In particular, the Florida Constitution vests the State's legislative power in the Florida Legislature. See Art. III, § 1, Fla. Const. It follows, therefore, that the Governor's exercise of what the Constitution characterizes as the power of "[e]xecutive approval and veto," Art. III, § 8, Fla. Const., is not a legislative power. Rather, the veto power is an executive check on the legislative power; "[e]ach branch of the government necessarily at times, either by express provision of the Constitution or in the orderly administration of the state's affairs, comes in contact with one or the other branch, but such contact in n[o]wise merges the functions of one into that of the other." Amos v. Gunn, 94 So. 615, 627–28 (Fla. 1922) (Ellis, J., on pet. for reh'g). This Court's more recent opinions thus acknowledge that the exercise of the veto is an executive power.[1]

A, B, C, D, E, & F*, 589 So. 2d 260, 264 (Fla. 1991) ("Article III, section 8 sets forth the procedure for the executive power to approve or veto legislation of both nonappropriations and appropriations bills."); Brown v. Firestone, 382 So. 2d 654, 672 (Fla. 1980) ("We hold further that the vetoes identified herein as 2, 4, 5 and 6 are valid as being within the purview of the executive power granted by article III, section 8(a)[.]"); Owens v. State, 316 So. 2d 537, 538 n.4 (Fla. 1975) ("Although article IV of the constitution deals with the executive branch, the placement of a legislative power in one subsection of that article does not render the delegated power nugatory. The placement is functional, as with executive powers conferred in the judicial article (art. V, [§] 11) and in the legislative article (art. (quoting Art. III, § 8(a), Fla. Const.)); see also Green v. Rawls, 122 So. 2d 10, 13 (Fla. 1960) ("[U]nder our tripartite division of the powers of government, and the checks and balances designed to be accomplished thereby, the chief executive must have the power and the opportunity to veto

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Third, the question affecting my executive powers and duties concerns Article III, Section 20(a) of the Florida Constitution, which provides that:

> No apportionment plan or individual district shall be drawn with the intent to favor or disfavor a political party or an incumbent; and districts shall not be drawn with the intent or result of denying or abridging the equal opportunity of racial or language minorities to participate in the political process or to diminish their ability to elect representatives of their choice; and districts shall consist of contiguous territory.

Art. III, § 20(a), Fla. Const. (emphasis added). I limit my request to the phrase "diminish their ability to elect representatives of their choice"—the State's non-diminishment standard. Except where it may be necessary to inform your interpretation of the Florida Constitution, I do not ask for your opinion on any issues of federal law. Cf. In re Senate Joint Resolution of Legislative Apportionment 1176, 83 So. 3d 597, 620-21 (Fla. 2012) ("Apportionment I") (recognizing that the non-diminishment standard borrows from § 5 of the Voting Rights Act but "nonetheless recogniz[ing] our independent constitutional obligation to interpret our own state constitutional provisions").

Specifically, I ask whether the Florida Constitution's non-diminishment standard mandates a sprawling congressional district in northern Florida that stretches hundreds of miles from East to West solely to connect black voters in Jacksonville with black voters in Gadsden and Leon Counties (with few in between) so that they may elect candidates of their choice, even without a majority. This Court has previously suggested that the answer is "yes." Apportionment VIII, 179 So. 3d at 271 ("Although District 5 was required to be drawn from East to West, no specific configuration was mandated in Apportionment VII," and this Court did not "specify a certain Black Voting Age Population (BVAP) or black share of registered Democrats as a 'floor' below which the ability of black voters to elect a candidate of choice was certain to be diminished.").

In 2015, this Court rejected a North-South configuration of the district that ran from Jacksonville to Orlando. The Court held that the North-South version had been unconstitutionally tainted by partisan and other improper influences and that such a configuration was not "necessary to avoid diminishing the ability of black voters to elect a candidate of their choice." Apportionment VII, 172 So. 3d at 403. Consequently, the Court adopted the East-West configuration that exists today. Id. at 405–06. In so doing, this Court acknowledged that this configuration was not a "model of compactness," id. at 406 (internal quotation marks omitted), but nevertheless concluded that it was "visually less 'unusual' and 'bizarre' than the meandering North-South version," id., and that it would not "diminish the ability of black voters to elect a candidate of their choice," id. at 405. This Court indicated that the non-compact shape of the East-West district was nevertheless necessary because of "geography" and "other constitutional legislative action, subject to the power of the legislature to override the executive veto by the vote of a specified number of the legislature.").

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

requirements such as ensuring that the apportionment plan does not deny the equal opportunity of racial or language minorities to participate in the political process or diminish their ability to elect representatives of their choice." Id. at 406 (citation omitted).

This Court's prior guidance, however, pre-dates relevant decisions from the U.S. Supreme Court. In 2017, the U.S. Supreme Court made clear that where "racial considerations predominate[] over others, the design of the district must withstand strict scrutiny." Cooper v. Harris, 137 S. Ct. 1455, 1464 (2017). To satisfy this test, and thus pass muster under the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, a state must "prove that its race-based sorting of voters serves a 'compelling interest' and is 'narrowly tailored' to that end." Id. (citations omitted). While the U.S. Supreme Court "has long assumed that one compelling interest is complying with operative provisions of the Voting Rights Act," a state must show "that it had 'a strong basis in evidence'" to conclude that the Act required race-based sorting of voters. Id. (citation omitted). In Cooper, North Carolina did not meet its burden when arguing that compliance with § 2 of the Voting Rights Act served as a compelling reason. Id. at 1469–72. Specifically, North Carolina could not satisfy § 2's threshold conditions: (1) that the "minority group" was "sufficiently large and geographically compact to constitute a majority" in a reasonably compact legislative district, (2) that the minority group was "politically cohesive," and (3) that the district's majority group voted "sufficiently as a bloc" to "defeat the minority's preferred candidate." Id. at 1470 (quoting Thornburg v. Gingles, 478 U.S. 30, 50–51 (1986)).

If this Court advises that the non-diminishment standard does not specifically require that an East-West district be drawn to connect minority voters in Jacksonville with minority voters in Leon and Gadsden Counties, I nevertheless request guidance on what the non-diminishment standard does require. Specifically, I ask whether the Florida Constitution's non-diminishment standard requires that congressional districts be drawn to connect minority populations from distant and distinct geographic areas if doing so would provide the assembled minority group sufficient voting strength (although not a majority of the proposed district) to elect a candidate of its choice. Or, conversely, does the non-diminishment standard merely require that a minority population in a reasonably cohesive geographic area, where the population is not a majority but is nevertheless large enough to elect candidates of its choice, continue to be able to elect such candidates?

Relatedly, to make sense of the non-diminishment standard, I ask for clarification from this Court on what constitutes a proper benchmark for determining whether a minority group's ability to elect a candidate of its choice has been diminished. This Court has said that the "existing plan of a covered jurisdiction serves as the 'benchmark' against which the 'effect' of voting changes is measured.'" Apportionment I, 83 So. 3d at 624 (citation omitted). But is that so even if the district in the existing plan was designed solely to cobble together enough minority voters from distant and distinct geographic areas to elect candidates of their choice despite not constituting a majority? Or must the benchmark be confined to the minority population in a reasonably cohesive geographic area?

Florida's non-diminishment standard—like the Voting Rights Act's non-diminishment standard—is a potent, race-based solution to a race-based problem. I ask for your opinion to help me be sufficiently conscious of race to comply with the Florida Constitution's anti-diminishment provision but avoid being so conscious of race that my actions could violate the U.S. and Florida Constitutions.

Because the U.S. Supreme Court's decisions inform, but do not definitively resolve, issues of state law, I ask for you to exercise your "independent constitutional obligation" to interpret Florida law, id. at 621, and to guide me in exercising my executive powers as Governor. See Art. III, § 8, Fla. Const.; Art. IV, § 1(a), Fla. Const. I respectfully request your assistance as expeditiously as possible given that March 11, 2022, is the last day of the legislative session and candidates for the U.S. House of Representatives will need to qualify under a new map in June.

Thank you for your consideration.

Respectfully submitted,

Ron DeSantis

DeSantis' big bet on redistricting destined for the courts

Politico Florida Playbook
Gary Fineout
April 14, 2022

Remember this? — A few short weeks ago, Gov. Ron DeSantis' position that minority access congressional districts were against federal law was shrugged off as a "novel legal theory" by Florida House Republicans.

Hit the books — Well, it looks like that theory is about to get tested big time.

Red state — After legislative leaders made the decision to defer map-drawing to the GOP governor, the DeSantis administration late Wednesday afternoon submitted lines that would dramatically alter the political landscape in the state. The initial analysis shows that his map would likely let Republicans pick up four seats in Congress, growing the party advantage from 16-11 to 20-8. (Florida is adding one seat due to population growth.) It would completely dismantle the North Florida seat held by Rep. Al Lawson, a Black Democrat.

Explanation — The governor's general counsel maintains this proposal clears up the "constitutional infirmities" that led DeSantis to veto the previous map passed by the Legislature — and which would have resulted in a gain of two seats for Republicans, not four. But there remain key unanswered questions on the proposal, including who helped the governor's office draw the map and whether they had any outside assistance.

Excuse me — Democrats blasted the governor's proposal and contend it's out of step with both federal law and the state's anti-gerrymandering standards, known as Fair Districts, which were supposed to block legislators from enacting maps designed to favor incumbents or a particular party. "A garbage map," state Rep. Anna Eskamani called it. "If this map is enacted, Florida will be sued," tweeted Marc Elias, the well-known D.C. attorney whose firm is already involved in the first rounds of litigation over redistricting in the state.

Tick, tick — At this point, however, the clock does not favor Democrats for this year's elections. Qualifying commences in June, and election supervisors say they need a new map soon in order to be prepared for the late August primary. Still, it appears a summer's worth of litigation is soon to be unleashed.

— WHERE'S RON? — Nothing official announced for Gov. DeSantis

MAPMAKER, MAPMAKER

GO BIG OR GO HOME — “DeSantis to push through new Florida map that will bring big GOP gains,” by POLITICO’s Gary Fineout: The move by the governor — a rising GOP star and potential presidential contender in 2024 — was quickly cheered by conservatives, but more importantly could spark a challenge that may lead to demolishing Florida’s anti-gerrymandering standards that voters approved in 2010. Any challenge in state court would wind up before the state’s Supreme Court, which has undergone a huge rightward shift due to DeSantis appointments.

What it does — The map prepared by the governor’s office would dismantle the North Florida seat now held by Rep. Al Lawson, a Black Democrat, and instead create new districts across the entire region that would likely elect Republicans. The map would potentially lead to flipping the seat in the Tampa Bay area now held by Rep. Charlie Crist, who is not seeking a new term because he’s running for governor. The central Florida district held by retiring Rep. Stephanie Murphy would also become a GOP-friendly district.

CAMPAIGN MODE

PRIMARY HEAT — Agriculture Commissioner Nikki Fried, who has trailed in fundraising and in several public polls behind Rep. Charlie Crist, is ratcheting up attacks in the battle for the Democratic nomination for governor. Fried’s campaign took shots at Crist after the one-time Republican contended that he remains “pro-life” in a recent television interview with a West Palm Beach station.

On offense — The campaign put out a statement on Wednesday blasting Crist and started going after him on social media. “As female bodies are being attacked by Republican-led states, Charlie Crist has the audacity to admit that he’s ‘still pro-life,’” said Fried spokeswoman Caroline Korba. “Charlie is clearly trying to play cute on abortion and it’s just insulting to anyone with a brain — and dangerous to anyone with ovaries.”

Response — The Crist campaign fired back quickly. “Nikki Fried’s campaign disrespects Florida women by launching these misleading and baseless attacks,” said Samantha Ramirez, a spokeswoman for the Crist campaign. “Charlie’s record on choice is clear, he trusts women and will always defend the right to choose — no matter what.”

Trying to figure it out — Crist’s comments that he remains "pro-life" came after he was asked about an old campaign ad from back when Crist was still a Republican. “I’m still pro-life, meaning I’m for life. I hope most people are. And I think it’s important to understand the distinction,” he told a television interviewer. Crist’s answers were confusing, but he has had a convoluted history on the topic over his lengthy career in politics. He has called himself "pro-life," yet did not fully embrace anti-abortion positions. Back in 2010, Crist vetoed a bill that would have required an ultrasound before an abortion, after saying it would have placed an “inappropriate burden” on women seeking an abortion. He was ripped by anti-abortion advocates for the veto. Crist's campaign also noted that while in Congress, he has received top marks from a leading abortion rights groups for his votes.

STEP RIGHT UP — "DNC sets off free-for-all to remake presidential calendar," by POLITICO's Elena Schneider: The Democratic National Committee is officially reopening its presidential nominating process, upending the current calendar led by Iowa and New Hampshire and requiring them — and any other interested states — to apply for early-state status in 2024. Members of the DNC's Rules and Bylaws Committee voted on Wednesday to set the application process for how states will be considered as candidates to lead off the presidential primaries, potentially expanding the roster from four to five states. The influential perch guarantees candidates, attention and money flow into those states during national campaigns — not to mention giving voters there an outsize say in picking presidents.

BOOK IT EARLY— "GOP to choose 2024 and 2028 convention cities," by POLITICO's Natalie Allison: If approved, the GOP will announce the selection of two convention cities in the coming months — its 2024 presidential convention site, and later, perhaps in January, its choice for the 2028 convention.

Already ruled out — Orlando, Houston, San Antonio and Phoenix were among the cities that told the RNC this fall the 2024 dates in question wouldn't work for them. The party hasn't yet publicly announced what dates its 2024 convention will take place. Presidential convention sites and the stifling security perimeter around them tend to tie up the event spaces involved for weeks as preparations take place, a time commitment that has forced cities to remove themselves from consideration because of other events already scheduled around the same time.

... DATELINE TALLAHASSEE ...

THE DESANTIS WAY — "COVID-19 crusader Gov. DeSantis gets new title: Chief of 'woke' police," by Sarasota Herald-Tribune's Zac Anderson: "Jeb Bush was the education reform governor. Charlie Crist campaigned on pocketbook issues. Rick Scott was all about jobs, jobs, jobs. Then there's Gov. Ron DeSantis, chief of the woke police. DeSantis rose to fame fighting COVID-19 restrictions, but lately has become the face of the GOP's efforts to push back against liberal cultural values, particularly around race and LGBTQ issues. The emphasis on conservative social issues is a big shift for a governor's race in the nation's biggest battleground state, but tracks with the GOP's evolution under former President Donald Trump, who emphasized culture war fights after years of Republican leaders worrying they would scare off suburban voters."

PUSHING BACK — "The federal government says Florida has no legal standing to challenge its immigration policies," by News Service of Florida's Jim Saunders: "As Gov. Ron DeSantis and Attorney General Ashley Moody assail federal immigration policies, the Biden administration is asking a judge to toss out a lawsuit filed by the state over the release of undocumented immigrants. The latest salvos in the case came Tuesday, when U.S. Department of Justice attorneys disputed arguments made by Moody's office, including that the federal government has a 'non-detention' policy."

..HURRICANE HOLE...

'DISASTERS DON'T DISCRIMINATE' — "Officials warn Floridians to get ready for hurricane season," by Associated Press: "Deanne Criswell, administrator of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, and Ken Graham, director of the National Hurricane Center, said they worried that many Floridians living in coastal communities had gotten complacent about making hurricane preparations since there hadn't lived through major storms in recent years. Some of these coastal communities act like a cat 'with nine lives' in that hurricanes seem to be heading their way but then change course at the last minute, lulling residents into believing their neighborhoods will never be hit, Criswell said at the National Hurricane Conference in Orlando, Florida."

TRUMPLANDIA AND THE SWAMP

ANOTHER ONE — "Florida man charged with attacking officers at Capitol riot," by Associated Press: "A Florida man who attacked police officers while storming the U.S. Capitol during the January 2021 insurrection has been arrested, officials said. Steven Miles, 39, of Zephyrhills, was arrested Tuesday in Florida, where he made his initial court appearance, according to the U.S. Attorney's Office. Zephyrhills is about 30 miles northeast of Tampa. Miles faces charges of assaulting, resisting or impeding officers, civil disorder and engaging in physical violence in a restricted building or grounds with a dangerous weapon."

CORONAVIRUS UPDATES

REJECTED — "Court backs college in COVID-19 shutdown case," by News Service of Florida's Jim Saunders: "In one of numerous cases stemming from campus shutdowns during the early months of the COVID-19 pandemic, an appeals court Wednesday rejected a potential class-action lawsuit against Miami Dade College over fees collected from students in 2020. A three-judge panel of the 3rd District Court of Appeal ordered the dismissal of the lawsuit filed by Fernando Verdini, a Miami Dade College nursing student who was required to learn remotely in the spring and summer of 2020 after the pandemic hit the state."

PENINSULA AND BEYOND

A NEW KIND OF ASTRONAUT' — "NASA's astronauts aren't ready for deep space," by POLITICO's Bryan Bender: The space agency has yet to develop a specialized training program for the astronauts, lacks critical equipment such as new space suits to protect them against deadly levels of radiation, and is still pursuing a range of technologies to lay the groundwork for a more permanent human presence, according to NASA officials, former astronauts, internal studies and experts on space travel. "This time you are going to need astronauts that are going to actually get out and start to live on the moon,"

NASA Administrator Bill Nelson said in an interview. “We’re going to build habitats up there. So you’re going to need a new kind of astronaut.”

HISTORY LESSON — “How 1970s Christian crusader Anita Bryant helped spawn Florida’s LGBTQ culture war,” by NBC News’ Jillian Eugenios: “Action had to be taken, and a campaign to limit the legal rights of LGBTQ people — all in the name of protecting children — was enacted. A woman who spoke at this hearing said it was her right to control 'the moral atmosphere in which my children grow up.' That woman was Anita Bryant, formerly Miss Oklahoma and a white, telegenic, Top 40 singer who was well known for her Florida orange juice commercials ('A day without orange juice is like a day without sunshine!' she’d say).”

WELL NOW — “Cuba has stopped accepting deportations of its nationals from the U.S., ICE says,” by El Nuevo Herald’s Nora Gámez Torres: “The Cuban government has not been accepting deportations of Cuban nationals from the U.S. for more than six months, at a time when tens of thousands are leaving the island to reach the U.S. in the largest exodus since the 1980s Mariel boatlift. In the fiscal year 2022 that started Oct. 1, 20 Cubans returned voluntarily to the island, but the Cuban government “has not accepted any ICE removals via commercial or charter flights,” a spokesperson for U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement told the Miami Herald.”

SUGAR, SUGAR — “Palm Beach County Democrats urge Nikki Fried to expand sugar cane burning buffers,” by Palm Beach Post’s Hannah Morse: “Environmental activists pushing for the sugar industry to end its pre-harvest practice of cane burning have enlisted the help of the Palm Beach County Democrats to urge Agriculture Commissioner Nikki Fried to institute wider burn-free buffers to protect surrounding communities from falling soot and ash. Steve Messam, a leader in the Stop the Burn campaign that is supported by the Sierra Club, proposed Thursday an environmental justice resolution to members of the Palm Beach County Democratic Party Executive Committee.”

RESPONSE — “Venezuelan Democrats respond to Rubio statements in Doral: ‘We are proud Democrats,” by Miami Herald’s Bianca Padró Ocasio: “A group of Venezuelan and other Latino Democrats protested in front of U.S. Sen. Marco Rubio’s Miami-Dade office Wednesday, following comments he made last week during a campaign stop in Doral where he dismissed criticism of his stance on immigration as partisan attacks. Rubio, who has supported Temporary Protected Status for Venezuelans and asked the Biden administration for a renewal, has come under fire from some Venezuelans for not backing an extension to the eligibility cutoff date for Venezuelans who arrived in the U.S. after March 9, 2021 and a path to citizenship for Venezuelans fleeing the Maduro regime.”

DeSantis follows successful script while putting his stamp on legislative session, re-election

Tallahassee Democrat
Bill Cotterell
January 13, 2022

If Gov. Ron DeSantis sounded like he was making a re-election campaign speech when he addressed the Florida Legislature on the opening day of its 2022 session, there's a good reason for that.

He was.

And, of course, Democrats in the state Capitol reacted predictably — calling the governor's appearance a performance, rather than a thoughtful discourse on the needs and opportunities of Florida. Not that they expected anything else or offered anything but partisan platitudes of their own in response to what's somewhat whimsically called the "State of the State" speech.

It would have been surprising if DeSantis or his politically powerless opposition had done anything else.

This is not just an election year, it's a political perfect storm.

It's a redistricting year, with all 120 House and 40 Senate districts to be realigned in accord with the 2020 census. Florida's congressional districts will also get redrawn, with one new U.S. House seat added to the map.

And Florida is flush with cash, much of it federal stimulus money, so lawmakers have a great chance to spread it around while potential opponents can only say, "Yeah, I would have done that too."

DeSantis gave legislators, and his statewide TV audience, a quick review of his greatest hits. He recapped some of the crowd pleasers he'd announced in recent news conferences around the state — whacking the Biden Administration on immigration, reminding us how he has kept Florida open for business and education during the pandemic and sniping a bit at favored right wing targets.

He talked up his nearly $100 billion budget plan, with its pay raises and other incentives for police and other politically popular (and deserving) public servants.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Even the guests whom governors always plant in the audience — a teacher who'd improved her schools' grade average, an honored North Miami Beach cop, even the state Burmese python-trapping champ, who bagged 41 of the beasts — were so nice that even the Democrats had to applaud.

The governor said there will be no defunding of police, no tuition increases or cuts to the Bright Futures scholarships, nothing that smacks of being soft on crime.

He didn't mention that nobody is suggesting any of that stuff anyway.

He took a shot at Dr. Anthony Fauci and the "corporate media" with their grudge against conservatives. DeSantis also made the obligatory passing references to the Second Amendment (he's for it) and abortion (he's not) and Critical Race Theory (uh-uh).

Anyone looking for surprises, or a slight departure from rightwing dogma, was surely disappointed.

Hitting all the hot buttons and following the rhetoric recipe faithfully DeSantis telegraphed his tone with the very first sentence:

"Together, we have made Florida the freest state in these United States," he told lawmakers.

Veteran political observer John Kennedy of the USA TODAY Network's Florida Capital Bureau counted "free," "freedom" or other variants of the word a dozen times in 35 minutes.

(By the way, the latest product peddled by the DeSantis re-election campaign is a $25 T-shirt lampooning "Lockdown Libs" — governors or Democratic Congress members who visited in Florida while their own states were restricted for COVID — concluding with the message, "We Don't Blame You… We Like Freedom Too.")

Upstaged Democrats responded as best they could.

Senate Democrats made a video saying they like freedom — such as the freedom to obtain health care, freedom to get an education in safe schools and freedom to prosper in a healthy economy.

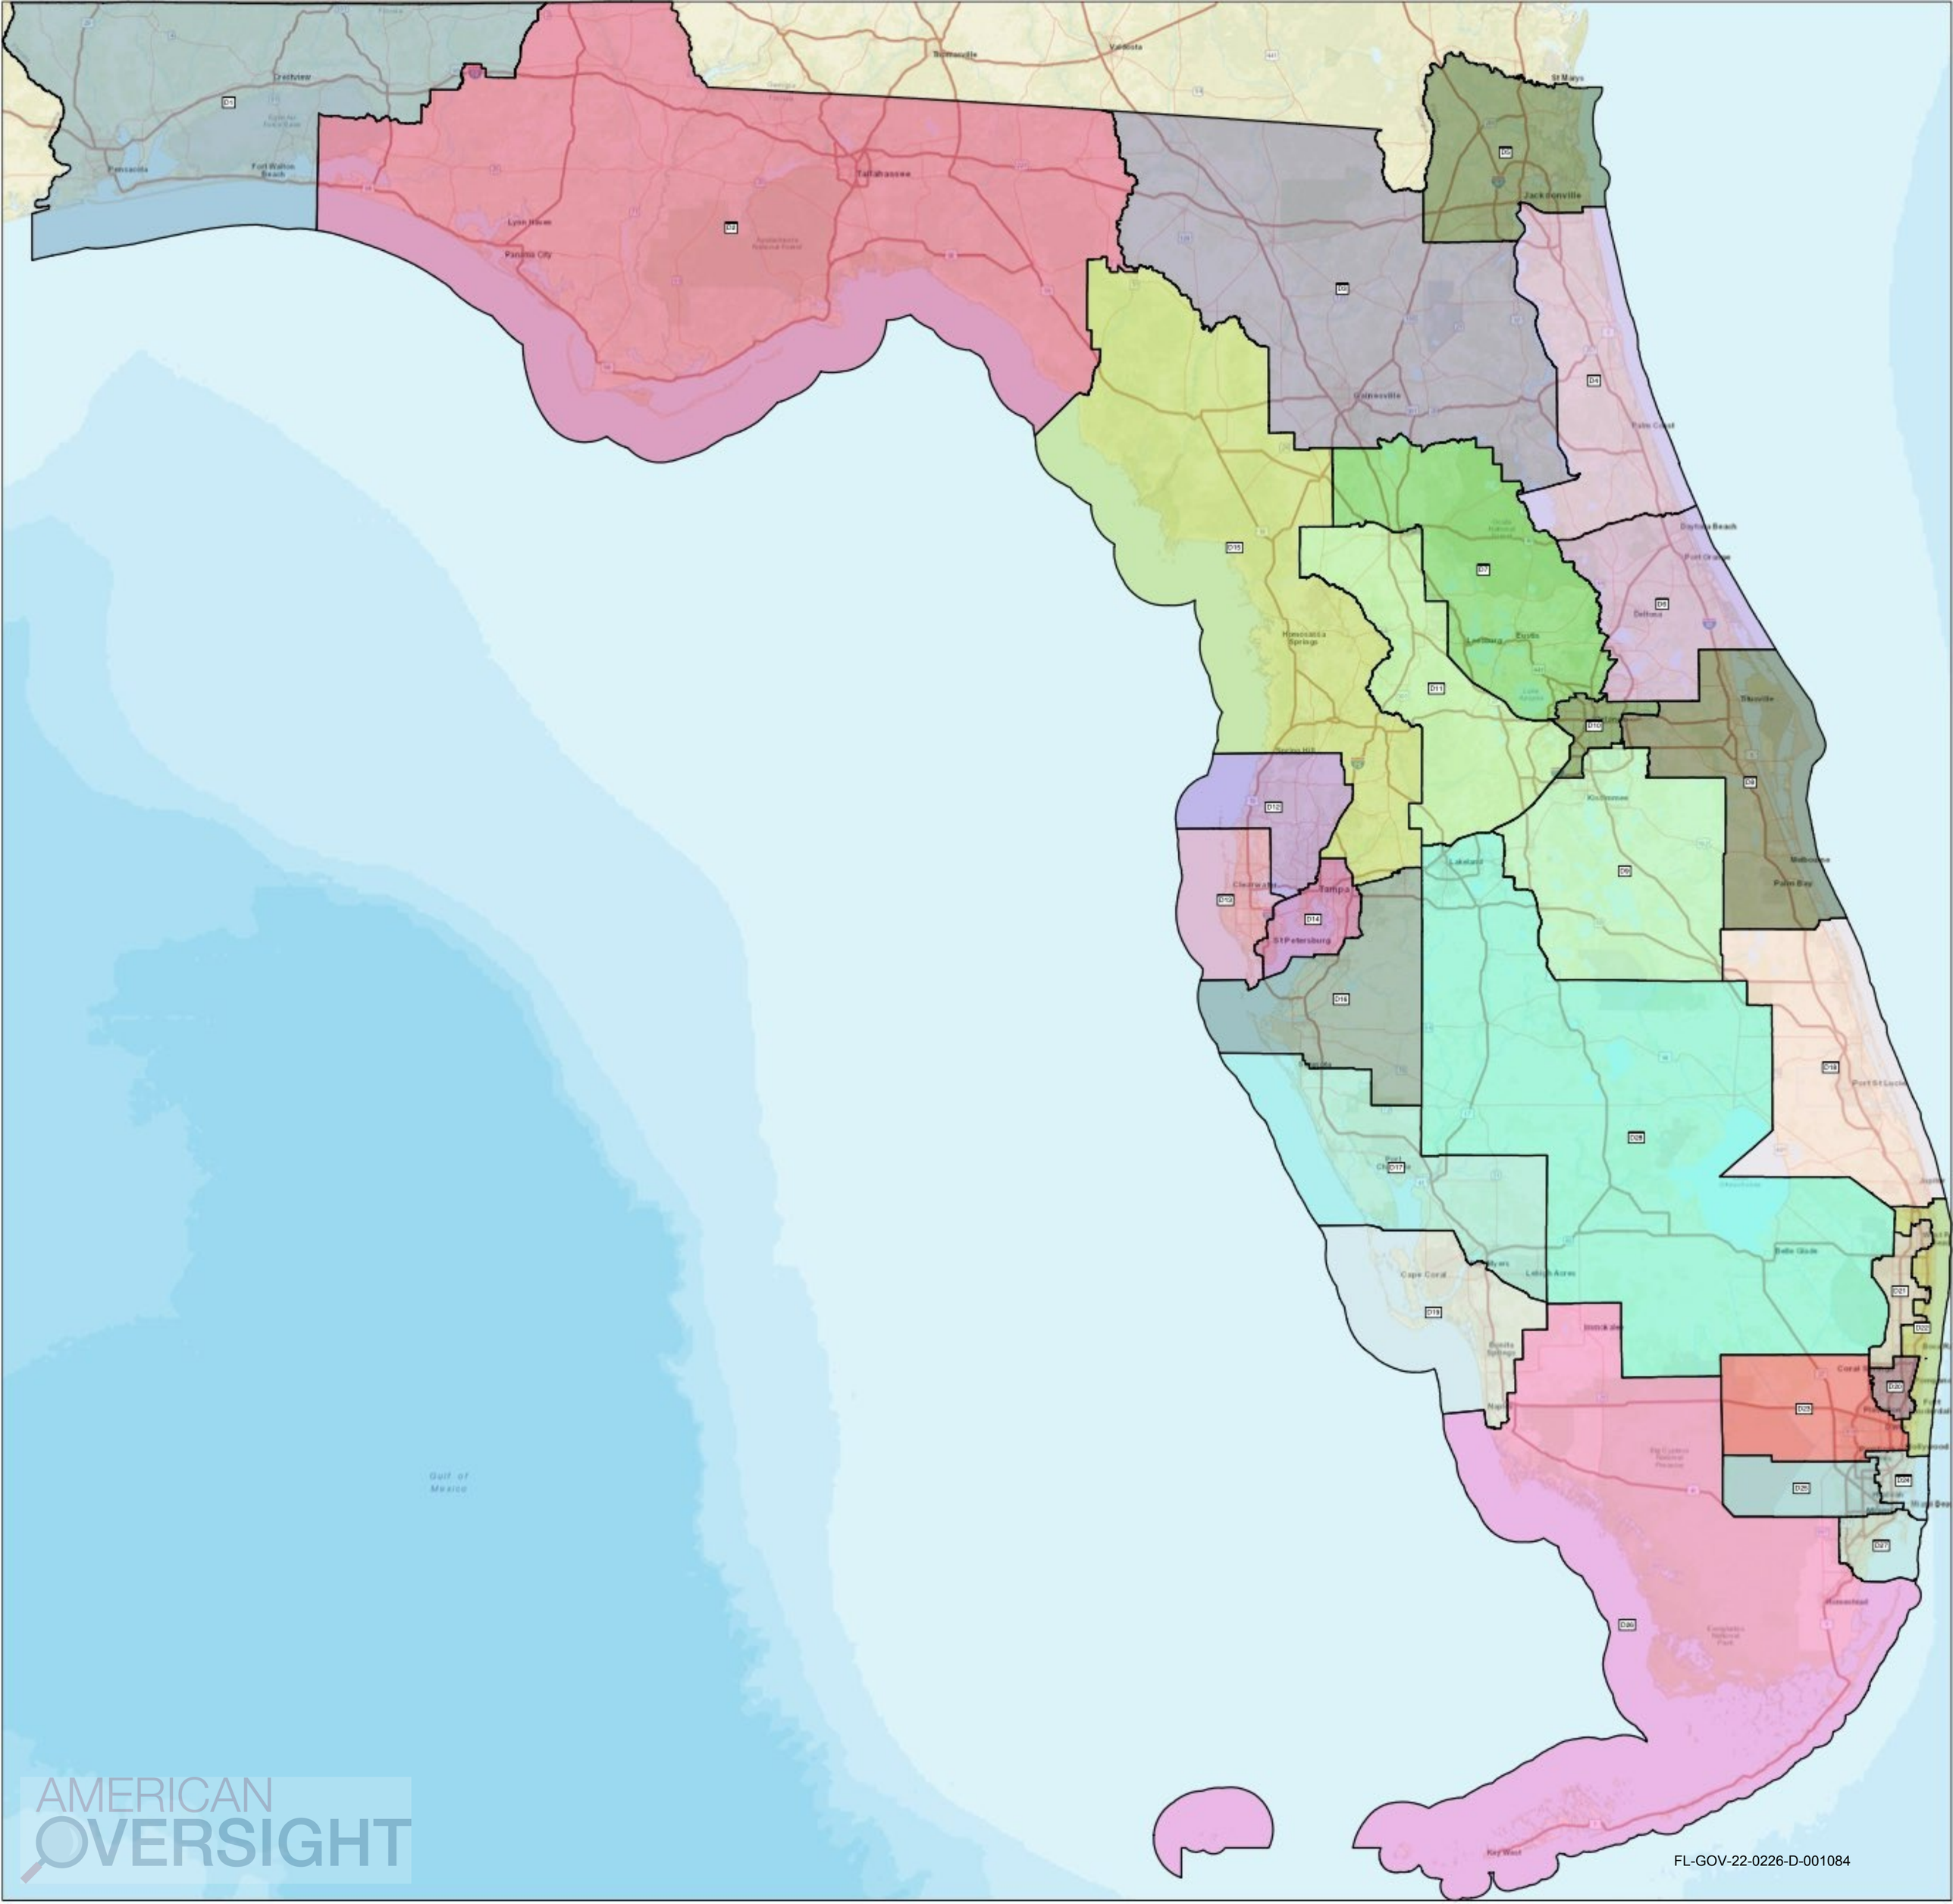
House Democratic leader Evan Jenne's similar message concluded, "And we don't need the third-largest state in America to devote its entire legislative session to making sacrifices at the altar of political ambition for any one individual."

Ah, yes, the DeSantis presidential campaign of 2024. You knew they'd get around to that.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Agriculture Commissioner Nikki Fried, who's running against DeSantis for governor, put it bluntly.

"Today, the governor showed yet again he cares more about performative political theater than about anything Floridians are going through," she said. Fried dismissed the State of the State message as largely "dog whistle cues to his political base."



Charlie Crist, who made four SOS speeches when he was a Republican governor, used another word to describe DeSantis' speech — not "freedom," but "neglected."

"At every turn, Gov. DeSantis has put his presidential ambitions over the needs of working Floridians," Crist said, "and that just doesn't cut it. You deserve better."

What? Politicians acting politically in an election year?

Who'd have seen that coming?

RON DESANTIS
GOVERNOR

February 1, 2022

Honorable Charles T. Canady
Chief Justice of the Florida Supreme Court
Florida Supreme Court, 500 S. Duval St.
Tallahassee, Florida 32399

Mr. Chief Justice and Justices of the Florida Supreme Court:

In the coming weeks, the Florida Legislature must present to me a bill that redraws Florida's congressional districts consistent with the most recent decennial census, see 2 U.S.C. §§ 2a–2c, and the one-person, one-vote requirement of the U.S. Constitution, see Kirkpatrick v. Preisler, 394 U.S. 526, 530–31 (1969). All maps that have been published by the Legislature and are currently under consideration retain, for the most part, the current Congressional District 5. The district stretches over 200 miles from East to West across eight counties without conforming to usual political or geographic boundaries, solely to connect a minority population center in Jacksonville with a separate and distinct minority population center in Leon and Gadsden Counties so that, together, these minority populations may elect a candidate of their choice. It is a narrow district that compresses to only three miles wide, North to South, when traversing a string of the northernmost precincts in Leon County so the district can connect with the minority population in western Leon County without including the non-minority population in eastern Leon County. Similarly, in Duval County, the district narrows to about a mile and a half in width. As of the 2020 Census, two counties, Duval to the East and Leon to the West, alone contribute 82.77% of the district's population. These counties are in two completely different regions of the State.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT
FL-GOV-22-0226-D-001558

I seek this Court's opinion on whether Article III, Section 20(a) of the Florida Constitution requires the retention of a district in northern Florida that connects the minority population in Jacksonville with distant and distinct minority populations (either in Leon and Gadsden Counties or outside of Orlando) to ensure sufficient voting strength, even if not a majority, to elect a candidate of their choice.

This Court's constitutional power to render an advisory opinion is quite broad. Upon my request, this Court may opine as to "the interpretation of any portion of [the] constitution upon any question affecting the governor's executive powers and duties." Art. IV, § 1(c), Fla. Const. (emphasis added). The Florida Constitution provides that "[t]he supreme executive power shall be vested in a governor." Art. IV, § 1(a), Fla. Const. That executive power includes the "[e]xecutive approval and veto" power over bills the Florida Legislature presents to me, Art. III, § 8, Fla. Const.; the duty to "take care that the laws be faithfully executed," Art. IV, § 1(a), Fla. Const.; and the power of "direct supervision" over the "administration" of the Department of State, Art. IV, § 6, Fla. Const.; see also § 20.02(3), Fla. Stat. (providing that "[t]he administration of any executive branch department . . . placed under the direct supervision of an officer . . . appointed by and serving at the pleasure of the Governor shall remain at all times under the constitutional executive authority of the Governor"); § 20.10, Fla. Stat. (creating the Department of State, which is headed by the Secretary of State, who is appointed by and serves at the pleasure of the Governor).

Once presented with a congressional redistricting bill, I must decide whether to approve or veto it, and even if I take no action and the law goes into effect, I must nevertheless take care that the Constitution and laws of the State of Florida are faithfully executed. The Secretary of State, whom I direct and oversee, is the chief election officer of the State, § 97.012, Fla. Stat., and is responsible for, among many things, "[o]btain[ing] and maintain[ing] uniformity in the interpretation and implementation of the election laws," id. § 97.012(1), and certifying "the names of all duly qualified candidates for nomination or election who have qualified with the Department of State," § 99.061(6), Fla. Stat. The Department of State will also be responsible for defending any legal challenges to the new congressional redistricting map. In deciding whether to exercise my veto power once the Legislature's congressional redistricting bill is presented to me, and how best to faithfully implement the law if enacted, I now seek your "opinion . . . as to the interpretation of [a] portion of [the] constitution" that applies to the congressional redistricting process. Art. IV, § 1(c), Fla. Const. Such an opinion is both necessary and appropriate in this instance.

First, the once-in-a-decade congressional redistricting process is a unique circumstance: it is required by the U.S. Constitution, and it must be completed before upcoming congressional elections. With the qualifying period for election to the U.S. House of Representatives quickly approaching, the voters and candidates have a pressing need for certainty regarding the meaning of the State's non-diminishment standard. See § 99.061(9), Fla. Stat.; https://dos.myflorida.com /elections/candidates-committees/qualifying/. In contrast, most legislation is neither constitutionally mandated nor of the sort where prolonged uncertainty regarding the meaning of such text may adversely affect the State's elections. See League of Women Voters of Fla. v.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Detzner, 172 So. 3d 363, 372 (Fla. 2015) ("Apportionment VII") ("We emphasize the time-sensitive nature of these proceedings, with candidate qualifying for the 2016 congressional elections now less than a year away . . . ."). I make my request in the spirit of seeking as much guidance as possible from you consistent with "[t]his Court['s] . . . obligation to provide certainty to candidates and voters regarding the legality of the state's congressional districts." League of Women Voters of Fla. v. Detzner, 179 So. 3d 258, 262 (Fla. 2015) ("Apportionment VIII") (citation and internal quotation marks omitted).

Second, I am aware that on one occasion well over a century ago, the members of this Court declined to opine on a constitutional question in aid of my predecessor's exercise of the veto power. See In re Exec. Commc'n, 6 So. 925 (Fla. 1887). Notwithstanding that the Florida Constitution assigns to the Executive the power to approve or veto legislation, see Art. III, § 8, Fla. Const., this Court concluded that "any act which is an essential prerequisite" to the enactment of a law "is legislative" and is performed by the Executive "as a part of the lawmaking power." In re Exec. Commc'n, 6 So. at 925. This reasoning, which you are not bound to follow, see In re Advisory Opinion of Governor Civil Rights, 306 So. 2d 520, 523 (Fla. 1975), conflicts with the separation of powers enshrined in Article II, Section 3 of the Florida Constitution, and I respectfully request that you give the 1887 response no weight.

In particular, the Florida Constitution vests the State's legislative power in the Florida Legislature. See Art. III, § 1, Fla. Const. It follows, therefore, that the Governor's exercise of what the Constitution characterizes as the power of "[e]xecutive approval and veto," Art. III, § 8, Fla. Const., is not a legislative power. Rather, the veto power is an executive check on the legislative power; "[e]ach branch of the government necessarily at times, either by express provision of the Constitution or in the orderly administration of the state's affairs, comes in contact with one or the other branch, but such contact in n[o]wise merges the functions of one into that of the other." Amos v. Gunn, 94 So. 615, 627–28 (Fla. 1922) (Ellis, J., on pet. for reh'g). This Court's more recent opinions thus acknowledge that the exercise of the veto is an executive power.[1]

[1] See, e.g., Chiles v. Child. A, B, C, D, E, & F, 589 So. 2d 260, 264 (Fla. 1991) ("Article III, section 8 sets forth the procedure for the executive power to approve or veto legislation of both nonappropriations and appropriations bills."); Brown v. Firestone, 382 So. 2d 654, 672 (Fla. 1980) ("We hold further that the vetoes identified herein as 2, 4, 5 and 6 are valid as being within the purview of the executive power granted by article III, section 8(a)[.]"); Owens v. State, 316 So. 2d 537, 538 n.4 (Fla. 1975) ("Although article IV of the constitution deals with the executive branch, the placement of a legislative power in one subsection of that article does not render the delegated power nugatory. The placement is functional, as with executive powers conferred in the judicial article (art. V, [§] 11) and in the legislative article (art. III, [§] 8)."); In re Advisory Opinion to the Governor, 239 So. 2d 1, 9 (Fla. 1970) ("The Legislature may not validly so draft a general appropriations bill as to unduly and unreasonably preclude the exercise of the executive power to 'veto any specific appropriation in a general appropriation bill.'" (quoting Art. III, § 8(a), Fla. Const.)); see also Green v. Rawls, 122 So. 2d 10, 13 (Fla. 1960) ("[U]nder our tripartite division of the powers of government, and the checks and balances designed to be accomplished thereby, the chief executive must have the power and the opportunity to veto

Third, the question affecting my executive powers and duties concerns Article III, Section 20(a) of the Florida Constitution, which provides that:

> No apportionment plan or individual district shall be drawn with the intent to favor or disfavor a political party or an incumbent; and districts shall not be drawn with the intent or result of denying or abridging the equal opportunity of racial or language minorities to participate in the political process or to diminish their ability to elect representatives of their choice; and districts shall consist of contiguous territory.

Art. III, § 20(a), Fla. Const. (emphasis added). I limit my request to the phrase "diminish their ability to elect representatives of their choice"—the State's non-diminishment standard. Except where it may be necessary to inform your interpretation of the Florida Constitution, I do not ask for your opinion on any issues of federal law. Cf. In re Senate Joint Resolution of Legislative Apportionment 1176, 83 So. 3d 597, 620-21 (Fla. 2012) ("Apportionment I") (recognizing that the non-diminishment standard borrows from § 5 of the Voting Rights Act but "nonetheless recogniz[ing] our independent constitutional obligation to interpret our own state constitutional provisions").

Specifically, I ask whether the Florida Constitution's non-diminishment standard mandates a sprawling congressional district in northern Florida that stretches hundreds of miles from East to West solely to connect black voters in Jacksonville with black voters in Gadsden and Leon Counties (with few in between) so that they may elect candidates of their choice, even without a majority. This Court has previously suggested that the answer is "yes." Apportionment VIII, 179 So. 3d at 271 ("Although District 5 was required to be drawn from East to West, no specific configuration was mandated in Apportionment VII," and this Court did not "specify a certain Black Voting Age Population (BVAP) or black share of registered Democrats as a 'floor' below which the ability of black voters to elect a candidate of choice was certain to be diminished.").

In 2015, this Court rejected a North-South configuration of the district that ran from Jacksonville to Orlando. The Court held that the North-South version had been unconstitutionally tainted by partisan and other improper influences and that such a configuration was not "necessary to avoid diminishing the ability of black voters to elect a candidate of their choice." Apportionment VII, 172 So. 3d at 403. Consequently, the Court adopted the East-West configuration that exists today. Id. at 405–06. In so doing, this Court acknowledged that this configuration was not a "model of compactness," id. at 406 (internal quotation marks omitted), but nevertheless concluded that it was "visually less 'unusual' and 'bizarre' than the meandering North-South version," id., and that it would not "diminish the ability of black voters to elect a candidate of their choice," id. at 405. This Court indicated that the non-compact shape of the East-West district was nevertheless necessary because of "geography" and "other constitutional legislative action, subject to the power of the legislature to override the executive veto by the vote of a specified number of the legislature.").

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

requirements such as ensuring that the apportionment plan does not deny the equal opportunity of racial or language minorities to participate in the political process or diminish their ability to elect representatives of their choice." Id. at 406 (citation omitted).

This Court's prior guidance, however, pre-dates relevant decisions from the U.S. Supreme Court. In 2017, the U.S. Supreme Court made clear that where "racial considerations predominate[] over others, the design of the district must withstand strict scrutiny." Cooper v. Harris, 137 S. Ct. 1455, 1464 (2017). To satisfy this test, and thus pass muster under the Fourteenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, a state must "prove that its race-based sorting of voters serves a 'compelling interest' and is 'narrowly tailored' to that end." Id. (citations omitted). While the U.S. Supreme Court "has long assumed that one compelling interest is complying with operative provisions of the Voting Rights Act," a state must show "that it had 'a strong basis in evidence'" to conclude that the Act required race-based sorting of voters. Id. (citation omitted). In Cooper, North Carolina did not meet its burden when arguing that compliance with § 2 of the Voting Rights Act served as a compelling reason. Id. at 1469–72. Specifically, North Carolina could not satisfy § 2's threshold conditions: (1) that the "minority group" was "sufficiently large and geographically compact to constitute a majority" in a reasonably compact legislative district, (2) that the minority group was "politically cohesive," and (3) that the district's majority group voted "sufficiently as a bloc" to "defeat the minority's preferred candidate." Id. at 1470 (quoting Thornburg v. Gingles, 478 U.S. 30, 50–51 (1986)).

If this Court advises that the non-diminishment standard does not specifically require that an East-West district be drawn to connect minority voters in Jacksonville with minority voters in Leon and Gadsden Counties, I nevertheless request guidance on what the non-diminishment standard does require. Specifically, I ask whether the Florida Constitution's non-diminishment standard requires that congressional districts be drawn to connect minority populations from distant and distinct geographic areas if doing so would provide the assembled minority group sufficient voting strength (although not a majority of the proposed district) to elect a candidate of its choice. Or, conversely, does the non-diminishment standard merely require that a minority population in a reasonably cohesive geographic area, where the population is not a majority but is nevertheless large enough to elect candidates of its choice, continue to be able to elect such candidates?

Relatedly, to make sense of the non-diminishment standard, I ask for clarification from this Court on what constitutes a proper benchmark for determining whether a minority group's ability to elect a candidate of its choice has been diminished. This Court has said that the "existing plan of a covered jurisdiction serves as the 'benchmark' against which the 'effect' of voting changes is measured.'" Apportionment I, 83 So. 3d at 624 (citation omitted). But is that so even if the district in the existing plan was designed solely to cobble together enough minority voters from distant and distinct geographic areas to elect candidates of their choice despite not constituting a majority? Or must the benchmark be confined to the minority population in a reasonably cohesive geographic area?

Florida's non-diminishment standard—like the Voting Rights Act's non-diminishment standard—is a potent, race-based solution to a race-based problem. I ask for your opinion to help me be sufficiently conscious of race to comply with the Florida Constitution's anti-diminishment provision but avoid being so conscious of race that my actions could violate the U.S. and Florida Constitutions.

Because the U.S. Supreme Court's decisions inform, but do not definitively resolve, issues of state law, I ask for you to exercise your "independent constitutional obligation" to interpret Florida law, id. at 621, and to guide me in exercising my executive powers as Governor. See Art. III, § 8, Fla. Const.; Art. IV, § 1(a), Fla. Const. I respectfully request your assistance as expeditiously as possible given that March 11, 2022, is the last day of the legislative session and candidates for the U.S. House of Representatives will need to qualify under a new map in June.

Thank you for your consideration.

Respectfully submitted,

Ron DeSantis

II. Present Situation:

Please see "Effect of Proposed Changes."

III. Effect of Proposed Changes:

Investigations of Violations of Election Laws (Sections 1, 20, and 21)

Present Situation

Current law vests jurisdiction to investigate and determine violations of chs. 104 and 106, F.S., in the Florida Elections Commission, but does not limit the jurisdiction of any other officers or agencies of government empowered by law to investigate, act upon, or dispose of alleged violations of the Election Code.[1]

In addition, the Secretary of State's duties include:

- Maintaining a voter fraud hotline; and
- Conducting preliminary investigations into any irregularities or fraud involving voter registration, voting, candidate petition, or issue petition activities and reporting his or her findings to the statewide prosecutor or relevant state attorney, if warranted.[2]

Current law also authorizes the governor to appoint special officers to investigate alleged violations of election laws, when it is deemed necessary to see that violators of election laws are apprehended and punished.[3] In addition, the sheriff must exercise vigilance in the detection of any violations of the election laws and in apprehending the violators.

Effect of Proposed Changes

The bill creates an Office of Election Crimes and Security (office) within the Department of State (DOS) to aid the Secretary of State in completion of his or her existing duties by:

- Receiving and reviewing notices and reports generated by government officials or any other person regarding alleged occurrences of election law violations or election irregularities;
- Initiating independent inquiries and conducting preliminary investigations into allegations of election law violations or election irregularities; and
- Overseeing the voter fraud hotline.

The bill provides that the office shall:

[1] Section 106.25(1), F.S.
[2] Sections 97.021(12) and (15), F.S.
[3] Section 102.091, F.S.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Have a director appointed by the Secretary of State;
- Be based in Tallahassee;
- Employ nonsworn investigators to conduct any investigations;
- Obtain any positions and resources necessary to accomplish its duties via the legislative appropriations process.

The bill specifies that its provisions do not limit the jurisdiction of any other office or agency of the state empowered by law to investigate, act upon, or dispose of alleged election law violations.

Regarding special officers, the bill:
- Requires the governor to, in consultation with the executive director of the Florida Department of Law Enforcement (FDLE), appoint special officers to investigate alleged violations of election laws.
- Requires a special officer to be a sworn special agent employed by the FDLE and specifies that at least one special officer in each operational region of the FDLE must be dedicated to the investigation of election laws.
- Provides that appointment as a special officer does not preclude a sworn special agent from conducting other investigations as long as such other investigations do not hinder or interfere with investigations of alleged violations of election laws.
- Adds special officers to the existing list of law enforcement officials who are prohibited from entering a polling place without permission from the clerk or a majority of the inspectors.[4]

The bill requires the DOS to annually report to the governor, the Senate President, and the House Speaker the following information related to investigations of alleged election law violations or election irregularities:
- The total number of complaints received and independent investigations initiated and the number referred to another agency for further investigation or prosecution, including the total of those sent to a special officer.
- For each violation or irregularity investigated, the source of the alleged violation or irregularity; the law allegedly violated or the nature of the irregularity reported; the county in which it occurred; whether it was referred to another agency for further investigation or prosecution, and if so, to which agency; and the current status of the investigation or resulting criminal case.

Prohibition on Use of Private Donations for Election Administration Expenses (Section 2)

Present Situation

Current law prohibits an agency or state or local official responsible for conducting elections from soliciting, accepting, or using any donation from an individual or nongovernmental entity for the purpose of funding election-related expenses or voter education, outreach, or registration programs.[5]

Effect of Proposed Changes

[4] See s. 102.101, F.S.
[5] Section 97.0291, F.S.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The bill expands the prohibition to apply to any type of election administration-related expense, specifically including, but not limited to, the cost of any related litigation.

Fines Imposed on Third-Party Voter Registration Organizations (Section 4)

Present Situation

A third-party voter registration organization is any person, entity, or organization soliciting or collecting voter registration applications, but does not include:

- A person who seeks only to register to vote or collect a voter registration application from that person's spouse, child, or parent; or
- A person engaged in registering to vote or collecting voter registration applications as an employee or agent of the Division of Elections within the DOS, supervisor of elections (supervisor), Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles (DHSMV), or a voter registration agency[6].[7]

An organization that collects voter registration applications must deliver each application to the Division of Elections or the supervisor in the county in which the applicant resides within 14 days after the application was completed by the applicant, but not after registration closes for the next ensuing election.[8] If an organization fails to meet the deadline, it is liable for specified fines. The aggregate fine which may be assessed against an organization, including affiliate organizations, for violations committed in a calendar year is $1,000.[9]

Effect of Proposed Changes

The bill increases the calendar-year fine cap to $50,000.

Voter Registration List Maintenance (Sections 5, 6, 7, and 8)

Present Situation

Current law requires each supervisor to conduct a general voter registration list maintenance program (program) to ensure accurate and current voter registration records.[10] Each program must be conducted, at a minimum, in each odd-numbered year and must be completed no later than 90 days prior to the start of any federal election,[11] as required by the National Voter Registration Act.

Each supervisor must incorporate in the program one or more of the following options for identifying change-of-address information:

- Information supplied by the U.S. Postal Service;

[6] A voter registration agency is any office that provides public assistance, any office that serves persons with disabilities, any center for independent living, or any public library (s. 97.021(44), F.S.).

- Information identified from returned nonforwardable return-if-undeliverable mail sent to all registered voters in the county; or
- Information identified from returned nonforwardable return-if-undeliverable address confirmation requests[12] mailed to all registered voters who have not voted in the last two years and who did not make a written request that their registration records be updated during that time.[13]

Current law also requires the DOS to engage in list maintenance activities to ensure the maintenance of accurate and current voter registration records.[14] In part, those activities must include identifying registered voters who are deceased by comparing information received from either:

- The Department of Health; or
- The U.S. Social Security Administration.[15]

Certain officials are required to provide specified information to the DOS for its use in voter list maintenance activities.[16]

Effect of Proposed Changes

The bill increases the frequency with which each supervisor must conduct a program to at least once every year, beginning in January 2023. It further requires each supervisor to:

- At least once each even-numbered year, use change-of-address information from the U.S. Postal Service to update voter address information;
- At least once each odd-numbered year, send to all registered voters in the county nonforwardable return-if-undeliverable mail that requests address confirmation and solicits a Florida driver license number, Florida identification card number, and the last four digits of the social security number of each voter who does not have one such number on file; and
- At the supervisor's discretion, identify change-of-address information from returned nonforwardable return-if-undeliverable address confirmation requests mailed to all registered voters who have not voted in the last two years and who did not make a written request that their registration records be updated during that time.

The bill specifies procedures to be followed regarding which addresses should be used in the conducting of program activities.

The bill revises requirements for the address confirmation request form to require it to additionally include a voter registration application and a notice regarding penalties for submitting false voter registration information and requires the DOS to create a new identifying [12] The address confirmation request is a form prescribed by the Department of State that must include the voter's name and address of legal residence as shown on the voter registration record and a request that the voter notify the supervisor if either the voter's name or address of legal residence is incorrect (s. 98.0655, F.S.). "Address of legal residence" means the legal residential address of the elector and includes all information necessary to differentiate one residence from another, including, but not limited to, a distinguishing apartment, suite, lot, room, or dormitory room number or other identifier (s. 97.021(3), F.S.).

number solicitation form for use in requesting such a number for each voter who does not have one on file.

The bill also requires the DOS to compare information regarding deceased voters from both the DOH and the U.S. Social Security Administration and adds the DHSMV as an agency with which the DOS must compare information.

Relating to duties of officials to furnish information to the DOS, the bill requires:
- Each clerk of court to monthly report to the DOS information on the terms of sentence, including any financial obligations, of all persons listed in the clerk's records who reside within this state and have been convicted of a felony.
- The DHSMV to monthly report to the DOS specified information pertaining to persons who presented evidence of non-U.S. citizenship upon being issued a new or renewed Florida driver license or Florida identification card.[17]

Vote-by-Mail Ballots (Sections 11, 14, 16, 23, 25, and 26)

Present Situation
Florida law allows an elector to request a vote-by-mail (VBM) ballot to be used in lieu of voting at the polls during early voting or on Election Day. An elector does not need to provide a reason for a VBM ballot request.

Any person who distributes, orders, requests, collects, delivers, or otherwise physically possesses more than two VBM ballots per election in addition to his or her own ballot or a ballot belonging to an immediate family members commits a first-degree felony.[18]

Current law requires a supervisor to enclose with each mailed VBM ballot two envelopes:
- A secrecy envelope, into which the absent elector shall enclose his or her marked ballot; and
- A mailing envelope, into which the absent elector shall then place the secrecy envelope.[19]

The mailing envelope in which an absent elector sends back a marked VBM ballot must bear on the back side a Voter's Certificate via which the elector must affirm with a signature that he or she is a qualified and registered voter of the relevant county and that he or she has not and will not vote more than one ballot in the election.[20] The Voter's Certificate also contains spaces for each voter to provide his or her email address and telephone numbers and the date the certificate was signed.

When returned VBM ballots are being counted, a duplicate must be made and substituted for any ballot:
- That is physically damaged so that it cannot properly be tabulated by the voting system's automatic tabulating equipment;

[17] Specifically, the bill requires that the DHSMV report for each person his or her name; address; date of birth; social security number, if applicable; and Florida driver license number or Florida identification card number.
[18] Section 104.0616(2), F.S. "Immediate family" means a person's spouse or the parent, child, grandparent, grandchild, or sibling of the person or the person's spouse (s. 104.0616(1), F.S.).

- That contains an overvoted race; or
- In which every race is undervoted.[21]

The duplicate copies must be made in the presence of witnesses and include all valid votes as determined by the canvassing board based on rules adopted by the division. Upon request, a physically present candidate, a political party official, a political committee official, or an authorized designee thereof must be allowed to observe the duplication of ballots.[22]

If an elector returns a VBM ballot that does not include a signature or contains a signature that does not match the one in the registration books or precinct register, the supervisor must notify the elector of the signature deficiency and direct the elector to the cure affidavit[23] and instructions on the supervisor's website.[24] Along with the cure affidavit, the elector must submit a copy of one of a specified list of acceptable identifications.[25]

During canvassing of VBM ballots, a canvassing board must, if the supervisor has not already done so, compare the elector's signature on the voter's certificate or the ballot cure affidavit with the elector's signature in the registration books or the precinct register. A VBM ballot may only be counted if:

- The signature on the voter's certificate or the cure affidavit matches the signature in the registration books or precinct register;[26] or
- The cure affidavit contains a signature that does not match the signature in the registration books or precinct register, but the elector has submitted a current and valid "Tier 1 identification"[27] that confirms the identity of the elector.[28]

It is a third-degree felony for any supervisor, deputy supervisor, canvassing board member, election board member, or election employee to release the results of any election before the closing of the polls in that county on election day.[29]

Effect of Proposed Changes

Effective January 1, 2024, the bill requires an elector voting via VBM ballot to include on the Voter's Certificate the last four digits of his or her Florida driver license number or Florida identification card number, or, if he or she has neither, the last four digits of his or her social security number. To protect the identifying number, the bill requires an additional mailing envelope to be provided within which the certificate envelope will be enclosed.

The bill revises VBM ballot canvassing processes to incorporate the requirement that a voter include an identifying number on the Voter's Certificate.

The bill requires the DOS to submit to the Senate President and the House Speaker by January 1, 2023, a report detailing a plan to obtain a Florida driver license number or Florida identification card number and the last four digits of the social security number from each registered voter who does not have any such number on file in the Florida Voter Registration System. The plan must include, if needed, details on any funding that may be required for its completion, and must plan for its completion by December 31, 2023.

The bill increases the criminal penalty for "ballot harvesting" to a third-degree felony and specifies that it is a Level 1 offense.[30]

The bill expands the existing criminal penalty for release of election results prior to poll closing to:

- Include any person authorized to observe, review or inspect ballot materials or observe canvassing; and
- Also prohibit the release of any information about votes cast for or against any candidate or ballot measure.

The bill also requires each authorized observer of VBM ballot duplication to sign an affidavit affirming his or her acknowledgment that disclosure of election results discerned from observing the ballot duplication process while the election is ongoing is a felony.

Use of Ranked-Choice Voting (Section 10)

Present Situation

In a ranked-choice voting system (RCV), voters rank all the candidates for a given office by their preference. Ballots are tabulated in multiple rounds following the elimination of a candidate until a single candidate attains a majority.[31]

Alaska and Maine are the only states in the country to have established the use of RCV for all congressional and state elections. A number of cities across the United States also use the method for municipal elections.[32]

[30] "Level 1" is the least severe offense level in the offense severity ranking chart, which is used in conjunction with the Criminal Punishment Code worksheet to compute a sentence score for felony offenders (s. 921.0022(1) and (2), F.S.). Florida Rule of Criminal Procedure 3.704(c)(2) provides that all third-degree felonies are Level 1 offenses unless otherwise specified.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Florida statutes do not specifically address the use of RCV. They require state elections to be decided by winner-takes-all primary and general elections[33] but provide no such specification for local elections. Sarasota County voters approved RCV in a 2007 referendum, but the method has not been implemented due to concerns about voting systems and legality.[34] The City of Clearwater considered holding an RCV referendum but decided against it because the city would not be able to implement the system unless the state recognized it as a legal method.[35]

Statutorily required audits[36] and currently authorized voting systems[37] may not accommodate the use of ranked-choice voting in the state.

Effect of Proposed Changes

The bill:

- Prohibits the use of a ranked-choice voting method from being used in determining the election or the nomination of any candidate to any local, state, or federal office in this state.
- Provides that any existing or future ordinance enacted by a local governmental entity which is in conflict with the prohibition against ranked-choice voting is void.

Citizens' Initiatives (Section 9)

Present Situation

The Florida Constitution provides citizens the right to propose constitutional amendments through an initiative petition process.[38] The process includes the following signature requirements:

- The total number of signatures must be equal to at least eight percent of the number of voters in the last presidential election.
- The signatures must come from voters in at least one-half of the congressional districts of the state.[39]

The steps in the citizens' initiative petition process are as follows:

- The individual or group wishing to propose an amendment must register as a political committee with the Division of Elections (Division) within the DOS.[40]

[33] See ss. 100.061 and 100.181, F.S. In this method, also known as plurality voting, voters select one candidate per race on a ballot and the candidate that receives the most votes wins.

[36] Current law requires two post-election reports: 1) immediately after certification of each election, the county canvassing board or the local board responsible for certifying the election must conduct a manual audit or an automated, independent audit of the voting systems used in randomly selected precincts; and 2) at the end of each general election year, the supervisor of elections in each county must report the total number of overvotes and undervotes for specified races (ss. 101.591 and 101.595, F.S.).
[37] The Department of State must examine and certify a voting system before it can be used in an election (s. 101.5605, F.S.). A voting system may only be approved by the department if it meets specified criteria (s. 101.5606, F.S.).

- The sponsoring political committee must submit its initiative petition form to the Division for approval of its format.[41]
- After the Division approves the format of a petition form, the Division assigns a serial number to the initiative petition.[42]
- After assignment of a serial number, the sponsoring political committee may begin circulating petitions for signature by registered Florida voters.[43]
- Each signed initiative petition form must be submitted by the sponsoring political committee to the supervisor's office in the county of residence of the signee for signature verification.[44]
- When the sponsoring political committee has obtained specified thresholds for verified signatures,[45] the Secretary of State (Secretary) sends the petition to the Attorney General,[46] who must within 30 days of receipt petition the Florida Supreme Court (Court) for an advisory opinion as to whether the text of the proposed amendment complies with state constitutional requirements[47], whether the proposed amendment is facially invalid under the United States Constitution, and whether the proposed ballot title and substance comply with statutory requirements[48].[49] The Secretary concurrently sends a copy of the petition to the Financial Impact Estimating Conference, which completes and submits to the Court a financial impact statement for the proposed amendment.[50]
- By February 1 of the year of the general election, the Secretary determines whether the required number and distribution of signatures has been met.[51] If so, the Secretary issues a certificate of ballot position to the sponsoring political committee.[52] No later than the next day, the Division director assigns the designated number for the proposed amendment.[53]

For each initiative, each supervisor must retain signature forms for at least one year following the election in which the issue appeared on the ballot or until the Division of Elections notifies the supervisors that the committee that circulated the petition is no longer seeking to obtain ballot position.[54]

The ballot summary must be an explanatory statement, not exceeding 75 words in length, of the chief purpose of the measure. The ballot title must consist of a caption, not exceeding 15 words in length, by which the measure is commonly referred to or spoken of. However, those requirements do not apply to amendments or revisions proposed by joint resolution of the Legislature. All proposals are subject to requirements pertaining to a financial impact statement that must be included in the ballot summary.

Each supervisor must post on his or her website the aggregate number of verified valid signatures and the distribution of such signatures by congressional district for each amendment proposed by initiative, along with certain information specific to the reporting period.[55]

Effect of Proposed Changes
The bill:

- Requires each supervisor to separate valid and invalid signature forms.
- Revises the signature form retention period to at least one year following the election for which the issue was circulated.
- Requires supervisors to provide a method of viewing and copying[56] valid and invalid forms.
- Adds to website posting requirements the following information for each initiative – total number of signatures submitted, total number of invalid signatures, and total number of signatures processed.

Penalties Related to Ballot Petitions (Sections 23 and 24)

Present Situation
Current law makes it a first-degree misdemeanor to:

- Sign another person's name or a fictitious name to any petition to secure ballot position for a candidate, a minor political party, or an issue;[57] and
- To compensate a petition circulator based on number of petition forms gathered.[58]

Effect of Proposed Changes
The bill increases the criminal penalty for each of the offenses to make each a third-degree felony.

Conforming Changes (Sections 3, 12, 13, 15, 17, 18, and 19)

The bill:

- Conforms cross-references;
- Conforms all-mail-ballot election processes to the new three-envelope VBM ballot mailing system and requirement that an identifying number be included in the Voter's Certificate;
- Conforms terminology; and

B. Private Sector Impact:

Increasing the cap on the total amount of fines that may be assessed against a third-party voter registration organization in one calendar year will financially impact those organizations that do not comply with timely submission requirements for voter registration applications.

C. Government Sector Impact:

The requirement that certain special officers be dedicated to investigating election law violations and the creation of the new Office of Election Crimes and Security may require funding for additional positions.

The creation of a three-envelope mailing system for VBM ballot envelopes will result in supervisors having to pay for an additional envelope for each VBM ballot.

Increasing the frequency with which voter registration list maintenance must be conducted and requiring mailings regarding identifying numbers will increase supervisor workload and mailing costs. Requiring governmental officials and agencies to report additional information to the DOS for list maintenance purposes may increase workload for those official and agencies.

Congressional Redistricting Plans in Florida

- Consistent application among the various trade-offs results in a narrowing of some of the options previously workshopped.
- Co-equal criteria outlined in the tier-two standards of Article III, Section 20 of the Florida Constitution and the directives issued by the Committee on October 18, 2021 were balanced to be consistent and to apply similar treatment across different areas of the state.
- As with the plans previously workshopped, a functional analysis of the minority districts in each plan confirms that they do not diminish the ability for racial and language minorities to elect candidates of their choice.

MEMORANDUM

To: Mr. Jay Ferrin, Staff Director
From: Senator Ray Rodrigues, Chair
Subject: Committee Directives to Staff on Map-Drawing
Date: October 18, 2021

Senators of the Committee on Reapportionment have reviewed the census data, the features of the map-drawing application, and the relevant criteria, history, and legal standards. I believe that we have the proper foundation upon which to direct you and your staff to produce a series of maps for our consideration.

First and foremost, you are directed to the plain language of the constitution, federal law, and the judicial precedent that exists today in regards to that language. The Constitution sets forth two tiers of redistricting standards, and provides that the Tier-Two standards apply unless complying with them would conflict with the Tier-One standards or with federal law. The Tier-One standards control in the event of a conflict with Tier-Two standards, but in all other circumstances the Tier-Two standards must control the drawing of district lines. Therefore staff is directed to comply with the objective criteria outlined in Tier Two of Article III Sections 20 and 21 of the Florida Constitution, balancing them in a manner that does not establish any priority of one standard over another, unless complying with the Tier-Two standards would conflict with Tier-One standards or federal law.

In accordance with the Tier Two standard of the constitutional requirements related to equal population, you are directed to prepare Senate plans with district population deviations not to exceed 1% of the ideal population of 538,455 people, and to prepare Congressional plans with population deviations of plus or minus one person of the ideal population of 769,221 people.

To comply with the Tier Two standard related to compactness, you are directed to draw districts that are visually compact in relation to their shape and geography, and to use mathematical compactness scores where appropriate.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

To comply with the Tier Two standard related to utilizing existing political boundaries, you are directed to examine the use of county boundaries where feasible. Furthermore, you are directed to explore concepts that, where feasible, result in districts consisting of whole counties in less populated areas, and to explore concepts that, where feasible, keep districts wholly within a county in the more densely populated areas.

With respect to municipal boundaries, you are directed to explore concepts that, where feasible, keep cities whole while also considering the impermanent and changing nature of municipal boundaries.

You are further directed to examine the use of existing geographic boundaries where feasible. Specifically railways, interstates, federal and state highways, and large water bodies such as those that were deemed to be easily recognizable and readily ascertainable by Florida's Supreme Court. We recognize that these geographic features afford us an opportunity to create districts with static boundaries, and would ask that Staff present the boundary analysis report with each plan so that we can determine coincidence of districts' boundaries with these features.

Further, you are directed, when drawing compact districts consistent with the population equality requirements, and that utilize political and geographic boundaries where feasible, to confirm that the districts comply with the Tier-One constitutional standards and with federal law, specifically, that that districts are not drawn with the result of denying or abridging the equal opportunity of racial or language minorities to participate in the political process or diminish their ability to elect representatives of their choice. You are directed to conduct a functional analysis on relevant districts to confirm that any map presented for consideration by this Committee or its Select Subcommittees complies with these Tier-One requirements of the Florida Constitution and with the federal Voting Rights Act.

Regarding compliance with the Tier One standard related to the intent to favor or disfavor a political party, you are directed to draw districts without reviewing political data other than where a review of political data is required to perform an appropriate functional analysis to evaluate whether a minority group has the ability to elect representatives of choice.

To comply with the Tier One standard related to intent to favor or disfavor an incumbent, you are directly to draw districts without the use of any residence information of any sitting member of the Florida Legislature or Congress and to draw districts without regard to the preservation of existing district boundaries.

We believe that by limiting the considerations to those adopted by the citizens of Florida, this process will produce constitutionally compliant maps. While the standards that are to be considered require a balancing act it, is important to remember that the standards themselves are not optional. Choices made by staff and approved by this committee should be made based on compliance with the objective constitutional criteria.

You are directed to produce a series of plans for each of our Select Subcommittees to workshop. All plans you bring forward must comply with the complex layering of federal and state standards. You will be asked to explain the various trade-offs within the co-equal Tier Two standards presented in each plan. It is within the balancing of these tradeoffs that Senators on the committee must exercise our legislative discretion and produce a constitutionally compliant map.

If staff receives any suggestion that a plan be drafted or changed with the intent to favor or disfavor any incumbent or political party, staff is directed to disregard the suggestion entirely, document the conversation in writing, and report the conversation directly to the Senate President.

Thank you for your attention to these directives. Please notify me, as well as Chairs Bradley and Burgess when you have completed work pertinent to their respective select subcommittees so that workshops can be noticed. Again, thank you and we look forward to reviewing your work.

Only other name I can think of is Chris Coates. Former career chief of Voting Section. Former ACLU, but turned right when Obama Admin forced him to drop a voter intimidation case against a black defendant.

Popper or Hans would be better if you can get them. Chris is older now and less well-known. But I like him personally - Southern gentleman from South Carolina.

I thought of another guy you could ask to testify: Bob Popper of Judicial Watch. He was a career lawyer at DOJ and deputy chief of the Voting Section. He's litigated these cases firsthand. He's now at Judicial Watch (for better and/or worse):
