Gentlemen,

First of all, thank you very much for your leadership during these difficult times. Please see the attached letter requesting that Insurance and insurance agencies be included in any list of essential business services if Executive Action is needed in regards to shelter in place policies. The city of Athens has already taken such action and omitted Insurance Services from their list of essential business services. If the state reaches the point where similar action is considered, we respectfully request that our letter be taken under advisement.

If our association can be of any assistance, I can be reached on my cell phone at any time. [REDACTED]

To: The Honorable Brian Kemp, Governor
The Honorable John King, Commissioner of Insurance and Fire Safety

From: John Barbour, Chief Executive Officer, Independent Insurance Agents of Georgia
Michael Mellars, President, Independent Insurance Agents of Georgia

Subject: Covid-19 Essential Business Service Request

Governor Kemp and Commissioner King,

The Independent Insurance Agents of Georgia (IIAG) recognizes the challenging circumstances our state and local communities are faced with in an attempt to contain and mitigate the impact of Covid-19. During these times the state may be forced to make difficult decisions regarding the closure of non-essential business services, similar to the order issued by the City of Athens.

IIAG asserts that independent insurance agencies and brokerages are essential service providers on the front lines dealing with families and business clients impacted by losses or those seeking to address critical coverages or claims. It is our opinion that insurance agencies should be considered an “essential business service” within the terms of any Executive Order or Directive from the Office of the Commissioner of Insurance due to the essential services they provide to the public, including:

- Receiving first reports from policyholders of incidents for which they make claims against their insurance coverages
- Acting as intermediaries between insurance claimants and the insurers providing coverages
- Obtaining insurance for businesses and households in immediate need of coverage (for example, individuals who must quickly obtain Homeowners Insurance for closings on home mortgage loans)
- Issuing Automobile Liability Insurance identification cards for purchasers of new and used motor vehicles, who must produce the cards to the Department of Motor Vehicles at the time of vehicle registration
- Answering questions from the public about their insurance coverages, particularly as those coverages pertain to the present crisis
- Accepting premium payments from the public
- Helping businesses understand and adapt to the Families First Act and how that law will integrate with their employee benefit plans. (Primarily navigating leave laws with federal cobra law and helping businesses navigate these times so they do not breach their contracts).

IIAG asks that if state level action is taken, independent insurance agencies and brokerages be deemed 'essential businesses or entities providing essential services or functions' and not subject to in-person prohibitions. Insurance policyholders rely on their independent agents and brokers to provide services whenever they need them. Consequently, it is critical that agencies and brokerages have sufficient staff on hand to provide these services. It's imperative that agencies have the flexibility to determine the right staffing plan for their business that allows for safety of employees and clients while serving the needs of their customers.

We understand these are unique and trying times. Our members are on the front lines with parties negatively impacted by this pandemic and we respectfully request that our services not be restricted to the point that we cannot serve those who are most in need.

Respectfully submitted,

Mark,

Below is an email sent from the President of Southern Trust Insurance Company, Les Cole. They are the last privately held domestic insurance company in Georgia with close to 100 employees in the Macon area. In Commercial Auto they have taken 35% in rate increases over the past few years and have a 108% loss ratio over that time. This means that for every dollar that take in, they pay out $1.08 even with taking 35% in rate increases. The message below highlights a reinsurance company's view of the Georgia market. I equate this to a bond rating agency examining the states tax policy and threatening to reduce our bond rating. The reinsurance world views Georgia unfavorably and they will reduce exposure in Georgia. This will lead to less available Insurance options for businesses, increased rates, and reduced coverage. Basically, the cost of doing nothing will equate to the scenario below.

Les can be reached at [REDACTED] if needed. If I can be of further assistance, please let me know.

I met with our reinsurers yesterday. I was told Georgia was on there radar as becoming one of the most litigious states and only expected to get worse. They also said the legal environment has raised concerns which has already affected pricing and capacity for Georgia. If this continues expect double digit rate increases and more restricted terms. This could be the deciding factor in doing business in Georgia or crossing state lines.

Thanks

Les

Great. Thanks, John.

We have confirmed Drew Charter School's photo with the Governor for Monday, September 30th at 12:05PM.

Please have a representative from the group check in with the Governor's Office, suite 203, upon arrival.

Please have the group aligned and ready for a photo on the north interior steps of the State Capitol by 12:05PM. The Governor will then step out, greet the group, and snap a few photos.

A photographer will be on site to take photos. These photos will be available on the Governor's website for your use.

If you have submitted a request for a proclamation along with this photo request, it will need to be picked up in Capitol Suite 100 prior to the photo. For any related questions, contact Kylie Harrod at kylie.harrod@georgia.gov.

This allotted time on the Governor's calendar is for photos only, and due to the demands of the Governor's calendar, they are subject for cancellation or changes if needed. Thank you for your flexibility.

Please do not hesitate to reach out if you have any questions.

Thanks for reaching out, John.

The only availability we would have would be on the North Steps of the Capitol on Monday, September 30th at 12:05PM. This would allow for the Governor to slide in for a quick photo before departing the Capitol for a prior commitment.

Let me know if this would work for your group, and I will be happy to finalize on the calendar and send over specifics.

Laura,

I am the lobbyist for the Independent Insurance Agents of Georgia and my kids 2nd grade class is coming to the Capitol on Monday for a field trip. Tyler Adams asked that I reach out to you for help. I am hoping we could do a group photo with the Governor if his busy schedule allows. Here are the details.

Monday, Sept. 30
12:15 pm group photo with Governor (inside Capitol Steps).

Drew Charter School 2nd Grade Class. Aprox. 150 students.

If that is not possible. I will be down there and would love to squeeze in with my two kids for a quick photo with Governor Kemp.

Please let me know if either of these opportunities are possible.

Good morning,

I'm sorry to send this disturbing news – Chairman Smith's stepfather passed away last night. The chairman would like to reschedule the meeting on tomorrow, July 25th to Tuesday, July 30th. For those who have scheduled a meeting, please let me know if you would like to reschedule a time asap.

I will be happy to share the funeral arrangements once received from Chairman Smith. Please keep him and his family in your thoughts and prayers during this extremely difficult time.

Thank you.

Ryan & Blake,

I hope this finds you well and that you both enjoyed a long and relaxing MDW! I wanted to follow-up with you about FGA's previous meetings with both of you. Outlined below are some recommendations from FGA specific to small business and access to rural health care we thought you mind find helpful:

-Expand and promote AHP's to the fullest extent possible. They help on both fronts, rural access and small businesses. These reforms poll at over 80 percent in GA regardless of party. AHP's are up to $10,000 less per year for premiums than individual plans, and up to 118,000 Georgians are projected to have new access to these plans. Resources: Attached AHP memo, and full FGA study here - <https://thefga.org/wp-content/uploads/2018/12/AHP-12.6.18.pdf>

-Promote Short Term plans. These plans are perfect short term resources for small businesses and their employees. Georgia is in good shape in terms of policy, but the Governor help highlight these as an option for small businesses and their works. STP's are now available in Georgia, and there are 207 of these plans available compared to just 21 plans on the individual market. The premiums are half the cost of individual market plans, making them a better fit for many able-bodied adults. Full FGA study here - <https://thefga.org/wp-content/uploads/2019/01/Short-term-Plans-Foundational-Paper-1.24.19.pdf>

-Highlight, promote, and look at adding resources to existing Georgia resources for access to care. We highlighted these bullets below in a recent memo to Kemp on Medicaid Expansion (attached here), but it bears repeating that Georgia has a robust Charity Care network and hundreds of rural health clinics. The Governor's Office could study further whether targeting more promotion/resources into these existing resources makes sense. I can't speak to this study in depth but FGA found this 2015 study showing the Charity Care Network is more effective than other payers.

- Georgia has a robust Charity Care Network. The Georgia Charitable Care Network has existed since 2003 and has more than 90 providers statewide whose mission is to "deliver compassionate health care to low income Georgians." This charitable care network is made up of "independent, non-profit clinics across Georgia, and hundreds of physicians, dentists and other health care professionals who provide care in their own offices."
- There is a nationwide network of affordable health care providers that exist to provide a safety net for low-income uninsured Americans. The federal government invests $10 billion into community healthcare clinics annually at 11,000 different sites, providing affordable care to one out of every three Americans in poverty. The clinics are designed to serve low-income uninsured populations. They are required to charge only a nominal fee to anyone below the FPL and provide services on a sliding scale to anyone between 101 and 200 percent of the FPL. Georgia has a robust network of 135 clinical sites in this category in 77 counties.

I have CC'd Tarren Bragdon and Sam Adolphson with FGA here, please let them or me know if you have any questions with the recommendations above. We will continue to send items and recommendations that we think might be beneficial to you and the State.

Thanks so much!

Best,

POLICY ROADMAP TO CLEAR THE PATH FOR NEW ASSOCIATION HEALTH PLANS (AHPs)

Georgia Governor Brian Kemp

February 2019

The following is a detailed outline of Georgia's regulatory rules and laws for self-insured multiple employer welfare arrangements (MEWAs)¹ including detailed recommendations for expanding access to AHPs in the state. We believe the most important of these will enable Georgia to align its regulatory framework with the federal rule and offer small businesses and entrepreneurs significant premium relief and additional coverage options.

GEORGIA SELF-INSURED MEWA SUMMARY

Georgia Code Title 33 Chapter 50; Georgia Admin. Code Chapter 120-2-50

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

OPPORTUNITIES TO LINE UP WITH THE FEDERAL RULE

1. Clarify that group size is determined at the aggregate MEWA level, not the individual employer level—creates alignment with the federal rule. The current statute is silent on the issue.
Action: May only require regulatory guidance, but legislations also brings long-term clarity.
2. Clarify a path for working owners—creates alignment with the federal rule. Although the relevant statutes provide for the participation of sole-proprietors in fully-insured MEWAs, the self-insured statute is silent on the issue.
Action: May only require regulatory guidance, but legislations also brings long-term clarity.

ADDITIONAL RECOMMENDATIONS

1. Given the statutory requirement to fully fund to maximum liability, eliminate minimum reserve/surplus and deposit requirements, and permit to be actuarially determined. Would require a statutory change to sections 33-50-5.

REGULATORY FRAMEWORK

BASIC REQUIREMENTS

1. Any plan established and maintained by two or more employers (that is not fully insured).
2. MEWAs must be licensed by the Commissioner (exception for political subdivisions and nonprofit educational organizations).
3. Licensed MEWAs are exempt from state premium taxes.
4. Must maintain a minimum surplus of $200,000.
5. Must comply with risk-based capital requirements (see below).
6. Must maintain a security deposit of $100,000 with the Commissioner.
7. Must be annually certified by a qualified actuary as to adequacy of loss reserves.
8. Must have an annual audit by an independent CPA.

9. Must file annual financial statements
10. Must have specific and aggregate stop-loss coverage as determined annually by a qualified actuary based on sound actuarial principles.
11. Employers are jointly and severally liable for all legal obligations of the MEWA.
12. Must assess employers for additional contributions if the assets are insufficient to discharge legal liabilities.
13. Must be managed by a board of trustees elected by participating employers. Trustees are required to plan participants, or owners or employees of a participating employer, or an employee of the sponsoring association.
14. No participating employer may be represented by more than one trustee. A minimum of three and maximum of seven trustees may be elected.
15. Trustees shall be bonded in an amount not less than $150,000.
16. Investment of funds subject to the same restrictions applicable to insurance companies.
17. Must maintain a minimum loss ratio of at least 70 percent. Failure to comply with this standard must result in a premium refund to employers.
18. Must be controlled by the employers.
19. Must maintain loss reserves in an amount approved by the Commissioner.
20. The MEWA is required to be funded up to the point at which the stop-loss insurer assumes 100% of the liability to pay benefits.

RISK-BASED CAPITAL

MEWAs are subject to the same Risk-Based Capital (“RBC”) rules as other domestic insurers. These include:

1. Calculation of RBC levels in accordance with NAIC standards.
2. Annual reporting of RBC levels to the Commissioner, NAIC and the Commissioner in any state in which it does business.
3. Additional reporting, correction, and potential regulatory action if the Commissioner finds that RBC levels are actionable under NAIC standards.
4. In these proceedings, MEWAs (and other insurers) generally have the right to an administrative hearing, and to confidentiality of certain information.¹

APPLICATION

MEWAs must complete and submit an application for a license to the Commissioner that is accompanied by:

1. Copies of the MEWA’s bylaws, all schedules of benefits, and all governing documents and agreements; amendments to any of these documents must also be filed.
2. An audited financial statement prepared by a CPA.
3. Signed and notarized biographical affidavits by all trustees.
4. Complete list of names addresses and telephone numbers of employers participating in the plan and the number of employees of each such employer.
5. A statement of the reasons for applying for a Georgia license, a description of how the MEWA proposes to develop and supervise operations in Georgia, the name title and qualifications of the person responsible for the MEWA’s Georgia operations, and the location and description of the office facilities in Georgia.
6. Additional information as required by the Commissioner.
7. The MEWA’s stop loss coverage must be approved by the Commissioner.
8. Proof of the required bonding for each trustee.

NOTICES

Every benefit plan issued must contain the following language, in contrasting color and at least 10-point type:

1. The plan is a self-insured plan and benefits are not guaranteed by a licensed insurer;
2. The plan is not covered by the Georgia Life and Health Guaranty Association;
3. This is a fully assessable benefit plan. In the event that the multiple employer self-insured health plan is unable to pay its obligations, participating employers shall be required to contribute on a joint and several basis the funds necessary to meet any unpaid obligations;
4. Certain other major protections offered to Georgia residents under the Georgia Insurance Code and Rules and Regulations, such as conversion rights and certain mandated or required benefits, may not be available through the multiple employer self-insured plan.

REPORTING

1. Annual reports must include a signed and certified statement of the MEWA's condition and affairs, and any other information the Commissioner may require.

ENFORCEMENT

1. The Commissioner may examine the MEWA at any time and must do so every five years.
2. Plans seeking to cease existence must apply to the Commissioner for authority to dissolve. In that event, all outstanding obligations must be paid or the MEWA must obtain an irrevocable commitment from a licensed insurer for payment of all outstanding liabilities. Any remaining assets must be distributed to employers.
3. The Commissioner may revoke or suspend a MEWA's license, or impose penalties, if the Commissioner finds that it is in unsound condition, has failed to comply with the law or regulations, has failed to comply with orders from the Commissioner, or that it is in a condition that renders its continued operations hazardous to the public or to persons covered under the plan.
4. For the same reasons, the Commissioner may commence delinquency proceedings against the MEWA and supervise, rehabilitate or liquidate the plan in accordance with the rules applicable to insurers.

ⁱ Georgia uses the term "multiple employer self-insured health plans." Fully insured MEWAs are permitted under Georgia law, but are expressly exempt from the self-insured MEWA statute. It is unclear from the statutes whether employees participating in a MEWA-sponsored plan are counted in the aggregate to determine group size. However, the group insurance statute expressly permits self-employed individuals to participate in a fully insured MEWA

MEMO TO GOV. KEMP ON MEDICAID EXPANSION

Sam Adolphsen, Vice President of Executive Affairs

Georgia, along with other top economic performing states like Florida, Texas, and Tennessee, has rejected Medicaid expansion to able-bodied adults. This decision is wise for several reasons, and the compelling reasons why Georgia has rejected expansion since 2014 remain true today.

Expansion to able-bodied adults has universally resulted in higher enrollment and costs than projected in states that added this new welfare program. Medicaid expansion syphons away resources from other priorities, like public safety, roads, and schools. It crowds out private insurance by extending Medicaid to those who already have health coverage. It provides welfare to those who have other options, and it is a decision that cannot be undone. While it might be a tempting talking point, there is no real “partial expansion” available to states.

Expanding Medicaid comes down to a fundamental question: Does Georgia want to add half a million or more able-bodied adults to a welfare program meant for the truly needy?

Georgia Medicaid expansion by the numbers

- 800,000 to 1.1 million able-bodied adults would be added to the taxpayer-funded Medicaid program.
- $500 million to $650 million in new state costs each year would be added to Georgia’s budget.
- Nearly 8,000 individuals with disabilities are already sitting on a Medicaid waiting list for home and community-based services, but expansion would prioritize able-bodied adults ahead of them.
- 53 percent of potential expansion enrollees already have private health insurance.
- 17 percent of potential expansion enrollees are already eligible for subsidies in the ACA exchange.
- 280,000 able-bodied adults are already covered by Medicaid and 85 percent of them do not work at all.

The “private option” and “partial expansion” are window dressings on full Medicaid expansion

Some calls for expansion include the idea that there may be a way to do a so-called “Georgia version” of expansion that will be creative and sidestep the consequences other states have experienced. This is wishful thinking—and it is not unique to Georgia. Other states, like Arkansas, New Hampshire, and Iowa, have all tried expanding ObamaCare through self-labeled “private market options.” All have seen costs increase dramatically, and the disastrous “private option” was even more expensive than traditional expansion. In Arkansas, it was more than twice as expensive as traditional Medicaid and a bill was filed in 2019 to end the failed experiment.¹ Iowa and New Hampshire have since abandoned the private option entirely.²⁻³

Others have suggested a partial expansion as a way to avoid the negative consequences of expanding welfare. States that expand are obligated to cover all able-bodied adults up to 138 percent of the federal poverty level (FPL). Even if the Trump administration did approve a new waiver allowing a state to cover just those under 100 percent FPL, nearly eight in ten of those in the potential expansion population earn less than 100 percent of FPL.⁴ Additionally, people hovering just above the 100 percent mark are likely to quickly move into the under-100 percent FPL group in order to gain access to taxpayer-funded benefits.

Worse still, it is very possible that any partial expansion contemplated by the Trump administration may be challenged in court. Any budget scenario should include the real possibility that a court may require a state with partial expansion to fully expand ObamaCare, even against the will of policymakers in that state. This will increase enrollment and cost overruns even more.

Medicaid already covers the truly needy in Georgia—expansion is exclusively for able-bodied adults

Georgia's Medicaid is already very generous in the depth of Georgians the program covers. While some expansion advocates point out the able-bodied adults that are not covered by Medicaid, they are ignoring the millions of Georgians the program covers, including nearly 280,000 able-bodied parents.

Who Georgia's Medicaid program already covers:

- Georgia covers roughly two million Georgians in the Medicaid program.⁵ One out of five Georgians already receive Medicaid. The annual cost is more than $10 billion total, including more than $3.3 billion annually in state funds.⁶
- Children: There are more than 1.2 million children on Georgia's Medicaid program. In some cases, children are eligible through the Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP) up to 252 percent of the federal poverty level, which is about $65,000 for family of four.⁷⁻⁸ No additional children would become eligible for Medicaid under expansion. Medicaid expansion is not for children in Georgia.
- Individuals with disabilities: There are 349,000 individuals with disabilities on Georgia's Medicaid program.⁹ Individuals with disabilities are already covered and are not part of Medicaid expansion.
- Pregnant women: Pregnant women in Georgia are already eligible for Medicaid with income up to 225 percent of the federal poverty level, which is about $58,000 for a family of four.¹⁰⁻¹¹ No pregnant women would be newly eligible because of expansion.
- Seniors: There are 198,000 seniors covered by Georgia's Medicaid program, including those that are dually enrolled in Medicare and Medicaid.¹² No seniors would become newly eligible as a result of expansion.
- Able-bodied adults: Georgia already covers nearly 280,000 able-bodied adults.¹³ Eighty-five percent of these adults do not work.¹⁴

Georgia's Medicaid program is already very generous, covering millions of Georgians. Expansion will expand coverage to one group, and one group only: able-bodied adults, most without children. Children, seniors, pregnant women, and individuals with disabilities will not benefit from expansion. In fact, expansion will divert resources away from these groups.

Even partial expansion would cost Georgia $500 million to $650 million per year in state funds

Each new state that succumbs to the siren song of expansion has experienced the same result. Enrollment and costs almost immediately exceed all projections, typically by at least double. Georgia's experience will not be any different. The Medicaid expansion "Pac-Man" will soon invade the Georgia budget, eating the budget alive and ruining the chance to leave a legacy of prudent fiscal management and smart investments in education, infrastructure, and the truly needy. This is a steep price to pay for adding able-bodied adults to welfare.

Based on other states' real expansion experience and estimates derived from the left-wing Kaiser Family Foundation, even a partial expansion in Georgia would cost at least $500 million in state funds each year.¹⁵ This number could easily jump to $650 million with a higher level of signups for the welfare program, which is very likely.

This level of new spending guarantees that Georgia will have less funding available for other priorities, including the truly needy, education, and infrastructure. Georgia currently has nearly 8,000 individuals with disabilities on waiting lists for services they need to stay in their homes.¹⁶ Expansion would exacerbate the diversion of funds from the truly needy to able-bodied adults.

Even without expansion, Georgia tax dollars have increasingly gone to the Medicaid program. Since 2000, the share of Georgia's budget going to Medicaid has increased from 15 percent to 21 percent. The Medicaid budget grew twice as fast the education budget.¹⁷⁻¹⁸ Future investments in education will become increasingly difficult or impossible after Medicaid expansion. For example, providing a $3,000 annual increase in salary to all teachers will cost Georgia about $400 million a year.¹⁹

Consider these facts:

- States that expanded Medicaid have signed up more than twice as many able-bodied adults as promised.²⁰
- Medicaid expansion per-person costs have exceeded original estimates by 76 percent.²¹
- This enrollment explosion, combined with higher per-person costs, has led to cost overruns of 157 percent.²²
- States with similar population size to Georgia—Illinois, Ohio, Michigan, and Pennsylvania—all enrolled more than 650,000 able-bodied adults as a result of Medicaid expansion, even though they already had more generous eligibility standards than Georgia.²³
- More than half of all Medicaid expansion enrollees do not work at all.²⁴ In Georgia, 85 percent of the able-bodied adults already on Medicaid do not work at all.²⁵

Medicaid expansion is Hotel California—you can check in, but you can never leave

Some states, especially state legislatures, have decided they can expand but leave room to walk away later if they don't like it or if federal funding falls below a certain threshold. Unfortunately for those states, it is highly likely that the Medicaid expansion road is a one-way street. With no sign that it will be repealed federally, and the very real legal likelihood that you cannot repeal expansion, Georgia would be walking toward a decision it cannot undo.

In fact, three separate federal lawsuits have been filed arguing that once a state elects to accept Medicaid expansion and take on new able-bodied adults, this population will be mandatory going forward.

Gresham v. Azar (AR):

"Once a state elects to expand coverage to the expansion population, it becomes a mandatory coverage group."

Stewart v. Hargan (KY):

"Once a state elects to expand coverage to the expansion population, it becomes a mandatory coverage group."

Stewart v. Azar (KY):

"Moreover, he would certainly face a challenge that he cannot lawfully rescind Medicaid coverage for the mandatory expansion population."

"[NFIB v. Sebelius held] that the federal government may not compel states to take up the Medicaid expansion in the first place by threatening to withhold all federal Medicaid funding, but [left] intact the statutory scheme otherwise treating the expansion population as mandatory once covered."

Expansion will shift able-bodied adults from private insurance to government Medicaid

More than half of those who would be eligible for expansion in Georgia already have private insurance. Previous experience shows that Medicaid expansion often crowds out private insurance, offering a “free” government-funded option for those who already have health insurance coverage on their own or through an employer.

When Arizona and Maine expanded Medicaid to able-bodied adults in the early 2000s, they saw the rate of privately insured adults drop while their Medicaid rolls increased by the same amount. This “crowd out” effect has been estimated to be as high as 60 percent—meaning that for every ten new Medicaid enrollees, six left a private plan to enroll in Medicaid.²⁶ This will happen in Georgia as well.

In fact, 53 percent of potential expansion enrollees in Georgia already have private insurance—41 percent through their employer and another 12 percent in the individual market.²⁷ Under expansion, these able-bodied adults will shift away from private insurance and to government-funded Medicaid.

Even for those that are uninsured, they may already be eligible for heavy subsidies for individual coverage in the ACA exchange. In fact, another 17 percent of potential expansion enrollees in Georgia who are uninsured are already eligible for significant subsidies in the ACA exchange. Expansion guarantees they go on welfare instead of purchasing their plan, at low personal cost, privately.

There are many other health care options available to individuals in so-called “coverage gaps”

One of the most egregious pieces of misinformation in the Medicaid expansion debate is the idea that certain individuals have no other option for health care and if Medicaid isn’t expanded to able-bodied adults, they will be stuck in a coverage gap. This relates to the policy in ObamaCare that excludes those under 100 percent of FPL from the available subsidies in the ACA exchanges, and it creates a strong incentive for those adults to work so they can become eligible for the subsidy in the exchange. There are also many other options available to these able-bodied adults to get health care coverage:

- Able-bodied adults earning at least federal poverty level are eligible for heavily-subsidized private coverage. An individual earning just $12,140 dollars can purchase insurance on the exchange for as little as $21 per month. Earning this amount requires just 24 hours of work per week at $10 per hour or about 29 hours at $8 per hour. A part-time job is all it takes to purchase private health insurance. Georgia should prioritize an investment in jobs, not more welfare benefits for able bodied adults.
- Association health plans (AHPs) and short-term plans (STPs) are new, affordable options. Through recently adjusted rules, the Trump administration has opened the door to new, affordable health care options for Georgians.
 - AHP's are up to $10,000 less per year for premiums than individual plans, and up to 118,000 Georgians are projected to have new access to these plans.²⁸
 - STP's are now available in Georgia, and there are 207 of these plans available compared to just 21 plans on the individual market. The premiums are half the cost of individual market plans, making them a better fit for many able-bodied adults.²⁹
- Georgia has a robust Charity Care Network. The Georgia Charitable Care Network has existed since 2003 and has more than 90 providers statewide whose mission is to “deliver compassionate health care to low income Georgians.” This charitable care network is made up of “independent, non-profit clinics across Georgia, and hundreds of physicians, dentists and other health care professionals who provide care in their own offices.”³⁰
- There is a nationwide network of affordable health care providers that exist to provide a safety net for low-income uninsured Americans. The federal government invests $10 billion into community healthcare clinics annually at 11,000 different sites, providing affordable care to one out of every three Americans in poverty.³¹⁻³³ The clinics are designed to serve low-income uninsured populations. They are required to charge only a nominal fee to anyone below the FPL and provide services on a sliding scale to anyone between 101 and 200 percent of the FPL.³⁴ Georgia has a robust network of 135 clinical sites in this category in 77 counties.³⁵

The bottom line: Medicaid expansion is wrong for Georgia

Medicaid expansion to able-bodied adults in Georgia will result in massive cost overruns and budget challenges, will add at least half a million able-bodied adults, will take resources away from priorities like roads and education, and it will push adults off the private insurance they already have and into Medicaid. Georgia can stand strong and maintain focused on moving people into good jobs instead of growing an already broken welfare program.

Gentlemen,

First of all, thank you very much for your leadership during these difficult times. Please see the attached letter requesting that Insurance and insurance agencies be included in any list of essential business services if Executive Action is needed in regards to shelter in place policies. The city of Athens has already taken such action and omitted Insurance Services from their list of essential business services. If the state reaches the point where similar action is considered, we respectfully request that our letter be taken under advisement.

If our association can be of any assistance, I can be reached on my cell phone at any time. [REDACTED]

To: The Honorable Brian Kemp, Governor
The Honorable John King, Commissioner of Insurance and Fire Safety

From: John Barbour, Chief Executive Officer, Independent Insurance Agents of Georgia
Michael Mellars, President, Independent Insurance Agents of Georgia

Subject: Covid-19 Essential Business Service Request

Governor Kemp and Commissioner King,

The Independent Insurance Agents of Georgia (IIAG) recognizes the challenging circumstances our state and local communities are faced with in an attempt to contain and mitigate the impact of Covid-19. During these times the state may be forced to make difficult decisions regarding the closure of non-essential business services, similar to the order issued by the City of Athens.

IIAG asserts that independent insurance agencies and brokerages are essential service providers on the front lines dealing with families and business clients impacted by losses or those seeking to address critical coverages or claims. It is our opinion that insurance agencies should be considered an “essential business service” within the terms of any Executive Order or Directive from the Office of the Commissioner of Insurance due to the essential services they provide to the public, including:

- Receiving first reports from policyholders of incidents for which they make claims against their insurance coverages
- Acting as intermediaries between insurance claimants and the insurers providing coverages
- Obtaining insurance for businesses and households in immediate need of coverage (for example, individuals who must quickly obtain Homeowners Insurance for closings on home mortgage loans)
- Issuing Automobile Liability Insurance identification cards for purchasers of new and used motor vehicles, who must produce the cards to the Department of Motor Vehicles at the time of vehicle registration
- Answering questions from the public about their insurance coverages, particularly as those coverages pertain to the present crisis
- Accepting premium payments from the public
- Helping businesses understand and adapt to the Families First Act and how that law will integrate with their employee benefit plans. (Primarily navigating leave laws with federal cobra law and helping businesses navigate these times so they do not breach their contracts).

IIAG asks that if state level action is taken, independent insurance agencies and brokerages be deemed 'essential businesses or entities providing essential services or functions' and not subject to in-person prohibitions. Insurance policyholders rely on their independent agents and brokers to provide services whenever they need them. Consequently, it is critical that agencies and brokerages have sufficient staff on hand to provide these services. It's imperative that agencies have the flexibility to determine the right staffing plan for their business that allows for safety of employees and clients while serving the needs of their customers.

We understand these are unique and trying times. Our members are on the front lines with parties negatively impacted by this pandemic and we respectfully request that our services not be restricted to the point that we cannot serve those who are most in need.

Respectfully submitted,

Mark,

Below is an email sent from the President of Southern Trust Insurance Company, Les Cole. They are the last privately held domestic insurance company in Georgia with close to 100 employees in the Macon area. In Commercial Auto they have taken 35% in rate increases over the past few years and have a 108% loss ratio over that time. This means that for every dollar that take in, they pay out $1.08 even with taking 35% in rate increases. The message below highlights a reinsurance company's view of the Georgia market. I equate this to a bond rating agency examining the states tax policy and threatening to reduce our bond rating. The reinsurance world views Georgia unfavorably and they will reduce exposure in Georgia. This will lead to less available Insurance options for businesses, increased rates, and reduced coverage. Basically, the cost of doing nothing will equate to the scenario below.

Les can be reached at [REDACTED] if needed. If I can be of further assistance, please let me know.

I met with our reinsurers yesterday. I was told Georgia was on there radar as becoming one of the most litigious states and only expected to get worse. They also said the legal environment has raised concerns which has already affected pricing and capacity for Georgia. If this continues expect double digit rate increases and more restricted terms. This could be the deciding factor in doing business in Georgia or crossing state lines.

Thanks

Les

Great. Thanks, John.

We have confirmed Drew Charter School's photo with the Governor for Monday, September 30th at 12:05PM.

Please have a representative from the group check in with the Governor's Office, suite 203, upon arrival.

Please have the group aligned and ready for a photo on the north interior steps of the State Capitol by 12:05PM. The Governor will then step out, greet the group, and snap a few photos.

A photographer will be on site to take photos. These photos will be available on the Governor's website for your use.

If you have submitted a request for a proclamation along with this photo request, it will need to be picked up in Capitol Suite 100 prior to the photo. For any related questions, contact Kylie Harrod at kylie.harrod@georgia.gov.

This allotted time on the Governor's calendar is for photos only, and due to the demands of the Governor's calendar, they are subject for cancellation or changes if needed. Thank you for your flexibility.

Please do not hesitate to reach out if you have any questions.

Thanks for reaching out, John.

The only availability we would have would be on the North Steps of the Capitol on Monday, September 30th at 12:05PM. This would allow for the Governor to slide in for a quick photo before departing the Capitol for a prior commitment.

Let me know if this would work for your group, and I will be happy to finalize on the calendar and send over specifics.

Laura,

I am the lobbyist for the Independent Insurance Agents of Georgia and my kids 2nd grade class is coming to the Capitol on Monday for a field trip. Tyler Adams asked that I reach out to you for help. I am hoping we could do a group photo with the Governor if his busy schedule allows. Here are the details.

Monday, Sept. 30
12:15 pm group photo with Governor (inside Capitol Steps).

Drew Charter School 2nd Grade Class. Aprox. 150 students.

If that is not possible. I will be down there and would love to squeeze in with my two kids for a quick photo with Governor Kemp.

Please let me know if either of these opportunities are possible.

Thank you,
