Hi Adam and Crystal,

I saw the story you posted on the election fraud hotline:

<https://spectrumnews1.com/ky/louisville/news/2020/11/05/election-fraud-hotline-stats-kentucky>

I wanted to bring it to your attention that the “election fraud hotline” has gone by that name under several AGs. Examples here: <http://www.columbiamagazine.com/index.php?sid=78496> and <https://www.wbko.com/content/news/Andy-Beshear-speaks-about-Election-Fraud-Hotline-399750351.html>. I think given how the story is written and the fact that it focuses heavily on the name, this is important information to include.

As you can see from our press release on the hotline, we make it clear that the hotline exists to process any complaints/tips related to the election: <https://kentucky.gov/Pages/Activity-stream.aspx?n=AttorneyGeneral&prId=980>

Thanks,
Elizabeth

I hope you're doing well. Sorry we weren't able to make last week work for an interview.

Thursday marks one year since Attorney General Cameron was sworn into office. We're scheduling end-of-year interviews with the Attorney General for this week, and I wanted to check in and see if you'd be interested in doing a 10-15 minute interview with him?

He can discuss the work of the office during the last year, including efforts to end child abuse and human trafficking, protect consumers from scams and price gouging during the COVID-19 pandemic, fight for the Constitutional rights of Kentuckians in court, defend Kentucky's laws from legal challenges, and other topics.

Hi Sofia,

I saw the story you posted, and I wanted to reach out and let you know that the calls we received through the Attorney General's Election Fraud Hotline are separate than those received by the Kentucky State Board of Elections. While we do work with the board and share information, when appropriate, the calls are separate.

I also noticed that the headline states we are investigating 376 complaints. While we did receive that number of complaints (as of yesterday), not all of the complaints require an investigation.

Thanks,

Ms. Kuhn,

The attorney general's website lists complaints by type, including:

General Election Fraud/Other

Special or Absentee Ballot

Electioneering

Mailer

Procedural Questions

Legal Questions

Campaign Violation

Election Official

Voter Assistance

I realize that you can't discuss specific cases, nor am I asking you to. But if you could provide a bit of general elaboration for at least some of (and, preferably all of) these categories, that would be most helpful.

For example, perhaps you could give an example of what might constitute a campaign violation, or what the allegations regarding "mailer" and "election official" might involve.

Thanks.

Sorry again for the delay! Here's the quote from the AG:

“Rob has served Kentuckians in the Eastern District with passion and commitment during his time as U.S. Attorney, and I consider myself very fortunate to count him as a friend and colleague,” said Attorney General Daniel Cameron. “As the top-ranking law enforcement officer for 67 Kentucky counties, he’s led the charge to ensure our communities are safer and that those who break the law are fully prosecuted. Whether it’s going after child predators or stopping drug trafficking, Rob has remained steadfast in protecting Kentuckians and upholding the rule of law.”

I hope you have had a fantastic holiday. I am reaching out to you to see if you could give me a quote from AG Cameron about USA Duncan. I am preparing a potential release for his resignation or his departure from the Department. Nothing is imminent right now, but I am trying to get ahead of the release.

Hi Adam and Crystal,

I saw the story you posted on the election fraud hotline:

<https://spectrumnews1.com/ky/louisville/news/2020/11/05/election-fraud-hotline-stats-kentucky>

I wanted to bring it to your attention that the “election fraud hotline” has gone by that name under several AGs. Examples here: <http://www.columbiamagazine.com/index.php?sid=78496> and <https://www.wbko.com/content/news/Andy-Beshear-speaks-about-Election-Fraud-Hotline-399750351.html>. I think given how the story is written and the fact that it focuses heavily on the name, this is important information to include.

As you can see from our press release on the hotline, we make it clear that the hotline exists to process any complaints/tips related to the election: <https://kentucky.gov/Pages/Activity-stream.aspx?n=AttorneyGeneral&prId=980>

Jim,

I hope you're doing well. Thursday marks one year since Attorney General Cameron was sworn into office. We're scheduling end-of-year interviews with the Attorney General for this week, and I wanted to check in and see if you'd be interested in doing a 10-15 minute interview with him?

He can discuss the work of the office during the last year, including efforts to end child abuse and human trafficking, protect consumers from scams and price gouging during the COVID-19 pandemic, fight for the Constitutional rights of Kentuckians in court, defend Kentucky's laws from legal challenges, and other topics.

[REDACTED] Would that work?

Hi Sofia,

I saw the story you posted, and I wanted to reach out and let you know that the calls we received through the Attorney General's Election Fraud Hotline are separate than those received by the Kentucky State Board of Elections. While we do work with the board and share information, when appropriate, the calls are separate.

I also noticed that the headline states we are investigating 376 complaints. While we did receive that number of complaints (as of yesterday), not all of the complaints require an investigation.

Thanks,
Elizabeth

Sorry again for the delay! Here's the quote from the AG:

“Rob has served Kentuckians in the Eastern District with passion and commitment during his time as U.S. Attorney, and I consider myself very fortunate to count him as a friend and colleague,” said Attorney General Daniel Cameron. “As the top-ranking law enforcement officer for 67 Kentucky counties, he’s led the charge to ensure our communities are safer and that those who break the law are fully prosecuted. Whether it’s going after child predators or stopping drug trafficking, Rob has remained steadfast in protecting Kentuckians and upholding the rule of law.”

Here are general explanations. This doesn't include all the possibilities that could fall in a given category, but it is simply meant to provide a broad explanation of each.

Special or Absentee Ballot: Complaint/Tip about an absentee ballot.

Electioneering: Complaint/Tip about political activities near a polling location.

Mailer: Complaint/Tip about a mailer piece received from a candidate or group.

Procedural Questions: Question/Tip about voting procedures.

Legal Questions: Question/tip about the legality of something that occurred at a polling location.

Campaign Violation: Complaint/Tip regarding the conduct of a campaign or outside group.

Election Official: Complaint/Tip regarding the conduct of an election official, including poll workers.

Voter Assistance: Complaint/Tip regarding a voter not being given proper assistance at a polling location.

General Election Fraud/Other: Category for complaints that do not fall in the other categories.

Ms. Kuhn,

The attorney general's website lists complaints by type, including:

General Election Fraud/Other

Special or Absentee Ballot

Electioneering

Mailer

Procedural Questions

Legal Questions

Campaign Violation

Election Official

Voter Assistance

I realize that you can't discuss specific cases, nor am I asking you to. But if you could provide a bit of general elaboration for at least some of (and, preferably all of) these categories, that would be most helpful.

For example, perhaps you could give an example of what might constitute a campaign violation, or what the allegations regarding "mailer" and "election official" might involve.

Thanks.
