Re: FOIA Request 2020-APHIS-00552-F

Dear Mr. Evers:

This reply is APHIS' final response to the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request you submitted to the USDA Departmental FOIA Office on October 30, 2019, which that office referred, in part, to APHIS. Your request sought the following information:

"All email communications (including emails, email attachments, and calendar invitations) regardless of subject matter between (a) any of the federal employees listed in Column A ... and (b) any of the individuals or entities listed in Column B ... including but not limited to at the email addresses and domain specified."

In addition to the several USDA officials you listed, whose communications were searched for by the USDA Departmental FOIA Office, your request specified eight officials of APHIS, including APHIS Administrator Kevin Shea, as individuals whose email correspondence with certain persons and entities was requested. You sought those employees' communications with Palantir Technologies; Peter Thiel or associated persons; Alex Karp; J.J. Green & Company; ATS Communications, Inc.; Cassidy & Associates, Inc.; Sextons Creek; Hanegan Landau Poersch & Rosenbaum Advocacy, LLC; and Akin Gump Strauss Hauer & Feld, LLP, between January 20, 2017 and the date of processing of the request. The USDA Departmental FOIA Office referred APHIS' portions of this request to our office for processing.

APHIS Information Technology employees conducted a centralized computer search email records, and identified 225 pages of records, including emails and attachments, responsive to your request. Of these, portions are being withheld in part pursuant to FOIA Exemption 4, at 5 U.S.C. §552(b)(4), FOIA Exemption 5, at 5 U.S.C. §552(b)(5), and FOIA Exemption 6, at 5 U.S.C. §552(b)(6). Please see the information below for a more complete justification of these withholdings.

FOIA Exemption 4 – Confidential Business Information

Of these materials, certain pages contain redactions in accordance with FOIA Exemption 4. This FOIA Exemption permits the government to withhold "trade secrets and commercial or financial information [that is] privileged and confidential.” This exemption is intended to protect the interests of both governmental agencies and submitters of information. Exemption 4 encourages submitters to voluntarily furnish useful information to the government and provides the government with an assurance that required submissions be reliable. The exemption also affords protection to those submitters who are required to furnish commercial or financial information to the government by safeguarding them from the competitive disadvantages that could result from disclosure. The exemption covers two distinct categories of information in federal agency records: (1) trade secrets and (2) information that is (a) commercial or financial and (b) obtained from a person and (c) privileged or confidential.

In these materials, certain portions of email correspondence from Palantir Technologies, Inc., and of emails between that company and USDA officials, containing references to and information concerning Palantir’s products, offerings, and business models, were withheld pursuant to this FOIA Exemption. We have also withheld a portion of one email from a representative of Akin Gump Strauss Hauer & Feld, LLP, pursuant to Exemption 4. Additionally, we have withheld email attachments describing various proprietary technical services offered by Palantir Technologies, Inc pursuant to this Exemption. These details are considered confidential business information meeting the requirements of FOIA Exemption 4. These details are not normally disclosed to the public. If the information were to be released to the public, it could provide competitors with information that could enable them to adapt their business operations to take advantage of this knowledge, causing competitive harm to these firms. The portions of the documents withheld pursuant to Exemption 4 are redacted and contain the notation “(b)(4)”, in red.

FOIA Exemption 5 – Deliberative Process Privilege

Exemption 5 of the FOIA, 5 U.S.C. § 552(b)(5), protects “inter-agency or intra-agency memorandums or letters which would not be available by law to a party other than an agency in litigation with the agency.” One of the privileges incorporated into Exemption 5 is the deliberative process privilege, which protects pre-decisional material that is part of the agency’s deliberative process in that it contains recommendations or opinions regarding a decision to be made. The information withheld pursuant to Exemption 5 consists of portions of email correspondence between USDA officials which include pre-decisional, deliberative discussions.

Mr. Austin Evers
American Oversight
FOIA Request #2020-APHIS-00552-F
Page 3 of 4

The materials withheld contain the views and comments of APHIS employees, as well as discussions of policy options which are the subjects of deliberation. The disclosure of these pre-decisional views and comments withheld under this privilege would chill the deliberative process and discourage open, frank communications between employees at APHIS. Discretionary disclosure would not be in the public interest, because it would inhibit APHIS employees from freely exchanging ideas, comments, and language recommendations during APHIS' deliberative process. These portions of the communications are redacted and labeled "(b)(5) – Deliberative Process Privilege" in red.

FOIA Exemption 6 – Personal Privacy

Redactions were also applied under FOIA Exemption 6, 5 U.S.C. § 552(b)(6). Specifically, email addresses and telephone numbers of private individuals have been withheld. Additionally, discussions of personal matters have been withheld, where they occur, pursuant to this Exemption. Exemption 6 permits the government to withhold from "personnel and medical files and similar files," information about individuals when the disclosure of such information "would constitute a clearly unwarranted invasion of personal privacy." We have determined that these records meet the definition of "similar" files, because they contain information pertaining to individuals.

In order to determine whether a document may be withheld under Exemption 6, an agency must undertake a three-step analysis. First, the agency must determine whether a significant privacy interest would be compromised by the disclosure of the record. Second, the agency must determine whether the release of the document would further the public interest by shedding light on the operations and activities of the Government. Third, the agency must balance the identified privacy interests against the public interest in disclosure.

We have determined that the individuals have privacy interest that are more than de minimis, because the identifying information could cause unwanted contact and harassment. Under Exemption 6, the only pertinent public interest is whether release of the information would shed light on the agency's activities and the agency's performance of its statutory duties. We determined that the release of the information does not shed any light on APHIS activities. Therefore, the privacy interests of the individuals in the records you have requested outweigh the non-existent public interest in disclosure of the information. The portions of the documents withheld pursuant to Exemption 6 are redacted and contain the notation "(b)(6)", in red.

Tues after 2pm Eastern
Thurs or Friday any time between 9AM and 5PM
Eastern

I assume Doug doesn't have any times this week, but let me know if that's not correct. Also, I've asked Aki to join, and he's available any of the above times. I assume Doug is in DC? Aki is based there too so would be easy to get there in person.

Attached is a quick modification showing some additional text, colors and aspects.

The colors just allow for easier talking points to others (you can choose the colors of preference; I was unsure what your company color was)

(b) (4)

Make changes if you feel and let me know if some of this is not clear.

We might have to talk authentication and access controls later. That will likely be the second bit of information they would want clarifications on.

Hi Marco!

I'm touching base here to firm up details for Dec 19th. A couple questions...

- Who should I add to the calendar invite from your end?
- Will your schedule allow for a 2-hour session 1-3pm ET on 12/19?

Thank you, serve USDA's broader mission. We appreciated your thoughtful feedback during the sync and have deeply enjoyed the partnership with APHIS/MRP to date.

He requested we do an update for him in the next couple of weeks. I wanted to run it by you first / get your permission to set this up. We do have some compelling updates in the demo we can show him, and if we move forward I'll cc you on all the comms so you are fully in the loop.

Do any of the following times next week work:

I assume Doug doesn't have any times this week, but let me know if that's not correct. Also, I've asked Aki to join, and he's available any of the above times. I assume Doug is in DC? Aki is based there too so would be easy to get there in person.

Animal Identification & Livestock Traceability System

The need for traceability in the meat industry is a driving force in the U.S. market.

The current Beef Industry Long Range Plan (LRP) for 2016-2020, developed by a broad coalition of industry stakeholders, highlights the need to “secure the broad adoption of individual animal ID traceability system(s) across the beef community to equip the industry to effectively manage a disease outbreak while enhancing both domestic and global trust in U.S. beef and ensuring greater access to export markets.

In 2014, Executive Order 13676 was issued to address antibiotic resistance, including support to “advance the development of rapid point-of-care and agricultural diagnostics” and agricultural alternatives to antibiotics. The rise in antibiotic resistance cases, product recalls and lack of industry transparency has also led to an increasing loss of consumer confidence in meat products, with many families demanding to know more than what is provided on a nutrition label.

In 2018, the National Cattlemen's Beef Association conducted a feasibility study for adopting a National Animal ID and Traceability system. The adopted system must:

be managed and overseen by an entity that includes both private and government interests

be compatible with common industry practices

maintain data privacy

operate at the speed of commerce

be equitable to all industry sectors

be credible in domestic and international markets

The HERDX Solution:

HerdX livestock tags improve animal identification and monitoring practices, while allowing for the collection of health data on an individualized animal. Tags empower producers to watch livestock movement patterns digitally. This enables producers to identify and treat at-risk animals earlier and apply generalized herd treatments only when necessary.

HerdX water systems are built to improve immune responses in livestock by supplying ionized, naturally enhanced water that ultimately works to minimize immune stress, prevent sickness and reduce antibiotic dependency.

HerdX data improves livestock management practices and carries relevant information through the supply chain. Benefits include new insights for breeders, improved management strategies for ranchers and feedlot operators, and traceability data to help suppliers provide transparency to their customers, in both domestic and export markets. HerdX employs blockchain data security.

TRUST THROUGH TRANSPARENCY™

Consumer confidence is the end result. Consumers ultimately want to know the origin and health of the meat they are buying, and that the animal was raised responsibly. HerdX seeks to bridge the gap of trust between the beef industry and consumers.

The United States is currently the fourth largest exporter of beef, yet the only leading exporter to not have a national traceability system in place. Export competitors, such as Australia, have benefitted from the market advantage traceability gives them, especially as Asian demands grow. US exports are continually limited by a lack of traceability, and the need to adopt a traceability system as soon as possible continues to grow.

HERDX INC. is a Texas based, rancher-friendly company that is working with several large companies such as Microsoft, Google, and Arrow Electronics to quickly and efficiently scale the HerdX Ecosystem (tags, water, and data) across the United States. HerdX is already working with restaurants and grocery stores to provide the traceability that the market is demanding through their Taste of Trust™ program. HerdX is the only holistic, end-to-end system that provides innovative ranch solutions and extensive supply chain traceability under the same roof.
