Hi Teisha, just thinking ... maybe we should just provide them? Also, if we take them down this afternoon, we could always run a copy by for their review as well. Would be happy to do so. We could tell them, "we are delivering to the Committee, so would be happy to come by so they can review what we are delivering."

OFFICE OF THE ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF DEFENSE
WASHINGTON, DC 20301-1300

OCT 15 2019

The Honorable Adam B. Schiff
Chairman
House Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence
Washington, DC 20515

The Honorable Eliot L. Engel
Chairman
House Committee on Foreign Affairs
Washington, DC 20515

The Honorable Elijah E. Cummings
Chairman
House Committee on Oversight and Reform
Washington, DC 20515

Dear Messrs. Chairmen:

I write on behalf of the Department to confirm that we received your letter and subpoena of October 7, 2019, seeking the production of all documents and communications in the custody, possession, or control of the Department of Defense for fourteen categories of information not later than 5:00 pm on October 15, 2019. As your cover letter states, the Permanent Select Committee on Intelligence, in consultation with the Committee on Foreign Affairs and the Committee on Oversight and Reform, issued the subpoena "[p]ursuant to the House of Representatives' impeachment inquiry."

The Department understands the significance of your request for information and has taken steps to identify, preserve, and collect potentially responsive documents. The customary process of oversight and accommodation has historically served the interests of congressional oversight committees and the Department well. The Department is prepared to engage in that process consistent with longstanding practice and provide the responsive information should there be resolution of this matter.

The current subpoena, however, raises a number of legal and practical concerns that must first be addressed. For example, although your letter asserts that the subpoena has issued "[p]ursuant to the House of Representatives' impeachment inquiry," the House has not authorized your committees to conduct any such inquiry. The Supreme Court has long held that the first step in assessing the validity of a subpoena from a congressional committee is determining "whether the committee was authorized" to issue the subpoena, which requires "[c]onstru[ing] the scope of the authority which the House of Representatives gave to" the committee. United States v. Rumsfeld, 345 U.S. 41, 42-43 (1953). Here, none of your committees has identified any House rule or House resolution that authorized the committees to begin an inquiry pursuant to the impeachment power. In marked contrast with historical precedents, the House has not expressly adopted any resolution authorizing an impeachment investigation.

The House also has not delegated such authority to any of your three committees by rule. See H. Res. 6, 116th Cong. (2019). To the contrary, House Rule X is currently the only source of your three committees' jurisdiction, and that rule does not provide any of the committees the power to initiate an impeachment inquiry. Indeed, the rule does not mention impeachment at all. See H. Rule X, cl. 1(i), (n); cl. 11. Absent a delegation by House Rule or a resolution of the House, none of your committees has been delegated jurisdiction to conduct an investigation pursuant to the impeachment power under Article I, Section 2 of the Constitution.

Even if the inquiry were validly authorized, much of the information sought in the subpoena appears to consist of confidential Executive Branch communications that are potentially protected by executive privilege and would require careful review to ensure that no such information is improperly disclosed. Furthermore, as a practical matter, given the broad scope of your request, the time required to collect the documents, review them for responsiveness and relevant privileges, and produce responsive, non-privileged documents to the committee is not feasible within the mere eight days afforded to the Department to comply with the subpoena.

On a separate note, the Department also objects to your letter's assertion that the Secretary of Defense's "failure or refusal to comply with the subpoena, including at the direction or behest of the President or the White House, shall constitute evidence of obstruction of the House's impeachment inquiry and may be used as an adverse inference against [the Secretary] and the President." Invoking reasonable legal defenses to a subpoena, including invoking legal privileges that are held by the President, in no way manifests evidence of obstruction or otherwise warrants an adverse inference. Indeed, the very idea that reasonably asserting legal rights is itself evidence of wrongdoing turns fundamental notions of fairness on their head and is inconsistent with the rule of law. In fact, the department is diligently preserving and collecting potentially responsive documents.

In light of these concerns, and in view of the President's position as expressed in the White House Counsel's October 8 letter, and without waiving any other objections to the subpoena that the Department may have, the Department is unable to comply with your request for documents at this time. Nevertheless, the Department respects the oversight role of the appropriate committees of Congress, and stands ready to work with your committees should there be an appropriate resolution of this matter. Any such resolution would have to protect the constitutional prerogatives and confidentiality interests of the co-equal Executive Branch and ensure fundamental fairness to any Executive Branch employees involved in this process.

Sincerely,

Robert R. Hood
Assistant Secretary of Defense
for Legislative Affairs

Here's the latest draft. Per [redacted] this afternoon:

the White House Counsel's Office (WHCO) has requested that, insofar as agencies have identified documents that are potentially responsive to the SSCI letter requests, agencies begin making those documents available to ODNI. The WHCO is making this request as an interim step in order to begin the process of evaluating potentially responsive material. No materials will be provided to the Committee absent further coordination. The WHCO has indicated that they would like agencies to begin making potentially responsive materials available to ODNI tomorrow (Feb. 26), preferably by transmitting those materials to ODNI/OGC. We recognize agencies may have concerns with the timing or other aspects of this approach. In the event agencies require additional time, or cannot transmit materials to ODNI/OGC, please let us know when and how you may be able to respond to WHCO's request. We are also available to discuss as may be helpful.
