sure our state and others will be eager to see what they are proposing to address this.

Please note that this also affects Excess cost calculations that are also required but are being discussed less by our LEAs at this time.

34 CFR Appendix A to Part 300 - Excess Costs Calculation

Except as otherwise provided, amounts provided to an LEA under Part B of the Act may be used only to pay the excess costs of providing special education and related services to children with disabilities. Excess costs are those costs for the education of an elementary school or secondary school student with a disability that are in excess of the average annual per student expenditure in an LEA during the preceding school year for an elementary school or secondary school student, as may be appropriate. An LEA must spend at least the average annual per student expenditure on the education of an elementary school or secondary school child with a disability before funds under Part B of the Act are used to pay the excess costs of providing special education and related services.

Any information or guidance you can provide on this would be appreciated.

Thank you,

Subject: FWS Question Regarding the COVID-19 Disaster

A student is enrolled and in attendance in a term, which has already begun, and was awarded and scheduled for a FWS position that involved offering literacy training. However, the student had not begun her FWS work at the time the institution suspended its on-ground training and moved to a distance education format at the onset of the COVID-19 disaster. The March 5, 2020 guidance states that "the institution may continue [emphasis added] paying the student Federal work-study wages during that closure if it occurred after the beginning of the term and the institution is continuing to pay its other employees (including faculty and staff), and the institution continues to meet its institutional wage share requirement." Further, on March 20, 2020, the guidance states: "Yes. The FWS guidance in the Electronic Announcement dated March 5, 2020, applies when the student is unable to work because the school made the decision to move to online/distance education classes and the institution meets the conditions described below."

At the time of the COVID-19 disaster, while the student was scheduled to begin her FWS work, she had not started and therefore, was not paid as yet. Although the student is now unable to work because of the move to the distance education format, may she be paid her FWS wages for the hours for which she was scheduled because she is now unable to begin work?

If the answer is no, can the institution request a waiver of the literacy requirement under 34 C.F.R. § 675.18(g)(1)? The student's position was to be employed in a literacy program and if the student cannot be employed and paid, the institution will not be able to meet the requirement of including employment in a literacy program as part of the community service requirement for FWS positions.

Thank you for your consideration.

Regards, Sharon Bob

Brenda,

I hope you are doing well! I thought I would also reach out to you directly. I think you may be the one reading the OESE Title III email, but wasn't completely certain.

I am on a webinar meeting now with the ELL Community of Practice through REL Southwest. This is a common question that the states on the call have. Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, New Mexico, and Oklahoma are represented on the call.

Our Arkansas DESE staff has asked me about federal guidance on how the school closures related to COVID-19 affects services/identification of ELs similar to what has been released regarding special education.

Thanks,
Tricia

To whom it may concern at Department of Ed,

I would be grateful if the Department of Ed would lead the charge against the spread of COVID19 by putting out a directive to require schools to teach hand-washing technique in a short assembly, and to send a how-to-sheet home with the children. This would help to educate their parents as well. It is known that hand washing is the number one effective method for staying safe. My seven year old daughter has a pre-existing lung condition that puts her at risk. There would be far-reaching benefits to educating the children and having them educate their parents.

Here is the recommendation from the CDC:

Interim Guidance for Administrators of US Childcare Programs and K-12 Schools

Plan, Prepare and Respond to Coronavirus Disease 2019

Schools should continue to collaborate, share information, and review plans with local health officials to help protect the whole school community, including those with special health needs. School plans should be designed to minimize disruption to teaching and learning and protect students and staff from social stigma and discrimination. Plans can build on everyday practices (e.g., encouraging hand hygiene, monitoring absenteeism, communicating routinely) that include strategies for before, during, and after a possible outbreak.

Dear NAME:

Thank you for contacting the U.S. Department of Education (Department) concerning COVID-19 ("Coronavirus").

As with any disease that has the potential to affect our school communities, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) will provide information about the signs, symptoms, and severity of the virus, as well as the proper steps to help prevent its spread. While there is currently no vaccine to prevent COVID-19, health officials are currently taking steps to prevent ~~the introduction and~~ spread of this respiratory disease. Schools can play an important role in this effort.

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) offers the most up-to-date information on COVID-19. Schools can share relevant CDC fact sheets to help students, families, and staff understand COVID-19, along with steps they can take to protect themselves. At the same time, s~~S~~chools can continue to promote everyday disease prevention strategies:

- If you are sick, stay home from school.
- Avoid close contact with those who are already sick.
- Cover your nose and mouth when coughing or sneezing with a tissue or the crook of your arm.
- Avoid touching eyes, nose, or mouth.
- Wash your hands often with soap and water.
- ~~Avoid touching eyes, nose, or mouth.~~

As part of its awareness campaign for preventing the transmission of the Coronavirus, the CDC's offers numerous resources providing strategies to help protect ourselves and others, including washing your hands. ~~p~~Please visit the Communications Resources section of the COVID-19 section to find printable materials and videos for use by schools and families alike, accessible at https://www.cdc.gov/coronavirus/2019-ncov/communication/index.html. As part of the CDC's ongoing efforts to promote everyday good disease prevention strategies, CDC also offer teaching materials for schools and families:

Hi Pam,

I hope you are well. I know it's been a long time since we've been in touch, but reaching out for help with this pressing issue on my campus (and I am sure many others!).

I am hoping that you may have some information to help me clarify my understanding of the recent Department of Education COVID-19 guidance related to the 30 week academic calendar requirement.

The guidance starting on page 5 of EA 030520 under Length of Academic Year states a temporary reduction in the length of an institution's academic year can be requested if an institution determines it will close as a result of a campus health emergency.

Champlain just announced an additional week of break. Our students are currently in a one week spring break and we extended the break by one week in order to prepare for all online instruction. After the additional week of break, we will resume with online classes. This extension of the break results in a 14 week spring semester and 29 week academic year.

Is the Department's guidance only applicable for a closure or would an extended break resulting in a reduced academic calendar also qualify for the temporary reduction?

Generally, approval of a less than 30 week calendar would result in reduction of federal aid. Does this apply with this new guidance?

Any clarification you can give me on this would be really appreciated.

Dear Ms. Stroupe,

Thank you for contacting the U.S. Department of Education (Department) concerning COVID-19 ("Coronavirus").

The Department created the "COVID-19 ("Coronavirus") Information and Resources for Schools and School Personnel," Web page, accessible at https://www.ed.gov/coronavirus?src=feature, to support school communities, and the communities they serve as they plan, prepare and potentially respond to possible cases of COVID-19. As with any disease that has the potential to affect our school communities, the CDC will provide information about the signs, symptoms, and severity of the virus, as well as the proper steps to help prevent its spread. Schools systems are their health departments are working to determine specific criteria and possible response actions for supporting students and staff who may be ill with possible symptoms such as a fever.

If the Department ever collects data on the effects of an emergency on schools, it is shared only with the Federal response groups to help inform planning and response actions. This is critical as we work to respect the integrity of the process and the privacy of the schools and school districts that might ever close. Those interested in learning about national school closures can consider tracking developments using the media or reaching out to regional or state level.

Sincerely,

COVID-19 Response Team

Hello Priscilla and Nevada TA Team,

Nevada would like to join the other states in the request for the SSIP deadline to be postponed. I have just been notified that my supervisor's division, The Division of Public and Behavioral Health (DPBH) is in need of additional staffing to meet the needs of the public re: COVID-19 pandemic. Please see forwarded re: I will likely have staff, possibly including myself and our leadership team, now being repurposed to assist our state colleagues during these extraordinary times. My office's ability to devote additional time needed for completion of our SSIP have been impacted daily for the past two weeks by emergency planning for pandemic, and it appears our time will be further constrained although I don't know for how much longer.

Thank you for upholding us with your support and thoughts during this time. We will keep you updated as to our SSIP progress as soon as possible.

New York would like a waiver to allow their 21st Century programs for the purpose of providing child-care to first responder families.

Ours schools districts have been asked to work with their community to provide child care for healthcare providers and first responders during the pandemic school closures. NYSED believes that our 21st Century providers are perfectly poised to assist in this endeavor, as they are both screened and trained in working with both 0 to5 and school age populations. I know that our providers are already concerned about meeting their numbers and whether they will continue to receive funding while their programs are closed. This could be a win-win, as they would be helping health care workers provide the care COVID-19 victims need while also giving our generous 21st Century sub-grantees the opportunity to help and stay employed. I hope this is an easy ask!

Subject: Provisional Coding for EL Identification

Good morning Brenda,

I hope you're doing well and staying safe. I've asked you a few questions and I have another one for you. As we await further guidance regarding the ten-day EL identification window, I would like to present a proposal for South Carolina as it relates to EL identification.

In South Carolina, are districts are expressing growing concerns regarding the administration of identification screeners during COVID-19 school closures since they require a face-to-face. The safety and health of our staff and students are of the utmost importance to us. Is it possible for us to solely use the presence of any language other than English on the HLS as an indicator that a student may be an EL and provide services using a provisional English proficiency level?

Essentially, if a family lists any language other than English on the HLS, we would code them with a provisional coding that indicates that this student needs to participate in identification screening at a later date. The student would receive e-learning materials with ESOL supports until the mandatory school closures end. Once school resumes, the student would participate in identification screening and would be appropriately identified as an EL or non-EL. If the student doesn't qualify for services, they will then be coded as a native speaker. All EL students will receive their true English proficiency levels and be placed appropriately at that time.

I understand that the presence of any other language other than English doesn't necessarily mean that a student is an EL, however, during this pandemic in an effort to keep staff and students safe, we propose this as an alternative to identifying students.

I will await your feedback and guidance.

Subject: Question in regards to Certification

Good afternoon,

My name is Maribel Lopez and I hold the position of School Social Worker with Lake County Schools. I have a Statement of Eligibility from the DOE as I was hired Out of Field for this position. In December, 2019, I was provided information from my hiring district advising me that I must earn 12 college credits from December through the end of the school year in order to secure my position for the 2020/2021 school year.

While in the process of researching and applying to an online university program, in order to take the courses required, this pandemic situation presented itself and as a result I am the only person in my household that has not been laid-off from my current employment. Unfortunately, this has forced me to hold on to my emergency funds that were going to be used for the college courses, now instead to be used for mortgage payments, rent payments, food, and other responsibilities.

My question is, will the DOE consider providing courtesy extensions to employees such as myself that have to meet criteria before the end of this school year, in order to secure employment for the next school year? Now, more than ever, I am in dire need of my job however, I am also in need of extra time in order to get my immediate needs and the needs of my sons met, before meeting certification criteria. Your help would be greatly appreciated! Thank you for your attention in this matter.

Hello Mark!

Hope you are doing well! I have received an update here and there from Kevin, so glad you have kept in touch.

Jane Brumitt is wondering if you would be willing to do a phone call this afternoon regarding DOE guidance such as perhaps having a shortened academic year, etc in lieu of the global Covid19 event. Would that be possible? Please let me know what time would be for you or if there is someone else you would prefer we talk with.

Thank you!

Subject: Procedures for Responding to Inquiries Relating to Higher Education

Distribution List: All ED Employees

Dear colleagues,

In order to ensure that the Department is providing clear, accurate and consistent communications to the community, the Department is instituting a new process for the intake of higher education coronavirus related questions that will be managed by the Office of Postsecondary Education (OPE). Employees are directed NOT to provide substantive responses to any coronavirus related questions until the question has been logged into our system, and an answer has been drafted and vetted by the appropriate staff. The only exception is if you are simply forwarding coronavirus communication that has already been posted by the Department. It is critical that all employees abide by these instructions, so the Department can effectively and consistently manage these issues. To the extent possible, OPE would like to provide answers to inquiries on these matters within 48 hours. Please follow the following steps after receiving a coronavirus related question:

Instructions for intake of coronavirus related questions:

1. When an employee receives a coronavirus related question that has not been addressed in previous communication posted by the Department, they should respond to the inquiring party acknowledging receipt of the question and informing them that the Department will respond as soon as possible. Please note that if it's unclear whether the question has been addressed by previous Department communication, employees should err on the side of sending the inquiry up the chain.
2. The employee should email the inquiry to their first line supervisor.
3. The first line supervisor should then forward the inquiry to Shaina Hilsey (Shaina.hilsey@ed.gov) and Jack Cox (jack.cox@ed.gov) who work within OPE, and copy leadership from their POC. Supervisors are encouraged to develop a suggested response to the inquiry, if practical. However, they should forward the question to Ms. Hilsey and Mr. Cox before developing the response and should indicate in the email to them if they plan to develop a response or would recommend another staff person develop a response. All draft responses should be forwarded to Shaina and Jack BEFORE the response is published or given to the source of the question or inquiry. Other POCs are permitted to develop alternative internal POC procedures at the discretion of their leaders, however, OPE would encourage that such processes ensure that we are notified as quickly as possible after an inquiry has been received.

4. Shaina and Jack will log all inquiries into our data base, then work with relevant subject matter experts and senior leadership in developing a response. They will then share the approved response with the relevant supervisors, who can then direct the responses to the individual source of the inquiry, and with OLCA and the Departmental Communication (OCO) site that is being established for these specific purposes.

Instructions for questions that you have already received

Please send all communications you have already received related the Coronavirus using the instructions above. If an employee has already responded to the inquiry, please attach the email that you sent to the inquiring party.

INTERNAL FSA PROCESS

FSA Instructions for intake of coronavirus-related questions that call for policy judgments or interpretations from the financial aid community:

1. When an FSA employee receives a coronavirus-related question from the financial aid community, that has not been addressed in previous communication posted by the Department, the FSA employee should respond to the inquiring party acknowledging receipt of the question and informing them that the Department will respond as soon as possible. Please note that if it's unclear whether the question has been addressed by previous Department communications, FSA employees will follow the process outlined below.
2. The FSA employee will email the inquiry to
• their first line supervisor,
• copy their deputy chief operating officer (COO), and
• send the email to the following mailbox – federalstudentaid@ed.gov.
This mailbox will be monitored by FSA's Strategic Communications team (Strat Comms). This team will identify a subject matter expert(s) for each question(s), only when appropriate. The SME may be asked to draft a proposed response for the Office of Postsecondary Education's (OPE) review.
3. Strat Comms will forward immediately the initial inquiry to OPE, including the identified SME, and whether the SME is drafting a proposed response. In the event a draft response is provided to Strat Comms by the SME, Strat Comms will forward the proposed response to OPE for review.
4. For all FSA inquiries, OPE will log them and work with relevant SMEs, which may be identified by Strat Comms, and senior leadership in developing a final response. OPE will then email federalstudentaid@ed.gov and provide the approved response.
5. Strat Comms is responsible to provide the approved response to the original FSA employee who initiated the inquiry, their first-line supervisor, and their deputy COO.
6. The FSA employee who initiated the inquiry is responsible to provide the approved response to the requestor.

Subject: Room & Board Adjustment Clarification

Our institution is considering reducing the room and board charges for the remainder of the Spring 20 semester due to moving to online instruction due to COVID-19.

The institution has seen several other institutions indicate that they plan to apply the "refund" to the next semester, which would be Fall 20 semester. This would overlap academic years.

I listened to a webinar last week and there seemed to be several issues if institutions opted to take this approach.

Based on what I heard, rolling forward creates an overlapping academic year situation. Schools are not permitted to hold Title IV (federal aid) refunds. Schools would have to look at each individual student to determine if the refund of charges would create a Title IV credit balance. Is so that portion must still be refunded within 14 days of the credit occurring in the Spring 20 term.

The cost of attendance (COA) for 2020-2021 may need adjusted which would impact financial aid awards for 2020-2021.

The refund of charges may count as income on the student's 2020 income tax return or count as untaxed income on the student's FAFSA.

Also it was implied that the Department of Education is highly encouraging schools to provide refunds in the term they occurred as families need these funds/savings now as they are dealing with companies temporarily closing but not continuing to pay employees, dealing with day care needs, added food costs as more family members are at home, etc.

My understanding is if schools refund during the term the charges occurred (Spring 20) then we don't have to deal with any of these issues.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Is this correct? My institution wants to make a decision and inform our students this week, but we want to make sure our understanding is correct.

Thank you for your time. I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Dear Jim,

I left you a voice message today at 1:45 pm. CST. I have been asked to inquire about the "how" and guidance to ensure compliance with the Department should the university need to close as a result of COVID 19. Per the EA received last week:

Length of Academic Year

The Department is authorized under 34 CFR § 668.3 to approve a reduced academic year. If at any point an institution determines it will close as the result of a campus health emergency, it may contact the School Participation team to request a temporary reduction in the length of its academic year.

Thank you in advance for your input.

Good morning, Libby-
In response to COVID-19 and subsequent restrictions, we have a few questions, and we were hoping you might be able to provide some clarity for us on them. Our grants office forwarded us this document, which outlines flexibilities permitted to awarding agencies in light of current events. However, we have not heard if ED will be exercising these allowed flexibilities for Title II (or any other federal program for that matter). Our questions are below.

1- Will ED, as the awarding agency, allow a no-cost extension for Title II funds (allowed flexibility number 4 on the document)?
2- Will ED, as the awarding agency, allow flexibility of costs not normally chargeable to awards (allowed flexibility number 7 on the document)?
3- Will ED, as the awarding agency, allow an extension of closeout for Title II funds (allowed flexibility number 12 on the document)?
4- Can transfer of funds occur at any point in the grant cycle? If LEAs wish to transfer Title II funds to Title IV mid-grant cycle, is that permitted?

Thanks in advance for any clarity you can provide, as I'm sure you are innundated with questions. We look forward to any guidance you can provide.

The Honorable Betsy DeVos
U.S. Secretary of Education
Lyndon Baines Johnson (LBJ)Department of Education Building
400 Maryland Ave, SW
Washington, DC 20202

March 23, 2020

Dear Secretary DeVos:

The National Association of Private Special Education Centers (NAPSEC) was established in 1971 as a nonprofit association with the vision of supporting access to appropriate special education programs as vital components of the continuum. NAPSEC currently represents over 200 private early intervention providers, schools, residential therapeutic centers, and adult service programs.

Our members are striving to provide students with disabilities critical educational, behavioral health, and support services to the greatest extent possible in this time of crisis. As you develop directives and guidance for our nation's education system, we strongly urge you to ensure that nonpublic special education schools are supported in a sustainable manner so they may continue to meet the needs of students.

NAPSEC members are an integral part of the education continuum for students with disabilities. As you know, during this pandemic our members are facing unprecedented closures, public health constraints, and difficult decisions while prioritizing, above all else, the well-being and safety of a diverse, exceptional population. In particular, this emergency introduces severe financial risks resulting in employment issues, including staff furloughs, due to mandated closures and uncertain guidance on tuition support.

We strongly urge the U.S. Department of Education to communicate specific guidance that supports continued payment of nonpublic school services in accordance with students' Individualized Education Programs and existing contracts and service agreements with local education agencies (LEAs). We suggest the following guidance be issued to governors and state departments of education to ensure the continued flow of funds to nonpublic schools that is critical to their ability to serve students with exceptional needs:

- Encourage states to enact provisions for the payment of invoices for nonpublic schools.
- Direct states to provide assurances that nonpublic schools are authorized to pay staff during periods of school closure and that they will be reimbursed, as school districts/LEAs are.
- Provide direction to states to ensure that if public schools receive average daily attendance rates during this state of emergency, nonpublic schools must also receive payment of daily rates, regardless of closure. This will ensure that school personnel are able to deliver innovative distance and online learning programs to meet students' needs and will safeguard their availability to return to work once schools reopen.

In the absence of this guidance, our members are being forced to make incredibly difficult decisions to limit financial losses and ensure the safety of students and staff. These short-term decisions will have significant long-term implications, potentially exacerbating the existing shortage of special education personnel in the field and limiting the ability of schools to meet the ongoing needs of their students.

Thank you for your attention and concern for the students, families, and communities NAPSEC programs proudly serve. Please do not hesitate to contact me for further discussion or clarification. I may be reached at napsec@napsec.org or (202) 434-8225.

Hello,

We are working through possibilities with our Physician Assistant students who are facing issues completing their clinical rotations due to the COVID-19 issues. I read the guidance released about leaves of absence and have a question. For schools that do not have a LOA policy for financial aid, are we excluded from offering an LOA to our students? I assumed that this would only apply to students if a policy currently exists, but wanted to double check.

We have students with late start classes and one semester loans. We are an institution that must do 2 disbursements on a one semester loan. At the time of the second disbursement the student must be enrolled in 6 hours in order to disburse. We have quite a few students whose course has been dropped because of COVID-19 and there are not additional classes to enroll in at this time. The cancelled class has caused them to now be less than half time status and their loan will not disburse. Are we allowed to make special exception to this disbursement or the student just cannot have the second half of the loan.

Hello. I now live in Michigan but previously lived and taught in the state of Indiana where eLearning has been in place for 6 years. The Michigan Department of Education is not moving forward proactively by allowing Remote, Home or eLearning for students. Their interpretation and now written law is that ALL students must have equal access to technology and internet and all issues with disabled students must be eliminated first before allowing Home Learning.

We live in a very competitive, technological and global workforce. The Michigan Department of Education is interfering with my children's ability to free and public education by burdening our school districts with unnecessary expectations during these unprecedented, challenging times. I am requesting Federal assistance to ensure my children's public education. Please advise where I can turn for the most effective help to solve this problem.

Subject: Non-term (credit hour) transition to online learning

Good afternoon,

We're working to transition our curriculum to an online environment as we support students through the disruption created by Covid-19. Our programs are non-term (credit hour) and have traditionally relied on a blend of instructor led learning and practical hands-on experience. We plan to continue with that blend, though for obvious reasons the hands-on element will be delivered when it is permissible (based on state quarantine limitations) and safe for our students and faculty.

While the hands-on component is important, we do not believe that delaying that element should hinder students from progressing in their program. The hands-on work serves as a way for students to demonstrate (and for us to validate) their application of the course material in a practical environment. Once campuses re-open, students will need to successfully complete the hands-on elements of the program.

We think this approach gives students the best opportunity to move forward and be successful and the March 20th guidance from ED suggests that the Covid-19 related flexibility extends to non-term programs for payment periods that overlap March 5. Can you please confirm we are permitted to run payment periods that overlap March 5th (allowing students to make progress with the lecture portion of their program while we wait for campuses to reopen and the hands-on labs can resume). Many of our students rely on TIV for living expense and won't be able to proceed if the hands-on element is required before they progress to the next payment period. We appreciate your efforts to help students and institutions through these difficult times and await your confirmation that the flexibility described in the March 5th & 20th (and as described above) applies to our non-term programs.

Thank you in advance for your help and guidance. I am available at your convenience if you have questions or would like to discuss.

Hello, John,

I will refer you to the Electronic Announcement that was posted on March 5 and updated on March 20. Note that for the payment period(s) that overlap March 5, there is a great deal of flexibility and no formal approval process, but for payment periods that do not include March 5, you'll need to follow our regular process for approval of distance education delivery of coursework.

If you have more specific questions, please direct your questions to the email address included in the Electronic Announcement. It is very important to us that FSA is aware of the questions schools have and that we develop consistent answers to those questions.

We wish you well at this very unusual time,

Mike & Julie,

I hope this finds you and your team well. We're working to transition our curriculum to an online environment as we support students through the disruption created by Covid-19. As you know, our programs have traditionally relied on a blend of instructor led learning and practical hands-on experience. We plan to continue with that blend, though for obvious reasons the hands-on element will be delivered when it is permissible (based on state quarantine limitations) and safe for our students and faculty.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

We think this approach gives students the best opportunity to move forward and be successful while dealing with Covid-19. To that end, we would like guidance on how best to deal with this scenario as students complete their current payment period's online instruction and are ready to move into the next payment period. Many of our students rely on TIV for living expense and won't be able to proceed if the hands-on element is required before they progress to the next payment period. Given students will be engaged online for the minimum number of weeks to satisfy the current payment period, does ED's Covid-19 flexibility permit us to fund the next payment period to keep students on track.

Thank you in advance for your help and guidance.

John

Hi,

We use third party agencies to administer many of our study abroad programs on behalf of foreign institutions. These agencies sign our consortium agreements. Below is an example of an email that we have received from one of the agencies:

In compliance with the consortium agreement, I am writing to notify you of the enrollment status of the following Saint Anselm College student(s), who used financial aid to pay for the ISA Spring 2020:

(Student Names)

Regrettably, these programs on-site have been cancelled and the students have returned/will be returning to the US. Although the student(s) will not continue the semester abroad, it is important to note that ISA is in contact with all host institutions to discuss the academic options available for students to complete their coursework from a distance. We will continue to communicate with students regarding these options.

Are the students eligible for the aid that they have received if they continue online programs with the host institution? Do we need to have the host institution sign the consortium agreement since the original was signed by the study abroad agency? I am thinking that many schools are struggling with this same issue right now.

Thanks so much for your help.

Good afternoon,

My name is Maribel Lopez and I hold the position of School Social Worker with Lake County Schools. I have a Statement of Eligibility from the DOE as I was hired Out of Field for this position. In December, 2019, I was provided information from my hiring district advising me that I must earn 12 college credits from December through the end of the school year in order to secure my position for the 2020/2021 school year.

While in the process of researching and applying to an online university program, in order to take the courses required, this pandemic situation presented itself and as a result I am the only person in my household that has not been laid-off from my current employment. Unfortunately, this has forced me to hold on to my emergency funds that were going to be used for the college courses, for mortgage payments, rent payments, food, and other responsibilities.

My question is, will the DOE consider providing courtesy extensions to employees such as myself that have to meet criteria before the end of this school year, in order to secure employment for the next school year? Now, more than ever, I am in dire need of my job however, I am also in need of extra time in order to get my immediate needs and the needs of my sons met, before meeting certification criteria. Your help would be greatly appreciated! Thank you for your attention in this matter.

Good afternoon,

I am a case manager at James B. McPherson Elementary School in Chicago Illinois. I have been in the field of special education for 30 years and never thought I would have to ask a question like this. Due to schools being closed and having a shelter in place order, I am asking if there is flexibility in the IDEA (2004) that would allow for schools to delay 3 year reevaluations and go ahead with IEP conferences. If we were to hold off on the reevaluations until school begins in the fall would this be allowed? I have several students in our school that are coming up for 3 year reevaluations and if we were to resume school on April 21st, would not have enough time for the clinicians to complete comprehensive assessments that are warranted. Is there some guidance we are going to receive from the federal level or should we be directed these types of questions to our state educational agencies?

Thank you for time,

I am hoping to get some clarification regarding the new COVID-19 guidelines for schools since I am getting conflicting and, quite frankly, confusing messages from my Lee County school.

First of all regarding self isolation after international travel: is this required for high risk countries or all countries? From what I understand the CDC is requiring self isolation after cruise ship travel and travel to high risk countries, other travel requires screening by your physician or local health department. Is the FL department of education taking a different stance than the CDC?

Secondly, the school closures after spring break: is this just public schools or private and public schools?

I am also a local pediatrician and would like to have some straightforward information for my patients.

Subject: Coronavirus: Teachers and Staff provide food services and Meal deliveries? Please advise.

Is there a response team (National Guard) set up to deliver and provide meals such as breakfast and lunches in low income rural communities--who depend on the food services to help the families and students survive this coronavirus ordeal?

There are school administrators and government officials asking teachers to provide much of the putting together and delivery of the breakfasts and lunches for the students and families...This directive from school administrators for teachers and staff to provide and/or deliver breakfast and lunches for students seems to go against the directive for school teachers and staff to stay at home.

What are the regulations or necessary precautions (6 feet and 10 or less people meeting-school personnel and community members) that are put in place to avoid dangers of staff and teachers who are not trained (food handlers) or dressed (masks) for this situation?

Subject: Covid 19 response

It would be great to see Secretary DeVos publicly encouraging all the teachers who are working hard to teach their classes remotely.

Secretary DeVos seems like a gifted exhorter and encourager. There are so many teachers and parents, who have overnight become teachers, who would benefit from hearing from Secretary DeVos. They need to hear from the Education Secretary about home resources, how parents and teachers can work together, etc.

I was surprised that on Ed.gov Home page loans and grants and many other topics were highlighted and I had to scroll way to see anything about Covid.

My question is, "When will we see Secretary DeVos' leadership, encouragement, insights begin to be heard?"

Respectfully,

Mark Toback

Dear Mr. Sands,

Thank you for your letter to Secretary DeVos at the U.S. Department of Education (Department) concerning the coronavirus and its considerations for school. Your letter was referred to the Office of Safe and Supportive Schools for review, and I am pleased to respond.

The Department created the "COVID-19 ("Coronavirus") Information and Resources for Schools and School Personnel," Web page, accessible at https://www.ed.gov/coronavirus?src=feature, to support school communities, and the communities they serve as they plan, prepare and potentially respond to possible cases of COVID-19. As with any disease that has the potential to affect our school communities, the CDC will provide information about the signs, symptoms, and severity of the virus, as well as the proper steps to help prevent its spread. Schools systems are their health departments are working to determine specific criteria and possible response actions for supporting students and staff who may be ill with possible symptoms such as a fever.

If the Department ever collects data on the effects of an emergency on schools, it is shared only with the Federal response groups to help inform planning and response actions. This is critical as we work to respect the integrity of the process and the privacy of the schools and school districts that might ever close. Those interested in learning about national school closures can consider tracking developments using the media or reaching out to regional or state level.

Sincerely,

COVID-19 Response Team

Subject: RE: Further Coronavirus guidance needed for state agency

Hello.

Please see the following question and answer that we feel best addresses the issue raised in your email.

Q: We have a clock hour program that we are considering moving to an online format in response to the COVID-19 outbreak. Is there any guidance you can provide us?

A: An institution that offers a clock hour program in a distance education format must ensure that each clock hour of instruction is supervised by qualified institutional personnel. In most cases, synchronous instruction through distance education, where students are actively engaged with an instructor in real-time discussion, would provide an adequate platform for the instructor to supervise students in clock hour programs.

However, an institution that offers asynchronous instruction in a clock-hour program must maintain an online learning platform or another system for monitoring each student's academic engagement to ensure that students are academically engaged in at least 50 minutes for each hour that is recorded as a clock hour attended by the student. In this circumstance, an instructor can complete a student's timesheet to include clock hours earned in a distance education format, but the hours must be based on data or the instructor's own knowledge that the student was academically engaged for at least 50 minutes out of each clock hour that is recorded.

Institutions must ensure that any clock hour offered through distance education meets all applicable requirements set by accrediting agencies and States and fulfills applicable educational prerequisites for State licensure.

We believe they are responsive to your question. Please let us know if you have additional questions and review the Electronic Announcement posted on the Department's COVID-19 website at: https://ifap.ed.gov/electronic-announcements/030520Guidance4interruptionsrelated2CoronavirusCOVID19.

Good afternoon Susan:

I hope you are safe and well. I apologize in advance for our persistence as I am sure you are being inundated with questions.
Counsel for the AACS sent the information below.
All Florida based Cosmo schools are hoping to gain Emergency temporary approval from CIE today for distance ed:

Clock Hour Programs Not Fully Addressed Importantly for schools that measure attendance in clock hours, this flexibility is not available for courses that lead to state licensure if the licensure body will not accept distance learning courses or hours or give credit for them toward the number of hours a student must complete. Therefore, clock hour institutions will want to work with their state licensure agencies to urge them to accept online learning options on an emergency basis or risk having enrolled students deemed Title IV ineligible if part or all of an affected program is provided through distance education.

If you can email me back to update us on whether we can anticipate receiving such approval today, that would be most appreciated during this time of uncertainty.

Thank you in advance, as always!

Attached is the CDC's guidance on the decision to close schools, including the attached "decision tree" that may be helpful to you.

The US Department of Education has set up a dedicated web page at https://www.ed.gov/coronavirus where new guidance will be posted. Last week they added FERPA guidance.

Also, please see our latest alert that includes information on issues on which a group of Senators are pressing the Department for an answer including regarding online accessibility and SAP measurement issues.

U.S. Department of Education Issues COVID-19 Guidance to Schools

March 12, 2020

> The Department considers its March 5 guidance to be interim, and may follow up with additional guidance addressing these and other topics.

Due to the outbreak of coronavirus (COVID-19), the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention recommends that institutions of higher education consider postponing or canceling upcoming study abroad or foreign exchange programs. However, this advice has raised pressing questions about how this would affect Title IV, Higher Education Act (HEA) federal financial aid and a student's ability to finish the term if a program is interrupted or canceled. In response, on March 5, 2020, the U.S. Department of Education's office of Federal Student Aid (FSA) offered guidance permitting temporary flexibility and clarifying how higher education institutions can continue to comply with Title IV regulations for students whose activities are impacted by COVID-19.

Please note that on March 10, 2020, Senator Patricia Murray and 32 other senators wrote to Education Secretary Betsy DeVos seeking additional guidance from the Department on a number of additional issues including:

- Online educational options for students without home computers or high speed internet access;
- Assistance with ensuring accessible online instructional materials for students with disabilities;
- Continuity of mental health services;
- Ensuring quality of online education including guidance around the "regular and substantive" online interaction requirement;
- Greater flexibility for Satisfactory Academic Progress measurement;
- Proactive warnings to students regarding return of Title IV procedures for mid-term withdrawals to avoid unnecessary federal aid expenditures for students;

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Loan deferment and forbearance opportunities for students with interrupted income;
- How to report withdrawal dates to avoid triggering repayment obligation grace period; and
- Institutional partnerships with non-Title IV entities.

The Department considers its March 5 guidance to be interim, and may follow up with additional guidance addressing these and other topics. The timing of such guidance is unknown at this time.

FSA's March 5 announcement covers five scenarios:

1. A student is enrolled in a travel abroad program and was called back or was never able to start the program.
2. A student was enrolled in a class or program that was canceled due to the virus and is no longer considered to be a full-time student because of inability to earn sufficient credits.
3. A student is quarantined and misses class, or a student has the coronavirus.
4. A campus temporarily stops offering classes to prevent the spread of the virus.
5. A foreign school temporarily suspends operations.

Note: The scenarios do not include students who have not yet enrolled or whose programs have not yet started.

Temporary Use of Distance Education Permitted

FSA's guidance temporarily allows U.S. institutions (not foreign schools) to use online instruction without going through the regular approval process. In doing so, the Department also makes clear that accreditors can waive their distance education review requirements. However, it is up to each accreditor to announce that policy. The guidance states that instructors must initiate and be able to document substantive communication with students, either individually or collectively, on a regular basis.

Institutions can temporarily move classes online until they are given the "all clear" to resume classroom instruction; enter into temporary agreements with other schools for students to complete courses; ask the Department for permission for a temporary, reduced academic year; and/or or accreditors can waive their requirements for students to complete a certain number of credits at an institution to finish their degrees. Again, the flexibility offered to accrediting agencies is dependent upon the agencies agreeing to adopt such policies.

Clock Hour Programs Not Fully Addressed

Importantly for schools that measure attendance in clock hours, this flexibility is not available for courses that lead to state licensure if the licensure body will not accept distance learning courses or hours or give credit for them toward the number of hours a student must complete. Therefore, clock hour institutions will want to work with their state licensure agencies to urge them to accept online learning options on an emergency basis or risk having enrolled students deemed Title IV ineligible if part or all of an affected program is provided through distance education.

Federal Student Aid Funds

The Department will also allow students to request a leave of absence and let institutions keep the Title IV funds to use when the students return, as long as they come back within the current length of an acceptable leave of absence, which is 180 days. For students who have not yet started their programs, the institution must return all Title IV funds and all Direct Loan funds credited to a student's account for the period. Institutions should also notify students' loan servicers that the student did not begin attendance to protect them from entering repayment within six months of withdrawing.

The Department will also allow schools to continue paying student federal work-study wages during a temporary coronavirus-related closure. However, the Department does not have the authority to waive the requirement to award Title IV funds based on a student's enrollment status if they fall below full-time enrollment or 12 credit hours.

For additional updates, please continue to check the Department's resource page.

Subject: [AACS List] Further Coronavirus guidance please

Hello all,

Since the webinar AACS hosted last week on the Coronavirus preparedness for our schools, things have escalated.
-Cities have declared a state of emergency.
-State surgeon generals have declared a Public Health Emergency.
-President Trump declared a national emergency.

I noted that Ed Cramp mentioned during the presentation that if a public health emergency was declared we would have to have additional considerations. That declaration has now occurred, at all government levels (at least in our area). In our area (as is the case for many areas in the country), public schools (at all levels --elementary, middle, high and colleges/universities) are closing, effective Monday 3/16/20. Some are closing for 2 weeks, others indefinitely, while some have closed and moving their classes to a virtual/distance setting.

We now have been experiencing elevated pressure (though questions and facial expressions) from our students and staff to determine if we remain open or if we follow others and close. It feels as if our school community expects us to close "since we are a school and all other schools are closing." We are strongly considering closing for 2 weeks, but also have considered the consequences of closing. If we close is mostly to follow along with other (public) schools and as a courtesy to students and staff to allow them to make family arrangements, but luckily, our school community has not been directly affected or disturbed (as of now). Another consideration is, what will be different in 2 weeks? Perhaps we will have reports of many more cases, more public panic and would be expected to close further days/weeks.

So, any further thoughts? Is AACS working on further guidance for the membership. Any legal considerations?

Stay safe everyone!

Subject: Rural area school closings

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

How are our children in rural areas, who have no cyber technology set in place for our elementary, middle school and high school children able to continue their education and learning from these shut downs? There is nothing in place in my county and they have initiated a survey for us parents to fill out to see if we have our own equipment at home to comply with a possible cyber teachings to take place when who knows when. Today we get a voicemail stating more people than expected did not have the necessary materials and that they are unsure how they are gonna accommodate these Cyber courses now. Why as a parent am I expected to accommodate to materials that should be provided and already in place for possible pandemics and emergency situations. Where does my school tax money go? And what is spent on these grants provided to these school districts that are obviously not in the best interest to help our children succeed and be able to have the proper education?

Good morning, Libby-
In response to COVID-19 and subsequent restrictions, we have a few questions, and we were hoping you might be able to provide some clarity for us on them. Our grants office forwarded us this document, which outlines flexibilities permitted to awarding agencies in light of current events. However, we have not heard if ED will be exercising these allowed flexibilities for Title II (or any other federal program for that matter). Our questions are below.

1- Will ED, as the awarding agency, allow a no-cost extension for Title II funds (allowed flexibility number 4 on the document)?
2- Will ED, as the awarding agency, allow flexibility of costs not normally chargeable to awards (allowed flexibility number 7 on the document)?
3- Will ED, as the awarding agency, allow an extension of closeout for Title II funds (allowed flexibility number 12 on the document)?
4- Can transfer of funds occur at any point in the grant cycle? If LEAs wish to transfer Title II funds to Title IV mid-grant cycle, is that permitted?

Thanks in advance for any clarity you can provide, as I'm sure you are innundated with questions. We look forward to any guidance you can provide.

Attachments: 00393100_Northwest_College_Recalculated_2019-20_Academic_Year_Support_Documents (3-24-20).pdf

Greetings,

This email serves as the formal request by Northwest College in Powell WY (OPEID 00393100) to have our 2019-20 Academic Year shortened to 29 weeks due to an extended spring break (break of 5 or more consecutive days) related to the COVID-19 pandemic.

Northwest College, following directives from its Governor (Mark Gordon) temporarily closed our campus to the public, starting 3.15.20. To promote social distancing recommendations, our residence halls closed and our spring break was extended to allow our faculty to transition all face-to-face academic programming to online modalities, which resume on 4.6.20. Our spring break, originally planned to occur from 3.7.20-3.15.20, was extended to last from 3.7.20- 4.5.20, which effectively shortened the number of weeks within the academic year to 29, less than the required 30 week minimum. Eligible days within the spring 2020 semester (used as the denominator for semester R2T4 calculations) were reduced from 106 to 85 due to the spring break extension.

Therefore, following guidance in Federal Student Aid's 3.5.20 Electronic Announcement regarding COVID-19, echoed in NAFAA's Ask Regs entitled "What Factors Do We Need to Consider When Deciding To Extend a Schedule Break Due To Coronavirus"?, I am contacting this COVID-19@ed.gov email address to request a reduction in our 2019-20 academic year to 29 weeks total (16 weeks Fall 2019 + 13 weeks Spring 2020 = 29 total weeks). Please forward this request to the applicable School Participation Division representative.

In addition to the text of this email, please find these attached support documents should they be useful:

- Statewide Orders from Wyoming's Governor Mark Gordon
- Northwest College's notification to employees & students of temporary campus closure & spring break extension
- Northwest College's original 2019-20 academic calendar
- Northwest College's revised 2020 spring semester academic calendar with extended spring break
- Northwest College's College Catalog disclosure that the academic begins/ends each Monday, in conjunction with the College's fiscal year payroll calendar (see definition of "credit hour").
- Northwest College's recalculation of 29 weeks for the revised 2019-20 academic calendar
- Northwest College's 2019-20 library of academic programs

Thank you for your consideration. Please contact me at this email address should you need more information.

Governor Gordon and State Superintendent Jillian Balow issue a recommendation on school closures

CHEYENNE, Wyo. – Due to the unprecedented circumstances facing our state, Governor Mark Gordon and State Superintendent Jillian Balow recommend that all schools remain closed to students through at least April 3. This is a recommendation to local superintendents and school boards, who will make the final decisions on closures. Additionally, decisions relating to the requirement for school district staff to report to work remain with local school boards of trustees. Governor Gordon and Superintendent Balow will continue to monitor COVID-19 developments throughout this three-week period, with the goal of getting students back to classrooms as soon as safely possible.

This recommendation is not necessarily based on epidemiological best practices but is an attempt to allow schools and communities to prepare to operate in a way that mitigates community spread of COVID-19 and minimizes negative economic impacts locally and statewide.

"This is Wyoming, where we are all neighbors," Governor Gordon said. "While social distancing should be a priority for all of us, it should not keep us from helping out our neighbors. I am thinking of our first responders and healthcare workers on the frontlines who may be without child care. This is a time, if the risk is low, to help one another out."

The Governor and State Superintendent urge district leadership to work within their schools and communities to ensure the continuity of learning and essential services as determined locally. "In the midst of this pandemic, communities need the latitude, empowerment, and support to make difficult decisions that affect education, economy, and essential functions," Governor Gordon continued. "While we safeguard the health of every person we must also do our best to continue our daily work for the economic security of our state and nation."

"Evidence of community spread in Fremont County, two confirmed cases in Sheridan County, and pending tests from across the state have led us to this," Superintendent Balow said. "Wyoming has over 90,000 square miles where schooling is an essential function in each community – the decision is difficult."

Social distancing, basic hygiene, and heightened disinfection efforts continue to be the primary means to contain COVID-19 spread. We strongly encourage everyone to continue these practices. Local school districts continue to be empowered to make decisions in consultation with the State Department of Health and local health care officials as to closure and other containment strategies.

Governor Gordon, Superintendent Balow, the State Health Officer, and others will continually evaluate COVID-19 data, guidance from the Center for Disease Control (CDC), and other reliable information to make additional recommendations.

-CDC guidance and other resources are available at https://edu.wyoming.gov/. The State Superintendent is exploring her ability to hold districts harmless from any financial reduction as a result of this ten instructional day loss. In addition, the Wyoming Department of Education has received a waiver from the U.S. Department of Agriculture to allow schools to offer student meals during school closures. STATEWIDE PUBLIC HEALTH ORDER CLOSING BARS, RESTAURANTS, THEATERS, GYMNASIUMS, CHILD CARE FACILITIES, K-12 SCHOOLS, COLLEGES, UNIVERSITIES, AND TRADE SCHOOLS STATEWIDE

In an effort to stop the spread of the coronavirus (COVID-19), the Wyoming Department of Health finds it necessary to protect the health of the public by implementing emergency measures to close all restaurants, bars, theaters, gymnasiums, child care facilities, K-12 schools, colleges, universities, and trade schools, in the State of Wyoming, with certain exceptions. This Order is effective immediately, and shall remain in effect until April 3, 2020.

FINDINGS

1. COVID-19 was first detected in Wuhan, China in 2019, and since then has spread to over 60 countries including the United States. There are 18 confirmed cases of COVID-19 in Wyoming as of March 18, 2020, as well as the presence of community spread. It is expected that more cases will be diagnosed.

2. COVID-19 is a respiratory illness, transmitted through person-to-person contact or by contact with surfaces contaminated with the virus. Persons infected with COVID-19 may become symptomatic two to fourteen days after exposure. The symptoms of COVID-19 include fever, cough, and shortness of breath. In some cases, COVID-19 can result in severe disease including hospitalization, admission to an intensive care unit, and death, especially among older adults and persons with serious underlying health conditions.

3. The World Health Organization declared COVID-19 a worldwide pandemic as of March 11, 2020.

4. On March 13, 2020, the President of the United States declared a national emergency concerning the coronavirus, specifically stating that, in "December 2019 a novel (new) coronavirus known as SARS-CoV-2 ("the virus") was first detected in Wuhan, Hubei Province, People's Republic of China, causing outbreaks of the coronavirus disease (COVID-19) that has now spread globally [...] The spread of COVID-19 within our Nation's communities threatens to strain our Nation's healthcare systems. [...] Additional measures [...] are needed to successfully contain and combat the virus in the United States."

5. On March 13, 2020, Wyoming Governor Mark Gordon declared a State of Emergency and Public Health Emergency in the State of Wyoming, stating that on March 11, 2020, an individual within the State of Wyoming tested presumptive positive for COVID-19 and the State of Wyoming is experiencing a public health emergency in response to the evolving COVID-19 outbreak.

6. Governor Gordon's Declaration of a State of Emergency and Public Health Emergency directs the Wyoming Department of Health to take all appropriate and necessary actions, and that in the judgment of the Director of the Wyoming Department of Health, any actions necessary should be taken to provide aid to those locations where there is a threat or danger to public health, safety, and welfare.

7. The guidelines issued from the White House on March 16, 2020, specify that with evidence of community transmission within a state, bars, restaurants, food courts, gyms, and other indoor and outdoor venues where groups of people congregate should be closed.

8. A significant number of Wyoming citizens are at risk of serious health complications, including death, from COVID-19. Although most individuals who contract COVID-19 do not become seriously ill, people with mild symptoms, and even asymptomatic persons with COVID-19, place other vulnerable members of the public at significant risk.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

9. Counties in Wyoming have requested orders of this kind following the White House guidelines, and the best manner of protecting the health of the citizens of Wyoming is through a consistent order spanning the entire State.

10. A large number of persons with serious infections has the ability to compromise the ability of healthcare systems in Wyoming to deliver the necessary healthcare to the public.

11. Wyoming Statute §§ 35-1-240(a)(i) and (iv) provides all the rights and powers for the Wyoming Department of Health, through the State Health Officer, Dr. Alexia Harrist, M.D., PhD, or under her directive through other employees of the Wyoming Department of Health, to close theaters, schools, and other public places, and forbid public gatherings when necessary to protect the public health.

12. In addition to the above findings, stopping the spread of COVID-19 includes washing hands often, practicing social distancing by avoiding close contact with others, staying at least six feet away from someone who is ill or showing signs of illness, avoiding touching your face, eyes, nose and mouth, and covering your cough or sneeze into your elbow or by using a tissue.

ORDER

1. The following places of public accommodation are ordered closed to ingress, egress, use, and occupancy by members of the public:

   a. Restaurants, food courts, cafes, coffeehouses, and other similar places of public accommodation offering food or beverage for on-premises consumption;

   b. Bars, taverns, brew pubs, breweries, microbreweries, distillery pubs, wineries, tasting rooms, special licensees, clubs, and other places of public accommodation offering alcoholic beverages for on-premises consumption;

   c. Cigar bars;

   d. Gymnasiums; and

   e. Movie and performance theaters, opera houses, concert halls, and music halls.

2. The following conditions apply to places of public accommodation subject to this Order:

   a. Places of public accommodation are encouraged to offer food and beverage using delivery service, window service, walk-up service, drive-through service, or drive-up service, and to use precautions in doing so to mitigate the potential transmission of COVID-19, including social distancing. Online and telephonic credit card transactions are strongly encouraged (e.g. Venmo, Squarecash, Googlepay, Apple Pay and similar payment apps).

   b. Staff who handle cash or credit cards may not be involved in the preparation, handling, or delivery of food.

   c. In offering food or beverage, a place of public accommodation may permit up to five members of the public at one time in the place of public accommodation for the purpose of picking up their food or beverage orders, so long as those individuals are at least six feet apart from one another while on premises.

   d. For hotel restaurants, food items may only be delivered as room service or as described above.

   e. Management shall ensure, on a daily basis, that no employee who presents symptoms of illness will be permitted to work.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

3. For clarity, this Order does not apply to any of the following:

   a. Places of public accommodation that offer food and beverage not for on-premises consumption, including grocery stores, markets, retail stores that offer food, convenience stores, pharmacies, drug stores, and food pantries;

   b. Room service in hotels;

   c. Health care facilities, residential care facilities, congregate care facilities, and juvenile justice facilities;

   d. Crisis shelters or similar institutions;

   e. Airport concessionaires; and

   f. Any emergency facilities necessary for the response to the events surrounding the public health emergency and state of emergency caused by COVID-19.

4. All child care centers and home daycares are ordered closed, subject to the following:

   a. Child care centers or home daycares that provide care for children of essential personnel may continue to operate to provide child care for children of essential personnel. Essential personnel includes:

      i. Staff and providers of childcare and education services, including custodial and kitchen staff and other support staff, who do not do their work remotely;

      ii. Providers of healthcare including, but not limited to, employees of clinics, hospitals, nursing homes, long-term care and post-acute care facilities, respite houses, designated agencies, emergency medical services, as well as necessary custodial, kitchen, administrative, and other support staff;

      iii. Criminal justice personnel including those in law enforcement, courts, and correctional services;

      iv. Public health employees;

      v. Firefighters, Wyoming National Guard personnel called to duty for responding to COVID-19, and other first responders;

      vi. State employees determined to be essential for response to the COVID-19 crisis;

      vii. Active duty military staff;

      viii. Pharmacy staff;

      ix. Foster families with children through grade 8;

      x. 2-1-1 and 9-1-1 call center staff; critical infrastructure and utility workers, including electrical, plumbing, telecommunications, water, and wastewater operators, workers, and staff;

      xi. State, municipal, and commercial public works and sanitation crews;

      xii. Grocery and food supply workers;

      xiii. Supply chain, postal, and delivery drivers and warehouse workers;

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

xiv. Manufacturers of medical devices, equipment, testing equipment, and supplies;

xv. and fuel distribution workers.

b. In circumstances where a child care center or home daycare remains open, the center or home is required to have fewer than 10 people in a room or together at any time, including for meals or recreation.

c. Further, a child care center or home daycare that remains open is required to follow all health guidelines from the CDC and Wyoming Department of Health for limiting the risk of transmission of COVID-19, to the extent possible when caring for children.

d. As childcare is a critical part of the infrastructure of Wyoming, allowing essential systems to function, in the event a county health officer wants to close a childcare facility under the direction and supervision of the State Health Officer, the County Health Officer shall work with local childcare providers to make available limited childcare services for essential personnel, as described above.

5. All K-12 schools shall dismiss students until no sooner than April 3, 2020, to the extent any school in Wyoming has not already done so. Administrative staff and teachers may continue to work in school buildings to facilitate distance learning or to complete administrative tasks. Food may still be prepared to be made available to those in need, as directed by school superintendents. Classes may still be offered online at the discretion of the school.

6. All colleges, universities, and trade schools shall not hold in person classes until no sooner than April 3, 2020. Administrative staff and teachers may continue to work in facility buildings to facilitate distance learning or to complete administrative tasks. Food may still be prepared to be made available to those in need. Classes may still be offered online at the discretion of the college, university or trade school.

7. This Order supersedes all previous individual county orders authorized by the Wyoming State Health Officer under Wyoming Statute § 35-1-240(a)(iv). To the extent the county order is more restrictive, the more restrictive provisions still apply.

8. Exceptions to the public accommodation sections above (paragraphs 1-3) may be granted, at the discretion of the County Health Officer, under the direction and supervision of the State Health Officer, if the business can demonstrate, in writing, to the County Health Officer that they will limit customers within the business to no more than ten at any given time, that at least 6 feet of space will be maintained between customers at all times, and that effective cleaning will be performed between customers.

As the State Health Officer, I specifically deem this order necessary to protect the public health. See Wyo. Stat. Ann. § 35-1-240(a)(iv). I will reassess the necessity of this order as appropriate to do so and according to accepted epidemiological and medical standards. ## STATEWIDE PUBLIC HEALTH ORDER #2: FORBIDDING GATHERINGS OF TEN (10) PEOPLE OR MORE

In an effort to stop the spread of the coronavirus (COVID-19), the Wyoming Department of Health finds it necessary to protect the health of the public by implementing emergency measures, in accordance with the White House Guidelines, to forbid gatherings of ten (10) people or more, with certain exceptions. This Order is effective immediately, and shall remain in effect until April 3, 2020, unless the Wyoming Department of Health revokes the Order before April 3, 2020.

FINDINGS

1. COVID-19 was first detected in Wuhan, China in 2019, and since then has spread to over 60 countries including the United States. There are 19 confirmed cases of COVID-19 in Wyoming as of March 20, 2020, as well as the presence of community spread. It is expected that more cases will be diagnosed.

2. COVID-19 is a respiratory illness, transmitted through person-to-person contact or by contact with surfaces contaminated with the virus. Persons infected with COVID-19 may become symptomatic two to fourteen days after exposure. The symptoms of COVID-19 include fever, cough, and shortness of breath. In some cases, COVID-19 can result in severe disease including hospitalization, admission to an intensive care unit, and death, especially among older adults and persons with serious underlying health conditions.

3. The World Health Organization declared COVID-19 a worldwide pandemic as of March 11, 2020.

4. On March 13, 2020, the President of the United States declared a national emergency concerning the coronavirus, specifically stating that, in "December 2019 a novel (new) coronavirus known as SARS-CoV-2 ("the virus") was first detected in Wuhan, Hubei Province, People's Republic of China, causing outbreaks of the coronavirus disease (COVID-19) that has now spread globally [...] The spread of COVID-19 within our Nation's communities threatens to strain our Nation's healthcare systems. [...] Additional measures [...] are needed to successfully contain and combat the virus in the United States."

5. On March 13, 2020, Wyoming Governor Mark Gordon declared a State of Emergency and Public Health Emergency in the State of Wyoming, stating that on March 11, 2020, an individual within the State of Wyoming tested presumptive positive for COVID-19 and the State of Wyoming is experiencing a public health emergency in response to the evolving COVID-19 outbreak.

6. Governor Gordon's Declaration of a State of Emergency and Public Health Emergency directs the Wyoming Department of Health to take all appropriate and necessary actions, and that in the judgment of the Director of the Wyoming Department of Health, any actions necessary should be taken to provide aid to those locations where there is a threat or danger to public health, safety, and welfare.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

7. The guidelines issued from the White House on March 16, 2020, specify that with evidence of community transmission within a state, bars, restaurants, food courts, gyms, and other indoor and outdoor venues where groups of people congregate should be closed. The guidelines further specify that social gatherings of ten (10) people or more should be avoided.

8. A significant number of Wyoming citizens are at risk of serious health complications, including death, from COVID-19. Although most individuals who contract COVID-19 do not become seriously ill, people with mild symptoms, and even asymptomatic persons with COVID-19, place other vulnerable members of the public at significant risk.

9. Counties in Wyoming have requested orders of this kind following the White House guidelines, and the best manner of protecting the health of the citizens of Wyoming is through a consistent order spanning the entire State.

10. A large number of persons with serious infections may compromise the ability of healthcare systems in Wyoming to deliver the necessary healthcare to the public.

11. Wyoming Statute §§ 35-1-240(a)(i) and (iv) provides all the rights and powers for the Wyoming Department of Health, through the State Health Officer, Dr. Alexia Harrist, M.D., PhD, or under her directive through other employees of the Wyoming Department of Health, to forbid gatherings of people when necessary to protect public health.

12. In addition to the above findings, stopping the spread of COVID-19 includes washing your hands often, practicing social distancing by avoiding close contact with others, staying at least six feet away from someone who is ill or showing signs of illness, avoiding touching your face, eyes, nose and mouth, and covering your cough or sneeze into your elbow or by using a tissue.

ORDER

1. Gatherings of ten (10) people or more are prohibited in order to help stop the spread of COVID-19 and protect the health of the public.

2. "Gatherings" are any planned or spontaneous event, public or private, bringing together, or likely bringing together, ten (10) people or more in a single room or a single confined space at the same time.

3. Gatherings at the following are exempted from this Order:

    a. Hotels and motels for lodging purposes;

    b. Livestock auctions;

    c. Groups of workers being transported to a location for their jobs;

    d. Government business, military and National Guard facilities, law enforcement, jails, secure treatment centers, and correctional facilities, including any facility operated by the Wyoming Department of Corrections, and any facility used to respond to natural disasters or public health emergencies;

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

e. State and local government facilities, including government service centers;

f. Relief facilities, including food pantries and shelter facilities;

g. Residential buildings;

h. Grocery stores, markets, convenience stores, pharmacies, drug stores;

i. Truck stops, gas stations, and auto-repair facilities;

j. Retail or business establishments, where more than ten (10) people may be present but are generally not within six (6) feet of one another;

k. Healthcare facilities, including hospitals, medical facilities, home health agencies, personal care agencies, hospices, adult family homes, mental health centers, and pharmacies;

l. Alcohol and drug treatment centers; and

m. Long-term care and assisted living facilities, including nursing homes and assisted living facilities, as long as the facility complies with guidance and directives from the CDC, the Wyoming Department of Health, and appropriate licensing and regulatory agencies.

4. Any gathering not covered by this Order should follow the public health recommendations of the Centers for Disease Control and the Wyoming Department of Health, including washing your hands often with soap and water, practicing social distancing by avoiding close contact with others including meetings over ten (10) people, avoiding touching your face, eyes, nose and mouth, and covering your cough or sneeze into your elbow or by using a tissue.

5. Additional exceptions to the prohibitions in this Order may be granted, at the discretion of the County Health Officer, under the direction and supervision of the State Health Officer, if demonstrated, in writing, to the County Health Officer that people at a gathering will maintain at least six (6) feet of space between one another, and that effective cleaning will be performed before and after the gathering.

6. This Order supplements the previous statewide public health order closing bars, restaurants, theaters, gymnasiums, child care facilities, K-12 schools, colleges, universities, and trade schools dated March 19, 2020.

7. This Order supersedes all previous individual county orders authorized by the Wyoming State Health Officer under Wyo. Stat. Ann. § 35-1-240(a)(iv). To the extent any county order is more restrictive, the more restrictive provisions of the county order shall continue to apply.

Academic Procedures and Policies - Northwest College

Student Placement Testing

Northwest College is dedicated to helping students increase their levels of academic achievement. Faculty and staff want to be sure students start their college work in English and mathematics at the most appropriate level. Many students also need to build reading comprehension skills in order to be successful with college work.

Northwest College requires new students to arrive with an ACT/SAT score and/or to take the ACCUPLACER Placement Test or ALEKS Test, a computerized multiple-choice assessment instrument. A fee is charged for the ACCUPLACER and ALEKS tests. ACT/SAT, ACCUPLACER, or ALEKS scores are used to place students in the correct level of English, mathematics, and reading courses. Students with an ACT/SAT score may take mathematics or English Placement Tests if they believe their ACT/SAT scores do not adequately reflect their abilities.

Visit the Registration and Records section of the NWC website for more information.

Registration Procedures

The Semester Class Schedule contains detailed information on course offerings, instructions about registration procedures, and timelines. Students can register for courses through their MyNWC Portal under the Student Planner link.

Credit Hour

For NWC courses, one credit hour is equivalent to (1) one hour of classroom or direct faculty instruction and a minimum of two hours of out-of-class student work each week* for approximately fifteen weeks for one semester hour of credit; or (2) at least an equivalent amount of work as required in definition (1) for other activities as established by Northwest College, including laboratory work, internships, practice, studio work, and other academic work leading toward to the award of credit hours. The NWC Curriculum Committee is charged with reviewing and implementing credit-hour standards and requirements for NWC courses.

*The academic week begins each Monday and ends the subsequent Sunday, in conjunction with the Northwest College fiscal year payroll calendar.

Visit the Register for Classes section of the NWC website for more information.

Student Portal

Current students may view class schedules, register for classes, add classes, drop classes, view grades, check grade point average, update mailing address, review financial aid package, request an official copy of their transcript, or pay fees online at nwc.edu/MyNWC.

Auditing Classes

Students may audit any course. Tuition and fees are still charged. Auditing allows a student the freedom to participate and learn in a classroom setting without traditional academic requirements related to attendance, grading, and testing. No credit is given for audited classes, but they do appear on transcripts.

Class Load

The typical course load for full-time students is 15-20 credits.

Student Overload Policy. Students who want to take more than 20 hours must have a cumulative NWC grade point average of 3.0 or higher and approval of their advisor. First semester freshmen must have a cumulative high school GPA of 3.0 or higher and approval of their advisor. An overload fee is charged for each credit above 20. This fee is the per credit hour tuition in accordance with the student's residency classification.

Registration Changes and CourseWithdrawals

Students wanting to change their original registration by adding, dropping, or withdrawing from courses, must obtain Change of Registration forms from the Registrar's Office or online at nwc.edu/MyNWC. No change in registration is made until a student returns a completed form, with necessary signatures, to the Registrar's Office. Forms must be returned on or before specified dates, or they will not be processed. See additional information in the Academic Calendar and the Refund Policy .

Students may add a class to their original enrollments in accordance to the deadlines set in the Academic Calendar . COVID-19 Question

Alaska has closed schools until May 1st. My district is providing distance learning to all students. Good afternoon,

We are currently discussing the possibility of moving to pass/fail grades for the spring semester. We do not typically offer pass/fail grades, so I was hoping that you may be able to clarify how this would impact SAP for the spring semester if we put this into place.

Thank you,

HI Patrick

A question…should we just put this in the COVID 19 inbox since TN is asking for a tydings waiver for most of the OESE formula programs, and the state is specifically citing COVID-19 and other disasters?

Second question…do you want Brittney to control this to these program offices or no?

I know there have been talks about some type of template for states, and we're not at that point yet….

Thanks for the input.

Subject: Redeployment of IDEA-funded staff to provide emergency childcare

Greetings,
Our governor has declared a state of emergency and ordered the closure of all schools. Districts are obligated to continue paying staff and to provide emergency child care for essential medical personnel. We have been asked about the possibility of redeploying staff who work within the Early Intervention and Early Childhood Special Education programs (Part C and Part B 619) to serve as child care workers in these situations.

Given the stipulations that IDEA funds are used solely to provide special education services, I am wondering if there is any emergency provision that would permit this reallocation of resources?

The Office of Head Start sent out a memo to Head Start programs that they may not do so: http://hsicc.cmail20.com/t/ViewEmail/j/49EE44613EEA4C892540EF23F30FEDED/BF95EA1B01BAC062B3138EAD4DECE712

I suspect the same principal applies, but want to verify.

Thank you,

Hi,

The Selective Service System has temporarily stopped processing any requests for a Status Information Letter due to Covid-19 outbreak. Is there any leniency for schools to resolve the Selective Service issue.

In addition, most offices have been placed in telework status and we are aware that electronic notaries are not considered to be acceptable for verification purposes, what should we advise our students who are NOT able to go to the bank, library, or public notary office due to Covid-19 outbreak to get a notarized signed statement of educational purpose?

Please advise and thank you for your guidance.

Hello –
We have a student who has a c-flag due to lack of selective service registration, he was not in the US between the age of 18-26, and so he needs to get a selective service determination letter from SSS before we can proceed. His situation just started to shake out as the COVID-19 situation was taking root and now, even though, he has submitted his required documentation to SSS by mail (he got a tracking receipt) the SSS website says that SSS determination letters will be on hold till further notice.

This student is trying to get aid for the 2019-20 academic year and so we are wondering if there is any leniency with the requirement for the SSS determination letter when we the school are making our determination regarding his SSS registration or lack thereof. We have the documentation he submitted regarding why he was unable to register for SSS. Our semester ends at the end of April so we are worried that this might not resolve itself before this is all over.

STATE OF TENNESSEE
DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION

BILL LEE
GOVERNOR

PENNY SCHWINN
COMMISSIONER

Office of Elementary and Secondary Education
U.S. Department of Education

March 25, 2020

RE: Waiver Request as allowed by Section 8401 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act

Assistant Secretary Brogan:

The Tennessee Department of Education (TDOE) is requesting Secretary DeVos to utilize the wavier authority pursuant to Section 8401 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (20 U.S.C §7861) as the state continues to address both the COVID-19 outbreak and the state of emergency resulting from recent tornadoes across Tennessee. As a result, many schools and districts have been closed since March 3rd, while communities recover from these crises.

On March 24, the governor announced that school closures would be extended through April 24 to mitigate the growing number of confirmed cases of COVID-19 throughout the state — a decision that could be reevaluated and extended further depending on how the situation develops. Districts are working tirelessly to develop and implement continuity of instruction plans; however, many of the remaining factors required in reporting, while appearing minor, can affect the scope of their actions.

In this time of tumult, the TDOE seeks to provide stability and predictability in public reporting for our districts and schools in recovering from these crises. Thus, Tennessee is seeking flexibilities and waivers for reporting requirements for local education agency and state report cards outlined in the Elementary and Secondary Education Act, as amended by the Every Student Succeeds Act. The TDOE seeks to ensure the public that no data will be changing based on results from the current school year.

At the invitation of Secretary Betsy DeVos, we requested waivers for some reporting requirements within Section 1111(h) on March 20, 2020. In addition to those requirements, we are requesting waivers for additional components found in annual public reporting:

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Annual Report Cards:

- The state is seeking a one-year waiver to exclude annual local education agency report card requirements for the 2019-20 school year as required in §1111(h)(2) with respect to all requirements in section §1111(h)(1)(C) as well as §1111(h)(2)(C).
- With Tennessee addressing needs from both COVID-19 and a natural disaster and with all schools closing, the state is seeking a one-year waiver to exclude annual state report card requirements for the 2019-20 school year as required in §1111(h)(1).

We are not seeking a waiver from dutifully collecting and the data, but only a one-year waiver on reporting, to provide consistency and stability in a promise that the Report Card will remain consistent. The TDOE intends to still collect and monitor the quality of available data that would have been reported within this waiver, removing only the public reporting requirements found in §1111(h).

Due to the evolving nature and scope of the current crises Tennessee is facing, we did not provide public notice prior to submission of this waiver request. We will actively communicate this request and provide appropriate follow-up communication with stakeholders. We hope that putting their minds at ease about changes to any data submissions for the school year will allow them to make decisions in the best interests of students.

School and district leaders currently have to balance decisions regarding the safety of their students and their students' education. This balance may be upset by leaders' fear of repercussions in public reporting. These waiver requests represent the best faith efforts of the TDOE to remove incentives for schools and districts to make decisions that may not be in the best interests of student health and safety.

In addition, requiring schools and districts to report, review and appeal any discrepancies in these metrics would place an additional burden on them during a time when they are already tasked with responding to an unprecedented need to provide regular meals and continuity of instruction for our students in the midst of a global pandemic and state-wide shutdowns. Waiving these requirements for one year would ease this burden so that our schools and districts could devote their full attention and resources to meeting the most pressing needs of our students.

Thank you for consideration of these requests. Tennessee is committed first to ensuring that all students are safe and fed during these crises; we are also committed to ensuring that the TDOE supports the recovery of impacted districts and schools so we can continue to focus on the provision of an excellent education and setting all students on a path to success.

Please feel free to contact Eve Carney, by telephone at 615-532-1245 or at Eve.Carney@tn.gov if there are questions regarding this request or if additional information is needed.

Best,

Subject: URGENT - Inability for Students to get "in-person" face-to-face notary services
Attachments: Handbook Guidance on Verification of Identity.pdf
Importance: High

I am hoping that you can provide us some guidance.

One of our accredited and participating colleges, Independence University (an additional location under Stevens-Henager College OPEID #00367400), offers the majority of its programs via online distance education. Further, Independence University delivers its degree programs in a modular system where students take 1-2 courses every 4-weeks. What this means is that Independence University has "start dates" for new students that occur every 4 weeks, rather than more traditional "semester" colleges that only start new students two times per year (i.e., Fall Start, Winter Start).

Since IU enrolls students across the country into its online degree programs, we are running into some real challenges, due to COVID-19, with new students that have been selected for verification (V4 and V5) as part of the federal financial aid application process.

The biggest problem we're seeing is that new students (selected for verification) cannot get access to a "face-to-face notary" in order to satisfy the Department's requirements for the completion of the Statement of Educational Purpose (see attached page from the Department's 2019-2020 Handbook). In almost every case, the student is telling us that due to the lockdown, social distancing, and closure of business in their city, it is impossible for them to meet face-to-face with a notary to complete the Department's prescribed requirements.

We are wondering if the Department would grant us a temporary waiver to use a third-party, online, notary service as an alternative to the traditional, in-person notary requirement. Several, online notary providers have well established, verified, and trackable systems that would allow them to verify a student's identity, verify the student's government-issued photo ID, and provide the college with a copy of all of the required verification and documentation.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

We currently have approximately 200 new students who are scheduled to start their degree program at Independence University next week who are negatively affected by this situation. These students are being prohibited from being eligible to receive federal financial aid simply because there is no access to an "in-person" notary in their community.

Please let us know ASAP if there is something that can be done to help these students and other applicants while the nation deals with the Covid-19 disruptions.

Updating information
34 CFR 668.55

Students must also sign (it must be a "wet" signature) a statement of educational purpose that certifies who they are and that the federal student aid they may receive will only be used for educational purposes and for the cost of attending the school for the 2019–2020 year. Unlike the other text at the end of the chapter, the text for this statement is not suggested—you must use the exact language given (the student's identification number is optional though if collected elsewhere on the same page as the statement). After examining the statement, you may convert it into an electronic record. You must keep that or the original for at least the required Title IV record retention period.

REAL ID Act of 2005
The REAL ID Act affects people entering certain restricted areas where identification is required: federal facilities, nuclear power plants, and federally regulated commercial airplanes. Because there are currently no restrictions under the act on agencies accepting an ID that is not compliant with the act (typically one marked "not for federal identification") for other purposes, such an ID is acceptable for verification of identity/statement of educational purpose. It must be a government-issued ID that has not expired and includes the student's photo and name.

A student who is unable to appear at your school must go to a notary public and sign the statement of educational purpose. He must then submit to your office that statement (again, with the "wet" signature), a certification from the notary that he appeared before her and presented a government-issued photo ID confirming his identity, and a copy of the same ID.

UPDATING INFORMATION

Generally, a student cannot update information that was correct as of the date the application was signed because the FAFSA is considered to be a "snapshot" of the family's financial situation as of that date. For example, if the student's family sold some stock after she signed the FAFSA and spent the money on an unreported asset such as a car, she can't update her information to show a change in assets. After the FAFSA is signed, only certain items can be updated under the following conditions:

Online notary services
Currently the Department does not authorize the use of online notary services as an alternative to traditional, in-person notary services.

1. All applicants whose dependency status changes must update that and the related FAFSA information throughout the award year except when the update is due to the student's marital status changing.

2. All applicants selected by the Department or a school for verification of household size or number in college must update those numbers to be correct as of the date of verification unless the update is due to a change in the student's marital status. Documenting household size or number in college is not required in a subsequent verification in the same year if the information has not changed.

Parent remarriage after applying
While the applicant does not typically update household size or number in college because of a change in his marital status, if he is a dependent student and his parent remarries between application and verification, he must update household size to include the new stepparent. However, the student would not count the new stepparent's income and assets. A school can use professional judgment to include the stepparent's income or to otherwise account for the change.
HEA Sec. 475(f)(3)
34 CFR 668.55(b)

At your discretion you may update under either 1 or 2 even when the update is due to a change in the student's marital status if you deem it necessary to address an inequity or to reflect more accurately the applicant's ability to pay. Such a decision must be on a case-by-case basis, and you must document your reasons for it. You must also update all other pertinent information, such as spousal income and taxes paid, to be consistent with the new marital status. Do this first if the student is selected for verification, and then complete verification of the updated application. If you change the status of an applicant to unmarried and that makes him dependent (because he was independent only due to marriage), his FAFSA must be updated with his parents' information. Your school may have a policy of not considering such updates after a specific census date.

Dear ED Title IIA Leaders,

On behalf of the SETDA Title IIA Collaborative, I would like to submit additional questions regarding Title IIA funding and the current COVID-19 crisis. The Collaborative includes SEA Title IIA leaders from over 40 states and about 30 states were part of our discussion this afternoon. Below are the original questions that we submitted last week as well as new questions.

We understand that there are many items to consider, pending legislation and potential policy changes/flexibility and we wanted to make sure SEA Title IIA leaders questions and requests were considered as decisions are being made.

Please let me know if you have any questions. We are meeting weekly and also have an online community so we can connect with most state SEA Title IIA leaders very quickly.

Thanks so much,

NEW QUESTIONS

1. In reference to the Memorandum To The Heads Of Executive Departments And Agencies (M-20-17)- Does this document even apply to Title IIA? Who is the awarding agency? The ED or the SEA? https://www.whitehouse.gov/wp-content/uploads/2020/03/M-20-17.pdf
2. Can LEAs allow carryover of any unspent funds for individual private schools without them applying to the prospective LEAs for a waiver for the 2020/21 year?
3. Consideration for flexibility within the program, consider allowing LEAs to purchase online teaching platforms via Title IIA funds because of the new shift for teaching online.
4. If device was purchased for Title IIA funds for use for professional development, can teachers use that device for providing instruction (dual purpose of one device) during this time of eLearning per COVID-19 ?
5. Please confirm that state waivers for assessment and accountability include waivers on teacher evaluations.

ORGINAL QUESTIONS

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

1. Can Title IIA SEA funds be used to purchase devices (tablets/laptops or hot spots for connectivity) for students to ensure equitable access to effective educators since students can't go to school? Or will there be a waiver about purchasing devices?

2. Since for many districts, engaging in online learning is not part of regular instruction - is this supplemental? What types of purchases would be permitted?

4. Are any plans to extend the federal grant period?
    a. Will dates for both 2018-19 and 19-20 be moved? Districts are concerned about carryover that expires this September 2020.

Hello Sandy,

Thank you for your questions concerning Title IV-A Student Support and Academic Enrichment (Title IV-A) Programs use of funds to support activities related to the Coronavirus (COVID-19). Below are your original questions from Friday, March 20 and Monday, March 23 along with a response from our team.

New Jersey COVID-19 Questions:

1. The State of New Jersey is requesting to allocate Federal funds to address these extraordinary COVID-19 circumstances by using these funds to support childcare of essential workers so they may protect the health and safety of students, staff, and our communities.

2. I am writing to request guidance about how, under what circumstances, and on what basis a SEA can authorize expenditures for hot spots and other out-of-school internet access to facilitate student learning in this period of widespread and extended school closures?

3. Also, we have had many requests to use Title IV- A funding to pay for the cleaning and disinfecting of classrooms. While the cleaning of classrooms would normally be covered by the school, this extra care, as outlined by the CDC will be more intense and expensive. The thought of returning children to potentially unsanitized classrooms is causing stress among parents, students, teachers, principals and other school leaders. Can they use Safe and Healthy Students funds to pay for this extra sanitizing?

Department Response:

Yes - Title IV-A funds may be used for expenses such as cleaning supplies, hand sanitizer, wipes, etc., if the State educational agency determines it is allowable and consistent with the purposes of the safe and healthy students content area; if they are reasonable, necessary and allocable to the grant, and supplement, and do not supplant, other State and local funds that would otherwise be used to pay for the allowable activity.

Additionally, if you determine that allocating funds to support childcare of essential workers, hot spots and other out-of-school internet access, or extra cleaning and disinfecting of classrooms is allowable consistent with the considerations described above, then it would be allowable.

Please note that the Department has established a "COVID-19 Information and Resources for Schools and School Personnel" webpage, available at www.ed.gov/coronavirus, to support schools and communities as they plan, prepare and potentially respond to possible cases of COVID-19. The Department will regularly update this webpage as more information and guidance becomes available. The Department has also set-up a COVID-19 specific email address to streamline questions related to COVID-19. Please continue to send emails to both myself Elyse.Robertson@ed.gov and the new COVID-19@ed.gov email address so that I can help to keep track of your inquires.

As always, please let us know if you have any questions.

Elyse,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

I am writing to request guidance about how, under what circumstances, and on what basis a SEA can authorize expenditures for hot spots and other out-of-school internet access to facilitate student learning in this period of widespread and extended school closures?

The FCC has waived the gift rules FCC's memo about waiving E-rate gift rules "[Federal Communication] Commission rules prohibit entities eligible for the RHC and E-Rate programs from soliciting or accepting any thing [sic] of value from a service provider participating or seeking to participate in those programs. Today's waiver will allow health care providers, schools, and libraries to accept improved capacity, Wi-Fi hotspots, networking gear, or other equipment or services to support doctors and patients, teachers and students, and librarians and patrons during the coronavirus outbreak. For example, some providers have expressed interest in providing free network upgrades for hospitals that need more robust connections to treat patients via telemedicine and free connected devices and hotspots for students who will be taking classes at home. This waiver will enable them to do such things."

Also, we have had many requests to use Title IV- A funding to pay for the cleaning and disinfecting of classrooms. If possible, please review these questions and provide your responses to me as soon as possible. Additional questions may be submitted to you as they arise.
See questions below:

1. I learned yesterday that our college will treat the additional spring break week as "inclement weather days". If this is the case, David Bartnicki has advised in the past NOT to exclude those dates for R2T4 based on referring to those days as inclement weather days. Please Advise.

2. If we extended spring break but the semester will still end as previously stated meaning no expansion. Do we need to get permission from DOE?

3. What is the anticipated to DOE R2T4 Relief?

4. Has guidance regarding RT24 been included in the Stimulus Bill?

5. NASFAA said last week that extending the break but not the end date equaled shortening the term which requires Ed School Participation team approval. Does the college need approval from DOE?

6. The fact that some students have to work to get paid and others do not seem unfair? Can we make sure that answer is correct?

7. How are we going forth with paying our work study during this pandemic? Can we accept email signatures form from students and supervisors as wet signature?

8. If we have to extend the end date of the term due to COVID-19, do we have to go back & redo R2T4s that were completed beforehand?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

9. We have classes that fall into three categories now…those that only had one week of spring break extended due to COVID-19, those that were extended three weeks and we have some classes that are suspended until they can come back to campus. Subject: Credit Balances Carried to next academic year

Greetings,

Wheaton College will be issuing partial room and board adjustments due to our decision to move to remote classes. When these adjustments post to the student account we will first determine if it creates a Title IV refund and if so process the refund to the student. However, if there is not a Title IV refund required, we will first apply the funds towards an outstanding balance, or if the student is on a payment plan the remaining monthly payments will recalculate to a lower payment amount. If the housing and meal plan adjustments create a credit balance on the account, the student may request a refund. My question is that for students who have a credit balance on the account and are not owed a Title IV refund, are we able to allow the credit balance stay on the student account to be applied towards future charges? Typically we send unsolicited refunds to students for credit balances in June to clear all the accounts before the start of the next fiscal year, but we're wondering if that is required, or if we can let the credits stay on the account. Again, the student may have some Title IV funds in their package but is not due a Title IV refund. Can you please let me know if this is an option? Is there a stipulation about considering these funds as EFA to be coordinated as part of the 2020-21 financial aid award?

Thank you.

Hello,
It's quite a long story as to how I have a student loan debt with the US Dept of Education but my entire tax refund was taken to go towards what I owe. My question is this and I was referred to you to ask it: if/when any stimulus package gets dispersed to a lot of people in the US, if I were to receive a check, would that also be taken?
I'm very worried about this because I lost my job due to the Coronavirus and that would not help me at all if on top of over 9000.00 from my tax refund AND the stimulus check were taken. That money could have really helped me and my family right now. Any help or answer would be appreciated.

Good afternoon,

I am seeking guidance related to Clery Act Emergency Notification procedures.

Given the extraordinary circumstances of the National Emergency, we have employed various communication strategies to communicate with the entire campus community about COVID-19 and to provide additional communications with those who may have been in contact with a positive COVID-19 case.

Standard emergency notification systems do not allow for the level if information or detail we believe is necessary when communicating about the pandemic with our audiences (i.e., a text message or limited-character email may be insufficient in ensuring our community is well-informed, well-guided, and prepared to respond under these circumstances).

Will there be flexibility afforded to institutions to deviate from their emergency notification policy/procedures to accommodate for more sensitive and thorough communications by IHEs, so long as the appropriate segment(s) of the population are being notified and provided the guidance they need?

Thank you,
Nicole

RRT staff,

Good morning. Thank you for taking on this monumental task; your work is apricated.

This is a 21st CCLC question from the Afterschool Alliance regarding the collection of fees during this a national crisis.

The Afterschool Alliance requests that payments, at current rate, to programs who continue to serve children should cease as their parents or caregivers are experiencing an inability to make co-payments or pay tuition. (Afterschool Alliance)

The 21st CCLC grant program does not require students' families provide a co-payment of any type to participate in and receive the full benefits of the program. Any subgrantee who currently has received prior approval to collect any payments ( fees, co-payments or "tuition)" made to 21st CCLC subgrantee programs by students' parents or caregivers should be suspended indefinitely or until such a time as the COVID-19 national emergency has suspended and families have gotten back on their feet after the loss of jobs, lay-offs, and regained financial stability. The 21st CCLC program's purpose is to serve students from low-income families who attend low-performing schools to meet the challenging State academic standards though a broad array of activities and offer families of student opportunities for active and meaningful engagement in their children's education.
States according to 20 U.S.C. 7173 will ensure that the awards are of sufficient size and scope to support high-quality effective programs that are consistent with the purpose of the statute in amounts that are consistent with section 4204(h).

Hello Brenda,

I hope that you and your family are staying healthy. I'm sure all of you at the DOE are very busy.

We here at ISBE are attempting to be pro-active in our planning around COVID-19. As we look to the future, we are anticipating that schools will have to transition to remote learning for the remainder of the school year. Obviously, this is dependent on the governor and the state of the COVID-19 pandemic. Once we are no longer using Act of God days, we return to the obligation that districts have to screen potential English Learners. We have received 2 questions from the field that we are trying to address. Both around the 30 day deadline.

1. If we had a family enroll just before the Act of God days happened, is the 30 day screening "clock" still counting?
2. Once we no longer have Act of God days, how do we screen students within the 30 day deadline if we still have a "stay in place" or quarantine order? All the screener tests require in person administration

We don't want to be encouraging families to come in to district and school buildings in order to have in-person, face-to-face screening tests during this pandemic. This would place students and staff in danger.

Is the DOE considering waiving the 30 day screening deadline for identifying English Learners? Could the 30 day deadline be extended to a 60 or a 90 day deadline in order to give states and districts time to come up with an alternate screening process? Can states waive the rule requiring formal screening for the duration of the pandemic? May we advise schools that if they have a student who should be screened, they should ensure all supports are available for that student as if they did qualify for EL services?

I know these are heavy questions, and will probably take a lot of discussion on your end. I look forward to hearing your thoughts or even having another discussion with you. Maybe we could be thought-partners in addressing this concern.

Subject: A lot of new migrant families

Hi Sarah,
I'm getting anecdotal information that families living in more urban areas (Boise and immediate surrounding areas) are losing work in restaurants, construction, etc. and moving to outlying towns to find work in agriculture since farmers are still hiring. Most of our family liaison/recruiters are not working this week due to spring break, but I'm not sure how many will be going to work at schools next week. I suspect many will be stuck at home for a while to come, but many liaisons are connected by phone to migrant families in their areas. If they hear of a new potential family in the area, my concern is how they will recruit the family without being put at risk through doing home visits. I'm guessing many/most will be forbidden to do home visits for quite a while.

We use an electronic COE that requires an interviewee signature and also has a place for a parent signature for a FERPA release to MSHS/HEP/CAMP. After talking to our IT developer about possible options for remote signatures, he asked me if we (under these very unusual circumstances) could accept a parent's verbal "signature" over the phone and sign the COE, "Parent name by phone" and they would add the date. Then we would mail the COE to the family when it was approved. We do have the ability to do state approval electronically, so that wouldn't be a problem.

Hi Brenda,

I feel like I've been a pest with questions lately, but this COVID situation has really thrown everyone for a loop. We had an interesting question from a district regarding screening students who may move in while school has been closed due to Coronavirus. See below.

What would the DOE advise? Should the 30 day timeline start when the school actually returns to session, or should districts try and get families to come in to the buildings in order to screen them?

Personally, I'd lean towards maintaining the health and safety of everyone and letting them wait until school returns to session, but that would go against Federal guidelines.

Thanks for any help you can provide.

Hi,

I hope you are all doing well and staying safe in this challenging time.

As we consider the logistics of the coming weeks, I think one question that will arise is when we have new students register, will we need to provide an EL screening within 30 days? We are planning to provide students with a devise for one on one instruction and get them in a "virtual" class with a teacher.

I know it is not likely that you will have an answer at this time but if it could get on the question list, that would be great.

Hello,

Our on campus students that are now training/learning online due to COVID-19, if our institution give students vouchers for room/housing to help with past due balances do we need to update the EFA for students this current semester (Spring 20 semester)?

Thank you,

Thanks Barbara!

One of our LEA's (that does, in fact, have a MV subgrant) asked this about its homeless students:

> All kids have devices. I have run across one family with no internet. Cox can provide a hotspot for $20 a month. Could I use McKinney Vento grant funds to pay for this?

My second part to that question is, ( if the answer is "yes" ) is what about the majority of our 60+ LEA's that don't have subgrants – can they used Title 1A funds which were reserved for homeless students?

Dear State Coordinators and Friends,

We hope this email finds you as well as is possible under the circumstances.

Please see below for time-sensitive items, including a Zoom audio call tomorrow for homeless education professionals on COVID-19 with leaders from the CDC, US Department of Education, and USICH. Please also note an April 1 deadline for a vote by state Youth Risk Behavior Survey (YRBS) Coordinators on a homelessness question to be added to the 2021 YRBS.

- Call with Federal Leaders on COVID-19 - Wednesday, March 25 at 4pm. The U.S. Interagency Council on Homelessness (USICH) will host a Zoom audio call specifically for McKinney-Vento State Coordinators and local school district homeless liaisons. Representatives from the CDC and the U.S. Department of Education will join USICH to share the latest information, answer questions, and hear about the challenges for homeless children, youth, and families in the wake of school closures and the COVID-19 outbreak.

  Please reply to this email with questions that you would like addressed by federal agencies, so we can compile them in advance for federal leaders.

- COVID-19 and Homelessness Resources. To support states and schools, we have created a COVID-19 webpage, with curated resources and documents developed in response to requests from the homeless education field. The webpage includes: 1) a checklist and strategies for LEAs and early learning programs; 2) a short guide for supporting homeless and foster youth in higher education; 3) federal policy updates; 4) Q&As; and 5) resources from federal agencies. Last week, we hosted a virtual conversation on needs and strategies, and we will host another webinar tomorrow (Wednesday) at 3pm Eastern. We're also working with private philanthropy and Congress to direct resources to homeless students. All COVID-19 information, including federal policy updates, may be found here. The National Center for Homeless Education's COVID-19 resource page is here.

- April 1 Deadline for Voting on Homelessness Question on YRBS. On April 1, the CDC will send a ballot to all State Youth Risk Behavior Survey (YRBS) Coordinators, allowing them to vote on questions to add to the 2021 standard high school YRBS questionnaire. A question on homelessness is on the ballot. Adding this question to the standard questionnaire would provide the largest, national dataset on self-identified student homelessness, helping to reset funding decisions; provide a realistic, national picture of student homelessness; and give all states a target for homelessness identification efforts. We are urging McKinney-Vento State Coordinators, liaisons, and homeless advocates to contact their YRBS State Coordinator and ask them to vote to add the homelessness question to the 2021 standard high school questionnaire.

  The contact information for your YRBS State Coordinator is available in this Excel spreadsheet. A sample argument for why inclusion of the question is so important is available here. Please circulate this request across your networks. More background on the YRBS and homelessness questions is here.

Thanks very much, and please don't hesitate to let us know how we can support you.

Take care,
Barbara

I sent the following email to my director to get her input but she basically said I must contact you to get final decisions on how our state should move forward. Can you please provide our state with some guidance? If you have time for a chat, I also had some funding questions as well.

Thank you.

Tara,

Tara, thanks for talking with me about my concerns with our recruiters earlier today. I really appreciate your assistance. I looked for some information on the signatures and this is what I have found according to the National COE instructions, Results web page, and NRG for Chapter two. If you look at the H4 it stated that, "the content of these sections must remain unaltered, with limited exceptions." I am not sure if the we could write a comment stating, "signature could not be obtained due to COVID-19." I would like to see what Whitney things about that. Also, we would verify these signatures on September 1 to ensure the student is still eligible during the next funding year.

Here are a few options I have talked about with other states and wanted to get your thoughts.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

1. Get electronic COEs over phone and then write comment about not getting signature with COVID-19.

2. Get a ECOE over phone and then hold the COE until a signature is obtained. Then mail a copy of the COE to the family/farmer, etc. and get a paper signature and write on the COE that signature is on file. The virus dies on paper within 24 hours. (Issue: some people don't know their address.)

3. Get Electronic COEs over phone and then write in comments about not getting signature with COVID-19 but get a signature verification before 9-1-20 to verify there were here one day during the current performance period. (Issues: The people may have moved so we may not be able to get signatures for all.)

Let me know what your thoughts are? Thanks again for helping us during this difficult time. I appreciate your help. Thank you.

Guidance

Chapter 2: Child Eligibility

H4. What are the required data sections for the national COE?

The required data sections mandated by the national COE are as follows: Qualifying Moves & Work Section, Comment Section, Interviewee Signature Section, and Eligibility Certification Section. The content of these sections must remain unaltered, with limited exceptions. Certain formatting changes are allowable.

H10. Must the recruiter sign the national COE?

Yes. The recruiter's signature on the national COE certifies that: (1) the children are eligible for the MEP, and (2) the information upon which the recruiter based the eligibility determination is correct to the best of his or her knowledge. Moreover, under 34 C.F.R. § 200.89(c) and (d), the Department requires this signature on the national COE as an element of a reasonable system of quality control.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Results web page:
Interviewee Signature Section. The interviewee signs and dates the COE on the day the interview is conducted. The interviewee must also write his or her relationship to the child.
I understand the purpose of this form is to help the state determine if the child(ren)/youth listed on this form is/are eligible for the Title I, Part C, Migrant Education Program. To the best of my knowledge, all of the information I provided to the interviewer is true.
Signature, Relationship to the child(ren), Date

The person who signs the COE must be the source of the information contained in the document and should verify any information provided by another source. If the interviewee is unable to sign his or her name, he or she must mark an "X" in the signature section and the recruiter must print the parent's name and relationship to the child in the Comments section. If the interviewee refuses to sign his or her name, the recruiter must document the interviewee's refusal in the Comments section and print the interviewee's name and relationship to the child.

If a state chooses to include other statements that require, for example, a parent/guardian signature specifically, the state can include those statements separately from the Interviewee Signature. ED strongly recommends that states obtain the approval of their legal counsel to ensure that additional statements they add to this section comply with the applicable federal, state, and local laws and policies.

The recruiter should make sure the interviewee understands what he or she is signing. The recruiter can do this by reviewing every line of the COE and confirming with the parent that the information is correct. If the interviewee can read, the recruiter should give the interviewee a blank copy of the COE form in his or her native language (if available) so the interviewee can follow along. Once the SEA-designated reviewer reviews, signs, and dates, the COE, the MEP should send a copy of the COE by mail or hand-deliver it at a later date.

Sara,

I sent the following email to my director to get her input but she basically said I must contact you to get final decisions on how our state should move forward. Can you please provide our state with some guidance? If you have time for a chat, I also had some funding questions as well.

Thank you.

Christina

Tara,

Tara, thanks for talking with me about my concerns with our recruiters earlier today. I really appreciate your assistance. I looked for some information on the signatures and this is what I have found according to the National COE instructions, Results web page, and NRG for Chapter two. If you look at the H4 it stated that, "the content of these sections must remain unaltered, with limited exceptions." I am not sure if the we could write a comment stating, "signature could not be obtained due to COVID-19." I would like to see what Whitney things about that. Also, we would verify these signatures on September 1 to ensure the student is still eligible during the next funding year.

Here are a few options I have talked about with other states and wanted to get your thoughts.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

1. Get electronic COEs over phone and then write comment about not getting signature with COVID-19.

2. Get a ECOE over phone and then hold the COE until a signature is obtained. Then mail a copy of the COE to the family/farmer, etc. and get a paper signature and write on the COE that signature is on file. The virus dies on paper within 24 hours. (Issue: some people don't know their address.)

3. Get Electronic COEs over phone and then write in comments about not getting signature with COVID-19 but get a signature verification before 9-1-20 to verify there were here one day during the current performance period. (Issues: The people may have moved so we may not be able to get signatures for all.)

Let me know what your thoughts are? Thanks again for helping us during this difficult time. I appreciate your help. Thank you.

Chapter 2: Child Eligibility

H4. What are the required data sections for the national COE?

The required data sections mandated by the national COE are as follows: Qualifying Moves & Work Section, Comment Section, Interviewee Signature Section, and Eligibility Certification Section. The content of these sections must remain unaltered, with limited exceptions. Certain formatting changes are allowable.

H10. Must the recruiter sign the national COE?

Yes. The recruiter's signature on the national COE certifies that: (1) the children are eligible for the MEP, and (2) the information upon which the recruiter based the eligibility determination is correct to the best of his or her knowledge. Moreover, under 34 C.F.R. § 200.89(c) and (d), the Department requires this signature on the national COE as an element of a reasonable system of quality control.

Results web page:

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Interviewee Signature Section. The interviewee signs and dates the COE on the day the interview is conducted. The interviewee must also write his or her relationship to the child.
I understand the purpose of this form is to help the state determine if the child(ren)/youth listed on this form is/are eligible for the Title I, Part C, Migrant Education Program. To the best of my knowledge, all of the information I provided to the interviewer is true.
Signature, Relationship to the child(ren), Date

The person who signs the COE must be the source of the information contained in the document and should verify any information provided by another source. If the interviewee is unable to sign his or her name, he or she must mark an "X" in the signature section and the recruiter must print the parent's name and relationship to the child in the Comments section. If the interviewee refuses to sign his or her name, the recruiter must document the interviewee's refusal in the Comments section and print the interviewee's name and relationship to the child.

If a state chooses to include other statements that require, for example, a parent/guardian signature specifically, the state can include those statements separately from the Interviewee Signature. ED strongly recommends that states obtain the approval of their legal counsel to ensure that additional statements they add to this section comply with the applicable federal, state, and local laws and policies.

The recruiter should make sure the interviewee understands what he or she is signing. The recruiter can do this by reviewing every line of the COE and confirming with the parent that the information is correct. If the interviewee can read, the recruiter should give the interviewee a blank copy of the COE form in his or her native language (if available) so the interviewee can follow along. Once the SEA-designated reviewer reviews, signs, and dates, the COE, the MEP should send a copy of the COE by mail or hand-deliver it at a later date.

Subject: COE Completion Questions

Below are 2 questions for the OME. Thank you.

COE signature and interview by phone.

Due to the COVID-19 outbreak, all recruiters have been asked to work from home and are not authorize to make field visits to conduct person-to-person interviews. During this same time, most industries which employ MEP eligible families are operating at full capacity and are continuing with the hiring processes for temporary or seasonal workers.

Questions:

Can a recruiter complete the eligibility interview using a phone call or virtual platform until recruiters are authorized to begin conducting field visits?

Can the Recruiter complete the Certificate of Eligibility without obtaining a physical signature from the individual providing the information if the individual provides verbal consent and all MEP eligibility criteria is met?

Refer to:

H9. Must the interviewee sign the national COE?

Except for a few limited exceptions, yes. (See the instructions for completing the national COE at http://www2.ed.gov/programs/mep/legislation.html for more information about these exceptions.) By signing the national COE, the interviewee confirms that the information he or she provided is accurate and identifies who provided the information so that the SEA can verify information contained on the COE at a later date, if necessary.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Q. Can the recruitment process be considered complete if a parent/guardian refuses to sign the Certificate of Eligibility (COE)? Can a child's COE information be transmitted to the Migrant Student Information Exchange (MSIX) if the parent did not sign the COE? Our State COE has added a series of checkboxes under the Interviewee signature section, which includes a Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) statement for release of records.

— Hide Answer

If a parent refuses to sign the COE because the parent does not want his or her child to participate in the Migrant Education Program (MEP), then the recruiter must not proceed with completing and approving the COE. If a parent's refusal to sign the COE is not based on a refusal to have his/her child participate in the program, the recruiter may proceed with completing and approving the COE. The MEP's Non-Regulatory Guidance (NRG) states that, except in the case of a few limited exceptions, the interviewee must sign the national COE (see MEP NRG Chapter II, H9). However, the lack of an interviewee's signature on the COE does not necessarily invalidate the COE or otherwise preclude the child from being determined eligible for MEP services. The National COE Instructions state that "If the interviewee refuses to sign his or her name, the recruiter must document the interviewee's refusal in the Comments section and print the interviewee's name and relationship to the child."

When it comes to reinterview and doing it by phone, this has been answered multiple times in the Q&As. OME has said reinterviews can be done over the phone:

Topic(s): Identification and Recruitment

Subtopic(s): Re-interviewing

A significant portion of the State's Identification and Recruitment (ID&R) budget is spent on the travel costs associated with recruitment (gas, vehicle maintenance, Global Positioning System (GPS) systems, travel time) because the migratory population in the State is spread far and wide. By conducting prospective re-interviews in person, the State is essentially doubling these costs. Can re-interviews be conducted by telephone instead?

— Hide Answer

The requirement to conduct annual prospective re-interviews is not intended to be overly burdensome for grantees, but rather, to help ensure that eligibility determinations are being made correctly, and to identify any problematic issues as soon as possible, in order for the grantee to address them. With the understanding that face-to-face interviews may not always be the most practical approach for States, the program regulations allow for telephone re-interviews. States may find that conducting re-interviews by telephone allows the State to save time and other valuable resources, which may then be dedicated to services for eligible children. While the Office of Migrant Education (OME) does not recommend conducting all re-interviews solely via telephone—unless circumstances make face-to-face re-interviews impractical—the State might consider doing face-to-face interviews in areas with larger concentrations of migratory families and reserving telephone re-interviews for families of migratory children in outlying areas.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Q48

Topic(s): Identification and Recruitment

Subtopic(s): Re-interviewing

For purposes of prospective re-interviewing, when conducting telephone re-interviews, how does the interviewer know he or she is speaking with the "qualified respondent?"

— Hide Answer

Phone respondents should be asked to verify identifying information such as their full name, address, the name and date of birth of the sampled child, their relationship to the sampled child, full name of the sampled child's other parent and/or names of siblings (if applicable), and, whether they were the person who signed the Certificate of Eligibility (COE). This information should be cross-checked with the information on the COE.

Q47

Topic(s): Identification and Recruitment

Subtopic(s): Re-interviewing

For purposes of prospective re-interviewing, do all the interviews have to be conducted face-to-face or can they be conducted via telephone?

— Hide Answer

According to Code of Federal Regulations 34 CFR 200.89 (b)(2)(iii), States should "Conduct re-interviews with the parents or guardians of the children in the sample. States must use a face-to-face approach to conduct these re-interviews unless circumstances make face-to-face re-interviews impractical and necessitate the use of an alternative method such as telephone re-interviewing". This is understood to mean that there must be a compelling reason to use phone interviews (e.g. re-interviewers would have to use air transport or travel several hours by car to conduct re-interviews).

Q46

Topic(s): Identification and Recruitment

Subtopic(s): Re-interviewing

For purposes of prospective re-interviewing, if families have left the State by the time a re-interviewer establishes contact, can a phone interview be conducted at that time? What percentage of re-interviews can be conducted by phone?

— Hide Answer

If a re-interviewer establishes contact with a family that has left the area, and the family does not intend to return within a reasonable time frame for a face-to-face re-interview, the re-interview may be conducted by phone.

There is no specific percentage of re-interviews that can be conducted by phone, but such a practice must be justified by a compelling reason. A family no longer residing in the State would be a compelling reason for doing an interview by phone.

Q22

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Topic(s): Identification and Recruitment
Subtopic(s): N/A

Q. How many Certificates of Eligibility (COEs) should be sampled for independent re-interviews? What population should the sample be drawn from: children to be included in the Category I Child Count (ages 3 -21) or all children currently eligible for the program (ages birth – 21)? Is there a more cost-effective way to conduct re-interviews when our population is widely spread across the State?

— Hide Answer

In response to the first question regarding the number of COEs to include in the independent re-interviews, we clarify that re-interviews are based on a random sample of identified migratory children, not COEs. While the regulations do not specify a sample size, States must ensure that a sufficient number of eligibility determinations in the current year are tested on a statewide basis or within categories associated with identified risk factors…" [see 34 Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) 200.89(b)(2)(ii)]. We recommend that States conduct, on average, 50 re-interviews (i.e., smaller States might conduct fewer than 50 re-interviews, whereas larger States should conduct more than 50 re-interviews), and that re-interviews be conducted on a rolling basis, shortly after the original eligibility determination was made; this is an effort to reduce non-response, and help ensure that the state meets their target number of re-interviews. States should look at their sample size and response rates from prior years in order to determine the best number to include in the sample. See Section III, of the Technical Assistance Guide on Re-interviewing for additional technical assistance regarding prospective re-interviewing.

In response to your second question regarding the pool of migratory children from which your sample should be selected, you should limit your focus to those children ages 3-21 who were found eligible in the current year. Therefore, if the State conducts its independent prospective re-interviewing during the 2013-2014 performance reporting period, it would sample children ages 3-21 whose COEs were approved between September 1, 2013 and August 31, 2014. We emphasize using the COE approval date as opposed to the Qualifying Arrival Date (QAD) because for children who are not identified and recruited soon after their QAD, their QAD and COE approval dates might occur in different performance periods.

Please keep in mind that although face-to-face re-interviews are the preferred method and must be conducted unless circumstances make them impractical (e.g., excessive travel costs to interview one or two families who live a significant distance from the areas where the majority of re-interviews will be concentrated), States can adopt an alternative method such as telephone interviewing, if necessary.

Hello,

Per the guidance in your Electronic Announcement dated March 5, 2020, I am reaching out to request a temporary reduction in the length of our academic year. I have also called the Chicago/Denver school participation team and left a voicemail.

Our Spring 2020 payment period was scheduled to run from January 27, 2020 to May 15, 2020. We have a one week scheduled spring break from March 30, 2020 to April 5, 2020.

Due to COVID-19, we have paused in-person instruction from March 15, 2020 to April 5, 2020. We plan to re-start instruction on April 6, 2020 with online classes and to end the year on May 15, 2020 as originally planned. Effectively, we have shortened our Spring 2020 term by 2 weeks.

We do have some online courses that will continue to run during this two week "pause," however most of our students are enrolled in all in-person courses.

As is the case at many schools, our situation is fluid and we may need to make additional changes to our academic year. We will keep you informed.

Regards,
Cynthia

Good morning and I know the NY guarantor has been provided some specific waivers and others in the FFEL community are also wanting to help commercially held FFEL borrowers. We know GEN 17-08 may not provide enough waivers for some in the FFEL community but it gets us started until we can see how long this pandemic is going to last and what areas are hot spots. Please confirm our ability to use GEN 17-08 as starting point knowing there may be a need for waivers on the back end issues related to claim payment etc. due to GAs being forced to work from home and other restrictions. Thank you – we all want to do the right thing for these struggling FFEL borrowers with commercial held FFEL loans – both in repayment and default and GEN 17-08 gets us started.

On March 13, 2020, President Trump declared a nationwide emergency pursuant to Sec. 501(b) of Stafford Act, increasing federal support to the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) in its role as the lead federal agency for the ongoing COVID-19 pandemic response. Under this declaration, FEMA, in coordination with HHS, will assist state, local, tribal, territorial governments and other eligible entities with the health and safety actions they take on behalf of the American public.

As of March 20, 2020, all 50 states, the District of Columbia, five territories and one tribe are working directly with FEMA under the Nationwide Emergency Declaration for COVID-19.

We want to help these FFEL borrowers (in repayment and default) immediately and we have requested confirmation of use of the disaster guidance contained in GEN 17-08. It's certainly a place for us to start for the three months until we see if a longer time may be needed or additional waivers based on how long the pandemic lasts etc but that would allow us to provide some immediate assistance to FFEL borrowers. I'm happy to discuss or answer any questions. Thank you!

Good afternoon Brenda.

A question came from one of our LEA's regarding the identification and placement of a newly enrolled EL during this time of school closures. Currently, Kentucky schools are closed until mid April due to COVID-19. Could you please advise?

To Whom It may Concern:

The NC Community System conducted a conference call with financial aid administrators from the 58 community colleges in North Carolina this morning. Participants in the call had additional questions that have been included below:

If possible, please review these questions and provide your responses to me as soon as possible. Additional questions may be submitted to you as they arise.

See questions below:

1. I learned yesterday that our college will treat the additional spring break week as "inclement weather days". If this is the case, David Bartnicki has advised in the past NOT to exclude those dates for R2T4 based on referring to those days as inclement weather days. Please Advise.

2. If we extended spring break but the semester will still end as previously stated meaning no expansion. Do we need to get permission from DOE?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

3. What is the anticipated to DOE R2T4 Relief?

4. Has guidance regarding RT24 been included in the Stimulus Bill?

5. NASFAA said last week that extending the break but not the end date equaled shortening the term which requires Ed School Participation team approval. Does the college need approval from DOE?

6. The fact that some students have to work to get paid and others do not seem unfair? Can we make sure that answer is correct?

7. How are we going forth with paying our work study during this pandemic? Can we accept email signatures form from students and supervisors as wet signature?

8. If we have to extend the end date of the term due to COVID-19, do we have to go back & redo R2T4s that were completed beforehand?

9. We have classes that fall into three categories now…those that only had one week of spring break extended due to COVID-19, those that were extended three weeks and we have some classes that are suspended until they can come back to campus. If you have a student in all three classes, how are we to treat the R2T4 if they withdraw?

Thank you in advance for your assistance with these questions. If you have questions or need additional information, please contact me.

Dear Mark Toback,

Thank you for contacting the United States Department of Education. Your email was submitted to the Information Resource Center in the Office of Communications and Outreach, and we are pleased to respond.

Your e-mail has been forwarded to COVID-19@ed.gov for further handling. The Department launched a COVID-19 (Coronavirus) information and resources web page for schools and school personnel. This page, which will be regularly updated, features the most current information on COVID-19 (primarily from the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention [CDC]), as well as guidance and resources for everyday disease prevention strategies. Any questions for the Department may be directed to COVID-19@ed.gov. Further, we appreciate your concern and will share your comments with Secretary DeVos and her senior staff.

We encourage you to subscribe to email updates or follow us on Facebook and Twitter to stay up to date on all Education Department information.

It would be great to see Secretary DeVos publicly encouraging all the teachers who are working hard to teach their classes remotely.

Secretary DeVos seems like a gifted exhorter and encourager. There are so many teachers and parents, who have overnight become teachers, who would benefit from hearing from Secretary DeVos. They need to hear from the Education Secretary about home resources, how parents and teachers can work together, etc.

I was surprised that on Ed.gov Home page loans and grants and many other topics were highlighted and I had to scroll way to see anything about Covid.

My question is, "When will we see Secretary DeVos' leadership, encouragement, insights begin to be heard?"

Respectfully,

Mark Toback

Good morning,

I am contacting you from an agency from Spain.

We bring every year 100 students from Spain for a cultural immersion (thanks to the Department of State Program J1) to do a year of High School.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Because of COVID-19 and the closure of the schools, all of our students have been sent home and most of them are already receiving online education.

I need to know (I am not sure this is the right place to ask this, but I don't know where else to ask this) if my students will:

-Be able to continue the online education from Spain?
-Be able to finish the year and received credits for the classes? (of course if they finish all the assignment)
-Be able to receive the Transcript for the full year?

In conclusion, if they, as well as the American High schoolers will be able to finish the year.

I look forward to your answer.

Thank you very much

I have heard College's considering the idea of crediting Room and Board for the remainder of the Spring 2020 semester and applying it as a credit towards the Fall 2020 Cost of Attendance. Would that impact the Cost of Attendance used to determine the aid a student would be eligible to receive? Or is it simply a credit on the students account toward future expenses? Understanding that if a credit is generated as a result of Title IV aid it must be disbursed to the student.

Thank you for all the support you are providing!

Hello,

It's quite a long story as to how I have a student loan debt with the US Dept of Education but my entire tax refund was taken to go towards what I owe. My question is this and I was referred to you to ask it: if/when any stimulus package gets dispersed to a lot of people in the US, if I were to receive a check, would that also be taken?

I'm very worried about this because I lost my job due to the Coronavirus and that would not help me at all if on top of over 9000.00 from my tax refund AND the stimulus check were taken. That money could have really helped me and my family right now. Any help or answer would be appreciated.
