AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Good afternoon, Mrs. Perez,

I am writing to inform you that your SBDC Net research request has just gotten to me. I am forwarding you all they found on grocery stores with these five things in mind:

- GIS Report: Ring Study Analysis
- Competitors List
- Demographics
- Marketing & Advertising Resources

Please let me know if you have any questions concerning what they found or if you would like to schedule an appointment in which we can go into further detail about the subject matter. Thank you again for your patience, and I look forward to hearing from you.

Best,

Santiago Marina

Excerpt: 8 effective grocery store marketing strategies

“Establish a social media presence
According to Pew Research Center, 72% of adults in the US used at least one social media site in 2021. That means the people you want to reach are almost certainly hanging out on Facebook, Instagram, TikTok, or one of the other popular social media sites of the moment. A grocery store doesn’t need to be on every social media platform available—people won’t necessarily turn to a professional networking site like LinkedIn to connect with their local grocery store, for instance. But select some social media sites you’re confident your audience uses, and work on building a profile and connecting with customers there.
Numerous social media platforms specifically offer business profiles with features designed with brands in mind. And a few give consumers a way to leave reviews for businesses they follow on the platform. For grocers working hard to create a strong customer experience, providing customers with one more place online to share their opinion of the store can help you further build your brand reputation.
While posting to social media organically can improve your visibility, investing in paid ads can supercharge the number of people you reach. And most platforms have targeting options that let you home in on people likely to become customers based on factors such as where they live and their general interests. That helps you get a better return on investment for any money you spend on advertising on the platform.

Launch a loyalty program
Loyalty is powerful. Once a customer decides they value their relationship with your brand, they’re more likely to keep coming back—and may even spend more money with you once they do. Loyalty programs give you a way to incentivize that behavior from the customers who already like you. By offering rewards to customers based on how often they shop with you or how much they spend, you make them feel better about the money they’re spending at your store, as well as their overall relationship with your brand.
Another benefit of offering a loyalty program is that customers who join are opting in to an ongoing relationship with your business. They’re telling you they want to hear from you, and it can double as a way to build up your email list, which is important for our next strategy.”

Excerpt: How to Make Your Grocery Store Succeed

“Enhancing Customer Experience
A memorable shopping experience is key to retaining customers and making your store succeed. In a market flooded with options, your customers’ feelings in your store can decide what to buy.

- Store Layout and Design: Your store’s layout should be intuitive and inviting. Clear signage, well-organized aisles, and an appealing ambiance enhance the shopping experience.
- Personalization: Personalized service can include greeting customers by name, remembering their preferences, or providing recommendations based on their purchase history. This level of personalization makes customers feel valued and increases loyalty.
- Quality Customer Service: Train your staff to be friendly, knowledgeable, and responsive. Excellent customer service can turn a one-time visitor into a regular customer.”

Excerpt: 8 Practical Marketing Ideas for Small Grocery Stores

“1. Locally Grown Produce

It’s no secret that consumers are savvier now than ever before. Organic food is on trend, there’s a ‘protein version’ of so many foods, and people want fresh, healthy meals. Locally grown produce is better for the environment. It doesn’t need to be preserved and delivered from elsewhere. Clever slogans like ‘farm to table’ entice shoppers to buy food that they believe is healthier.

When setting up your store, try making local produce a feature. Have a dedicated section, and make a big deal out of it. It feels more special and will draw attention.

Think about your local community, too. Is it multicultural? For example, if you have a large Mexican community in your neighborhood, you could have a section dedicated to Mexican culture and cooking.

2. Effective In-Store Advertising

Customers are inspired when they’re shopping. Sure, they might have a list of things they need to buy, but with effective in-store marketing, you can encourage them to try something new. Cleverly placed advertisements draw attention to deals and offers – think custom posters and banners.

With a modern grocery POS system, you can use inventory reports to see what sells well in your store, and advertise those products in easy-to-see and easy-to-reach places. And what isn’t selling well? You might entice shoppers to buy those goods by offering "everything must go" deals.

You can also use your POS system to offer mix and match pricing and advertise those deals. For example, a sandwich costs $4, a bag of chips is $1, and a soda is $2. Instead of charging $7, you offer a discount and charge $5. Consumers are drawn to deals, and you encourage them to buy all three items for a small discount.

3. Seasonal Campaigns and Trends

In addition to ongoing marketing campaigns, you can take advantage of seasonality. You can create marketing campaigns around Easter, Mother’s Day, Father’s Day, Thanksgiving, and, as we mentioned earlier, holidays that mean something to your local community.

Smaller grocery stores can do this well. With smaller stores comes fewer opportunities to steal shoppers' attention, but you can use that to your advantage. You might not have a huge budget to produce marketing materials for every occasion, but you can cleverly place seasonal offers and products for maximum effect.

Similarly, look for trends. Use inventory data to see what’s selling well, what isn’t, and why. Is it the time of year? Is this normal for your store? Tap into what your customers want. Using seasonal and other trends to inform orders and inventory management will boost profits, and your customers will be happy that what they want is in stock.

4. Email Marketing

Great POS systems allow you to gather customer data for marketing purposes. By capturing email addresses, you can get to know your customers and have a point of contact to send newsletters, deals, promotions, and coupons.

It’s important not to spam your customers with deals and offers on products they don’t want or need. It’s equally important to personalize offers to your customers. For example, you could provide money-off coupons on a few products a customer buys regularly. You can also use previous purchases and preferences to create relevant offers.

Let your customers know about new product lines, seasonal produce offers, and any changes you’re making. They won’t know about deals and offers if you don’t tell them. You might even send recipes and cooking tips encouraging shoppers to buy certain products.”

Excerpt: 12 Methods Marketing Leaders Can Use To Reach Underrepresented Groups

“Meet Them On Their Turf
The most important thing for a marketing department to do is to meet the group on their turf. Marketing efforts fail, look inauthentic, pander and come across as ploys if created from an ethnocentric point of view. If you are serious about it, immerse yourself in it. - Mollie Barnett, The SMART Co.
Just Listen
It’s often as simple as listening to those groups for insights. For example, one of my organization’s biggest launches this year centered around the need for chronic condition communities among our audiences. The better you understand the needs and challenges of underrepresented communities, the better you can craft a message that resonates and utilizes the right channels to engage them. - Alyssa Kopelman, Healthline Media”

Excerpt: 10 Winning Strategies for Promoting Your Grocery Store

“Marketing Strategies & Promotional Ideas for Grocery Stores

With all that in mind, we give you our 10 favorite ideas for marketing strategies and promotions, which can address a number of short and long-term goals:

Strategy #1: Social Media Outreach

Your customers are online a lot. Are you? If you are, what message are you sending your customers? AKA, are you… boring? Straightforward? Online but not engaged? Check out these major fast food brands, for instance, who are making a splash on social media. They’re witty, funny, engaging with customers, and staying relevant.

Social media posts might not seem like a big deal, but these small, daily reminders of in-store offerings are a great way to influence customers. As a grocery store, social media is a simple, cost-effective way to advertise what’s going on in your store – special deals, holiday hours, events – or even highlight staff to make customers feel like a part of your shop’s community.

Strategy #2: Get Local

Plastic straws are being banned around the U.S. Farmers markets are popping up in cities and small towns alike. This push towards sustainable, eco-friendly living is making its way into more and more households every day. As a grocery store, you can join the movement by offering local foods in stores, from fruits and veggies, to eggs, meats and cheeses –anything really that fits in your "local" parameter.

Utilize social media to spotlight these local offerings. For instance, is it blueberry season and you've just brought out perfectly plump, juicy pints of 'em? Let your customers know!

Strategy #3: Branded, Reusable Shopping Bags

In line with the sustainable movement, offering branded, reusable shopping bags is a must. More folks are ditching paper and plastic bags in favor of these eco-friendly options. Not only does this help the environment, but it helps to get eyes on your business logo when shoppers use their tote in other places around town. Don't forget – the more bags are used, the less money you spend on plastic or brown bags.

Keep your grocery bags at check-out lanes where customers can easily see and buy them. You may also consider adding an incentive for folks using them, like these stores are already doing."

CHAPTER 5

BUILDING YOUR MARKETING MACHINE

As we have seen, many business owners tap in the dark when it comes to marketing their businesses, without having any structure, which makes their approach very scattered and ineffective. In this chapter we'll get working on building your entire marketing system, a cohesive plan taking into account all the elements needed to grow your business.

Understanding your audience

Before you build out your entire marketing system, let's deep-dive into understanding your audience first. Without this knowledge, your marketing funnels won't be as effective.

The best marketing communication is when your words equal your ideal customers' thoughts. Truly understanding your audiences is one of the most important elements of your social media strategy.

Truly understanding your audiences is one of the most important elements of your social media strategy.

Rather than tapping in the dark when publishing content, hoping that something

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002801

Ask yourself the following questions:

- What problems are you solving for your customers?
- Why are your customers coming to you? What outcomes are they hoping to achieve?
- What are some of their unspoken desires and frustrations? What are they secretly worried about?
- What are their emotional triggers? What makes them tick?

The deeper you go and the more you understand your audience at a psychological level, the easier it will be to create social media content that will resonate with them.

Keep adding to your matrix as you gain insights. This is a valuable document that will keep evolving as your business and audiences evolve. So keep this document updated and if you have team members, get them to collaborate on this. At Basic Bananas we keep adding to our matrix so we can provide content that is relevant, desired and useful for business owners.

How to research your audiences

There are many ways to get audience intel and to discover people's emotional triggers. Here are my three favourite ones.

Speak to people

Speak to people? Yes! This is one of the best ways to get customer intel! Pick up the phone and speak to your customers. It's also a great way for you to show that you really care about them.

Here's a possible phone script:

Hi Rudy, it's Jodie here from xyz. Thank you so much for working with us/buying our product/service. We are always looking for ways to provide even more value, so I was wondering if you could help me with a few quick questions:

– What do you love most about working with us? Why do you use our products/ services? What outcomes do you get?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- What are you most frustrated about when it comes to <insert industry>?

- What is one thing we could improve?

This information will come in very handy when you create your brand strategy in chapter 6.

> Pro tip
> When listening to your customers, pay attention to their language and use their words. Don't summarise or paraphrase your findings in your matrix. Write their thoughts down exactly as you hear them and then use their language.

Surveys

Surveys are another great way to find out more about your customers. Use a free survey tool such as SurveyMonkey.com to set up your questionnaire. When using a digital survey, make sure to make it really easy for your customers to fill in. Don't ask too many open-ended questions and be very specific.

A question worded as What is one thing we could do to improve? will get you a much better response rate than What could we improve? Anyone can think of one thing.

You can use the questions shared in the phone script above in your surveys too.

Analytics

All social media platforms have really great in-built analytics that show you where your audience is located, their age groups, interests, and so on. This information is powerful and will not only help you understand who is attracted to your business but also what kind of content works for your business.

Once you've started compiling this information, use the notes in the Desires vs Frustrations Matrix to create social media content. Remember, you want your words to equal your market's thoughts. If you manage to do this through your communication, your followers will connect with you at a deeper level, stay loyal and hopefully tell all their friends about you.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Pro tip

A major mistake many people make when it comes to marketing communication is that they 'talk' or write to a business instead of a human.

Any type of communication is always human to human, not business to business or business to human. When creating content, remember that there is a person behind the screen reading your words. Write with that person in mind.

The Online Eco-System

A lot of businesses have a 'leaky bucket', which means customers are abandoning the business before getting to the point of purchasing its products or services. Instead of becoming your customer, they buy from someone else.

The Online Eco-System is a proven framework for helping you create a marketing machine for your business without holes in it so you get the most out of your social media efforts. The Online Eco-System framework is illustrated in figure 5.2 (overleaf).

As part of your Online Eco-System, there are four key marketing funnels I recommend setting up:

- opt-in or lead funnel
- nurture funnel
- sales funnel
- reactivation funnel.

You can download examples of these funnels from the website.

The Online Eco-System is a proven framework for helping you create a marketing machine for your business without holes in it so you get the most out of your social media efforts.

I have highlighted the funnels in bold for you below so you can see how they fit in as you go through the Online Eco-System. And don't worry, you don't need to manually send any pieces of communication. A database-management or customer-relationship management system (CRM) can help you automate parts of this process. If you don't have a CRM yet, I highly recommend you get one. It will make the implementation of your marketing system and tracking of your activities so much easier. There are many great CRM systems out there, so just use what works for you. You can find the one we use in our businesses on the website. You'll also find the Online Eco-System video program there.

Let's walk through the Online Eco-System to help you avoid the 'leaky bucket' syndrome.

There are five major parts to the Online Eco-System: your website, traffic, conversions, relationships and reactivation.

Your website

Your website is the centrepiece of your online marketing strategy. Every business needs a great website to inform, educate and engage with current,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

past and future customers. And by great I mean visually appealing, user-friendly and functional.

You want your website to work for you even when you're busy sipping cocktails at the beach.

Here's what your website should do for you.

Inform, educate and engage

When people hear about your business, what's often the first thing they do to check you out? They go to your website. Potential customers visit your website to get informed. So your website needs to focus on engaging the 'right' kind of customer and helping them make the decision to work with you.

Your website is like a hub of great information that connects with your audiences and moves them closer towards a sale with you. It's often the first or second point of contact and the start of, hopefully, a long-lasting relationship.

One of the biggest mistakes most businesses make is to use their website to merely talk about themselves without ever mentioning who their customers are or what problems they are solving for them.

When writing or rewriting the copy for your website, focus on your customers. Grab your customer matrix and ask yourself: What are their needs? What are their frustrations? How do I help them solve those needs and frustrations?

Generate leads

Another very important function of your website is to generate leads—that is, to identify potential future customers. The best way to do this is by providing valuable content, insights and information your ideal customers want to receive.

Your website is a brilliant way to capture people's details in return for something valuable so that you can then nurture that relationship. Remember, marketing is similar to dating: some people will need more courting than others before they trust and buy from you.

Your focus on providing helpful content and building goodwill will help you to convert prospects into customers.

Your focus on providing helpful content and building goodwill will help you to convert prospects into customers.

Drive sales

Some websites are set up as e-commerce sites with the option to shop straight on the site. However, not every business is able to sell its products or services on its website. Think higher end offerings where customers generally take a bit longer to make a decision and require more high-touch communication.

An average sales conversion on an e-commerce website is only around 2 per cent, depending on the quality of the traffic. What happens with the 98 per cent of people who are not ready to buy just yet? Rather than missing out on them, you should offer them a 'first (low-key) date' or 'opt in' (which I talk about further down under 'Conversions'), which provides value and is a first step towards building trust and staying top of mind.

Re-market

Have you ever visited a website and admired those really cool high-top sneakers but didn't buy them because you've already got five other pairs? So you abandon the website with the best intentions not to buy them, but suddenly see those same sneakers pop up on other websites only to remind you of how cool they are.

That's called re-marketing. It's a very effective marketing strategy because you are only showing your ads to people who have already shown interest in your product or service.

Re-marketing is highly targeted and can yield very high returns. When someone visits a specific product page on your website but doesn't buy, they are shown an ad highlighting the benefits of this product.

Setting up re-marketing ads is relatively easy. We use a tool called Perfect Audience. If you'd like to play with this tool, visit our website and type in 'perfect audience' and you'll get $100 credit.

Traffic

A website without traffic or visitors is not very useful and won't help you to grow your business. It's like having a shop without anyone coming in. And even if you have the most stunning website in the universe, it's not guaranteed that people will swing by unless you drive traffic.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

There are many different marketing strategies you can use to drive traffic to your website, both free and paid. Social media is a brilliant way to get people to your website.

Other marketing strategies that can work well for businesses wanting to increase traffic include direct mail, strategic partnerships, Google advertising, native ads, re-marketing, free publicity, content marketing, sponsorship and influencer marketing.

Just like foot traffic coming into your shop, it doesn't help if potential customers merely look at your products without buying. For your business to survive and thrive, you need prospects to become customers.

Conversions

Once your visitors are on your website, your next aim is to convert as many of the 'right ones' as possible into either warm leads or customers.

Your first date (or 'opt in')

Many prospects will need more time and nurturing to fall in love with your business. So rather than missing out on everyone who is not willing to purchase straight away, you need to add value. Stay in touch and be in front of your prospects in order for them to build trust and ultimately buy from you.

The purpose of your 'first date' or 'opt in' on your website is to provide value in return for someone's email address. You might wonder, but aren't emails dead? Far from it! Email marketing is still going strong. But there's a big but! A first date or lead magnet only works if you have something worthwhile to share. Nobody wants to receive annoying emails or newsletters.

Social media is a brilliant tool for generating leads and moving people from those platforms into your own eco-system.

What would be something you could give away to your prospects that would be of amazing value for them?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Here are a few examples of first dates that are working really well for our members:

- an e-commerce business that encourages first buyers by offering a voucher. For example, 'Download your ten-dollar voucher to redeem on your first purchase' or 'Join the xyz fashion club to receive a 10 per cent discount on all of our products'
- a travel agency giving away a travel guide on the 10 most amazing and secret travel destinations
- an author offering the first chapter of their book for free
- a fitness studio gifting intro passes.

First dates help businesses to stay in touch with and nurture prospects. Someone might download an intro pass at a studio and then take a few weeks or even months to muster the courage to finally join the gym. Being able to stay in touch with prospects and providing valuable information is what will make them choose you over your competitors once they're ready to commit. You want to own the decision-making period.

To automate this, create an opt-in funnel in your database-management system.

Sales

As mentioned earlier, if you have an e-commerce website, a small percentage of your visitors will buy your products and services. A small percentage of the ones that don't buy will opt in and potentially come back to purchase later.

This is where you need a sales funnel.

Relationships

Business is all about building relationships, regardless of whether or not people buy from you now or in the future. Once you've got someone in your community, provide so much value that you blow their minds and they will never want to leave. You want them to walk away from every interaction thinking that your business is so amazing that they want to tell everyone about it.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

This is where you need a nurture funnel to help you stay in touch with your prospects and customers. The focus here is on adding value and sharing content that is useful to your prospects.

Depending on your business, your touchpoints can include emails, text messages, phone calls and direct mail.

A very common question I get asked is 'How often should you stay in touch with your audience?' Only as often as you have something to say. Quality over quantity. Don't just send your contacts stuff for the sake of it. Before hitting 'send' on an email or calling someone, ask yourself Is this adding value? and Would I appreciate receiving this piece of communication if I were a prospect? There's enough noise out there. Don't add to it.

Another question is 'How long should you stay in touch with your audience?' Forever! Or until they decide to opt out of your communication.

Reactivation

In the previous step, your focus was on nurturing and building relationships by providing value. Every now and then you need to invite people to spend money with you.

Use the 80/20 rule here: 80 per cent of the time, provide value; 20 per cent of the time, let your customers and prospects know that they are welcome to buy from you.

Let them know when you have a new product launch, a customer event or a special offer. Invite them to work with you.

This is where a reactivation funnel comes in handy. Map out your reactivation campaign and put it into a funnel.

As you can see, social media fits in at the top end of your Online Eco-System. Your social media channels will help you to gain exposure, engage with your audience, drive traffic to your website and increase sales. Instead of dropping the ball or having a 'leaky bucket', move people through your eco-system to get the maximum return on your investment.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Understanding this is so important. You need an integrated approach with each piece of the puzzle working hand in hand so you can gain momentum.

The customer journey

One more concept I'd like to share with you before I introduce you to the Brand Alchemy Method in chapter 6 is the customer journey (see figure 5.3).

Every future customer treads a slightly different path from the moment they first find you to the time they begin spending money with you. This is what we call the customer journey, and social media can play a big role in this.

For example, a prospect might find you on Facebook, check out your website, then read some of your recommendations on LinkedIn and sign up to receive your emails before they decide to do business with you. By having the Online Eco-System in place, you can avoid the 'leaky bucket'.

Someone else might find your business through a referral, then go to your website, click on your social media pages, and so on.

Every customer journey is different, and they vary in duration depending on three things:

- the person's buying behaviour
- the urgency of their need
- your type of business.

CHAPTER 6

CREATING YOUR BRAND STRATEGY

Brilliant branding will help you differentiate yourself and stand out in the social media crowd. Your brand strategy will guide your communication and ensure you have consistency across all touchpoints, which leads to brand familiarity, trust and increased sales.

I'm a big believer in building brands that move hearts and minds. Brands that motivate people to take action.

What is a brand?

Branding not only includes your visual appearance; it's also how you make people feel, your tone of voice and how you communicate on your social channels, your differentiation and how people perceive you. It's up to you to take control of how you are perceived. Branding creates perception. And perception creates reality. Own your and your business's reality.

I co-wrote a book (called Perception) on the topic of perception because it's such a crucial part of making your personal and business brand irresistible.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002813

I mentioned earlier that marketing is not very dissimilar from dating. If marketing is asking someone out on a date, great branding will help you to get them to say yes.

Branding helps you to position and re-position your business. Imagine you're walking down to the markets and a lovely lady is selling hand-knitted scarfs that look a bit wonky. She can either brand them as 'wonky or faulty' and hence discount them or she can promote them as 'handmade, unique, one-of-a-kind'. Which do you think is better positioning?

Once you've got clarity on your brand, your social media channels are a great tool for amplifying and magnifying it. You want your audience to see you 'everywhere', or everywhere they are.

Personal vs business brand

Every single person and business is given an identity depending on how you are perceived by others. It's your job to make sure the perception others have of you and your business is what you want it to be.

Your personal brand is how you want people to perceive you as a person—this is different from your business brand.

On social media you may choose to focus on only your business brand or both your business and personal brands, depending on your goals. Some business owners prefer to stay a bit more anonymous, while others use their personal brand to help grow their business. There is no right or wrong—choose what works for you.

It goes without saying that your personal brand needs to be authentic and real. Too many people use social media to portray a different image of themselves, which must be exhausting to maintain. People connect and engage with realness and honesty at a much deeper level than with fakery.

My Brand Alchemy Method can be applied to both your personal and business brands.

At our brand consultancy, The Business Hood, we get to play with brands all day long so as I take you through this framework, I'll share some practical examples to get you inspired.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The Brand Alchemy Method

'Don't judge a book by its cover' is a common idiom. Well, unfortunately, people do! Especially in business. Prospective customers will absolutely judge a business by its brand appearance, whether that is on social media, a website, a brochure or any other communication channel. We form an opinion in the first few seconds of being exposed to a business.

Every brand has a certain perception and I wouldn't leave it up to chance. As a business owner you must proactively create and influence the perception your audience has of your business.

Keep in mind that it might take some time to create or refresh all the pieces of your brand strategy, so don't feel disheartened if you don't crack all the pieces straight away. Just get started and keep coming back to this chapter to refine and rework your strategy.

As a business owner you must proactively create and influence the perception your audience has of your business.

We recently created a brand strategy for a sock subscription business that the business then gave to their social media agency to ensure consistency of branding and messaging across all channels. The agency reached out to us to let us know how much they love using this document to guide their content. Use your brand strategy when creating social media content, whether you do this inhouse or outsource it. It will ensure your communication is coherent and consistent.

There are four key parts to a brand strategy—brand foundation, positioning, messaging and engagement—each with its own components. You'll see these components outlined in the Brand Alchemy Method model presented in figure 6.1 (overleaf). Brand Foundation is made up of Brand Purpose and Brand Principles, the inner two rings of the circle. The next ring is Brand Identity, Differentiation and Positioning Statement, which form the Brand Positioning aspect of the method. The outer ring of the model represents Brand Messaging and comprises Brand Promises and Stories. And lastly we see Brand Engagement being delivered both with Internal Brand Activation and External Brand Activation. Let's take a look at each of these components in further detail.

Brand foundation

The first part of your brand strategy is your brand foundation. The purpose of your foundation is to help you make decisions aligned with your business and create social media content that is engaging the right audiences.

There are two key components of your foundation: brand purpose and brand principles.

Brand purpose

Your brand purpose is the core foundation of your business and drives your messaging.

Its job is to guide your decisions, motivate you when you are not 'feeling it', align your teams, set the tone for your culture and get you, your teams and your customers excited about your business.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002816

An example of a strong brand purpose is Oceanlovers' to inspire and motivate the masses to save our oceans.

This purpose statement guides our content on social media as much as it does our decisions. On our social media channels you can see a lot of educational content around ocean awareness and conservation among product updates.

Another example is Basic Bananas' purpose, which is to create positive ripple effects for business owners around the globe by providing marketing mentoring programs.

Again, our social media team knows that if the content we publish fits into this purpose and is making a positive impact, we are on the right path.

You can also apply this to your personal brand. My personal purpose is to make a positive impact through entrepreneurship. Having clarity on my purpose helps me to make the right decisions aligned with it. So when I was asked to write this book, I said yes (even though I didn't intend to write another book so soon after my last one). It fits into my purpose to make a positive impact. On my personal social media channels I mix personal content with entrepreneurial wisdom and insights.

As you go through life, different priorities may emerge, which means that you and your purpose may change and evolve. It's okay to revisit your purpose statement every now and then and adjust it to reflect what you're setting out to achieve.

Activity

Can you see how a strong brand purpose forms the basis of great social media content?

Summarise, in one sentence, what your purpose is all about. Here are a few questions to get you thinking:

- What's the purpose of your business?
- What's the biggest problem you are solving?
- What impact are you making?
- What legacy do you want to leave?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002817

Brand principles

Next up are your brand principles or values. While your brand purpose is your destination, or North Star, your principles are your compass to make sure you are taking the right path aligned with your purpose.

You've just read Basic Bananas' and Oceanlovers' brand purposes, so now let's look at how the principles and purpose work together.

Oceanlovers' brand principles include:

- adventures: Be courageous, be adventurous, be awesome
- collaboration: Together everything is more fun
- respect: Respect nature, the ocean and every living being including sharks, plankton and seahorses
- sustainability: Care deeply about ocean conservation.

You can see how these values are all supportive of the brand's purpose to inspire and motivate the masses to save our oceans. Both are part of the brand's DNA and help us to create content for our social media channels that is coherent with what we stand for.

Basic Bananas' brand values are outlined in figure 6.2 and include:

- simplification: Anyone can throw around fancy words; it takes genius to simplify. You are a genius
- realness: Keep it real and focus on stuff that truly matters
- playfulness: Sprinkle playfulness generously
- infinite growth: Stay curious, make mistakes and keep evolving
- positive ripple effects: Leave everything and everyone better off.

Again, these values are supportive of the bigger picture: to create positive ripple effects for business owners around the globe through marketing mentoring programs. They also guide our social media content as we aim to publish updates that are real, playful, simple (understandable) and with a focus on helping businesses to grow.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

We also make sure our team knows and lives our values so we can keep growing an amazing team culture people want to be a part of.

When creating social media content, look through the lens of your principles. This will help you differentiate yourself and make your content uniquely you.

If you're also growing a personal brand on social media, use this same framework for your personal values too.

And remember, your values may evolve and change over time. So just pick some that represent you right now and if you need to adapt them later, that's perfectly okay.

Pro tip

When selecting your principles, stay away from the ones everybody else throws around like it's their job, such as 'professionalism', 'expertise' and 'integrity'. These should be a given in any business.

Once you've got clarity on your brand values, use them as a checklist for your social media content. At Basic Bananas we ask ourselves, Is this content following the principle of simplification or are we overcomplicating? Is it a little bit playful? Are we being real? Is it focused on making a positive impact?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Activity

Revisit or create your brand principles. Aim for three to five of them. If you have too many, you won't be able to remember them all.

Here are three questions to ask yourself to get started:

- What's important for you in your business (or life)?
- What do you stand for?
- What do you stand against?

Brand positioning

Part I of your brand strategy was your foundation; in part II we will define your brand positioning. This is crucial for a business to succeed on and off social media. Yet brand positioning is often completely overlooked due to a lack of knowledge on how to go about it. The purpose of your brand positioning is to leverage your strengths and ensure you are attracting the right audience by way of brand identity and differentiation. You'd rather have a smaller social media following comprising your target audience than a huge following of people who are not the right audience.

There are three key elements to help you define your brand positioning: brand identity, differentiation and a positioning statement. When going through each of these, keep your perfect customer in mind.

Brand identity

Your brand identity is the first pillar of your brand positioning. I mentioned earlier that every single brand has an identity: a perception that creates reality. As the business owner or marketer, you need to be in charge of the perception.

Clarity on your brand identity will also ensure consistency across your marketing communication, including your social media content. It will inform both your visual representation and the words you use. As you know so well by now, consistency leads to familiarity, which leads to trust, which leads to increased sales.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002820

Ask yourself the following three questions to craft your brand identity:

1. How do I want to be perceived?

   If your business were a person, how would you describe them?

   When you answer this question, use adjectives or descriptive words. Only pick three to five characteristics and make sure they are a blend that can be unique to you. Avoid vanilla characteristics such as 'high quality', 'experienced' or 'professional'—again, these should be a given!

   Examples of characteristics include modern, young, conservative, European, irreverent, impactful, cheeky, edgy, funny, brilliant, innovative, old-school, retro, playful, romantic, wise, insightful and helpful.

   At Oceanlovers our brand identity is 'adventurous, educational and mindful'. At Basic Bananas it's 'generous, playful, down-to-earth and smart'.

2. How do I want people to feel when interacting with my brand on social media?

   The best content makes people 'feel' something. So when creating social media content, keep the desired emotions you'd like your audience to have in mind.

   Examples of emotions include optimistic, joyful, supported, acknowledged, celebrated, educated, inspired and motivated.

   At Oceanlovers we want people to feel inspired and motivated to help save our oceans. We also want them to feel like they belong to a community of like-minded people. For Basic Bananas we want people to feel optimistic, guided and supported as part of a strong business community.

3. What do I want to be known for? What space do I want to 'own' in my industry?

   Play by your strengths and 'own' a space in your industry. Become known for something.

   Harley Davidson is known for 'freedom'. Volvo is known for 'safety'. Apple is known for 'design and innovation'.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002821

What are you known for? What are you already really good at that you could magnify?

Focus on one or two things so much you become known for them.

At Oceanlovers we are known for sustainable products. At Basic Bananas we are known for marketing mentoring—that is, making marketing strategy accessible, practical and attainable for business owners.

Activity

Ponder the following questions.

- If your business were a person, how would you describe them?
- How do you want people to feel when interacting with your brand on social media?
- What space do you want to occupy? What do you want to be known for? What do you want people to say and remember about you or your business?

Differentiation

The second pillar of your brand positioning is your differentiation. The purpose of this is for you to stand out in a sea of businesses and millions of social media accounts fighting for attention. The more you differentiate, the easier it will be to attract and engage an audience.

Pro tip

Your differentiation might not be one single thing you do. It's most likely a combination of a few elements that make you unique.

There are various ways to differentiate:

- Audience: Are you servicing a specific audience? The more specialist, the better.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002822

- Pricing: What is your pricing model? Are you high, mid or low end?
- Products: Can you differentiate through your product offering?
- Design: How about your packaging and design?
- Customer experience: Is your customer experience above anyone else's in your industry? Think ease of doing business with you—for example, free and fast delivery, excellent customer support, and so on.
- Communication: How do you communicate with your customers? Is your marketing approach more amazing than anyone else's in your space?
- Extras: Do you offer a warranty, free trials or guarantees?

Looking at these categories, how can you differentiate across some of them? Another brilliant question to ask yourself is What are people in my industry frustrated about? And then see if your business can overcome this frustration. For example, they might be frustrated about expensive delivery fees, long waiting lines or lack of parking.

Most importantly, play by your strengths. What do your customers already love about you? Ask them. You might be surprised how the things that are 'normal' for you are highlights for your customers. Make a list and communicate your strengths across your social channels.

For example, at Basic Bananas people love our focus on making marketing understandable, practical and exciting. It's our core strength so that's what we focus on. Amplify what you're already good at.

Activities

Go through the above categories and look for ways to differentiate.

Also ask yourself:

- What are people frustrated about when working with my industry?
- What am I really good at? Can I amplify that?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002823

Positioning statement

Your positioning statement, or tagline, is incredibly useful for sharing with your audience what you are all about. It's a summary of what you want to be known for. It's also one of the more challenging things to crack because you'll have to work out how you're going to summarise your positioning in just a few words!

Your tagline often sits integrated with your logo so when people see your brand on social media, they can understand straight away what your business is all about.

Some well-known brands have paid advertising agencies thousands if not millions of dollars to come up with their statements. For example, Airbnb's belong anywhere has come out of a lot of research to get to the core of what Airbnb is all about for its customers.

Sometimes when your brand name does not explicitly state what you do, you may choose a bit more of a straight-forward tagline. That's what we did at Basic Bananas. Our tagline is quite boring, but it shares exactly what we do: marketing mentoring for business owners. When people first see the name Basic Bananas they may not know what we're all about, so a descriptive tagline helps with that.

Here are a few examples from our marketing mentoring program members—the Clever Bunch—to get you inspired:

- A physiotherapist: Get in. Get fixed. Don't come back
- A car mechanic: Cuddles for your car
- A hairdresser: Your friend in fabulous hair
- A restaurant: Real food. Good vibes
- A campervan accessory business: Accessorise your next adventure.

Activity

Craft or rethink your own positioning statement. Can you summarise your positioning into a short and memorable few words?

CHAPTER 7

SOCIAL MEDIA CONTENT STRATEGY

The most popular social media channels are the ones with the best content in line with their brand strategy. In this chapter we're going to create your social media content strategy. The purpose of this is for you to have a plan to avoid an unorganised and inefficient approach to content creation. Your social channels will be a lot less ad-hoc and more likely to draw a crowd. The right crowd!

As mentioned earlier, creating and understanding your strategy is the most important role of a small business owner. Even if you choose to outsource the implementation of your social media approach, always be involved in strategy and keep an eye on your metrics. I've seen countless businesses hire social media experts who didn't understand the brand and the return on their investment was below average. There is nothing wrong with outsourcing if you keep an eye on your results.

A clear social media content strategy enables you to have others collaborate on the content creation and publishing while ensuring consistency. This is how we go about our social media marketing efforts at all of our businesses. I'm involved in the strategy part and different team members are in charge of content creation, publishing and community management. They then report our results weekly and we can see very quickly what's working and what's not working.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

If you are a one-man or one-woman band in your business right now handling all the different aspects of social media, a content plan will make your efforts a lot more efficient and effective.

The content bucket method

Content themes—or the content bucket method—are a brilliant way to help you create content and put together a practical social media plan for your business.

You want your social channels to be a fountain of engaging content for people to come back to. One of the biggest mistakes a lot of businesses make is just talking about themselves on their channels all day long, which can get a bit boring for your audiences.

But what else could you talk about? This is where the content buckets come in. The content bucket method will help you to diversify your content and share information that is relevant and helpful for your audiences.

The content bucket method will help you to diversify your content and share information that is relevant and helpful for your audiences.

Think about what your audiences are interested in, other than your business. Write down a whole list of potential topics. Some of these will then become your content buckets. The purpose of your content buckets is to ensure your content is interesting for your audiences so they want to follow you. This framework will also help you with an abundance of ideas and bring structure into your social media approach.

Here are a few examples and must-have content buckets for your business.

Authority content—how to

This type of content is very popular. The purpose of authority content is to share your hottest tips and knowledge in order to build your authority and credibility. This type of content will help you demonstrate your expertise and build trust with your audiences.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Here are a few examples:

- Hairdressers: How to style your hair in five minutes or less
- Interior designers: The five interior design hacks that will transform your living room
- Consultants: How to put together your business plan with these three simple steps.

Industry news and trends

Industry news and trends are another essential content bucket for your business. This is where you share information and the latest news in your industry. What are the latest trends? What does the future look like? What's happening right now that might be of interest to your audiences? This type of content is especially popular on LinkedIn.

Here are a few examples:

- Chiropractors: The latest innovations in biotech
- Restaurants: Food trends of the year
- Graphic designers: The colour of the year.

Behind the scenes

At Basic Bananas, our behind the scenes content pieces always have some of the highest engagement.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002828

User-generated content

User-generated content is content other people have published about you. This could be someone sharing a picture of your product or service in use.

We often get people to share selfies of themselves attending our virtual marketing workshops or showing off their own workspace. This is pretty awesome as it creates community and we get to cheer them on. Sometimes we then share some of their content on our channels to give them and their businesses a shout-out. For my latest book, The Courage Map, a lot of readers posted pictures of the book with their key learnings, which helped with exposure to a larger audience.

You can encourage user-generated content by way of competitions or just asking your biggest fans if they'd like to share something about your product or service. User-generated content is powerful because other people talk about how amazing you are—similar to customer reviews.

Product reviews

Another content bucket could include reviews such as book or product reviews and comparisons. They are very popular on our YouTube channels.

Our team once published a review of our favourite tech tools and it's still one of our best performing pieces of content. You can check it out here: basicbananas.com/our-favourite-ten-tech-tools-for-busy-business-owners.

Pro tip

If your business is often compared to a competitor and there is confusion about the differences, write a compelling product review where you share the differences of your offerings without, of course, talking badly about your competitor. Just an honest review outlining the key differences. This will help your ideal customers decide whether you are the right fit for them.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002829

Promoting your business

And of course don't forget to share information about your business and invite people to buy from you.

Remember the 80/20 rule in the Online Eco-System? The same applies here. Eighty per cent of the time provide useful, informative and engaging content. Twenty per cent of the time share promotions and let people know how to work with you.

This can include information about your products and services, special offers, product launches, event invitations, and so on.

Invite people to work with you. Just don't overdo the promotional content.

Curated content from other sources

I've got some great news for you! You don't need to create all of your content by yourself. There's so much amazing content out there already that people have spent hours and hours producing. Find credible sources of information that are high quality and relevant to your business and audiences. Look for content from publications, bloggers, industry associations, and so on; then reshare the best content, always crediting the source.

At Basic Bananas, we sometimes reshare useful articles from Inc. magazine, Forbes and other publications that provide great content our followers can benefit from.

When sharing other people's content, personalise it by adding your five cents' worth—your perspective on the topic—and always credit the source.

Pro tip

Here are two free tools you can use to curate content easily:

- Feedly is a news aggregator app that helps you compile newsfeeds from a variety of online sources.
- Google Alerts is another great option for receiving notifications on selected keywords or topics you want to keep an eye on.

Anything you share needs to be brilliant so that people come back for more and you become a trusted source of relevant information.

Bonus content tips

Once you've defined your content buckets, you're ready to put them together into a neat social media plan. Before we look at creating your social media plan (in chapter 8) I'd like to give you some bonus content tips.

The content checklist

Ask yourself the following questions about your content:

- Is my content piece worth sharing? Quality is a lot more important than quantity: less is more. Poor-quality content can really hurt your brand, so don't post something just for the sake of it.
- Does it reflect my brand? Is your content in line with your brand perception? Does it reflect your brand voice and imagery? Is it consistent?
- Is it engaging, educational or entertaining? Content that is either engaging, educational or entertaining (or a combination of all three) works really well. Don't be boring.
- Is it honest and real? Have you seen my Instagram picture of my private jet filled with Dom Pérignon vintage champagne? Oh wait, I don't own a private jet and also didn't rent one for a shoot to show off how cool I am. Because that's lame and not real. Point made.
- Is it human? Write from the heart. Honesty is refreshing. This doesn't mean you need to overshare or pour your heart out on social media (unless you feel like it). Sharing a failure story and what you've learned from it will most likely resonate with your audiences.
- Is it relevant? Make sure your content is relevant for your audience. Too many pictures of your favourite cars might not be so relevant for a business, unless you're in the car industry.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002831

The anatomy of a great piece of content

Each piece of content generally consists of three parts: text; image or video; and discoverability—although you may sometimes only have text without the other two elements.

- Text: Your copy or text can be long or short depending on the channel you use. I recommend testing different lengths as we have found that long copy can work really well on Facebook even though many experts advise against it. If you publish a video, your text might be super short: just a catchy headline to make people want to watch your clip.
- Image or video: Your images or videos need to be relevant and support your message. Select creative that fits into the channel. For example, on Instagram the image needs to be high quality and fit into your channel design (more on that in chapter 10). In general, avoid creative that looks too stock-standard and 'marketingsy'.
- Discoverability: Your discoverability includes hashtags, keywords and geotags that help others find your content.

Play by your strengths

There are different types of media you can use for your content: written, audio or video. I'll share the best types and examples in part III of the book; however, as a general rule of thumb play by your strengths. You might find it easier to create video content than to write an article. Or you might not like being in front of the camera at all. That's okay. You can either learn to love the medium or get someone else to represent your business if video is a great medium for your company.

Remember, I'm all about finding the most effective and efficient ways to do something. If you don't enjoy writing, record your content and then get someone else to draft your articles for you.

Play by your strengths. Outsource your weaknesses.

At Basic Bananas we use a variety of media, including videos, written articles and audio through our podcast. We leverage different team members'

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

strengths so they can collaborate and contribute in a way that is enjoyable for them. Play by your strengths. Outsource your weaknesses.

Repurpose content

While we're on the topic of efficiency and effectiveness, let's talk about repurposing your content. If you invest in creating high-quality content, you want to make sure you leverage it across a multitude of channels in different formats.

Here's an example of how you can repurpose your best content.

1. Write an insightful article for your blog on your website to drive traffic.
2. Turn your article into a short video clip to share on YouTube.
3. Take a few key snippets from your article and share them on Twitter with a link back to your article.
4. Post a short summary of your article on Facebook with a link back to your post.
5. Take an image that represents your article's theme and share it on Instagram with a link back to your post.
6. Turn your article into an infographic and share it on LinkedIn.
7. Pin an image with key highlights onto your Pinterest board.

You get the gist. The point is to create really great content and then distribute it across various channels in formats that suit the channel to reach a larger audience.

Use emojis

Have you noticed some people communicating through emojis? I've had whole conversations on my messenger using emojis, most likely not really understanding the whole conversation.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002833

Use emojis in your posts as they make your posts stand out more.

Also have some fun with giphys, but don't overdo it! You can find a library of giphys at giphy.com.

How to find your keywords

Finding relevant keywords for your business is usually something I teach when looking at ways for businesses to rank higher on search engines. However, keywords are also useful on social media as they can be used as hashtags, tags on your YouTube videos, in your LinkedIn profile, and so on.

Here are three ways to find relevant keywords for your business.

1. Ask yourself: What are people searching for when looking for your type of business? Write anything down that comes to mind. If your business is dependent on a local audience, make sure you include some local keywords too—for example, 'florist North Sydney'.
2. Ask your customers: Your customers are your best resource since you want to attract more of them. Ask them 'What would you type into Google to find us?' Add their answers to your list.
3. Ask Google: Go to Google and do two things:
    - Add each keyword or key phrase from your list into the search engine. You will see a dropdown with other suggested keywords. For example, if you type 'chiropractor Sydney', it will also show you 'chiropractor Sydney CBD', 'chiropractor Sydney price', and so on. Add them to your list.
    - Scroll to the bottom of your Google search page and you will find more suggestions under 'searches related to . . .' These are the key phrases people most commonly use. Add the most relevant ones to your list.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002834

> Pro tip
> Some of the keywords on your list might also inspire you to write articles on these topics.

Now you've got a whole list of keywords for your business. Prioritise them in order of relevance and use the most important ones across your social networks as you read about each channel in part III.

Excerpt: 8 effective grocery store marketing strategies

“Establish a social media presence
According to Pew Research Center, 72% of adults in the US used at least one social media site in 2021. That means the people you want to reach are almost certainly hanging out on Facebook, Instagram, TikTok, or one of the other popular social media sites of the moment. A grocery store doesn’t need to be on every social media platform available—people won’t necessarily turn to a professional networking site like LinkedIn to connect with their local grocery store, for instance. But select some social media sites you’re confident your audience uses, and work on building a profile and connecting with customers there.
Numerous social media platforms specifically offer business profiles with features designed with brands in mind. And a few give consumers a way to leave reviews for businesses they follow on the platform. For grocers working hard to create a strong customer experience, providing customers with one more place online to share their opinion of the store can help you further build your brand reputation.
While posting to social media organically can improve your visibility, investing in paid ads can supercharge the number of people you reach. And most platforms have targeting options that let you home in on people likely to become customers based on factors such as where they live and their general interests. That helps you get a better return on investment for any money you spend on advertising on the platform.

Launch a loyalty program
Loyalty is powerful. Once a customer decides they value their relationship with your brand, they’re more likely to keep coming back—and may even spend more money with you once they do. Loyalty programs give you a way to incentivize that behavior from the customers who already like you. By offering rewards to customers based on how often they shop with you or how much they spend, you make them feel better about the money they’re spending at your store, as well as their overall relationship with your brand.
Another benefit of offering a loyalty program is that customers who join are opting in to an ongoing relationship with your business. They’re telling you they want to hear from you, and it can double as a way to build up your email list, which is important for our next strategy.”

Excerpt: How to Make Your Grocery Store Succeed

“Enhancing Customer Experience
A memorable shopping experience is key to retaining customers and making your store succeed. In a market flooded with options, your customers’ feelings in your store can decide what to buy.

- Store Layout and Design: Your store’s layout should be intuitive and inviting. Clear signage, well-organized aisles, and an appealing ambiance enhance the shopping experience.
- Personalization: Personalized service can include greeting customers by name, remembering their preferences, or providing recommendations based on their purchase history. This level of personalization makes customers feel valued and increases loyalty.
- Quality Customer Service: Train your staff to be friendly, knowledgeable, and responsive. Excellent customer service can turn a one-time visitor into a regular customer.”

Excerpt: 8 Practical Marketing Ideas for Small Grocery Stores

“1. Locally Grown Produce

It’s no secret that consumers are savvier now than ever before. Organic food is on trend, there’s a ‘protein version’ of so many foods, and people want fresh, healthy meals. Locally grown produce is better for the environment. It doesn’t need to be preserved and delivered from elsewhere. Clever slogans like ‘farm to table’ entice shoppers to buy food that they believe is healthier.

When setting up your store, try making local produce a feature. Have a dedicated section, and make a big deal out of it. It feels more special and will draw attention.

Think about your local community, too. Is it multicultural? For example, if you have a large Mexican community in your neighborhood, you could have a section dedicated to Mexican culture and cooking.

2. Effective In-Store Advertising

Customers are inspired when they’re shopping. Sure, they might have a list of things they need to buy, but with effective in-store marketing, you can encourage them to try something new. Cleverly placed advertisements draw attention to deals and offers – think custom posters and banners.

With a modern grocery POS system, you can use inventory reports to see what sells well in your store, and advertise those products in easy-to-see and easy-to-reach places. And what isn’t selling well? You might entice shoppers to buy those goods by offering "everything must go" deals.

You can also use your POS system to offer mix and match pricing and advertise those deals. For example, a sandwich costs $4, a bag of chips is $1, and a soda is $2. Instead of charging $7, you offer a discount and charge $5. Consumers are drawn to deals, and you encourage them to buy all three items for a small discount.

3. Seasonal Campaigns and Trends

In addition to ongoing marketing campaigns, you can take advantage of seasonality. You can create marketing campaigns around Easter, Mother’s Day, Father’s Day, Thanksgiving, and, as we mentioned earlier, holidays that mean something to your local community.

Smaller grocery stores can do this well. With smaller stores comes fewer opportunities to steal shoppers' attention, but you can use that to your advantage. You might not have a huge budget to produce marketing materials for every occasion, but you can cleverly place seasonal offers and products for maximum effect.

Similarly, look for trends. Use inventory data to see what’s selling well, what isn’t, and why. Is it the time of year? Is this normal for your store? Tap into what your customers want. Using seasonal and other trends to inform orders and inventory management will boost profits, and your customers will be happy that what they want is in stock.

4. Email Marketing

Great POS systems allow you to gather customer data for marketing purposes. By capturing email addresses, you can get to know your customers and have a point of contact to send newsletters, deals, promotions, and coupons.

It’s important not to spam your customers with deals and offers on products they don’t want or need. It’s equally important to personalize offers to your customers. For example, you could provide money-off coupons on a few products a customer buys regularly. You can also use previous purchases and preferences to create relevant offers.

Let your customers know about new product lines, seasonal produce offers, and any changes you’re making. They won’t know about deals and offers if you don’t tell them. You might even send recipes and cooking tips encouraging shoppers to buy certain products.”

Excerpt: 12 Methods Marketing Leaders Can Use To Reach Underrepresented Groups

“Meet Them On Their Turf
The most important thing for a marketing department to do is to meet the group on their turf. Marketing efforts fail, look inauthentic, pander and come across as ploys if created from an ethnocentric point of view. If you are serious about it, immerse yourself in it. - Mollie Barnett, The SMART Co.
Just Listen
It’s often as simple as listening to those groups for insights. For example, one of my organization’s biggest launches this year centered around the need for chronic condition communities among our audiences. Excerpt: 10 Winning Strategies for Promoting Your Grocery Store

“Marketing Strategies & Promotional Ideas for Grocery Stores

With all that in mind, we give you our 10 favorite ideas for marketing strategies and promotions, which can address a number of short and long-term goals:

Strategy #1: Social Media Outreach

Your customers are online a lot. Are you? If you are, what message are you sending your customers? AKA, are you… boring? Straightforward? Online but not engaged? Check out these major fast food brands, for instance, who are making a splash on social media. They’re witty, funny, engaging with customers, and staying relevant.

Social media posts might not seem like a big deal, but these small, daily reminders of in-store offerings are a great way to influence customers. As a grocery store, social media is a simple, cost-effective way to advertise what’s going on in your store – special deals, holiday hours, events – or even highlight staff to make customers feel like a part of your shop’s community.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Strategy #2: Get Local

Plastic straws are being banned around the U.S. Farmers markets are popping up in cities and small towns alike. This push towards sustainable, eco-friendly living is making its way into more and more households every day. As a grocery store, you can join the movement by offering local foods in stores, from fruits and veggies, to eggs, meats and cheeses –anything really that fits in your "local" parameter.

Utilize social media to spotlight these local offerings. For instance, is it blueberry season and you've just brought out perfectly plump, juicy pints of 'em? Let your customers know!

Strategy #3: Branded, Reusable Shopping Bags

In line with the sustainable movement, offering branded, reusable shopping bags is a must. More folks are ditching paper and plastic bags in favor of these eco-friendly options. Not only does this help the environment, but it helps to get eyes on your business logo when shoppers use their tote in other places around town. Don't forget – the more bags are used, the less money you spend on plastic or brown bags.

Keep your grocery bags at check-out lanes where customers can easily see and buy them. You may also consider adding an incentive for folks using them, like these stores are already doing."

CHAPTER 5

BUILDING YOUR MARKETING MACHINE

As we have seen, many business owners tap in the dark when it comes to marketing their businesses, without having any structure, which makes their approach very scattered and ineffective. In this chapter we'll get working on building your entire marketing system, a cohesive plan taking into account all the elements needed to grow your business.

Understanding your audience

Before you build out your entire marketing system, let's deep-dive into understanding your audience first. Without this knowledge, your marketing funnels won't be as effective.

The best marketing communication is when your words equal your ideal customers' thoughts. Truly understanding your audiences is one of the most important elements of your social media strategy.

Truly understanding your audiences is one of the most important elements of your social media strategy.

Rather than tapping in the dark when publishing content, hoping that something

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002901

Ask yourself the following questions:

- What problems are you solving for your customers?
- Why are your customers coming to you? What outcomes are they hoping to achieve?
- What are some of their unspoken desires and frustrations? What are they secretly worried about?
- What are their emotional triggers? What makes them tick?

The deeper you go and the more you understand your audience at a psychological level, the easier it will be to create social media content that will resonate with them.

Keep adding to your matrix as you gain insights. This is a valuable document that will keep evolving as your business and audiences evolve. So keep this document updated and if you have team members, get them to collaborate on this. At Basic Bananas we keep adding to our matrix so we can provide content that is relevant, desired and useful for business owners.

How to research your audiences

There are many ways to get audience intel and to discover people's emotional triggers. Here are my three favourite ones.

Speak to people

Speak to people? Yes! This is one of the best ways to get customer intel! Pick up the phone and speak to your customers. It's also a great way for you to show that you really care about them.

Here's a possible phone script:

Hi Rudy, it's Jodie here from xyz. Thank you so much for working with us/buying our product/service. We are always looking for ways to provide even more value, so I was wondering if you could help me with a few quick questions:

– What do you love most about working with us? Why do you use our products/ services? What outcomes do you get?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002902

- What are you most frustrated about when it comes to <insert industry>?

- What is one thing we could improve?

This information will come in very handy when you create your brand strategy in chapter 6.

> When listening to your customers, pay attention to their language and use their words. Don't summarise or paraphrase your findings in your matrix. Write their thoughts down exactly as you hear them and then use their language.

Surveys

Surveys are another great way to find out more about your customers. Use a free survey tool such as SurveyMonkey.com to set up your questionnaire. When using a digital survey, make sure to make it really easy for your customers to fill in. Don't ask too many open-ended questions and be very specific.

A question worded as What is one thing we could do to improve? will get you a much better response rate than What could we improve? Anyone can think of one thing.

You can use the questions shared in the phone script above in your surveys too.

Analytics

All social media platforms have really great in-built analytics that show you where your audience is located, their age groups, interests, and so on. This information is powerful and will not only help you understand who is attracted to your business but also what kind of content works for your business.

Once you've started compiling this information, use the notes in the Desires vs Frustrations Matrix to create social media content. Remember, you want your words to equal your market's thoughts. If you manage to do this through your communication, your followers will connect with you at a deeper level, stay loyal and hopefully tell all their friends about you.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Pro tip

A major mistake many people make when it comes to marketing communication is that they 'talk' or write to a business instead of a human.

Any type of communication is always human to human, not business to business or business to human. When creating content, remember that there is a person behind the screen reading your words. Write with that person in mind.

The Online Eco-System

A lot of businesses have a 'leaky bucket', which means customers are abandoning the business before getting to the point of purchasing its products or services. Instead of becoming your customer, they buy from someone else.

The Online Eco-System is a proven framework for helping you create a marketing machine for your business without holes in it so you get the most out of your social media efforts. The Online Eco-System framework is illustrated in figure 5.2 (overleaf).

As part of your Online Eco-System, there are four key marketing funnels I recommend setting up:

- opt-in or lead funnel
- nurture funnel
- sales funnel
- reactivation funnel.

You can download examples of these funnels from the website.

The Online Eco-System is a proven framework for helping you create a marketing machine for your business without holes in it so you get the most out of your social media efforts.

I have highlighted the funnels in bold for you below so you can see how they fit in as you go through the Online Eco-System. And don't worry, you don't need to manually send any pieces of communication. A database-management or customer-relationship management system (CRM) can help you automate parts of this process. If you don't have a CRM yet, I highly recommend you get one. It will make the implementation of your marketing system and tracking of your activities so much easier. There are many great CRM systems out there, so just use what works for you. You can find the one we use in our businesses on the website. You'll also find the Online Eco-System video program there.

Let's walk through the Online Eco-System to help you avoid the 'leaky bucket' syndrome.

There are five major parts to the Online Eco-System: your website, traffic, conversions, relationships and reactivation.

Your website

Your website is the centrepiece of your online marketing strategy. Every business needs a great website to inform, educate and engage with current,

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

past and future customers. And by great I mean visually appealing, user-friendly and functional.

You want your website to work for you even when you're busy sipping cocktails at the beach.

Here's what your website should do for you.

Inform, educate and engage

When people hear about your business, what's often the first thing they do to check you out? They go to your website. Potential customers visit your website to get informed. So your website needs to focus on engaging the 'right' kind of customer and helping them make the decision to work with you.

Your website is like a hub of great information that connects with your audiences and moves them closer towards a sale with you. It's often the first or second point of contact and the start of, hopefully, a long-lasting relationship.

One of the biggest mistakes most businesses make is to use their website to merely talk about themselves without ever mentioning who their customers are or what problems they are solving for them.

When writing or rewriting the copy for your website, focus on your customers. Grab your customer matrix and ask yourself: What are their needs? What are their frustrations? How do I help them solve those needs and frustrations?

Generate leads

Another very important function of your website is to generate leads—that is, to identify potential future customers. The best way to do this is by providing valuable content, insights and information your ideal customers want to receive.

Your website is a brilliant way to capture people's details in return for something valuable so that you can then nurture that relationship. Remember, marketing is similar to dating: some people will need more courting than others before they trust and buy from you.

Your focus on providing helpful content and building goodwill will help you to convert prospects into customers.

Your focus on providing helpful content and building goodwill will help you to convert prospects into customers.

Drive sales

Some websites are set up as e-commerce sites with the option to shop straight on the site. However, not every business is able to sell its products or services on its website. Think higher end offerings where customers generally take a bit longer to make a decision and require more high-touch communication.

An average sales conversion on an e-commerce website is only around 2 per cent, depending on the quality of the traffic. What happens with the 98 per cent of people who are not ready to buy just yet? Rather than missing out on them, you should offer them a 'first (low-key) date' or 'opt in' (which I talk about further down under 'Conversions'), which provides value and is a first step towards building trust and staying top of mind.

Re-market

Have you ever visited a website and admired those really cool high-top sneakers but didn't buy them because you've already got five other pairs? So you abandon the website with the best intentions not to buy them, but suddenly see those same sneakers pop up on other websites only to remind you of how cool they are.

That's called re-marketing. It's a very effective marketing strategy because you are only showing your ads to people who have already shown interest in your product or service.

Re-marketing is highly targeted and can yield very high returns. When someone visits a specific product page on your website but doesn't buy, they are shown an ad highlighting the benefits of this product.

Setting up re-marketing ads is relatively easy. We use a tool called Perfect Audience. If you'd like to play with this tool, visit our website and type in 'perfect audience' and you'll get $100 credit.

Traffic

A website without traffic or visitors is not very useful and won't help you to grow your business. It's like having a shop without anyone coming in. And even if you have the most stunning website in the universe, it's not guaranteed that people will swing by unless you drive traffic.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

There are many different marketing strategies you can use to drive traffic to your website, both free and paid. Social media is a brilliant way to get people to your website.

Other marketing strategies that can work well for businesses wanting to increase traffic include direct mail, strategic partnerships, Google advertising, native ads, re-marketing, free publicity, content marketing, sponsorship and influencer marketing.

Just like foot traffic coming into your shop, it doesn't help if potential customers merely look at your products without buying. For your business to survive and thrive, you need prospects to become customers.

Conversions

Once your visitors are on your website, your next aim is to convert as many of the 'right ones' as possible into either warm leads or customers.

Your first date (or 'opt in')

Many prospects will need more time and nurturing to fall in love with your business. So rather than missing out on everyone who is not willing to purchase straight away, you need to add value. Stay in touch and be in front of your prospects in order for them to build trust and ultimately buy from you.

The purpose of your 'first date' or 'opt in' on your website is to provide value in return for someone's email address. You might wonder, but aren't emails dead? Far from it! Email marketing is still going strong. But there's a big but! A first date or lead magnet only works if you have something worthwhile to share. Nobody wants to receive annoying emails or newsletters.

Social media is a brilliant tool for generating leads and moving people from those platforms into your own eco-system.

What would be something you could give away to your prospects that would be of amazing value for them?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Here are a few examples of first dates that are working really well for our members:

- an e-commerce business that encourages first buyers by offering a voucher. For example, 'Download your ten-dollar voucher to redeem on your first purchase' or 'Join the xyz fashion club to receive a 10 per cent discount on all of our products'
- a travel agency giving away a travel guide on the 10 most amazing and secret travel destinations
- an author offering the first chapter of their book for free
- a fitness studio gifting intro passes.

First dates help businesses to stay in touch with and nurture prospects. Someone might download an intro pass at a studio and then take a few weeks or even months to muster the courage to finally join the gym. Being able to stay in touch with prospects and providing valuable information is what will make them choose you over your competitors once they're ready to commit. You want to own the decision-making period.

To automate this, create an opt-in funnel in your database-management system.

Sales

As mentioned earlier, if you have an e-commerce website, a small percentage of your visitors will buy your products and services. A small percentage of the ones that don't buy will opt in and potentially come back to purchase later.

This is where you need a sales funnel.

Relationships

Business is all about building relationships, regardless of whether or not people buy from you now or in the future. Once you've got someone in your community, provide so much value that you blow their minds and they will never want to leave. You want them to walk away from every interaction thinking that your business is so amazing that they want to tell everyone about it.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

This is where you need a nurture funnel to help you stay in touch with your prospects and customers. The focus here is on adding value and sharing content that is useful to your prospects.

Depending on your business, your touchpoints can include emails, text messages, phone calls and direct mail.

A very common question I get asked is 'How often should you stay in touch with your audience?' Only as often as you have something to say. Quality over quantity. Don't just send your contacts stuff for the sake of it. Before hitting 'send' on an email or calling someone, ask yourself Is this adding value? and Would I appreciate receiving this piece of communication if I were a prospect? There's enough noise out there. Don't add to it.

Another question is 'How long should you stay in touch with your audience?' Forever! Or until they decide to opt out of your communication.

Reactivation

In the previous step, your focus was on nurturing and building relationships by providing value. Every now and then you need to invite people to spend money with you.

Use the 80/20 rule here: 80 per cent of the time, provide value; 20 per cent of the time, let your customers and prospects know that they are welcome to buy from you.

Let them know when you have a new product launch, a customer event or a special offer. Invite them to work with you.

This is where a reactivation funnel comes in handy. Map out your reactivation campaign and put it into a funnel.

As you can see, social media fits in at the top end of your Online Eco-System. Your social media channels will help you to gain exposure, engage with your audience, drive traffic to your website and increase sales. Instead of dropping the ball or having a 'leaky bucket', move people through your eco-system to get the maximum return on your investment.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Understanding this is so important. You need an integrated approach with each piece of the puzzle working hand in hand so you can gain momentum.

The customer journey

One more concept I'd like to share with you before I introduce you to the Brand Alchemy Method in chapter 6 is the customer journey (see figure 5.3).

Every future customer treads a slightly different path from the moment they first find you to the time they begin spending money with you. This is what we call the customer journey, and social media can play a big role in this.

For example, a prospect might find you on Facebook, check out your website, then read some of your recommendations on LinkedIn and sign up to receive your emails before they decide to do business with you. By having the Online Eco-System in place, you can avoid the 'leaky bucket'.

Someone else might find your business through a referral, then go to your website, click on your social media pages, and so on.

Every customer journey is different, and they vary in duration depending on three things:

- the person's buying behaviour
- the urgency of their need
- your type of business.

CHAPTER 6

CREATING YOUR BRAND STRATEGY

Brilliant branding will help you differentiate yourself and stand out in the social media crowd. Your brand strategy will guide your communication and ensure you have consistency across all touchpoints, which leads to brand familiarity, trust and increased sales.

I'm a big believer in building brands that move hearts and minds. Brands that motivate people to take action.

What is a brand?

Branding not only includes your visual appearance; it's also how you make people feel, your tone of voice and how you communicate on your social channels, your differentiation and how people perceive you. It's up to you to take control of how you are perceived. Branding creates perception. And perception creates reality. Own your and your business's reality.

I co-wrote a book (called Perception) on the topic of perception because it's such a crucial part of making your personal and business brand irresistible.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

I mentioned earlier that marketing is not very dissimilar from dating. If marketing is asking someone out on a date, great branding will help you to get them to say yes.

Branding helps you to position and re-position your business. Imagine you're walking down to the markets and a lovely lady is selling hand-knitted scarfs that look a bit wonky. She can either brand them as 'wonky or faulty' and hence discount them or she can promote them as 'handmade, unique, one-of-a-kind'. Which do you think is better positioning?

Once you've got clarity on your brand, your social media channels are a great tool for amplifying and magnifying it. You want your audience to see you 'everywhere', or everywhere they are.

Personal vs business brand

Every single person and business is given an identity depending on how you are perceived by others. It's your job to make sure the perception others have of you and your business is what you want it to be.

Your personal brand is how you want people to perceive you as a person—this is different from your business brand.

On social media you may choose to focus on only your business brand or both your business and personal brands, depending on your goals. Some business owners prefer to stay a bit more anonymous, while others use their personal brand to help grow their business. There is no right or wrong—choose what works for you.

It goes without saying that your personal brand needs to be authentic and real. Too many people use social media to portray a different image of themselves, which must be exhausting to maintain. People connect and engage with realness and honesty at a much deeper level than with fakery.

My Brand Alchemy Method can be applied to both your personal and business brands.

At our brand consultancy, The Business Hood, we get to play with brands all day long so as I take you through this framework, I'll share some practical examples to get you inspired.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002914

The Brand Alchemy Method

'Don't judge a book by its cover' is a common idiom. Well, unfortunately, people do! Especially in business. Prospective customers will absolutely judge a business by its brand appearance, whether that is on social media, a website, a brochure or any other communication channel. We form an opinion in the first few seconds of being exposed to a business.

Every brand has a certain perception and I wouldn't leave it up to chance. As a business owner you must proactively create and influence the perception your audience has of your business.

Keep in mind that it might take some time to create or refresh all the pieces of your brand strategy, so don't feel disheartened if you don't crack all the pieces straight away. Just get started and keep coming back to this chapter to refine and rework your strategy.

As a business owner you must proactively create and influence the perception your audience has of your business.

We recently created a brand strategy for a sock subscription business that the business then gave to their social media agency to ensure consistency of branding and messaging across all channels. The agency reached out to us to let us know how much they love using this document to guide their content. Use your brand strategy when creating social media content, whether you do this inhouse or outsource it. It will ensure your communication is coherent and consistent.

There are four key parts to a brand strategy—brand foundation, positioning, messaging and engagement—each with its own components. You'll see these components outlined in the Brand Alchemy Method model presented in figure 6.1 (overleaf). Brand Foundation is made up of Brand Purpose and Brand Principles, the inner two rings of the circle. The next ring is Brand Identity, Differentiation and Positioning Statement, which form the Brand Positioning aspect of the method. The outer ring of the model represents Brand Messaging and comprises Brand Promises and Stories. And lastly we see Brand Engagement being delivered both with Internal Brand Activation and External Brand Activation. Let's take a look at each of these components in further detail.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Brand foundation

The first part of your brand strategy is your brand foundation. The purpose of your foundation is to help you make decisions aligned with your business and create social media content that is engaging the right audiences.

There are two key components of your foundation: brand purpose and brand principles.

Brand purpose

Your brand purpose is the core foundation of your business and drives your messaging.

Its job is to guide your decisions, motivate you when you are not 'feeling it', align your teams, set the tone for your culture and get you, your teams and your customers excited about your business.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002916

An example of a strong brand purpose is Oceanlovers' to inspire and motivate the masses to save our oceans.

This purpose statement guides our content on social media as much as it does our decisions. On our social media channels you can see a lot of educational content around ocean awareness and conservation among product updates.

Another example is Basic Bananas' purpose, which is to create positive ripple effects for business owners around the globe by providing marketing mentoring programs.

Again, our social media team knows that if the content we publish fits into this purpose and is making a positive impact, we are on the right path.

You can also apply this to your personal brand. My personal purpose is to make a positive impact through entrepreneurship. Having clarity on my purpose helps me to make the right decisions aligned with it. So when I was asked to write this book, I said yes (even though I didn't intend to write another book so soon after my last one). It fits into my purpose to make a positive impact. On my personal social media channels I mix personal content with entrepreneurial wisdom and insights.

As you go through life, different priorities may emerge, which means that you and your purpose may change and evolve. It's okay to revisit your purpose statement every now and then and adjust it to reflect what you're setting out to achieve.

Activity

Can you see how a strong brand purpose forms the basis of great social media content?

Summarise, in one sentence, what your purpose is all about. Here are a few questions to get you thinking:

- What's the purpose of your business?
- What's the biggest problem you are solving?
- What impact are you making?
- What legacy do you want to leave?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002917

Brand principles

Next up are your brand principles or values. While your brand purpose is your destination, or North Star, your principles are your compass to make sure you are taking the right path aligned with your purpose.

You've just read Basic Bananas' and Oceanlovers' brand purposes, so now let's look at how the principles and purpose work together.

Oceanlovers' brand principles include:

- adventures: Be courageous, be adventurous, be awesome
- collaboration: Together everything is more fun
- respect: Respect nature, the ocean and every living being including sharks, plankton and seahorses
- sustainability: Care deeply about ocean conservation.

You can see how these values are all supportive of the brand's purpose to inspire and motivate the masses to save our oceans. Both are part of the brand's DNA and help us to create content for our social media channels that is coherent with what we stand for.

Basic Bananas' brand values are outlined in figure 6.2 and include:

- simplification: Anyone can throw around fancy words; it takes genius to simplify. You are a genius
- realness: Keep it real and focus on stuff that truly matters
- playfulness: Sprinkle playfulness generously
- infinite growth: Stay curious, make mistakes and keep evolving
- positive ripple effects: Leave everything and everyone better off.

Again, these values are supportive of the bigger picture: to create positive ripple effects for business owners around the globe through marketing mentoring programs. They also guide our social media content as we aim to publish updates that are real, playful, simple (understandable) and with a focus on helping businesses to grow.

We also make sure our team knows and lives our values so we can keep growing an amazing team culture people want to be a part of.

When creating social media content, look through the lens of your principles. This will help you differentiate yourself and make your content uniquely you.

If you're also growing a personal brand on social media, use this same framework for your personal values too.

And remember, your values may evolve and change over time. So just pick some that represent you right now and if you need to adapt them later, that's perfectly okay.

Pro tip

When selecting your principles, stay away from the ones everybody else throws around like it's their job, such as 'professionalism', 'expertise' and 'integrity'. These should be a given in any business.

Once you've got clarity on your brand values, use them as a checklist for your social media content. At Basic Bananas we ask ourselves, Is this content following the principle of simplification or are we overcomplicating? Is it a little bit playful? Are we being real? Is it focused on making a positive impact?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Activity

Revisit or create your brand principles. Aim for three to five of them. If you have too many, you won't be able to remember them all.

Here are three questions to ask yourself to get started:

- What's important for you in your business (or life)?
- What do you stand for?
- What do you stand against?

Brand positioning

Part I of your brand strategy was your foundation; in part II we will define your brand positioning. This is crucial for a business to succeed on and off social media. Yet brand positioning is often completely overlooked due to a lack of knowledge on how to go about it. The purpose of your brand positioning is to leverage your strengths and ensure you are attracting the right audience by way of brand identity and differentiation. You'd rather have a smaller social media following comprising your target audience than a huge following of people who are not the right audience.

There are three key elements to help you define your brand positioning: brand identity, differentiation and a positioning statement. When going through each of these, keep your perfect customer in mind.

Brand identity

Your brand identity is the first pillar of your brand positioning. I mentioned earlier that every single brand has an identity: a perception that creates reality. As the business owner or marketer, you need to be in charge of the perception.

Clarity on your brand identity will also ensure consistency across your marketing communication, including your social media content. It will inform both your visual representation and the words you use. As you know so well by now, consistency leads to familiarity, which leads to trust, which leads to increased sales.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002920

Ask yourself the following three questions to craft your brand identity:

1. How do I want to be perceived?

   If your business were a person, how would you describe them?

   When you answer this question, use adjectives or descriptive words. Only pick three to five characteristics and make sure they are a blend that can be unique to you. Avoid vanilla characteristics such as 'high quality', 'experienced' or 'professional'—again, these should be a given!

   Examples of characteristics include modern, young, conservative, European, irreverent, impactful, cheeky, edgy, funny, brilliant, innovative, old-school, retro, playful, romantic, wise, insightful and helpful.

   At Oceanlovers our brand identity is 'adventurous, educational and mindful'. At Basic Bananas it's 'generous, playful, down-to-earth and smart'.

2. How do I want people to feel when interacting with my brand on social media?

   The best content makes people 'feel' something. So when creating social media content, keep the desired emotions you'd like your audience to have in mind.

   Examples of emotions include optimistic, joyful, supported, acknowledged, celebrated, educated, inspired and motivated.

   At Oceanlovers we want people to feel inspired and motivated to help save our oceans. We also want them to feel like they belong to a community of like-minded people. For Basic Bananas we want people to feel optimistic, guided and supported as part of a strong business community.

3. What do I want to be known for? What space do I want to 'own' in my industry?

   Play by your strengths and 'own' a space in your industry. Become known for something.

   Harley Davidson is known for 'freedom'. Volvo is known for 'safety'. Apple is known for 'design and innovation'.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002921

What are you known for? What are you already really good at that you could magnify?

Focus on one or two things so much you become known for them.

At Oceanlovers we are known for sustainable products. At Basic Bananas we are known for marketing mentoring—that is, making marketing strategy accessible, practical and attainable for business owners.

Activity

Ponder the following questions.

- If your business were a person, how would you describe them?
- How do you want people to feel when interacting with your brand on social media?
- What space do you want to occupy? What do you want to be known for? What do you want people to say and remember about you or your business?

Differentiation

The second pillar of your brand positioning is your differentiation. The purpose of this is for you to stand out in a sea of businesses and millions of social media accounts fighting for attention. The more you differentiate, the easier it will be to attract and engage an audience.

Pro tip

Your differentiation might not be one single thing you do. It's most likely a combination of a few elements that make you unique.

There are various ways to differentiate:

- Audience: Are you servicing a specific audience? The more specialist, the better.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002922

- Pricing: What is your pricing model? Are you high, mid or low end?
- Products: Can you differentiate through your product offering?
- Design: How about your packaging and design?
- Customer experience: Is your customer experience above anyone else's in your industry? Think ease of doing business with you—for example, free and fast delivery, excellent customer support, and so on.
- Communication: How do you communicate with your customers? Is your marketing approach more amazing than anyone else's in your space?
- Extras: Do you offer a warranty, free trials or guarantees?

Looking at these categories, how can you differentiate across some of them? Another brilliant question to ask yourself is What are people in my industry frustrated about? And then see if your business can overcome this frustration. For example, they might be frustrated about expensive delivery fees, long waiting lines or lack of parking.

Most importantly, play by your strengths. What do your customers already love about you? Ask them. You might be surprised how the things that are 'normal' for you are highlights for your customers. Make a list and communicate your strengths across your social channels.

For example, at Basic Bananas people love our focus on making marketing understandable, practical and exciting. It's our core strength so that's what we focus on. Amplify what you're already good at.

Activities

Go through the above categories and look for ways to differentiate.

Also ask yourself:

- What are people frustrated about when working with my industry?
- What am I really good at? Can I amplify that?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002923

Positioning statement

Your positioning statement, or tagline, is incredibly useful for sharing with your audience what you are all about. It's a summary of what you want to be known for. It's also one of the more challenging things to crack because you'll have to work out how you're going to summarise your positioning in just a few words!

Your tagline often sits integrated with your logo so when people see your brand on social media, they can understand straight away what your business is all about.

Some well-known brands have paid advertising agencies thousands if not millions of dollars to come up with their statements. For example, Airbnb's belong anywhere has come out of a lot of research to get to the core of what Airbnb is all about for its customers.

Sometimes when your brand name does not explicitly state what you do, you may choose a bit more of a straight-forward tagline. That's what we did at Basic Bananas. Our tagline is quite boring, but it shares exactly what we do: marketing mentoring for business owners. When people first see the name Basic Bananas they may not know what we're all about, so a descriptive tagline helps with that.

Here are a few examples from our marketing mentoring program members—the Clever Bunch—to get you inspired:

- A physiotherapist: Get in. Get fixed. Don't come back
- A car mechanic: Cuddles for your car
- A hairdresser: Your friend in fabulous hair
- A restaurant: Real food. Good vibes
- A campervan accessory business: Accessorise your next adventure.

Activity

Craft or rethink your own positioning statement. Can you summarise your positioning into a short and memorable few words?

CHAPTER 7

SOCIAL MEDIA CONTENT STRATEGY

The most popular social media channels are the ones with the best content in line with their brand strategy. In this chapter we're going to create your social media content strategy. The purpose of this is for you to have a plan to avoid an unorganised and inefficient approach to content creation. Your social channels will be a lot less ad-hoc and more likely to draw a crowd. The right crowd!

As mentioned earlier, creating and understanding your strategy is the most important role of a small business owner. Even if you choose to outsource the implementation of your social media approach, always be involved in strategy and keep an eye on your metrics. I've seen countless businesses hire social media experts who didn't understand the brand and the return on their investment was below average. There is nothing wrong with outsourcing if you keep an eye on your results.

A clear social media content strategy enables you to have others collaborate on the content creation and publishing while ensuring consistency. This is how we go about our social media marketing efforts at all of our businesses. I'm involved in the strategy part and different team members are in charge of content creation, publishing and community management. They then report our results weekly and we can see very quickly what's working and what's not working.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

If you are a one-man or one-woman band in your business right now handling all the different aspects of social media, a content plan will make your efforts a lot more efficient and effective.

The content bucket method

Content themes—or the content bucket method—are a brilliant way to help you create content and put together a practical social media plan for your business.

You want your social channels to be a fountain of engaging content for people to come back to. One of the biggest mistakes a lot of businesses make is just talking about themselves on their channels all day long, which can get a bit boring for your audiences.

But what else could you talk about? This is where the content buckets come in. The content bucket method will help you to diversify your content and share information that is relevant and helpful for your audiences.

The content bucket method will help you to diversify your content and share information that is relevant and helpful for your audiences.

Think about what your audiences are interested in, other than your business. Write down a whole list of potential topics. Some of these will then become your content buckets. The purpose of your content buckets is to ensure your content is interesting for your audiences so they want to follow you. This framework will also help you with an abundance of ideas and bring structure into your social media approach.

Here are a few examples and must-have content buckets for your business.

Authority content—how to

This type of content is very popular. The purpose of authority content is to share your hottest tips and knowledge in order to build your authority and credibility. This type of content will help you demonstrate your expertise and build trust with your audiences.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Here are a few examples:

- Hairdressers: How to style your hair in five minutes or less
- Interior designers: The five interior design hacks that will transform your living room
- Consultants: How to put together your business plan with these three simple steps.

Industry news and trends

Industry news and trends are another essential content bucket for your business. This is where you share information and the latest news in your industry. What are the latest trends? What does the future look like? What's happening right now that might be of interest to your audiences? This type of content is especially popular on LinkedIn.

Here are a few examples:

- Chiropractors: The latest innovations in biotech
- Restaurants: Food trends of the year
- Graphic designers: The colour of the year.

Behind the scenes

At Basic Bananas, our behind the scenes content pieces always have some of the highest engagement.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002928

User-generated content

User-generated content is content other people have published about you. This could be someone sharing a picture of your product or service in use.

We often get people to share selfies of themselves attending our virtual marketing workshops or showing off their own workspace. This is pretty awesome as it creates community and we get to cheer them on. Sometimes we then share some of their content on our channels to give them and their businesses a shout-out. For my latest book, The Courage Map, a lot of readers posted pictures of the book with their key learnings, which helped with exposure to a larger audience.

You can encourage user-generated content by way of competitions or just asking your biggest fans if they'd like to share something about your product or service. User-generated content is powerful because other people talk about how amazing you are—similar to customer reviews.

Product reviews

Another content bucket could include reviews such as book or product reviews and comparisons. They are very popular on our YouTube channels.

Our team once published a review of our favourite tech tools and it's still one of our best performing pieces of content. You can check it out here: basicbananas.com/our-favourite-ten-tech-tools-for-busy-business-owners.

Pro tip

If your business is often compared to a competitor and there is confusion about the differences, write a compelling product review where you share the differences of your offerings without, of course, talking badly about your competitor. Just an honest review outlining the key differences. This will help your ideal customers decide whether you are the right fit for them.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002929

Promoting your business

And of course don't forget to share information about your business and invite people to buy from you.

Remember the 80/20 rule in the Online Eco-System? The same applies here. Eighty per cent of the time provide useful, informative and engaging content. Twenty per cent of the time share promotions and let people know how to work with you.

This can include information about your products and services, special offers, product launches, event invitations, and so on.

Invite people to work with you. Just don't overdo the promotional content.

Curated content from other sources

I've got some great news for you! You don't need to create all of your content by yourself. There's so much amazing content out there already that people have spent hours and hours producing. Find credible sources of information that are high quality and relevant to your business and audiences. Look for content from publications, bloggers, industry associations, and so on; then reshare the best content, always crediting the source.

At Basic Bananas, we sometimes reshare useful articles from Inc. magazine, Forbes and other publications that provide great content our followers can benefit from.

When sharing other people's content, personalise it by adding your five cents' worth—your perspective on the topic—and always credit the source.

Pro tip

Here are two free tools you can use to curate content easily:

- Feedly is a news aggregator app that helps you compile newsfeeds from a variety of online sources.
- Google Alerts is another great option for receiving notifications on selected keywords or topics you want to keep an eye on.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002930

Anything you share needs to be brilliant so that people come back for more and you become a trusted source of relevant information.

Bonus content tips

Once you've defined your content buckets, you're ready to put them together into a neat social media plan. Before we look at creating your social media plan (in chapter 8) I'd like to give you some bonus content tips.

The content checklist

Ask yourself the following questions about your content:

- Is my content piece worth sharing? Quality is a lot more important than quantity: less is more. Poor-quality content can really hurt your brand, so don't post something just for the sake of it.
- Does it reflect my brand? Is your content in line with your brand perception? Does it reflect your brand voice and imagery? Is it consistent?
- Is it engaging, educational or entertaining? Content that is either engaging, educational or entertaining (or a combination of all three) works really well. Don't be boring.
- Is it honest and real? Have you seen my Instagram picture of my private jet filled with Dom Pérignon vintage champagne? Oh wait, I don't own a private jet and also didn't rent one for a shoot to show off how cool I am. Because that's lame and not real. Point made.
- Is it human? Write from the heart. Honesty is refreshing. This doesn't mean you need to overshare or pour your heart out on social media (unless you feel like it). Sharing a failure story and what you've learned from it will most likely resonate with your audiences.
- Is it relevant? Make sure your content is relevant for your audience. Too many pictures of your favourite cars might not be so relevant for a business, unless you're in the car industry.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002931

The anatomy of a great piece of content

Each piece of content generally consists of three parts: text; image or video; and discoverability—although you may sometimes only have text without the other two elements.

- Text: Your copy or text can be long or short depending on the channel you use. I recommend testing different lengths as we have found that long copy can work really well on Facebook even though many experts advise against it. If you publish a video, your text might be super short: just a catchy headline to make people want to watch your clip.
- Image or video: Your images or videos need to be relevant and support your message. Select creative that fits into the channel. For example, on Instagram the image needs to be high quality and fit into your channel design (more on that in chapter 10). In general, avoid creative that looks too stock-standard and 'marketingsy'.
- Discoverability: Your discoverability includes hashtags, keywords and geotags that help others find your content.

Play by your strengths

There are different types of media you can use for your content: written, audio or video. I'll share the best types and examples in part III of the book; however, as a general rule of thumb play by your strengths. You might find it easier to create video content than to write an article. Or you might not like being in front of the camera at all. That's okay. You can either learn to love the medium or get someone else to represent your business if video is a great medium for your company.

Remember, I'm all about finding the most effective and efficient ways to do something. If you don't enjoy writing, record your content and then get someone else to draft your articles for you.

Play by your strengths. Outsource your weaknesses.

At Basic Bananas we use a variety of media, including videos, written articles and audio through our podcast. We leverage different team members'

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

strengths so they can collaborate and contribute in a way that is enjoyable for them. Play by your strengths. Outsource your weaknesses.

Repurpose content

While we're on the topic of efficiency and effectiveness, let's talk about repurposing your content. If you invest in creating high-quality content, you want to make sure you leverage it across a multitude of channels in different formats.

Here's an example of how you can repurpose your best content.

1. Write an insightful article for your blog on your website to drive traffic.
2. Turn your article into a short video clip to share on YouTube.
3. Take a few key snippets from your article and share them on Twitter with a link back to your article.
4. Post a short summary of your article on Facebook with a link back to your post.
5. Take an image that represents your article's theme and share it on Instagram with a link back to your post.
6. Turn your article into an infographic and share it on LinkedIn.
7. Pin an image with key highlights onto your Pinterest board.

You get the gist. The point is to create really great content and then distribute it across various channels in formats that suit the channel to reach a larger audience.

Use emojis

Have you noticed some people communicating through emojis? I've had whole conversations on my messenger using emojis, most likely not really understanding the whole conversation.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002933

Use emojis in your posts as they make your posts stand out more.

Also have some fun with giphys, but don't overdo it! You can find a library of giphys at giphy.com.

How to find your keywords

Finding relevant keywords for your business is usually something I teach when looking at ways for businesses to rank higher on search engines. However, keywords are also useful on social media as they can be used as hashtags, tags on your YouTube videos, in your LinkedIn profile, and so on.

Here are three ways to find relevant keywords for your business.

1. Ask yourself: What are people searching for when looking for your type of business? Write anything down that comes to mind. If your business is dependent on a local audience, make sure you include some local keywords too—for example, 'florist North Sydney'.
2. Ask your customers: Your customers are your best resource since you want to attract more of them. Ask them 'What would you type into Google to find us?' Add their answers to your list.
3. Ask Google: Go to Google and do two things:
    - Add each keyword or key phrase from your list into the search engine. You will see a dropdown with other suggested keywords. For example, if you type 'chiropractor Sydney', it will also show you 'chiropractor Sydney CBD', 'chiropractor Sydney price', and so on. Add them to your list.
    - Scroll to the bottom of your Google search page and you will find more suggestions under 'searches related to . . .' These are the key phrases people most commonly use. Add the most relevant ones to your list.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

TX-MAYOR-26-0492-A-002934

> Pro tip
> Some of the keywords on your list might also inspire you to write articles on these topics.

Now you've got a whole list of keywords for your business. Prioritise them in order of relevance and use the most important ones across your social networks as you read about each channel in part III.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

In February 2022, the City of Laredo issued a Request for Proposal for professional consulting services to assess healthcare facilities and services in Laredo, including the local healthcare workforce; and to identify opportunities to create a new hospital district or municipal hospital authority. In July 2022, the City selected Health Management Associates (HMA) to perform the assessment and feasibility study, and in August 2022, the City and HMA executed a contract for the services.

The assessment included quantitative and qualitative analyses of state and federal data sources, benchmarking the numbers of clinicians of different specialties and facility capacity in Laredo against other similar communities and statewide proportions, and identifying where Laredo has fewer professionals or less facility capacity per capita. The assessment also included a site visit during which HMA consultants toured and met with the leadership of local healthcare facilities. With input from local healthcare stakeholders, we focused our analysis on primary care, pediatrics, cardiology, neurology, and endocrinology. Based on these different analytic approaches, we confirmed the perception that Laredo had shortages of almost all physician specialties. In addition to shortages of certain physician specialties, nurse staffing was identified as an ongoing challenge.

We also reviewed and summarized various authorities, obligations, and characteristics of municipal hospital authorities and hospital districts, two types of local government entities that communities can create to provide or support hospital services. Hospital districts are much more common in the Texas healthcare ecosystem than municipal hospital authorities. There are 84 hospital districts in the state, but only eight municipal hospital authorities. Hospital districts, unlike municipal hospital authorities, have a property tax authority. Another key difference is that hospital districts must be created by a popular election, whereas the vote of a local governing body may create municipal hospital authorities. When a county creates a hospital district, the hospital district takes on the responsibility for providing indigent care from the county and typically does so by owning and administering a public hospital or contracting with one or more private hospitals to provide services to this population.

Through our research, we identified several strategies for recruiting healthcare professionals, largely relevant for physicians and nurses, including financial incentives such as signing bonuses and loan repayment, and non-financial tactics such as work schedule flexibility. We also reviewed local healthcare workforce training programs and identified opportunities for expanding the local production of healthcare professionals, particularly nurses. A common theme during our interviews with local stakeholders was the lack of inpatient psychiatric capacity. Our analysis included the development of a financial model for inpatient psychiatric services that could be part of a larger package of healthcare financing.

Through our research, we validated the perception that Laredo is medically underserved and identified opportunities for bringing the healthcare services capacity in Laredo up to levels found in similar communities. However, since many of the strategies we identified will require coordination and funding, one or more local organizations will need to take the lead on implementing these strategies, and local stakeholders will need to identify funding mechanisms.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

SECTION 1- LOCAL HEALTHCARE SERVICES

As part of more considerable city-wide improvement planning efforts, the City of Laredo Public Health Department commissioned a comprehensive health assessment to identify and prioritize Laredo's healthcare service needs and develop sustainable, viable recommendations.

This health services assessment describes the healthcare infrastructure and workforce in and around Laredo. It outlines Laredo's healthcare landscape, catalogs existing facilities and services, and identifies health priorities and gaps. Subsequently, this information may inform decisions and guide efforts to improve community health and wellness unique to the healthcare needs of Laredo's residents - including committing resources to those areas, thereby making the most significant impact possible on community health status. Specifically, the assessment examines the following:

- Current and projected outpatient ambulatory services (e.g., federally qualified health centers, public health clinics)
- Current health system community health needs assessment/strategic plans
- Current and projected deficits in care and health disparities
- Impact and response to COVID-19
- Healthcare workforce and forecasted future needs

Methods

HMA's methods included data from both quantitative and qualitative sources.

Quantitative Data Analysis

Quantitative data analysis included secondary research (vital statistics and other existing health-related data) to allow for trending and comparison to benchmark state and national data. This assessment draws from the latest available data from external sources:

- The Texas Department of State Health Services
- Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) databases
- Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) databases
- Torch Insight database and analytic tool (a proprietary data platform developed by Leavitt Partners and subsequently sold to Milliman before HMA acquired Leavitt Partners)
- County Health Rankings
- Texas Medical Board
- The latest available data from local providers that opted to share internal sources such as service quality measures and utilization.

Qualitative Data Analysis

Qualitative data analysis included primary research documented through key stakeholder interviews and site visits. HMA conducted site visits at six major healthcare providers in Laredo, including Border Region Behavioral Health Center, City of Laredo Health Department, Doctors Hospital of Laredo, Gateway Community Health Center, Laredo Medical Center, and Laredo Specialty and Rehabilitation Hospitals. Leadership staff from each provider offered their experiences working across the healthcare continuum and provided a broad understanding of Laredo's community needs and opportunities for improvement. Overall, 48 different individuals participated in the site visit meetings.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

In addition, HMA conducted interviews with leadership from the healthcare professions components of Texas A&M International University, Laredo College, and the University of Texas Resource Center.

HMA also conducted interviews with community physicians. During fieldwork prior to the presentation of the preliminary report, three community physicians responded to requests for interviews. After presentation to the City Council and at the request of the City Council, HMA conducted interviews with an additional ten community physicians.

Qualitative Analysis Findings

Below is a consolidation of themes organized by strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats (SWOT) to inform a structured analysis as outlined in Table 1. This analysis was conducted prior to the additional community physician interviews.

STRENGTHS	WEAKNESSES
• [Limited] High-quality level of care • Resiliency through crises (e.g., COVID) • Effective coordination efforts connecting patients to services that address social needs • Strong partnerships and collaborations with academic institutions	• A broad range of healthcare services was difficult for Medicaid and uninsured patients to access, including assisted living supports • Specialty care shortages, especially in cardiology, endocrinology, and psychiatry • Limited ambulatory transportation services • No inpatient psychiatric capacity
OPPORTUNITIES	THREATS
• Strengthen partnerships among providers to leverage resources and improve access • Increase preventative care • Address stigma for mental health services • Increase community health worker's efforts to bolster health literacy in high-risk communities • Provide transportation services for individuals	• Physician and medical professional recruitment barriers • Untenable unmet needs for mental health and substance use services for all ages • Long wait times for psychiatric care, mammograms, and public health services (6+ weeks on average)

The additional community physician interviews reinforced many of the findings from the preliminary fieldwork, particularly the following:

- There are widespread avoidable underlying health issues like obesity, poor nutrition, and lack of exercise that lead to significant prevalence of diabetes, congestive heart failure, and hypertension.
- The community is significantly lacking in many physician specialties, including endocrinology, psychiatry, and pediatric specialists.
- Recruiting medical professionals, particularly physician specialists, is made more challenging due the poor quality of life, lack of amenities, and culture/language shock for individuals not from Spanish-speaking areas.

Laredo Today

As the nation's largest inland port, Laredo continues to be one of the fastest-growing cities in the US and serves as the port of entry for more than $210 billion in international trade with Mexico.[1] Laredo's sister city, Nuevo Laredo, is on the other side of the Rio Grande River, across from Laredo, with a population of 425,058 as of 2020. It is the largest port of entry on the Mexico-United States border, and tariff and customs collections are more significant than any other customs office in the Republic of Mexico.

Defined Geographic Area

Laredo (256,153) comprises 95 percent of Webb County's population (267,114). The remaining population lives in surrounding rural areas.[2] Laredo's most populous zip codes – 78040, 78041, 70842, and 78043 – represent the primary service area in this assessment. Chart 1 shows the population growth trends in Laredo and Webb County throughout the last 20 years.

Immigration

Due to its proximity to the Mexico border and reluctance to disclose information accounted for in U.S. Census data (possibly due to legal status and implications associated with changing political climate and citizenship policies), population totals are likely to be misrepresented. Foreign-born individuals account for 26% in Webb County, compared to 13.5% in the US.[3] Approximately several hundred thousand Temporary Protected Status beneficiaries (who are not technically unauthorized) in the US were excluded from the legally resident immigrant population because population estimates data are unavailable.[4]

Culture and Language

The US Census Bureau ACS 2019 survey shows 86% of residents over the age of five speak a language other than English at home, and only 14% are English-only speakers in Webb County and Laredo.[5]

Health Factors

The Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) developed a mapping system to identify and designate Medically Underserved Areas (MUAs) and Health Professional Shortage Areas (HPSAs). MUAs are geographic areas and populations with a lack of access to primary care services, high infant mortality, high poverty, and a high elderly population. Medically Underserved Populations (MUPs) are specific populations that may face barriers to health care. Examples include people experiencing homelessness, people who are eligible for Medicaid, and Native Americans.

Figure 2 indicates designated MUA/Ps (blue clusters) in Texas during 2020 and highlights areas where healthcare services are needed.[6] MUA designation is based on an Index of Medical Underservice (IMU) score between 0-100, 0 being wholly underserved and 100 being least underserved. An IMU of 62 or quantifies MUA designation.[7] The score is a sum of the weighted values of:

1. The ratio of primary medical care physicians per 1,000 population
2. Infant Mortality Rate
3. Percentage of the population with incomes below the poverty level
4. Percentage of the population age 65 or over

Laredo was designated an MUA in 2019, scoring 54 out of 100.[8]

Health Professional Shortage

A Health Professional Shortage Area (HPSA) is a geographic area, population, or facility severely lacking primary care, dental, or mental health providers. The areas receive a score between 0-25 for primary and mental health and 0-26 for dental, with 25/26 being the highest degree of shortage.[9] Table 8 on page 23 shows Webb County's current HPSA scores for primary care (14), mental health (18), and dental services for low-income populations (19).[10] The Texas Department of State Health Services studied the supply and demand of healthcare workers in Texas and released its latest report in 2020. The criterion to identify critical shortages in Region 11 was a projected FTE deficit greater than 100. Projections show that every state region will have physician specialty shortages over the next ten years. Those shortages vary by region.[11] Region 11 may also face critical shortages of physicians specializing in anesthesiology, family medicine, pediatrics, and psychiatry.

Social Determinants of Health

County Health Rankings & Roadmaps rank population health in US counties based on various markers. Length and quality of life determine health outcomes. The ranking is based on health outcomes and factors, comprising over 30 measures. Webb County ranks 75 of 254 counties.[12] Webb County ranks 29 in Texas for the length of life and 185 for quality of life.

Four factors, shown in Table 3, determine quality of life. Webb County has a 10% greater population reporting poor or fair physical health than Texas and twice that of top US performers. Webb County has more reported poor mental health days weekly than Texas or top US performers. Webb ranked 185 out of 254 Texas counties for quality of life.

PHYSICAL ENVIRONMENT

Pollution in Laredo is a major health factor for long-term health. An article by the Texas Tribune identified a commercial sterilizer in Laredo that operates 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and emits the most toxic air pollution in the US. The pollutant ethylene oxide is the most toxic the EPA regulates and contributes to most of the excess cancer risk caused by industrial air pollutants in the US. The impact of ethylene oxide may already be evident in Laredo. A cluster study found a particular cancer in the area associated with ethylene oxide exposure was significantly greater than expected. [14]

Ethylene oxide is especially harmful to children, and this plant is near an elementary school. The air toxin is 30 times more carcinogenic for those who continuously inhale it as adults and 50 times more carcinogenic for those who inhale it since birth. The chemical is especially harmful to children as their bodies cannot mend the genetic damage as well as adults. The plant's proximity to an elementary school and its harmful effects on children pose a serious health risk.

COVID-19

Laredo experienced a total of 107,705 reported COVID cases and 1,061 reported deaths. The highest rate of COVID cases was May 2022, when cases skyrocketed after a gradual increase since late March.

Chart 6: 2022 COVID-19 Trends County Comparison | CDC COVID Data Tracker

In January 2021, almost half of the region's hospital capacity was COVID patients, the state's highest percentage.[15] Webb County also has high rates of underlying health conditions such as obesity, diabetes, and hypertension. These conditions are known to exacerbate COVID complications.[16]

COVID-19 VACCINATIONS

As of October 26, 2022, 899,724 COVID vaccines had been administered in Webb County.[17] Over 99% of Webb County is vaccinated, like many Texas border counties such as El Paso, Cameron, and Hidalgo County. However, 99.9% of all age groups are vaccinated in Webb and Starr Counties. Pharmacies, public health/government, and medical clinics/doctor's offices administered most vaccinations.

While vaccination rates are high now, Webb County faced difficulty receiving vaccines in early 2021. Online vaccination appointments filled up within nine minutes in early January 2021 and vaccination lines for the first dose extended six miles.[18]

Social Vulnerability Index

The places of our lives – our homes, workplaces, schools, parks, and houses of worship – affect the quality of our health and influence our experience with disease and well-being. Social vulnerability indexes are a relative measure of the impact of these community-level factors on well-being. Figure 3 is the CDC's geospatial determinates of health - Social Vulnerability Index, which is based on 15 social factors, including poverty, lack of vehicle access, and crowded housing.[19] Possible scores range from 0 (lowest vulnerability) to one (highest vulnerability). The dark blue areas represent the highest vulnerability. Some of the highest rankings are along the Texas – Mexico border.

Health Insurance

Alarmingly, about one-third of Webb County's population (32%) is uninsured, compared to Texas (20%) and national (10%) rates, according to CMS. Texas has the most significant percentage of uninsurance in the US, and the highest uninsurance rates are along the border.[21, 22] Groups with an increased likelihood of uninsurance in Texas include:[23]

- Adults aged 19-34: 32% of adults aged 19-34 are uninsured, the highest of all age groups
- Hispanics: Hispanics make up 61% of the total uninsured; 27% of the overall Hispanic population has the highest rate of any race/ethnicity
- Adults with a high school education or less: Approximately 70% of the uninsured in Texas have a high school education or less; 48% of adults with less than a high school education are uninsured
- Citizenship: 54% of non-citizens are uninsured; Those in a family with at least one non-citizen are 36% likely to be uninsured
- Poverty: People with income below 200 percent of the poverty level[24]

Quality of Life and Health Trends

These indicators contribute to a population's overall health. Webb County's health trends demonstrate a higher-than-average distress level for citizens in their physical and mental well-being. The high prevalence of diabetes (18%) likely contributes to the high mortality during the pandemic. Webb County had more than twice as COVID deaths per 100,000 as Texas and almost three times as the US.

Chronic Health Conditions

A Community Needs Assessment conducted by Gateway Community Health identifies the top three patient diagnoses recorded in 2019-21: hypertension (7,771), diabetes (5,804), and anxiety disorder (2,788).[25] Both diabetes and anxiety disorder diagnoses increased by approximately 17% from 2019 to 2021. The greatest increase was diabetes, with 860 cases.

Diabetes

Diabetes is the most prevalent healthcare condition in Webb County, affecting 23% of the population.[26] In 2016, Webb had about 51 hospital admissions for uncontrolled diabetes per 100,000 population. Webb County had the highest rate among Nueces (35), El Paso (33), and Cameron (48) and came second to Hidalgo (62). Webb also had a high rate of amputations among patients with diabetes at 42 per 100,000 population, well above the state average of 31. Amputation rate in Webb was higher than El Paso (20), equal to Hidalgo (42), and lower than Nueces (45) and Cameron (47). However, the average cost of each amputation in Webb County was $214,300, much higher than the state average ($123,857), Cameron ($148,804), El Paso ($118,183), Hidalgo ($135,518), and Nueces ($134,442) County.[27]

Heart Disease and Stroke

The average estimated total cardiovascular disease hospitalization rate for Medicare beneficiaries in Webb County was 56 per 1,000 in 2017-2019.[28] While this is lower than the state (61) and national (61) rates, much of Web County are uninsured and below the age of 65.

The average estimated stroke death rate for ages 35+ in Web County was higher in Hispanics (75.5 per 1,000) than for white non-Hispanics (56 per 1,000) in 2017-2019. Similarly, stroke death rates are higher than the national average for all races (73). Compared to Nueces, Cameron, and Hidalgo County, Webb has the most individuals who have had a stroke (3%).

Mental Health and Substance Use Disorders

Substance use and mental health (behavioral health) needs have been and continue to grow in Laredo, including co-occurring mental illness and substance use disorder (SUD).[2,3] Research shows that over 60 percent of adolescents in community-based substance use disorder treatment programs are diagnosed with a mental illness. Participants ages varied evenly between the age of 30-60+. [4] Most participants were unemployed, not looking for work (312), had less than a high school education (505), and had a household income between $0-$9,999 (487).

Psychiatric patients admitted to an emergency department face long wait times for admission to a psychiatric facility. Emergency departments are not designed or equipped for psychiatric treatment, and psychiatric patients often experience worse health outcomes in the ED. Not only do patients fare worse in the ED, but it is far more expensive. It costs the ED more and prevents other patients from utilizing the ED. Inpatient psychiatric patients remain in the ED 3.2 times longer than non-psychiatric patients resulting in an average cost of $2,250 per patient bed.[29] In addition to higher, long stays waiting for appropriate placements.

4. Bipolar and related disorders
5. Trauma and stressor-related disorders

Most patients utilizing the ED for MHSU needs were uninsured (29%) and between 18-44 years of age (51%) in 2020. [31]

People with SUD frequently have one or more associated chronic health conditions such as heart disease, stroke, cancer, or mental health. Clinical comorbidities for Texas MHSU ED visits include hypertension, diabetes, heart failure, depression, and asthma. In 2020, hypertension accounted for most comorbidities (50%).

Inhalants negatively affect the nervous system, and intravenous drug use increases the risk of contracting infectious diseases such as HIV and hepatitis C. [33] HIV cases have been increasing in Webb County from 299 cases in 2010 to 483 cases in 2019, a 61% increase. [34]

Opioid use in Webb County accounts for many ED visits relative to nearby counties. In 2021, there were 82 opioid-related visits for every 100,000 ED visits. [35]

3. Lack of or reduced funding for social service agencies

The report also found various barriers facing low-income families, including: [37]

1. Not having access to insurance, including dental and pharmaceutical services
2. Not earning a living wage
3. Not having access to prenatal care
4. Affordable vocational programs so they can secure gainful employment

Healthcare Provider Capacity

There is a substantial medical service capacity gap and need in Webb County. Webb County is currently short 20 full-time employees (FTE) primary care providers, 30 FTE dentists for low-income populations, and 11 FTE mental health providers. Column (HPSA FTE Short) in Figure 16 indicates the number of FTE providers Webb County needs to meet provider-to-population ratio needs adequately. All designations were formulated in 2019 and updated in 2021.[38] Note that psychiatrists are the only designated mental health providers (as opposed to counselors and other professionals) for HPSA designation in Texas.[39]

(Note: This section includes data on the number of physicians of different specialties from the Texas Medical Board who identified Webb County as their practice location. In some cases, these physicians may not reside in the county but rather provide services via telemedicine through a single facility, which they list as their practice location.)

Laredo ranked last across the US in provider supply. Laredo has almost twice the population-to-provider ratio for PCPs and dentists. Mental health provider shortage is greater, nearly three times the Texas average. Webb County and US provider ratios are in Table 9.[40] This shortage will grow based on a projected 2% annual increase in primary care service demand through 2029.[41]

Regional Supply and Demand Projections

Region 11 is one of eight public health regions classified by The Texas Department of State Health Services (DSHS). Region 11 serves a 19-county area in south Texas. Webb County is in Region 11, along with Hidalgo, Cameron, and Nueces County. [42]

DSHS periodically produces supply and demand projections for different categories of health professionals across the state's public health regions. Most of our analysis included below is based on comparisons between the relative number of health professionals in Webb County, other border counties in the state, and statewide ratios. The DSHS supply and demand projections below are for Region 11, not just Webb County.

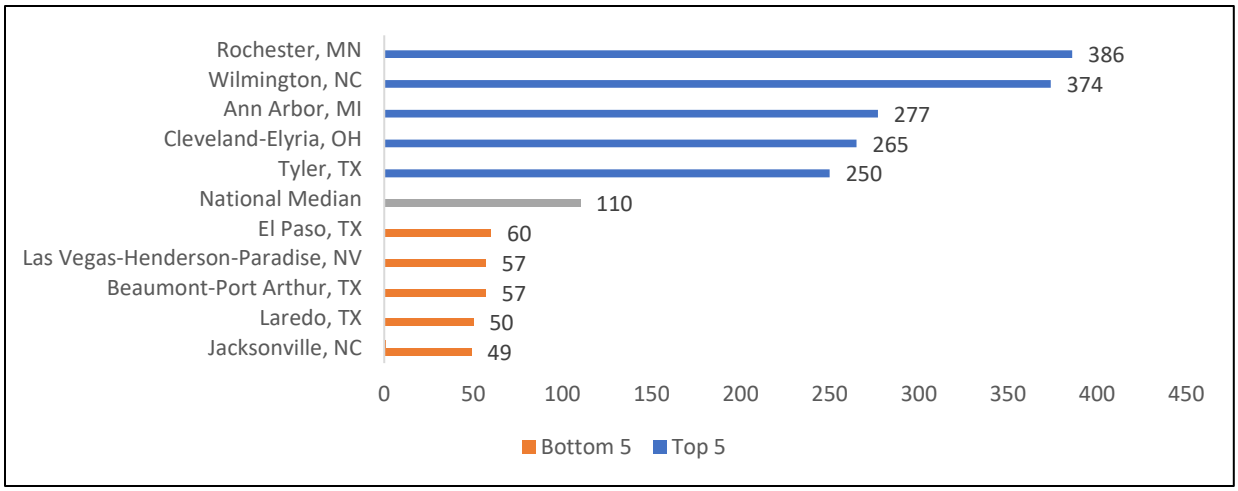
Primary Care



A 2022 geographic analysis ranks Webb County in the bottom 15 counties nationwide for primary care physicians per 100,000 population. Laredo ranked second to last in primary care physicians across all US cities, with a population of at least 200,000. [43] Region 11 is expected to have the greatest shortages, with PCP demand growing from 423 to 722, a 70% increase in shortage by 2030. [44]

Webb County has the most disproportionately low number of physicians, nurse practitioners (NPs), and nursing professionals.

Specialty Care

Specialty care in Webb County lags compared to similar counties in Texas despite the great need for specialty care. Table 9 shows Webb County has the least amount of specialty physicians in oncology, psychiatry, endocrinology, psychiatry, and cardiology.

Laredoans receive referrals to Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, for specialty treatment; however, it needs to meet the needs of Nuevo Laredo and Laredo. There is only one psychiatric, cardiological, and oncological health center in Nuevo Laredo and no neurological health centers. [45]

CARDIOLOGY

Cardiology is a critical shortage area with a physician FTE shortage of 100 or more. This shortage in Region 11 will grow as demand for cardiologists grows and supply drops. Cardiologist FTEs are expected to drop from 70 to 55, and demand will increase from 106 to 129.

The cardiologist shortage in Laredo is expected to increase from 34% to 57% by 2032 - a staggering 24%. [46]

GATEWAY COMMUNITY HEALTH CENTER

Gateway is a Federally Qualified Health Center (FQHC) that provides comprehensive healthcare services to underserved communities and receives federal funding through the Bureau of Primary Health Care.[51] Gateway currently operates seven locations in Laredo. The health center serves Webb, Zapata, and Jim Hogg counties and is the "leading primary healthcare provider in the tri-county region."[52] The total patient population served by Gateway in 2021 was 29,247, with 25,2014 patients from Webb County.[53] Patient demographics reflect the city's demographics with 97.65% Hispanic/Latino patients.[54] Almost half of Gateway's patients were uninsured (44%), 29.5% had private insurance, and 20.4% had Medicaid. Only 6% were Medicare patients, and 65 patients had CHIP. Gateway also serves special populations. They serve 1,454 special population patients, of which 91% are homeless.

CITY OF LAREDO PUBLIC HEALTH DEPARTMENT

The City of Laredo Public Health Department (Department) provides low-cost health care and accepts Medicaid, Medicare, CHIP, and sliding fee scale for payment. They do not deny services due to their inability to pay, making it an important resource for indigent populations. Clinical services include various screenings, including diabetes, cholesterol, high blood pressure, immunizations, dental services, and behavioral health services. They have a class D pharmacy that provides services to clients enrolled in specific programs such as Maternal & Child Health and Texas Healthy Women.[55]

The Department also works to assess and surveil notable chronic diseases in Laredo. They offer obesity prevention programs that include educational and physical activity workshops. The health department also administers seven WIC clinics outside Laredo.

Hospitals

Doctors is an acute care facility with 183 staffed beds that also operates one clinic, four diagnostic centers, two freestanding emergency rooms, a mobile clinic, and an MRI site. The hospital's primary and secondary service areas include Webb, Jim Hogg, La Salle, and Zapata counties. Specialty services include bariatric (weight loss) surgery, maternity services, a level III NICU, emergency services, and pediatrics.[57] Doctors pediatric patients with emergency injuries are directed to the pediatric Intensive Care Unit at South Texas Health System two hours away by ambulance.[58]

LMC is an acute care facility with 314 staffed beds and more than 13 additional sites, including primary care clinics, specialty clinics, and walk-in care clinics.[59] They offer orbital atherectomy to clear calcified coronary artery blockages and are an accredited chest pain center. Laredo Medical Center has conducted over 100 bariatric surgeries and 156 robotic-assisted orthopedic surgeries. They also have a level III NICU, the leading trauma facility in Laredo.

Laredo Rehabilitation Hospital provides inpatient and outpatient rehabilitation services to patients with disabling diseases or injuries such as recovering from stroke. Rehabilitation services include nursing care, physical therapy, occupational therapy, and speech, memory, and cognitive therapy.[60]

Laredo Specialty Care Hospital is a critical care hospital that provides long-term acute and critical care to patients in need of ventilation. All rooms are equipped with specialty beds and equipment including ventilators. Their specialized programs include a ventilator weaning program, cardio/pulmonary recovery program, and a wound care program. They are the first hospital in Laredo to receive the Joint Commission's Gold Seal of Approval for Respiratory Failure.[61]

Staffed bed space in Webb County (208 to 100K) is slightly above average for Texas (206 to 100K)[62] and lower than the national average (277 to 100K).[63]

SECTION 2 – SELECT OPTIONS FOR PUBLIC FINANCING OF HEALTHCARE SERVICES

Workstream 2 of this project calls for gathering information to inform city policymakers on the implications of forming either a hospital district or a municipal hospital authority. Hospital districts are much more common than municipal hospital authorities within the Texas healthcare ecosystem. There are between 70 and 80 hospital districts in the state. (Data from the Texas Department of State Health Services annual hospital survey report identified 78 hospitals that self-reported their ownership as "hospital district," whereas tax data from the Texas Comptroller's office identified 72 hospital districts). Hospital districts, unlike municipal hospital authorities, have a property and sales tax authority. Another key difference is that hospital districts must be created or approved by a popular election, whereas municipal hospital authorities may be created by the vote of a local governing body. The statutory authority for creating hospital districts permits their potential boundaries to being within one or more counties. While municipal hospital authorities can be created by city or county governing bodies, as an empirical matter, all but one existing municipal hospital authority in Texas was established at the county level, and the only exception was established jointly through the county and city.

Hospital Districts

This subsection summarizes select legal requirements for hospital districts in Texas, focusing on a high-level understanding of their establishment, governance, and financing. It does not attempt to include all requirements, and it is inclusive only of select statutory and regulatory provisions. Although a literature review was conducted through The University of Texas library, very few relevant articles were found, and nothing was deemed necessary or appropriate for inclusion. Opinions of the Texas Attorney General are incorporated where relevant. The subsection is expressly exclusive of case law.

Definition

Generally, a hospital district (HD or district) is a legal entity formed by one or more counties to provide health care services.[64] Within Texas, HDs can be contrasted with municipal hospitals,[65] municipal hospital authorities,[66] and county hospital authorities[67].

Authority

The Texas Health and Safety Code Title 4 authorizes the creation of hospital districts by voters,[68] and by counties with populations of less than 75,000[69] and more than 190,000.[70]

VOTER INITIATED

Creation

A new HD may not overlap with or remove territory from another HD.[71]

Districts Within One County

Voters may petition a county judge to create an HD within one county if either three percent or 100 registered voters signs on.[72] If the district does not have at least 100 registered voters, a majority of the voters must sign the petition.[73] Regardless of district reach, the petition must contain ten specific items to be valid.[74]

Districts In More Than One County

There are three distinctions in the creation of an HD that HD extends beyond a single county: First, the petition must be signed by either three percent or 100 registered voters on both the county in which the judge presides and of the proposed district.[75] Second, the commissioners court in each affected county must grant the petition.[76] Third, the district may be created only within the county or counties wherein a majority of the votes cast approve the creation, as otherwise set forth in subsection 3 infra.[77]

The Vote

After a valid petition is received, the commissioners court at its next regular or special session must schedule a hearing and issue notice of the same by publication to the public.[78] If the petition is in proper form, it must be granted and an election must be ordered.[79] That election need not be held on a uniform election date,[80] but rather must be held 45 to 60 days later.[81] The election concerns three issues: confirmation of the district's creation, authorization of the levying of a tax, and, if appropriate, issuance of bonds.[82] The ballot proposal must use specific language dependent on the revenue stream.[83] If the measure passes, the HD is created, and the commissioners court must enter a specific order;[84] if it fails, a one-year ban on the question begins.[85]

Expansion

Registered voters in a territory that is not included in a district may petition the board to be included.[86] To be valid, the petition must be signed by the lesser of 50 registered voters of the territory or a majority of those voters.[87] Once the petition is received by the board secretary, the board must by order schedule a hearing at least thirty days later.[88] If after hearing the board finds that annexation is feasible and beneficial, it can enter a resolution approving annexation of all or part of the territory.[89]

Annexation must be approved through separate elections by a majority of voters in the district and a majority of voters in the territory to be annexed.[90] The latter group must also vote whether to assume its proportion of the debts or taxes of the district.[91] The election must be between 45 and 60 days after the date the election is ordered, and it need not follow the uniform voting schedule.[92]

Dissolution

The Vote

An election must be held on the matter of dissolution, ordered either at the board's discretion or subsequent to a petition signed by at least fifteen percent of the electorate.[93] The election must occur no more than sixty days later, and the uniform election schedule does not control.[94] If the measure fails, dissolution cannot be voted on for at least one year; if it passes, the board must find the district is dissolved.[95]

Disposal Of Property, Assets, And Debts

After a vote to dissolve the HD, the board must transfer the land, buildings, improvements, equipment, and other assets to a governmental entity within the district, and the entity assumes all debts and obligations.[96] Alternatively, the district may continue to control and administer the property, assets, and debts until all funds have been disposed of and all debts are paid or settled.[97] If the latter, the board may continue to impose a property or sales and use tax until the debt is paid.[98] Any overpayments must be proportionally returned or credited to each taxpayer.[99]

Finalization

Once the HD has no more debts or assets, the board shall file in the appropriate commissioners court(s) a report summarizing its dissolution activities.[100] No more than ten days later, the commissioners court(s) must enter a dissolution order.[101] Unless another governmental entity purchased the hospital, the county becomes responsible anew for providing indigency health care services.[102]

County Initiated

A county with at least 190,000 inhabitants may create a countywide hospital district.[103] If the county or a municipality within the county already owns or operates a hospital system for indigent or needy persons, the district may take over.[104] Otherwise, the county may provide for the establishment of a hospital or hospital system.[105] Despite the specificity of the statutory requirements described herein for county-initiated HDs, the legislature has often crafted statutory requirements that are specific to each county or set of similarly situated counties.

Voters in the county must approve the creation of the HD through the next regular election consistent with the Texas Election Code.[106]

Business Organization

STATUS

An HD has the power to sue and be sued.[107] Although an HD is an entity in and of itself, a county-initiated district may also form a nonprofit corporation organized under Internal Revenue Code Subsections 501(c)(3) or 501(c)(4) to provide healthcare services, develop resources for health care services, or provide ancillary support services;[108] such organization is a unity of local government for litigation purposes.[109]

GOVERNANCE

An HD is governed by a Board of Directors with broad authority to manage, control, and administer its hospital system, funds, and resources.[110] Additionally, the commissioners court may delegate authority to a county-initiated district to prescribe purchasing and accounting methods and procedures.[111]

The number of directors must be odd,[112] and service is not compensated.[113] If the HD is county-created, the commissioners court must appoint five to seven persons to the board of hospital managers,[114] and, except the initial board, the directors serve two-year terms.[115] The board is uncompensated.[116]

Eligibility and Candidacy

A person is eligible to be a director if they are a resident of the district and a qualified voter.[117] If the directors are elected from commissioners precincts, only residents of the appropriate precinct are eligible.[118] District employees are not eligible,[119] and neither are persons serving on boards for other entities with the power of taxation in overlapping territory.[120]

To be listed on the ballot as a candidate for a directorship, a person must file an application with the board secretary at least thirty-one days before the election.[121] The application must note the specific place, precinct, or at-large status if applicable.[122]

Temporary Directors

On the date of the order creating the district, the commissioners court must appoint the temporary directors named in the petition.[123] The number of directors and manner of their election may be specified in the petition,[124] but must be the same number as the permanent board.[125] If the petition does not name the temporary directors or state the number of directors, there are five directors, to be appointed by the commissioners court.[126] Vacancies are also filled by appointment.[127]

If the HD is in more than one county, the respective commissioners courts appoint the number of temporary directors that is proportional to the number of district residents in the county relative to the number of residents of the whole district.[128]

Elected Directors

As a preliminary matter, the Health and Safety Code Section 286.022(a)(8) requires that the petition include "the method by which the permanent directors will be elected, as provided by Subsection (c)" to be valid, but Subsection (c) makes permissive inclusion of "the method by which directors are to be elected." In any case, the petition may provide that directors are elected at large, by place, or both, so long as the specific number of directors are elected from each commissioner precinct and a specific number are elected at large.[129] The election must occur on the first Saturday in May following the creation of the district,[130] and, subsequently, every first Saturday in May.[131] The selection is by simple popular vote, though the code is silent on cumulation of votes. Notice by publication must issue before the thirty-fifth day before the election. [132]

Initial Board

If the HD is county-created, the commissioners court may make initial appointments for one year to stagger terms. [133]

The initial board of a voter-initiated district is divided into two classes to minimize the likelihood of turnover of the whole board at once. The creation of the two classes depends on the type of election.

At Large

The appropriate number of candidates receiving the highest number of votes at the initial election of directors are directors for the district. [134]

The number of directors equal to a majority of the board who receive the highest number of votes serves a two-year term, and the remaining directors serve for a one-year term. [135] It is unclear what happens if there is a tie in the vote for the final position of the majority. [136]

By Place

Each candidate who receives the highest number of votes for election to a place is a director for the district. [137] A director elected to fill an even-numbered place at the initial election serves for a one-year term, and a director elected to fill an odd-numbered place at the initial election serves for a two-year term. [138]

By Commissioners Precinct

The number of candidates equal to the number of directors to be elected from each precinct who receive the highest number of votes from a commissioner precinct are directors for that precinct. [139] The number of candidates equal to the number of directors to be elected at large who receive the highest number of votes from the district at large are directors for the district at large. [140]

A candidate elected from an odd-numbered precinct at the initial election serves for a two-year term, and a candidate elected from an even-numbered precinct at the initial election serves for a one-year term. [141] Additionally, a candidate elected as the director from the district at large at the initial election serves for a two-year term unless more than one director is elected at large; in such instance, half of the directors elected serve two-year terms, and the other half serve one-year terms. [142]

Board Composition

Before assuming the duties of the office, each director must execute a $5,000 bond payable to the district using personal or district funds. [143]

The board is required to have three officers—president, vice-president, and secretary. [144] The president and vice-president must be directors, but the secretary does not have to be. [145] Each officer serves a non-compensable one-year term. [146] Vacancies in both officers and directors generally are filled by the board for the remainder of the term. [147]

In a county-initiated HD, the board elects a chairman and vice-chairman, and then appoints a board member or the administrator to serve as secretary. [148]

RELATIONSHIP WITH THE BUSINESS COMMUNITY

County-initiated districts must "encourage and promote participation by all sectors of the business community, including small businesses and businesses owned by members of a minority group or by women, in the process by which the district enters into contracts." [149] The district is required to have a plan to "identify and remove barriers that do not have a definite or objective relationship to quality or competence and that unfairly discriminate against small businesses and businesses owned by members of a minority or by women." [150] These barriers expressly may include contracting procedures and contract specifications or conditions. [151]

MANDATED TRANSFERS AND ASSUMPTIONS UPON CREATION

Within the bounds of preemptive federal law regarding asset transfer, there are some required conveyances upon creation of a hospital district. [152] Although the transfers discussed in this subsection are required, the HD may return any property it does not find useful back to the county or municipality. [153]

Specifically, a county, municipality, or other governmental entity in which the district is located must convey or transfer to the district certain of its items, including

- land, buildings, improvements, and equipment related to the hospital system, whether located wholly in the district [154] or not; [155]

- funds dedicated by the governmental entity to provide medical care for residents of the district for the remainder of the fiscal year; [156]
- taxes levied by the governmental entity for hospital purposes for district residents for the year; and [157]
- funds established for payment of indebtedness assumed by the district. [158]

In addition, the proceeds of any bonds a county-initiated HD assumes from the county or municipality must also be transferred to the HD, [159] as well as hospital system records, property, and affairs [160] in addition to unexpended facilities funds. [161] Once the new board is established and upon completion of these steps, the county or municipal board ceases to exist. [162]

However, there are exceptions to the property and funding transfer requirement for county-initiated districts, including medical facilities used for treatment of incarcerated persons of any age, property used in connection with utility services, and any realty not partially developed for medical care. [163] A county or municipality may also retain, but must lease to the district, building and related land whether that land is used for purposes related or unrelated to the hospital or hospital system. [164] It is also optional for the county or municipality to transfer its public health services and related facilities, ambulance service, emergency medical service, search-and-rescue service, or medical transport service. [165] Notably, if transfer of a federally qualified health center (FQHC) would result in loss of the federal designation, the FQHC may not be transferred to the district. [166]

At creation the county-initiated HD must also assume any outstanding contract obligations legally incurred by the county and/or municipality for the construction, support, maintenance, or operation of hospital facilities and the provision of health care services or hospital care, including mental health care, to indigent residents of the county or municipality before the creation of the district. [167]

THE PATIENT POPULATION

Anyone with a home in an HD is a resident of that HD. [168] If someone is unhoused, they are a resident of the HD if they intend to reside in that district, as evidenced by any relevant information. [169] Institutionalized persons are residents of the state or federal government and are not eligible for HD services. [170]

BASIC HEALTH CARE

In addition to any services otherwise required by the Texas Constitution or in a statute creating a district,[171] an HD "shall endeavor" to provide the following basic health care services:

- Primary and preventative services designed to meet the needs of the community, including:
  - Immunizations;
  - Medical screening services; and
  - Annual physical examinations;
- Inpatient and outpatient hospital services;
- Rural health clinics;
- Laboratory and x-ray services;
- Family planning services;
- Physician services;
- Payment for not more than three prescription drugs a month; and
- Skilled nursing facility services, regardless of the patient's age.[172]

An HD may arrange to provide health care services through a local health department, a publicly owned facility, or a contract with a private provider regardless of the provider's location, or through the purchase of insurance for eligible residents.[173] It may affiliate with other public hospitals, HDs, governmental entities, or, unless it was created before September 1, 2003, private entities to provide regional administration and delivery of care.[174] An HD may also purchase health coverage or other health benefits as though it were a small business.[175]

Notification and public hearing requirements apply to changes in scope of services.[176]

NURSING SERVICES

A county-initiated hospital district may contract with a school district included in the hospital district to provide nursing services and assistance to employees or students of the school district.[177]

EMERGENCY MEDICAL CARE

The HD may operate or provide for the operation of a mobile emergency medical service.[178] Furnishing the service can be through contract with the local, state, or federal government if appropriate.[179] However, ambulance services are "an ancillary function which [sic] a hospital district could undertake if it were deemed necessary," and thus are not required.[180] Should a district determine that ambulance services are necessary, it also has the discretion to determine the scope of those services.[181]

INDIGENCY POLICY

Patients who cannot afford to pay must be provided care and treatment,[182] though undocumented persons probably can be excluded.[183]

Eligibility[184]

Broadly, eligibility for indigency care is consistent with other need-based public benefits programs.

The HD must annually adopt an application procedure to determine eligibility for assistance,[185] including minimum standards, application, documentation, and verification.[186] The application must be available in written form,[187] and it must require a sworn signature.[188] Would-be applicants must be informed that assistance with applying is available.[189]

The application must solicit the applicant's name, address, social security number, household size and income excluding those receiving cash benefits, realty transfers from the last two years, amount of liquid assets, and equity value of the applicant's car and realty.[190] Although it must also include disclosure of insurance coverage or other hospital or health care benefit for which the applicant is eligible,[191] there cannot be a requirement that the person accept available employment-based insurance as a perquisite to receiving care.[192] Hospital districts are permitted to require applicants to register for work with the Teas Workforce Commission as a condition of receiving care.[193]

The maximum patient income is 21% of the federal poverty guideline,[194] or roughly $2,800 annually for a single person and roughly $5,800 annually for a family of four, which aligns with the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) program.[195] However, persons who receive TANF, Supplemental Security Income (who would be over-income in any case), or Medicaid are categorically ineligible for indigency care services.[196]

Resources must also be counted, including car value in excess of the amount under department guidelines and realty not the homestead.[197]

Due process applies to applications for services, such that the HD must review applications within fourteen days and provide a written decision.[198] If the application is denied, the decision must include a reason and describe the process for appealing the denial.[199] Additionally, notification and public hearing requirements apply to changes in eligibility standards.[200]

Payment

A public hospital is the payor of last resort,[201] but if the primary payment is inadequate, the hospital must pay for or provide the service for which other payment is not available.[202]

If a public hospital cannot provide the basic or emergency services, it is not liable beyond the payment standards for that service established by the department.[203]

The maximum liability for each state fiscal year for health care services provided by all assistance providers, including a hospital and a skilled nursing facility, to each eligible county resident is $30,000 or the payment of 30 days of hospitalization or treatment in a skilled nursing facility.[204]

Copayment

An HD may request a nominal fee from all patients, but a patient's inability or refusal to pay that fee is not grounds for denying care.[205]

If after special inquiry the administrator finds that a patient can pay all or part of the care and treatment provided, the board must issue an order directing a weekly payment in an amount that the patient can pay.[206] Monies owed survive the death of the patient.[207] In a voter-initiated district, patients have a right to appeal the determination through a hearing before the board, whose decision is subject to judicial review by the district court system.[208] In a county-initiated district, patients have a right to a hearing in county court with appellate rights to the district court.[209] Similar due process protections are available for patients accused of defrauding the district.

If a non-citizen is a sponsored legal permanent resident, the sponsor may be held responsible for payment of services provided.[210]

PROVIDERS

Any provider in the district who delivers health care services to a patient who is eligible for HD services, including dentists and podiatrists,[211] may bill the district[212] if they comply with notification and mandate transfer requirements.[213] Providers must timely notify the HD if they deliver or plan to deliver services to a patient eligible for indigency care.[214] Routine screening by providers for patient eligibility is permissible.[215]

Public hospitals can select one or more providers, and the hospital can mandate that eligible residents obtain care from one of these mandated providers,[216] even if it means a community provider has to transfer the patient to a mandated provider.[217] Exceptions to the requirement that a patient see a mandated provider include emergencies, medical inappropriateness, and unavailability of care.[218] However, if a community provider renders emergency care, the public hospital is not liable.[219]

medical and hospital care for the district's needy inhabitants.[220] The board must determine the type, number, and location of buildings required to establish and maintain an adequate hospital system along with the type of equipment necessary for hospital care.[221] The board has broad authority to manage, control, and administer its hospital system, including adopting operational rules.[222] Unlike other enabling HD statutes, however, Texas Health and Safety Chapter 286 does not include a provision for the operation of or taxation to maintain long-term care facilities.[223]

As detailed supra, if any governmental entity in the district owns land, buildings, improvements, or equipment related to a hospital system located wholly in the district, it must transfer title to the district upon creation of the district.[224] Regardless, the board may acquire, mortgage, pledge, sell, or otherwise dispose of hospital property, facilities, or equipment as it determines appropriate to maintain an adequate hospital system.[225] It may also lease out or rent hospital facilities,[226] and it may exercise the power of eminent domain.[227] In a county-initiated HD, the commissioners court may also contract for buildings, land, facilities, equipment, or services in addition to paying the subsequent regular monthly utility bills.[228]

If the HD wishes to enter into a construction contract of more than $10,000, it must engage in the competitive bidding process prescribed at Texas Local Government Code Chapter 271 Subchapter B.[229]

TOWARD VALUE-BASED CARE

County-initiated districts may establish a health maintenance organization to provide or arrange for healthcare services.[230] A county-initiated HD probably may also partner with a medical school to create an integrated health care system that provides comprehensive health care services.[231] Such services are not statutorily defined.

Revenue

The board holds the broad authority to determine the method of making purchases and expenditures as well as the accounting and control procedures for the district.[232]

INITIAL OPERATING FUNDS, RESERVES, AND DEBT

As noted supra, if any governmental entity in the district holds operating funds or reserves that were budgeted for medical care or payment of debts assumed by the district, it must transfer that fiscal year's funds to the district upon creation.[233] Unexpended funds to support and maintain hospital facilities must also be transferred to county-initiated districts.[234] The HD also receives any taxes levied by a governmental entity within the district for hospital purposes for district residents for the year.[235] If the HD does not comprise the entire taxable territory, the commissioners court may on the apportionment of the operating funds, the commissioners court may use its discretion, subject to judicial review, to choose the calculation by which to divide the funds, provided the resulting transfer comports with the statutory duty to provide care for the indigent residents of the district.[236]

The HD assumes any outstanding indebtedness incurred by a governmental entity in which all or part of the district is in and that is providing hospital care for residents of the district.[237] If only part of the governmental entity is in the district, the assumption is proportional to the total indebtedness.[238]

TAXATION

As a preliminary matter, the HD is the sole owner of funds from taxes levied for hospital purposes and medical care. Specifically, if any governmental entity in the district levied a tax for hospital purposes, it must transfer that year's funds to the district upon creation,[239] including any delinquent taxes that are later collected if the district is county-initiated.[240] Regardless, no further taxes may be levied by any entity other than the district for hospital purposes or medical care.[241]

Notably, the HDs of Bexar, Nueces, El Paso, and Harris Counties are prohibited from contracting to pay into a tax increment fund.[242]

Property Tax

Voter-Initiated

In a voter-initiated HD, voters may approve the levying of a property tax either via the creating petition[243] or in conjunction any other district election.[244] The board may annually impose property taxes in an amount not to exceed the voter-approved amount,[245] but the total tax rate may not exceed 75 cents on each $100 valuation of all taxable property in the district.[246] In determining the tax rate, the board is required to consider the district's non-tax-based income.[247] Even in the district's initial year, taxes may be imposed for the entire year.[248]

Property tax income may be used to pay debt and to maintain and operate the district.[249] However, taxes may not be imposed to pay the principal of or interest on revenue bonds.[250]

The appraisal, assessment, and collection of property taxes is governed by the state Tax Code,[251] and is overseen by a board-appointed or contracted tax assessor-collector.[252]

County-Initiated

Some of the statutory provisions are the same for county-initiated districts, including that the total tax rate may not exceed 75 cents on each $100 valuation of all taxable property in the district.[253] Taxes may be imposed for the entire year even in the district's first year,[254] and proceeds may be used to provide for the operation and maintenance of the hospital or hospital system.[255]

However, unlike in voter-initiated districts, county-initiated districts not only may pay the interest on bonds that are assumed or issued by the district, but also taxes must be sufficient to create an interest and sinking fund to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds as they mature.[256] Tax proceeds may also be used to make improvements and additions to the hospital system and to pay for certificates of obligation.[257]

Finally, only the commissioners court—not the district board—may exempt property from an ad valorem tax or tax otherwise exempted property.[258]

Sales And Use Tax

Under Texas Health and Safety Code Chapter 286, a sales and use tax is permissible only if all or a majority of the territory of the district is located in a county or counties each with a population of 75,000 or less,[259] and any annexed territory must fall within the same population limitation.[260] The health services sale and use tax is codified at Texas Tax Code Chapter 324.[261] But Texas Health and Safety Code Chapter 285 Subchapter E provides without applicable restriction that an HD "that is authorized to impose ad valorem taxes may adopt a sales and use tax to lower the district's ad valorem taxes at an election held as provided by this subchapter."[262]

BONDS

In addition to the automatic assumption by county-initiated districts of outstanding bonds issued by the county or municipality for hospital purposes,[263] the board of a voter-initiated HD may issue general obligation bonds, revenue, and refunding bonds. Bonds, transactions related to bonds, and profits from the sale of bonds are not taxable by the state or any political subdivision thereof.[264] District bonds are eligible as sufficient security for deposits to the extent of their value if accompanied by all unmatured coupons for public funds of the state and all political subdivisions of the state.[265] District bonds and indebtedness are also authorized investments for banks, savings banks, trust companies, savings and loan associations, insurance companies, fiduciaries, trustees, guardians, and sinking funds of political subdivisions of the state.[266]

In a county-initiated HD, the commissioner court is authorized to issue and sell bonds[267] and to issue certificates of obligation in accordance with Texas Local Government Code Chapter 271 Subchapter C.[268]

General Obligation Bonds

General obligation bonds may issue in the name of and on the faith and credit of the district to

- purchase, construct, acquire, repair, or renovate buildings or improvements;
- equip buildings or improvements for hospital purposes; or

- acquire and operate a mobile emergency medical service.[269]

In a voter-initiated HD, general obligation bonds must be approved through a vote catalyzed by either board action[270] or as part of the creation of the district. The initial petition may include a request that the confirmation election determine whether the HD may issue general obligation bonds, or the petitioner may make such request directly to the commissioners court.[271] If the request is in the petition, it must specific the maximum amount of bonds to be issued and their maximum maturity date.[272]

In a county-initiated HD, voters must approve bond issuance in an election held in accordance with Texas Government Code Chapter 1251.[273]

Regardless of impetus, when the bonds are issued, the board must levy a tax that is enough to create an interest and sinking fund to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds as they mature, but not so much that it, together with any other HD tax, exceeds the limit approved by the voters at the election authorizing the levy of taxes.[274]

Revenue Bonds

Revenue bonds may issue so that the HD can

- purchase, construct, acquire, repair, equip, or renovate buildings or improvements for hospital purposes;
- acquire sites to be used for hospital purposes; or
- acquire and operate a mobile emergency medical service to assist the district in carrying out its hospital purposes.[275]

Revenue bonds may be secured by any hospital revenue, or by a mortgage or deed of trust on realty owned by the district.[276] Unlike county hospital authorities, HDs may not secure revenue bonds through chattel mortgage.[277]

In a voter-initiated district, a majority of a quorum of the board must approve the resolution to issue revenue bonds, which must then be signed, counter-signed, and imprinted with the district seal.[278] The bonds must mature serially or otherwise not more than 40 years after they are issued,[279] but they need not be senior.[280] The board otherwise has discretion in setting price and terms, with the caveat that the net effective interest rate—as computed according to Texas Government Code Chapter 1204—may not exceed 10 percent per year.[281] The board may also determine under what time and price circumstances

the bonds are callable before maturity,[282] and whether the bonds will be registered as to principal or as to principal and interest.[283]

To execute the bonds, the board president must sign and the secretary, countersign as provided by Texas Government Code Chapter 618.[284]

After sale of bonds, the board may set aside proceeds to pay for up to two years' interest on the bonds.[285] Other permissible set-aside include for operating expenses during the first year[286] and to fund a bond or other reserve fund.[287]

Bonds and issuance records must be submitted to the Texas Attorney General, who, upon finding them valid, binding, and secured, must approve the bonds.[288] The Texas Comptroller then registers the bonds and certifies the registration.[289]

There are two major distinctions for bond issues in a county-initiated HD: First, voters must approve bond issuance in an election held in accordance with Texas Government Code Chapter 1251.[290] Second, the county judge must execute the bonds in the name of the district, and county clerk must countersign.[291]

Refunding Bonds

In voter-initiated districts, refunding bonds may be issued either in the manner provided by Texas Government Code Chapter 1207 Subchapter D,[292] or, if they are to be sold, in the manner provided by Texas Government Code Chapter 1207 Subchapters A-C.[293]

In county-initiated districts, refunding bonds must be issued in the manner provided for other bonds of the district except that an election is not required.[294]

ALTERNATIVE CAPITAL FUNDS PROCEDURE IN COUNTY-INITIATED DISTRICTS

A process alternative to the regular revenue bond process exists for county-initiated districts seeking TO raise funds to acquire, construct, equip, and improve its hospital system. If voters have previously approved the levy and assessment of an ad valorem property tax by a county-initiated district, the commissioners court may call an election regarding issuance of combination tax and revenue bonds and other short-term and long-term obligations in the amounts and upon the terms recommended and at the times requested by the board.[295]

CERTIFICATES OF OBLIGATION IN COUNTY-INITIATED DISTRICTS

A class of securities that may be sold for cash,[296] certificates of obligation can pay a contractual obligation incurred for many purposes, including construction; purchase of materials, supplies, equipment, machinery, buildings, land, and rights-of-way; professional services; renovations and improvements; and even destruction of dangerous structures, amongst other things.[297]

With the approval of the commissioners court, the board may issue certificates of obligation consistent with Texas Local Government Code Chapter 271, Subchapter C.[298] If after adequate notice at least five percent of qualified voters timely protest the issuance of a certificate of obligation, an election must be held.[299]

EXTERNAL REMUNERATION

As a preliminary matter, the HD may contract with the state or federal government for reimbursement of the treatment of sick, diseased, or injured persons.[300] Voter-initiated HDs may also contract with a local, state, or federal government entity to provide for the "investigatory or welfare needs of inhabitants of the district."[301]

The HD must additionally seek reimbursement in two cases: First, if the district provides care and treatment to a sick, diseased, or injured person who resides outside the district, it must require reimbursement from the appropriate governmental entity.[302] Second, if a person from outside the district is imprisoned in a county or municipal jail, the HD must seek reimbursement from the sheriff or police chief of the county or municipality for any care or treatment provided.[303]

GIFTS AND ENDOWMENTS

An HD may accept gifts and endowments to hold and administer as required by the respective donors.[304]

INVESTMENTS

The board in a voter-initiated district may invest operating, depreciation, or building reserves only in:

- U.S. bonds;[305]
- U.S. Treasury certificates of indebtedness;[306]
- Texas state, county, municipal, or school district bonds; and[307]
- Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC)-insured shares or share accounts of Texas savings and loan associations or federal savings and loan associations domiciled in Texas.[308]

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

Only the HDs of Dallas and Tarrant Counties are expressly authorized to sell, license, or otherwise benefit from their intellectual property.[311]

Finances

The board may establish the HD's fiscal year.[312] An annual audit is required, and it, along with other district records, must be open to physical inspection during regular business hours at the principal office.[313] The board must name at least one bank to serve as depository for district funds, and if the amount exceeds the amount secured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, the bank must execute a bond or other security.[314] Selection of a depository by county-initiated HDs are subject to term limits.[315]

The proposed annual budget must be approved by the board after, in a voter-initiated district, a public hearing,[316] or, in a county-initiated district, before commissioners court approval.[317] No money may be spent that is not included in the annual budget,[318] but the budget can be amended on the board's approval.[319]

Except for construction contracts and bonds, an HD may not incur debt that cannot be repaid in the current or fiscal year.[320] The HD also may not obligate the state nor may the legislature make a direct appropriation to an HD.[321]

Workforce

The board may adopt rules for duties, functions, and responsibilities of HD staff and employees.[322] It may also enter into operating or management contracts relating to hospital facilities[323]. county officers, employees, and agents, the district must pay salaries and expenses for the work activities of those persons,[324] including for legal services by a county, district, or criminal district attorney.[325]

Administration

In addition to administration of required services as described in this subsection, county-initiated districts may take on the administrative functions and services for an FQHC or FQHC-look-alike.[326]

The board of a voter-initiated district may appoint an administrator, assistant administrator, and attorney, each of whom serves at the will of the board in a compensated role.[327] In a county-initiated HD, the board has express statutory authority to appoint only an administrator—to an at-will, four-year term[328]--and legal counsel.[329] County-initiated HD boards may also expressly appoint an assistant administrator in the event of the administrator's inability to perform the duties of the job.[330]

The administrator may hire non-physician staff and has the broad authority to supervise and direct the general affairs of the HD, subject to any limitations prescribed by the board.[331] Similar to the directors, the administrator must execute a personal or district-funded bond payable to the district in an amount of at least $5,000 if voter-initiated[332] or $10,000 if county-initiated.[333] The board of a county-initiated HD may determine the appropriate amount for the bond of an assistant administrator.[334]

The administrator's responsibilities include preparing a proposed annual budget inclusive of a complete financial statement[335] and, after the close of the fiscal year, a sworn statement accounting of the current money held and disbursements made.[336]

Medical And Other Staff

The board may appoint to the staff any doctors necessary for efficient operation, including temporary appointments.[337] In a county-initiated HD, medical staff appointments are subject to a four-year contractual limitation.[338]

The HD may also employ, or delegate to the administrator to employ, other employees deemed necessary, including technicians, nurses, fiscal agents, accountants, architects, and additional attorneys.[339] The board may also appoint or contract a tax assessor-collector.[340]

Only the HDs of Dallas, Tarrant, Bexar, and El Paso Counties are expressly authorized to employ and commission peace officers.[341]

Staff Retirement Benefits

The board may provide retirement benefits for employees of the district by establishing or administering a retirement program.[342] Alternatively, the board may elect to participate in the Texas County and District Retirement System or in any other statewide retirement system in which the district is eligible to participate.[343]

Municipal Hospital Authorities

This subsection summarizes select legal requirements for municipal hospital authorities in Texas, focusing on a high-level understanding of their establishment, governance, and financing. It does not attempt to include all requirements, and it is inclusive only of select statutory and regulatory provisions applicable to Laredo, Webb County, Texas. Although a literature review was conducted through The University of Texas library, very few relevant articles were found, and nothing was deemed necessary or appropriate for inclusion. Opinions of the Texas Attorney General are incorporated where relevant, as are limited references to rules and regulations in pertinent parts.

Definition

Generally, a municipal hospital authority (MHA) is a sovereign formed by a local government rather than one operated directly by or under contract with the local government as a municipal hospital[344] or operated commercially, charitably, or by a national or state government. An MHA can acquire, own, or lease hospitals. Within Texas, MHAs can be contrasted with county hospital authorities[345] and hospital districts formed by voters.[346] MHAs may be a joint effort between a municipality and its county.[347]

Authority

The Hospital Authority Act, codified at , permits the governing body of one or more municipalities to create a hospital authority and designate its name.

CREATION

In adopting an ordinance creating a hospital authority, the municipality's governing body must find that the creation of the authority is "in the best interest of the municipality and its residents." [348] Similarly, if two or more municipalities each adopt an ordinance creating a hospital authority, the governing bodies must find that the creation of the authority is "in the best interest of the municipalities." [349]

DISSOLUTION

An MHA may be dissolved by ordinance if the MHA's assets and liabilities are sold or transferred to the municipality or another person consistent with existing bonds, warrants, or other obligations of the MHA. [350] Voters may act to stop a dissolution through an election process. [351]

Business Organization

STATUS

An MHA is both a body politic and body corporate. [352] Its legal distinctive status derives from its power of perpetual succession with its own seal. [353] MHAs enjoy other characteristics common to private corporations, such as the power to sue and be sued, and to make, amend, and repeal its own bylaws. [354] It can also form a nonprofit corporation to provide services. [355] It is considered a municipal corporation for purposes of litigation related to eminent domain, [356] but, if in a very large county, a unit of local government and not a municipality for purposes of litigation related to tortious liability. [357]

GOVERNANCE

An MHA must be governed by seven to eleven uncompensated directors serving terms of no more than two years. [358] Officers and employees of the municipality are ineligible for appointment to the board. [359] The enabling ordinance must specify the precise of number of directors, but the size of the board can be changed through amendment, assuming to do so is not inconsistent with bond or trust requirements. [360] Those requirements may dictate the selection and term of the temporary board. [361]

The manner of selecting the permanent board is fact dependent. For example, if the MHA comprises more than one municipality, they would appoint half the directors unless they agree that a different division would be better. [362] If the MHA purchases an existing hospital, that contract is controlling. [363] On the other hand, if the bonds are issued under the Hospital Project Financing Act, the municipality may require the board to submit a slate of candidates for the municipality to approve. In such an instance, the municipality can also declare the board subject to term limits.[364]

The board is required to have at least four officers—president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer—plus any others provided for in the bylaws.[365] The president and vice-president must be directors, but the secretary and treasurer do not have to be.[366] The positions of secretary and treasurer may be combined.[367] The only termination provision under statute concerns default of a trust indenture: The trust indenture may grant the trustee authority to terminate the then-current directors and appoint new ones.[368]

ROLE OF ELECTORATE

Voters and the board may drive certain actions by the MHA. In each case, an election is required if the MHA receives a petition signed by at least 10% of the qualified voters. The election need not occur on a uniform election date. These actions include:

- Question of board resolution to sell or close a hospital owned and operated by the MHA[369]
- Question of notice of intent to sell the property to a political subdivision[370]
- Proposition for the issuance of revenue bonds, [371] and
- Referendum on ordinance dissolving the MHA[372]

Services

An MHA may provide services directly or through contract. Regardless, it does not have to provide indigent health care assistance.[373]

HOSPITAL

An MHA may construct, purchase, enlarge, furnish, or equip one or more hospitals,[374] consistent with the Hospital Project Financing Act at . Hospital projects include land, building, equipment, machinery, furniture, facilities and improvements.[375]

Permissible uses[376] for an MHA's hospital project broadly include anything related or essential to the operation of a health facility or system, such as:

- Hospital
- Clinic
- Health facility
- Extended care facility

An MHA may operate and maintain one or more hospitals, but it must do so without the intervention of private profit unless it leases the hospital. [378] MHA hospitals must be licensed consistent with the provisions at .

CARE FOR PERSONS WHO ARE ELDERLY OR DISABLED

Once non-urban [379] MHAs own or operate a hospital, they can provide facilities and services for persons who are elderly or disabled so long as there is not a private provider available and accessible. [380]

PUBLIC HEALTH

An MHA may use its available assets to promote public health and general welfare initiatives if it no longer owns or operates a hospital because it is has sold or closed its hospital(s). [381] Although debts must be satisfied as well, in such circumstance an MHA can undertake any activity that the board determines is necessary or appropriate to improve public health, promote wellness, prevent disease, or enhance the general welfare of its residents. [382]

Eligible activities include owning, operating, or funding an indigent health care clinic, medical research facility, medical training facility, or other health care facility. [383] Similar to other services, the MHA may also provide direct or indirect financial assistance to a nonprofit organization that owns or operates the aforementioned facilities or a hospital. Revenue

The authority does not have taxing power.[386] Its property is exempt from taxation if held entirely for public purposes.[387]

RATE SETTING

Without tax income, proper rate setting is the means for an MHA to assure a hospital operates profitably. Thus, rates must be set and charged in sufficient amount to pay operational expenses, due interest on bonds, create a sinking fund to timely pay bonds, and maintain a bond reserved fund.[388]

BONDS

An MHA may issue revenue bonds to provide funds for its purposes,[389] but voters may defeat the issuance through a referendum.[390] The bonds must be payable from and secured by a pledge of, revenues from the operation of one or more hospitals and any other revenues from owning hospital property.[391] Additionally, revenue bonds may be secured by a mortgage or deed of trust on the MHA's real or personal property,[392] and they need not be senior.[393] Revenue bonds must mature serially or otherwise not more than forty (40) years after they are issued.[394] Bonds are negotiable, but must be approved by the state attorney general.[395] A rural MHA may issue revenue bonds and other notes to provide services or care to persons who are elderly or disabled.[396]

LOANS

Only MHAs in municipalities of less than 25,000 persons may borrow money from a lending institution.[397]

GIFTS AND ENDOWMENTS

An MHA may accept gifts and endowments to hold and administer as required by respective donors.[398]

INVESTMENTS

An MHA may invest its funds in accordance with applicable municipal law.[399]

Administration and Medical Staff

An MHA may employ a managing administrator and other employees, experts, agents, and legal counsel.[400] The administrator may manage the hospital, including hiring and discharging other employees.[401] It is also permissible to contract with healthcare professionals to supplement the MHA's medical staff so long as staff remuneration is consistent with federal and state anti-kickback statutes[402] as well as other anti-fraud and abuse laws.

SECTION 3 – OPTIONS FOR ADDRESSING GAPS IN LOCAL HEALTHCARE SERVICES

The following options for addressing gaps in local healthcare services in Laredo were developed to address the disparities identified in the gap analysis. Major gaps in Laredo include lack of primary care physicians, lack of specialty care, particularly cardiology, endocrinology, and neurology, lack of affordable healthcare, and insufficient behavioral healthcare. Webb County is currently a primary care, dental health, and mental health Health Professional Shortage Area (HPSA) as well as a Medically Underserved Area (MUA), as both are defined by the federal Health Resources and Services Administration. To no longer be a HPSA, Webb County needs an additional 20 FTE primary care physicians, 30 FTE dentists, and 11 FTE psychiatrists.

Necessary Preconditions for Addressing Gaps in Healthcare Services

Before any strategies to address gaps in healthcare services can be implemented, two major sets of requirements must be met – who will facilitate the implementation of the strategies, and how the strategies will be funded.

Administrative Requirements

All options available to Laredo for addressing gaps in healthcare services require someone to do something, so stakeholders must decide who will implement the chosen strategies or facilitate their execution. Major options for implementing strategies for addressing gaps in healthcare services include:

- One or more existing entities such as the City of Laredo Health Department, City of Laredo Economic Development Department, Laredo Economic Development Corporation, or one or both major hospitals; or
- A new entity such as a hospital district or newly established nonprofit corporation.

Financial Requirements

Similarly, many options for recruiting clinicians and expanding facility capacity have associated costs-requiring a financing mechanism. Clinician recruitment and facility capacity financing options include:

- Establishment of a hospital district with taxing authority
- Ongoing direct funding by the city, county, major hospitals, or other stakeholders, and
- Bond issuance by city or county for capital investments

Addressing Gaps in Healthcare Services

The following options were based on national best practices and evidence-based strategies for addressing gaps in healthcare services, particularly with respect to physicians, nurses, and behavioral health. Strategies for addressing physician gaps include financial incentives and non-financial tactics.

Addressing Gaps in Physician Specialties

Stakeholder interviews identified recruitment as a barrier to meeting the physician shortage gap in Laredo. Providers expressed challenges in getting medical professionals to move to Laredo and subsequent difficulty for others to adapt to Laredo. We recommend a combined set of strategies to overcome barriers in recruitment and retention including financial incentives and non-financial tactics for recruitment and strategies for encouraging local students to pursue medical education. In addition, we recommend directing any strategies internationally. It seems likely that physicians in Mexico and South America might welcome the opportunity to work and live in the U.S. and hospitals are well-positioned to sponsor the appropriate visas.

Select Strategies for Addressing Gaps in Physician Specialties

- Contracts with income guarantees
- Signing bonuses
- Relocation payments
- CME allowances
- Medical education loan forgiveness

It is important to note that, while the hospitals in Laredo have been and continue to be involved in active physician recruitment within certain specialties, the hospitals, as for-profit entities, will naturally recruit for specialties that will allow the hospitals to provide services rather than for physician specialties for which there is the most community need. Therefore, it is likely necessary for other entities, such as a hospital district or a task force administered jointly by the city and county, to drive physician specialist recruitment focused on community need.

FINANCIAL INCENTIVES FOR RECRUITMENT

Many of the commonly used strategies for recruiting physicians involve financial incentives. Merritt Hawkins, a large healthcare professional recruiting firm used by hospitals and other healthcare organizations to recruit clinicians, publishes an annual report describing the different clinician recruiting strategies they use on their client's behalf. Clinician recruiting strategy descriptions are below.

Starting Salaries

Average starting salaries for physicians and APNs are a useful indicator of financial incentives needed to attract professionals who are either already established in a practice or completing training. Starting salaries for primary care increased by 3% from $243,000 in 2021 to $251,000 in 2022.

Table 18: National average starting salaries by physician specialty, AMN Healthcare 2022

Specialty	2020/21	2021/22	Increase/Decrease
Cardiology (non. Inv.)	$446,000	$484,000	+8%
Cardiology (Inv.)	$611,000	$527,000	-16%
Neurology	$332,000	$356,000	+7%
Psychiatry	$279,000	$299,000	+7%
Pulmonology/Critical Care	$385,000	$412,000	+6%
Hematology/ Oncology	$385,000	$404,000	+5%

Physician Contract Structures

Most Merritt Hawkins searches (61%) offered employment contracts with starting base salary supplemented by production bonuses. Production bonuses are often offered as incentive to reward behavior such as volume of work or adherence to quality guidelines. Production bonuses determine maximum income that physicians can earn beyond their salary. Straight salary structure accounted for 33% of searches. Straight salary structure is usually adopted by FQHCs, urgent care, and academic settings. Some medical groups are moving toward the straight salary structure as they have found it is less ambiguous and results in less friction among physicians. Income guarantees are essentially loans that must be repaid but might be forgiven over time. This structure is usually for physicians in solo or small private practices. With the decreasing number of private practices, this structure is rarely used today however contracts featuring income guarantees has grown year-over-year to 4% from 2%. [404]

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Signing Bonuses

Signing bonuses are a popular recruitment incentive used by hospitals and medical groups. They provide additional motivation for candidates who may be considering multiple opportunities and offer an immediate, tangible reward that can make opportunities distinct. Signing bonuses have significantly increased post-COVID. Signing bonuses increased from 61% to 92% in the past year, a 29% increase. This significant increase indicates a more competitive market, but this may be due to a surge in demand due to COVID and may decrease in later years. Signing bonuses for physicians averaged $31,000 in 2022 up from $29,656 in 2021 a $1,344 increase.

Paid Relocation

Paid relocation is another common incentive for physician recruitment, specifically for recruiting outside of the local community. Relocation was offered in 78% of recruitment searches this year a slight increase from 74% the previous year. The average relocation allowance for physicians was $10,634 in 2022, a slight increase from the previous year ($10,634).

Housing Supports

A physician recruitment strategy could include one or more of several different types of housing supports, including favorable loan terms from local banks, assistance identifying housing options, or even paid housing.

Family Supports

Family and spousal supports could be included as an inducement to convince family members to support the idea of relocating to the community. Such supports could include employment of the spouse, if any, or assisting the spouse in locating employment. Additional family supports could include connecting the family to established residents with similar interests and/or other newcomers, ongoing community orientation, connection to local community organizations/clubs, and/or membership in the local country club.

CME Allowances

Continuing Medical Education (CME) allowances are included in most benefit packages in Merritt Hawkins searches (92%). The average CME allowance for physicians in 2022 was $3,691 and did not change significantly from the previous year ($3,695).

Medical Education Loan Repayment

Medical Education Loan Repayment is an incentive for the recruiting hospital or other facility pays the physician's medical school loans in exchange for the physician's commitment to stay in the community for a specific time. With the average medical school debt exceeding $190,000, this method may be even more effective. Offers that included medical education loan repayment have decreased from 21% the previous year to 18% in 2022. The average amount of loan forgiveness decreased from $104,630 the previous year to $101,572 in 2022. Most contracts featuring educational loan forgiveness (77%) required three-year terms, followed by two-year terms (15%), and lastly, one-year terms (8%).

[404] Review of Physician and Advanced Practitioner Recruiting Incentives, AMN Healthcare 2022

NON-FINANCIAL TACTICS FOR RECRUITMENT

Virtual Interviews

The shift to virtual interviews is the most visible change in physician and APN recruitment since the COVID-19 pandemic. Some medical employers have switched to an entirely virtual interview model and found it effective. Offering virtual interviews and tours can allow more flexibility and may be more appealing to candidates than the traditional in-person interview.

Leveraging Digital Content (Marketing)

Some employers are enriching their marketing efforts through digital content such as professionally created videos showcasing various departments, testimonials from physicians, hospital tours, campus maps and community life. By leveraging digital content employers can reach a broader candidate market and allow assessment of a practice and community before or without an in-person visit.

COVID-19 Protocols

Vaccine requirements and COVID-19 protocols are now reasons why some candidates are looking for other opportunities and in some cases is their key motivator. Employers should be upfront about their COVID-19 requirements and protocols to save time in the recruiting process.

Flexibility

New entrants to the physician recruiting market such as urgent care centers and retail clinics are offering candidates increased flexibility with work hours, work from home options, and telemedicine which all appeal to candidates especially post-COVID. Traditional employers such as hospitals should be aware of this trend and try to provide as much practice flexibility in terms of schedules, subspeciality work, and duties in response.

Focus on Physician Well-being/Retention

Another effect of COVID is accentuated physician well-being in the workplace. This includes offering a safe environment and providing tangible support such as enhanced compensation, additional staffing through locum tenens (substitute physicians), use of NPs and PAs, telemedicine, artificial intelligence, and flexible schedules. Employers should be able to demonstrate concrete ways to improve the medical environment in response to the pandemic. In addition, in cases where a particular specialty has not previously been present in the community, adding just one or two physicians of that specialty could lead to challenges with always needing to be on call, which could create significant stress and an unpleasant working environment. Solutions to this problem could include a combination of mid-level practitioners, telemedicine, and contracted traveling physicians.

Basic Tenets

Efficiency in the recruiting process and accommodating candidate needs leads to the best chance of success for recruiters. It is important to expedite the search process, extending the offer/employment contract promptly. Consider creative incentives such as resident stipends, typically offered to physicians in their last year of training, and housing stipends.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Local Promotion of Medical Education

With local students having to go outside of Laredo for medical school, the city or county could offer scholarships to local students who pursue medical school and agree to return to Laredo upon completion of their training.

Sponsorship of International Medical Graduates

Medical graduates in other countries are often interested in working in the United States. Particularly international medical graduates from Latin America may be well suited to the realities of the culture and predominant language in Laredo. Sponsorship of appropriate visas for international medical graduates could be a component of a broader physician recruitment strategy.

Addressing Gaps in Nurse Staffing

Stakeholder interviews identified retention of nursing personnel as a major issue in Laredo. Many staff nurses left their positions during the pandemic, seeking higher pay and more flexible schedules through travel or contract nursing. A report by Kaufmann Hall identifies that total hospital labor expenses increased by 37% from 2020 to 2022. The financial incentives and non-financial tactics described in the section above for physicians can be applied to nurse recruitment as well and, as with physician recruitment, the scope of nurse recruiting should be international.

Select Strategies for Addressing Nurse Staffing Shortfalls
- Financial incentives as above for physicians
- Increasing local pipeline

FINANCIAL INCENTIVES FOR RECRUITMENT

Average starting salaries for nurse practitioners (NPs) and certified registered nurse anesthetists (CRNAs) have decreased from 2020/2021 to 2021/2022. NP salary for all positions decreased from $140,000 to $138,000 and CRNA salary for all positions decreased from $222,000 to $211,000, a decline of 5%. However, starting salaries for academic positions are lower than non-Academic salaries for both NP and CRNA positions. Average salary for Academic NP positions was $128,000 versus $153,000 for non-Academic positions. The gap is wider for CRNAs with average starting salary for academic CRNA positions at $170,000 versus $245,000 for non-academic CRNA positions. When only comparing non-academic NP positions to all 2021 NP positions, NP salaries increased 5% year-to-year and CRNA salaries increased by 10% year-to-year. Many Academic Medical Centers have increased their salary offers to get closer to non-Academic averages, but significant gaps persist. The decrease in starting salary for academic positions may make academic nursing positions less appealing to recruits.

- NP and PA bonuses averaged $9,000 in 2022 up from $7,233 in 2021, a $1,767 increase.
- The average relocation allowance for NPs and PA was $8,842 in 2022.
- The average CME allowance for NPs and PAs was $2,537 in 2022, a slight decrease from the previous year ($2,956).
- Average amount of loan forgiveness for NPs and PAs dramatically decreased from $80,000 the previous year to $55,950 in 2022. This steep decrease may be an abnormality as loan repayments for NPs and PA have increased over the last 5 years and demand for NPs continues to increase.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

INCREASING LOCAL PIPELINE

Laredo is home to two schools of nursing. These offer the opportunity to increase the number of available nurses in the community by identifying and attracting residents to train in Laredo and retain them once they have graduated. Expanding the pipeline for new nurses must begin with students as young as grade school. They must be exposed to STEM (science, technology, engineering , and math) professions early in their educational career. This can begin with participation by local health care professionals in career days or developing programs that invite young children into the health care setting for appropriate activities. These efforts must continue through junior high and high school to maintain students' interest. Ongoing engagement will increase the ability to recruit local talent.

The rate-limiting factor for most nursing programs is the lack of qualified faculty to teach nursing students. As cited above, the salaries for academic versus non-academic positions are low. This dissuades nurses from pursuing academic careers. In addition, training nurses and other healthcare professionals requires clinical space to achieve hands-on experience. Hospitals and other healthcare settings must be willing to open their doors to students.

Lack of Inpatient Psychiatric Capacity

Based on Laredo's need assessment, HMA drafted a financial projection of the viability of establishing an inpatient psychiatric unit for a hospital. The projection indicates that expanding inpatient psychiatric services would require significant financial investment, and additional sources of revenue should be explored to address patient needs.

FINANCIAL SUMMARY

The pro forma model in Table 18 was developed by HMA and assumes approximately 3.5 years of operating activity to accommodate the 17 months required for construction.

Table 19: Pro Forma Financial Results

Category	Value	Note
Bed Count	14
ADC	12	86% Utilization
Square Ft. Required	7,700	550 Sq Ft per Bed
Estimated Capital	$2.9M	$206K per Bed
Construction Timeline	17	Months
FTEs Required	73.4	All Shifts + Weekends
Average Cost per FTE	90,500	Salary + Fringe (All Employee Types)
5 Year Operating Revenue	$11.7M
5 Year Operating Expenses	($28.2M)
5 Year Net Income (Loss)	($16.5M)
5 Year Net Present Value	(17.2M)	Assumes 5.5% Cost of Capital

METHODOLOGY

HMA developed a framework for its strategic financial analysis to prioritize specialty service expansion that considers the following questions:

1. Patient Need – Will the new service address patient's need?
2. Strategic Viability – Can Laredo obtain the resources required to start the service?
3. Financial Viability – Will the service be financially viable for Laredo?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

HMA utilized several data sources to perform the analysis, including Medicare and Medicaid cost reports, Medicare and Medicaid agency data, publicly available data, and regulatory data. Further, HMA used its knowledge of hospital operations, clinical services, and Texas market expertise to understand the imperatives that strategic expansion planning should consider.

HMA modeled a projection based on an IP Psych unit with 14 beds. This estimate is a feasible starting point, as it would allow the hospital to create a staffing model consistent with industry standards, and potentially generate sufficient patient volume to support the additional fixed cost of the unit's operation. HMA also assumed that enough real estate is available at the existing location to accommodate the estimated 7,700 sf required for the unit. The staffing and capital requirements are based on comparable operating models from Texas and the Midwest hospitals.

The operating model projects the need for about 73.0 FTEs. With Laredo's high population of uninsured and government-sponsored insurance patients, the operation supports a $16.5M operating loss over five years. Accordingly, HMA believes that expanding Inpatient Psych services requires a significant financial and strategic investment, and recommends exploring alternative service offerings to adequately address patient and community needs.

Environmental Considerations

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

Some of the barriers to the recruitment of healthcare professionals may be the perceived lack of amenities in the community compared to other cities and the perception that the city is not safe due to drug-related gang violence. Ultimately, both perceptions can potentially be addressed by efforts outside of the healthcare space, primarily economic development. While outside the scope of our analysis, recruitment of healthcare professionals, particularly physician specialists, should be coordinated with economic development activities in the city, and any in-person visits to the city should include significant communication regarding the safety of the city and its amenities.

PENDING LITIGATION REGARDING PHYSICIAN RECRUITMENT

This report was researched and drafted during the pendency of a lawsuit involving no fewer than five healthcare organizations in the city. The allegations, if true, may mean that certain professional shortages are not solely due to market-based circumstances. The lawsuit may also have effects on the professional environment into which the City of Laredo seeks to recruit.

The lawsuit pertains to alleged anticompetitive behavior by several healthcare organizations in Laredo.[405] The respondents are alleged to have engaged in anticompetitive and tortious behavior that (1) rendered ineffective plaintiff's recruitment of certain specialists; (2) denied patient access to care by certain physician specialties when the plaintiff was the referring provider; and (3) induced local practitioners within certain specialties to cease practicing at the plaintiff's facility in favor of practice with the respondents.[406]

Without speaking to the ultimate merits of the claims by either side, the lawsuit may impact current clinician insufficiency and patient access to care. The mere fact of a lawsuit is a stressor for the parties and their professional relationships. In addition, news of the lawsuit may shape the perception of Laredo's professional environment by potential recruits.

Public Financing Options

The City of Laredo may indirectly operate a hospital through the formation of one of two entities—a municipal hospital authority (MHA) under Texas Health and Safety Code Chapter 262 or a hospital district (HD or district) under Chapters 281 or 286. The entity then acquires and operates a hospital directly or through contract. MHAs and HDs have their legal status and distinct rules for formation, operation, and dissolution, but their hospitals are generally subject to the same regulations and standards as any other hospital. However, hospital districts are subject to the kind of legislative oversight that differentiates one county from another based on size, geography, or other characteristics, which can create unique statutory requirements.

Healthcare Services

MHAs and HDs have different statutory requirements for services. Still, they must provide primary outpatient and inpatient care to citizens within their boundaries, regardless of patient ability to pay.

MHA SERVICES

Express permissible uses for an MHA's hospital project broadly include anything related or essential to the operation of a health facility or system, such as a

- Hospital
- Clinic
- Health facility
- Extended care facility
- Outpatient facility
- Rehabilitation or recreation facility
- Pharmacy
- Medical laboratory
- Dental laboratory
- Physicians' office building
- Laundry or administrative facility

If an MHA sells or closes its hospitals, it may use its available assets to promote public health and general welfare initiatives if it no longer owns or operates a hospital. Eligible activities include owning, operating, or funding an indigent health care clinic, medical research facility, medical training facility, or other health care facility. The MHA may also provide direct or indirect financial assistance to a nonprofit organization that owns or operates one of these facilities or a hospital. Nonprofits that support initiatives promoting health education, wellness, or disease prevention are also eligible for direct or indirect financial assistance.

HD SERVICES

An HD must provide the following basic healthcare services:

- Primary and preventative services to meet the community needs, including immunizations, medical screening services, and annual physical examinations
- Inpatient and outpatient hospital services
- Rural health clinics
- Laboratory and x-ray services

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Family planning services
- Physician services
- Payment for not more than three prescription drugs a month
- Skilled nursing facility services, regardless of the patient's age

An HD may, but does not have to, operate or provide mobile emergency medical services.

Revenue

MHAs and HDs are also distinct in the statutory approach to financing.

MHA BONDS

An MHA does not have taxing power and does not pay property taxes on property held for the public benefit. Without tax income, proper rate-setting is key for an MHA to ensure a hospital operates profitably. Thus, rates must be set and charged sufficiently to pay operational expenses, due interest on bonds, create a sinking fund to timely pay bonds in, and maintain a bond reserve fund.

An MHA may issue revenue bonds to provide funds for its purposes, though voters may defeat the issuance through a referendum. The bonds must be payable from and secured by a pledge of revenues from the operation of one or more hospitals and any other revenues from owning hospital property. Additionally, revenue bonds may be secured by a mortgage or deed of trust on the MHA's real or personal property, though they need not be senior. Revenue bonds must mature serially or otherwise not more than forty (40) years after they are issued. Bonds are negotiable but must be approved by the state attorney general.

An MHA may invest its funds following applicable municipal law. Only MHAs in municipalities of less than 25,000 persons may borrow money from a lending institution. Still, all MHAs may accept gifts and endowments to hold and administer as the respective donors require.

HD BONDS AND TAXATION

Like MHAs, HDs may issue revenue bonds, but they have the additional options of levying a tax and requesting a nominal fee from all patients.

HOSPITAL DISTRICT TAXATION SCENARIOS

The most populous hospital districts in the state have property tax rates that range from about $0.05 to about $0.40 per $100 valuation with an average of $0.175 (all rates per $100 valuation). [407]

Table 20: Tax Rates for Largest Hospital Districts

Entity	Rate	County	Population
Harris County Hospital District	0.157	Harris	4,697,957
Dallas County Hospital District	0.285	Dallas	2,604,722
Tarrant County Hospital District	0.225	Tarrant	2,091,953
Bexar County Hospital District	0.257	Bexar	1,990,522
Travis County Healthcare District	0.103	Travis	1,267,795
University Medical Center of El Paso	0.210	El Paso	860,485
Montgomery County Hospital District	0.055	Montgomery	607,999
Angleton-Danbury Hospital District	0.149	Brazoria	368,575
Nueces County Hospital District	0.107	Nueces	353,594
Lubbock County Hospital District	0.103	Lubbock	308,580
Midland County Hospital District	0.091	Midland	166,964
Ector County Hospital District	0.131	Ector	161,258
Electra Hospital District	0.407	Wichita	129,419

A hospital district in Webb County could raise between $15 and $60 million annually at tax rates between $0.05 and $0.20 based on approximately $30 billion in taxable property.

Table 21: Projected Tax Revenues at Different Tax Rates

Potential tax rate	Estimated tax revenue
0.05	$14,676,874
0.10	$29,353,748
0.15	$44,030,622
0.20	$58,707,496

These potential rates would be low compared to the county's other major taxing entities. [408]

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

The tax revenue collected from this taxation level is like the estimated uncompensated care costs the two major hospitals bear. [409]

Table 23: Estimated hospital uncompensated care

Hospital	Estimated uncompensated care (2020)
LMC	$20,757,976
Doctors	$12,454,786

As part of a multi-party agreement, in exchange for the establishment of a hospital district and the decrease in uncompensated care that they would then enjoy, the hospitals may be willing to make larger investments in physician and nurse recruitment than they currently do and/or establish and administer an inpatient psychiatric unit, even at a loss.

Sample Roadmap for Addressing Healthcare Service Gaps

Phase	Examples
Establish a stakeholder steering committee
Develop consensus on priority gaps to address	• Nursing workforce • Physician specialties
Identify strategies for addressing priority gaps	• Financial incentives
Identify an administrative entity and financing mechanism	• Establish hospital district •
Execute strategies	• Transfer county indigent healthcare program from county to hospital district • Broaden eligibility criteria for county indigent healthcare program • Establish contracts between hospital districts, hospitals, Gateway, and specialists • Establish and market financial incentives for recruiting physicians and nurses through hospital districts or hospitals

Recommendations

Recognizing that there is potentially resistance to the establishment of a hospital district, but also that it is a local government structure designed to address local healthcare needs that has been employed by communities across the state representing around 75% of the state population, two independent tracks of recommendations are described below – one with a hospital district and one without.

Hospital District Track

- Webb County Commissioner's Court votes to hold a local election to establish a hospital district and set the ad valorem tax rate.

[409] HMA calculations based on pro rata share of statewide uncompensated care. Texas Health and Human Services Commission. Hospital Uncompensated Care. https://www.hhs.texas.gov/sites/default/files/documents/laws-regulations/reports-presentations/2020/hb1-hospital-uncompensated-care-report-dec-2020.pdf

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Stakeholders (e.g., local hospitals) develop and execute a strategy for supporting the election.
- Eligible county residents vote to establish a hospital district and set the ad valorem tax rate.
- County commissioners name board of the hospital district.
- Board hires an executive director, who hires staff.
- County transfers indigent healthcare program to hospital district.
- Hospital district establishes steering committee of stakeholders to establish physician and nursing recruitment priorities and develop recruitment and retention program including financial incentives, family and social supports, and community integration.
- Hospital district recruits physicians and nurses and contracts with one of the hospitals to establish an inpatient psychiatric unit.

Non-Hospital District Track

- City and county establish a task force comprised of a small number of their employees and leadership to administer the physician and nursing recruitment initiatives.
- Solicit donations from local businesses and apply for grants to support the recruitment activities.
- Task force establishes steering committee of stakeholders to establish physician and nursing recruitment priorities and develop recruitment and retention program including financial incentives, family and social supports, and community integration.
- Task force recruits physicians and nurses.

ATTACHMENT 1 –SITE VISITS SUMMARY

Health Management Associates (HMA) conducted site visits at six main healthcare providers in Laredo, Texas, as part of a health needs assessment sponsored by the City of Laredo through the public health department on September 19-21, 2022. Site visits were conducted with leadership staff from the following healthcare providers: Border Region Behavioral Health Center, Doctors Hospital of Laredo, Gateway Community Health Center, Laredo Medical Center, and Laredo Specialty and Rehabilitation Hospitals. Each provider was asked the questions listed below. Each answer below is a synthesis of the responses given by the providers. The answers below are not HMA's conclusions or recommendations.

1. What are the most prevalent healthcare conditions that impact residents
   - Diabetes (*5) and diabetic wounds
   - End-stage renal disease
   - Hep C (mainly due to intravenous drug use)
   - Hypertension (*5)
   - Infusion care for antibiotics or wound care for indigent or undocumented patients
   - Mental health and psychiatric care (*6)
   - Obesity
   - Dialysis for patients on ventilators
   - Indicates the number of providers who identified healthcare condition*

2. Can residents easily access care locally, or are there barriers to care? If so, what are they?
   All providers agreed a broad range of healthcare services were difficult for Medicaid and uninsured patients to access. Laredo needs approximately 20 more primary care providers, with a two to three months wait. Assisted living support services were also difficult to access.

   Specialty care was especially limited, with many specialty care needs referred to San Antonio or Corpus Christi. Additionally, providers indicated it was challenging to close the loop with referrals to specialty care providers, further compromising quality care for Laredoans. Behavioral health services were severely lacking, including psychiatry and inpatient psychiatric capacity. Providers also noted limited resources due to patient needs from catchment areas (rural) in Webb County.

   Other barriers include stigma, especially for "Border Region" patients, undocumented individuals who are afraid to access services for themselves and family members, and people who do not have transportation from more rural areas.

3. Do you have medical and administrative employee gaps or needs?
   All providers discussed challenges recruiting doctors and licensed professionals to move to or live in Laredo. Many use providers hired through staffing agencies and state nurses (especially during COVID). Some providers adopted team nursing models to accommodate those working 3-4 jobs. Specialty care was an area with the greatest gaps in cardiology, psychiatry, general surgery, and pediatrics (nursing and physicians). Other employee gaps included ultrasound techs, mammographers, and ambulance services to facilitate transfers (2 ambulance companies closed during COVID).

4. Are there any services for which you have a hard time providing access? If so, which ones?
   Behavioral health services were overwhelmingly the most difficult to access, including step-down units, psychiatric care, detox programs, crisis stabilization, and children's mental health services. Hospital services and ambulatory transportation are generally limited, particularly for patients requiring ventilation.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Broadly, specialty care and care for specialty populations were other services providers struggled to provide. Providers also mentioned health education provided by promotores as a service they would like to offer more, especially to address the high concentration of juvenile diabetes.

5. Are there any services for which you have long wait times? If so, which ones?
   - Behavioral health
   - Mammograms 4-6 weeks out
   - Psychiatric care
   - Neurosurgeon, neuro-psych
   - Trauma
   - Heavy strokes
   - Public health services (1-2 month wait)
   - Rural services in Webb County

6. What resources are needed to address those gaps?
   - A behavioral health wing in a hospital
   - General provider and administration staffing; HR support for recruitment and retention
   - New buildings, more facilities

7. What services do you most commonly refer patients outside of Laredo for care?
   - Heart disease: cardiology
   - Kidney disease: endocrinology
   - ENT

8. What challenges did you face during the pandemic?
   Despite early protocol adoption and containment of COVID among staff among all providers, they experienced immediate staffing loss and shortages, especially in the hospitals and with tenured nurses. The national average turnover rate was approximately 30%. Through the state COVID funds, staffing companies were hiring local nurses (1/3 of nurses) and paying premium rates at $100/hour. They now struggle to recruit nurses who expect the same pay rates, especially ICU nurses covering evening shifts.

9. How do you connect patients to services that address their social needs and enroll them in public benefits (Medicaid, Medicare, SNAP, WIC, etc.)?
   - At eligibility
   - Strong case management and social work team that is tenured (all stayed through COVID)
   - Behavioral resources
   - Equipment and other things covered through insurance, like home health aids
   - Housing services have a wait list of over a year; they usually end up in resident services
   - Food deserts, transportation, and access to medications (antibiotics) are high SDOH needs

10. What type of patient data do you collect (e.g., sexual orientation, gender identity [SOGI], race/ethnicity, and language [REAL]), and would you be willing to share basic patient demographic information?
    All providers collected HHSC (All Texas Access) and CMS-required patient data, as well as REAL and SOGI data. Most providers were amendable to sharing patient quality metrics.

ATTACHMENT 3 – CONSIDERATIONS REGARDING MEDICAL RESIDENCY PROGRAMS

The City of Laredo, along with the entirety of Webb County, is designated as a Primary Care, Mental Health, and Dental Health Professional Shortage Area (HPSA). It is also designated as a Medically Underserved Area. Recognizing the need for additional providers to serve the county's health care needs, in 2017, the legislative agenda included asking for funding from the state to support developing residency programs in Laredo to help address the physician shortages. This led to the development of a Family Medicine Residency Program sponsored by the Texas Institute for Graduate Medical Education and Research (TIGMER) at Laredo Medical Center. These residents have their ambulatory clinics based at the Gateway CHC. An additional residency program, Internal Medicine, opened. Each program accepts eight residents annually for a total of 48 residents training in the city. These two programs will likely graduate 16 newly trained physicians annually. Data shows that approximately 70% of resident physicians practice within 50 miles of where they train, making it likely that the programs would add 11 new primary care physicians annually to the area.

Despite this progress, the city of Laredo will continue to be underserved for many years. The medical community is aging, and many practitioners plan to retire soon- exacerbating the shortage of practitioners for the area and limiting access to essential primary and preventive care.

While the state of Texas is supporting the current training programs, it is possible for the hospitals in Laredo to further expand their residency training with additional support from the Centers for Medicaid and Medicare Services (CMS). The Inpatient Prospective Payment System (IPPS) rule for Fiscal Year 2022 includes a policy to distribute 1,000 new residency slots, phasing in 200 new slots per year for five years. Primary care residencies in rural and underserved communities have priority over these slots. This increase represents CMS's largest new allocation of new residency slots in over 25 years.

New residency slots in hospitals in Laredo will make them eligible for two types of federal payments. CMS-approved slots receive reimbursement for direct and indirect costs of training residents. These payment calculations use the percentage of Medicare patients treated by the hospital. The direct graduate medical education (DME) payment covers the direct costs of resident salaries and benefits, including meals and supplies. The indirect graduate medical education (IME) funding uses a formula that estimates the additional cost to hospitals that support training programs. CMS anticipates increases in testing costs and length of stay, as well as the inability for faculty to have a full-time private practice while precepting medical residents in training.

In an article published on January 13, 2022, in the LMTonline, a $100,000 donation to the University of the Incarnate Word Laredo Primary Care Residency program was cited, stating additional support would enable program expansion. The state of Texas has already invested local funding into medical education. With additional funding from CMS, Laredo can further expand the 48 residents in training today.

In addition to applying for the newly allocated residency slots, any hospital that does not currently have CMS-approved resident slots is eligible to create new caps. The number of caps is established on a 3-year rolling average (the time most primary care residency programs take for completion). Therefore, if a “virgin” hospital in Laredo decides to support a new primary care residency program, the number of residents they accept over the first three years they are approved and accepting trainees becomes the number of caps approved by CMS. These caps will also be eligible for the DME and IME payments through the Medicare program.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Any increase in medical residency training programs requires a strong commitment from the training site and a willingness for medical staff to serve as faculty. The opportunity for new resident slots funded by the federal government offers a unique opportunity to expand the availability of medical doctors in the Laredo area.

Laredo's Capacity for Additional Medical Residency Programs

Laredo Medical Center currently has 314 Staffed Beds and 46 FTE residents. Doctors Hospital has 183 staffed beds and the potential for 146 residents. A general rule of thumb is that a hospital can support .8 residents per occupied bed, up to 250 residents. TIGMER currently sponsors two GME programs in Laredo. One is the Family Medicine program at Gateway CHC, which trains eight residents annually with a total program of 24 residents. Laredo Medical Center also houses a Community-Based Internal Medicine Residency program accepting applications.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

In February 2022, the City of Laredo issued a Request for Proposal for professional consulting services to assess healthcare facilities and services in Laredo, including the local healthcare workforce; and to identify opportunities to create a new hospital district or municipal hospital authority. In July 2022, the City selected Health Management Associates (HMA) to perform the assessment and feasibility study, and in August 2022, the City and HMA executed a contract for the services.

The assessment included quantitative and qualitative analyses of state and federal data sources, benchmarking the numbers of clinicians of different specialties and facility capacity in Laredo against other similar communities and statewide proportions, and identifying where Laredo has fewer professionals or less facility capacity per capita. The assessment also included a site visit during which HMA consultants toured and met with the leadership of local healthcare facilities. With input from local healthcare stakeholders, we focused our analysis on primary care, pediatrics, cardiology, neurology, and endocrinology. Based on these different analytic approaches, we confirmed the perception that Laredo had shortages of almost all physician specialties. In addition to shortages of certain physician specialties, nurse staffing was identified as an ongoing challenge.

We also reviewed and summarized various authorities, obligations, and characteristics of municipal hospital authorities and hospital districts, two types of local government entities that communities can create to provide or support hospital services. Hospital districts are much more common in the Texas healthcare ecosystem than municipal hospital authorities. There are 84 hospital districts in the state, but only eight municipal hospital authorities. Hospital districts, unlike municipal hospital authorities, have a property tax authority. Another key difference is that hospital districts must be created by a popular election, whereas the vote of a local governing body may create municipal hospital authorities. When a county creates a hospital district, the hospital district takes on the responsibility for providing indigent care from the county and typically does so by owning and administering a public hospital or contracting with one or more private hospitals to provide services to this population.

Through our research, we identified several strategies for recruiting healthcare professionals, largely relevant for physicians and nurses, including financial incentives such as signing bonuses and loan repayment, and non-financial tactics such as work schedule flexibility. We also reviewed local healthcare workforce training programs and identified opportunities for expanding the local production of healthcare professionals, particularly nurses. A common theme during our interviews with local stakeholders was the lack of inpatient psychiatric capacity. Our analysis included the development of a financial model for inpatient psychiatric services that could be part of a larger package of healthcare financing.

Through our research, we validated the perception that Laredo is medically underserved and identified opportunities for bringing the healthcare services capacity in Laredo up to levels found in similar communities. However, since many of the strategies we identified will require coordination and funding, one or more local organizations will need to take the lead on implementing these strategies, and local stakeholders will need to identify funding mechanisms.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

SECTION 1- LOCAL HEALTHCARE SERVICES

As part of more considerable city-wide improvement planning efforts, the City of Laredo Public Health Department commissioned a comprehensive health assessment to identify and prioritize Laredo's healthcare service needs and develop sustainable, viable recommendations.

This health services assessment describes the healthcare infrastructure and workforce in and around Laredo. It outlines Laredo's healthcare landscape, catalogs existing facilities and services, and identifies health priorities and gaps. Subsequently, this information may inform decisions and guide efforts to improve community health and wellness unique to the healthcare needs of Laredo's residents - including committing resources to those areas, thereby making the most significant impact possible on community health status. Specifically, the assessment examines the following:

- Current and projected outpatient ambulatory services (e.g., federally qualified health centers, public health clinics)
- Current health system community health needs assessment/strategic plans
- Current and projected deficits in care and health disparities
- Impact and response to COVID-19
- Healthcare workforce and forecasted future needs

Methods

HMA's methods included data from both quantitative and qualitative sources.

Quantitative Data Analysis

Quantitative data analysis included secondary research (vital statistics and other existing health-related data) to allow for trending and comparison to benchmark state and national data. This assessment draws from the latest available data from external sources:

- The Texas Department of State Health Services
- Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) databases
- Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) databases
- Torch Insight database and analytic tool (a proprietary data platform developed by Leavitt Partners and subsequently sold to Milliman before HMA acquired Leavitt Partners)
- County Health Rankings
- Texas Medical Board
- The latest available data from local providers that opted to share internal sources such as service quality measures and utilization.

Qualitative Data Analysis

Qualitative data analysis included primary research documented through key stakeholder interviews and site visits. HMA conducted site visits at six major healthcare providers in Laredo, including Border Region Behavioral Health Center, City of Laredo Health Department, Doctors Hospital of Laredo, Gateway Community Health Center, Laredo Medical Center, and Laredo Specialty and Rehabilitation Hospitals. Leadership staff from each provider offered their experiences working across the healthcare continuum and provided a broad understanding of Laredo's community needs and opportunities for improvement. Overall, 48 different individuals participated in the site visit meetings.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

In addition, HMA conducted interviews with leadership from the healthcare professions components of Texas A&M International University, Laredo College, and the University of Texas Resource Center.

HMA also conducted interviews with community physicians. During fieldwork prior to the presentation of the preliminary report, three community physicians responded to requests for interviews. After presentation to the City Council and at the request of the City Council, HMA conducted interviews with an additional ten community physicians.

Qualitative Analysis Findings

Below is a consolidation of themes organized by strengths, weaknesses, opportunities, and threats (SWOT) to inform a structured analysis as outlined in Table 1. This analysis was conducted prior to the additional community physician interviews.

STRENGTHS	WEAKNESSES
• [Limited] High-quality level of care • Resiliency through crises (e.g., COVID) • Effective coordination efforts connecting patients to services that address social needs • Strong partnerships and collaborations with academic institutions	• A broad range of healthcare services was difficult for Medicaid and uninsured patients to access, including assisted living supports • Specialty care shortages, especially in cardiology, endocrinology, and psychiatry • Limited ambulatory transportation services • No inpatient psychiatric capacity
OPPORTUNITIES	THREATS
• Strengthen partnerships among providers to leverage resources and improve access • Increase preventative care • Address stigma for mental health services • Increase community health worker's efforts to bolster health literacy in high-risk communities • Provide transportation services for individuals	• Physician and medical professional recruitment barriers • Untenable unmet needs for mental health and substance use services for all ages • Long wait times for psychiatric care, mammograms, and public health services (6+ weeks on average)

The additional community physician interviews reinforced many of the findings from the preliminary fieldwork, particularly the following:

- There are widespread avoidable underlying health issues like obesity, poor nutrition, and lack of exercise that lead to significant prevalence of diabetes, congestive heart failure, and hypertension.
- The community is significantly lacking in many physician specialties, including endocrinology, psychiatry, and pediatric specialists.
- Recruiting medical professionals, particularly physician specialists, is made more challenging due the poor quality of life, lack of amenities, and culture/language shock for individuals not from Spanish-speaking areas.

Laredo Today

As the nation's largest inland port, Laredo continues to be one of the fastest-growing cities in the US and serves as the port of entry for more than $210 billion in international trade with Mexico.[1] Laredo's sister city, Nuevo Laredo, is on the other side of the Rio Grande River, across from Laredo, with a population of 425,058 as of 2020. It is the largest port of entry on the Mexico-United States border, and tariff and customs collections are more significant than any other customs office in the Republic of Mexico.

Defined Geographic Area

Laredo (256,153) comprises 95 percent of Webb County's population (267,114). The remaining population lives in surrounding rural areas.[2] Laredo's most populous zip codes – 78040, 78041, 70842, and 78043 – represent the primary service area in this assessment. Chart 1 shows the population growth trends in Laredo and Webb County throughout the last 20 years.

Immigration

Due to its proximity to the Mexico border and reluctance to disclose information accounted for in U.S. Census data (possibly due to legal status and implications associated with changing political climate and citizenship policies), population totals are likely to be misrepresented. Foreign-born individuals account for 26% in Webb County, compared to 13.5% in the US.[3] Approximately several hundred thousand Temporary Protected Status beneficiaries (who are not technically unauthorized) in the US were excluded from the legally resident immigrant population because population estimates data are unavailable.[4]

Culture and Language

The US Census Bureau ACS 2019 survey shows 86% of residents over the age of five speak a language other than English at home, and only 14% are English-only speakers in Webb County and Laredo.[5]

Health Factors

The Health Resources and Services Administration (HRSA) developed a mapping system to identify and designate Medically Underserved Areas (MUAs) and Health Professional Shortage Areas (HPSAs). MUAs are geographic areas and populations with a lack of access to primary care services, high infant mortality, high poverty, and a high elderly population. Medically Underserved Populations (MUPs) are specific populations that may face barriers to health care. Examples include people experiencing homelessness, people who are eligible for Medicaid, and Native Americans.

Figure 2 indicates designated MUA/Ps (blue clusters) in Texas during 2020 and highlights areas where healthcare services are needed.[6] MUA designation is based on an Index of Medical Underservice (IMU) score between 0-100, 0 being wholly underserved and 100 being least underserved. An IMU of 62 or quantifies MUA designation.[7] The score is a sum of the weighted values of:

1. The ratio of primary medical care physicians per 1,000 population
2. Infant Mortality Rate
3. Percentage of the population with incomes below the poverty level
4. Percentage of the population age 65 or over

Laredo was designated an MUA in 2019, scoring 54 out of 100.[8]

Health Professional Shortage

A Health Professional Shortage Area (HPSA) is a geographic area, population, or facility severely lacking primary care, dental, or mental health providers. The areas receive a score between 0-25 for primary and mental health and 0-26 for dental, with 25/26 being the highest degree of shortage.[9] Table 8 on page 23 shows Webb County's current HPSA scores for primary care (14), mental health (18), and dental services for low-income populations (19).[10] The Texas Department of State Health Services studied the supply and demand of healthcare workers in Texas and released its latest report in 2020. The criterion to identify critical shortages in Region 11 was a projected FTE deficit greater than 100. Projections show that every state region will have physician specialty shortages over the next ten years. Those shortages vary by region.[11] Region 11 may also face critical shortages of physicians specializing in anesthesiology, family medicine, pediatrics, and psychiatry.

Social Determinants of Health

County Health Rankings & Roadmaps rank population health in US counties based on various markers. Length and quality of life determine health outcomes. The ranking is based on health outcomes and factors, comprising over 30 measures. Webb County ranks 75 of 254 counties.[12] Webb County ranks 29 in Texas for the length of life and 185 for quality of life.

Four factors, shown in Table 3, determine quality of life. Webb County has a 10% greater population reporting poor or fair physical health than Texas and twice that of top US performers. Webb County has more reported poor mental health days weekly than Texas or top US performers. Webb ranked 185 out of 254 Texas counties for quality of life.

PHYSICAL ENVIRONMENT

Pollution in Laredo is a major health factor for long-term health. An article by the Texas Tribune identified a commercial sterilizer in Laredo that operates 24 hours a day, seven days a week, and emits the most toxic air pollution in the US. The pollutant ethylene oxide is the most toxic the EPA regulates and contributes to most of the excess cancer risk caused by industrial air pollutants in the US. The impact of ethylene oxide may already be evident in Laredo. A cluster study found a particular cancer in the area associated with ethylene oxide exposure was significantly greater than expected. [14]

Ethylene oxide is especially harmful to children, and this plant is near an elementary school. The air toxin is 30 times more carcinogenic for those who continuously inhale it as adults and 50 times more carcinogenic for those who inhale it since birth. The chemical is especially harmful to children as their bodies cannot mend the genetic damage as well as adults. The plant's proximity to an elementary school and its harmful effects on children pose a serious health risk.

Laredo experienced a total of 107,705 reported COVID cases and 1,061 reported deaths. The highest rate of COVID cases was May 2022, when cases skyrocketed after a gradual increase since late March.

Chart 6: 2022 COVID-19 Trends County Comparison | CDC COVID Data Tracker

In January 2021, almost half of the region's hospital capacity was COVID patients, the state's highest percentage.[15] Webb County also has high rates of underlying health conditions such as obesity, diabetes, and hypertension. These conditions are known to exacerbate COVID complications.[16]

COVID-19 VACCINATIONS

As of October 26, 2022, 899,724 COVID vaccines had been administered in Webb County.[17] Over 99% of Webb County is vaccinated, like many Texas border counties such as El Paso, Cameron, and Hidalgo County. However, 99.9% of all age groups are vaccinated in Webb and Starr Counties. Pharmacies, public health/government, and medical clinics/doctor's offices administered most vaccinations.

While vaccination rates are high now, Webb County faced difficulty receiving vaccines in early 2021. Online vaccination appointments filled up within nine minutes in early January 2021 and vaccination lines for the first dose extended six miles.[18]

Social Vulnerability Index

The places of our lives – our homes, workplaces, schools, parks, and houses of worship – affect the quality of our health and influence our experience with disease and well-being. Social vulnerability indexes are a relative measure of the impact of these community-level factors on well-being. Figure 3 is the CDC's geospatial determinates of health - Social Vulnerability Index, which is based on 15 social factors, including poverty, lack of vehicle access, and crowded housing.[19] Possible scores range from 0 (lowest vulnerability) to one (highest vulnerability). The dark blue areas represent the highest vulnerability. Some of the highest rankings are along the Texas – Mexico border.

Health Insurance

Alarmingly, about one-third of Webb County's population (32%) is uninsured, compared to Texas (20%) and national (10%) rates, according to CMS. Texas has the most significant percentage of uninsurance in the US, and the highest uninsurance rates are along the border.[21, 22] Groups with an increased likelihood of uninsurance in Texas include:[23]

- Adults aged 19-34: 32% of adults aged 19-34 are uninsured, the highest of all age groups
- Hispanics: Hispanics make up 61% of the total uninsured; 27% of the overall Hispanic population has the highest rate of any race/ethnicity
- Adults with a high school education or less: Approximately 70% of the uninsured in Texas have a high school education or less; 48% of adults with less than a high school education are uninsured
- Citizenship: 54% of non-citizens are uninsured; Those in a family with at least one non-citizen are 36% likely to be uninsured
- Poverty: People with income below 200 percent of the poverty level[24]

Quality of Life and Health Trends

These indicators contribute to a population's overall health. Webb County's health trends demonstrate a higher-than-average distress level for citizens in their physical and mental well-being. The high prevalence of diabetes (18%) likely contributes to the high mortality during the pandemic. Webb County had more than twice as COVID deaths per 100,000 as Texas and almost three times as the US.

Chronic Health Conditions

A Community Needs Assessment conducted by Gateway Community Health identifies the top three patient diagnoses recorded in 2019-21: hypertension (7,771), diabetes (5,804), and anxiety disorder (2,788).[25] Both diabetes and anxiety disorder diagnoses increased by approximately 17% from 2019 to 2021. The greatest increase was diabetes, with 860 cases.

Diabetes

Diabetes is the most prevalent healthcare condition in Webb County, affecting 23% of the population.[26] In 2016, Webb had about 51 hospital admissions for uncontrolled diabetes per 100,000 population. Webb County had the highest rate among Nueces (35), El Paso (33), and Cameron (48) and came second to Hidalgo (62). Webb also had a high rate of amputations among patients with diabetes at 42 per 100,000 population, well above the state average of 31. Amputation rate in Webb was higher than El Paso (20), equal to Hidalgo (42), and lower than Nueces (45) and Cameron (47). However, the average cost of each amputation in Webb County was $214,300, much higher than the state average ($123,857), Cameron ($148,804), El Paso ($118,183), Hidalgo ($135,518), and Nueces ($134,442) County.[27]

Heart Disease and Stroke

The average estimated total cardiovascular disease hospitalization rate for Medicare beneficiaries in Webb County was 56 per 1,000 in 2017-2019.[28] While this is lower than the state (61) and national (61) rates, much of Web County are uninsured and below the age of 65.

The average estimated stroke death rate for ages 35+ in Web County was higher in Hispanics (75.5 per 1,000) than for white non-Hispanics (56 per 1,000) in 2017-2019. Similarly, stroke death rates are higher than the national average for all races (73). Compared to Nueces, Cameron, and Hidalgo County, Webb has the most individuals who have had a stroke (3%).

Mental Health and Substance Use Disorders

Substance use and mental health (behavioral health) needs have been and continue to grow in Laredo, including co-occurring mental illness and substance use disorder (SUD).[2,3] Research shows that over 60 percent of adolescents in community-based substance use disorder treatment programs are diagnosed with a mental illness. Participants ages varied evenly between the age of 30-60+.[4] Most participants were unemployed, not looking for work (312), had less than a high school education (505), and had a household income between $0-$9,999 (487).

Psychiatric patients admitted to an emergency department face long wait times for admission to a psychiatric facility. Emergency departments are not designed or equipped for psychiatric treatment, and psychiatric patients often experience worse health outcomes in the ED. Not only do patients fare worse in the ED, but it is far more expensive. It costs the ED more and prevents other patients from utilizing the ED. Inpatient psychiatric patients remain in the ED 3.2 times longer than non-psychiatric patients resulting in an average cost of $2,250 per patient bed.[29] In addition to higher, long stays waiting for appropriate placements.

1. Alcohol-related disorder
2. Depressive disorders
3. Schizophrenia spectrum and psychotic disorders
4. Bipolar and related disorders
5. Trauma and stressor-related disorders

Most patients utilizing the ED for MHSU needs were uninsured (29%) and between 18-44 years of age (51%) in 2020. [31]

People with SUD frequently have one or more associated chronic health conditions such as heart disease, stroke, cancer, or mental health. Clinical comorbidities for Texas MHSU ED visits include hypertension, diabetes, heart failure, depression, and asthma. In 2020, hypertension accounted for most comorbidities (50%).

Inhalants negatively affect the nervous system, and intravenous drug use increases the risk of contracting infectious diseases such as HIV and hepatitis C. [33] HIV cases have been increasing in Webb County from 299 cases in 2010 to 483 cases in 2019, a 61% increase. [34]

Opioid use in Webb County accounts for many ED visits relative to nearby counties. In 2021, there were 82 opioid-related visits for every 100,000 ED visits. [35]

Healthcare Provider Capacity

There is a substantial medical service capacity gap and need in Webb County. Webb County is currently short 20 full-time employees (FTE) primary care providers, 30 FTE dentists for low-income populations, and 11 FTE mental health providers. Column (HPSA FTE Short) in Figure 16 indicates the number of FTE providers Webb County needs to meet provider-to-population ratio needs adequately. All designations were formulated in 2019 and updated in 2021.[38] Note that psychiatrists are the only designated mental health providers (as opposed to counselors and other professionals) for HPSA designation in Texas.[39]

(Note: This section includes data on the number of physicians of different specialties from the Texas Medical Board who identified Webb County as their practice location. In some cases, these physicians may not reside in the county but rather provide services via telemedicine through a single facility, which they list as their practice location.)

Laredo ranked last across the US in provider supply. Laredo has almost twice the population-to-provider ratio for PCPs and dentists. Mental health provider shortage is greater, nearly three times the Texas average. Webb County and US provider ratios are in Table 9.[40] This shortage will grow based on a projected 2% annual increase in primary care service demand through 2029.[41]

Regional Supply and Demand Projections

Region 11 is one of eight public health regions classified by The Texas Department of State Health Services (DSHS). Region 11 serves a 19-county area in south Texas. Webb County is in Region 11, along with Hidalgo, Cameron, and Nueces County. [42]

DSHS periodically produces supply and demand projections for different categories of health professionals across the state's public health regions. Most of our analysis included below is based on comparisons between the relative number of health professionals in Webb County, other border counties in the state, and statewide ratios. The DSHS supply and demand projections below are for Region 11, not just Webb County.

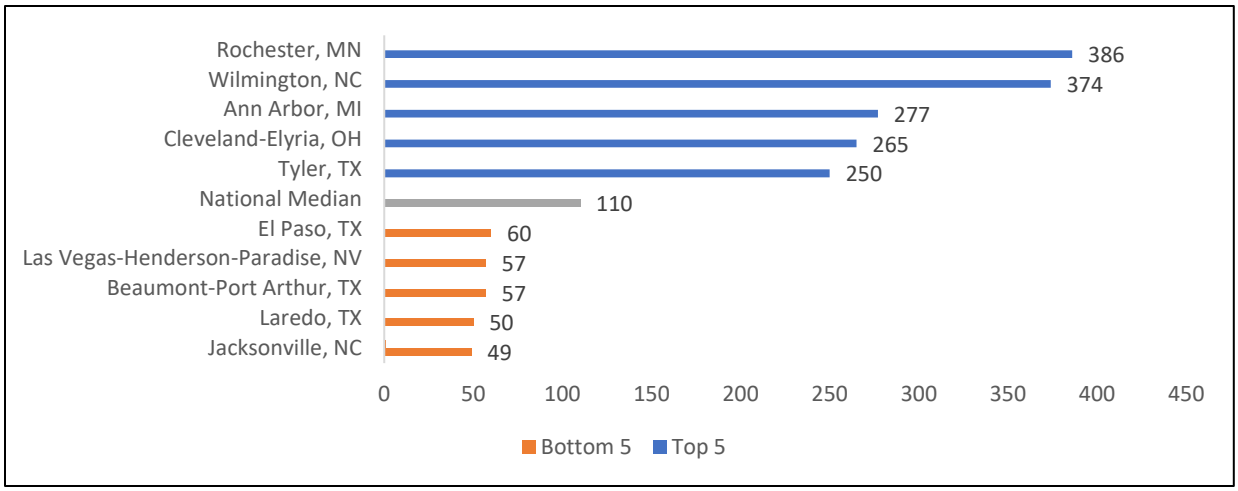
Primary Care



A 2022 geographic analysis ranks Webb County in the bottom 15 counties nationwide for primary care physicians per 100,000 population. Laredo ranked second to last in primary care physicians across all US cities, with a population of at least 200,000. [43] Region 11 is expected to have the greatest shortages, with PCP demand growing from 423 to 722, a 70% increase in shortage by 2030. [44]

Webb County has the most disproportionately low number of physicians, nurse practitioners (NPs), and nursing professionals.

GATEWAY COMMUNITY HEALTH CENTER

Gateway is a Federally Qualified Health Center (FQHC) that provides comprehensive healthcare services to underserved communities and receives federal funding through the Bureau of Primary Health Care.[51] Gateway currently operates seven locations in Laredo. The health center serves Webb, Zapata, and Jim Hogg counties and is the "leading primary healthcare provider in the tri-county region."[52] The total patient population served by Gateway in 2021 was 29,247, with 25,2014 patients from Webb County.[53] Patient demographics reflect the city's demographics with 97.65% Hispanic/Latino patients.[54] Almost half of Gateway's patients were uninsured (44%), 29.5% had private insurance, and 20.4% had Medicaid. Only 6% were Medicare patients, and 65 patients had CHIP. Gateway also serves special populations. They serve 1,454 special population patients, of which 91% are homeless.

CITY OF LAREDO PUBLIC HEALTH DEPARTMENT

The City of Laredo Public Health Department (Department) provides low-cost health care and accepts Medicaid, Medicare, CHIP, and sliding fee scale for payment. They do not deny services due to their inability to pay, making it an important resource for indigent populations. Clinical services include various screenings, including diabetes, cholesterol, high blood pressure, immunizations, dental services, and behavioral health services. They have a class D pharmacy that provides services to clients enrolled in specific programs such as Maternal & Child Health and Texas Healthy Women.[55]

Hospitals

Doctors is an acute care facility with 183 staffed beds that also operates one clinic, four diagnostic centers, two freestanding emergency rooms, a mobile clinic, and an MRI site. The hospital's primary and secondary service areas include Webb, Jim Hogg, La Salle, and Zapata counties. Specialty services include bariatric (weight loss) surgery, maternity services, a level III NICU, emergency services, and pediatrics.[57] Doctors pediatric patients with emergency injuries are directed to the pediatric Intensive Care Unit at South Texas Health System two hours away by ambulance.[58]

LMC is an acute care facility with 314 staffed beds and more than 13 additional sites, including primary care clinics, specialty clinics, and walk-in care clinics.[59] They offer orbital atherectomy to clear calcified coronary artery blockages and are an accredited chest pain center. Laredo Medical Center has conducted over 100 bariatric surgeries and 156 robotic-assisted orthopedic surgeries. They also have a level III NICU, the leading trauma facility in Laredo.

Laredo Rehabilitation Hospital provides inpatient and outpatient rehabilitation services to patients with disabling diseases or injuries such as recovering from stroke. Rehabilitation services include nursing care, physical therapy, occupational therapy, and speech, memory, and cognitive therapy.[60]

Laredo Specialty Care Hospital is a critical care hospital that provides long-term acute and critical care to patients in need of ventilation. All rooms are equipped with specialty beds and equipment including ventilators. Their specialized programs include a ventilator weaning program, cardio/pulmonary recovery program, and a wound care program. They are the first hospital in Laredo to receive the Joint Commission's Gold Seal of Approval for Respiratory Failure.[61]

Staffed bed space in Webb County (208 to 100K) is slightly above average for Texas (206 to 100K)[62] and lower than the national average (277 to 100K).[63]

SECTION 2 – SELECT OPTIONS FOR PUBLIC FINANCING OF HEALTHCARE SERVICES

Workstream 2 of this project calls for gathering information to inform city policymakers on the implications of forming either a hospital district or a municipal hospital authority. Hospital districts are much more common than municipal hospital authorities within the Texas healthcare ecosystem. There are between 70 and 80 hospital districts in the state. (Data from the Texas Department of State Health Services annual hospital survey report identified 78 hospitals that self-reported their ownership as "hospital district," whereas tax data from the Texas Comptroller's office identified 72 hospital districts). Hospital districts, unlike municipal hospital authorities, have a property and sales tax authority. Another key difference is that hospital districts must be created or approved by a popular election, whereas municipal hospital authorities may be created by the vote of a local governing body. The statutory authority for creating hospital districts permits their potential boundaries to being within one or more counties. While municipal hospital authorities can be created by city or county governing bodies, as an empirical matter, all but one existing municipal hospital authority in Texas was established at the county level, and the only exception was established jointly through the county and city.

Hospital Districts

This subsection summarizes select legal requirements for hospital districts in Texas, focusing on a high-level understanding of their establishment, governance, and financing. It does not attempt to include all requirements, and it is inclusive only of select statutory and regulatory provisions. Although a literature review was conducted through The University of Texas library, very few relevant articles were found, and nothing was deemed necessary or appropriate for inclusion. Opinions of the Texas Attorney General are incorporated where relevant. The subsection is expressly exclusive of case law.

Definition

Generally, a hospital district (HD or district) is a legal entity formed by one or more counties to provide health care services.[64] Within Texas, HDs can be contrasted with municipal hospitals,[65] municipal hospital authorities,[66] and county hospital authorities[67].

Authority

The Texas Health and Safety Code Title 4 authorizes the creation of hospital districts by voters,[68] and by counties with populations of less than 75,000[69] and more than 190,000.[70]

VOTER INITIATED

Creation

A new HD may not overlap with or remove territory from another HD.[71]

Districts Within One County

Voters may petition a county judge to create an HD within one county if either three percent or 100 registered voters signs on.[72] If the district does not have at least 100 registered voters, a majority of the voters must sign the petition.[73] Regardless of district reach, the petition must contain ten specific items to be valid.[74]

Districts In More Than One County

There are three distinctions in the creation of an HD that HD extends beyond a single county: First, the petition must be signed by either three percent or 100 registered voters on both the county in which the judge presides and of the proposed district.[75] Second, the commissioners court in each affected county must grant the petition.[76] Third, the district may be created only within the county or counties wherein a majority of the votes cast approve the creation, as otherwise set forth in subsection 3 infra.[77]

The Vote

After a valid petition is received, the commissioners court at its next regular or special session must schedule a hearing and issue notice of the same by publication to the public.[78] If the petition is in proper form, it must be granted and an election must be ordered.[79] That election need not be held on a uniform election date,[80] but rather must be held 45 to 60 days later.[81] The election concerns three issues: confirmation of the district's creation, authorization of the levying of a tax, and, if appropriate, issuance of bonds.[82] The ballot proposal must use specific language dependent on the revenue stream.[83] If the measure passes, the HD is created, and the commissioners court must enter a specific order;[84] if it fails, a one-year ban on the question begins.[85]

Expansion

Registered voters in a territory that is not included in a district may petition the board to be included.[86] To be valid, the petition must be signed by the lesser of 50 registered voters of the territory or a majority of those voters.[87] Once the petition is received by the board secretary, the board must by order schedule a hearing at least thirty days later.[88] If after hearing the board finds that annexation is feasible and beneficial, it can enter a resolution approving annexation of all or part of the territory.[89]

Annexation must be approved through separate elections by a majority of voters in the district and a majority of voters in the territory to be annexed.[90] The latter group must also vote whether to assume its proportion of the debts or taxes of the district.[91] The election must be between 45 and 60 days after the date the election is ordered, and it need not follow the uniform voting schedule.[92]

Dissolution

The Vote

An election must be held on the matter of dissolution, ordered either at the board's discretion or subsequent to a petition signed by at least fifteen percent of the electorate.[93] The election must occur no more than sixty days later, and the uniform election schedule does not control.[94] If the measure fails, dissolution cannot be voted on for at least one year; if it passes, the board must find the district is dissolved.[95]

Disposal Of Property, Assets, And Debts

After a vote to dissolve the HD, the board must transfer the land, buildings, improvements, equipment, and other assets to a governmental entity within the district, and the entity assumes all debts and obligations.[96] Alternatively, the district may continue to control and administer the property, assets, and debts until all funds have been disposed of and all debts are paid or settled.[97] If the latter, the board may continue to impose a property or sales and use tax until the debt is paid.[98] Any overpayments must be proportionally returned or credited to each taxpayer.[99]

Finalization

Once the HD has no more debts or assets, the board shall file in the appropriate commissioners court(s) a report summarizing its dissolution activities.[100] No more than ten days later, the commissioners court(s) must enter a dissolution order.[101] Unless another governmental entity purchased the hospital, the county becomes responsible anew for providing indigency health care services.[102]

County Initiated

A county with at least 190,000 inhabitants may create a countywide hospital district.[103] If the county or a municipality within the county already owns or operates a hospital system for indigent or needy persons, the district may take over.[104] Otherwise, the county may provide for the establishment of a hospital or hospital system.[105] Despite the specificity of the statutory requirements described herein for county-initiated HDs, the legislature has often crafted statutory requirements that are specific to each county or set of similarly situated counties.

Voters in the county must approve the creation of the HD through the next regular election consistent with the Texas Election Code.[106]

STATUS

An HD has the power to sue and be sued.[107] Although an HD is an entity in and of itself, a county-initiated district may also form a nonprofit corporation organized under Internal Revenue Code Subsections 501(c)(3) or 501(c)(4) to provide healthcare services, develop resources for health care services, or provide ancillary support services;[108] such organization is a unity of local government for litigation purposes.[109]

GOVERNANCE

An HD is governed by a Board of Directors with broad authority to manage, control, and administer its hospital system, funds, and resources.[110] Additionally, the commissioners court may delegate authority to a county-initiated district to prescribe purchasing and accounting methods and procedures.[111]

The number of directors must be odd,[112] and service is not compensated.[113] If the HD is county-created, the commissioners court must appoint five to seven persons to the board of hospital managers,[114] and, except the initial board, the directors serve two-year terms.[115] The board is uncompensated.[116]

Eligibility and Candidacy

A person is eligible to be a director if they are a resident of the district and a qualified voter.[117] If the directors are elected from commissioners precincts, only residents of the appropriate precinct are eligible.[118] District employees are not eligible,[119] and neither are persons serving on boards for other entities with the power of taxation in overlapping territory.[120]

To be listed on the ballot as a candidate for a directorship, a person must file an application with the board secretary at least thirty-one days before the election.[121] The application must note the specific place, precinct, or at-large status if applicable.[122]

Temporary Directors

On the date of the order creating the district, the commissioners court must appoint the temporary directors named in the petition.[123] The number of directors and manner of their election may be specified in the petition,[124] but must be the same number as the permanent board.[125] If the petition does not name the temporary directors or state the number of directors, there are five directors, to be appointed by the commissioners court.[126] Vacancies are also filled by appointment.[127]

If the HD is in more than one county, the respective commissioners courts appoint the number of temporary directors that is proportional to the number of district residents in the county relative to the number of residents of the whole district.[128]

Elected Directors

As a preliminary matter, the Health and Safety Code Section 286.022(a)(8) requires that the petition include "the method by which the permanent directors will be elected, as provided by Subsection (c)" to be valid, but Subsection (c) makes permissive inclusion of "the method by which directors are to be elected." In any case, the petition may provide that directors are elected at large, by place, or both, so long as the specific number of directors are elected from each commissioner precinct and a specific number are elected at large.[129] The election must occur on the first Saturday in May following the creation of the district,[130] and, subsequently, every first Saturday in May.[131] The selection is by simple popular vote, though the code is silent on cumulation of votes. Notice by publication must issue before the thirty-fifth day before the election. [132]

Initial Board

If the HD is county-created, the commissioners court may make initial appointments for one year to stagger terms. [133]

The initial board of a voter-initiated district is divided into two classes to minimize the likelihood of turnover of the whole board at once. The creation of the two classes depends on the type of election.

At Large

The appropriate number of candidates receiving the highest number of votes at the initial election of directors are directors for the district. [134]

The number of directors equal to a majority of the board who receive the highest number of votes serves a two-year term, and the remaining directors serve for a one-year term. [135] It is unclear what happens if there is a tie in the vote for the final position of the majority. [136]

By Place

Each candidate who receives the highest number of votes for election to a place is a director for the district. [137] A director elected to fill an even-numbered place at the initial election serves for a one-year term, and a director elected to fill an odd-numbered place at the initial election serves for a two-year term. [138]

By Commissioners Precinct

The number of candidates equal to the number of directors to be elected from each precinct who receive the highest number of votes from a commissioner precinct are directors for that precinct. [139] The number of candidates equal to the number of directors to be elected at large who receive the highest number of votes from the district at large are directors for the district at large. [140]

two-year term unless more than one director is elected at large; in such instance, half of the directors elected serve two-year terms, and the other half serve one-year terms. [142]

Board Composition

Before assuming the duties of the office, each director must execute a $5,000 bond payable to the district using personal or district funds. [143]

The board is required to have three officers—president, vice-president, and secretary. [144] The president and vice-president must be directors, but the secretary does not have to be. [145] Each officer serves a non-compensable one-year term. [146] Vacancies in both officers and directors generally are filled by the board for the remainder of the term. [147]

In a county-initiated HD, the board elects a chairman and vice-chairman, and then appoints a board member or the administrator to serve as secretary. [148]

RELATIONSHIP WITH THE BUSINESS COMMUNITY

County-initiated districts must "encourage and promote participation by all sectors of the business community, including small businesses and businesses owned by members of a minority group or by women, in the process by which the district enters into contracts." [149] The district is required to have a plan to "identify and remove barriers that do not have a definite or objective relationship to quality or competence and that unfairly discriminate against small businesses and businesses owned by members of a minority or by women." [150] These barriers expressly may include contracting procedures and contract specifications or conditions. [151]

MANDATED TRANSFERS AND ASSUMPTIONS UPON CREATION

Within the bounds of preemptive federal law regarding asset transfer, there are some required conveyances upon creation of a hospital district. [152] Although the transfers discussed in this subsection are required, the HD may return any property it does not find useful back to the county or municipality. [153]

Specifically, a county, municipality, or other governmental entity in which the district is located must convey or transfer to the district certain of its items, including

- land, buildings, improvements, and equipment related to the hospital system, whether located wholly in the district [154] or not; [155]

- funds dedicated by the governmental entity to provide medical care for residents of the district for the remainder of the fiscal year; [156]
- taxes levied by the governmental entity for hospital purposes for district residents for the year; and [157]
- funds established for payment of indebtedness assumed by the district. [158]

In addition, the proceeds of any bonds a county-initiated HD assumes from the county or municipality must also be transferred to the HD, [159] as well as hospital system records, property, and affairs [160] in addition to unexpended facilities funds. [161] Once the new board is established and upon completion of these steps, the county or municipal board ceases to exist. [162]

However, there are exceptions to the property and funding transfer requirement for county-initiated districts, including medical facilities used for treatment of incarcerated persons of any age, property used in connection with utility services, and any realty not partially developed for medical care. [163] A county or municipality may also retain, but must lease to the district, building and related land whether that land is used for purposes related or unrelated to the hospital or hospital system. [164] It is also optional for the county or municipality to transfer its public health services and related facilities, ambulance service, emergency medical service, search-and-rescue service, or medical transport service. [165] Notably, if transfer of a federally qualified health center (FQHC) would result in loss of the federal designation, the FQHC may not be transferred to the district. [166]

At creation the county-initiated HD must also assume any outstanding contract obligations legally incurred by the county and/or municipality for the construction, support, maintenance, or operation of hospital facilities and the provision of health care services or hospital care, including mental health care, to indigent residents of the county or municipality before the creation of the district. [167]

THE PATIENT POPULATION

Anyone with a home in an HD is a resident of that HD. [168] If someone is unhoused, they are a resident of the HD if they intend to reside in that district, as evidenced by any relevant information. [169] Institutionalized persons are residents of the state or federal government and are not eligible for HD services. [170]

BASIC HEALTH CARE

In addition to any services otherwise required by the Texas Constitution or in a statute creating a district,[171] an HD "shall endeavor" to provide the following basic health care services:

- Primary and preventative services designed to meet the needs of the community, including:
  - Immunizations;
  - Medical screening services; and
  - Annual physical examinations;
- Inpatient and outpatient hospital services;
- Rural health clinics;
- Laboratory and x-ray services;
- Family planning services;
- Physician services;
- Payment for not more than three prescription drugs a month; and
- Skilled nursing facility services, regardless of the patient's age.[172]

An HD may arrange to provide health care services through a local health department, a publicly owned facility, or a contract with a private provider regardless of the provider's location, or through the purchase of insurance for eligible residents.[173] It may affiliate with other public hospitals, HDs, governmental entities, or, unless it was created before September 1, 2003, private entities to provide regional administration and delivery of care.[174] An HD may also purchase health coverage or other health benefits as though it were a small business.[175]

Notification and public hearing requirements apply to changes in scope of services.[176]

NURSING SERVICES

A county-initiated hospital district may contract with a school district included in the hospital district to provide nursing services and assistance to employees or students of the school district.[177]

EMERGENCY MEDICAL CARE

The HD may operate or provide for the operation of a mobile emergency medical service.[178] Furnishing the service can be through contract with the local, state, or federal government if appropriate.[179] However, ambulance services are "an ancillary function which [sic] a hospital district could undertake if it were deemed necessary," and thus are not required.[180] Should a district determine that ambulance services are necessary, it also has the discretion to determine the scope of those services.[181]

INDIGENCY POLICY

Patients who cannot afford to pay must be provided care and treatment, [182] though undocumented persons probably can be excluded. [183]

Eligibility [184]

Broadly, eligibility for indigency care is consistent with other need-based public benefits programs.

The HD must annually adopt an application procedure to determine eligibility for assistance, [185] including minimum standards, application, documentation, and verification. [186] The application must be available in written form, [187] and it must require a sworn signature. [188] Would-be applicants must be informed that assistance with applying is available. [189]

The application must solicit the applicant's name, address, social security number, household size and income excluding those receiving cash benefits, realty transfers from the last two years, amount of liquid assets, and equity value of the applicant's car and realty. [190] Although it must also include disclosure of insurance coverage or other hospital or health care benefit for which the applicant is eligible, [191] there cannot be a requirement that the person accept available employment-based insurance as a perquisite to receiving care. [192] Hospital districts are permitted to require applicants to register for work with the Teas Workforce Commission as a condition of receiving care. [193]

The maximum patient income is 21% of the federal poverty guideline, [194] or roughly $2,800 annually for a single person and roughly $5,800 annually for a family of four, which aligns with the Temporary Assistance for Needy Families (TANF) program. [195] However, persons who receive TANF, Supplemental Security Income (who would be over-income in any case), or Medicaid are categorically ineligible for indigency care services. [196]

Resources must also be counted, including car value in excess of the amount under department guidelines and realty not the homestead. [197]

Due process applies to applications for services, such that the HD must review applications within fourteen days and provide a written decision.[198] If the application is denied, the decision must include a reason and describe the process for appealing the denial.[199] Additionally, notification and public hearing requirements apply to changes in eligibility standards.[200]

Payment

A public hospital is the payor of last resort,[201] but if the primary payment is inadequate, the hospital must pay for or provide the service for which other payment is not available.[202]

If a public hospital cannot provide the basic or emergency services, it is not liable beyond the payment standards for that service established by the department.[203]

The maximum liability for each state fiscal year for health care services provided by all assistance providers, including a hospital and a skilled nursing facility, to each eligible county resident is $30,000 or the payment of 30 days of hospitalization or treatment in a skilled nursing facility.[204]

Copayment

An HD may request a nominal fee from all patients, but a patient's inability or refusal to pay that fee is not grounds for denying care.[205]

If after special inquiry the administrator finds that a patient can pay all or part of the care and treatment provided, the board must issue an order directing a weekly payment in an amount that the patient can pay.[206] Monies owed survive the death of the patient.[207] In a voter-initiated district, patients have a right to appeal the determination through a hearing before the board, whose decision is subject to judicial review by the district court system.[208] In a county-initiated district, patients have a right to a hearing in county court with appellate rights to the district court.[209] Similar due process protections are available for patients accused of defrauding the district.

If a non-citizen is a sponsored legal permanent resident, the sponsor may be held responsible for payment of services provided.[210]

PROVIDERS

Any provider in the district who delivers health care services to a patient who is eligible for HD services, including dentists and podiatrists,[211] may bill the district[212] if they comply with notification and mandate transfer requirements.[213] Providers must timely notify the HD if they deliver or plan to deliver services to a patient eligible for indigency care.[214] Routine screening by providers for patient eligibility is permissible.[215]

Public hospitals can select one or more providers, and the hospital can mandate that eligible residents obtain care from one of these mandated providers,[216] even if it means a community provider has to transfer the patient to a mandated provider.[217] Exceptions to the requirement that a patient see a mandated provider include emergencies, medical inappropriateness, and unavailability of care.[218] However, if a community provider renders emergency care, the public hospital is not liable.[219]

medical and hospital care for the district's needy inhabitants.[220] The board must determine the type, number, and location of buildings required to establish and maintain an adequate hospital system along with the type of equipment necessary for hospital care.[221] The board has broad authority to manage, control, and administer its hospital system, including adopting operational rules.[222] Unlike other enabling HD statutes, however, Texas Health and Safety Chapter 286 does not include a provision for the operation of or taxation to maintain long-term care facilities.[223]

As detailed supra, if any governmental entity in the district owns land, buildings, improvements, or equipment related to a hospital system located wholly in the district, it must transfer title to the district upon creation of the district.[224] Regardless, the board may acquire, mortgage, pledge, sell, or otherwise dispose of hospital property, facilities, or equipment as it determines appropriate to maintain an adequate hospital system.[225] It may also lease out or rent hospital facilities,[226] and it may exercise the power of eminent domain.[227] In a county-initiated HD, the commissioners court may also contract for buildings, land, facilities, equipment, or services in addition to paying the subsequent regular monthly utility bills.[228]

If the HD wishes to enter into a construction contract of more than $10,000, it must engage in the competitive bidding process prescribed at Texas Local Government Code Chapter 271 Subchapter B.[229]

TOWARD VALUE-BASED CARE

County-initiated districts may establish a health maintenance organization to provide or arrange for healthcare services.[230] A county-initiated HD probably may also partner with a medical school to create an integrated health care system that provides comprehensive health care services.[231] Such services are not statutorily defined.

Revenue

The board holds the broad authority to determine the method of making purchases and expenditures as well as the accounting and control procedures for the district.[232]

INITIAL OPERATING FUNDS, RESERVES, AND DEBT

As noted supra, if any governmental entity in the district holds operating funds or reserves that were budgeted for medical care or payment of debts assumed by the district, it must transfer that fiscal year's funds to the district upon creation.[233] Unexpended funds to support and maintain hospital facilities must also be transferred to county-initiated districts.[234] The HD also receives any taxes levied by a governmental entity within the district for hospital purposes for district residents for the year.[235] If the HD does not comprise the entire taxable territory, the commissioners court may on the apportionment of the operating funds, the commissioners court may use its discretion, subject to judicial review, to choose the calculation by which to divide the funds, provided the resulting transfer comports with the statutory duty to provide care for the indigent residents of the district.[236]

The HD assumes any outstanding indebtedness incurred by a governmental entity in which all or part of the district is in and that is providing hospital care for residents of the district.[237] If only part of the governmental entity is in the district, the assumption is proportional to the total indebtedness.[238]

TAXATION

As a preliminary matter, the HD is the sole owner of funds from taxes levied for hospital purposes and medical care. Specifically, if any governmental entity in the district levied a tax for hospital purposes, it must transfer that year's funds to the district upon creation,[239] including any delinquent taxes that are later collected if the district is county-initiated.[240] Regardless, no further taxes may be levied by any entity other than the district for hospital purposes or medical care.[241]

Notably, the HDs of Bexar, Nueces, El Paso, and Harris Counties are prohibited from contracting to pay into a tax increment fund.[242]

Property Tax

Voter-Initiated

In a voter-initiated HD, voters may approve the levying of a property tax either via the creating petition[243] or in conjunction any other district election.[244] The board may annually impose property taxes in an amount not to exceed the voter-approved amount,[245] but the total tax rate may not exceed 75 cents on each $100 valuation of all taxable property in the district.[246] In determining the tax rate, the board is required to consider the district's non-tax-based income.[247] Even in the district's initial year, taxes may be imposed for the entire year.[248]

Property tax income may be used to pay debt and to maintain and operate the district.[249] However, taxes may not be imposed to pay the principal of or interest on revenue bonds.[250]

The appraisal, assessment, and collection of property taxes is governed by the state Tax Code,[251] and is overseen by a board-appointed or contracted tax assessor-collector.[252]

County-Initiated

Some of the statutory provisions are the same for county-initiated districts, including that the total tax rate may not exceed 75 cents on each $100 valuation of all taxable property in the district.[253] Taxes may be imposed for the entire year even in the district's first year,[254] and proceeds may be used to provide for the operation and maintenance of the hospital or hospital system.[255]

However, unlike in voter-initiated districts, county-initiated districts not only may pay the interest on bonds that are assumed or issued by the district, but also taxes must be sufficient to create an interest and sinking fund to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds as they mature.[256] Tax proceeds may also be used to make improvements and additions to the hospital system and to pay for certificates of obligation.[257]

Finally, only the commissioners court—not the district board—may exempt property from an ad valorem tax or tax otherwise exempted property.[258]

Sales And Use Tax

Under Texas Health and Safety Code Chapter 286, a sales and use tax is permissible only if all or a majority of the territory of the district is located in a county or counties each with a population of 75,000 or less,[259] and any annexed territory must fall within the same population limitation.[260] The health services sale and use tax is codified at Texas Tax Code Chapter 324.[261] But Texas Health and Safety Code Chapter 285 Subchapter E provides without applicable restriction that an HD "that is authorized to impose ad valorem taxes may adopt a sales and use tax to lower the district's ad valorem taxes at an election held as provided by this subchapter."[262]

BONDS

In addition to the automatic assumption by county-initiated districts of outstanding bonds issued by the county or municipality for hospital purposes,[263] the board of a voter-initiated HD may issue general obligation bonds, revenue, and refunding bonds. Bonds, transactions related to bonds, and profits from the sale of bonds are not taxable by the state or any political subdivision thereof.[264] District bonds are eligible as sufficient security for deposits to the extent of their value if accompanied by all unmatured coupons for public funds of the state and all political subdivisions of the state.[265] District bonds and indebtedness are also authorized investments for banks, savings banks, trust companies, savings and loan associations, insurance companies, fiduciaries, trustees, guardians, and sinking funds of political subdivisions of the state.[266]

In a county-initiated HD, the commissioner court is authorized to issue and sell bonds[267] and to issue certificates of obligation in accordance with Texas Local Government Code Chapter 271 Subchapter C.[268]

General Obligation Bonds

General obligation bonds may issue in the name of and on the faith and credit of the district to

- purchase, construct, acquire, repair, or renovate buildings or improvements;
- equip buildings or improvements for hospital purposes; or

- acquire and operate a mobile emergency medical service.[269]

In a voter-initiated HD, general obligation bonds must be approved through a vote catalyzed by either board action[270] or as part of the creation of the district. The initial petition may include a request that the confirmation election determine whether the HD may issue general obligation bonds, or the petitioner may make such request directly to the commissioners court.[271] If the request is in the petition, it must specific the maximum amount of bonds to be issued and their maximum maturity date.[272]

In a county-initiated HD, voters must approve bond issuance in an election held in accordance with Texas Government Code Chapter 1251.[273]

Regardless of impetus, when the bonds are issued, the board must levy a tax that is enough to create an interest and sinking fund to pay the principal of and interest on the bonds as they mature, but not so much that it, together with any other HD tax, exceeds the limit approved by the voters at the election authorizing the levy of taxes.[274]

Revenue Bonds

Revenue bonds may issue so that the HD can

- purchase, construct, acquire, repair, equip, or renovate buildings or improvements for hospital purposes;
- acquire sites to be used for hospital purposes; or
- acquire and operate a mobile emergency medical service to assist the district in carrying out its hospital purposes.[275]

Revenue bonds may be secured by any hospital revenue, or by a mortgage or deed of trust on realty owned by the district.[276] Unlike county hospital authorities, HDs may not secure revenue bonds through chattel mortgage.[277]

In a voter-initiated district, a majority of a quorum of the board must approve the resolution to issue revenue bonds, which must then be signed, counter-signed, and imprinted with the district seal.[278] The bonds must mature serially or otherwise not more than 40 years after they are issued,[279] but they need not be senior.[280] The board otherwise has discretion in setting price and terms, with the caveat that the net effective interest rate—as computed according to Texas Government Code Chapter 1204—may not exceed 10 percent per year.[281] The board may also determine under what time and price circumstances

the bonds are callable before maturity,[282] and whether the bonds will be registered as to principal or as to principal and interest.[283]

To execute the bonds, the board president must sign and the secretary, countersign as provided by Texas Government Code Chapter 618.[284]

After sale of bonds, the board may set aside proceeds to pay for up to two years' interest on the bonds.[285] Other permissible set-aside include for operating expenses during the first year[286] and to fund a bond or other reserve fund.[287]

Bonds and issuance records must be submitted to the Texas Attorney General, who, upon finding them valid, binding, and secured, must approve the bonds.[288] The Texas Comptroller then registers the bonds and certifies the registration.[289]

There are two major distinctions for bond issues in a county-initiated HD: First, voters must approve bond issuance in an election held in accordance with Texas Government Code Chapter 1251.[290] Second, the county judge must execute the bonds in the name of the district, and county clerk must countersign.[291]

Refunding Bonds

In voter-initiated districts, refunding bonds may be issued either in the manner provided by Texas Government Code Chapter 1207 Subchapter D,[292] or, if they are to be sold, in the manner provided by Texas Government Code Chapter 1207 Subchapters A-C.[293]

In county-initiated districts, refunding bonds must be issued in the manner provided for other bonds of the district except that an election is not required.[294]

ALTERNATIVE CAPITAL FUNDS PROCEDURE IN COUNTY-INITIATED DISTRICTS

A process alternative to the regular revenue bond process exists for county-initiated districts seeking TO raise funds to acquire, construct, equip, and improve its hospital system. If voters have previously approved the levy and assessment of an ad valorem property tax by a county-initiated district, the commissioners court may call an election regarding issuance of combination tax and revenue bonds and other short-term and long-term obligations in the amounts and upon the terms recommended and at the times requested by the board.[295]

CERTIFICATES OF OBLIGATION IN COUNTY-INITIATED DISTRICTS

A class of securities that may be sold for cash,[296] certificates of obligation can pay a contractual obligation incurred for many purposes, including construction; purchase of materials, supplies, equipment, machinery, buildings, land, and rights-of-way; professional services; renovations and improvements; and even destruction of dangerous structures, amongst other things.[297]

With the approval of the commissioners court, the board may issue certificates of obligation consistent with Texas Local Government Code Chapter 271, Subchapter C.[298] If after adequate notice at least five percent of qualified voters timely protest the issuance of a certificate of obligation, an election must be held.[299]

EXTERNAL REMUNERATION

As a preliminary matter, the HD may contract with the state or federal government for reimbursement of the treatment of sick, diseased, or injured persons.[300] Voter-initiated HDs may also contract with a local, state, or federal government entity to provide for the "investigatory or welfare needs of inhabitants of the district."[301]

The HD must additionally seek reimbursement in two cases: First, if the district provides care and treatment to a sick, diseased, or injured person who resides outside the district, it must require reimbursement from the appropriate governmental entity.[302] Second, if a person from outside the district is imprisoned in a county or municipal jail, the HD must seek reimbursement from the sheriff or police chief of the county or municipality for any care or treatment provided.[303]

GIFTS AND ENDOWMENTS

An HD may accept gifts and endowments to hold and administer as required by the respective donors.[304]

INVESTMENTS

The board in a voter-initiated district may invest operating, depreciation, or building reserves only in:

- U.S. bonds;[305]
- U.S. Treasury certificates of indebtedness;[306]
- Texas state, county, municipal, or school district bonds; and[307]
- Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC)-insured shares or share accounts of Texas savings and loan associations or federal savings and loan associations domiciled in Texas.[308]

The board may also choose to place a portion of district funds on time deposit or to purchase certificates of deposit.[309] If a bond resolution or trust indenture so indicates, bond proceeds may be invested consistent with law relating to security for and investment of county funds except as further limited by the resolution.[310]

INTELLECTUAL PROPERTY

Only the HDs of Dallas and Tarrant Counties are expressly authorized to sell, license, or otherwise benefit from their intellectual property.[311]

Finances

The board may establish the HD's fiscal year.[312] An annual audit is required, and it, along with other district records, must be open to physical inspection during regular business hours at the principal office.[313] The board must name at least one bank to serve as depository for district funds, and if the amount exceeds the amount secured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, the bank must execute a bond or other security.[314] Selection of a depository by county-initiated HDs are subject to term limits.[315]

The proposed annual budget must be approved by the board after, in a voter-initiated district, a public hearing,[316] or, in a county-initiated district, before commissioners court approval.[317] No money may be spent that is not included in the annual budget,[318] but the budget can be amended on the board's approval.[319]

Except for construction contracts and bonds, an HD may not incur debt that cannot be repaid in the current or fiscal year.[320] The HD also may not obligate the state nor may the legislature make a direct appropriation to an HD.[321]

Workforce

The board may adopt rules for duties, functions, and responsibilities of HD staff and employees.[322] It may also enter into operating or management contracts relating to hospital facilities[323]. county officers, employees, and agents, the district must pay salaries and expenses for the work activities of those persons,[324] including for legal services by a county, district, or criminal district attorney.[325]

Administration

In addition to administration of required services as described in this subsection, county-initiated districts may take on the administrative functions and services for an FQHC or FQHC-look-alike.[326]

The board of a voter-initiated district may appoint an administrator, assistant administrator, and attorney, each of whom serves at the will of the board in a compensated role.[327] In a county-initiated HD, the board has express statutory authority to appoint only an administrator—to an at-will, four-year term[328]--and legal counsel.[329] County-initiated HD boards may also expressly appoint an assistant administrator in the event of the administrator's inability to perform the duties of the job.[330]

The administrator may hire non-physician staff and has the broad authority to supervise and direct the general affairs of the HD, subject to any limitations prescribed by the board.[331] Similar to the directors, the administrator must execute a personal or district-funded bond payable to the district in an amount of at least $5,000 if voter-initiated[332] or $10,000 if county-initiated.[333] The board of a county-initiated HD may determine the appropriate amount for the bond of an assistant administrator.[334]

The administrator's responsibilities include preparing a proposed annual budget inclusive of a complete financial statement[335] and, after the close of the fiscal year, a sworn statement accounting of the current money held and disbursements made.[336]

Medical And Other Staff

The board may appoint to the staff any doctors necessary for efficient operation, including temporary appointments.[337] In a county-initiated HD, medical staff appointments are subject to a four-year contractual limitation.[338]

The HD may also employ, or delegate to the administrator to employ, other employees deemed necessary, including technicians, nurses, fiscal agents, accountants, architects, and additional attorneys.[339] The board may also appoint or contract a tax assessor-collector.[340]

Only the HDs of Dallas, Tarrant, Bexar, and El Paso Counties are expressly authorized to employ and commission peace officers.[341]

Staff Retirement Benefits

The board may provide retirement benefits for employees of the district by establishing or administering a retirement program.[342] Alternatively, the board may elect to participate in the Texas County and District Retirement System or in any other statewide retirement system in which the district is eligible to participate.[343]

Municipal Hospital Authorities

This subsection summarizes select legal requirements for municipal hospital authorities in Texas, focusing on a high-level understanding of their establishment, governance, and financing. It does not attempt to include all requirements, and it is inclusive only of select statutory and regulatory provisions applicable to Laredo, Webb County, Texas. Although a literature review was conducted through The University of Texas library, very few relevant articles were found, and nothing was deemed necessary or appropriate for inclusion. Opinions of the Texas Attorney General are incorporated where relevant, as are limited references to rules and regulations in pertinent parts.

Definition

Generally, a municipal hospital authority (MHA) is a sovereign formed by a local government rather than one operated directly by or under contract with the local government as a municipal hospital[344] or operated commercially, charitably, or by a national or state government. An MHA can acquire, own, or lease hospitals. Within Texas, MHAs can be contrasted with county hospital authorities[345] and hospital districts formed by voters.[346] MHAs may be a joint effort between a municipality and its county.[347]

Authority

The Hospital Authority Act, codified at , permits the governing body of one or more municipalities to create a hospital authority and designate its name.

CREATION

In adopting an ordinance creating a hospital authority, the municipality's governing body must find that the creation of the authority is "in the best interest of the municipality and its residents."[348] Similarly, if two or more municipalities each adopt an ordinance creating a hospital authority, the governing bodies must find that the creation of the authority is "in the best interest of the municipalities."[349]

DISSOLUTION

An MHA may be dissolved by ordinance if the MHA's assets and liabilities are sold or transferred to the municipality or another person consistent with existing bonds, warrants, or other obligations of the MHA.[350] Voters may act to stop a dissolution through an election process.[351]

Business Organization

STATUS

An MHA is both a body politic and body corporate.[352] Its legal distinctive status derives from its power of perpetual succession with its own seal.[353] MHAs enjoy other characteristics common to private corporations, such as the power to sue and be sued, and to make, amend, and repeal its own bylaws.[354] It can also form a nonprofit corporation to provide services.[355] It is considered a municipal corporation for purposes of litigation related to eminent domain,[356] but, if in a very large county, a unit of local government and not a municipality for purposes of litigation related to tortious liability.[357]

GOVERNANCE

An MHA must be governed by seven to eleven uncompensated directors serving terms of no more than two years.[358] Officers and employees of the municipality are ineligible for appointment to the board.[359] The enabling ordinance must specify the precise of number of directors, but the size of the board can be changed through amendment, assuming to do so is not inconsistent with bond or trust requirements.[360] Those requirements may dictate the selection and term of the temporary board.[361]

The manner of selecting the permanent board is fact dependent. For example, if the MHA comprises more than one municipality, they would appoint half the directors unless they agree that a different division would be better.[362] If the MHA purchases an existing hospital, that contract is controlling.[363] On the other hand, if the bonds are issued under the Hospital Project Financing Act, the municipality may require the board to submit a slate of candidates for the municipality to approve. In such an instance, the municipality can also declare the board subject to term limits. [364]

The board is required to have at least four officers—president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer—plus any others provided for in the bylaws. [365] The president and vice-president must be directors, but the secretary and treasurer do not have to be. [366] The positions of secretary and treasurer may be combined. [367] The only termination provision under statute concerns default of a trust indenture: The trust indenture may grant the trustee authority to terminate the then-current directors and appoint new ones. [368]

ROLE OF ELECTORATE

Voters and the board may drive certain actions by the MHA. In each case, an election is required if the MHA receives a petition signed by at least 10% of the qualified voters. The election need not occur on a uniform election date. These actions include:

- Question of board resolution to sell or close a hospital owned and operated by the MHA [369]
- Question of notice of intent to sell the property to a political subdivision [370]
- Proposition for the issuance of revenue bonds, [371] and
- Referendum on ordinance dissolving the MHA [372]

Services

An MHA may provide services directly or through contract. Regardless, it does not have to provide indigent health care assistance. [373]

HOSPITAL

An MHA may construct, purchase, enlarge, furnish, or equip one or more hospitals, [374] consistent with the Hospital Project Financing Act at . Hospital projects include land, building, equipment, machinery, furniture, facilities and improvements. [375]

Permissible uses [376] for an MHA's hospital project broadly include anything related or essential to the operation of a health facility or system, such as:

- Hospital
- Clinic
- Health facility
- Extended care facility

Once non-urban [379] MHAs own or operate a hospital, they can provide facilities and services for persons who are elderly or disabled so long as there is not a private provider available and accessible. [380]

PUBLIC HEALTH

An MHA may use its available assets to promote public health and general welfare initiatives if it no longer owns or operates a hospital because it is has sold or closed its hospital(s). [381] Although debts must be satisfied as well, in such circumstance an MHA can undertake any activity that the board determines is necessary or appropriate to improve public health, promote wellness, prevent disease, or enhance the general welfare of its residents. [382]

Eligible activities include owning, operating, or funding an indigent health care clinic, medical research facility, medical training facility, or other health care facility. [383] Similar to other services, the MHA may also provide direct or indirect financial assistance to a nonprofit organization that owns or operates the aforementioned facilities or a hospital. TAXATION

The authority does not have taxing power.[386] Its property is exempt from taxation if held entirely for public purposes.[387]

RATE SETTING

Without tax income, proper rate setting is the means for an MHA to assure a hospital operates profitably. Thus, rates must be set and charged in sufficient amount to pay operational expenses, due interest on bonds, create a sinking fund to timely pay bonds, and maintain a bond reserved fund.[388]

BONDS

An MHA may issue revenue bonds to provide funds for its purposes,[389] but voters may defeat the issuance through a referendum.[390] The bonds must be payable from and secured by a pledge of, revenues from the operation of one or more hospitals and any other revenues from owning hospital property.[391] Additionally, revenue bonds may be secured by a mortgage or deed of trust on the MHA's real or personal property,[392] and they need not be senior.[393] Revenue bonds must mature serially or otherwise not more than forty (40) years after they are issued.[394] Bonds are negotiable, but must be approved by the state attorney general.[395] A rural MHA may issue revenue bonds and other notes to provide services or care to persons who are elderly or disabled.[396]

LOANS

Only MHAs in municipalities of less than 25,000 persons may borrow money from a lending institution.[397]

GIFTS AND ENDOWMENTS

An MHA may accept gifts and endowments to hold and administer as required by respective donors.[398]

INVESTMENTS

An MHA may invest its funds in accordance with applicable municipal law.[399]

Workforce

Administration and Medical Staff

An MHA may employ a managing administrator and other employees, experts, agents, and legal counsel.[400] The administrator may manage the hospital, including hiring and discharging other employees.[401] It is also permissible to contract with healthcare professionals to supplement the MHA's medical staff so long as staff remuneration is consistent with federal and state anti-kickback statutes[402] as well as other anti-fraud and abuse laws.

Staff Retirement Benefits

If a municipality has its own retirement system, an MHA must provide employee retirement benefits.[403]

SECTION 3 – OPTIONS FOR ADDRESSING GAPS IN LOCAL HEALTHCARE SERVICES

The following options for addressing gaps in local healthcare services in Laredo were developed to address the disparities identified in the gap analysis. Major gaps in Laredo include lack of primary care physicians, lack of specialty care, particularly cardiology, endocrinology, and neurology, lack of affordable healthcare, and insufficient behavioral healthcare. Webb County is currently a primary care, dental health, and mental health Health Professional Shortage Area (HPSA) as well as a Medically Underserved Area (MUA), as both are defined by the federal Health Resources and Services Administration. To no longer be a HPSA, Webb County needs an additional 20 FTE primary care physicians, 30 FTE dentists, and 11 FTE psychiatrists.

Necessary Preconditions for Addressing Gaps in Healthcare Services

Before any strategies to address gaps in healthcare services can be implemented, two major sets of requirements must be met – who will facilitate the implementation of the strategies, and how the strategies will be funded.

Administrative Requirements

All options available to Laredo for addressing gaps in healthcare services require someone to do something, so stakeholders must decide who will implement the chosen strategies or facilitate their execution. Major options for implementing strategies for addressing gaps in healthcare services include:

- One or more existing entities such as the City of Laredo Health Department, City of Laredo Economic Development Department, Laredo Economic Development Corporation, or one or both major hospitals; or
- A new entity such as a hospital district or newly established nonprofit corporation.

Financial Requirements

Similarly, many options for recruiting clinicians and expanding facility capacity have associated costs-requiring a financing mechanism. Clinician recruitment and facility capacity financing options include:

- Establishment of a hospital district with taxing authority
- Ongoing direct funding by the city, county, major hospitals, or other stakeholders, and
- Bond issuance by city or county for capital investments

Addressing Gaps in Healthcare Services

The following options were based on national best practices and evidence-based strategies for addressing gaps in healthcare services, particularly with respect to physicians, nurses, and behavioral health. Strategies for addressing physician gaps include financial incentives and non-financial tactics.

Addressing Gaps in Physician Specialties

Stakeholder interviews identified recruitment as a barrier to meeting the physician shortage gap in Laredo. Providers expressed challenges in getting medical professionals to move to Laredo and subsequent difficulty for others to adapt to Laredo. We recommend a combined set of strategies to overcome barriers in recruitment and retention including financial incentives and non-financial tactics for recruitment and strategies for encouraging local students to pursue medical education. In addition, we recommend directing any strategies internationally. It seems likely that physicians in Mexico and South America might welcome the opportunity to work and live in the U.S. and hospitals are well-positioned to sponsor the appropriate visas.

Select Strategies for Addressing Gaps in Physician Specialties

- Contracts with income guarantees
- Signing bonuses
- Relocation payments
- CME allowances
- Medical education loan forgiveness

It is important to note that, while the hospitals in Laredo have been and continue to be involved in active physician recruitment within certain specialties, the hospitals, as for-profit entities, will naturally recruit for specialties that will allow the hospitals to provide services rather than for physician specialties for which there is the most community need. Therefore, it is likely necessary for other entities, such as a hospital district or a task force administered jointly by the city and county, to drive physician specialist recruitment focused on community need.

FINANCIAL INCENTIVES FOR RECRUITMENT

Many of the commonly used strategies for recruiting physicians involve financial incentives. Merritt Hawkins, a large healthcare professional recruiting firm used by hospitals and other healthcare organizations to recruit clinicians, publishes an annual report describing the different clinician recruiting strategies they use on their client's behalf. Clinician recruiting strategy descriptions are below.

Starting Salaries

Average starting salaries for physicians and APNs are a useful indicator of financial incentives needed to attract professionals who are either already established in a practice or completing training. Starting salaries for primary care increased by 3% from $243,000 in 2021 to $251,000 in 2022.

Table 18: National average starting salaries by physician specialty, AMN Healthcare 2022

Specialty	2020/21	2021/22	Increase/Decrease
Cardiology (non. Inv.)	$446,000	$484,000	+8%
Cardiology (Inv.)	$611,000	$527,000	-16%
Neurology	$332,000	$356,000	+7%
Psychiatry	$279,000	$299,000	+7%
Pulmonology/Critical Care	$385,000	$412,000	+6%
Hematology/ Oncology	$385,000	$404,000	+5%

Physician Contract Structures

Most Merritt Hawkins searches (61%) offered employment contracts with starting base salary supplemented by production bonuses. Production bonuses are often offered as incentive to reward behavior such as volume of work or adherence to quality guidelines. Production bonuses determine maximum income that physicians can earn beyond their salary. Straight salary structure accounted for 33% of searches. Straight salary structure is usually adopted by FQHCs, urgent care, and academic settings. Some medical groups are moving toward the straight salary structure as they have found it is less ambiguous and results in less friction among physicians. Income guarantees are essentially loans that must be repaid but might be forgiven over time. This structure is usually for physicians in solo or small private practices. With the decreasing number of private practices, this structure is rarely used today however contracts featuring income guarantees has grown year-over-year to 4% from 2%. [404]

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Signing Bonuses

Signing bonuses are a popular recruitment incentive used by hospitals and medical groups. They provide additional motivation for candidates who may be considering multiple opportunities and offer an immediate, tangible reward that can make opportunities distinct. Signing bonuses have significantly increased post-COVID. Signing bonuses increased from 61% to 92% in the past year, a 29% increase. This significant increase indicates a more competitive market, but this may be due to a surge in demand due to COVID and may decrease in later years. Signing bonuses for physicians averaged $31,000 in 2022 up from $29,656 in 2021 a $1,344 increase.

Paid Relocation

Paid relocation is another common incentive for physician recruitment, specifically for recruiting outside of the local community. Relocation was offered in 78% of recruitment searches this year a slight increase from 74% the previous year. The average relocation allowance for physicians was $10,634 in 2022, a slight increase from the previous year ($10,634).

Housing Supports

A physician recruitment strategy could include one or more of several different types of housing supports, including favorable loan terms from local banks, assistance identifying housing options, or even paid housing.

Family Supports

Family and spousal supports could be included as an inducement to convince family members to support the idea of relocating to the community. Such supports could include employment of the spouse, if any, or assisting the spouse in locating employment. Additional family supports could include connecting the family to established residents with similar interests and/or other newcomers, ongoing community orientation, connection to local community organizations/clubs, and/or membership in the local country club.

CME Allowances

Continuing Medical Education (CME) allowances are included in most benefit packages in Merritt Hawkins searches (92%). The average CME allowance for physicians in 2022 was $3,691 and did not change significantly from the previous year ($3,695).

Medical Education Loan Repayment

Medical Education Loan Repayment is an incentive for the recruiting hospital or other facility pays the physician's medical school loans in exchange for the physician's commitment to stay in the community for a specific time. With the average medical school debt exceeding $190,000, this method may be even more effective. Offers that included medical education loan repayment have decreased from 21% the previous year to 18% in 2022. The average amount of loan forgiveness decreased from $104,630 the previous year to $101,572 in 2022. Most contracts featuring educational loan forgiveness (77%) required three-year terms, followed by two-year terms (15%), and lastly, one-year terms (8%).

[404] Review of Physician and Advanced Practitioner Recruiting Incentives, AMN Healthcare 2022

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

NON-FINANCIAL TACTICS FOR RECRUITMENT

Virtual Interviews

The shift to virtual interviews is the most visible change in physician and APN recruitment since the COVID-19 pandemic. Some medical employers have switched to an entirely virtual interview model and found it effective. Offering virtual interviews and tours can allow more flexibility and may be more appealing to candidates than the traditional in-person interview.

Leveraging Digital Content (Marketing)

Some employers are enriching their marketing efforts through digital content such as professionally created videos showcasing various departments, testimonials from physicians, hospital tours, campus maps and community life. By leveraging digital content employers can reach a broader candidate market and allow assessment of a practice and community before or without an in-person visit.

COVID-19 Protocols

Vaccine requirements and COVID-19 protocols are now reasons why some candidates are looking for other opportunities and in some cases is their key motivator. Employers should be upfront about their COVID-19 requirements and protocols to save time in the recruiting process.

Flexibility

New entrants to the physician recruiting market such as urgent care centers and retail clinics are offering candidates increased flexibility with work hours, work from home options, and telemedicine which all appeal to candidates especially post-COVID. Traditional employers such as hospitals should be aware of this trend and try to provide as much practice flexibility in terms of schedules, subspeciality work, and duties in response.

Focus on Physician Well-being/Retention

Another effect of COVID is accentuated physician well-being in the workplace. This includes offering a safe environment and providing tangible support such as enhanced compensation, additional staffing through locum tenens (substitute physicians), use of NPs and PAs, telemedicine, artificial intelligence, and flexible schedules. Employers should be able to demonstrate concrete ways to improve the medical environment in response to the pandemic. In addition, in cases where a particular specialty has not previously been present in the community, adding just one or two physicians of that specialty could lead to challenges with always needing to be on call, which could create significant stress and an unpleasant working environment. Solutions to this problem could include a combination of mid-level practitioners, telemedicine, and contracted traveling physicians.

Basic Tenets

Efficiency in the recruiting process and accommodating candidate needs leads to the best chance of success for recruiters. It is important to expedite the search process, extending the offer/employment contract promptly. Consider creative incentives such as resident stipends, typically offered to physicians in their last year of training, and housing stipends.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Local Promotion of Medical Education

With local students having to go outside of Laredo for medical school, the city or county could offer scholarships to local students who pursue medical school and agree to return to Laredo upon completion of their training.

Sponsorship of International Medical Graduates

Medical graduates in other countries are often interested in working in the United States. Particularly international medical graduates from Latin America may be well suited to the realities of the culture and predominant language in Laredo. Sponsorship of appropriate visas for international medical graduates could be a component of a broader physician recruitment strategy.

Addressing Gaps in Nurse Staffing

Stakeholder interviews identified retention of nursing personnel as a major issue in Laredo. Many staff nurses left their positions during the pandemic, seeking higher pay and more flexible schedules through travel or contract nursing. A report by Kaufmann Hall identifies that total hospital labor expenses increased by 37% from 2020 to 2022. The financial incentives and non-financial tactics described in the section above for physicians can be applied to nurse recruitment as well and, as with physician recruitment, the scope of nurse recruiting should be international.

Select Strategies for Addressing Nurse Staffing Shortfalls
- Financial incentives as above for physicians
- Increasing local pipeline

FINANCIAL INCENTIVES FOR RECRUITMENT

Average starting salaries for nurse practitioners (NPs) and certified registered nurse anesthetists (CRNAs) have decreased from 2020/2021 to 2021/2022. NP salary for all positions decreased from $140,000 to $138,000 and CRNA salary for all positions decreased from $222,000 to $211,000, a decline of 5%. However, starting salaries for academic positions are lower than non-Academic salaries for both NP and CRNA positions. Average salary for Academic NP positions was $128,000 versus $153,000 for non-Academic positions. The gap is wider for CRNAs with average starting salary for academic CRNA positions at $170,000 versus $245,000 for non-academic CRNA positions. When only comparing non-academic NP positions to all 2021 NP positions, NP salaries increased 5% year-to-year and CRNA salaries increased by 10% year-to-year. Many Academic Medical Centers have increased their salary offers to get closer to non-Academic averages, but significant gaps persist. The decrease in starting salary for academic positions may make academic nursing positions less appealing to recruits.

- NP and PA bonuses averaged $9,000 in 2022 up from $7,233 in 2021, a $1,767 increase.
- The average relocation allowance for NPs and PA was $8,842 in 2022.
- The average CME allowance for NPs and PAs was $2,537 in 2022, a slight decrease from the previous year ($2,956).
- Average amount of loan forgiveness for NPs and PAs dramatically decreased from $80,000 the previous year to $55,950 in 2022. This steep decrease may be an abnormality as loan repayments for NPs and PA have increased over the last 5 years and demand for NPs continues to increase.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

INCREASING LOCAL PIPELINE

Laredo is home to two schools of nursing. These offer the opportunity to increase the number of available nurses in the community by identifying and attracting residents to train in Laredo and retain them once they have graduated. Expanding the pipeline for new nurses must begin with students as young as grade school. They must be exposed to STEM (science, technology, engineering , and math) professions early in their educational career. This can begin with participation by local health care professionals in career days or developing programs that invite young children into the health care setting for appropriate activities. These efforts must continue through junior high and high school to maintain students' interest. Ongoing engagement will increase the ability to recruit local talent.

The rate-limiting factor for most nursing programs is the lack of qualified faculty to teach nursing students. As cited above, the salaries for academic versus non-academic positions are low. This dissuades nurses from pursuing academic careers. In addition, training nurses and other healthcare professionals requires clinical space to achieve hands-on experience. Hospitals and other healthcare settings must be willing to open their doors to students.

Lack of Inpatient Psychiatric Capacity

Based on Laredo's need assessment, HMA drafted a financial projection of the viability of establishing an inpatient psychiatric unit for a hospital. The projection indicates that expanding inpatient psychiatric services would require significant financial investment, and additional sources of revenue should be explored to address patient needs.

FINANCIAL SUMMARY

The pro forma model in Table 18 was developed by HMA and assumes approximately 3.5 years of operating activity to accommodate the 17 months required for construction.

Table 19: Pro Forma Financial Results

Category	Value	Note
Bed Count	14
ADC	12	86% Utilization
Square Ft. Required	7,700	550 Sq Ft per Bed
Estimated Capital	$2.9M	$206K per Bed
Construction Timeline	17	Months
FTEs Required	73.4	All Shifts + Weekends
Average Cost per FTE	90,500	Salary + Fringe (All Employee Types)
5 Year Operating Revenue	$11.7M
5 Year Operating Expenses	($28.2M)
5 Year Net Income (Loss)	($16.5M)
5 Year Net Present Value	(17.2M)	Assumes 5.5% Cost of Capital

METHODOLOGY

HMA developed a framework for its strategic financial analysis to prioritize specialty service expansion that considers the following questions:

1. Patient Need – Will the new service address patient's need?
2. Strategic Viability – Can Laredo obtain the resources required to start the service?
3. Financial Viability – Will the service be financially viable for Laredo?

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

HMA utilized several data sources to perform the analysis, including Medicare and Medicaid cost reports, Medicare and Medicaid agency data, publicly available data, and regulatory data. Further, HMA used its knowledge of hospital operations, clinical services, and Texas market expertise to understand the imperatives that strategic expansion planning should consider.

HMA modeled a projection based on an IP Psych unit with 14 beds. This estimate is a feasible starting point, as it would allow the hospital to create a staffing model consistent with industry standards, and potentially generate sufficient patient volume to support the additional fixed cost of the unit's operation. HMA also assumed that enough real estate is available at the existing location to accommodate the estimated 7,700 sf required for the unit. The staffing and capital requirements are based on comparable operating models from Texas and the Midwest hospitals.

The operating model projects the need for about 73.0 FTEs. With Laredo's high population of uninsured and government-sponsored insurance patients, the operation supports a $16.5M operating loss over five years. Accordingly, HMA believes that expanding Inpatient Psych services requires a significant financial and strategic investment, and recommends exploring alternative service offerings to adequately address patient and community needs.

Environmental Considerations

ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT

Some of the barriers to the recruitment of healthcare professionals may be the perceived lack of amenities in the community compared to other cities and the perception that the city is not safe due to drug-related gang violence. Ultimately, both perceptions can potentially be addressed by efforts outside of the healthcare space, primarily economic development. While outside the scope of our analysis, recruitment of healthcare professionals, particularly physician specialists, should be coordinated with economic development activities in the city, and any in-person visits to the city should include significant communication regarding the safety of the city and its amenities.

PENDING LITIGATION REGARDING PHYSICIAN RECRUITMENT

This report was researched and drafted during the pendency of a lawsuit involving no fewer than five healthcare organizations in the city. The allegations, if true, may mean that certain professional shortages are not solely due to market-based circumstances. The lawsuit may also have effects on the professional environment into which the City of Laredo seeks to recruit.

The lawsuit pertains to alleged anticompetitive behavior by several healthcare organizations in Laredo.[405] The respondents are alleged to have engaged in anticompetitive and tortious behavior that (1) rendered ineffective plaintiff's recruitment of certain specialists; (2) denied patient access to care by certain physician specialties when the plaintiff was the referring provider; and (3) induced local practitioners within certain specialties to cease practicing at the plaintiff's facility in favor of practice with the respondents.[406]

Without speaking to the ultimate merits of the claims by either side, the lawsuit may impact current clinician insufficiency and patient access to care. The mere fact of a lawsuit is a stressor for the parties and their professional relationships. In addition, news of the lawsuit may shape the perception of Laredo's professional environment by potential recruits.

Public Financing Options

The City of Laredo may indirectly operate a hospital through the formation of one of two entities—a municipal hospital authority (MHA) under Texas Health and Safety Code Chapter 262 or a hospital district (HD or district) under Chapters 281 or 286. The entity then acquires and operates a hospital directly or through contract. MHAs and HDs have their legal status and distinct rules for formation, operation, and dissolution, but their hospitals are generally subject to the same regulations and standards as any other hospital. However, hospital districts are subject to the kind of legislative oversight that differentiates one county from another based on size, geography, or other characteristics, which can create unique statutory requirements.

Healthcare Services

MHAs and HDs have different statutory requirements for services. Still, they must provide primary outpatient and inpatient care to citizens within their boundaries, regardless of patient ability to pay.

MHA SERVICES

Express permissible uses for an MHA's hospital project broadly include anything related or essential to the operation of a health facility or system, such as a

- Hospital
- Clinic
- Health facility
- Extended care facility
- Outpatient facility
- Rehabilitation or recreation facility
- Pharmacy
- Medical laboratory
- Dental laboratory
- Physicians' office building
- Laundry or administrative facility

If an MHA sells or closes its hospitals, it may use its available assets to promote public health and general welfare initiatives if it no longer owns or operates a hospital. Eligible activities include owning, operating, or funding an indigent health care clinic, medical research facility, medical training facility, or other health care facility. The MHA may also provide direct or indirect financial assistance to a nonprofit organization that owns or operates one of these facilities or a hospital. Nonprofits that support initiatives promoting health education, wellness, or disease prevention are also eligible for direct or indirect financial assistance.

HD SERVICES

An HD must provide the following basic healthcare services:

- Primary and preventative services to meet the community needs, including immunizations, medical screening services, and annual physical examinations
- Inpatient and outpatient hospital services
- Rural health clinics
- Laboratory and x-ray services

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Family planning services
- Physician services
- Payment for not more than three prescription drugs a month
- Skilled nursing facility services, regardless of the patient's age

An HD may, but does not have to, operate or provide mobile emergency medical services.

Revenue

MHAs and HDs are also distinct in the statutory approach to financing.

MHA BONDS

An MHA does not have taxing power and does not pay property taxes on property held for the public benefit. Without tax income, proper rate-setting is key for an MHA to ensure a hospital operates profitably. Thus, rates must be set and charged sufficiently to pay operational expenses, due interest on bonds, create a sinking fund to timely pay bonds in, and maintain a bond reserve fund.

An MHA may issue revenue bonds to provide funds for its purposes, though voters may defeat the issuance through a referendum. The bonds must be payable from and secured by a pledge of revenues from the operation of one or more hospitals and any other revenues from owning hospital property. Additionally, revenue bonds may be secured by a mortgage or deed of trust on the MHA's real or personal property, though they need not be senior. Revenue bonds must mature serially or otherwise not more than forty (40) years after they are issued. Bonds are negotiable but must be approved by the state attorney general.

An MHA may invest its funds following applicable municipal law. Only MHAs in municipalities of less than 25,000 persons may borrow money from a lending institution. Still, all MHAs may accept gifts and endowments to hold and administer as the respective donors require.

HD BONDS AND TAXATION

Like MHAs, HDs may issue revenue bonds, but they have the additional options of levying a tax and requesting a nominal fee from all patients.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

HOSPITAL DISTRICT TAXATION SCENARIOS

The most populous hospital districts in the state have property tax rates that range from about $0.05 to about $0.40 per $100 valuation with an average of $0.175 (all rates per $100 valuation). [407]

Table 20: Tax Rates for Largest Hospital Districts

Entity	Rate	County	Population
Harris County Hospital District	0.157	Harris	4,697,957
Dallas County Hospital District	0.285	Dallas	2,604,722
Tarrant County Hospital District	0.225	Tarrant	2,091,953
Bexar County Hospital District	0.257	Bexar	1,990,522
Travis County Healthcare District	0.103	Travis	1,267,795
University Medical Center of El Paso	0.210	El Paso	860,485

Ector County Hospital District	0.131	Ector	161,258
Electra Hospital District	0.407	Wichita	129,419

A hospital district in Webb County could raise between $15 and $60 million annually at tax rates between $0.05 and $0.20 based on approximately $30 billion in taxable property.

Table 21: Projected Tax Revenues at Different Tax Rates

Potential tax rate	Estimated tax revenue
0.05	$14,676,874
0.10	$29,353,748
0.15	$44,030,622
0.20	$58,707,496

These potential rates would be low compared to the county's other major taxing entities. [408]

The tax revenue collected from this taxation level is like the estimated uncompensated care costs the two major hospitals bear. [409]

Table 23: Estimated hospital uncompensated care

Hospital	Estimated uncompensated care (2020)
LMC	$20,757,976
Doctors	$12,454,786

As part of a multi-party agreement, in exchange for the establishment of a hospital district and the decrease in uncompensated care that they would then enjoy, the hospitals may be willing to make larger investments in physician and nurse recruitment than they currently do and/or establish and administer an inpatient psychiatric unit, even at a loss.

Sample Roadmap for Addressing Healthcare Service Gaps

Phase	Examples
Establish a stakeholder steering committee
Develop consensus on priority gaps to address	• Nursing workforce • Physician specialties
Identify strategies for addressing priority gaps	• Financial incentives
Identify an administrative entity and financing mechanism	• Establish hospital district •
Execute strategies	• Transfer county indigent healthcare program from county to hospital district • Broaden eligibility criteria for county indigent healthcare program • Establish contracts between hospital districts, hospitals, Gateway, and specialists • Establish and market financial incentives for recruiting physicians and nurses through hospital districts or hospitals

Recommendations

Recognizing that there is potentially resistance to the establishment of a hospital district, but also that it is a local government structure designed to address local healthcare needs that has been employed by communities across the state representing around 75% of the state population, two independent tracks of recommendations are described below – one with a hospital district and one without.

Hospital District Track

- Webb County Commissioner's Court votes to hold a local election to establish a hospital district and set the ad valorem tax rate.

Hospital Uncompensated Care. https://www.hhs.texas.gov/sites/default/files/documents/laws-regulations/reports-presentations/2020/hb1-hospital-uncompensated-care-report-dec-2020.pdf

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

- Stakeholders (e.g., local hospitals) develop and execute a strategy for supporting the election.
- Eligible county residents vote to establish a hospital district and set the ad valorem tax rate.
- County commissioners name board of the hospital district.
- Board hires an executive director, who hires staff.
- County transfers indigent healthcare program to hospital district.
- Hospital district establishes steering committee of stakeholders to establish physician and nursing recruitment priorities and develop recruitment and retention program including financial incentives, family and social supports, and community integration.
- Hospital district recruits physicians and nurses and contracts with one of the hospitals to establish an inpatient psychiatric unit.

Non-Hospital District Track

- City and county establish a task force comprised of a small number of their employees and leadership to administer the physician and nursing recruitment initiatives.
- Solicit donations from local businesses and apply for grants to support the recruitment activities.
- Task force establishes steering committee of stakeholders to establish physician and nursing recruitment priorities and develop recruitment and retention program including financial incentives, family and social supports, and community integration.
- Task force recruits physicians and nurses.

ATTACHMENT 1 –SITE VISITS SUMMARY

Health Management Associates (HMA) conducted site visits at six main healthcare providers in Laredo, Texas, as part of a health needs assessment sponsored by the City of Laredo through the public health department on September 19-21, 2022. Site visits were conducted with leadership staff from the following healthcare providers: Border Region Behavioral Health Center, Doctors Hospital of Laredo, Gateway Community Health Center, Laredo Medical Center, and Laredo Specialty and Rehabilitation Hospitals. Each provider was asked the questions listed below. Each answer below is a synthesis of the responses given by the providers. The answers below are not HMA's conclusions or recommendations.

1. What are the most prevalent healthcare conditions that impact residents
   - Diabetes (*5) and diabetic wounds
   - End-stage renal disease
   - Hep C (mainly due to intravenous drug use)
   - Hypertension (*5)
   - Infusion care for antibiotics or wound care for indigent or undocumented patients
   - Mental health and psychiatric care (*6)
   - Obesity
   - Dialysis for patients on ventilators
   - Indicates the number of providers who identified healthcare condition*

2. Can residents easily access care locally, or are there barriers to care? If so, what are they?
   All providers agreed a broad range of healthcare services were difficult for Medicaid and uninsured patients to access. Laredo needs approximately 20 more primary care providers, with a two to three months wait. Assisted living support services were also difficult to access.

   Specialty care was especially limited, with many specialty care needs referred to San Antonio or Corpus Christi. Additionally, providers indicated it was challenging to close the loop with referrals to specialty care providers, further compromising quality care for Laredoans. Behavioral health services were severely lacking, including psychiatry and inpatient psychiatric capacity. Providers also noted limited resources due to patient needs from catchment areas (rural) in Webb County.

   Other barriers include stigma, especially for "Border Region" patients, undocumented individuals who are afraid to access services for themselves and family members, and people who do not have transportation from more rural areas.

3. Do you have medical and administrative employee gaps or needs?
   All providers discussed challenges recruiting doctors and licensed professionals to move to or live in Laredo. Many use providers hired through staffing agencies and state nurses (especially during COVID). Some providers adopted team nursing models to accommodate those working 3-4 jobs. Specialty care was an area with the greatest gaps in cardiology, psychiatry, general surgery, and pediatrics (nursing and physicians). Other employee gaps included ultrasound techs, mammographers, and ambulance services to facilitate transfers (2 ambulance companies closed during COVID).

4. Are there any services for which you have a hard time providing access? If so, which ones?
   Behavioral health services were overwhelmingly the most difficult to access, including step-down units, psychiatric care, detox programs, crisis stabilization, and children's mental health services. Hospital services and ambulatory transportation are generally limited, particularly for patients requiring ventilation.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Broadly, specialty care and care for specialty populations were other services providers struggled to provide. Providers also mentioned health education provided by promotores as a service they would like to offer more, especially to address the high concentration of juvenile diabetes.

5. Are there any services for which you have long wait times? If so, which ones?
   - Behavioral health
   - Mammograms 4-6 weeks out
   - Psychiatric care
   - Neurosurgeon, neuro-psych
   - Trauma
   - Heavy strokes
   - Public health services (1-2 month wait)
   - Rural services in Webb County

6. What resources are needed to address those gaps?
   - A behavioral health wing in a hospital
   - General provider and administration staffing; HR support for recruitment and retention
   - New buildings, more facilities

7. What services do you most commonly refer patients outside of Laredo for care?
   - Heart disease: cardiology
   - Kidney disease: endocrinology
   - ENT

8. What challenges did you face during the pandemic?
   Despite early protocol adoption and containment of COVID among staff among all providers, they experienced immediate staffing loss and shortages, especially in the hospitals and with tenured nurses. The national average turnover rate was approximately 30%. Through the state COVID funds, staffing companies were hiring local nurses (1/3 of nurses) and paying premium rates at $100/hour. They now struggle to recruit nurses who expect the same pay rates, especially ICU nurses covering evening shifts.

9. How do you connect patients to services that address their social needs and enroll them in public benefits (Medicaid, Medicare, SNAP, WIC, etc.)?
   - At eligibility
   - Strong case management and social work team that is tenured (all stayed through COVID)
   - Behavioral resources
   - Equipment and other things covered through insurance, like home health aids
   - Housing services have a wait list of over a year; they usually end up in resident services
   - Food deserts, transportation, and access to medications (antibiotics) are high SDOH needs

10. What type of patient data do you collect (e.g., sexual orientation, gender identity [SOGI], race/ethnicity, and language [REAL]), and would you be willing to share basic patient demographic information?
    All providers collected HHSC (All Texas Access) and CMS-required patient data, as well as REAL and SOGI data. Most providers were amendable to sharing patient quality metrics.

ATTACHMENT 3 – CONSIDERATIONS REGARDING MEDICAL RESIDENCY PROGRAMS

The City of Laredo, along with the entirety of Webb County, is designated as a Primary Care, Mental Health, and Dental Health Professional Shortage Area (HPSA). It is also designated as a Medically Underserved Area. Recognizing the need for additional providers to serve the county's health care needs, in 2017, the legislative agenda included asking for funding from the state to support developing residency programs in Laredo to help address the physician shortages. This led to the development of a Family Medicine Residency Program sponsored by the Texas Institute for Graduate Medical Education and Research (TIGMER) at Laredo Medical Center. These residents have their ambulatory clinics based at the Gateway CHC. An additional residency program, Internal Medicine, opened. Each program accepts eight residents annually for a total of 48 residents training in the city. These two programs will likely graduate 16 newly trained physicians annually. Data shows that approximately 70% of resident physicians practice within 50 miles of where they train, making it likely that the programs would add 11 new primary care physicians annually to the area.

Despite this progress, the city of Laredo will continue to be underserved for many years. The medical community is aging, and many practitioners plan to retire soon- exacerbating the shortage of practitioners for the area and limiting access to essential primary and preventive care.

While the state of Texas is supporting the current training programs, it is possible for the hospitals in Laredo to further expand their residency training with additional support from the Centers for Medicaid and Medicare Services (CMS). The Inpatient Prospective Payment System (IPPS) rule for Fiscal Year 2022 includes a policy to distribute 1,000 new residency slots, phasing in 200 new slots per year for five years. Primary care residencies in rural and underserved communities have priority over these slots. This increase represents CMS's largest new allocation of new residency slots in over 25 years.

New residency slots in hospitals in Laredo will make them eligible for two types of federal payments. CMS-approved slots receive reimbursement for direct and indirect costs of training residents. These payment calculations use the percentage of Medicare patients treated by the hospital. The direct graduate medical education (DME) payment covers the direct costs of resident salaries and benefits, including meals and supplies. The indirect graduate medical education (IME) funding uses a formula that estimates the additional cost to hospitals that support training programs. CMS anticipates increases in testing costs and length of stay, as well as the inability for faculty to have a full-time private practice while precepting medical residents in training.

In an article published on January 13, 2022, in the LMTonline, a $100,000 donation to the University of the Incarnate Word Laredo Primary Care Residency program was cited, stating additional support would enable program expansion. The state of Texas has already invested local funding into medical education. With additional funding from CMS, Laredo can further expand the 48 residents in training today.

In addition to applying for the newly allocated residency slots, any hospital that does not currently have CMS-approved resident slots is eligible to create new caps. The number of caps is established on a 3-year rolling average (the time most primary care residency programs take for completion). Therefore, if a “virgin” hospital in Laredo decides to support a new primary care residency program, the number of residents they accept over the first three years they are approved and accepting trainees becomes the number of caps approved by CMS. These caps will also be eligible for the DME and IME payments through the Medicare program.

AMERICAN OVERSIGHT

Any increase in medical residency training programs requires a strong commitment from the training site and a willingness for medical staff to serve as faculty. The opportunity for new resident slots funded by the federal government offers a unique opportunity to expand the availability of medical doctors in the Laredo area.

Laredo's Capacity for Additional Medical Residency Programs

Laredo Medical Center currently has 314 Staffed Beds and 46 FTE residents. Doctors Hospital has 183 staffed beds and the potential for 146 residents. A general rule of thumb is that a hospital can support .8 residents per occupied bed, up to 250 residents. TIGMER currently sponsors two GME programs in Laredo. One is the Family Medicine program at Gateway CHC, which trains eight residents annually with a total program of 24 residents. Laredo Medical Center also houses a Community-Based Internal Medicine Residency program accepting applications.

How this supports “best value” for Laredo

> For Dallas-bound freight, Laredo is clearly shorter from most major industrial origins (Guadalajara, Querétaro, San Luis Potosí, Saltillo, Aguascalientes, Monterrey), saving anywhere from ~65 to 187 miles per trip versus the Reynosa/Pharr route.

> For Houston-bound freight, Laredo still delivers meaningful savings from key origins like Guadalajara, Saltillo, and Aguascalientes, while being roughly comparable or slightly longer from

How this supports “best value” for Laredo

> For Dallas-bound freight, Laredo is clearly shorter from most major industrial origins (Guadalajara, Querétaro, San Luis Potosí, Saltillo, Aguascalientes, Monterrey), saving anywhere from ~65 to 187 miles per trip versus the Reynosa/Pharr route.

> For Houston-bound freight, Laredo still delivers meaningful savings from key origins like Guadalajara, Saltillo, and Aguascalientes, while being roughly comparable or slightly longer from others.

> Each mile saved translates directly into fuel, driver time, and equipment cost savings, which is why—especially for commercial trucks—Laredo can support a higher toll per axle and still remain a better overall economic choice on many core trade lanes.

How this supports “best value” for Laredo

> For Dallas-bound freight, Laredo is clearly shorter from most major industrial origins (Guadalajara, Querétaro, San Luis Potosí, Saltillo, Aguascalientes, Monterrey), saving anywhere from ~65 to 187 miles per trip versus the Reynosa/Pharr route.

> For Houston-bound freight, Laredo still delivers meaningful savings from key origins like Guadalajara, Saltillo, and Aguascalientes, while being roughly comparable or slightly longer from

101	> Each mile saved translates directly into fuel, driver time, and equipment cost savings, which is why—especially for commercial trucks—Laredo can support a higher toll per axle and still remain a
102	better overall economic choice on many core trade lanes.

How this supports “best value” for Laredo

> For Dallas-bound freight, Laredo is clearly shorter from most major industrial origins (Guadalajara, Querétaro, San Luis Potosí, Saltillo, Aguascalientes, Monterrey), saving anywhere from ~65 to 187 miles per trip versus the Reynosa/Pharr route.

> For Houston-bound freight, Laredo still delivers meaningful savings from key origins like Guadalajara, Saltillo, and Aguascalientes, while being roughly comparable or slightly longer from others.

> Each mile saved translates directly into fuel, driver time, and equipment cost savings, which is why—especially for commercial trucks—Laredo can support a higher toll per axle and still remain a better overall economic choice on many core trade lanes.
