Subject: CORRECTION: WebEOC Training

All,

The second session will be offered Friday, January 22 at 10 AM. I erroneously had it shown as a Thursday in my previous message. Corrected dates and times are shown below. I apologize for the confusion.

Good afternoon,

NEW DATES! PLEASE DISREGARD MY PREVIOUS EMAIL.

A gift for everyone as we enter the new year... We have a new Resource Request board and WebEOC has gone mobile! The app only just became available prior to our July 2020 training sessions. We now have several key boards configured for mobile optimization. I'm in the process of moving the new boards into our live platform now.

There's so much to share that we've scheduled four WebEOC training sessions to assure one of them fits into your schedule. And this time they're virtual! No need to travel further than your desktop.

Please share this email with those in your organization who will be assigned EOC functions. Respond to me with your preferred session no later than Friday, January 8th. Invitations will be sent the week prior to training.

As COVID-19 vaccine distribution begins, here are signs of potential scams:

- You are asked to pay out of pocket to get the vaccine.
- You are asked to pay to put your name on a vaccine waiting list or to get early access.
- Advertisements for vaccines through social media platforms, email, telephone calls, online, or from unsolicited/unknown sources.
- Marketers offering to sell or ship doses of the vaccine for payment.
- ✓ Protect Yourself. Do not give out your personal information to unknown sources.

ORANGE NOTICE

Requesting authority: INTERPOL General Secretariat

Date of publication: 30/11/2020

IMMINENT THREAT

COVID-19-RELATED CRIME

Falsification, Theft and Illegal Advertising of COVID-19 and Influenza Vaccines

Disclaimer: For Health Regulatory Authorities Only. Not For Public Dissemination.

Description of the types of crime likely to pose an imminent threat: Crimes related to illicit vaccines, and especially vaccines against COVID-19¹ pose a serious and imminent threat to the health and safety of people worldwide.

Such crime hinders the efforts of the authorities to control and eradicate the spread of COVID-19, contributes to the proliferation of other diseases, threatens public order and the well-being of our communities, and may erode trust in the health system.

It is vitally important that law enforcement agencies ensure a stable and secure framework in which medical workers can deliver safe and effective vaccines for people who opt for immunization through vaccination, while also ensuring the safety of the supply chain, physically, legally and online.

The purpose of this orange notice is to issue a warning about criminal activity involving vaccines in the context of the COVID-19 pandemic, which has triggered unprecedented, opportunistic and predatory criminal behaviour.

In the light of the upcoming global distribution of vaccines against COVID-19, the relevant authorities are strongly advised to raise their level of preparedness. This is in order to deal with this emerging threat, from both a strategic and operational perspective, and to protect the life and health of people and the general well-being of communities.

INTERPOL has now identified specific criminal activity in this area and wishes to highlight these cases to warn you of the imminent threats to public safety and to assist you, our member countries, in your efforts to tackle this emerging crime threat.

Additional law enforcement guidance and a threat assessment are due to follow in early December 2020.

¹ Severe Acute Respiratory Syndrome Coronavirus 2 (SARS-CoV-2) is the strain of coronavirus that causes Coronavirus Disease 2019 (COVID-19), the respiratory illness responsible for the COVID-19 pandemic. For the sake of readability, this notice adheres to popular nomenclature in referring to the SARS-CoV-2 vaccine as the "COVID-19 vaccine."

1. Falsified COVID-19 vaccine: Vietnam

In March 2020, an individual posing as a medical worker in Binh Dinh Province, Vietnam, sold and administered falsified vaccines to 34 people. The offender had collected VND 63,628,000 (USD 2,742) before the police intervened. In order to give the impression of legality and of a sound vaccination process, the offender had asked victims to complete fake “vaccine injection” and “blood test” forms.

The fake vaccine contained either distilled water or, in some cases, an antibiotic, and was administered in 1 ml, 5 ml, and 6 ml syringes. The vials of alleged vaccine were kept in a medical case and preserved in a plastic cup with ice. Adults and babies alike received the fake vaccine. However, babies were not given the antibiotic, but water. The offender claimed that the vaccines were effective against the following viruses and diseases: COVID-19, strokes, hepatitis A, hepatitis B, meningitis, Japanese encephalitis, Rotavirus, influenza, measles, pneumococcus, petechial fever and cervical cancer (See point 2).

Counterfeit vaccines seized by police in Vietnam

2. Falsified COVID-19 vaccine: India

In September 2020, law enforcement officials arrested a 32-year-old man after a raid on his premises in the village of Rusuda, Western Odisha, India. There, authorities found glass bottles with labels marked “COVID-19 vaccine,” packaging materials, various powders, and other chemical substances, as well as medicines used to treat infertility. The man refused to reveal the composition of his alleged vaccine, calling it “top secret.”

The raid occurred after the offender sent an e-mail to the regulatory agency asking for a licence to sell the substances that he called a “vaccine,” although he had no formal medical qualification. Although the falsified products were intended for public distribution, police stopped the production operation before any of the illicit substance was sold.

These types of threat (described under points 1 and 2) constitute an immediate danger to anyone who is injected with unidentified substances, potentially causing health issues and further physical harm. Additionally, these cases constitute a threat to the general public because they create the false belief that the persons in question have been immunized against a disease, which in fact contributes to the spread of the disease. It is therefore strongly recommended that law enforcement supports health prevention measures in relation to counterfeit/falsified vaccines.

3. Stolen influenza vaccine: Mexico

On 12 October 2020, a truck belonging to the Mexican Social Security Institute (IMSS) was robbed by unknown persons who stole 10,100 doses of an influenza vaccine called Vaxigrip® f.f suspension, and manufactured by Sanofi Pasteur. The stolen items have the health registration number 478M96 SSA, batch number U3J491V, and an expiration date of June 2021. The vaccine, produced exclusively for the use of the public health sector, was intended for active immunization against influenza A and B viruses. The vaccines were stolen while in transit for the national influenza vaccination campaign undertaken by the IMSS. These vaccines were not available for private sale or supply in Mexico, and were only distributed and administered as part of a public vaccination campaign.

This type of case represents a direct and physical threat to the legal supply chain, because it hinders immunization campaigns carried out by the competent authorities and also threatens the life and health of individuals who might receive these stolen vaccines after they have been compromised or rendered ineffective because of improper transportation.

Policing guidelines on the safeguarding of legitimate supply chains and a detailed Threat Assessment are to follow.

4. COVID-19 vaccine - illicit online advertisement

In November 2020, authorities in an INTERPOL member country were alerted to an advertisement placed on a news website, showing a picture of a vaccine, apparently sold by a private company. So far, no such vaccine has been authorized in the country, which makes any online sale of this type of product illegal.

Advertisement for vaccine for sale online

This case is typical of illicit online sales of medical products, which are diverted from the legal supply chain and legal authorization processes and for which the safety cannot be guaranteed, thereby posing a direct threat to human life and health.

5. COVID-19 vaccine advertisements on the Darknet

Since March 2020, unknown persons have posted alleged vaccine sales on several Darknet marketplaces, with payment requested in cryptocurrencies, which represents a serious risk for the public, not only because the origin of these products (if they even exist) cannot be traced, but also in terms of cyberthreats and financial crime, especially malware and non-delivery fraud respectively.

There is also a significant risk of personal identifiable information, including health and social security details, being stolen and then sold or used to carry out other profitable activities by the threat actor. Online marketplaces present opportunities for criminals to distribute falsified/counterfeit COVID-19 vaccines, while posing serious personal security risks.

Situational Awareness COVID-19 Vaccine Scams

This bulletin is being provided for situational awareness concerning the recent release of the COVID-19 vaccine.

The U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) recently issued the first emergency use authorization (EUA) for the Pfizer-BioNTech COVID-19 vaccine and the Moderna COVID-19 vaccine. The vaccine shots were administered on December 14, 2020 across the United States. Quickly following the start of the distribution was the falsification, theft, and illegal advertisement of the vaccine.

There has been many incidents within South Florida of COVID-19 related scams. One incident involved subjects calling a Florida resident stating they were going to her house to conduct a COVID-19 test. INTERPOL has reported scams of falsified COVID-19 vaccines, illicit online advertising of COVID-19 vaccine, along with advertisements for the COVID vaccine on the Darknet.

The FBI has released potential signs of scams which include;

- Persons being asked to pay out of pocket for the vaccine.
- Persons being asked to pay to put your name on a vaccine waiting list or to get early access.
- Marketers offering to sell or ship doses of the vaccine for payment
- Advertisements for vaccines through social media platforms, emails, phone calls, online, or from unsolicited/unknown sources.

Analyst Note: To protect yourself do not respond to solicitations about the vaccines, never send money, financial information, or personal information to anyone offering a COVID-19 vaccine or claiming to be able to quicken the process. It is important to be vigilant, be skeptical, and be safe.

The CDC has posted frequently asked questions that are regularly updated for further information.

If you believe you are a victim or if you receive solicitations or COVID-19 related vaccine advertisements, please report information to the Attorney General's Office by calling 866-9NO-SCAM (866-966-7226) or visiting MyFloridaLegal.com.

Please Report suspicious activity information to www.iwatchsouthflorida.com. Additionally, anyone with information on similar incidents is requested to contact the Southeast Florida Fusion Center at 305-470-3880 or seffc@mdpd.com.
