RE: FOIA Case No. 2020-FPRO-01102

Dear Mr. Evers:

This responds to your Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request dated May 12, 2020, in which you seek access to Postal Service records. Specifically, you requested:

email communications (email messages, complete email chains email, calendar invitations, and attachments thereto) between (a) USPS Postmaster General Megan Brennan, anyone serving as a deputy or chief of staff to Postmaster General, and anyone serving in the capacity of White House Liaison and (b) anyone communicating from an email address ending in eop.gov (including both who.eop.gov and omb.eop.gov) or treasury.gov.

Please provide all responsive records from March 1, 2020, date the search is conducted.

The FOIA, 5 U.S.C. § 552(b)(1–9), provides nine exemptions under which records or portions of records may be withheld from public disclosure.

A search was conducted of the records maintained by Information Catalog Program (ICP) Office at the United States Postal Service Headquarters. Responsible individuals located 101 pages of record material responsive to your request. Out of the 101 pages, we are releasing 1 page in its entirety, withholding 31 pages in their entirety and we consider the information on 69 pages to be exempt from disclosure pursuant to FOIA exemption 3, 5, 6 and 7E. Please find attach 70 pages enclosed with this letter.

Generally, FOIA requires government agencies to disclose reasonably described "records" within their possession unless the records fall within one or more of the several exemptions. 5 U.S.C. § 552(a)(3), (b)(1)–(9). Records responsive to your request were redacted under Exemption 3 in conjunction with 39 U.S.C § 410(c)(2).

Exemption 3 provides that agencies may withhold records that are exempted from disclosure by another statute that "establishes particular criteria for withholding or refers to particular types of matters to be withheld." 5 U.S.C. § 552(b)(3). We consider that 39 U.S.C. § 410(c)(2) operates independently as an exempting statute within the scope of Exemption 3.

Section 410(c)(2) of Title 39, U.S. Code, provides that "information of a commercial nature, including trade secrets, whether or not obtained from a person outside the Postal Service, which under good business practice would not be publicly disclosed" is exempt from the disclosure requirements of the FOIA. This section was enacted as part of the Postal Reorganization Act, 39 U.S.C. § 101 et seq., (1970), which established the Postal Service as an independent establishment of the executive branch and generally directed it to conduct its operations in accordance with sound business principles.

To determine what constitutes "good business practice" under § 410(c)(2), courts consider the customs of the commercial world, management techniques, and business law, as well as the standards of practice adhered to by large corporations. The Postal Service may withhold information of a commercial nature if large businesses would do the same. It would not be good business practice to release the requested information, and private businesses would not release information of this nature to the public.

Exemption 5 permits withholding inter-agency or intra-agency letters or memorandums that would not be available by law to a party other than an agency in litigation with the U.S. Postal Service. The purpose of this exemption is to encourage open, frank discussion on matters of policy between agency personnel; to protect against premature disclosure of proposed policies before they are finally adopted and to protect against public confusion that might result from disclosure of reasons and rationales that were not in fact ultimately the grounds for an agency's action. Any information, such as memorandums or email communications that may have been gathered we consider to be deliberative in nature. These documents contain opinions, analysis, advice, and recommendations to be used in the decision making process. Other information withheld under Exemption 5 are documents and other memoranda prepared by agency attorneys that contain confidential communications encompassing opinions given by an attorney, and communications between attorneys that reflect client-supplied information.

Exemption 6 permits withholding records, including personnel and medical files and similar files, the disclosure of which would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy. Records which contain personally identifiable information about individuals, qualify for the exemption's protection.

In determining whether to release records that may be protected by Exemption 6, the agency must balance the privacy interests of the individuals involved against the public interest, if any, that would be served by disclosure. The Postal Service does not believe that the public interest in the disclosure of the requested records sufficiently outweighs the privacy interests of the individuals involved. As a result, the records are being withheld in their entirety.

Also, certain responsive records or portions of records are being withheld pursuant to Exemptions 7(E). Exemption 7 of the FOIA protects from disclosure records or information compiled for law enforcement purposes to the extent that the production of such records or information (1) would disclose techniques and procedures for law enforcement investigations or prosecutions, or would disclose guidelines for law enforcement investigations or prosecutions if such disclosure could reasonably be expected to risk circumvention of the law." (7(E))

If you are not satisfied with the response to this request, you may file an administrative appeal within 90 days of the date of this response letter by writing to the General Counsel Postal Service 475 L'Enfant Plaza SW Washington, DC 20260 or via email at FOIAAppeal@usps.gov. Your appeal must be postmarked or electronically transmitted within 90 days of the date of the response to your request. The letter of appeal should include, as applicable:

1. A copy of the request, of any notification of denial or other action, and of any other related correspondence;
2. The FOIA tracking number assigned to the request;
3. A statement of the action, or failure to act, from which the appeal is taken;
4. A statement identifying the specific redactions to responsive records that the requester is challenging;
5. A statement of the relief sought; and

6. A statement of the reasons why the requester believes the action or failure to act is erroneous.

Hi Linda,

Jakki Krage Strako asked that I reach out to you this morning and share a copy of the USPS FAQ for Business Customers and highlight for you a couple of areas that may be of interest. Attached you will find a copy of our COVID-19 FAQ for Business Customers.

On page 6, one of the questions asked is "How is USPS keeping the mail and its employees safe?" Under that section you will find information from USPS, CDC, and WHO on the low risk of COVID-19 being spread through mail and/or packages.

In addition, on pages 8-9 a similar question is addressed in terms of postal Mail Transport Equipment (MTE).

If you have any questions, please reach out.

Dear Megan,

On behalf of the President's Commission on White House Fellowships, I would like to extend my sincerest gratitude for the extraordinary opportunity for our Fellows to hear from you.

It was great for them to hear about the important work the Postal Service does, not only to serve, but also to protect the American people in times of national emergency. Our Chairman, Mike Duncan, has always emphasized the same point—the importance of the Postal Service as a key part of our national fabric—and your visit with the Fellows underscored that vital reality.

These insights served as important lessons for the current Fellows, and the lessons learned will be applied throughout each of their placements at the highest levels of our government. Thank you again very much for speaking with the White House Fellows.

I hope you, your loved ones, and all your Postal Service colleagues stay safe and well!

If I could ever possibly be of service to you, please do not hesitate to contact me at

Best Regards,
