Re: Palm Beach County Voter Roll and List Maintenance Review

Dear Supervisor Link:

As you know, we have been reviewing voter rolls and list maintenance procedures in Palm Beach County. We appreciate your transparency in answering our requests under the National Voter Registration Act. We are at the completion stage of our review and we wanted to give you the results. We hope you find this review to be useful in improving the accuracy and currency of the rolls. We are happy to answer any questions you have, including how we used commercial databases to inform our conclusions.

I. Summary Outline of Audit Findings

Our analysis of the data found the following issues:

- Double voting by the same registrant in the same election across state lines,
- Double registrations across state lines,
- Use of non-residential addresses as county residences,
- Deceased voters on the voter roll,
- Records of deceased voters casting ballots,
- Registrant names appearing more than once on the county's voter roll,
- Registrants with duplicate registrations who voted twice in the same election,
- Noncitizens being registered and voting, and
- Procedural deficiencies that may be contributing to inaccurate voter files remaining undetected.

II. Process and Methodology

We requested, received and reviewed Palm Beach County's voter registration data in bulk, which consists of approximately 959,100 individual voter files. We first compared that data to publicly available voter registrations that we obtained from two other states, New York and Pennsylvania. We chose these two states because many people now living in Florida previously lived in New

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

York, or elsewhere on the east coast. We were also able to obtain the data from those states in a format that is compatible with the format of the Florida data, decreasing the need to manipulate or convert it in order to analyze it. We ran queries on the data, which consists of approximately 22.1 million records combined, and looked for indicators of duplicate active voter registrations across state lines.[1] To ensure match validity, our analysts consulted several commercial databases to match Social Security numbers belonging to each apparent duplicate registration.

We also utilized the Social Security Death Index (SSDI), as well as commercial address databases, in an effort to check for deceased voters. In the SSDI, we compared and strictly matched the names, birthdates, and locations in order to identify registered voters who have died yet remain on the voter roll. Full social security numbers were matched where available. If deceased voters were strictly matched positive, we then pulled their voter histories for further analysis into whether the voter was, in fact, deceased, and whether another person, such as a family member at the same address, voted in place of the registered, deceased voter.

We also looked for potential duplicate registrations by searching for data variables that might belong to the same person such as a birthdate entered incorrectly by transposing one digit, or by common typos found with some names. Duplicate registrations are also easily created whenever data is entered inconsistently, such as abbreviations. Although the database management system provides some level of wildcard search capabilities, the fact that duplicates exist indicate that either the software program is not catching all of the duplicates or that the person inputting the information is not following the process that would tell the program to search for duplicate information.

We requested, received and reviewed the noncitizen voter registration cancellations that the county received over the last 13 years, as well as their correlating voter files. We do this to help identify the point at which the noncitizen was erroneously processed and given voting rights. Sometimes the applicant incorrectly affirmed citizenship on the application, but other times citizenship was denied on the application, but processed anyway.

As you may be aware, there is currently no database or other source to confirm a person's United States citizenship. If a noncitizen registers with the federal government, that person will receive an alien number and then his citizenship will be noted in a federal database managed by the Department of Homeland Security. However, if a noncitizen does not register with the government, then that person's information is not in a database to consult. In addition, as you know, the federal DHS database is not freely accessible by states, nor is it designed to be used as a "citizenship" database. And, obviously, only those noncitizens who are abiding by federal immigration law are even entered into the database. That means noncitizens almost certainly remain on the rolls in Palm Beach County.

As a result, non-citizenship only becomes known when a noncitizen who registers to vote later self-reports that he is not, in fact, a citizen. If this happens, it typically occurs when the noncitizen

[1] An even more advanced audit would involve additional gathering of voter roll data from other states statistically known to be prior domiciles of Floridians, then performing comparisons against those states as well. In an effort to contain costs, we did not conduct a cross check audit beyond the states named herein.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

learns during the legal immigration process that his or her citizenship application is jeopardized if he or she has illegally voted prior to becoming a U.S. citizen. This, however, will not occur if the noncitizen chooses not to pursue legal immigration. As many immigrants reside here without seeking citizenship, the number of those who are registered and have not self-reported is currently unknown.

The only other vehicle for noncitizen self-reporting is through the jury duty process. Noncitizens are not eligible to sit on juries and may assert this status in response to a notice for jury duty. Although Florida courts are required to send change of address information they receive in jury duty responses to county election supervisors, courts are not currently required to share noncitizen responses to jury duty.[2] Thus, if a person claims they are ineligible to sit on a jury because they are not a citizen, that information is not shared with the county election office unless that person also provides a change of address. Nevertheless, Florida law does empower election supervisors to obtain this information and specifically authorizes them to utilize this data to conduct list maintenance.

We requested, received and analyzed the bi-annual county certifications required by statute[3] to be submitted to the Florida Department of State. We looked for data that would indicate a lack of list maintenance efforts, such as a large number of confirmation of address cards mailed by a county without any correlating resolutions being noted in the following cycles.

We requested, received and reviewed the county's HAVA files including the county's applications for HAVA funding for the years 2007-2019, and the annual grants it received. The grants were based, in part, on the number of registered voters in 2006-2015, the number of "active" registered voters in 2016-2018, and most recently, on the "voting age population" for 2019. We reviewed the purposes listed for the funds received to ensure that the purposes identified were allowed under HAVA, but also to compare the reported numbers of registered voters to other records. We did this to evaluate whether the number of registered voters were inflated resulting in an increase in the amount of funding that would be available. An advanced audit in this area would include a request for supporting documentation submitted by the county pursuant to HAVA which would include invoices and receipts confirming how the funds were spent.

We also requested, received and reviewed the county administration manual and regulations that govern the procedures the county personnel uses to manage voter registration and conduct list maintenance. Notably, Palm Beach County is converting to a new voter registration management system this year, which will render the current manual irrelevant after that transition. The new management system is already in place elsewhere in Florida, where it has undergone some recent public scrutiny over its security. Media reports suggest that the FBI is consulting with state officials to discuss security concerns and improvements. It is unclear what changes, if any, will be made to the state-wide vendor's system. With the transition in Palm Beach County to the VR System, the entire state of Florida will be serviced by one election systems vendor. Thus, we obtained the procedures manual for this system from Miami-Dade County, which currently uses the VR System and analyzed the procedures of that management program to see if they would resolve some of the issues we found.

[3] F.S. 98.065(6)(a).

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

As part of our analysis of the two different county manuals, we evaluated the current process to identify registrants who are ineligible to vote due to a past felony conviction. We also looked at the internal processing used for felony convictions in light of the new amendment passed in 2018 and inquired about modifications aimed to assist in new felon registration.

In addition to receiving updated information directly from a registrant, relevant list maintenance information is obtained from secondary sources such as the Department of Health, Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles, and others, so managing the incoming stream of information is critical. In analyzing trends and procedures, we have found that most registrants do not proactively update their voter registration when a change in their status occurs, such as a change in address or a name change. As a result, the majority of information that would necessitate a change within a registrant's file comes in through secondary government sources. Thus, the management of information received from these sources is crucial to list maintenance.

With that in mind, we reviewed the statutes your office provided as those your office relies on in managing information received from the Department of State and other sources. Our analysis identified which entity bears responsibility for obtaining, reviewing and utilizing specific secondary sources of information. Specifically, we compared the responsibilities of the county supervisors, as governed by statute, with those of the Department of State, as governed by statute. We then looked to the manuals to see if the operating procedures followed the statutory guidelines. In other words, we tracked the statutory duties of each entity and matched them to the processes outlined in the manual. We did this to identify loopholes, gaps or inconsistencies that may cause errors in the voter roll. For example, if one procedure states that the Department will identify certain information, but another procedure states that the county is in charge of identifying it, a gap in obtaining and processing information will occur. Such gaps result in incorrect voter files.

A. Simultaneous Interstate Double Voting

We start with evidence of double voting across state lines, which is one of the most critical issues found.[4] Our analysis was designed to identify two types of data: cases of double voting due to duplicate registrations across state lines and concurrent interstate registrations without evidence of double voting to date.

Bear in mind, it is your responsibility to confirm the accuracy of our conclusions. We have done the best that a private party can do under the circumstances to detect double voting. We do not have the statutory authority that you do to investigate these potential double voters. We stand ready to assist you and provide all the details necessary to aid you in that inquiry, including how we made these conclusions.

[4] Our analysis used multiple match sources to achieve a confidence level of 99% reliability. This information is not intended to represent a confidence rate of 100% because it does not include first-hand confirmation from the registered voter. The Supervisor is better equipped under Florida law to make a conclusive determination for each of the registrants which we have flagged. We are confident that we have provided you very reliable information that warrants your attention.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The chart below is a sample of voters who are registered in both Palm Beach County and either New York or Pennsylvania. An analysis of all voters with two active voter registration files revealed 38 instances of double voting occurring in Palm Beach and in counties located in either New York or Pennsylvania. We are providing the full file of potential double voters to you in a separate Excel file. The individuals listed have voter histories showing they voted in both states in the November 2018 General Election. Of the 38, 28 voted in both Palm Beach and New York, while 10 voted in both Palm Beach and Pennsylvania.

It is important to note that the only election year searched was 2018; thus, it is entirely possible that double voting has occurred more than once by those who did so in 2018.

Research was also done on the 2016 Presidential Election, for which we had compatible data from other states in addition to New York and Pennsylvania. Our analysis revealed at least 185 cases where registrants on the Palm Beach voter roll cast votes in Florida and in another state in the same election. The bulk of these occurred in the northeast and along the Eastern Seaboard, however, there are also cases in Texas and California. A table demonstrating double voting credits between Palm Beach and other states for the 2016 election is provided below.

South Carolina	22

The fact that double voting is occurring demands the supervisor's urgent, focused attention and correction. Besides the obvious inequity in one citizen casting two votes, time is of the essence to ensure that voter rolls are accurate before the next general election.

In January 2019, Florida joined the Electronic Registration Information Center ("ERIC") program as part of its effort to comply with list maintenance requirements. Participation in the program is used to identify inaccurate registrations that require updating or the initiation of the notice removal process from the Florida voter roll. Once the Department submits Florida's voter registrations to ERIC, it will receive back search results indicating possible interstate double registrations.

According to ERIC's website, 26 member states currently share data to identify duplicate records across jurisdictional boundaries.[5] Several of those states have a high migration rate to Florida, including Maryland, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Rhode Island, and Ohio. A notable missing entry here, however, is New York, which does not participate in ERIC and is another reason we chose to include it in our independent audit. ERIC has other shortcomings too numerous to detail here, but the absence of New York in the system illustrates why it is important to rely on independent audits of rolls between states.

Once a list of potential matches is provided by ERIC, it is up to each county to investigate and handle the information that pertains to its voter list. Going forward, it is important that the county supervisor is prepared for the influx of potential matches from ERIC and has a system in place and staff assigned to perform the additional searches needed to either confirm or reject a potential match.

Although Florida has agreed to begin sharing its voter records with other states within the ERIC program, it must do so as soon as possible in order for the results to be acted upon in accordance with state and federal law.[6] Attached to this report are the results of our interstate research which is provided in the same format that ERIC uses so that the county can become familiar with it and be ready to process such information when it is received from ERIC.

While duplicate registrations may be more common than actual double voting, they are still extremely alarming because of how simple it would be for a person to double vote if registered in two different states. In fact, research performed by ERIC's sponsoring organization, PEW Trusts, confirmed that duplicate interstate voter registration is a significant cause for concern as our nation becomes increasingly mobile. Of course, Florida has been facing this challenge for some time as its population continues to grow.[7]

Double registrations are also indicative of deficient list maintenance efforts. Indeed, when a person moves, there are procedures mandated by federal law that cause the change of address to trigger the removal process or cancellation of the former registration. If, however, a voter is actively maintaining two residences without submitting any type of change of address, then such procedures will fail to cancel a registration.

[6] The notice removal process required by the NVRA has built-in timelines to ensure its accuracy. Other list maintenance processes, however, could be used depending on the source of the information received. State law also authorizes the supervisor to remove confirmed ineligible registrants in certain circumstances.

The second significant concern related to duplicative interstate registrations involves the use of the address of the election supervisor's office as a residential voting address. Sheet 6 of the attached workbook outlines 15 cases of duplicate interstate registrations of people who claimed the election's office address of 240 S. Military Trail as a residence, yet provided mailing addresses located elsewhere in the United States. Some examples follow:

While some state voter privacy statutes prohibited our analysts from positively matching addresses in other states with those on the Palm Beach voter roll, it would be within the supervisor's authority to conduct list maintenance using the out of state mailing addresses of the registrants, as opposed to the election office address. While Florida allows dual residency to be claimed, it does not allow for a resident to vote twice in the same election. Thus, dual residency registrants need to be identified as such in the system and submit an actual local residence address to ensure that the voter actually has a residence in the county.

Another problem with allowing the use of the office address is the inability to conduct routine maintenance activities on all addresses, which is required in every odd-numbered year.[8] Currently, the proper procedure to verify an address is to mail a confirmation of address card to the county residential address contained within the registrant's file. As was confirmed with your staff, this means that a strict adherence to the law would result in cards being mailed by your office to your office. Your staff confirmed that this was not actually happening. As a result, registrants who registered using the election office as their official county residence are not receiving the cards, nor are they returning them. This creates an undocumented exception to the list maintenance program that absolutely guarantees an incorrect voter roll. It also creates a scenario where registrants who have moved or died, and had used the election office address as their county residence, remain on the roll in perpetuity.

B. Fraudulent Use of Other Non-Residential Addresses

Barring few exceptions, Florida law states that when registering to vote, a residential address claimed on an application is meant literally to be just that. In addition to potential misuses of the 240 S. Military Trail election office address, our research within the voter roll identified three more types of distinct problems with addresses involving post office buildings, UPS stores and other government buildings.

Although the Florida voter registration application makes clear that post office boxes may not be claimed as residences, our analysts found that actual post office buildings were claimed as residences. In many of these cases, it appears that the registrant masked their PO Box number by claiming it was an apartment or unit attached to that address. Post office locations in Boca Raton, Boynton Beach, Delray Beach, Lake Worth, Lantana, Palm Beach, and West Palm Beach were identified. In Sheet number 9 of the attachment, a breakdown of both current year and recently changed registrations is displayed, some with voter credits dating back from the 2018 and 2016 general elections. Highlighted separately are cases where current registrations were changed from post office buildings to residences. Between the 2016 and 2018 General Elections, we identified 21 such registrations.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

During a search of known UPS Store addresses against the current year Palm Beach County voter registration roll, we identified at least 36 examples where UPS stores were claimed specifically as residential addresses for voter registration purposes. Of the 36, 19 hold voter credits for participating in either or both the 2018 or 2016 general elections. Some of the 19 also hold voter credits for elections prior to 2016. Sheet number 10 outlines examples of UPS Stores claimed as homes in Lake Worth, Delray Beach, Palm Beach, and West Palm Beach. As with the post office address records, most registrants used their rented box numbers as their apartment or unit numbers at the store's address.

Last, the address analysis found 10 examples where registrants claimed government buildings, including police stations, fire houses, and/or city halls, as residences in Boca Raton and Palm Beach Shores. Nine of the 10 registrations claim 100 NW 2nd Avenue, a Boca Raton police station, as their home address. One lists 247 Edwards Ln. in Palm Beach Shores. Seven of the 10 show voter credits for the 2018, 2016, or earlier elections. To ensure accuracy, the records for each of these were checked to confirm that the applicant had not opted to have his or her information lawfully suppressed for security concerns.

Although the county works with local GIS to identify bad addresses, a recent check just prior to finalizing this report indicates that none of the addresses we found had been previously identified as a bogus residential address.

C. Deceased Voters Who Are Still Voting in Palm Beach

Our analysis revealed that there are deceased voters on the roll, as well as many implausibly old registered voters, as noted below:

Voters listed on SSDI with active status (as of 01/2019):	2,203
Voters listed on SDDI with inactive status:	204
Registrants with birthdates of 12/31/1914 or older:	316

These findings appear to indicate that the procedure for receiving and processing death information needs improvement. Many SSDI matches reveal dates of death from more than a decade ago, which means that if the death is either not reported to the county or is not acted upon when received, there is no review process in place to systematically check the voter roll for deceased voters. This would be a bulk review, searching by birthdates. Currently, the management system does not appear to direct bulk searches like this. Since list maintenance must be done and applied consistently to the voter roll, a system to ensure that all death notices have been properly gathered and processed would regularly catch county deaths.

With a cursory glance, it may seem that performing list maintenance designed to remove deceased voters from the roll is not a priority maintenance task because the deceased person is not going to be voting. However, our analysis revealed that over one hundred deceased registrants actually cast ballots in recent elections in Palm Beach County after their dates of death.

Data revealed that 156 voter "credits" were cast by a voter whose name and other identifying information, such as a social security number, appeared on the SSDI list prior to the date that the vote was cast. Our analysts accounted for and removed any votes cast during an early voting period for the election at hand, and that process still confirmed 156 votes cast. The table below outlines the credits issued per election for current registered voters, whose status is "active," matched against the SSDI.

Ballots cast by a registered voter who has died indicates two problems. The first is that the voter roll is not "accurate and current" as required by Florida law[9] and federal law.[10] The second problem is that identification of voters, either at the polls or in analyzing the signatures of mail-in ballots, is not catching that the ballot is being cast by someone other than the deceased voter. Obviously, it is much easier for this to happen with a mail-in ballot because a mail-in ballot is counted so long as 1) the name appears on the voter roll, and 2) there is a signature on it that essentially "matches" a signature in the voter's registration file.[11]

[10] NVRA, 52 USC § 20501(b)(4).
[11] F.S. 101.68(1).

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The use of mail-in ballots to fraudulently vote is of particular concern because, under Florida law, a registered voter can call or write the Supervisor's office and request a mail-in ballot for any reason.[12] The caller need only provide a name, address and date of birth in order to receive a ballot by mail. This type of information is readily available to family, friends, others acquainted with the deceased voter and, frankly, anyone reading the obituary. And, although the address provided for the ballot must match the address of the deceased registrant, that is not the case when someone else requests the ballot on behalf of the registrant. At that point, the requestor's address will suffice as long as the request is in writing.[13] Notably, once a request is made, the registrant continues to automatically receive mail-in ballots through several elections, as this statute explains:

> The supervisor shall accept a request for a vote-by-mail ballot from an elector in person or in writing. One request shall be deemed sufficient to receive a vote-by-mail ballot for all elections through the end of the calendar year of the second ensuing regularly scheduled general election, unless the elector or the elector's designee indicates at the time the request is made the elections for which the elector desires to receive a vote-by-mail ballot. Such request may be considered canceled when any first-class mail sent by the supervisor to the elector is returned as undeliverable.
> F.S. 101.62(1)(a) (emphasis added).

For this reason, it is imperative that deceased voters be timely removed from the voter roll so that illegal votes are not cast through an abuse of the mail-in ballot system. If the voter roll is current, the deceased voter's name will not be on the roll. Thus, if a mail-in ballot is sent in by someone else, it would be rejected. Indeed, Florida law requires that each county remove the deceased registrant from the roll within 7 days of receipt of the death notice from the Department of State.[14] This has obviously not been happening consistently.

In addition, it is the county election supervisor who is the only person statutorily tasked with analyzing the signature on a mail-in ballot and comparing it to the signature on file.[15] This could be a massive undertaking, depending on the number of mail-in ballots the county sends out and receives back. With a large population of elderly voters, this number is in the thousands. Signature analysis is also extremely subjective and, under time constraints, could be conducted with varying amounts of attention given to each ballot, depending on the number of ballots received. Any inconsistent procedure can become problematic. We understand that legislation was recently passed that affects the signature verification of ballots. We will update this report as to any issues we find with the new legislation.

We have provided a separate spreadsheet of all registrants we found who appear to fall into these categories of deceased registrants.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Last, the importance of one's right to vote weighs in favor of erring on the side of counting the vote, so as not to disenfranchise a single eligible voter. The best practice to ensure the integrity of the election, then, is to eliminate the opportunities for mail-in ballot fraud to occur by timely removing deceased voters from the voter roll. Lawful voter roll maintenance, as required by the NVRA and codified in Florida state law, remains the best way to reduce the number of times a supervisor unknowingly evaluates a fraudulent signature on a mail-in ballot.

Setting aside the deceased voters who actually cast ballots, there remains 2,203 "active" registrants on the Palm Beach County voter roll who are also on the SSDI death list. Their status as "active" indicates a failure of list maintenance to remove their names through one of the required list maintenance programs identified in Florida law.[16] As you know, the county supervisor must incorporate at least one procedure in a biennial list maintenance program designed to identify voters who have died or moved. The existence of voters on the list who have been deceased for decades indicates a failure of the system to identify such voters. The attached worksheet identifies in detail the deceased voter findings (Sheets 4-5) to assist you in addressing them.

D. Duplicate Registrations within Palm Beach County Voter Roll

Our analysis revealed that there are duplicate registrants on the county's voter roll. The most common example found was of a single person registering twice at the same address with an exact or substantially similar full name and date of birth. For our calculation, potential duplicates with similar data fields that could not be verified as living in single-family dwellings or specific units in multi-family housing were discarded. This process of elimination still yielded over 413 duplicate registration sets. Of those, some voters were confirmed to have voted twice in the same election, as shown on the attached worksheet, at Sheet 1. Here are some examples:

1. A duplicate set with neatly matching data fields at a single-family[17] residence:

The above examples indicate that duplicate registrations are likely generated by both human error and potential faults within the voter registration system itself. Human error stems from either the voter who completed the application, or the elections personnel inputting the information. Regardless, the registration system should catch such errors but it is not doing so.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Again, we have provided an attached spreadsheet with all of the potentially duplicate registrants. Also, while we have made our best efforts in accumulating these potential problems, it is ultimately up to the supervisor to make a conclusive determination as to whether the rolls contain improper duplicate registrations.

Our review of the "Data Entry Manual" provided to us by the county reveals several procedures that could be causing the duplicate registrations. However, because the county will be converting to the VR System, a comprehensive analysis of the old manual is not warranted, except for one issue relevant to duplicates that remains problematic which is the system's search parameters for duplicate registrations. Both the current manual and the new VRS manual check only for exact birthdates without accounting for a possible transposing of digits. As we have seen above, this is not an uncommon occurrence. This procedure will not pull up an otherwise exact match and there is not a wildcard search used with the birthdate. The existing manual contains this on page 11; the Miami-Dade VRS Manual contains this on page 15.

Another issue lies with the automatic assignment of "unique" voter numbers for every registration received. First, it is in violation of state and federal law to assign more than one number to a registrant file.[18] Thus, the assignment of a FVRS number to every registration processed, including duplicate applications and those from noncitizens who acknowledge that they are noncitizens and thus ineligible to vote, is in violation of state and federal law. Both the current manual and the VRS manual indicate that this is an automatic function of the software. To correct this, the codes should be changed so that ineligible registrants do not receive a FVRS number and so that duplicate registrations do not receive a second or third number. To be clear, when a voter has more than one FVRS/VUID number, he or she will be listed in the poll book under each number and will receive multiple mailings, which could include mail-in ballots if requested. This assignment is automatic within the system software, as noted in the old manual, titled "Voter Registration Module-Voters" Section, at page 11. This must be corrected.

Regardless of where fault ultimately lies in any given case, voter duplication is occurring and our research confirms that some local registrants appear to have taken advantage of the extra ballot in their name by voting twice.

E. Noncitizens on the Voter Roll

Over the course of document inspection and disclosures, your office provided records related to 68 cases of registrant cancellations where citizenship eligibility was the primary factor for removal. Our staff collects this data from across the country, particularly where compliance with the National Voter Registration Act (NVRA) of 1993 is mandated. Regardless of where we look or how large the disclosed set of canceled records for citizenship defects is, specific trends typically emerge.

First, we often see that although not all of the noncitizen registrants voted, they usually became aware of their voter registration status during an immigration procedure. Prospective naturalized citizens are often confronted with their pre-existing voter registration records, causing great alarm and a rush to quickly cancel their registration. Second, our research strives to determine how much blame to place upon the apparently ineligible registrant versus the local voter registration office or even the state's compliance measures related to the Motor Voter law. Often our research confirms that the typical canceled registrant for citizenship defects registered to vote without the intention to do so as a result of third-party registration drives.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Further, it appears that certain county procedures in the registration manual actually counteract the process rather than help it. For example, the VRS Manual includes a software setting that checks the citizenship box BY DEFAULT, requiring the staff person doing the inputting to proactively UNCHECK the box during the processing of each application if, in fact, the box is unchecked. With default settings designed to require more effort from staff, as opposed to less, it is no wonder that the voter roll contains input errors traced to human data entry. Default settings should never be used in voter application input, especially when concerning such a foundational requirement as citizenship.

This is a very significant defect in the software that undermines the citizenship checkbox required by Congress in the NVRA. There should be no default choice because the actual form contains no default. The applicant is tasked with making a choice on the citizenship question, not the election officials or the computers the officials use. This is the single most important step to ensuring that aliens do not vote in American elections. Sadly, it is essentially the only step, so it should not be diluted.

This brings us to another significant area of concern that was discovered through a careful review of actual voter applications produced to us. Despite the noncitizen applicant affirmatively checking the NO box as to U.S. Citizenship, numerous noncitizen applications were still processed and accepted. This came to light after the county produced each cancellation file in toto, including the actual applications submitted. These problems are evident in the following examples.

Every effort should be taken to educate staff that eligibility questions should be reviewed as carefully as other questions. When these systems fail, it is the immigrant—not the data entry staff member —who suffers potential criminal and deportation consequences. As you know, noncitizen voting is a federal and state felony.

III. Analysis of Findings

A. Human Input Errors

There are obvious human input errors occurring. While training may help eliminate this to some degree, the better practice is to review data in bulk on a schedule. If data is not viewed in bulk, meaning retrieved with and viewed in the context of other records, the errors cannot be identified. For example, if voter registration records are retrieved and checked one at a time, duplicates are not caught, nor are other types of errors such as an address that is missing one house number or has the numbers transposed. Such small differences will create separate files and may not be retrieved using the same search. As noted earlier, the software system is not designed to compensate for human input error to the extent it needs to, as is evidenced by the lack of certain wildcard search functions that could be used.

B. Manual and Procedural Loopholes

Although the county will be transitioning to the new voter registration system and a new procedures manual within a few months, the VRS manual we evaluated contains default settings that discourage intentional input and lacks wildcard search functions that could be used to reduce the number of duplicate registrations added. Specific manual changes will be forthcoming once the county's new VRS manual is available. The analysis contained in this report is based on another county's VRS manual and may not be the same manual that Palm Beach is given by its new vendor. Further, changes to the manual need to come first from the vendor, then get distributed to all counties who operate its system. To that end, we will produce a detailed recommendation sheet and will attempt to consult with VRS to discuss solutions to the issues we have discovered.

C. Violations of Law

When departures from voter list maintenance requirements occur, violations of law result. Our audit found several state and federal statutes that appear to have been violated including that the roll is not "current and accurate," the assignment of more than one FVRS number to a single voter, the use of the election office address as the official residence of county voters, the known inclusion of inaccurate residential addresses which renders the biennial mailings useless as to those voters, maintaining duplicate records on a single voter as opposed to correctly identifying them and updating them in accordance with state law, registering ineligible voters (those who checked NO as to citizenship), the failure to remove deceased voters within 7 days of notification from the State, and a handful of others.

IV. Recommendations Going Forward

As to issues identified in Section A, Simultaneous Interstate Double Voting and Double Registrations, we have the following recommendations:

1. Plan for county participation in the ERIC program by implementing a procedure by which staff knows precisely what sources to check and verify potential matches that are received. This may mean securing access to other state agency databases, or using funds to access a commercial database. Meet with other agency directors who are required to share information with you at your request pursuant to state law,[19] and reach an agreement as to information sharing (who, what, when and how).
2. Identify all available report queries within VRS that would allow staff to view multiple records at once. If this is not easily identifiable, contact the vendor and request a training session for your staff. Issues that the vendor cannot resolve should be raised with the county or state officials who contracted with VRS.
3. If VRS does not allow bulk data review, review HAVA funding allocations to see if funds could be used to hire a data consultant to perform the type of audit that we performed for your benefit.
4. Consider updating county form letters mailed to each registrant to include a warning as to dual residency and the prohibition against maintaining active status voter registrations in more than one state.

As to issues identified in Section B, Fraudulent Use of Non-Residential Addresses, we have the following recommendations:

1. Take the audit results and meet with GIS staff responsible for sending the information to the county elections office and work with them to resolve this.

As to issues identified in Section C, Votes Cast by Deceased Voters, we have the following recommendations.

1. Determine whether the State is sending monthly death reports to you. If so, calendar processing from 7 days of receipt. Assign one staff person to do this task.
2. If the State is not regularly sending you a death list, then assign one person to submit a standing request for monthly death information from the county coroner's office or the SSDI. The county has the authority to remove deceased voters based on death certificates it receives.[20] The county also has authority to remove deceased voters upon receipt of information from other sources that the voter is deceased.[21] Further, state and local government agencies are required to provide you records relating to deceased people free of charge at your request.[22] Although the State is supposed to be getting a monthly list of deaths from the Department of Health,[23] and then use that to notify the counties, it may not be doing so.

3. Confirm that once the voter is "removed" due to death, the software management will not automatically send out any remaining mail-in ballots put into place by an earlier request for them. This may take a change in programming or procedure. Your IT person and vendor should be consulted on this. It is not enough to assume that a deceased voter will not return a ballot.
4. Crosscheck the list of requested mail-in ballot voters to the list of deceased voters.
5. If there is not a procedure in place for regular, systematic bulk review of birthdates, implement one. Such a review would flag both potentially deceased voters as well as birthdates that may be transposed when entered. For example, when a simple query for birthdates listed as before 01/01/1905 is run, any names that are retrieved can then be searched in the SSDI database. Your IT person should be able to easily conduct such searches.

As to issues identified in Section C, Duplicate Voter Registrations, we have the following recommendations:

1. Perform manual wildcard searches in addition to those that are automatically run by the program.
2. Request training from the vendor as to queries for searches to ensure that staff is using the software's options (if any) efficiently.
3. Utilize the results of our audit by assigning staff to review the report, access the database and make corrective changes.

As to issues identified in Section D, Noncitizens on the Voter Roll, we have the following recommendations:

1. Conduct training to curtail human error in the data input process.
2. Consult with the vendor during training as to default settings for checking the boxes, options available to users and queries that can be run to catch incorrect entries.
3. Use HAVA funds to broadcast public service announcements in Spanish that advise immigrants of the crime of voting before becoming a citizen.
4. Consider proactive efforts to eliminate noncitizen registration that is unintentional (on the part of the noncitizen) by posting signs in community centers and other locations used by Third Party Voter Registration Organizations during voter drives. Communicating directly to the population at risk for inadvertent registration is crucial when they get mixed messages from voter groups and there is a language barrier.
5. Consider a partnership with county immigration attorneys to inform the community not to register until naturalized. This can be done by organizing a meeting and inviting several key attorneys to it, then providing them with resources they can include when dealing with their clients. Think outside the box on this.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

6. Direct communication would help counter the common approach by overzealous "volunteers" from Third Party groups to register everyone within reach, without determining citizenship status nor explaining the consequences of voting before it is legal for them to do so. We believe this overinclusive registration is intentional because there is currently no way for the county to verify citizenship once a person asserts it on the application form. If and when it is eventually discovered, the damage is already done with an illegal vote potentially being cast.

V. Conclusion

As the audit shows, the county's voter roll needs to be made current and accurate. The issues found indicate that efforts at list maintenance over the years have either been lax, inconsistent, ignored or ineffective. Built-in procedures were not properly designed to retroactively find and correct errors; rather, they appear to be aimed at assisting in a one-time data entry exercise rather than maintenance or even quality control of what is entered. Other documented procedures passed down from previous administrations contain loopholes that have allowed deceased voters to remain on the roll, allowed duplicate registrations to go undetected, allowed noncitizens to register and allowed double voting to occur both within the county and outside the state.

Having an inaccurate voter roll also makes the county vulnerable to hackers who could manipulate or delete data without the inconsistencies or changes being noticed. The worst-case scenario would be a jurisdiction where officials had difficulty discerning between fresh sabotage and pre-existing defects. During a recent U.S. House Committee on Administration field hearing in Fort Lauderdale, it was openly theorized that Russian hackers allegedly infiltrated Broward County's read/write capabilities over voter data.[24] For this reason, we recommend implementing ways to view the county's data in bulk, in the same way that a cyber attacker would, as described in recent media coverage and comments given by United States Senator Marco Rubio.[25]

Thank you for your professional courtesies and for supplying all available data that we requested under the NVRA. Your cooperation and transparency has been welcome and goes a long way to ensuring that your county's voter roll is as accurate and current as possible. We are confident that by acting on the research and analysis contained in this audit, the county will be able to correct the issues we found and prevent the same errors from reoccurring. We will be calling to find a timeto meet regarding these matters.

Sincerely,

J. Christian Adams
