Second of two.

We haven't heard from these guys for a while; nice to know they're doing well. To preserve blood pressure levels, suggest skipping the first page and a half and getting to the recommendations.

the Committees recommend that before taking any further action, EPA recognize that a permit application has been completed by Pebble and that the Corps is carrying out a rigorous EIS process. Moreover, we suggest that EPA clearly states that in the event the EIS scoping process undertaken by the Corps addresses all of the major issues identified in the 2014 proposed determination, that EPA will withdraw the proposed determination. To further alleviate any environmental concerns that you may have regarding this process, the Committee recommends that EPA Region 10 monitor the Corps' scoping process and review any public comments filed therein. After consultation with Region 10, the EPA can make a final informed decision on the status of the proposed determination.

It's unfortunate that the condition precedent for these recommendations (that the Corps is carrying out a rigorous EIS process) is inaccurate. To the contrary, the Corps and Pebble are advancing numerous rationales for expediting review, eliminating steps, and limiting cooperating agency review and meaningful public participation.

Keeping this call on our calendars but moving it back to start at 1pm PST/4pm EST so that there is some time after the policy briefing.

The main purpose for keeping this is to have a time for us to address anything pressing that might come out of the policy briefing, and to gather initial thoughts on how to prepare for the career leadership check-in on May 20th (which I currently think of as the time for a de-brief of the policy briefing).

Folks:

Brittany and I have taken a first crack at a draft CMS in response to the attached 3-7-18 letter from the House Science and House Natural Resource Committee Chairmen. Please provide your edits to the attached sharepoint file (or word doc) by COB tomorrow 3/22. Since the letter speaks to both EPA's 404(c) process as well as the Pebble NEPA process, I'm including Patty on this as well.

Thanks, Brittany and Palmer

Dear Mr. President,

Please accept my profound thanks to you and your cabinet for the EPA's action to stop the development of the Pebble Mine development in the Bristol Bay area of Alaska. I know 60 million fishermen and over 200 million outdoor people, conservationists, commercial fishermen and indigenous people, and others are excited and thankful for your leadership.

My son Jeff and I will again be fly fishing at Bristol Bay Sportfishing and Adventure Lodge from 9/15/2018 through 9/22/2018. We will write magazine articles and include our experiences in a new book we are writing as well as promoting on several internet outlets.

At the recent Pleasanton, CA Fly Fishing Show we visited with legendary bush pilot Jerry Jacques whose lodge is located in Iliamna, AK where the Pebble Mine headquarters are and is the closest lodge to the proposed Pebble Site. Jerry asked if we would invite you and your sons to visit while we are there.

It is hard for me to convey how important a President Trump visit to this specific site would mean to all of us. My son and I are loyal supporters of yours and appear in public forum situations on a regular basis. Almost always the audiences think negatively of your conservation philosophy in favor of development. The decision to put a hold on the Pebble development should be loudly proclaimed to the public in every way possible. Your newly appointed 2020 campaign manager, Brad Parscale, as well as your children, Scott Pruitt, and Brian Zinke should put a bright spotlight on this issue. It is hard to overstate the importance of how your leadership on this issue could help you and other Republicans in November. At minimum it would surely negate a major left-wing line of attack on you.

Please seriously consider joining us at Bristol Bay in September. I know that you are not a fly fisherman but understand your son Donald, Jr. is. However, you are gifted athletically and with a little help from me, Jeff, or Jerry would do well at this wonderful artform/sport. The fishing at the small, shallow, gin-clear streams on the Pebble Site is so exceptional that little skill is required. I appreciate how busy you are and what inexhaustible hours you work but hope you would seriously consider this trip.

All of the pilots and guides that work for Jerry, that I know, are ardent supporters of yours. Jerry's brother Jim, who guides, just retired from the Border Patrol; Capt. Cliff Sullivan is a retired Vietnam decorated vet and he and his wife Linda outspoken Trump supporters; Jeff and I and friend Mike Marshall, who will be with us, are dedicated supporters along with our extended families; Jerry's lodge would have gained exponentially in value if he would have capitulated to the Pebble's ownership who would have kept him and his crew busy around the clock, but he adamantly refused the personal gain in favor of doing the right thing. It is important to note that Jerry has experience hosting a president. President George W. Bush and his secret service agents are past guests. All of us are experienced, professional outdoorsmen and would protect the president with our lives.

Please consider this invitation as, if nothing else, it would be an experience of a lifetime. ALASKA

- Bristol Bay Watershed
- Bristol Bay Sportfishing Lodge

ALASKA OFFERS THE WORLD'S FINEST fishing for Salmonidae. Bristol Bay is the heart and soul of Alaska's fly fishing. Bristol Bay Sportfishing is strategically located on the north shore of legendary Lake Iliamna between Lake Charles and Katmai National Park. This is ground zero for colossal sized rainbow trout. The peak fishing time for the Bay's many species vary and customized daily fly-outs put fly fishermen at the peak times on seven dozen rivers and dozens of the world's finest lakes in the Bristol Bay/Iliamna watershed.

Jerry Jacques runs the lodge and has guided in the area since 1978 as a youngster. His grandfather, Blonde Jacques, first came to this area from the Yukon in 1941. The ancestral roots as a bush pilot and guide are deep and legendary in the Jacques family.

For three decades Bristol Bay Sportfishing has earned the reputation as the ultimate Alaska fly-out lodge. Each day a custom guided flight in a float plane or wheeled bush plane outfitted with tundra tires is done targeting specific species the angler chooses. Lodge-owned boats are strategically placed on the finest inland waterways and along the incredible Katmai Coast.

The available species list is exciting to say the least. All five Pacific salmon are available in staggering numbers, as are monster rainbow trout. Additionally, world class fishing for Arctic grayling, Arctic char, Dolly Varden, lake trout and northern pike is available.

The flexibility and experiences offered by the lodge are unprecedented. Different species are targeted daily with unmatched expertise from Jerry and his guides. The scenery and wildlife viewing opportunities are endless—especially for bears. Fishing from Bristol Bay Sportfishing and Adventure Lodge is a once in a lifetime trip. It should be on everyone's bucket list. Rates with daily fly-outs are $7,180 for six nights/six days; $5,980 for five nights/five days; and $3,780 for three nights/three days.

Re: EPA's Clean Water Act Preemptive Veto of the Pebble Project

Dear Administrator Pruitt,

The Women's Mining Coalition (WMC) is a grassroots organization with members nationwide who work in all sectors of the mining industry, energy generation, manufacturing, transportation, and mining-related service industries. For many years, WMC has been concerned about the protracted and costly permitting process that is chilling investment in the nation's mineral resources and impeding the timely development of the domestic minerals critical to this country's economy, manufacturing sector, and defense. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA's) recent decision to ratify the Obama Administration's veto of the proposed Pebble Project in Alaska heightens our concerns.

By reinstating the Section 404(c) Clean Water Act preemptive veto of the Pebble Project, EPA is sending a strong and unfortunate signal to the rest of the world that the U.S. is an extremely risky and hostile country in which to explore for and develop minerals. This action will increase the nation's reliance on foreign minerals and is completely inconsistent with President Trump's December 2017 Executive Order No. 13817, "A Federal Strategy to Ensure Secure and Reliable Sources of Critical Minerals."

Bristol Bay/Pebble Mine 2019
FOIAs_Production005

In Executive Order 13817, President Trump explicitly mandates increasing domestic mineral supplies through actions that include promoting exploration and development of this nation's mineral resources. EPA's actions to prejudice the permitting process for the Pebble Project in order to thwart development of this copper and gold deposit violate Executive Order 13817. Both copper and gold are critical technology and infrastructure minerals. Executive Order 13817 mandates the development of domestic sources of these and other minerals.

EPA's actions on the Pebble Project are unfair and uninformed because they rely on the Bristol Bay Watershed Assessment that describes an imaginary mining project. The pretend project described in this biased report would violate the state and federal environmental protection laws that govern the real Pebble Project. EPA's reliance on this false report is completely inappropriate.

Many WMC members have expertise with the environmental permitting and regulatory requirements for U.S. mining projects. Based on this expertise, WMC is confident that an unbiased and fact-based analysis of the permit applications for the Pebble Project would give state and federal regulators all of the information required to enable them to make sound decisions whether to issue permits for this project.

EPA's flawed Pebble Project decision, which is based on misinformation from anti-mining activists, stands in marked contrast to EPA's careful and fact-based decision that additional financial assurance pursuant to CERCLA 108(b) was not warranted in light of the comprehensive environmental protection and financial assurance requirements in existing state and federal laws and regulations. WMC strongly supports EPA's CERCLA 108(b) decision and asks that the agency allow these same laws and regulations to be applied to the Pebble Project in a straightforward and unfettered manner.

We thus urge EPA to reconsider its decision and allow the permitting process for the Pebble Project to proceed on an even playing field that is not encumbered by the unjust prejudice of a preemptive veto based on a false report.

Folks:

Brittany and I have taken a first crack at a draft CMS in response to the attached 3-7-18 letter from the House Science and House Natural Resource Committee Chairmen. Please provide your edits to the attached sharepoint file (or word doc) by COB tomorrow 3/22. Since the letter speaks to both EPA's 404(c) process as well as the Pebble NEPA process, I'm including Patty on this as well.

Thanks, Brittany and Palmer

Hi all,

In place of tomorrow's 404c call I'm offering the following update:

- I suggest communicating to Patty and others on the Pebble Permit Oversight/NEPA Team any information learned from a David F. meeting re: 404q. And, I'm hoping that the Aug. 28th Career Leaders Check-in is a good time to combine what people are hearing and thinking about 404q next steps.

- On August 14th, we talked about re-visiting next steps with the Correspondence Plan. My

Ex. 5 Deliberative Process (DP)

- I'm out of the office on August 28th, I've included the leader pin on that calendar invite. Please open the line if you are first to call in.

Cheers,

How Pruitt found middle ground on Pebble mine

E&E News | April 25, 2018

EPA chief Scott Pruitt shocked many when he reversed course on withdrawing Obama-era proposed mining restrictions in Alaska's Bristol Bay region.

Though observers and advocates had expected Pruitt to pave the way for one of the world's biggest gold and copper mines near one of the planet's premier salmon fisheries, some had seen him gradually warming to the concerns of Bristol Bay and its dominant commercial fishing industry.

That evolution culminated in a Halloween meeting with leaders of the Bristol Bay Economic Development Corp.

BBEDC President and CEO Norman Van Vactor and H. Robin Samuelsen Jr., chairman of an Alaska fish-focused group, met with Pruitt last October. It was the one and only private meeting Pruitt took with Pebble opponents on his proposal to withdraw mining restrictions in the Bristol Bay watershed.

"We left the get-together feeling quite positive, but at the same time, the current administration has a reputation," Van Vactor said. "And so the proof is going to be in the pudding."

Going to see Pruitt, Van Vactor and Samuelsen said they were on a last-ditch mission to save the Obama EPA Bristol Bay Watershed Assessment from the agency's "trash can."

Months before, Pruitt had put the study and the mining restrictions it supported on the chopping block with a July 19 proposed withdrawal.

EPA Office of Water Deputy Assistant Administrator Lee Forsgren had arranged the appointment late in the afternoon. The former staffer for Alaska Republican Rep. Don Young had connected with BBEDC at public meetings on the withdrawal in Bristol Bay.

The meeting, scheduled for 10 minutes, lasted nearly an hour.

"We developed some very positive rapport, and I think we got beyond the B.S. component," Van Vactor said.

He and Samuelsen left understanding that Pruitt "was looking for the ability for the developers of the mining project to proceed with their application, but he wanted protections to remain in place," Van Vactor said.

EPA declined to comment for this story but has steadfastly denied that Pruitt flipped. The administrator maintains he is committed to "due process."

The BBEDC meeting is one factor that may have changed Pruitt's mind about keeping the proposed protections for Bristol Bay on the table.

Other factors may have been deep Alaska connections at EPA, pressure from the state's congressional delegation and the potential influence of fishing trips taken by Pruitt and President Trump's sons to the isolated region.

The meeting made an impression on EPA, too.

An EPA meeting summary says: "BBEDC proposed that EPA suspend the existing process where it is now and give [Pebble LP] an opportunity to submit their application."

A few days later, Pruitt met with top agency lawyers and Forsgren about Bristol Bay, his schedule shows.

Then, in January, the agency suspended the withdrawal, waiting until just after Pebble had submitted its application (Greenwire, Jan. 26).

The news created a glimmer of hope for fishermen, Alaska Native groups and other Pebble opponents even as it landed Pruitt in hot water with his conservative base, which condemned him for backsliding on promises to end EPA "overreach" in Bristol Bay (Greenwire, April 20).

The embattled administrator's ethics troubles now have both sides wondering what comes next.

"We could potentially be right back to square one," Van Vactor said.

A surprise move

Before meeting with BBEDC, Pruitt had never given an indication the watershed assessment would survive.

The four other private meetings he and top-level EPA employees had on the issue were with mine supporters.

On May 1, Pruitt met with Pebble CEO Tom Collier and Faegre Baker Daniels Consulting Director Darrin Munoz.

An hour after the meeting, Pruitt ordered his staff to withdraw protections in Bristol Bay without consulting officials in EPA's Region 10 - who had spent years authoring them.

Months later, a CNN story detailing the controversial action sparked a public firestorm and frustration within the agency.

On May 12, EPA reached a settlement resolving a trio of Pebble lawsuits (E&ENews PM, May 12).

EPA officials spoke with Collier and Peter Robertson, a Pebble lobbyist and former Clinton-era EPA official, again in July when the pair called to confirm that the agency would publicly initiate a process to withdraw the proposed determination.

In September, then-Pebble lobbyist Alan Mintz of Van Ness Feldman LLP caught up with Forsgren. Old colleagues from working in Alaska, the pair briefly discussed Pebble and the Trump administration's review of the watershed assessment, according to the meeting log.

Later that month, Robertson made another trip to EPA headquarters to outline Pebble's mine plan, permit application submission and search for a business partner.

At that point, the log stated: "EPA confirmed that it was still in the process of the proposal to withdraw the Proposed Determination, and no decision had been made."

A few weeks later on Oct. 31, Pruitt met with BBEDC.

EPA's own statements on Bristol Bay appear to have taken the fishing industry's perspective on Pebble into account.

"From public comments to various community meetings, stakeholders stressed the importance of balancing a singular mine venture with the risk of one of the world's largest commercial fisheries," EPA wrote in the Jan. 26 press release announcing the withdrawal suspension.

"For EPA not to express an environmental position at this stage would be disingenuous."

Van Vactor said the forceful statements left him "pleasantly surprised." Despite his meeting with Pruitt, Van Vactor said he does not want to declare victory too early.

"I have confidence that the science will speak for itself," Van Vactor said. "But there is still so much that still needs to play out."

'Up close and personal'?

The Alaska congressional delegation had been urging EPA to listen to those living and working in Bristol Bay.

The same day Pruitt ordered his staff to begin withdrawing the Bristol Bay mining limits, he met with Senate Energy and Natural Resources Chairwoman Lisa Murkowski (R-Alaska).

The next day, May 2, Pruitt followed up with Murkowski and Sen. Dan Sullivan (R-Alaska) on a 15-minute conference call.

"I was actually passing on a letter from a lot of the leadership, Native tribal leadership in Bristol Bay," Sullivan told E&E News. "We wanted him to have the letter and said, 'These are really important people. They are our constituents; you need to meet with them.'"

At the Halloween meeting, Van Vactor said, Pruitt talked about his own fishing trip to Bristol Bay before becoming administrator.

"He said he had a great time," Van Vactor said. "He had an appreciation for what we're talking about up here."

Pruitt isn't the only one with strong ties to the administration to enjoy the area.

First family brothers Donald Trump Jr. and Eric Trump have both taken fishing expeditions in the rugged region.

Bear Trail Lodge guide Nanci Morris Lyon last year ferried Eric Trump's roughly dozen-man bachelor party, including his brother. Then Trump Jr. brought his son, Donald Trump III, back this year to the neighboring Alaska's Gold Creek Lodge.

"They were there. They understand how stupid it is to put something so toxic in the middle of something so pristine," said Lyon, who recently penned a Juneau Empire op-ed against Pebble. "I honestly feel it was one of the huge catalysts that made Pruitt change his mind."

"Knowing Trump and how pro-production he is on everything, I just have to believe that it had to have been a factor," she added.

Though the president's sons' stances on Pebble are unknown, Lyon said they understand better than most.

"When you come out and visit these places, you have no choice but to get up close and personal because it's not like D.C., where things can be kept impersonal," she said.

Folks:

Brittany and I have taken a first crack at a draft CMS in response to the attached 3-7-18 letter from the House Science and House Natural Resource Committee Chairmen. Please provide your edits to the attached sharepoint file (or word doc) by COB tomorrow 3/22. Since the letter speaks to both EPA's 404(c) process as well as the Pebble NEPA process, I'm including Patty on this as well. Thanks, Brittany and Palmer

Hi all,

In place of tomorrow's 404c call I'm offering the following update:

- I suggest communicating to Patty and others on the Pebble Permit Oversight/NEPA Team any information learned from a David F. meeting re: 404q. And, I'm hoping that the Aug. 28th Career Leaders Check-in is a good time to combine what people are hearing and thinking about 404q next steps.

- On August 14th, we talked about re-visiting next steps with the Correspondence Plan. My

How Pruitt found middle ground on Pebble mine

E&E News | April 25, 2018

EPA chief Scott Pruitt shocked many when he reversed course on withdrawing Obama-era proposed mining restrictions in Alaska's Bristol Bay region.

Though observers and advocates had expected Pruitt to pave the way for one of the world's biggest gold and copper mines near one of the planet's premier salmon fisheries, some had seen him gradually warming to the concerns of Bristol Bay and its dominant commercial fishing industry.

That evolution culminated in a Halloween meeting with leaders of the Bristol Bay Economic Development Corp.

BBEDC President and CEO Norman Van Vactor and H. Robin Samuelsen Jr., chairman of an Alaska fish-focused group, met with Pruitt last October. It was the one and only private meeting Pruitt took with Pebble opponents on his proposal to withdraw mining restrictions in the Bristol Bay watershed.

"We left the get-together feeling quite positive, but at the same time, the current administration has a reputation," Van Vactor said. "And so the proof is going to be in the pudding."

Going to see Pruitt, Van Vactor and Samuelsen said they were on a last-ditch mission to save the Obama EPA Bristol Bay Watershed Assessment from the agency's "trash can."

Months before, Pruitt had put the study and the mining restrictions it supported on the chopping block with a July 19 proposed withdrawal.

EPA Office of Water Deputy Assistant Administrator Lee Forsgren had arranged the appointment late in the afternoon. The former staffer for Alaska Republican Rep. Don Young had connected with BBEDC at public meetings on the withdrawal in Bristol Bay.

The meeting, scheduled for 10 minutes, lasted nearly an hour.

"We developed some very positive rapport, and I think we got beyond the B.S. component," Van Vactor said.

He and Samuelsen left understanding that Pruitt "was looking for the ability for the developers of the mining project to proceed with their application, but he wanted protections to remain in place," Van Vactor said.

EPA declined to comment for this story but has steadfastly denied that Pruitt flipped. The administrator maintains he is committed to "due process."

The BBEDC meeting is one factor that may have changed Pruitt's mind about keeping the proposed protections for Bristol Bay on the table.

Other factors may have been deep Alaska connections at EPA, pressure from the state's congressional delegation and the potential influence of fishing trips taken by Pruitt and President Trump's sons to the isolated region.

The meeting made an impression on EPA, too.

An EPA meeting summary says: "BBEDC proposed that EPA suspend the existing process where it is now and give [Pebble LP] an opportunity to submit their application."

A few days later, Pruitt met with top agency lawyers and Forsgren about Bristol Bay, his schedule shows.

Then, in January, the agency suspended the withdrawal, waiting until just after Pebble had submitted its application (Greenwire, Jan. 26).

The news created a glimmer of hope for fishermen, Alaska Native groups and other Pebble opponents even as it landed Pruitt in hot water with his conservative base, which condemned him for backsliding on promises to end EPA "overreach" in Bristol Bay (Greenwire, April 20).

The embattled administrator's ethics troubles now have both sides wondering what comes next.

"We could potentially be right back to square one," Van Vactor said.

A surprise move

Before meeting with BBEDC, Pruitt had never given an indication the watershed assessment would survive.

The four other private meetings he and top-level EPA employees had on the issue were with mine supporters.

On May 1, Pruitt met with Pebble CEO Tom Collier and Faegre Baker Daniels Consulting Director Darrin Munoz.

An hour after the meeting, Pruitt ordered his staff to withdraw protections in Bristol Bay without consulting officials in EPA's Region 10 — who had spent years authoring them.

Months later, a CNN story detailing the controversial action sparked a public firestorm and frustration within the agency.

On May 12, EPA reached a settlement resolving a trio of Pebble lawsuits (E&ENews PM, May 12).

EPA officials spoke with Collier and Peter Robertson, a Pebble lobbyist and former Clinton-era EPA official, again in July when the pair called to confirm that the agency would publicly initiate a process to withdraw the proposed determination.

In September, then-Pebble lobbyist Alan Mintz of Van Ness Feldman LLP caught up with Forsgren. Old colleagues from working in Alaska, the pair briefly discussed Pebble and the Trump administration's review of the watershed assessment, according to the meeting log.

Later that month, Robertson made another trip to EPA headquarters to outline Pebble's mine plan, permit application submission and search for a business partner.

At that point, the log stated: "EPA confirmed that it was still in the process of the proposal to withdraw the Proposed Determination, and no decision had been made."

A few weeks later on Oct. 31, Pruitt met with BBEDC.

EPA's own statements on Bristol Bay appear to have taken the fishing industry's perspective on Pebble into account.

"From public comments to various community meetings, stakeholders stressed the importance of balancing a singular mine venture with the risk of one of the world's largest commercial fisheries," EPA wrote in the Jan. 26 press release announcing the withdrawal suspension.

"For EPA not to express an environmental position at this stage would be disingenuous."

Van Vactor said the forceful statements left him "pleasantly surprised." Despite his meeting with Pruitt, Van Vactor said he does not want to declare victory too early.

"I have confidence that the science will speak for itself," Van Vactor said. "But there is still so much that still needs to play out."

'Up close and personal'?

Donald Trump Jr. (back right) and Donald Trump III (front right) at Alaska's Gold Creek Lodge in Bristol Bay this year. Alaska's Gold Creek Lodge

The Alaska congressional delegation had been urging EPA to listen to those living and working in Bristol Bay.

The same day Pruitt ordered his staff to begin withdrawing the Bristol Bay mining limits, he met with Senate Energy and Natural Resources Chairwoman Lisa Murkowski (R-Alaska).

The next day, May 2, Pruitt followed up with Murkowski and Sen. Dan Sullivan (R-Alaska) on a 15-minute conference call.

"I was actually passing on a letter from a lot of the leadership, Native tribal leadership in Bristol Bay," Sullivan told E&E News. "We wanted him to have the letter and said, 'These are really important people. They are our constituents; you need to meet with them.'"

At the Halloween meeting, Van Vactor said, Pruitt talked about his own fishing trip to Bristol Bay before becoming administrator.

"He said he had a great time," Van Vactor said. "He had an appreciation for what we're talking about up here."

Pruitt isn't the only one with strong ties to the administration to enjoy the area.

First family brothers Donald Trump Jr. and Eric Trump have both taken fishing expeditions in the rugged region.

Bear Trail Lodge guide Nanci Morris Lyon last year ferried Eric Trump's roughly dozen-man bachelor party, including his brother. Then Trump Jr. brought his son, Donald Trump III, back this year to the neighboring Alaska's Gold Creek Lodge.

"They were there. They understand how stupid it is to put something so toxic in the middle of something so pristine," said Lyon, who recently penned a Juneau Empire op-ed against Pebble. "I honestly feel it was one of the huge catalysts that made Pruitt change his mind."

"Knowing Trump and how pro-production he is on everything, I just have to believe that it had to have been a factor," she added.

Though the president's sons' stances on Pebble are unknown, Lyon said they understand better than most.

"When you come out and visit these places, you have no choice but to get up close and personal because it's not like D.C., where things can be kept impersonal," she said.

Hi Heidi –

Thanks. I had taken a look at that sentence as well and thought it was okay in a letter after rereading the FRN. The first sentence of the summary is:

Ex. 5 Deliberative Process (DP)

The conclusion states, twice:

Ex. 5 Deliberative Process (DP)

What about:

EPA Withdraws Outdated, Preemptive Proposed Determination to Restrict Use of the Pebble Deposit Area as a Disposal Site

SEATTLE (July 30, 2019) - Today, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Region 10 Administrator Chris Hladick withdrew the 2014 Proposed Determination issued under section 404(c) of the Clean Water Act (CWA) for the use of the Pebble Deposit Area in Southwest Alaska as a disposal site associated with mining of the deposit.

“After today’s action EPA will focus on the permit review process for the Pebble Mine project” said Region 10 Administrator Chris Hladick. “The agency has worked closely with the Army Corps to engage with stakeholders and the public on this issue, which has resulted in an expansive public record, including specific information about the proposed mining project that did not exist in 2014.”

By withdrawing the 2014 Proposed Determination, which was issued preemptively and is now outdated, the agency can continue its focus on fulfilling its responsibilities under the Clean Water Act to work with the Army Corps to review the permit.

Today’s action does not approve Pebble’s permit application or determine a particular outcome in the Corps’ permitting process. Instead, it allows EPA to continue working with the Corps to review the current permit application and engage in the National Environmental Policy Act

(NEPA) process.

“Region 10’s decision restores the proper process for 404(c) determinations, eliminating a preemptive veto of a hypothetical mine and focusing EPA’s environmental review on an actual project before the Agency,” EPA General Counsel Matthew Z. Leopold.

EPA Region 10 provided the Corps with detailed comments to its Draft Environmental Impact Statement (DEIS) and permit notice on July 1, 2019, and EPA looks forward to continuing its work with the Corps and the other cooperating agencies on the next steps in the permit review process.

Additional information: <https://www.epa.gov/bristolbay>.

Background

In July 2014, EPA Region 10 issued a Proposed Determination under CWA section 404(c) to restrict the use of the Pebble Deposit Area as a disposal site for dredged or fill material associated with mining the deposit. The Proposed Determination was based on three hypothetical scenarios for the mine site, each of which was different than the permit application submitted to the Corps for review in December 2017. Since 2014, there have been significant developments, including a lawsuit challenging the EPA’s process for developing the 2014 Proposed Determination and a related settlement, the permit application submitted by Pebble to the Corps, additional direction from the former EPA Administrator in January 2018, and a 1,400-page Draft Environmental Impact Statement (DEIS) and permit notice issued by the Corps.

In July 2017, EPA Region 10 published a proposal to withdraw the 2014 Proposed Determination. The notice opened a three-month-long public comment period, during which the EPA held two public hearings in the watershed area and consulted with federally recognized tribal governments and Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act Regional and Village Corporations with lands in the watershed. In December 2017, PLP submitted a CWA section 404 permit application to the Corps that proposes to develop a mine in the Pebble Deposit Area. The Corps then invited relevant federal and state agencies, including the EPA, to cooperate on the development of the DEIS under NEPA. The Corps released a DEIS for public comment in February 2019; this public comment period closed on July 1, 2019.

In January 2018, EPA announced that it was suspending the withdrawal proceeding and leaving the 2014 Proposed Determination in place at that time pending further action by the Agency.

In June 2019, EPA General Counsel Matthew Z. Leopold, acting pursuant to a delegation of authority from the EPA Administrator, directed Region 10 to resume its consideration whether to withdraw the 2014 Proposed Determination. He also directed the Region to reconsider its previous statement that it would seek additional public comment on the 2014 Proposed Determination, in light of the ample opportunity for public comment previously provided and the public comment opportunity on the DEIS and permit notice.

On July 1, 2019, Region 10 submitted to the Corps two sets of comments, totaling more than 150 pages, regarding the Corps’ DEIS and permit notice. The Region also took the first step under the elevation procedures established between the EPA and the Army in a 1992 memorandum to work towards resolving issues EPA identified in the permit notice.

This action removes the Agency’s outdated, preemptive proposed veto of the Pebble Mine and restores the well-understood permit review process. EPA Region 10 reached this conclusion based on two primary reasons. First, the Corps’ DEIS includes significant project-specific information that was not accounted for in the 2014 Proposed Determination and, based on that information, the Corps has reached preliminary conclusions that in certain respects conflict with preliminary conclusions in the 2014 Proposed Determination. The now-five-year-old Proposed Determination does not grapple with the currently available expansive record, including specific information about the proposed mining project that did not exist in 2014. Second, other processes are available and better-suited for EPA to resolve issues with the Corps as the record develops; specifically, the well-understood elevation process under CWA section 404(q) and the NEPA process. EPA believes these processes should be exhausted prior to any decision by EPA, based upon all information that has and will be developed, to exercise its section 404(c) authority. A detailed explanation of EPA's decision is available in the notice signed today by EPA's Region 10 Administrator, which will be published in the Federal Register.

Hi Amy –

Here are the talking points that were developed for the withdrawal. We did not have much input on this. You could crib from this.

My recommendation is to talk based on the actual decision document.
